BRYAN AND TAFT ARRIVE IN CHICAGO, OVATION FOR EACH; WATERWAY MEET ON

The Republican Nominee Boosts the Lakes-to-Ocean Plan.

Cites Soo Canal In Showing Saving That is Possible.

Both Candidates Will Speak at the Banquet Tonight.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—National attention was directed to the opening of the Lake to the Gulf deep waterways convention today when the Republican and Democratic nominees for the presidency arrived in Chicago, preparatory to doing their part in the gathering toward promoting the deep waterway project that will link the great lakes with the ocean.

W. J. Bryan was the first to arrive and at 7 a. m. was greeted at the Northwestern station by a delegation that included officials of both the waterways convention and the Democratic national committee.

Two hours later William H. Taft received a similar greeting and after a short interval was escorted to the convention hall where he delivered the first of the notable speeches that will mark the three days' sessions. Each of the political leaders talked enthusiastically upon their arrival of the project which has led to the great gathering now in session.

When the convention was called to order every delegate's seat was filled and the galleries of the Auditorium theater had long been filled with fortunate possessors of tickets. The appearance of W. H. Taft, who was introduced by Governor Charles S. Deneen was the signal for an ovation that lasted many minutes. At the conclusion of his speech the Republican candidate left for Galesburg, Ill., where he made a speech before returning to meet Mr. Bryan at the banquet of the Chicago Association of Commerce in the evening. Tomorrow Mr. Bryan, will be the principal speaker before the convention.

CHAIRMAN MACK IS FEELING FINE

Far From Collapsing, He is Hard at Work Once More.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—Chairman Norman E. Mack of the Democratic National committee, was reported to have suffered a nervous collapse last night, but he was on duty as usual today, and hard at work. He declared he never felt better in his life.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 7.—Mrs. Norman E. Mack, wife of the chairman of the Democratic national committee, left here this morning for Chicago.

VAUDEVILLE IN PULPIT.

Preacher Will Do Handcuff Act to Draw Crowds.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 7.—Rev. Charles E. Campbell, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Taylorville, has decided to add vaudeville to his Sunday evening service in the hope of drawing a large attendance. In the local newspapers yesterday he announced that on next Sunday evening before the sermon the pastor would perform the famous handcuff act. With a heavy steel chain he will allow any one in the audience to bind both wrists and fasten the chain securely with a padlock, and he promises to release himself in ten minutes. Permission is given the audience to examine the chain and to furnish the padlock if so desired.

PILLSBURY FLOUR MILLS TO CONTINUE.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 7.—The temporary affairs of the Pillsbury-Washburn Flour Mills company, limited, are settled. The company will operate its mills to their full capacity and the business will be continued the same as before the receivership. This is made possible by Judge M. D. Purdy's granting the order of the receivers in federal court to borrow money and to issue receivers certificates for the operation of the flouring mills and to pay in debentures.

The receivers stated to the court that they were at a point where it was impossible for the company to continue in operation until working capital was obtained forthwith; that there was only $26,000 on hand now and that unless the court granted the issue of receiver's certificates up to and not exceeding $750,000, that the mills would be closed and the stockholders would lose a large percentage of their possessions.

MUST ANSWER FOR LOSS OF 111 LIVES.

San Francisco, Oct. 7.—Federal investigation into the loss of the bark Star of Bengal, with 111 lives, on Coronation island, Sept. 20, has resulted in the filing of direct charges of responsibility against Capt. Patrick Hamilton and of the tug Kayak and Capt. Farrar of the Hattie Gage.

Beveridge in Far West.

Portland, Or., Oct. 7.—United States Senator Beveridge last night addressed a large audience in opening the Republican campaign in Oregon. Mr. Beveridge left later for California.

TRUST-KILL PLAN SCORED

Hughes Talks in Bryan's Town and Decries Commoner's Theories.

Says They Are Pretty But Doubts They Are Workable.

Lincoln, Neb. Oct. 7.—"Is it possible that Mr. Bryan can know anything of the principles of business?"

Under this caption, Governor Hughes of New York, in Bryan's home city, today attacked the industrial and labor policies of the Democratic candidate. Greeted at the station by a large crowd Hughes was escorted amid an enthusiastic demonstration to the opera house.

"Mr. Bryan announced himself in favor of the extermination of trusts," said Governor Hughes, "to exterminate them he offers a variety of remedies. He has a large assortment of remedies, but, analyzing all you find he makes three proposals. In the first place, he said, 'Let us prohibit the duplication of directors in competing corporations, that is, make it unlawful for a director in one concern from being a director in another.' This is a very pretty theory. But is it workable? You know quite well that if a man owned the majority of stock in a number of corporations he would have such directors as he wanted, and whether there was any duplication or not the effect would be the same. Well, if you don't like that, says Mr. Bryan, here is another proposal.

"'Let us go through the tariff schedules and put on the free list the things that are being manufactured by the trusts. That will destroy them.' True enough but would it not also destroy the weaker manufacturers in the same line who are fighting against the trusts, and who, being small, have the least power to resist.

"'Well, then,' says Mr. Bryan, 'here's another that's bound to win. Let's cut down the output of each monopoly to 50 per cent.' Another pretty but wholly fanciful theory. I say that an attempt to regulate manufacturers by percentages would entail such a complicated system of bureaus that government would be obnoxiously bureaucratic.

"All these schemes are an attempt to bring about reforms by magic. I recognize the oratorical powers and believe firmly in the sincerity of the Democratic candidate, but I believe just as firmly that an enforcement of his principles would end in disaster."

SHE STANDS IN WELL TEN HOURS

Woman Suffers Torture to Save Neighbor's Babe.

Holland, Mich., Oct. 7.—For ten hours Mrs. William Weiss of Vriestaud stood up to her neck in water, in a cistern, to save a 2-year-old boy.

Mrs. Weiss saw the baby, a child of a neighbor, fall into her cistern. She instantly plunged after him, and, finding him at the bottom, held him above the water. She called for help, but the cistern is ten feet deep and no one heard her. Finally she was missed and neighbors began a search.

It was long after dark before one of the party chanced to think of the cistern. Looking down into it, he saw the plucky woman, still holding the little boy above water. Her voice was worn to a whisper, and she was rescued in a fainting condition.

She is seriously ill from the exposure, but it is thought that she will recover.

"NOT EXCITED," CRIES OIL TRUST WITNESS.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—Evidence presented by the government touching the freight rates from Toledo, Ohio, to Bellows Falls, Vt., was contradicted by Henry F. Felton, general traffic manager of Standard Oil, in testimony before Judge Franklin Ferriess on the railroad phase of the government suit to dissolve the trust.

In one answer the witness reiterated the fact of the low rate being in force with some emphasis and was admonished by Attorney Kellogg for the government not to get excited.

"I am not excited," replied Felton, "but I want to show that the government witnesses apparently deliberately overlooked this low rate when they testified that the rate from Toledo to Bellows Falls was 44 cents and that that was the lowest rate he could find."

VERMONT TO ELECT A PAIR OF SENATORS.

Montpelier, Vt., Oct. 7.—The general assembly of Vermont, which will elect two United States senators, convened here today.

Indications point to the senatorial election being settled without contest, United States Senator W. R. Dillingham being slated to succeed himself, and ex-Governor Carrol S. Page of Hyde Park being generally favored to fill the place made vacant by the death of Senator Redfield Proctor, and temporarily filled by ex-Governor John W. Stewart of Middlebury. The election will be reached Oct. 20. Governor-elect George H. Prouty will be inaugurated tomorrow.

Sign Coal Agreement.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 7.—Officers of the coal miners of this state and the coal operators yesterday signed an agreement for the present wage scale to be in force for the next two years.

TURKEY PROTESTS OVER ANNEXATION BY AUSTRIA OF OCCUPIED PROVINCES

Emperor Francis Joseph Seizes Bosnia and Herzegovina.

Island of Crete Decides to Unite With Greece.

The Situation.

Turkey calls upon the powers to preserve to her what they guaranteed by that treaty.

Austria and Bulgaria strongly declare their determination to keep what they have taken.

Servia is protesting belligerently against being hemmed in more strongly between the unpopular neighbors, and against having the Servians in Bosnia absorbed into the Austro-Hungarian nationality.

Constantinople, Oct. 7.—The council of ministers today decided to protest against the annexation of the provinces of Bosnia and Herzegovina by Austria-Hungary. Protest will be made through the Austrian embassy here.

Austria Annexes.

Sarayevo, Bosnia, Oct. 7.—The imperial proclamation of Emperor Francis Joseph setting forth the annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina to Austria-Hungary was posted this morning throughout the occupied provinces. The announcement is given a mixed reception, but up to the present time the Servian malcontents are quiet.

Cretans Join Greece.

Athens, Oct. 7.—Dispatches received here from Canea announce that the people of Crete have proclaimed the union of that island with Greece.

War Clamor Continues.

Belgrade, Servia, Oct. 7.—The government has addressed an energetic protest to the signatories of the Berlin treaty against Austria-Hungary's breach of the provisions of the treaty in seizing the occupied provinces of Bosnia and Herzegovina. This step, it is contended here, will prove fatal to the future of Servia. The Servian parliament has been summoned in extra session for Oct. 10. The popular clamor for a war with Austria-Hungary continues unabated.

May Fight Austria.

Paris, Oct. 7.—Official advices received in Paris indicate a very great degree of popular excitement in Servia. Further mobilization orders have been issued and the reserves called to the colors are said to be 75,000. It is feared that the Belgrade government, in order to save itself, will be driven to embark on a desperate adventure against Austria-Hungary.

It has not yet been decided which power will take the formal initiative in inviting the powers to a conference to consider revision of the Berlin peace treaty, or whether the invitation will be sent out jointly by France, Great Britain and Russia. M. Iswolsky, the Russian minister of foreign affairs, will leave here Friday for London to take up this matter.

SAVES, BUT DIES IN FIRE

Policeman Saves Aged Woman; Returns to Burning Building.

Not Missed Until His Body is Found in Ruins.

New York, Oct. 7.—After rescuing an aged woman from a burning house this morning, Policeman Nicholas Uestor of Jersey City plunged again into the blazing building and met death by suffocation.

After turning in the alarm for the fire, which he had discovered in the cellar of a house on Ocean avenue, Nestor rushed upstairs, aroused sleeping inmates and ran again to the street to turn in a second alarm. Meanwhile all had escaped except Mrs. Witt Nebert, old and feeble.

Nestor fought his way to her room, and carried her through the flames and smoke to the sidewalk. He then returned to the building and was not missed by his companions. It was only after the building had cooled sufficiently for examination that his body was found.

CHICAGO PACKERS ENTER TORONTO

Armour or Swift to Get Control of the Union Stockyards.

Toronto, Ont., Oct. 7.—The union stock yards at West Toronto will in a few days be acquired by one of the large packing firms of Chicago, whether Armour or Swift has not yet been announced. At a meeting of the shareholders yesterday an offer of $350,000 cash, sufficient to control a majority of the stock, was submitted and accepted, and the deal will be closed at once.

HETTY GREEN FLAT-HUNTING

New York, Oct. 7.—Mrs. Hetty Green, America's richest woman, has returned to New York from New Hampshire to spend the winter, and went to Hoboken to seek a flat. The $19 apartment she formerly had was occupied, and she applied at a neighboring building. She offered several families $100 to yield their flats to her, but without success.

MINISTER GIVEN BULLET IN REPLY

Olivia, Minn., Oct. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rev. Mr. Reed, while passing along the streets of Danube, a small Renville county town early yesterday morning, returning from the depot, where he had met the early passenger train, saw a light in the State Bank of Danube and presuming acquaintances were the forms he saw moving about whistled. A pistol shot that awoke the town was the answer as a bullet passed close to the head of the man of cloth. The town was aroused in a twinkling but before anything could be done the men in the bank, who were robbers had completed their job of safecracking and escaped in the darkness. They secured about $2,300 in cash. The force of the explosion of the safe blew the safe door through the plate glass window of the bank into the street.

GEORGIA ELECTING A NEW GOVERNOR.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 7.—An election for state and county officers is being held in Georgia today. In addition judges of the supreme, appellate and superior courts will be elected and two constitutional amendments voted upon.

For governor Joseph M. Brown, the Democratic candidate, is opposed by Yancey Cartner, nominated by the Independence party. For commissioner of pensions there are eight candidates. Otherwise there is no opposition to the Democratic ticket.

The constitutional amendment providing qualifications for voters has been warmly advocated by Governor Smith and has been thoroughly discussed throughout the campaign.

ALTON ROAD ORDERS THOUSAND MORE CARS

Pittsburg, Oct. 7.—Another 1,000 car order has been placed with the Standard Steel Car company of Pittsburg by the Chicago & Alton. It is a duplicate of an order placed a few weeks ago by the same road. The cars will be made in the Hammond, Ind., shops.

GIVES LIFE FOR CAUSE

Appleton, Wis., Oct. 7.—As a result of exposure while introducing Eugene W. Chafin, Prohibition nominee for president, who made a speech in Appleton last Monday, Dr. Elijah D. Kanouse, one of the oldest practioners in Wisconsin, contracted a cold which developed into pneumonia from which he died today.

Dr. Kanouse was one of the best known Prohibitin workers in Wisconsin. He was 83.

OUTLAWS FEARED; CALL FOR TROOPS

Richmond, Va., Oct. 7.—Reports from Arvonia indicate that the situation in Buckingham county, the scene of recent outlaw depredations, is again grave. Late last night Edmund Hubbard, commonwealth attorney for Buckingham county, telegraphed Governor Swanson for assistance, requesting that troops be hurried to the scene.

BRYAN GLOWS OVER PROSPECT

Chicago, Oct. 7.—Plans for the final weeks of the Democratic campaign were outlined and discussed at a conference of William J. Bryan, National Chairman Norman E. Mack and heads of the various bureaus of the national committee, today. The conference was held in Mr. Bryan's room where he rested for two hours on his arrival here from Iowa this morning. Mr. Bryan told the national committeemen that he felt convinced the tide is still running strong for the Democratic ticket. In a statement regarding conditions in the West where he had been speaking for the last two weeks Mr. Bryan said:

"There is no state in the West where the chances are not in favor of our party and the reports that we get are not only encouraging, but they are increasingly encouraging. That is the reports are more favorable now than they were one month ago and one month ago they were more favorable than they were two months ago. Everything we heard from the East increases the confidence that the Democrats feel in the success of the ticket."

New York, Oct. 7.—The New York-Boston National league baseball game, with its possible effect upon the championship contest, was begun at 2 o'clock today, instead of 3. In spite of the change in time the grand stands and bleachers were filled with an enthusiastic crowd. The grounds were in perfect condition, but the sky was overcast when play began. Shortly before 2 o'clock the teams appeared on the field for practice. Around the club benches were many baseball players from other cities.

All doubt as to the intentions of the New York club's playing tomorrow was dispelled today. President Brush, when he reached the Polo grounds, had a conference with Manager McGraw, after which it was announced that the New Yorks would play off the tie with Chicago here tomorrow.

The batteries for today's game were: For New York, Ames and Bresnahan; for Boston, Flaherty and Bowerman. Umpires, Klem and Johnstone.

First Inning.

Boston—Becker hunted safely. Bates singled to the left. Browne fanned. Becker and Bates made a double steal. McGann tripled to center, scoring Becker and Bates. Sweeney fouled to Tenney. Dahlen bunted and McGann was out at third, Bresnahan to Devlin. Two runs.

New York—Tenney flied to Browne. Herzog bunted safely. Bresnahan was called out on strikes and Herzog was doubled at second, Bowerman to Hannifan. No runs.

Second Inning.

Boston—Hannifan flied to Seymour. Bowerman went out, Ames to Tenney. Flaherty fanned. No runs.

New York—Donlin was safe on Hannifan's fumble. Seymour grounded to McGann; Donlin going to second. Devlin fouled out to Bowerman, McCormick singled to right, scoring Donlin, and Bridwell fouled to McGann. One run.

Third Inning.

Boston—Becker went out, Bridwell to Tenney. Bates' line flied to Tenney. Browne out easily, Ames to Tenney. No runs.

New York—Ames singled to right. Tenney singled to center, sending Ames to third and reaching second on the throw-in. Herzog went out, Hannifan to McGann, Ames scoring. Bresnahan hit to Dahlen, who threw to the plate, but Tenney beat the throw, scoring, with Bresnahan safe on first. Donlin hit into a double play, Hannifan to Dahlen to McGann. Two runs.

Fourth Inning.

Boston—McGann out, Devlin to Tenney. Sweeney out, Bridwell to Tenney. Dahlen out, Herzog to Tenney. No runs.

New York—Mattern relieved Flaherty as pitcher in New York's half of the fourth. Seymour singled to center. Devlin did the same, McCormick sacrificed, Sweeney to McGann. Bridwell singled to right, scoring Seymour. Ames made his second hit of the game, scoring Devlin. Tenney bunted safely, filling the bases. Herzog singled to center, scoring Bridwell and Ames. Bresnahan hit to Sweeney, who touched third, forcing Tenney, and his throw to McGann doubled Bresnahan at first. Four runs.

Fifth Inning.

Boston—Hannifan singled, Bowerman singled to right, but Donlin's throw to Devlin dismissed Hannifan at third. Stem batted for Mattern. Bowerman went to second on a wild pitch. Stem fanned and Becker struck out. No runs. Chappelle pitched for Boston in New York's half of the fifth, and Graham began catching.

New York—Donlin smashed the first ball pitched for a single, but Seymour forced him out, Hannifan to Dahlen. Devlin went out, Sweeney to McGann and McCormick flied to Bates. No runs.

Sixth Inning.

Boston—Bates went out, Ames to Herzog to Tenney. Browne went out, Bridwell to Tenney. McGann singled to left and Devlin and Tenney took care of Sweeney. No runs.

New York—Bridwell flied to Browne. Ames went out, Chappelle to McGann, and Tenney flied to Becker. No runs.

Seventh Inning.

Boston—Dahlen went out, Herzog to Tenney. Hannifan singled to center. Graham hit to the infield, both being safe on a fielder's choice. Chappelle went out, Ames to Tenney, and Becker was out, Herzog to Tenney. No runs.

New York—Herzog walked and stole second. Bresnahan fouled to Graham. Donlin was safe on McGann's slow fielding, Herzog reaching third. Herzog and Donlin attempted to double steal, but Herzog was out at the plate, Seymour out, Dahlen to McGann. No runs.

Eighth Inning.

Boston—McCormick made a sensational running one-handed catch of Bates' fly to left field. Browne bunted safely. McGann died to Seymour. Sweeney went out, Bridwell to Tenney. No runs.

New York—Devlin flied to Browne, McCormick singled. Bridwell forced him at second, Hannifan to Ames. Ames fanned. No runs.

Ninth Inning.

Boston did not score and it was not necessary for the Giants to bat.

CUBS LEAVE FOR THE GAME

Sixteen Chicago Nationals Go East to Try for Pennant.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—Sixteen members of the Chicago National league baseball team, accompanied by President Charles W. Murphy, left on the Twentieth Century limited this afternoon for New York where they will play off tomorrow the Sept. 23 tie game for the league championship.

All of the players are in excellent spirits and good physical condition.

TIGERS TRAIN FOR SERIES

Detroit Pennant Winners Already Practicing for World-Championship.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 7.—The victorious American league base ball team, on its arrival home today, from Chicago, was greeted at the Michigan Central station by a crowd of several thousand baseball enthusiasts, headed by Mayor William B. Thompson. A brass band accompanied the crowd and outside the station were automobiles, waiting to convey the players to their homes. Mayor Thompson welcomed Manager Jennings and his men back to the city. The crowd almost overwhelmed the players, in its desire to grasp their hands. When the men had finally made their way to the waiting automobiles, Pitcher Donovan being carried on the shoulders of excited fans, the crowd fell in behind the machines and, with the band playing, marched up to the Hotel Pontchartrain, where a jubilee was held in the lobby. Scores of prominent business men were in the crowd which marched behind the baseball players to the hotel. After the first excess of jubilation had passed over, the team disbanded and reported later at Bennett park, for practice for the post-season championship series.

TOO MUCH OF A FAMILY.

Refuses to Support Wife's "Child" When He Found "It" Married.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 7.—An unusual story was told by Richard St. Clair in Judge Donovan's court yesterday. He said that when he married his wife Ruth in 1904 he knew that she was a widow with one child, but he did not suspect her age. He was astonished when, a short time after, a full-grown man came to the house and announced himself as her son. The son had his wife and a child with him, and the three took up their residence with St. Clair. The son then refused to do any work, and when St. Clair remonstrated, he declares, the son beat him. St. Clair says that his wife developed a fondness for tough dances and drink. They split up in 1907 and St. Clair will get a decree.

TWO MORE HOLDUPS IN BAD MINNEAPOLIS.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two holdups took place in Minneapolis last night and in one case the artist got clear with $16 in cash taken from 14-year-old Lester Lindberg, a newspaper carrier. In the other affair a negro named William Lindberg robbed the grocery store of C. Freedman, but was captured by detectives while endeavoring to escape.

TWO FARMERS KILLED.

Reedsburg, Wis., Oct. 7.—While crossing the railroad tracks here yesterday, Robert Gregory, aged 45, and Thomas Babb, aged 42, prosperous and well known farmers in this vicinity, were struck by the Northwestern limited and instantly killed. Babb is survived by a wife and a son. Gregory was unmarried.

Appointed Ore Agent.

Escanaba, Mich., Oct. 7.—Announcement is made by Northwestern road officials of the appointment of H. J. Robertson as ore agent at Port Escanaba, to succeed W. F. Look, who held the position several years and retired to devote his time to private business. Mr. Robertson was head dock foreman for several years.

Aged Woman Called.

Fergus Falls, Minn., Oct. 7.—Oliva Benson, mother of M. Benson, a merchant here, died yesterday at the advanced age of 80 years. Her husband died forty-two years ago; two children survive her.

Faces Charge of Murder.

Portland, Or., Oct. 7.—Edward Hugh Martin, ex-lieutenant in the United States artillery corps and son of a wealthy New York real estate broker, will be placed on trial today, charged with the murder of Nathan Wolff, a pawnbroker on the night of May 1.

TAKEN DOWN.

Gustave Eberlein, the famous German sculptor, said the other day in New York that in beauty of face and figure the American woman excelled all others—that the American type of beauty approached almost absolute perfection.

"In intelligence as well," the sculptor resumed, "the American woman excels. But now and then she has the defect of the intelligent; she is overpositive, she is over confident. In that case I like to see her taken down.

"I once met a beautiful and brilliant American woman on shipboard. She talked splendidly, but she was very positive—positive indeed.

"'I am a good reader of faces,' she said one day at luncheon. 'On first sight of a person I form my opinion of that person's character. And I am never wrong. I am positively never wrong.'

"'Mother,' her little boy called shrilly from the other end of the long table where he sat with his nurse.

"'Well, what is it, my son?' said the mother indulgently.

"'And we all turned to hear what the little fellow had to say.

"'Mother,' he piped, 'I want to know what was your opinion, mother, when you first saw me!'"

WEATHER—Fair tonight and Thursday; freezing temperature tonight.

WHIRLWIND CAMPAIGN IN NORTHERN MINNESOTA

Governor Johnson Will Spend Two Strenuous Days on Ranges.

He Will Address Three Big Gatherings in Duluth.

In a whirlwind tour, Governor John A Johnson will speak at Duluth and several of the range towns in his Northern Minnesota campaign, which will begin the first part of next week.

Arrangements with the state central committee were completed this morning by local members of the county Democratic committee. The securing of the armory by the Republican committee, which had made arrangements for the appearance here of Governor Cummins of Iowa, necessitated a change in the plans of the committee. However, the arrangements for the appearance of Governor Johnson have now been completed and he will speak in this city Monday and Wednesday evenings.

Governor Johnson will open his Northern Minnesota campaign at West Duluth, Monday evening, arriving here at 7 p. m. The West Duluth speech will be given in Wade's hall. From West Duluth the governor will go to the West end, speaking at the Lincoln park skating rink.

Tuesday will be spent upon the ranges. Governor Johnson will speak at Virginia and Eveleth during the day and Tuesday evening will speak at Hibbing. Tower will be visited Wednesday morning and at noon he will speak at Ely. Returning a meeting will be held at Two Harbors at 5 p. m., and Wednesday evening the governor will address a monster mass meeting at the armory in this city.

The governor will spend the night in Duluth and Thursday morning will again leave for Cass Lake, Bemidji and intermediate points. Friday night the governor will speak at Brainerd. This will complete his tour of the ranges and Northern Minnesota.

The appearance here of the governor will be the signal of the largest political gathering ever held in this city. Preparations are under way to make the governor's speech a political event long to be remembered. A torch light procession will be held and bands will aid in making the rally one of large proportions.

GOVERNOR JOHNSON,
Who Will Begin His Campaign in Northern Minnesota Monday.

The members of the county Democratic committee are working to have everything in readiness and it is certain that the governor will be greeted by the largest audience that ever packed the armory, when he speaks here Wednesday evening.

REPUBLICANS STILL AT SEA

Headliner for the Armory Meeting is Not Yet Secured.

Up to a late hour this afternoon the members of the Republican county committee were in the dark as to the identity of the speaker who will appear at the Armory Monday evening. A wire is expected from the state central committee at St. Paul informing the members of the local committee of the securing of some speaker of national prominence for the Duluth date.

The Armory has been hired by the members of the committee and some program will be carried out. The cancellation of the Cummins speech gave the local committee but a short time to secure another speaker. The wires have been kept hot between here and St. Paul, but as yet the men in charge of the meeting are in complete ignorance as to who will be the political headliner of the Monday evening political gathering.

The members of the committee state that some program will be carried out. As yet they are not certain as to what kind of a program will be finally staged.

PREDICTS DIRE THINGS IF TARIFF IS REMOVED

T. B. Walker Says He Will Prepare for Another Panic.

Magnate Says It Would be Vital Blow at Prosperity.

T. B. WALKER.

"If the tariff of this country is removed from our manufactured articles, or if the tariff is lowered, you will see the business of this country vitally affected. You will see our markets falling off; you will witness foreign goods coming to the United States and we will not have the money to pay for them. You will see the cost of manufactured articles reduced, but you will also see the price of wheat decrease and the business of the country curtailed to an extent that will mean a financial and business panic."

This was the statement made by T. B. Walker of Minneapolis today at the Spalding hotel. Mr. Walker is the holder of vast lumber tracts in Washington, Oregon and in the yellow pine regions of the southwestern part of the United States. He is also owner of timber holdings in the pine district of Leach Lake. He is one of the biggest timber owners of this country, being one of the pioneer lumbermen of the Northwest.

Mr. Walker declined to discuss the lumber situation, referring the questioner to his son, Willis Walker, who is at the head of the business, but had very emphatic opinions upon the business situation of the country.

"The business situation is improving and will continue to improve," said Mr. Walker. "If Republicanism continues, the business of the country will gradually come back to a sound basis, but if Democracy, Socialism and Anarchy, which certain people are making desperate effort to have rule this country, creep in, the business of the United States will undergo a steady decline.

Blow at Prosperity.

"If you remove the tariff you are striking a vital blow at the industrial prosperity of this country. You might as well try to keep the water in a dam that has a hole in the structure as to continue prosperity in this country without the protective tariff.

"Even the Republicans will probably lower the tariff too much. The Democrats are in favor of removing it. If the tariff is removed, I shall get ready to meet a business reverse, as I have in the past when businesss depressions overtook the country.

"The removal of the tariff will result in the closing of factories, the shutting off of our markets, and the selling in this country of goods that are manufactured abroad. Then we will find that we have not capital to purchase these goods. Wages will be lowered and men will be thrown out of employent. The farmer may find that he can purchase manufactured articles cheaper, but he will also find that the price of wheat has dropped to a figure that will leave him without money to purchase those cheapened manufactured products.

"Voters change about every nineteen years. The voters of the present day, who went through the panic of '93, are in the minority. There is a new class of voters, the young voters of the county, who have forgotten all about the panic of 1893. They are of the opinion that the prosperity of this country cannot be assailed. If the tariff is removed they will speedily discover their mistake. The removal of the tariff means a business and financial prostration. It will mean a general decline in business, and it will mean that the big business interests of this country will suffer such a panic and that thousands of wage earners will be thrown out of employment. The prosperity of this country depends upon the tariff; its removal will mean business ruin."

The Lumber Business.

Willis Walker, son of T. B. Walker, who at the present time is at the head of the Walker interests, believes that the lumber situation is gradually improving. Mr. Walker says hat at the present time the retail dealers are buying upon a declining market, which means that they are buying for immediate orders and rushing these orders through before the market has a chance to decline further.

In other words, Mr. Walker says that there is no speculative market at the present time and that the buying of lumber is being done on a hand to mouth basis.

"The dealers have been buying on a declining market since last July," said Mr. Walker. "At that time the falling off in the price of lumber began to be felt. The market has been a declining one for about a year, but at the present time there is some improvement in both the sale and the price of lumber.

"The decline in the price of lumber has hit the Pacific interests hard. They have been unable to sell their lumber on the short order method of buying and they have been unable to compete with the low prices of lumber here. Southern lumber dealers have sold much lumber at a dead sacrifice. I know of one car of Southern lumber that was sold in Chicago at a profit of just three dollars on the entire car. The Southern dealers had to realize cash and they let their lumber go at a very low price. This had its influence in lowering the price.

"We are seeing a gradual improvement in the business. After election I believe that the business will show further improvement. The dealers are awaiting the outcome of the election and are not buying ahead. They are simply filling what orders they receive. I don't believe that the lumber yards throughout the country are overstocked. I am inclined to believe that the lumber supply in the yards is very low. The dealers have not bought ahead; they have simply kept a low stock and filled immediate orders. I look for an improvement. In fact, some indications of an optimistic nature have already begun to manifest themselves."

SUIT AGAINST COAL TRUST ON

Hearing Resumed in Case the Government is Prosecuting.

New York, Oct. 7.—Charging that a monopoly exists among certain coal carrying railroads and coal companies in violation of the Sherman anti-trust act, the suit of the United States for the dissolution of the coal trust, was resumed here today before Special Examiner Charles H. Guilbert.

ROOSEVELT SAYS HE'LL NOT STUMP

Tells Hemenway That Requests for Political Speeches Are Futile.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 7.—President Roosevelt told Senator Hemenway today that he did not consider it necessary for him to make speeches in support of Mr. Taft. The president said he had received numerous requests to go on the stump, but he had decided not to accede to them.

THE SKEPTIC.

Alderman Frank L. Dowling of New York was talking about his widely-praised ordinance to make it a crime for chauffeurs to take out their masters' motor cars without leave.

"So many accidents have accompanied these stolen rides," said Alderman Dowling, "that the chauffeur has come to be regarded very skeptically. Of course the great majority of chauffeurs are all right, but there is among them a small minority, a small working minority which we must treat as a Hoboken grocer treats his trade.

"This grocer is a cash grocer only. If you ask him for credit he says: 'No, sir; no, sirge. I wouldn't even trust my own feelings.'"

IS STRONGER THAN EVER

Governor's Popularity Was Never Greater, Says W. E. McEwen.

Crowded Halls and Unlimited Enthusiasm Greets Him.

W. E. McEwen, is in Duluth for a few days after a two months' tour through the southern and western part of the state. Labor matters and politics were responsible for the trip.

"From all parts of the state," says Mr. McEwen "we are getting most favorable reports, and it looks now as though the governor's re-election is a sure thing.

"Political clubs, and labor organizations all over the state are joining hands for the governor's re-election. There is enthusiasm everywhere he is billed to speak. The halls are overcrowd; people are turned away, and everywhere the utmost enthusiasm is shown. He has not had one poor meeting yet, and at Mankato, St. Cloud, Brainerd and many other towns men are offering their support, who have cast their votes on the other side of the ballot up to this time.

"Down in St. Paul and Minneapolis,

W. E. McEWEN,

where large sums of money change hands on every election the odds are in favor of the governor, and there are not many takers on the other side.

"Chairman Brown of the state central committee, who was in Duluth last week, and who gave out such encouraging talks for Mr. Jacobson, seems to be more enthusiastic away from home than he is down in St. Paul, for there even the Republican headquarters get the most discouraging reports. Of course, I don't blame him for being hopeful and putting up a good bluff, but I must say that the general sentiment indicates that he is following a forlorn hope. Even the most enthusiastic Twin City supporters of the Republican caddiate realize that his election is impossible.

"I cannot understand why the partisan papers should speak of Governor Johnson as saying that he was in favor of the tonnage tax. Everyone who knows the governor, and knows what he stands for, will see at once that this is false.

"In a recent talk I had with him he said 'as long as I am governor I will never sign a tax bill that will take away from St. Louis county, or any other county, the support it is now getting from taxation.'"

"This expresses his sentiment on this subject, and he said it in a manner that could not fail to be understood. St. Louis county never had a better friend at the head of the state government than John A. Johnson, and when it comes time to poll the votes of this section of Minnesota, I am sure that it will show that the people recognize and appreciate the friendship that he has shown for this county in the past."

THE WILY EARL.

Senator Kean, at a dinner in Chicago, said of a political maneuver:

"I smell a rat in this contract. It reminds me of a contract made by a wily earl.

"Lord Reginald Barecacres courted ardently the daughter of a New Jersey millionaire. At a seasonable moment, in a dim conservatory, he laid his heart at the young girl's feet. She, however, being a rare type, spurned him.

"Rising to his feet, Lord Reginald said:

"'I have bared to you the most sacred feelings of my inmost heart May I ask that you will never reveal to a living soul what has passed between us?'

"'I am not a gossip, Lord Reginald,' the girl said hautily.

"'But promise me,' he continued. 'Give me your solemn promise.'

"'I promise,' she said. 'But why, Lord Reginald, are you so persistent?'

"'Because,' he answered, sighing with relief, 'I purpose tomorrow to turn my attention to your older sister.'"

CONCERNING WOMAN.

Mrs. L. W. Leithhead was hostess at an informal tea this afternoon at her home on South Eighteenth avenue east, in compliment to her sister, Miss La Rue Sellwood, whose engagement to Charles E. Mershon of this city was announced. The rooms were simply decorated in American beauty roses, and the hostess was assisted by Mrs. R. M. Sellwood. Miss Sellwood is the daughter of Joseph Sellwood, and is widely known in Duluth society. Thirty guests were entertained.

FOREIGN WOMEN

Eager Students at Y. W. C. A. English Classes.

The first meeting of the year of the English class for young foreign girls was held last evening at the rooms of the Young Women's Christian association, and eighteen of the ambitious young women registered.

This department of educational work of the association has always attracted much attention, but in no previous year have so many pupils registered at the first class of the term.

Miss Harriet Raw will again be in charge of the work, assisted by Miss Edith Pattison, Dr. Stella Wilkinson and Miss Sadie Raw.

Among the eighteen young women registered are many Swedish girls who have recently come to America; German Jews, who are among the most ambitious and apt of the pupils, and one French girl. The pupils work earnestly and faithfully. The classes meet Tuesday and Friday evenings from 8 to 9:30 o'clock.

The other branches of the educational work are holding the first sessions of the fall term, and by next week this department of the association work will be established for the winter.

BISHOP'S CLUB

To Study Features of United States History.

At the first meeting of the year of the Bishop's club which was held last evening at the clubrooms on West Fourth street the outline of study for the year was presented the members. Special features of the development of the United States during its history will be the subject for the year. The outline is as follows:

Oct. 20—The debt America owes the early Catholic explorers.
Nov. 3.—Indians and early missionaries.
Nov. 17—American literature, Alcott, Emerson and the Brookfarm colony.
Dec. 1—Early American art, Paul Revere, John Copley.
Dec. 15—Social evening.
Jan. 5—Early history at the Head of Lake Superior. French missionaries and explorers.
Jan. 19—Education. Founding of the American colleges.
Feb. 2—Musical evening by the Superior women.
Feb. 16—Scientific men of America. Franklin, Morris and others.
March 2—Art in public buildings.
March 16—Government.
March 30—Musical evening.
April 6—Social life of the colonies.
April 20—Art evening. Art galleries.

"PEER GYNT."

Dr. N. I. Rubinkam Lectures on Ibsen Play.

In the lecture on "Peer Gynt," which was given this morning by Dr. N. I. Rubinkam at the First Baptist church, the most interesting of the three lectures he has presented, was enjoyed by a large audience in attendance. Members of th club studied the Ibsen play last season under the leadership of Miss Laura Frankenfield, who is this year playing the role of Asa with the Louis James production. The play is an absorbing study and it was presented in a masterly manner by Dr. Rubinkam.

He said in part:

"Ibsen wrote his first two masterpieces, 'Brand' and 'Peer Gynt,' under the influence of the inevitable Italian journey which every European author, since Goethe, must take in order to round out his literary attainments.

"These two plays will always stand as the enduring monuments to his genius. Both of them are aimed at fundamental weaknesses in the Norwegian character, which like the forbidding northern climate, and the ruggedness of the scenery, became prominent in the author's thought and imagination, in contrast with the Italian art and temperament and the soft tropical skies.

"'Brand' exhibits the angularity, mental poverty, fanaticism, the stubbornness of a granite will power, while 'Peer Gynt' incarnates the opposite extremes of dreaminess, impracticality, ineffectiveness and the lack of individuality.

"While the 'Brand' drama is a poem of ponderous and eloquent earnestness, 'Peer Gynt' is replete with satire, humor and genial characterization.

"The late Richard Mansfield immolated his life partly in his gigantic attempt to put the massive 'Peer Gynt' drama in the stage. It was a great enterprise for an American. Mr. Mantell has long threatened to try the 'Brand' poem, but he told me only the other day, while here, that he feared he could not make its verse effective in English.

"'Peer Gynt' is the northern 'Faust.' The character was as well known in Norway before Ibsen, as was the legendary 'Faust' in the Teutonic world before Goethe. His dramatic career covers a lifetime. He is a youth of 20 in the first three acts; in act four he is in the 50s; and an old man in the closing scenes."

The lecturer traced the character development during the long Faust-like world-wanderings; from his wild youth, his dissipations, his young loves, his wrestling with the mountain trolls, through his many adventures until in the final act he is back in his own land in search for sufficient individuality to make him worthy either of heaven or of hell. He is saved in the end by the "eternal womanly" in Solveig, who has waited for him in the hut, for a lifetime.

Card Party.

Mrs. Frank Frerker of 822 East Second street will entertain the members of the Women's Relief Corps and their friends at a card party Friday afternoon of this week at her home. The guests are invited for 2 o'clock.

Re-open Room.

After being closed for a week for redecoration the children's room at the library was opened to the public this afternoon. The room has always been one of the most attractive at the library and with the newly tinted walls, the attractive pictures and posters, and palms, it is a cheerful resort for the bookish children.

Bethel Meeting.

At the regular weekly meeting to be held tomorrow afternoon at the Lake Avenue Bethel the speaker will be Miss Abbie Upham, who will speak of "The Women of India." There will be a vocal solo by Miss Ward. Any woman interested in the meeting is invited to attend.

Afternoon Tea.

Mrs. A. D. Thomson will entertain at a tea tomorrow afternoon at her home on West Second street, in compliment to Mrs. James E. Granger.

Church Meetings.

The Ladies' Aid Society of St. Paul's German Evangelical church will be entertained tomorrow afternoon by Mrs. Otto Haller of 318 North Central avenue, West Duluth.

* * *

Harvest Home Supper.

The women of the Pilgrim Congregational church will entertain at the annual Harvest Home supper Friday evening of this week at the church parlors. In the evening, a musical program will be given.

Dancing Party.

The members of the Dy-Wyk club will entertain at a dancing party Tuesday evening, Oct. 20 at the club rooms in the Winthrop building. The party will be the first affair of the fall season, at which the club members will be hosts.

Events of Interest.

Mrs. Katherine Van Loo will be hostess at bridge Friday afternoon of this week, at her home, on East First street.

* * *

Mrs. J. D. Titcomb, of 1731 East Fourth street, has cards out for a series of at homes, Tuesday afternoons in October.

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Myers and children, who were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. Latshaw, of 1716 Jefferson street, have returned to their home in the East.

LEARN TO REST.

Sleep the Best Medicine for Tired Nerves.

It is strange that a woman must make a great effort to learn how and where to rest. It comes naturally to most animals, but the human animal defies this law from the cradle to the grave.

Sleep is better than medicine, all agree and yet a woman will take a tonic or pills or stimulants instead of deliberately going to her room after supper or dinner and going to sleep.

She will prop her eyes open until 10 o'clock and strain her aching nerves and muscles rather than sacrifice the evening hours. Of course she is always tired. She is never equal to the vital occasions.

She always brings half her powers to perfect any piece of work. She is the woman of a hundred ventures and one achievement.

She needs sleep and she needs rest, but she takes company, the theater, supper party or a trolley ride instead. Then she wonders why other women do so much in the world and why she never has time for anything.

She should learn to keep books and balance her rest and work accounts every Saturday night. She would be the richer by it and she would make all her family the happier.

Switches and Hats.

The warning cry comes from afar to all women who have them to get out their old switches, and to those who have them not, to invest as speedily as possible before there is a crisis in the market. For large braids are again being worn, woven in around the Psyche, and intertwined with curls. In short, the "waterfall" is threatening.

As for the hats! Shades of Romney, Raeburn, and the rest! If those good men, great artists, were living today, they would see that after all it is the artists who make the fashions. The new hats are a sort of travesty on the recent sweeping orders in regard to the wearing of hats in the theaters. The brims are so wide that it is doubtful whether it would be a physical possibility for women to sit side by side wearing them.

The head is sunk deeper and deeper into the picturesque horror, until there only remains visible a pair of bright eyes peering out like a cat from under a rain barrel. Those seen at the leading milliners are mostly of velvet, or of beaver, which will be much in vogue this winter. They have not much trimming, when their size is taken into consideration. Bunches of short plumes, each vein of which is in a different color, are a decided novelty. Sashes or strings are carelessly knotted about every correct hat in some fashion or another.

Net Waists.

There seem to be already very many tucked wash net waists, and many of them are made in very attractive ways. One, for instance, is covered with fine hand tucks running from shoulder to waist line, while down the front is a single band of cluny lace insertion about two inches in width, and on each side of there is a frill of net. Otherwise the waist is entirely plain and is finished round the neck with a very high "Gibson" collar, also of net.

Another very attractive net waist fastens down the back, while fine torchon insertion outlines the yoke, which is filled with plain net, the rest of the waist being tucked. This is slightly more dressy than is the other, only in that one would wear it with a more elaborate suit.

THE EVENING STORY

The Disgrace of Jack Tetlon

By Clarence Holcomb.

(Copyrighted. All rights reserved.)

"This Conroy party comes into the bunch grass country from Noo York," said the judge.

"Tenderfoot?"

"Say, he's that green that when he climbs down off the box of the stage he looks up an' down the street afore he gets off. 'Fraid he's goin' to step in front of a trolley car.

"Sure he's green, but he's good stuff, an' next mornin' he's out lookin' fur a job. The boss of the Wrench outfit is in town, an' Joe strikes him first.

"'Can you ride?'" asks the boss.

"'Um,' says the boss. 'Can you cook?'

"'I never have,' says Joe, lookin' up hopeful, 'but I'll try.'

"'You needn't mind,' says the boss, plenty sarcastic.

"Every place he tries it's the same, an' he's purty well discouraged when finally he gets to me. I'm runnin' a bunch of control cattle on Stinkin' Water mountain that summer, an' I gives him a job. Shure it looks like makin' him a present of them wages, but he's such a decent sort of a chap I ain't got the heart to turn him away. I hears about him every month in Tompson's report.

"First month he says: 'Put new man to helpin' the cook. Couldn't ride a rockin' horse, an' if he ever runs across a mulley cow, the chances are he'll take a shot at it thinkin' it's a coyote.'

"Second month: 'New man can ride a little. Falls off a good deal, but gets right back on. Gritty as a emery-wheel.'

"Third month: 'Conroy's got all the old cows comin' in every evenin' to be lassed. Kind a got to be a habit with them. I thought when you sent him out here you must be losin' your mind, but I guess you knew wot you was doin'. He's a fine chap, an' a hard worker.'

"It ain't long after this till the first snow falls on the mountain, an' the cattle has to be got in on the home ranch.

"It's hard work this, fur strange camps don't appeal to the cow-brute none, so after it's all over I gives the boys a week in town.

"Tompson goes after his first an' only love—faro. All summer long he's been workin' on a system, an' final he gets it down to such a fine point he can't lose. When he gets back on the ranch, he has his system left. He don't lose that.

"Barney Earle an' Jed Clemmins, believes in gettin' something fur their money, an' frequently after a week's carnival, they seems to have about everything, includin' a high-class menagerie, with a side line attraction of wild an' untamable reptiles. That's the way my vaqueros spend their time, but as I never had money enough to enjoy them sports myself. I hangs around the boardin' house principle, an' Joe keeps me company. The house was run at that time by a little widow by the name of Cummins.

"Right off I notices she takes a likin' to Joe. Mind you, I don't mean she becomes enamored of him none, but he's such a neat little chap, it's strange if he ain't big cassino with the feminines.

"It seems a fellow named Black Jack Persons was playin' all suits both ways from the middle tryin' to win the widow, but she don't enthuse. Final, when Joe arrives on the scene she passes him up like he's a white chip, which makes him imagine Joe's allenatin' them affections. Natural, this makes him plenty furious, an' he figures it's only a matter of time, till retribution is bound to overtake the tenderfoot. And so things run along until the night before we leave fur the ranch.

"Harry, Jed an' Barney is all down to the saloon, an' before we turns in, Joe an' I lights our pipes an' strolls down town. As we pass the saloon the boys is in I takes it into my head to drop in an' try to get them to come to bed, an' Joe follows.

"We ain't no more than entered, when a slab-sided kid called Goggle Eye George, sticks his foot between Joe's legs an' trips him up. This Goggle Eye George's eyes stick out like a shrimp's, but when Joe gets up, he shure puts one of them back normal. Just one lick, an' Goggle Eye ain't got no more fight in him than a sheep, but he don't need to do his own fightin', fur right hyer Black Jack takes h's hand an' plays it fur h'm.

"Gettin' up from the table, where he's been dealin' stud poker he walks up to Joe.

"'Wot do you mean?' he snarled, 'a hittin' of my particular friend?'

"'Joe didn't say anything, just stood his ground.

"'Well, I'll make you talk!'" shouts Black Jack, haulin' off an' knockin' Joe over a couple of chairs.

"'Seein' as I've lived in this country all my life, I hopes I knows the ediket of the plains, the same bein' that every man skelps his own coyote, but fur all that I'm fur jumpin' in if Tompson don't grab me by the arm.

"'Catch your stirrups afore you go rampagin' into anything like this,' he says, pushin' me back into the crowd. At the same time he slips his gun into his coat pocket. Seein' this I'm satisfied, fur with Tompson's gun coverin' Black Jack, Joe's as safe as if he he't out on the ranch.

"Final Joe picks himself up, brushes his clothes, an' faces Black Jack.

"'I'm sorry if I knocks all the vaseline out of your hair,' says Black Jack, grinnin'.

"'Yes, I think you will be,' says Joe.

"'You're not goin' to strike me?' asks Black Jack, like he's alarmed.

"'No,' replied Joe, serious.

"'Well, that takes a turrible load off my mind, but mebbe you're goin' to shoot me?' he asks, like he's anxious.

"'Yes,' says Joe, 'I think I shall.'

"'Now you're talkin' like a sport, even if you ain't got the ear marks,' spouts Black Jack, 'an' I'm remarkin' there's few wore any more holes in their moccasins seekin' gun practice with me,' an' swells up big.

"With this he motions the crowd to get off the firin' line, pulls his gun, an' goes to the further end of the room.

"Joe, he pulls a bull-dog 32 he's raked up somewheres, but keeps on standin' in the center of the room.

"'No,' says Joe, shakin' his head. 'I goin' to lose your'n. You picks this quarrel, and you suggests the weapons. Now, I'm goin' to name the distance.'

"'Nothin', 'says Joe, 'only the school I attends when I'm a kid teaches manners instead of sharp-shootin', which same system seems to have been reversed where you're brought up. Now if you will be so kind,' says Joe, bowin' low, 'you will step this way.'

"'Wot do you mean?' stammers Black Jack.

"'I means,' says Joe, cool as a mint julep, 'that this affair is goin' to be breast to breast.'

"For a moment Black Joe looks at him in surprise, then swallows several times an' hangs his head.

"'If he don't except he knows it's his finish in the cow country, an' likewise it's the same if he does, fur even a tenderfoot like Joe can't miss at that range. Black Jack is a bad man, with more than one notch in his gun, but he don't dare run his brand on the little slick-ear that's standin' there is the middle of the room, even if his horns ain't out of the velvet. He looks around at the crowd, then seein' it ain't no use he shoves his gun in his pocket, an' goes over an' gets his hat. As he does this, Thompson gives a hiss, an' though you can see it hurts he never turns.

"'Black Jack Tetlow is a gambler,' says the judge, as we arose and pushed our chairs against the wall, 'but he lets a tenderfoot make him lay down a cinch.'

FOR THURSDAY—

75 Tailored Suits at $25—

Even the most economical of women have decided that The S. & B. Suits at $25.00 are the best suit investment. Not alone do these suits insure good form and long service but they give that satisfactory knowledge of being well drest.

In the suits for tomorrow will be found 42 inch coat suits of serge, diagonal, chevron and novelty weaves, either strictly tailored or richly trimmed with silk braids, just as you prefer.

Would you be fitted to a smartly tailored suit, made from the most reliable fabrics, at a minimum of cost? Then look over the lines offered for tomorrow at $25.00.

Beautiful Hats—Prices Start at $5—

Elegance at small cost would be the way to describe our popular price lines. The most correct shapes, materials of the best, for beauty and distinctiveness they have no equal at the prices markt.

Tailor-Made Linen Waists, $2.75

Another lot of those splendid waists has just arrived in time for tomorrow's selling. The tailored linen waist is the popular demand of the season. Linen is the safest and most serviceable fabric and meets the requirements of practical women. At $2.00 we will show some pretty tailored waists in madras and other fancy weaves for Fall wear.

What Retail Markets Offer.

Grape fruit, 20 cents each.
Cantaloupes, 20 cents each.
Apples, $4.25 to $5 a barrel.
Sweet potatoes, 6 lbs. for 25 cents.
Cranberries, 12 cents a quart.
Little egg plant, 5 cents each.
Fish of many kinds.
Dead bear.
Lamb stew.

If one but watches carefully enough, life leads but from one ecstacy to another. In the late fall the most beautiful cantaloupes of the year are to be had. Luscious fruit of a deep orange hue, chilled to a temperature that emphasizes the wonderful flavor, nothing could be nicer. And then suddenly grape fruit comes in, and here mere words fail. As an eye-opener, a tonic, a greeting to the day, there is nothing so nice as grape fruit.

Apples by the barrel are being received. There is a selection to be had, but as yet it is a little early to lay in the winter supply. Lamb stew and bear steaks are a feature of the market.

Heart Trouble Nervous Prostration

After suffering five years from nervous prostration and heart trouble, Mr. Elias Hollinger, 82 years old, of Beaverton, Mich., was completely cured by the great tonic-stimulant, Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey.

"I have taken Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey for the past two years. For five years previous to that time I was afflicted with heart trouble and nervous prostration. I tried doctors and many nerve remedies, but received little benefit therefrom. After taking Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey for a short time all symptoms of heart trouble disappeared, and I began to get stronger. I lack a few months of being 82 years of age. I am one of the few surviving veterans of the Mexican war, and aside from a disability contracted in the army, I can say that I feel spry and nimble on my feet, and am vigorous indeed, all of which is due to the taking of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. It makes the old young. Although a strong temperance man for many years, I heartily recommend Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey to all afflicted, whether young or old.—ELIAS HOLLINGER, Beaverton, Mich.

Thousands of men and women, who have almost reached the century mark, tell the same story as Mr. Hollinger about what Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey has done toward renewing their youth and keeping them vigorous, hale and hearty, and in possession of all their faculties. As a leading doctor says, the secret of the whole thing is that Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, if taken as prescribed, drives out all disease germs, invigorates the brain, enriches the blood, quickens the circulation and prevents decay and old age.

This wonderful remedy has been extolled throughout the world for what it has done for suffering humanity. The success of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey in curing diseases has caused many unreliable dealers to put up substitutes and imitations with which to fool the people, claiming that their substitutes are just as good as Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. Insist on the genuine. It will cure you.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is sold throughout the world by druggists, grocers and dealers, or shipped direct for $1.00 per large bottle.

If in need of advice, write Consulting Physician, Duffy Malt Whiskey Company, Rochester, New York, stating your case fully. Our doctors will send you advice free, together with a handsome illustrated medical booklet containing some of the many thousands of gratifying letters received from men and women in all walks of life, both old and young, who have been cured and benefited by the use of the world's greatest medicine.

OVER SIXTY THOUSAND.

St. Louis County's Share of October School Apportionment.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Supt. of Public Instruction Olson, as stated briefly in Monday's Herald, has announced the October apportionment of the current school fund, which is the largest in the history of the state.

The total number of pubils sharing is 381,674, and the sum apportioned is $1,030,554. The rate per capita is $2.70.

The apportionment for Northern Minnesota counties is as follows, the number of pupils coming first, then the amount: Aitkin, 2,305, $6,223.50; Anoka, 2,674, $7,219; Becker, 3,909, $10,554; Beltrami, 2,730, $7,371; Carlton, 3,395, $9,166.50; Cass, 2,065, $5,575.50; Clearwater, 1,739, $7,753; Clay, 2,583, $8,690; Chisago, 2,7669, $7,476.30; Cook, 219, $591; Crow Wing, 3,753, $10,133; Hubbard, 217, $5,872.50; Isanti, 2,836, $7,657.20; Itasca, 2,007, $6,418.90; Kanabec, 1,562, $4,193; Kittson, 2,922, $3,459; Koochiching, 669, $1,806.30; Lake, 1,222, $3,299; Mahnomen, 139, $375; Marshall, 3,889, $10,500.30; Mille Lacs, 2,409, $6,504; Morrison, 5,980, $16,146; Norman, 3,230, $8,721; Otter Tail, 9,966, $26,908; Pine, 4,909, $10,824; Polk, 8,016, $21,643; Red Lake, 3,772, $10,184; Roseau, 2,5663, $6,920; St. Louis, 22,346, $60,234.20; Stearns, 9,882, $26,681; Todd, 5,391, $14,555; Wadena, 1,943, $5,246; Wilkin, 1,892, $5,108.

BIG DEER CREEK FIRE.

Fergus Falls, Minn., Oct. 7.—John Davis' feed mill and machinery implement house at Deer Creek, together with the Farmers' elevator, burned Monday night. Mr. Davis' loss is about $10,000, with no insurance. The elevator was owned by the farmers of the neighborhood and the loss has not been definitely ascertained. The origin of the fire is not known.

Record-Breaking Family.

Prairie du Chien, Wis., Oct. 7.—Wyalusing, a small village seven miles below this city, has a remarkable family. There are six generations, all females, and living within a radius of a few miles of each other. Mrs. Lydia Shrake has 167 grandchildren, and the youngest of them has 58 living grandparents. Six generations ordinarily represent about 200 years, but in this case it is condensed into 95, which is the age of "Grandma" Shrake.

Gambler Pleads Guilty.

Minot, N. D., Oct. 7.—Fred Hockspier pleaded guilty yesterday to running a gambling joint in Minot and was fined $25 and costs amounting to $50. In default of the fine he will have to spend fifty days in jail. The sentence was passed by Judge Nehemiah Davis of the county court.

Octogenarian Operated On.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frederick Gerber, father of Sheriff W. A. Gerber, was operated on at St. Joseph's hospital yesterday for an ailment of the kidneys. His attending physician, Dr. Shimonek, declares his chances for recovery are good. Mr. Gerber is 81 years of age.

BOOTH FIRM TO DISSOLVE

Permanent Action Prophesied in Affairs of Fish Company.

Reorganization Proposal is Rejected by Bankers' Committee.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—Indication that United States District Attorney Sims would begin action under the Sherman anti-trust law against A. Booth & Co. in the event of its re-organization, caused the creditor bankers' committee to reject the re-organization proposal of W. Vernon Booth yesterday and to decide to sell the property of the corporation in every state at its physical value.

Mr. Booth proposed to re-organize the corporation by placing $2,000,000 of new capital in the company, while the stockholders would contribute $1,000,000 more. After eight hours' deliberation, the committee rejected the proposal. From the sale of the property held by the corporation they expect to pay all claims held by the Chicago and Eastern banks and pay practically 100 cents on the dollar to the 3,000 minor creditors.

G. E. Roberts of the bankers' committee said independent fish companies had made offers for many of the properties of the Booth company and that the corporation probably would be permanently dissolved in a few months.

BRYAN AND TAFT ARRIVE IN CHICAGO.

one which our government has all too long neglected. And so it is that after the first century of our existence, we find our inland waterways with a few notable exceptions, unprepared for the uses of transportation, but the consideration of their permanent and extensive improvement according to some general and comprehensive plan so as to mould them into a complete system of transportation, has now forced itself upon us with surprising suddenness.

"We find that the enormous increase in the productions of our people in all lines of industrial activity has outstripped the ability of our great railroad system, extensive and efficient as they are, to transport them.

"We find that during the ten years ending with 1905, the internal commerce of our country has increasd 118 per cent, while railroad transportation facilities during the same time have increased only 20 per cent. It has been pointed out that to supply this deficiency by the construction of additional railroads and necessary terminals would require a capital investment of $5,500,000,000 and this construction, when completed, would make no provision for the future increase of our commerce. Shall we have a repetition of the experience of three years ago when the farmer saw his grain wasting in the field and the manufacturer stopped his plant for want of raw material and our finished products lay in the warehouse all for lack of facilities to transport them?

"Transportation, then, is the question of the hour. How can we solve it? We must have recourse to our waterways. No nation has been so favored with so magnificent a system of navigable lakes and rivers, reaching in their providential distribution, every section of the great valley lying between our East and West mountain ranges, and of the slopes of these to both coasts. If we improve these in accordance with a well defined progressive policy, we shall in conjunction with our great railroads, and other forms of transportation, keep pace with the industrial and commercial advancement of our country.

"During the season of 1907 there passed through the Soo canal, 58,217,214 tons of freight, which was carried an average distance of 326 miles, at a cost of $38,457,345. If this freight had been carried by railroads at the average railroad rate per ton mile of 7.82 mills, it would have cost $337,079,709. That is to say, the saving through decreased cost of transportation on the business of a single lake for a single year amounts to $388,500,000, or nearly four times the total amount expended by the government on all the lakes since their improvement was begun.

Saving the Resources.

"Your project proposes to connect by a deep waterway, the great lakes system with the Mississippi river and the Gulf of Mexico, and thus competed with all the harbors of the world. It is a grand conception and appeals to the thoughtful consideration of those who must finally pass upon its adoption.

"If our present rate of use and destruction of timber continues, our forests will be exhausted within a generation; if our currently increasing use of all our known deposits of iron continues, all our high grade ores will be consumed during the present century; if the present waste and currently increasing consumption of coal continues, all our vast beds of anthracite, bituminous and lignite coal will be gone before the end of the next century. At any reasonable rate of consumption, our petroleum can hardly last more than two or three generations; and at the present appalling rate of waste, our best natural fuel, gas will be exhausted within a decade or two. As a people, we have the problem of making our forests outlast the generation, our iron outlast this century and our coal the next century, not merely as a matter of convenience or comfort, but as a matter of stern natural necessity.

The effect of inland improvement will be a reduction in the increasing ratio per year of the consumption of iron, since the transportation by water requires on the average less than one-third the quantity of iron required by transportation by rail. Water transportation means also a corresponding halt in the increasing consumption of coal not only for driving the transporting engines, but also for smelting the iron required by railroads. At the same time the substitution of water carriage will tend to reduce one of the greatest demands for timber, that is, for use as ties, more than 100,000,000 of which are required each year, and it takes two ties growing in the forest to keep one tie in the track.

"Irrigation of arid lands, which is not only one of the most successful conservation policies, but represents the largest effort ever made by any government for the man who works his own farm, is a natural part of any comprehensive plan of stream control. So is the drainage of swamp lands, which will add many hundreds of millions to the wealth of our people. My own judgment is that every great improvement, like that of the lakes-to-the-gulf, like that of the Ohio river, like that of the Missouri river, like the Atlantic seaboard inland waterways, should be treated by itself as one of the great enterprises, just as we have treated the Panama canal and that provision should be made, by bonds or otherwise for the setting aside of a fund sufficient to complete it as rapidly as possible."

Max Figman's audience at the Lyceum theater last evening, when he opened a two nights' engagement here in "The Substitute," had a bad grouch on before the curtain was raised on the first act, and his ability as a comedian of the first water was amply demonstrated by the fact that he had everybody in a good humor and laughing before the act was half over.

It had been advertised that the show would begin promptly at 8 o'clock, but the curtain was not pulled up until the usual time, although the house was comfortably filled at the hour advertised. Consequently a good many were not in the best of humor after their long wait, coming on top of their hustling to be on time.

"The Substitute," written by Beulah M. Dix and Evelyn Sutherland, is an entertaining comedy. There are several serious parts to it, and Mr. Figman appears just as advantageously in them as he does in the parts intended to be funny. He takes the role of James Smith, Jr., partner in the law firm of Vandergrift & Smith, and to help out a prospective brother-in-law, who is a theological student, goes to a small town as a substitute minister, and agrees to fill the pulpit of a local church the following Sunday. Smith is anything but religious, although a thoroughly good fellow from crown to sole, and what little he did know in his earlier years about church and Sunday school has been forgotten. His lack of knowledge regarding ways of the church and the fact that he is prone to the use of vigorous slang, with an occasional cuss word mixed in, gives rise to amusing situations. He falls in love with the old minister's daughter, draws her father out of a bad hole by means of his ability as a lawyer, and everything ends happily.

Duluth missed Mr. Figman last year. He was here two years ago in "The Man on the Box," and was so well liked that it was a disappointment to local theatergoers when he failed to make connections with the Head of the Lakes last season. All this was impressed upon his mind last evening by the hearty reception accorded him. There was a large audience, and it was free in expressing its appreciation. He was given several curtain calls, and the insistence of the applause finally impelled him to make a little talk, expressing his thanks for the enthusiastic reception.

The comedy requires a larger cast than most productions of the kind. Ernest C. Warde took the part of a fresh young district attorney, and his work was exceptionally good. Most of the other characters did not call for anything especially strong in the line of acting, but they were well taken care of.

The comedy was repeated this afternoon, and will be played for the last time in Duluth this evening.

Citizen After Half Century.

Crookston, Minn., Oct. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge Andrew Grindeland held a special term of court at Mahnomen yesterday, at which he made three citizens. The remarkable member of the trio was Mr. McIntosh, who came to the United States from Western Canada in 1862, and after whom the city of McIntosh, in Eastern Polk county, was named, after having resided in this county for nearly half a century, was made a citizen of the United States.

NUMEROUS CONTRACTS

More sewer contracts have been let by the board of public works this year than during any similar period in the board's history. The total is eighty-four, and five or six more jobs are now being figured on. Most of the contracts were small ones, so the total cash expenditure they represent is probably smaller than the total of other years, when the number of contracts was smaller.

While the money in all the public funds is now getting pretty low, there will still be considerable work in the way of repairs and improvements conducted by the board of public works before the winter sets in earnest. Some time this month crews of men will be employed to put the city in as clean a condition as circumstances will permit for the winter. Falling leaves are obstructing some of the gutters and walks. All the gutters, ditches, etc., will be thoroughly cleaned out this fall, so they will be in condition to stand the winter and take care of the surface water in the spring.

Property owners feel that the board has worked to good advantage with the limited amount of money at its disposal this year. The streets have been kept in good condition and the area sprinkled was this year larger than ever before. A special effort has been made to keep the streets and avenues in the most sightly possible condition, and everything considered, the result is believed to have been very satisfactory.

Next year the new garbage ordinance will be in effect, and it will have a tendency towards making a more beautiful Duluth. In it are strict provisions in regard to the disposal of waste paper, garbage and refuse of all descriptions, and these will be enforced to the letter.

NO HALL FOR GATHERING

The West End Republicans Gather a Week Too Soon.

Make a Mistake in Time for Regular Session.

When members of the West End Republican club and a number of candidates for office, who expected to address them, gathered in the Sloan block last evening to hold a meeting, they found to their great annoyance that the hall was occupied by another society.

Other speeches than theirs were being heard behind the closed doors, and the cigar smoke of another organization wafted out into the hallway every time the door was opened.

The Republican clubmen were greatly annoyed.

Many of the candidates were on hand early and they cooled their heels in the corridors while waiting for the Republicans to put in an appearance. When the first of these arrived, they were as surprised as the office seekers to discover the hall in the hands of the enemy and it remained for the officers, upon their arrival, to untangle the proposition.

Finally it came to light that the officers and members had made a mistake on the time of the meeting. Those who went to the hall last night arrived just a week too soon, as the session is not supposed to come off until next Tuesday.

The West End Republican club has the use of the hall on two evenings every month and next Tuesday is its night.

FAREWELL RECEPTION.

Congregation Will Say Goodbye to Rev. J. A. Anderson.

Members of the First Swedish Methodist Episcopal church will give a farewell reception this evening for Rev. John A. Anderson and family, who leave tomorrow for Marinette, Wis., to make their home.

The recent Swedish M. E. conference appointed Mr. Anderson superintendent of the Lake Superior district, and he will make his headquarters in the Wisconsin city, terminating a pastorte here that has extended over nine years.

Members of the church, other West end clergymen and friends of Mr. Anderson will attend the gathering tonight.

GREET CLERGYMEN.

Norwegian-Danish M. E. Congregation Gives a Double Reception.

Rev. H. K. Madsen, pastor, and his family, and Rev. James Danacker, district superintendent and his family, were guests at a reception last evening in the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church, Twenty-fourth avenue west and Third street.

Rev. Mr. Madsen has just been reappointed by the conference to the pastorate of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church here and Mr. Sanacker has just been delegated to the superintendency of this district of the Norwegian-Danish M. E. conference, with headquarters in Duluth. Mr. Sanacker and his family arrived last week.

TALKS TO ALUMNI.

Clarence B. Miller Delivers Address at Adams Meeting.

Clarence B. Miller, candidate for congress in this district, was the principal speaker at the meeting of the Adams School Alumni association in the school house last evening. It was the first session of the society since last spring.

Mr. Miller told the young people who comprise the organization that he believed Duluth Duluth and Minnesota offered them opportunities to forge ahead and be successful in the walks of life they chose. He urged them to keep stout searts and ever keep their faces turned toward the future.

Another prominent Dulutbian will deliver an address to the association, at the next meeting.

Dean Coventry, treasurer of the association, resigned last evening and Oscar Helm was elected to fill the vacancy. Mr. Coventry's resignation was induced by the fact that he is about to leave the city.

West End Shortrails.

Rev. J. Wilfrid Loughridge, paster of the Central Baptist church, is expected home today or tomorrow. He has bee ntraveling in the West for the past two weeks.

The Ladies' Aid society of Central Baptist church is being entertained this afternoon by Mrs. A. Mentzer, at her home in West Second street. ..

Harvey Montgomery has returned from Bemidji, where he, with a party of friends, enjoyed several days' hunting.

Mrs. Butchart of Twenty-sixth avenue west, is entertaining the Thimble Bee of the Second Presbyterian church this afternoon, at her home in Twenty-sixth avenue west.

Burning shingles on a roof in Eighteenth avenue west called out the West end fire department yesterday afternoon. The flames were soon quenched and the damage was slight.

SUPERIOR NEWS

WILL SOON BEGIN WORK ON BRIDGE

Council is Preparing to Build Roads to Steel Plant Site.

The construction of an interstate bridge across the St. Louis river in the vicinity of the site of the new steel plant, will be begun in the near future. This information was contained in a communication from Solon L. Perrin, attorney for the Interstate Transfer railway, presented last night to the Superior city council. Mr. Perrin suggested that a road should be constructed to the site of the plant.

The government's permission to build a bridge, was conditional, and provided that the work must be begun within a year. Two routes to the Wisconsin side of the steel plant site have been surveyed by order of the city and the council last night gave instructions to the engineer to render a report of the cost of building each highway.

Mr. Perrin said in the communication, that the rapidity with which the steel plant would be constructed, depended a great deal upon the condition of the market, but he thought that the situation might be such within a year, that means of communication between Superior and the bridge should be opened.

RUSHING WORK.

Soo Line Will be Graded Into Superior Before Winter.

According to Chief Engineer Thomas Greene of the Soo Line, who arrived in the city yesterday to inspect the company's work in the vicinity of Superior, the road will be graded into Superior by the coming of winter. He also says that the track is laid within twenty miles of Moose Lake, and the track is being laid at the rate of two miles a day, and the work all along the line is being pushed as fast as possible.

Both Parents in Jail.

Mrs. John Curran was yesterday sentenced to a term of ten days in the county jail for being intoxicated. Her husband last week received a sentence of ninety days for mistreating his wife. This leaves their little son a charge of the county and he will be sent to one of the state schools. He went bitterly when he was separated from his mother.

Chaffeur is Injured.

While play ing with a toy connon in the rear of the Hussell-Rhodes garage on Ogden avenue, Superior, yesterday morning, Ernest Farnum, chauffeur for J. L. Ross, was painfully injured about the face.

The cannon was of the 25-pound size. Farnum filled it with powder, and using a twisted piece of paper for a fuse, set it off. He was holding the gun in his arms when he touched the match. When assistance arrived he was lying on the floor in a dazed condition, his face filled with particles of powder and blood was pouring from a cut on one of his ears. Probably the only thing which saved his eyes was the glasseas which he wore, both of the lenses of which were knocked out by the explosion.

DOING MUCH PLOWING.

Crookston, Minn., Oct. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is more plowing done in this section at the present time than there was last year and the year before both put together when the freezeup came. This is a broad statement, but it is a fact born out by every travelling man and trainmen interviewed on the subject.

This is true not only of this immediate section, but from Crookston to Barnesville on the south and to St. Vincent on the north, the country looks more prosperous than in years.

South of the city, near Beltrami, there have been several gasoline plows working all summer, and the conditions have been ideal for successful plowing. In wet weather the monster gang plows are hard to handle, and the dry weather of the past few months has made it perfect for them.

Kills Two and Self.

Norfolk, Va., Oct. 7.—John W. Richardson, a young farmer living in the Lamberts Point section, today shot and killed his sister-in-law, Miss Josephine Cromwell, his father-in-law, Beverley Cromwell, and committed suicide. Richardson had declared that the alleged interference of Miss Josephine Cromwell into the family affairs had caused the separation between himself and wife.

SAYS BUTTE & SUPERIOR CLAIMS HAD NO VALUE

Mining Expert From Butte Raps Holdings of Local Company.

Stands by His Guns Under Fire of Cross Examination.

Pat Meany of Butte, Mont., is modest, to say the least. A large part of the foundation on which Attorney Richards for the defense in the case of the Butte & Superior Copper company against John McAlpine bases his case is composed of Meany's knowledge, and the Butte man plunged in this morning to show that he knew every foot of ground in the Butte district, the extent of production of the different mines, the location and direction of the veins, the peculiarity of the geological formations and everything else that might show that he was qualified to pass on the value of the Butte & Superior holdings as mining properties.

"I am as good an authority as all the geologists and mineralogists that ever lived in regard to the Butte district. was an answer Meany gave to a question by Attorney Hollister for the plaintiff.

Mr. Meany had a tendency to be too voluble and it got him into trouble several times, the court instructing him to confine himself to answers to the questions asked. He wanted to give the why and wherefore of every statement he made and whys and wherefores aren't in demand, in the case, which threatens to drag out for a week or ten days more without any superfluous testimony.

Describes the District.

At the opening of court this morning, Mr. Richards led Mr. Meany through a general description of the location and trend of the copper and silver bearing veins of the Butte district. He then entered into the question of values of the Butte & Superior holdings. Each claim was taken up separately and Mr. Meany gave something of its past history. He said no claim the Butte & Superior company had on Feb. 11, 1907, had any value for mining purposes.

The Four Johns, he said, had never produced ore and the only development consisted of a few holes, sufficient for the purpose of securing the United States patent. The Constitution was in the same condition as the Four Johns he said. The Enterprise had a shaft about 100 feet deep, with several prospect holes on different parts of the claim. Some ore had been taken from the shaft, but he said the claim had no value for mining purposes.

The Laura, he said, had never produced any ore and only enough work had been done to secure the patent. The Ramon had produced silver and gold ore from a shaft about 100 feet deep. He said he had been in the Niagara in 1902, when a tunnel had been driven into the mountain running toward the Black Rock. From the tunnel, sinking had been carried on to a depth of about 150 feet. He said he couldn't say whether the Niagara could have been operated at a profit on Feb. 11, 1907, but he didn't consider that the claim had any value, and there was no copper ore of merchantable quality.

He said the Jersey Blue had produced some ore values in 1889 and 1890, but not since then and had no value on Feb. 11, 1907. The Admiral Dewey had produced very little gold and manganese ore. He said he had sampled hundreds of tons of ore from the Black Rock shaft when Senator W. A. Clark operated it prior to 1894, and that he didn't consider it of any value on Feb. 11, 1907.

"Eight Pirates."

The eight claims held by the company and located on the rhyolite dyke, Mr. Meany said, weren't worth the filing fee of $2 each. Mr. Hollister objected strongly to the witness' reference to them as the "Eight Pirates." The names of the eight claims all begin with the letter "P" and they are referred to in the trial as the "Eight P's." Te said no veins cross through the rhyolite dyke where the eight claims are located. Mr. Meany said that the ore of the Rainbow lodge, on which the Black Rock, Constitution, Enterprise and Ramon are located, becomes impoverished with depth.

Mr. Hollister's cross-examination was aimed to discredit the witness and his competence to testify as an expert. He tested him on questions of geology and the examination took the turn of a weekly quiz in a technical school. He tested the witness' knowledge of the formation of the rhyolite dyke, the distribution of intrusive and extrusive rhyolite, the possibility of extrusive rhyolite overlying veins carrying deposits and the possibility of their being worked.

Mr. Meany said that extrusive rhyolite might overlie a vein, but the vein would be at such a depth that it would be impossible to work it with profit. On several points, Mr. Meany's testimony clashed with the conclusions of the government maps and reports, but Meany stood manfully by his guns and said he considered his knowledge of the ground, gained by twenty-nine years of experience, of just as much value as that of the government experts.

Mr. Hollister inquired into the basis of Mr. Meany's conclusions that the Butte & Superior holdings had no value as mining properties. Meany said the assumption that there is a vein under the surface doesn't make the vein. He said a mineral claim has no value until the values are actually demonstrated and that values cannot be estimated until the extent of the mineral values are exposed by development.

"You might go out here into Lake Superior and locate a mineral claim and, though there may be veins carrying ore under the lake, the claim hasn't any value," he said.

Meany's tendency to volubility was most marked during the cross-examination, when he picked his way along carefully and wanted to make full explanation of every statement. He showed a knowledge of geological terms and conditions in a general way and unhesitatingly put his own conclusions against any Mr. Hollister advanced as having been put forth by geological and mineralogical authorities. He was still on the stand under cross-examination when court adjourned at noon.

The defense completed its cross-examination of the plaintiff's witnesses yesterday afternoon, and began to make out its own case through the examination of witnesses from Butte.

The aim of Attorney Richards to show that the Butte & Superior property was barren of copper on Feb. 11, 1907, when it is claimed false representations were made to Mr. McAlpine, was brought out by the introduction of expert testimony.

Patrick Meany of Butte was called to the stand late yesterday afternoon to qualify as an expert. He said that he has lived in Butte for twenty-nine years and is thoroughly familiar with the veins, properties and ores of the Butte district. He gave a history of his work in the Butte camp from the time he started to work in the Colorado smelter in 1880, through a period of over two years in the Star West mine, several yeers in the Dexter mill and another long term of work in the Colorado smelter. Since 1890, he said, he has been an operator of mines on his own account.

Is Mining Expert.

Mr. Meany says he has acted as a mining expert in several cases in the courts, acting as a witness for the South Butte Mining company in six big suits. He said he was recently one of three appraisers appointed by the courts to appraise a fourth interest in the Minnie Healy mine.

A chart drawn by Mr. Meany showing the different veins in the Butte district was introduced for illustration of his testimony, and he had just completed the explanation of it when court adjourned for the day.

John Callahan preceded Mr. Meany on the stand, and was the first witness called by the defense. He worked as a common miner in the Black Rock shaft on the Black Rock property from March 1, 1906, to March 1, 1907, and is a miner of nine years' practical experience. He told of conditions in the Black Rock shaft when he went there and when he quit.

Callahan's testimony brought forth a vigorous protest from Attorney Hollister for the plaintiff. Mr. Hollister claimed that no foundation was laid for Callahan's being examined as an expert. Mr. Richards said he didn't intend to qualify him as an expert, but merely as a common miner of sufficient experience to know common ores and mining conditions when he saw them.

Callahan said the surface equipment of the Black Rock mine when he started to work there consisted of an engine and two boilers, the cage being operated by a steel cable over a gallows-frame. Two pumps comprised the underground equipment. He said the boilers would not stand more than 90 pounds pressure and the engine was not able to hoist and pump at the same time, being forced to suspend one operation, while carrying on the other.

With the aid of charts purporting to show the conditions on March 1, 1906, and March 1, 1907, Callahan described minutely the underground conditions and the changes that took place during the year. He said all levels, excepting the 450 and the 500-foot levels were caved in and open only ten or twelve feet from the shaft. A raise between the 450 and 500-foot levels was clear and there most of the work was carried on during the year. When he first went to work, the men were stoping on both sides of the raise.

During the year, the 450-foot level was cleared out to the Niagara property and on the 500-foot level, a drift was driven on the footwall at the end of the drift. On the 450-foot level, a drift was driven south thirty-eight feet. The shaft was also sunk about seventy-five feet deeper and the entire shaft was retimbered.

Saw No Copper Ore.

Mr. Callahan's testimony on ores was vigorously protested against by Mr. Hollister on the grounds that he had shown no competence to judge. The testimony was admitted, however. He said galena, pink magnesia, zinc and silver ores were found, but they were allowed to go through with the dirt, there not being quantity enough to warrant separation. He said he saw no copper ore while he was there. Blasting pulverized the ore, he said, and mixed it with the dirt. Callahan was not allowed to say whether or not the copper levels were worked out.

HARDING WAS IN RIGHT MIND

Court Holds Sale of Land to B. J. Forrestal Was Legal.

A case which attracted considerable interest in Duluth and Superior last year was brought to an end in Judge Dibell's court yesterday afternoon, when it was held that Stephen R. Harding was not insane when he sold a tract of land near Tower to B. F. Forrestal, and the sale was therefore legal.

The land, which is supposed to contain valuable mineral deposits, was sold to Forrestal by Harding in 1902 for a small sum. Five years later Harding, who had meantime been to a sanitarium, claimed that he was not in his right mind when the sale was made, and sought to have it annulled.

The case was argued before Judge Dibell by the attorney for Forrestal, and the decision was little more than a satisfaction of a former settlement of the case.

BOOM LAND BEYOND THE MISSISSIPPI.

San Francisco, Oct. 7.—The second day of the Trans-Mississippi commercial congress proved busy and numerous speakers addressed the delegates, who accorded strict attention to the important subjects discussed. J. C. Stubbs, director of traffic of over 16,000 miles of Harriman railroads, was one of the speakers, his subject being "Transportation." Mr. Stubbs spoke at the request of Mr. Harriman, and went into the relation of railroads to the work of developing the Trans-Mississippi country very fully. Dr. Benjamin Ide Wheeler, president of the University of California, also addressed the meeting, his subject being "West of the Mississippi River; What Does it Mean?" Col. Fred W. Fleming of Kansas City, took for his subject "Western Insurance," while Governor Cutler of Utah and ex-Governor Pardee of California, both paid attention to "The Conservation of Natural Resources."

Attorney General Dickinson of Colorado, speaking on the topic, "Irrigation and Disposition of Public Lands," drew the attention of the meeting to the importance of guarding government lands from too free distribution.

MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP

Council Legislative Committee Preparing Bill for Legislature.

Provides for City Ownership of Many Public Utilities.

The legislative committee of the common council held a meeting last evening and discussed provisions to be inserted in a municipal ownership bill which it is proposed to submit to the legislature at the next session.

Legislative candidates will be approached in regard to the matter, and will be asked to pledge their support to the measure. Any one refusing this support very probably will be branded as unfaithful to his public duty, and it is understood an effort may be made to defeat him at the polls. The general sentiment in Duluth, however, appears to be in favor of having the proposed bill become a law, and there is little chance that any of the legislators from this district will be inclined to cast their vote against it.

The proposition to have the city acquire its own electric lighting plant, and operate it under the municipal ownership plan, is what started the movement for the new legislation. There is a movement on foot to have Duluth buy an electric lighting plant, and run it along the same lines as the water and gas plants. The bill, however, will have greater scope than this, and will provide for the municipal ownership and operation of lighting plants, telephone plants and public utilities in general.

The matter was brought before the council by Alderman McKnight. Before the city can own its own electric lighting plant an enabling act similar to the one under consideration must be passed.

SLAYS NINETEEN BEARS.

Northern Roseau County Hunter Makes Great Killing.

America, Minn., Oct. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Big game is becoming more numerous in the vicinity of the Lake of the Woods. More members of the bear family have been killed this season in Eastern Roseau county than in many years. Charles McLane of Warroad already has nineteen black bears to his credit, all killed by him in the rocky fastnesses bordering the northwest shore of the Lake of the Woods.

That the numerous forest fires are in part responsible for the increased number of bears in this section is probable, although black bear, with an occassional brown bear, have been frequently seen during the summer month preceding the forest fires.

Moose and deer are also apparently increasing in numbers and may frequently be sen passing through the clearings of the settlers here.

The northern section of Roseau county will, undoubtedly, long continue the sportsman's paradise for big game owing to its close proximity to the great natural game reserves of Southern Canada.

DANCING BEFORE ALTAR.

Observance of Curious Custom in Seville Cathedral.

Not one of the many relics of the Middle Ages, with which Spain still abounds, is more curious than the dancing before the altar which takes place every evening during the octaves of the Immaculate Conception (December 8 to 15) and Corpus Domini (three weeks after Ascension day) in the cathedral of Seville.

This church is the largest Gothic cathedral in the world. It is lit by no fewer than ninety-three windows and is a veritable museum of art, but the crowning glory of this venerable pile is its fifteenth and sixteenth century stained glass, the designing of which is upon doubtful authority ascribed to Raphael, Titian and Michael Angelo. It is within this wonderful edifice, says the Pall Mall Gazette, that takes place the most quaint ritual of all Christendom.

The dance is performed by two rows of choristers or seises, numbering ten or twelve (formerly it was six), wearing plumed hats and dressed as pages of the time of Philip III; the colors of the clothes vary; for the octave of Corpus Domini they are red and white, while blue and white are worn during the Immaculate Conception. To the slow music of violins this dance (which is a sort of minuet) is solemnly performed, devoid of all irreverence and levity.

At the December festival the vast church is in darkness, save for the lights of the high altar, and the effect is consequently most impressive. The chants which the choristers break out into merely add to the solemnity of the occasion, which is not in the least degree lessened by the sound of the castanets the seises play. There are two sets of music, and they are used upon alternate evenings, the sale of which is jealousy guarded against by the chapter.

A legend says this singular ritual originated at the time of the siege of Seville by some boys going out to Alcala, where they danced before the Moorish army, which they so delighted that they were able to detain them while the Spaniards manned the walls; but really the origin of this "dancing" is quite obscure.

Another interesting legend relates that a certain archbishop of Seville about 200 years ago wished to suppress this ritual, but the citizens, together with the canons, gave such opposition that there was quite a tumult, and the matter was referred to Rome. The pope of that time wishing to see the dance, the choristers were taken to the Eternal City, where they performed before the head of Christendom, who merely laughed, but to please the archbishop and at the same time to appease the canons he said the dancing might continue until the clothes were worn out; to avoid this the dresses, which are of striped silk, have always been partially restored at a time, and they now bid fair to last forever.

The other legends are connected with the Jews of Toledo, who formed the only community of mediaeval Europe that was not confined to a Ghetto, with all its persecuting regulations. One of the reasons given for this is that at the time of the Crucifixion, or a little before, the Sanhedrin of Jerusalem sent around to all the Jewish colonies asking whether or not the Christ was the long expected Messiah, and the Jews of this city were the only ones who returned an affirmative answer, for which they received their freedom. Another legend says the cause of this singular circumstance was that when the Christians endeavored to confine these Jews to a Ghetto the latter proved that before the Crucifixion their ancestors were living in Toledo and so they were guiltless of that crime.

THE OFFICE SEEKER'S EPITAPH.

Secretary Cortelyou was elaborating his recent epigram, "Politics is a Duty." With a smile he said:

"I don't mean by politics spoil hunting and office seeking. Politics is a good and honorable word. It is a shame to have degraded it. We should try and uplift it again to its right place."

He paused, then went on:

"Hilary Harkness was a politician of the lowest type, and unsuccessful at that. His whole life was devoted to office seeking; he spent thirty-seven years vainly seeking a $5,000 office—hours, 10 till 12—while his wife and daughter supported him by keeping a candy shop.

"Well, Hilary died at last. A modest shaft was put above his remains, and the executor asked the editor to suggest an epitaph to go upon the shaft.

"The editor thought a moment. Then he smiled, and slipping a sheet of paper in his typewriter, he clicked off: 'Here lies Hilary Harkness, in the only place for which he never applied.'"

THE Imperial Universal BASE BURNER

The Finest Hard Coal Base Burner Made—It Has Over 300 More Square Inches of Radiating Surface Than Any Other Base Burner.

And the greater the source of radiation the greater the heating power of the stove. In the Universal, as in no other three-flue stove, the flues that remove the cold air from the floor are entirely surrounded by hot air flues—no outside cold air to work against the stove.

The cut illustrates the advantages and increased heating capacity of the flue construction in the Imperial Universal. The heat travels down the two descending flues around both sides of the bottom to the extreme front of same, there uniting and returning through the center bottom flue and up the ascending back flue, thus being equally distributed over the entire back and bottom and giving it more direct radiating surface than any other Base Burner.

The hot air circulating flues are between the descending and ascending back flues, and the heat passes over all four sides of same, which is a feature found only on the Imperial Universal, and greatly increases the hot air circulation, making it the best floor heater ever made.

Read what Mr. A. Asher of Proctor says regarding his Imperial Universal

I have used the Imperial Universal Base Burner in my home now two seasons and I can highly recommend it to others. It is a fuel saver and a good heater and always looks nice. As for the nickel, I think it has no equal. It is easy to clean and never tarnishes. The Universal heater will pay for itself in a short time in fuel. Yours truly,
A. ASHER, Proctor, Minn.

The Owen DAVENO

The cut represents one style of this new style of Davenport—that looks and appears exactly like a Davenport, but contains a full size bed. It's the only article of its kind when in use as a Davenport that does not have the least appearance of a Bed Devenport. In the Daveno you simply lift the back, pull up the seat and you have your bed already made, for mattress, bed clothes, pillows and all roll up when not in use. In the Daveno you have separate Bed and Seat Springs and do not sleep on the upholstering—so your Daveno will give you double the wear any ordinary bed sofa would give.

The Daveno is low priced and the most serviceable article of the kind made.

It comes in many most attractive styles.

Viking Sectional Book Case

The Viking is the case of all sectional bookcases—it's finely finished, cabinet work is the very best—it is made in many different styles and all woods, mahogany, mahogany finish, oak in golden, early English, fumed, waxed, etc.

The sections fit perfectly, have patent non-binding doors and are dust proof.

If you would have the best the market affords make it a Viking.

WHAT ABOUT JACOBSON?

The platform of the Republican party in this state declares for the proposed tax amendment to the constitution. The platform of the Democratic party also declares for it.

The News Tribune has "bolted" its platform so far as that item is concerned, and is now busily making votes for the amendment by its arguments against it. It accuses The Herald of "standing upon the Democratic platform" including this feature of it, which is, of course, untrue. The Herald does not believe that the tax amendment should be adopted, but it has refrained from unnecessary discussion of the amendment because opposition to it from this section of the state is certain to be misunderstood in the rest of the state, which has been misled by J. F. Jacobson into an intense prejudice against this county and its interests.

Because the Democratic state convention fell into the error that the Republican state convention did in advocating the tax amendment, the News Tribune affects to believe that Governor Johnson advocates a tonnage tax on iron ore. He has, it is true, vigorously advocated the enforcement of a fair deal in taxation. He believes that the large interests should pay their just share of the burden of government; and during his administration more has been done to bring about equality in taxation than was done in any ten years prior to his election. But his advocacy has gone only to the results desired, not to the means of attaining them. The object has been attained by increasing the valuation of the iron mines, an increase which the iron interests have accepted. For the consideration of means, under his administration a tax commission has been created, upon which he has appointed men fully capably of determining what measures shall be adopted to bring about fair and equal taxation of all sections and all interests.

But throughout his career Governor Johnson has fully recognized the fact that St. Louis county is a part of the state of Minnesota, and an important part; therefore he has been its friend and well-wisher. He has actively supported progressive measures for the development of Northern Minnesota, and at his recommendation the legislature has adopted many such measures.

On the other hand, throughout his official career, during which he made the record upon which he is now standing for election, Candidate Jacobson was a bitter and relentless enemy of St. Louis county and Northern Minnesota. He persistently advocated the tonnage tax in its most mischievous and impractical forms; he opposed everything that this section needed, and favored everything that promised it harm.

The issue in the state campaign is simply this: do the people wish John A. Johnson or J. F. Jacobson for governor? The people must judge between these two men upon their records and upon the policies they have advocated. Governor Johnson has represented the whole state, and has worked for the best interests of all sections. Candidate Jacobson has worked for his particular section of the state and against this particular section of the state. The Herald knows of no reason why Jacobson should get a single vote in Northern Minnesota. Does the News Tribune know any such reason? And if it does, why does it not give it public expression?

WHY NOT MORE OF THE SAME?

When the 2-cent postage rate between Great Britain and the United States went into effect Oct. 1, on which date the rate was cut from 5 cents, there was a rush of mail out of New York for England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales that swamped the facilities of the New York postoffice, great as they are. Early on the morning of the first day of the new rate there had already been accumulated in the postoffice and its branches the largest amount of mail matter for those countries ever received in a single day. The dumping process began a minute after midnight. A large number of business houses with connections in the British Isles kept clerks on hand until midnight to post their British letters. These houses, wth an eye to the saving of 3 cents on each letter, had been accumulating their mail for several days to wait until the new rate went into effect.

The reduction not only represents an immense saving to those doing business with the United Kingdom, but it means a tremendous impetus to postal traffic that cannot fail to make the new rate nearly as profitable to the postoffice department as the old rate. The reduction of the letter postage in this country from 3 cents to 2 cents per ounce was not followed by a reduction of one-third in the receipts. Enough more letters were sent at the lower rate to offset the cut in postage.

The result of the new British rate will provide much argument for those who favor further reductions in the foreign postage charges and quite as much for those who favor reductions in domestic rates. Those who advocate penny postage for letters in this country confidently assert that the increased business will make up for the reduced rate, and that the postoffice system will profit by it instead of losing.

The argument in behalf of the extension of the parcels post system is even stronger. Now this country has a parcels post, but one can send no more than four pounds in a parcel, and the rate is 16 cents per pound; while to most foreign countries one may send eleven pounds for 12 cents per pound. It requires no argument to convince anybody that if the domestic parcels post is put upon the same basis as the foreign parcels post, so that parcels may be sent from Duluth to Cloquet upon the same basis as parcels sent from Duluth to Liverpool, the business of the postoffice department would be tremendously and profitably increased.

It is not profits for the postoffice department that are sought, but better service for the American people. The postoffice was never designed to make money; and it is only through lax management, due to the influence of railroad, express and other interests, that it now loses money. If railroad rates for carrying the mails were made what they ought to be, and if the parcels post were so contrived as to be really serviceable to the people, there would be better and cheaper service, and the department would come out even at the end of each year.

FACETIOUS MR. HEARST.

Another funny thing in this very funny campaign is the new attitude of Mr. Hearst, who stirred up the recent rumpus which rescued the campaign from the doldrums, and who set the leaders of both parties together by the ears and left them throwing verbal brickbats at one another with all their might and main.

Now Mr. Hearst affects to be horrified and dismayed by this spectacle of grave and dignified leaders of the two old parties engaged in such unseemly brawls. Says his New York American:

"The American feels compelled to come to the public's defense. The verbal bickerings and rock-throwings of Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Bryan and Mr. Taft are as deplorable as they are unseemly. The campaign would have been cleaner and therefore better if they had been omitted along with Mr. Bryan's 'omitted' issues."

There! Isn't that magnificent? The Yellow Kid sneaks into a dignified and soporific presidential campaign which is progressing in a quiet and stately manner, and by the most approved farce-comedy tricks, like sticking pins into one and making him think another did it, sets the leaders at loggerheads and stirs the stage into tumultuous action, and then, chuckling in his sleeve, goes off in a corner and says, with mock horror, how shameful it is that such eminent and dignified gentlemen should behave in such an unseemly manner.

Says the American—and you can imagine the editorial writer squirming with suppressed merriment as he pounded it out of his typewriter: "This paper would take little notice of the rough-and-tumble work of these gentlemen were it not for the public place they hold. But there is, under the circumstances, a word or so to be said for the decorous. The good feeling of the public has been and is being trespassed against by the worse than undignified bickerings which now vex the campaign air. The White House is no bone to be barked and growled and wrangled over. Aside from every other light in which it may be viewed, it is the highest visible token of the natonal self-respect. It is not fitting, therefore, as the thing calculated to leave a bad taste on the popular tongue that Mr. Roosevelt, who has it, and Mr. Taft and Mr. Bryan, who want it, should fall to fighting about its next ownership like butchers at a fair."

This is good. It is, indeed, sublime—for its effrontery and its audacity, qualities in which Mr. Hearst has always exceeded. His newspaper then goes on to compare the "wrangling" Roosevelt, Taft and Bryan with his own candidate, Hisgen, whom he alleges to be pursuing a calm, dignified and intelligent campaign. May be he is; we haven't heard from him lately; for if Taft is overshadowed by Roosevelt, Hisgen is submerged and overwhelmed and plastered with insignificance in the shadow of Hearst, who is making an amazing progress about the country, armed with stolen and purchased letters which have turned out to be highly explosive and most effective bombs.

Hearst complaining of a lack of dignity in the men whom he has set to wrangling is a very choice campaign picture; especially as both Mr. Taft and Mr. Bryan, in spite of all Hearst's provocation, seem to be behaving very much like the gentlemen they are.

JUST SUPPOSING.

Suppose a man had been for many years opposing you at every turn—defeating your fondest hopes, injuring your business, and generally making himself an obstacle in your path, apparently out of pure mischief and prejudice.

Suppose during all that time you had learned to despise him for his narrowness and vengefulness; suppose his hate had aroused your hate, and his venom had inspired your hostility.

Suppose this man suddenly made up his mind that he wanted an important position which he couldn't get without your indorsement, a position in which his opportunities for mischief, not only against you but against others, would be multplied enormously.

Suppose he came to you and asked for your support, and you said: "How about what you have been doing to me all these years? Are you going to keep it up?" and he replied, stiffly and evasively: "I stand on my record."

Would you help him get that position?

You wouldn't be justified, perhaps, in withholding your support merely on personal grounds if he were the best available man for the place. But suppose the place he sought were already filled by a splendid man who had done excellently well there, and who had, moreover, been your friend throughout. Suppose your experience with the fellow who sought to get this good man out and himself in were such as to lead you to believe that he was not fitted, on account of his narrowness and prejudice, to fill the place. What would you do then? You would give your support to the good man, your friend, who was already in the place, and your opposition to the inferior man, your enemy, who sought it, wouldn't you?

Well, that is about the situation between Northern Minnesota and J. F. Jacobson, the Republican candidate for governor against Governor John A. Johnson. Johnson has done excellently well and has made good; moreover, he has been a friend to Northern Minnesota, and has supported and urged legislation that benefited it, such as drainage, good roads and other projects looking toward state development.

On the other hand, Jacobson has opposed all these measures, and has supported and initiated measures promising vast mischief to Northern Minnesota. He has opposed drainage, he has opposed state development if it cost a penny of state money, he has supported the tonnage tax and other proposals that would have hurt this part of the state. He fought the Duluth normal school at every foot of its perilous passage through three sessions of the legislature. He fought all attempts to induce the smelting of iron ore in this state, first when it was proposed to rebate the state royalties on ore smelted here, and next when it was proposed to offer a bounty to encourage the manufacture of iron in Minnesota.

Yet after all that, he asks Northern Minnesota for its votes, and, curiously enough, he has found Northern Minnesota men and Northern Minnesota newspapers to support his candidacy. Queer, isn't it?

Is the keynote to the change in Jacobson, from the doughty and shrill-voiced champion of the people to the silent and suppliant beneficiary of the corporations and the bosses, to be found in his acceptance of passes at a point midway between his legislative service and his candidacy for governor?

HOTEL GOSSIP.

One of the citizens of the then wild and woolly Deadwood, S. D., were for two whole days held in breathless suspense, awaiting the arrival of a circus. At that time the citizens of Deadwood had never seen a regular circus and they were all wrought up about the splendors of the show that was coming to their town. There hadn't been any excitement since the last lynching bee, and as those little affairs were beginning to pall on the inhabitants, they looked longingly in the direction of the setting sun for the appearance of the circus cavalcade.

But, lo and behold, the circus did not put in an appearance. The citizens were grieviously disappointed; some drowned their disappointment in strong drink, such as was kept at Deadwood at that time; altogether, the town was steeped in gloom.

James H. Dunworth, a theatrical man at the St. Louis hotel, was with the circus that so suddenly put the blink upon the pent up enthusiasm of the Deadwoodites. He was telling yesterday why the circus failed to keep faith and get into Deadwood, as per schedule.

"It wasn't our fault. That is, the fault did not lie with the men who were with the circus," he said. "It was the first circus that ever played Deadwood. There were no railroads in Deadwood at that time. We had to trail cross country, taking all of the tents and properties in wagons.

"We were keeping up with our schedule all right, when suddenly an accident that caused our delay occurred. It couldn't exactly be called an accident; yet, just the same, it was in many respects much worse than an accident. "You know that elephants are very fond of water. It might be said in this respect, that they created much wonder in Deadwood. As I said, we were keeping up with our schedule, though the trail led over some very rough country. It was awfully hot. In fact, it was so hot and parchy that many of us thought that we would never get to Deadwood. Suddenly, the river Platte hove in sight, the murky, undulating, sluggish stream looking beautiful to the hot and tored circus people. We were overjoyed to behold a stream of water in that parching prairie. But our joy was destined to be short-lived.

"The elephants sighted the water and gave a joyous roar. They made a dash for the river and were soon wallowing in the muddy depths of the stream. We'd made up our minds to camp by the river for about an hour and then move on toward Deadwood. That is what we had intended to do; the elephants changed our plans.

"The keepers were instructed to get the beasts out of the water. We were all ready to start, and as our time was limited, the delay of the big beasts called down curses upon the heads of the kepers. The elephant trainers worked like Trojans to get the beasts out of the cool water, but it was of no avail. They refused to come out.

"There we remained for two days. Early in the morning of each day we would race old Sol from cover, hoping to see the elephants standing quietly on terra firma. Each morning we were doomed to disappointment. The manager, Johnny McMahon, one of the old-time circus owners, was Irish, as you may guess, and he had a picturesque flow of language that, if printed in book form, would have been barred from the public libraries. He swore for five minutes upon the morning of the second day, without repeating himself, when he arose at an early hour to see the huge beasts settled comfortably in the mud and water, throwing sand into the air and snorting with enjoyment.

"Late that afternoon we succeeded in getting the animals out of the river, and the circus cavalcade started on the way to Deadwood. It didn't turn out so bad, though, after all. The natives were so consumed with curiosity that they turned out in droves to find out what had detained us. We drew a big crowd, but as long as I live I shall never forget those two strenuous days that we spent by the murky river Platte."

Ideal Newspapes.

"A New York Editor" in the October Atlantic: What the public wants is an independent newspaper. The reader will tolerate, and like, any amount of teaching tactfully and modestly offered. He will not be preached at or bullied. It is really rather a matter of directing public thought up right lines than of indicating new and experimental policies. The newspaper, indeed, should be critical rather than constructive. Our Constitution provides for three distinct functions of government—legislative, judicial and executive; and it is the duty of what is correctly called, in England, the fourth estate of the realm, to provide the fourth necessity, healthy criticism for all three.

It follows that a newspaper may criticise a verdict or a decision of the courts, but must not meddle with the proper and lawful handling of a case on trial. In the same way, the newspaper should watch, where corrupt legislation can be defeated, in order to drag it out into that dry light where the air is always too strong for its lungs. The legislators must do the rest, and it is the business of the newspaper to hold them to their duty.

In like manner, the fullest publicity is one of the most valuable checks upon the acts of any executive officer. We know that the balance was most delicately adjusted by the framers of the Constitution, and in this department there is a continual tendency to usurp the functions of the other two. Nothing could be better for political morals than the way in which newspapers have emphasized the correct attitude of Governor Hughes in confining himself strictly to his business, holding the other departments of our constitutional government strictly responsible for theirs.

THE WEATHER.

It turned colder last night, and this morning it was bracing and invigorating, with a brisk northwest wind driving the chill home unless you kept moving rapidly. Last night the thermometer got down to 38 degs., and yesterday's highest was 56 degs. The weather man says it will freeze tonight, but that conditions will be fair tonight and tomorrow. A year ago today it was cloudy and unsettled. The sun rose this morning at 6:15 and sets tonight at 5:37, making 11 hours and 22 minutes of sunlight.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "The distribution of barometric pressure is about the samo this morning as it was Tuesday evening, high over the North Atlantic states and the Extreme West and low north of Lake Superior and to the southward of Arizona and Florida. The depressions referred to caused some rain over Southern Florida, the western lake region, Manitoba, Nebraska and Eastern Texas during the past twenty-four hours, while the high and rising pressure in the West are responsible for somewhat colder weather in the lake region, Red River, Missouri and Upper Mississippi valleys. Freezing temperatures prevail in Eastern Washington, Idaho, Wyoming and the Red River valley. Fair and rather chilly weather may be expected at the Head of the Lakes tonight and Thursday."

Following were last night's lowest temperatures:

Lamentible, But Probably True.

Marshall News-Messenger (Rep.): It may not be humiliating to the Pioneer Press, but it ought to be for the great Republican party, that there are no issues between the two dominant parties in this state in the present campaign. The Pioneer Press says editorially that there are no issues between the parties, and that the official spoils to be distributed by the incoming governor is the only question to be considered by the voters of the state! Hence, all Republicans should vote the Republican ticket in order to secure the spoils. Even the shadow of old Joe Wheelock would not have admitted such a condition, even if it existed. He would have made issues and would have defended them. It is true that the Republican convention omitted the three great questions before the public, those of county option, tonnage tax on iron ore, and regulation of the railroads, and did so because the liquor interests and steel trust and railroad monopolies controlled the convention and the nomination of its candidates. But as Taft was greater than his party and made a platform of his own, so Jacobson, in one particular at least, is greater than the state party, for he has openly avowed that he is for county option, and will sign such a bill if it passes the legislature. And Jacobson further says that he stands for all the reform measures he advocates when in the legislature, except such as changing conditions in the passage of years have relegated to the rear. What more does the Pioneer Press want?

A Strictly Confidential Letter.

Dear Friends: I take my pen in hand
To let you know just how I stand
Since Hearst, to knock you fellows out,
Has given me a a fearful clout.
By Greece! that man should be in jail
For tampering with my portrate mail.
I stand—well, I don't stand at all;
I'm flattened out beneath the maul
That drops on him who thinks he can Put down in black and white a plan
By which his special interest may
Be handled so that it will pay;
A pleasant plan in which to mix
His business and his politics.
Oh, say, dear friends, I ask of you
What is our country coming to
When men of means who try to rise
Above all low-browed enterprise
To higher things, to wider scope,
Are handed out this sort of dope?
Dear partners in my little game,
Forgive me, I am all to blame;
I should have known what dangers lurk
In every line of letter work—
I did not know, friends; of course I knew,
But zeal my common sense outgrew.
I should have seen you quite alone,
Or whispered to you on the 'phone;
I've seen the harm that letters do—
Curse me for having written you.
Ah, me! what wrath in them is stored!
The pen is smitier than the sword.
Please burn this letter, every bit;
I have not copy here of it.
That may be stolen, read or sold.
Your friend in need, John D. Archbold.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1888.

Jim Fell and J. W. Curtis were to have a ten-round contest at the People's theater last night, but Curtis was evidently afraid and the exhibition was miserable. Fell was awarded the fight.

Monday, Oct. 18, has been decided upon as the date for the annual donation for St. Luke's hospital. There are now fifty-seven patients at the hospital.

The case of Thomas Feigh against the Iron Range road, an appeal from an award for twenty-two acres of land at Two Harbors, was decided by a jury in the district court in favor of Feigh, the jury appraising the value of the land at $16,000. The commissioners who appraised it some time ago set the value at $3,000. It is understood that the railroad will now abandon all claim to the land.

Fifth and Sixth avenues west and Sixth avenue east are being graded in a new manner, a grass plat eight feet wide being left between the sidewalks and the gutters. A roadway twenty-eight feet wide is left in the center.

Miss Fanny Kelley, who has been spending the summer with her aunt, Mrs. C. E. Judd, returned to her home in St. Paul yesterday.

There was an enthusiastic rally at the Republican headquarters in the St. Louis building last evening. Addresses were made by Col. C. H. Graves, J. L. Morrow, H. C. Kendall, G. G. Hartiel and others.

Miss Sargent of Methen, Mass., sister of Mrs. W. A. McGonagle, died here on Oct. 5 after a short illness.

S. H. Rothermel, while excavating for a sewer at Second street and First avenue east, came across a pipe of the original Duluth waterworks system. It was a cedar log with 2-inch hole and has been in place for eighteen years. These primeval waterworks were installed in 1870, starting at a little reservoir built on Brewery creek above Sixth street and running down the hill as far as First street. Maj. Selp, as old residents will remember, had a fountain in his yard on East First street fed from this pipe. It was laid two feet below the surface and was in good condition for several years.

The event of the season in Duluth musical circles will be the appearance of Miss Emma Juch at the opera house tomorrow evening in a concert, supported by Adele Au de Ohe, pianist; Miss Rosa Linde, contralto; William J. Lairn, tenor; Signor Clement Bologna, basso; Victor Herbert, violincello and musical director.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Red Lake Falls Gazette: Frank Eddy charged in a speech at Morris recently that Governor Johnson as senator had voted against the gross earnings bill. The charge was so obviously untrue that it was felt by the Jacobson manager that to offset its effect a denial, no matter how obscure, must be made. And so Eddy gathered about him Hugh Halbert, and a half dozen other Roosevelt club golf players, and retracted it. Of course the fact that the original lie was told in an intelligent and aggressive community like Morris, before a large audience, and was widely circulated by a partisan press, was completely offset when Halbert and the golf club were enlightened.

Winona Independent: Mr. Chafin, the nominee of the Prohibition party for president, refers to Taft as a fearless candidate, Bryan the peerless candidate, and himself as the beerless candidate. He might also have included the sadvisaged Tom Watson as the cheerless candidate.

Wahkon Enterprise: "The voice of the people" has been heard, and it was quite emphatic. Now let us "get wise" and "love one another."

Waverly Star: The quick response to the appeal of Governor Johnson for the fire sufferers on the iron range brings to view the sympathetic feeling and generosity stored away in the heart of the average Minnesotan.

Elk River Star-News: Young Mr. Hearst with his Independent party is kicking up a nasty muss all down the line. While he is ostensibly trying to defeat the Democratic ticket, he is doing about as much damage one way as another. Hearst isn't a very reliable sort of statesman to follow blindly.

New Ulm Review: Congressman J. Adam Bede complains that Speaker Joe Cannon had no business to come into his district and fun against him. There will be others to complain like Bede after the 3rd of November.

Waseca Herald: Mr. Taft in a recent speech, while he condemned the legal guarantee of bank deposits against loss by the government tax on deposits, admitted that it would be a good thing if the banks would voluntarily create such a fund. This is queer logic. If the scheme is bad and vicious and should not be enforced, why should it be permitted? Is "reckless banking" desirable—if the banks want it? Should banks be given authority to do, if they wish, that which would be a "grave menace to stable banking" and a "risk to the business community?" If the policy is right, why not enforce it? If wrong, why permit it?

Winona Independent: Even Debs is talking to crowded houses.

Albert Lea Standard: Don't be troubled with scares of disaster to business if this or that man is elected president. Both of the leading candidates love their country as well as do any of us, and either will join all the rest and do his best for prosperity and the country's good. Hurrah for Uncle Sam!

Telephones in the Election.

Boston Transcript: If the coming presidential election should prove a close one, the value of the telephone a reporting agency in getting the returns would be a noticibly important factor. Great progress in this respect has been made in the last four years. In the recent Maine election, for example, by midnight on Monday, 90 per cent. of the towns, cities and plantations of the state had been heard from, covering 98 per cent. of the total vote—something hitherto unheard of in that state. All that remained out of reach of the telephone were some of the islands along the coast and some extreme backwoods points to which the wire had not yet been strung. Connecticut was the first state to exemplify telephone reporting. Two years ago its returns, which came in the evening, proved within 200 votes of the official count subsequently made.

MEANT TO BE FUNNY.

Puck: "What! Divorced already! Why, I thought they'd be linked for life."

Philadelphia Inquirer: Teacher—If you are kind and polite to your playmates, what will be the result?

Scholar—They'll think they can llok me.

Chicago Daily News: Chappie—Have a cigarette, old man?

Sapleigh—No; I don't smoke foolkillers.

Chappie—Well, I don't blame you for refusing to take chances.

Moody's Magazine: Doctor—I diagnose all sickness from the patient's eyes. Now, your right eye tells me that your kidneys are affected.

Harper's Bazar: The Mistress—What, Suzanne, going to leave me? Going to get married? This is most unexpected.

The French Maid—Oui, madam, but eet ees not my fault. Eet was only last night zat your son proposed to me.

Washington Star: "Yes," said the eminent physician, "we are doing much to prolong human life."

"I'm glad to hear it," answered Mr. Sirius Barker. "By prolonging life you give a man more time and opportunity to get together the amount of your bill."

Brooklyn Life: "Norah, didn't I tell you that I wanted a pitcher of ice water the first thing in the morning?" asked Mrs. Ganson.

"Yis, mum, ye did," replied the new maid, "an' to make sure thot ye'd get it th' first thing I left it in front of th' dure last night."

Chicago Tribune: Mr. Lingerlong—I had a queer adventure this afternoon, Miss de Muir (with a swift glance at the clock)—You mean yesterday afternoon, I presume.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "Did your ancestors have a family tree, Mr. Maguire?"

"Family tree it is, ma'am! One of me ancestors controlled th' intire timber privilege of the Garden of Eden."

Reflections of a Bachelor.

Women pretend to like charity, but they admire the brutal man.

INSIDE STORY OF WOE OF BULGARIA

BY HER MINISTER OF FOREIGN AFFAIRS

Sofia, Oct. 7.—M. Porikoff, Bulgarian minister of foreign affairs, has given a statement to the Associated Press with an authoritative explanation of the Bulgarian situation, now absorbing the attention of Europe and the world at large. It is in reply to a cablegram requesting M. Porikoff to send an official statement of the facts. His answer follows:

Pursuant to the treaty of Berlin, Bulgaria has been a principality tributary to Turkey. Many years ago Bulgaria acquired the right to have diplomatic representatives accredited to all the great powers. She maintained such a representative at Constantinople. Until recently the diplomatic representative of Bulgaria to Turkey was invited with the other members of the diplomatic corps in Constantinople to all official ceremonies, receptions and dinners. On the 12th of last September, the occasion being the anniversary of the sultan's birthday, the Turkish minister of foreign affairs gave a dinner to the diplomatic corps, to which the diplomatic representative of Bulgaria was not invited. Steps were at once taken to secure an explanation of this neglect. The Ottoman government replied that the Bulgarian representative had no right to expect an invitation to this diplomatic dinner, as Bulgaria was a vassal state of Turkey.

There then followed a diplomatic conflict between Bulgaria and Turkey, Bulgaria considered that Turkey was not respecting the rights acquired by her and she desired to defend these rights. This was the first incident.

The Oriental Railway company operate 200 kilometres (165 miles) of line in Bulgarian territory. The same company operates also about 1,000 kilometres (261 miles) of line in Turkish territory. A recent strike on the property of the Oriental Railroad company in Turkey spread at the same time to Bulgarian territory. This strike was decided upon and directed from outside of Bulgaria. Following an understanding with the representative of the Oriental railroad, the Bulgarian government took over temporarily the running of the road. The strike, however, spread until the national security of Bulgaria was threatened, and the people became discontented with the state of affairs.

It then became the duty of the Bulgarian government to continue running the road and we asked the company to sell us the rights in Bulgaria, in accordance with an understanding between the government and the company ten years ago. Turkey then pretended that the line was her property and in a note demanded that the line be returned to the company. The Bulgarian government replied that it would treat only with the company. This was the second conflict.

This situation imposed upon the Bulgarian government the necessity of fixing the relationship of the principalities and Turkey. The Turkey government made it impossible for Bulgaria to maintain the best relations with her neighbors.

Bulgaria understood clearly that the occupied provinces of Bosnia and Herzegovina and the general situation was such that Bulgaria was obliged, without delay, to declare her complete independence.

Consequently, Oct. 5, Bulgaria, was proclaimed an independent kingdom, and Prince Ferdinand accepted the title of king of Bulgaria. This act was communicated to all the great powers by proclamations declaring that Bulgaria was independent. Bulgaria has no aggressive aims. She has given regular form to a situation that already existed de facto.

RAILROAD EARNINGS

This Month Will Come Up to Last October's Records.

Less Than Five Per Cent of Rolling Stock Idle.

New York, Oct. 7.—Railway men seem to be satisfied that the present month will cause net earnings to come up to the records of last October and will probably place gross earnings very nearly to the highest of those of the same month. While October of 1907 witnessed the first stages of the financial depression, the villages of the country did not feel its effects to any extent until the close of November.

The following table gives the number of idle cars of the various dates, and is almost a perfect register of the intensity of the depression on the dates given.

It commences with Sept. 16, 1908, and shows the idle cars of the railways of the entire country to be but 8 per cent of the total number on that date:

| Date— | Cars Idle. | Pct. |
|---|---|---|
| Sept. 16, 1908 | 173,000 | 8 |
| Aug. 19 | 253,000 | 12 |
| July 22 | 308,000 | 14 |
| June 24 | 313,300 | 14 |
| May 27 | 381,900 | 17 |
| April 29 | 413,600 | 19 |
| March 18 | 297,000 | 13 |
| Feb. 19 | 322,500 | 14 |
| Jan. 22 | 342,000 | 15 |

April the Dullest Month.

By this it appears that April, 1908, was the dullest month in the transportation business of the United States and it also indubitably marks the recovery of business to an extent that will justify the railways in the increase of their forces in all lines of their operation. At this writing probably less than 5 per cent of the rolling stock of the railways is idle and a margin of 1 or 2 per cent is required to transact business without embarrassment or delay.

The end of the very warm weather and the setting in of the seasonable period of cool temperature has within the last week added thousands of cars to the active list, especially in the coal trade. It will be noticed that the percentage and numbers given prove a total of cars considrably above 2,000,000 in the country, a stupendous total, and when in motion representing an aggregate of business almost impossible to conceive in amount of daily tonnage and value.

The return of business to nearly former proportions is drawing again from Europe many of those who left the United States last winter, and the trans-Atlantic lines of steamships report that it is evident that this winter's list of immigrants will be large, and if no recession of business occurs in the meantime, the spring and summer will bring to them the larget number of passengers bound for the United States that they have ever had.

Gloomy in Great Britain.

The busines propects in Great Britain for the working class of people are very gloomy and it is estimated that the unemployed number fully 9 per cent. of the population. The piling up of idle funds in the banks of the United Kingdom comes not only from the increae of gold production, but from the nonuse of money by the manufacturers and other usually active employers of labor.

Autralia, New Zealand, Canada and the United States will all next year receive large numbers of English and Scotch as settlers and will be benefited by the young, active and worthy thousands that their mother country seems to be unable to sustain.

The majority of the ruling classes of the kingdom will see them depart with satisfaction, for they regard it as a social and industrial problem impossible for them to solve, and one exceedingly dangerous for the unemployed to solve if they continue in England.

It is well for English rulers and their subservient court followers and favorites that English, Irish and Scotch swarm so often to other hives and leave the old home unharmed by their desire for better and freer conditions. The French are "stay at homes," and when they have national house cleaning it is no place for children, and the whole world becomes quickly aware that the "Marseillaise" is in action.

It is the difference between the Latin and their own races and the innate respect for law and order; the hereditary submission to chief of the clan, to Knight of the shire, head of the family, earl, court and sovereign that saves the classes and orders of the United Kingdom from the fate of the French under Louis XVI.

Would Deem It Sacrilege.

The English workingman, even in his starvation, is proud of his country, and while bitter in his railings and outspoken as to the cause of his woes, would deem it sacrilege to raise his hand against his king or his country's laws. England is his home and he will go out to improve his condition, but will not attempt to forcibly change the laws of the land which he loves with the concentrated love of centuries and generations. He and his brothers of Ireland and Scotland are not satisfied this year, so during the winter and all of next year they will go out to other lands, help build them up, improving the lands and themselves at the same time, and the loss to Europe will be the gain of America and Australasia.

The announcement of the director of the mint that he would buy 125,000 ounces of silver last week and continue to buy a similar amount each week for an indefinite period, was good news to the silver producers, and will keep the metal from sagging to lower levels.

As trade improves and the masses of the people begin to earn money and spend it for necessities and comforts, the white metal plays a leading part once more. The director commences to buy none too soon, for the holiday season all over the country demands millions of dollars in halves, quarters and dimes to transact its affairs, and the mints will now have to be run steadily to provide the change for traders and shopkeepers.

The director announces he has but 5,000,000 ounces on hand, and that will not be nearly sufficient to provide the subsidiary coinage needed between this and Jan. 1. The purchase of 125,000 ounces per week will have little or no effect toward raising the price of silver in itself, but there are many indications that other countries are in similar position of the United States on subsidiary coinage, and will have to add largely to their stocks of minor coins. The aggregated amount of silver required for this purpose will probably raise the price somewhat, but the other countries will have to actually commence their purchases before the advance will be of importance to silver mine owners.

Spoke As Custodians.

The bankers at their convention at Denver last week placed their association on record as opposed to the postal savings bank system, and also to the bank guaranty of deposits. This action was perfectly natural and logical from the bankers' standpoint. They spoke as custodians of the people's funds, which deposits are the great earning power of the banks. These deposits are the stock in trade, the reason of the banks' existence and the source of the banker's profit.

To divert the dposits to postal savings banks would sadly interfere with profits, and to compel guaranty of deposits really makes bankers borrowers from the people. They are in actual practice, but to have to give guaranty for the people's money robs them of prestige and standing in the community and places them in an undesirable position as to control, supervision and regulation of their own affairs. The bankers' view will not prevail with the country in the end, for both postal savings system and some form of guaranty will be adopted by the congress, just as a parcel post is sure to become a part of the mail service, despite the opposition of the express companies. The people of the United States are earnestly progressive, and no interest nor combination of interests is strong enough to keep them chained to antiquated and costly methods of doing business. This campaign once over it will be seen that each of the parties has sent to congress a set of new men with advanced notions of reform and some old ones who have taken to heart the radical innovations now popular with their constituents. The business men of New York, regardless of political affiliation, recognize that the business world of today is at the opening of a new and broader era.

The many uses of Gold Dust

If you were to use for each kind of washing, cleaning, scouring and scrubbing, one of the so-called special preparations which are made, you would have an imposing and expensive array of chemicals, washing compounds, cleaning pastes, etc.

There is one cleaner that can take the place of them all, and without the need of borax, ammonia, kerosene or naphtha, and that is Gold Dust.

Can Sell Birds' Plumage.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 7.—Attorney General F. L. Gilbert ruled Monday that the game laws of Wisconsin do not prohibit the sale of plumage or bodies of birds not native of the state. The ruling was made in response to an inquiry from State Game Warden Stone.

GOAT INSTEAD OF TEDDY BEAR

Artist Failed to Get Copyright for Campaign Stuff.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 7.—Just how Francois D. Papin, 6128 Etzel avenue, did not get a goat copyrighted is the burden of this yarn. More properly it may be how Thorvald Solberg, register of copyrights asserted his political prejudice.

It started with the birth, in the aristocratic mind of Papin, artist, and inventor of an idea that the Teddy bear was a dead one and a Taft goat should crowd it out of the market—also that a Taft goat would be good campaign stuff. So Papin took his pencil and drew a goat rampant, standing on its hind legs, like a sign of spring and bock beer. After a blue print had been drawn, showing plans and specifications, very superior in creation and legal in text and texture, they were forwarded to the Patent Office.

But, alas, Papin did not count on the political prejudices of a sordid register of copyrights, Thorvald Solberg by name. Whatever else may have been done, this man Thorvald Solstrong for dignity. Roosevelt might drag the presidency through the gutter and sink the White House in the mire, but Solberg wasn't going to let Taft's name be abused or have him made the butt of a campaign by any St. Louis schemer with a taste for goats. The patent was refused.

Why He Admires Mr. Bryan.

To the Editor of The Herald:

The reason I admire Mr. Bryan is that I consider him a man in every sense of the term. I consider him an earnest and patriotic citizen, and a loyal American. He is a man of great ability. He has a wide knowledge of the world's progress and requirements. He is well posted in the government and policies of the different countries of the world. He is a very gifted and eloquent orator and he is a pleasing writer. He is a man that has traveled all over the world, and has won the admiration of people wherever he has gone and has been accorded great courtesy and honor as well. He is for the upbuilding and welfare of our country. Mr. Bryan is not an aristocrat; he is just a plain American citizen. He is loyal to his party and his country. He has been the means of bringing the Democratic party to a better understanding. He is making friends and drawing different factions of Democracy nearer together, and in my humble opinion he will lead them to victory and will be a leader and ruler of whom every American can be justly proud. Yours truly,

CHARLES A. HARRIS.

FIND CLUB NAILED UP

Members of Crookston Organization Given an Odd Experience.

Climb Up Ladder to Get Into Their Spacious Club Rooms.

Crookston, Minn., Oct. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—There were things doing at the Crookston club Tuesday night. When President Claude Carpenter, Secretary D. McDonald and their friends reached the clubrooms in the McKenzie block adjoining the Palace hotel, they were thunderstruck to find the door nailed up.

The construction of the building is peculiar in that when it was built there was no stairway provided leading to the second floor of the McKenzie block, the entrance having been from the end of the hallway of the Palace hotel. The lessees of the Palace hotel notified the owner, Dan McKinnon, that they wanted the door leading to the McKenzie block closed, and it was forthwith done. The only way the splendid clubrooms could be reached, therefore, was by a ladder from the ground at the rear, and this plan was adopted. Every member of the Crookston club heard of what had occurred and forthwith "shinned" up the ladder to see what was going on. As a result there was an all night's session, and it is rumored that some of the guests at the hotel were more disturbed by the singing than they would have been by the ordinary tramping through the hall. This morning, however, to remedy the difficulty, a crew of carpenters were set to work erecting a stairway which will give the members of the Crookston club access to their rooms.

The firm of W. S. Lycan & Co. has been dissolved by mutual consent. The firm consisted of W. S. Lycan of Crookston and his brother, F. S. Lycan of Bemidji. The Hotel Crookston was operated by the firm here, and the Hotel Markham at Bemidji. The Hotel Crookston will be handled in the future by W. S. Lycan and the Markham at Bemidji by F. S. Lycan.

CLUB WOMEN ARE HOLDING MEETING

Annual Gathering of Federation of Women's Clubs at St. Cloud.

St. Cloud, Minn., Oct. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Several hundred women are in the city in attendance upon the annual meeting of the Minnesota Federation of Women's clubs which began yesterday and will conclude tomorrow.

One of the important matters expected to be decided upon is that of asking the legislature for over $100,000 for the new state training school for girls, many contending the appropriation of $25,000 made by the last legislature too small.

Mrs. C. L. Atwood extended the greetings from St. Cloud to the convention after an invocation by Mrs. M. E. Lewis. Mrs. Higbee made the response, which was followed by the reports of the vice president at large, Mrs. G. O. Welch of Fergus Falls; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Alson Blodgett of Faribault; recording secretary, Mrs. C. E. Conant of Wells; auditor, Mrs. C. L. Atwood, St. Cloud; historian, Mrs. H. N. McKusick, Stillwater; custodian, Mrs. A. H. Snow of Winona.

The interesting feature of the report of the treasurer, Mrs. E. J. Lewis of Sauk Center, was the amount that has already been contributed to the Lydia Phillips Williams memorial scholarship, which is $528 and which will be larger still before the convention adjourns. The federation expenditures for the year were $771.28, which includes the $200 the federation contributed to the Lydia Phillips Williams memorial scholarship. The balance on hand at the close of the year was $574.12.

The history of the club work in Minnesota for the year was reviewed in the reports of the district vice presidents, and showed the varied lines of interest, anti-tuberculosis league, civic improvement, the public schools, juvenile court, and industrial conditions, as well as the more usual art, literature and travel. The reports were given by Mrs. C. S. Crandall of Owatonna for the first district; Mrs. T. C. Collins, Windom, second; Mrs. F. J. Wilcox, Northfield, third; Mrs. R. R. Dorr, St. Paul, fourth; Mrs. C. W. Wells, Minneapolis, fifth; Mrs. A. Barto, Sauk Center, sixth; Mrs. A. C. Peck, Morris, seventh; Mrs. B. L. Hollister, Aitkin, eighth; Mrs. S. A. Holmes, Moorhead.

Mrs. W. W. Smith is chairman of the executive committee, and the other women on the committee are Mesdames C. L. Atwood, A. L. Riley, R. L. Gale, W. L. Beebem, Fred Schilpiln and W. B. Mitchell.

REGULAR RIOT AT MADISON.

Town Boys Mistaken for College Youths and Fight Results.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 7.—Three town boys stabbed and nearly 100 students and townspeople bruised and suffering from minor injuries is the toll of a street fight which occurred Monday night on the edge of the Latin quarter here.

The fight started when two town boys were mistaken for freshmen and thrown into the lake by sophomores. Fully 1,000 participated in the fight. Two of the youths stabbed are a dry goods clerk and a high school pupil. The police were powerless. Mayor Schubert will take steps to see that the police prevent recurrence of the disorder. He will order that in future cases the fire department be called and the hose turned on the belligerents.

CHURCH COSTS LESS THAN TWO DOLLARS

FIRST WELSH CHURCH IN MINNESOTA, BUILT IN 1856.

The first Welsh church built in the state of Minnesota was put up near Le Sueur, Le Sueur county, in 1856. As the work and lumber necessary to erect the pioneer edifice were contributed, the total cost of the church was $1.75. This picture is from a photograph taken by John E. Noys of Le Sueur in 1895, after a new church was built, and it was decided to tear down the pioneer structure, located about a mile west of the new church. Pioneers of Minnesota will be interested in knowing who are the pioneers who posed before the early day church when this picture was taken.

MUCH HARDWOOD LAND IS SOLD

Forty Thousand Acres in Marquette County Changes Hands.

Marquette, Mich., Oct. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Forty thousand acres of hardwood land in Marquette county was sold last week by the Upper Peninsula Land company to the I. Stephenson company, and a deal with several Chicago men, which involves 100,000 acres of swamp land near Seney, which may be used for grazing on a vast scale, is pending.

The hardwood land purchased by the Stephenson company, it is understood, will soon be cut. The deal is one of the largest reported in this part of the state for many months. While the consideration is not made public, it is said on reliable authority, to run into six figures.

If the Seney deal goes through the largest cattle ranch in the upper peninsula may be established. The gentlemen interested are connected with the stockyards at Chicago. The land, when drained, will raise luxuriant crops of hay, and the natural advantages for stockraising are said to be unsurpassed. It is expected that something definite regarding the deal will be known within the near future.

ON PROFIT-SHARING PLAN.

Employes of Cigar Company Started in Stillwater Given Stock.

Stillwater, Minn., Oct. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—W. S. Conrad, of this city, who has been a wholesale jobber of cigars for the past thirty-four years, has recently incorporated his extensive business and will give every one of his employes an opportunity to take stock in what is now the W. S. Conrad company.

From a small retail business opened in Stillwater thirty-four years ago, with a limited capital, the business has broadened out and grown to one that is the largest of the wholesale jobbers of cigars in Minnesota or the Northwest. Years ago Mr. Conrad traveled over a limited territory selling his goods, the store then being located in Stillwater. The business continued to grow until the demands seemed to require the removal of the store to St. Paul, in order to be on a par with competitors in his line. From a small beginning the business has increased to such a magnitude that it requires nearly a score of traveling men to cover the territory where his goods are in demand.

ONLY HIMSELF TO BLAME.

Man Killed by Northwesteern Train Admits He Was to Blame.

Negaunee, Mich., Oct. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Before dying at a local hospital, Patrick Irwin, who was run down by a Chicago & Northwestern ore train near Sands, Sunday evening, admitted in an ante-mortem statement that he and not the trainmen were responsible for the fatality.

He was walking along the track and he said the whistle of the approaching train giving him warning to get off the track but that he turned and beckoned to the engineer to come along. This statement was concurred in by both the engineer and fireman, and they supposed that when the man beckoned to them that he was only daring them and that he would step off when the train got near him. For this reason the engineer did not check the speed of the train, as from all appearances Irwin was sober and seemed to know what he was doing. In his dying statement Irwin said that he alone was to blame for his death.

COREY'S MUSICIAN STRICKEN.

Expires Suddenly in Depot at Ironwood While Waiting for Train.

Ironwood, Mich., Oct. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—An incident marred the pleasure of the trip of President William Ellis Corey of the United States Steel corporation and party, who passed through here Sunday in a special car enroute to Sylvania lodge for an outing, Monday at the depot here, while waiting for a train here.

The musicians connected with the car, several negroes, went into the waiting room and amused themselves talking and joking. Suddenly one of them rolled off his seat, laughing and joking, and in the meantime died. A doctor was summoned and he pronounced the musician dead.

ON TRIAL FOR HIS LIFE.

Paul Krause Accused of Having Killed His Wife.

Appleton, Wis., Oct. 7.—The trial of Paul Krause, who has been in the county jail for four months without bond on the charge of murdering his divorced wife and then hanging her in a clothes closet in here home to make it appear she had committed suicide, began Monday in the Outagamie county circuit court.

The case was set for trial Sept. 21, but at that time District Attorney F. J. Rooney, who will prosecute the case, was confined to his home with a threatened attack of pneumonia and Attorney J. Elmer Lehr, who will defend the prisoner, was out of the city.

Krause is failing rapidly in the county jail and is anxious for trial. Whether it is his conscience which is troubling him or his confinement is not known, but he says he will never be taken to the penitentiary alive.

MURDERER UNCONCERNED.

John Henry Apparently Not Worried Over His Awful Crime.

Grand Forks, N. D., Oct. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The remains of Mrs. Ellen Fulton, who was murdered in this city last Friday evening, were shipped Monday evening to her home at Mexico, Mo., where her relatives now reside. The deceased has property in Willow City consisting of a house and lot unincumbered and also a bank deposit.

John Henry, accused of the crime, has been confined to the county jail and not allowed bail and seems to be unconcerned, not realizing the enormity of his crime.

FOUR GENERATIONS PRESENT.

Morton Family of Brainerd Has Notable Reunion.

Brainerd, Minn., Oct. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—An interesting family reunion was held at the home of George Morton Sunday, there being four generations present.

Mr. and Mrs. Morton entertained her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. K. Swartz and her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Bicksler of Illinois, who are here visiting.

Mrs. Bicksler, Mrs. Swartz, Mrs. Morton and baby Allan Morton made four generations. It is thought there will be a group picture taken of them before Mr. and Mrs. Bicksler return home.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Morton, parents of George Morton, were also present. Mr. Morton, Sr., runs between Brainerd and St. Paul and is here every Sunday, and Mrs. Morton came up to spend Sunday with her son's family.

CHAFIN IN LIMELIGHT.

Prohibition Candidate Drives Away Drunkard With Chair.

Appleton, Wis., Oct. 7.—Eugene W. Chafin, Prohibition candidate for president, in an address on the street here Monday, denied the report published in the metropolitan papers that Prohibitionists will swap local votes for votes for him and said he does not sanction it. A drunken man disturbed Chafin and he drove him away with a chair, and said he was no Prohibitionist, but must be a Democrat or a Republican. The man answered he was a Social Democrat. Chafin said: "Worse yet, his candidate is in the penitentiary, and he ought to be."

Killed Over Muskrat.

Pipestone, Minn., Oct. 6.—Two sons of Hans Dam and Mads Jorgenson, of Ruthton, this county, aged 14 years, while out hunting with other boys, engaged in a dispute over who shot a muskrat. Young Dam leveled a rifle at Jorgenson, and said "I am going ot shoot you!" and pulled the trigger. The bullet went through Jorgenson's head, killing him instantly. The result of the coroner's inquest has not yet been announced. Young Dam is now in jail in this city.

Lansford, N. D., Fire.

Lansford, N. D., Oct. 7.—Fire visited this city Saturday morning, destroying Johnson & Co.'s meat market, Garden & Co.'s hardware store, Ben Walker's hotel and Mrs. M. Scow's restaurant, all on the main street. The loss is estimated at $30,000.

Beloit—Theft of a lot of honey from the farm of Al Buckeridge has been traced to three boys who have been arrested and are being held for trial at Rockford, Ill.

Janesville—Hundreds of fish were killed with clubs by fishermen Monday when the water was let out of the lower mill race, leaving the fish in the shallows.

Chippewa Falls—Henry Dutton, a pioneer resident of Chippewa county, was killed by falling off a load of lumber at Caryville, Canada, and the remains were brought Sunday to Bloomer for interment. He was 64 years old, and is survived by a wife, three sons and one daughter.

Milwaukee—William W. Wallis, veteran pawn broker and pioneer resident of Milwaukee, died Sunday afternoon at the Waldheim sanitarium, Okauchee. Mr. Wallis had been ill for a year, after a stroke of paralysis.

Madison—A state association of county sheriffs is being formed at a meeting here. About fifteen sheriffs are present. At the first meeting Monday Sheriff William Noell of Milwaukee wa temporary chairman, Sheriff Roberts of Racine county, temporary secretary.

Ashland—John A. Walker, father of Mrs. A. W. Sanborn and Mrs. Roy H. Beebe of this city, died at the residence of Senator Sanborn Sunday morning from the effects of a stroke of paralysis. Mr. Walker was born in County Down, Ireland, April 21, 1828. He came to Canada at the age of fifteen years, and in 1849 he began work in the pineries in the vicinity of Stevens Point and Wausau.

Eau Claire—There will be a notable revival in the industrial line in this city before many days. Darius Breese, who has always been foremost in promoting industries, has several projects on hand which he will place before the citizens.

The Stomach Does Not Cause Dyspepsia

The stomach is a strong, powerful organ, which is composed of muscles of great strength. It is filled during digestion with gastric juices which, when the stomach, extending and compressing the food, dissolve it and separate the nourishment from the waste matter. If, however, these gastric juices are lacking, the stomach is not capable of digesting its food because it has not the tools with which to work successfully.

The gastric juices when in a perfect state do away with all foul odors, fermentation and decay, reduce the food to a disintegrated mass and the stomach then presses it into the intestines where another form of digestion takes place. Then the intestines take from this mass of food all that is nourishing and give it to the blood. The waste matter is thrown from the system

If instead of nourishment the intestines receive impure deposits combined with a poisonous and imperfect gastric juice, it can be readily seen that they must turn such imperfect nourishment into the blood. The blood then being unable to give each part of the body that which it requires, becomes impoverished and disease is spread broadcast.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets corrects such a condition at once. If the gastric juices are lacking and imperfect, these tablets do their work just the same. They build up the elements in the juice which are lacking and remove those elements which cause disturbance.

Meat, grains, fluids, vegetables and delicacies, in fact each portion of a large meal have been placed in a glass vial and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have digested them to a perfect fluid just as a healthy stomach would do.

A large complex, hearty meal holds no terrors for a dyspeptic if Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are used. Abnormal eating, late dinners, rich foods cause ill effects to the stomach, but when Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are used one may eat when and what one will without danger of dyspepsia or discomfort.

Forty thousand physicians endorse and prescribe Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and every druggist carries them in stock, price 50c. Send us your name and address and we will send you at once by mail a sample package free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

BRYAN SAYS HE HAS OUTLIVED ATTACKS.

Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Oct. 7.—"I present myself as an example of one who has outlived the venomous attacks of his opponents. You heard me called a demagogue twelve years ago. You saw them bury me and you heard them chant their songs over my grave, and now they have to explain why it happened that I was not dead."

With all the fervor that he could muster up, William J. Bryan, facing a vast assemblage in the Chautauqua auditorium between Tama and Toledo, in this state, delivered himself of this utterance. At no time during the present campaign has he spoken so earnestly or with such vigor. His remarks followed a bitter denunciation of Taft for refusing to agree to a publication of campaign contributions before elections.

PROCLAIM HUGHES AS "PRESIDENT IN 1912."

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 7.—That he has stirred up the Republican ranks in the states of the Middle West to an unprecedented activity was the assurance given Governor Charles E. Hughes of New York on his arrival to speak here. Governor Crawford of South Dakota accompanied the Hughes party through that state, and assured the New York governor that the visits of himself, Taft and Beveridge to the Northwest had thoroughly aroused the voters of that section.

At Sioux Falls, where Governor Hughes spoke, the factories and locomotive whistles saluted for more than ten minutes.

ATTRACTED BY WOMAN'S FIGURE

BECOME PLUMP AND PRETTY

Beautiful Society Woman Reveals the Secret to Her Sex—"Become Attractive, Then Happy."

"Yes, I claim that no woman can be happy who is continually slighted and overlooked by the opposite sex, and often contemptuously ignored by her own. It is enough to wring one's heart with pity to see many young ladies with matrons who are lacking in all that goes to make a woman attractive and magnetic, through some defect in nutrition or flesh-making element which nature ought to have supplied them with. The human skin is a huge gland, richly endowed with nerves and a network of minute blood vessels.

Some defect in these nerves and blood vessels prevents their absorbing the flesh-making elements from the blood and thinness, abnormal thinness is the result. Now let me tell just how to fool Mother Nature. If she won't absorb fleshy tissues from the blood, we can feed the nerves and cells through the skin until they develop and retain the fleshy elements necessary to promote a pretty bust and graceful arms and neck. Mix and apply this powerful, harmless and rich nerve stimulant, and quick development with increased measurements will follow as certain as night follows day—and I speak unblushingly, but modestly from experience.

"Mix together two ounces of glycerine and one ounce tincture cadomene compound; let stand two hours; then add three ounces of rosewater and a teaspoonful of borax. Shake and apply morning and night, rubbing until absorbed. Then wash with hot water and soap and dry. Treat the arms, bust, neck and shoulders, and in a few days you can notice the feeling of plumpness and firmness rewarding your efforts." (For publication with initials, Mrs. C. B. L.)

FRESH PROOF OF TRUST SAYS EMPEROR, GRABBING BOSNIA-HERZEGOVINA

Tells People Whom He Annexes That It is His Duty to Go Forward.

EMPEROR FRANCIS JOSEPH.

Vienna, Oct. 7.—In his proclamation annexing Bosnia and Herzegovina to Austro-Hungary, Emperor Francis Joseph says to the Bulgarians:

"When a generation ago our troops crossed the boundaries of your countries, you were assured that they came not as enemies but as friends, with a firm resolution to put a stop to the ills from which your fatherland for so many years suffered. This promise was given in a solemn moment and was righteously kept. It was the steadfast endeavor of our government, in peaceful observance of the law and by vigorous efforts, to lead the land to a happier future.

"To our great pleasure we can say that the seed which was then scattered in the furrow of plowed soils has come up richly. You yourselves must feel the benefits of a situation whereby order and security have taken the place of force and oppression. Trade and communications are steadily spreading; the civilizing influence of a wider education has made itself felt, and every man may enjoy the fruits of his labors under the protection of a well-ordered government.

"We consider it our duty to go forward on this path and with that goal before our eyes we are of the opinion that the time has come to give the inhabitants of both countries fresh proof of our trust in their political majority."

The emperor has also addressed a rescript to Baron von Aehrenthal Austro-Hungarian minister of foreign affairs in which he says:

"Being imbued with the unalterable conviction that the lofty, civilizing and political objects for which the Austro-Hungarian monarchy undertook the occupation and administration of Bosnia and Herzegovina and that the results which that administration has already obtained with costly sacrifices can be permanently secured only by granting the constitutional institutions corresponding to their needs—institutions for the setting up of which the establishment of a clear and unequivocal legal position for the two provinces form and indispensable condition—I extend my sovereignty over Bosnia and Herzegovina and at the same time bring into force in those provinces the rules of succession applying to my house.

"As a demonstration of the peaceful purposes which have led me to this immutable decree, I at the same time order the evacuation of the Sanjak of Novipazar by the troops of my army stationed therein."

WIFE SHOOTS HER HUSBAND WHO IS EASTERN POLITICAL LEADER

NEGRO COACHMAN INVOLVED IN CASE

Philadelphia, Oct. 7.—J. Clayton Erb, captain and regimental quartermaster of the Third regiment, National Guard of Pennsylvania, was shot and killed at his summer home near Village Green, Delaware county. His sister-in-law, Mrs. Catherine Beisely, is under arrest charged with the murder, and admits she did the shooting during a family quarrel.

Capt. Erb, who was private secretary to Israel W. Durham, political leader of this city, was one of the best known men in political circles in Philadelphia. About two years ago he was married and moved to Delaware county. For a time everything went along smoothly, but recently there were family quarrels. On Aug. 24 Mrs. Erb, who was Mrs. W. G. Rothermel, and a divorcee, caused the arrest of Eugene Poulson, Mr. Erb's colored coachman, on a charge of threatening her life. At the hearing she said she had been informed that Poulson was acting as a spy for Erb.

SIBLEY TELLS HEARST TO READ MORE LETTERS

Congressman Declares That the People Who Elected Him Knew All About His Standard Oil Relations.

New York, Oct. 7.—Ex-Congressman Joseph C. Sibley of Pennsylvania has made public the following letter in reference to charges made against him by William R. Hearst:

To the Public: For thirty years I have been more or less closely associated in business with John D. Archbold of Standard Oil, and during the major portion of that period I have talked with him and written to him with freedom and frankness due to a business associate and a personal friend. My connection with the Standard Oil company was known before I entered public life, and the three presidents of our nation, during my term of service, were familiar with the fact of my business connection with Standard Oil, as were my friends in the senate and my colleagues in the house of representatives.

Approximately 500,000 people who, in two different congressional districts of Pennsylvania, selected me as their representative in congress, knew precisely the relations existing between the Standard Oil company and myself. My views on corporate problems have been no secret to my constituents, colleagues or officials in government service.

Mr. Hearst has copies, I believe, of every letter written by me to Mr. Archbold from 1900 to very nearly the close of my term of public service. I therefore request that he will do me the justice to publish them, one and all, in their entirety and in their order and natural sequence, giving dates of letters, and not separating text from context.

I spoke and voted against granting legislative, executive and judicial powers to the interstate commerce commission. I labored earnestly against the commodity clause of the rate bill, and especially that portion of the commodity clause which forbade pipe lines to transport their own oil. This, in the judgment of my constituents, means ruin to producers of petroleum.

SAME OLD LIE, SAYS GUFFEY, OF HASKELL

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 7.—In reply to Governor Haskell's letter to President Roosevelt, in which Col. J. M. Guffey, ex-Democratic national committeeman from Pennsylvania, and T. W. Barnsdall, Pittsburg oil operator, are charged with being agents for Standard Oil, and in that capacity with being engaged in conference with President Roosevelt, the following statement is given out by Guffey:

"Haskell's statement that I ever discussed the Osage oil lease with the president is an absolute falsehood. The fact is, I never met or spoke to President Roosevelt but once, and that was at a reception and a dinner given to him on July 4, 1902, at the Schenley hotel, Pittsburg. That I am connected with Standard Oil is a lie more than thirty years old, revived every once in a while by some scoundrel and trying to shield his own iniquities.

CROSS OCEAN IN BALLOON.

Dr. Fielding, Who Competed at Chicago, Will Make Attempt.

Austin, Tex., Oct. 7.—Dr. Frederick J. Fielding of San Antonio confirmed the report that he will soon attempt a balloon voyage across the Atlantic. He has given orders for the construction of the balloon.

The bag will be of 300,000 cubic feet gas capacity. Dr. Fielding made his first balloon voyage last July, when he competed in the Chicago race. He went from Chicago to Waterloo, Ont., a distance of 785 miles in a little more than twenty-three hours.

His transatlantic balloon will carry a lifeboat and a wireless telegraph outfit. The trip will be attempted some time in April.

FARMERS' EQUITY MEETING ILLEGAL.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 7.—The national convention of the American Society of Equity of North America, which has brought hundreds of farmers from all parts of the country to Milwaukee, is declared illegal by the society's attorney, Oliver H. Carson of Indianapolis. He said:

"The American Society of Equity of North America is a corporation incorporated under the laws of the state of Indiana and careful perusal of those laws has forced me to tell you that any convention held without the limits of that state is illegal. Your bylaws name Indianapolis as the meeting place of the society and unless they are amended that city must remain your assembly city."

TO USE SLAG FOR PAVING

The Governments Experiments Are of Great Value Locally.

May Result in Very Cheap and Efficient Pavement.

City Engineer McGilvray is much interested in reports he is receiving of experiments which are now being conducted by the office of public roads of the United States department of agriculture, in an effort to build a dust proof road by combining blast furnace slag with asphalt or tar. Cities through the country are trying similar experiments. If they work out successfully the plan will be adopted in Duluth, furnishing a cheap but efficient grade of paving.

For several years the scientists in the office of public roads as well as in many of the more progressive states have been working to achieve two great objects, the utilization of by-products in road building and the development of dustless roads. Experiments already conducted indicate that crushed rock combined with tar or asphalt preparations bid fair to solve in a measure the dustless road problem. Exhaustive laboratory tests have indicated that slag in combination with preparations of tar or asphalt may be made to serve as a substitute for crushed rock.

One of these experimental stretches of road is now in course of construction in Chicago, under supervision of Chief Engineer Vernon M. Pierce of the federal bureau, and one at Birmingham, Ala., under direction of B. F. Heidel, first assistant engineer.

The road at Chicago will be of slag and asphalt, and the one at Birmingham of slag and tar. The greatest skill and care will be employed in putting down these short stretches and they will then be carefully observed during the trying months of winter. If in the spring it has been established that this class of road remains firm, does not rut, sheds water, and makes but little dust, a vast step forward will have been taken in road building and a never-failing market will have been created for blast furnace waste.

The importance of such an experiment to Duluth, with a blast furnace and tar plant already here, is self evident.

HATPINS USED

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 7.—Reports from physicians show that there are hundreds of men in Pittsburg now suffering with hatpin jabs administered by women and girls during the Mardi Gras proceedings of last week's sesqui-centennial. The police department last week announced that everything would be permitted on the streets at night, the same as Halloween, and it appears that the young men, old men, too, were given the privilege of throwing confetti in the face of every pretty girl they met, rubbing her face with a tickler, etc. They went too far sometimes, and by Tuesday night most of the girls and women held hatpins where they could get them into action quickly, and a small army of injured this week is the result.

More Ohio Counties Dry.

Columbus, Ohio, Oct. 7.—Two more counties held elections yesterday under the Rose law, and both went dry. Paulding county voted out twelve saloons, and Wyandotte voted out fifty. Thirty-one counties have now held elections under the Rose law and all but one have voted dry.

MUST PROVE SHE IS GIRL'S MOTHER

New York, Oct. 7.—Mrs. Flora Avery of Spearfish, S. D., met her 15-year-old daughter, Myrtle Barber, for the first time in nearly fourteen years, in the supreme court, where the child was produced on a writ of habeas corpus.

The child for two years had been in a Catholic convent, and the writ directed the officials of that institution to bring the girl into court in order that it might be decided whether Mrs. Avery was her mother, and, if so, if she should be given her child.

The case was adjourned until Friday to give Mrs. Avery an opportunity to prove her relationship.

TAFT CALLS FOR TRUST INSPECTION.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 7.—In his speech here, W. H. Taft said:

"To put trust-made articles on the free list would not only destroy the business of the so-called monopolies and trusts, and not only throw out of employment millions of working men engaged therein, but it would also destroy the interests of both the innocent and guilty."

The objection to the second or license remedy, he said, was that it would include a lot of small corporations making special articles that have no relation to trusts and are not within the evil which those monopolies bring about. He added:

"A much better remedy would be a classification according to the capital of corporations. I think all corporations having more than $6,000,000 or $10,000,000 would probably include all the corporations which are likely to have any temptation to the formation of combinations in restraint of trade and illegal monopolies

"If they were subject to government inspection it would not be difficult to make certain that they could not violate the law flagrantly."

MISSING GROOM NOW A SOLDIER

RALPH W. EDDY.

Wooster, Ohio, Oct. 7.—Word was received here that Ralph W. Eddy, the young traveling man who disappeared in Milwaukee, Aug. 20, two days before he was to have married Miss Warren, of this city, enlisted with the United States army at Jefferson barracks, St. Louis, Aug. 24. Capt. Eddy, father of the young man, when informed of the news, which had been learned in Washington, said he had no previous knowledge.

RESINOL SOAP

Will do more for your complexion than any amount of cold cream and "beauty-preparations." The reason is that RESINOL SOAP is at once a Skin-Cleanser, Healer and Nutrient. It first thoroughly removes all dirt and foreign matter, then antiseptically heals every little cut and abrasion, and finally feeds and nourishes the skin as nothing else can. This is largely owing to the fact that instead of containing harmful alkalies—as many toilet soaps do—it is medicated with "RESINOL," the great skin-specific. Add to this the refreshing and comforting effects of the pure vegetable oils used, and you can understand why it is—as thousands have testified—that the best aid to a good complexion is

ON THE IRON RANGES

NO TIME TO FIGHT BLAZE

Unfortunates of Chisholm Caught Unawares by Fire of Sept. 5.

Swept Down From Northwest Unheralded and They Had to Flee.

Chisholm, Minn., Oct. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The people of Chisholm have been severely criticised for their failure to get out and fight the fire, which swept into Chisholm Saturday afternoon, Sept. 5, at 4:30 p. m., and in the short space of an hour and a half almost entirely consumed the town.

If the theory of J. E. McGee, John Redfern and others, who have been thoroughly over the territory northwest of town is correct, however, the heretofore published explanations of the way in which this town burned are entirely incorrect and the people of this town are in no wise to blame for not fighting the fire for they knew nothing about it.

Fire existed in the woods west of Chisholm for seven days before the day of Chisholm's disaster, just as it had existed almost every other town in this part of the country. The fire, however, was not more alarming, nor of larger extent than numerous other fires. The fire, which burned this town, in the opinion of the men named and of others who have been over the ground, was an entirely different fire. It was a fire, which had its origin eight or nine miles northwest of this place, near or perhaps a mile or two north of Joe Hahn's place on the Sturgeon lake road. This fire, fanned by the hurricane winds of the fatal Saturday, swept down from the northwest straight upon Chisholm. Chisholm like all other towns on the Western Mesaba was filled with smoke and knew nothing of any fire in its near vicinity except the one west of town, which was not dangerous at that time. Under cover of the pall of smoke, which overhung the whole country, the fire from the northwest rushed down upon Chisholm and it was not until its roaring was heard that the people of the town knew any cause for alarm. They then began to take measures for their protection, measures which would probably have been adequate had the fire been what they supposed it to be, the comparatively small fire to the west of town.

Wall of Fire Advancing.

A wall of fire was advancing upon them from the northwest, a wall of fire of which they were totally ignorant and within thirty minutes after they heard the first sounds of its fury it burst from the woods to the northwest and leaped into town attacking buildings from one end of the town to the other so that nothing was possible to the people of this burning town but to escape with their lives.

A drive over the Great Northern right of way from Chisholm northwest to Joe Hahn's palce and a mile or two further on, shows that the fire swept in a straight line from the northwest to the southeast over a district two or three miles wide. That the fire was a fierce one is evidenced by the fact that the tangled mass of small timber, shrubs, stumps and other inflammable substances of the woods, which has for years made this territory almost impassable by man has entirely disappeared. The ground is burned clean. In most of the district absolutely nothing is left—the ground is as bare as a street except in places where there are a few smoldering stumps left. This evidently was the fire that burned Chisholm. Against a fire of such fierce intensity days of preparation would probably not have availed anything.

How this fire started is purely a matter of speculation. No engines travel through this district. A party of hunters and fishermen had been camped for some days at the small lakes about Joe Hahn's place. Possibly they started the fire. But the country was so dry that it might easily have started in several different ways and the real origin of the fire will probably remain a mystery.

GET CHAMPIONSHIP CUP.

Virginia Ball Club Declared to be Winners of Season.

Virginia, Minn., Oct. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Virginia baseball team has at last been acknowledged as the champions of the range. John Healy, proprietor of the Hibbing hotel, who some time ago purchased a silver cup to be given to the team which would win the championship of the range, forwarded the cup yesterday and it is now in possession of Judge James P. Carey, manager of the Virginia team. The cup is a beauty and its inscription reads: "Championship of the Mesaba range, won by Virginia."

LAW'S VIOLATORS GET STIFF DOSES

Heavily Fined for Killing and Selling Moose Meat in Itasca.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Oct. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two important prosecutions for violation of the game laws, resulted in convictions and severe fines here, Tuesday. William Perrington, who killed a big bull moose last Friday, near Prairie Lake, and brought the meat into Grand Rapids and sold is among his friends, pleaded guilty to the charge against him and paid a fine of $78.70, including costs.

William Anderson and Charles Wright were caught with some of the "goods" on them. Anderson asked for a jury trial, and a verdict of guilty of having moose meat in his possession was found, and he was mulcted for $75. Wright's case was continued until the 16th, as there was not time to try him yesterday.

The wardens did some very clever detective work and located about 200 pounds of the meat, scattered about in various places of concealment.

Violation of the game laws in Itasca county has become very expensive business under the present administration of the laws. The present wardens, Jesse Harvey and Arthur Seamans, of Grand Rapids, have conducted twenty important prosecutions within the past eleven months and all but two or three have resulted in convictions.

Some of the worst poachers have served long jail sentences, and some have left the state for more congenial climes. The Sportsmen's Protective association and all the best people are solidly back of the authorities as they realize that the wild game of the county constitutes one of its most valuable assets and must be preserved. This county contains the best deer hunting ground in the state and attracts hundreds of hunters in the open season, who are willing to pay freely and liberally for their sport. Deer are increasing in this section of the state since wholesale poaching has been stopped.

PROBABLY WISHES SHE KEPT STILL

Woman Prosecutes Boarder and is Fined for Blindpigging.

Hibbing, Minn., Oct. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Anna Anna Seanovean, who has a boarding house at the Penobscot location, had Mike Wadovittich arrested for assault. The trial, which was held yesterday, in the municipal court, proved very unsatisfactory to both. During the course of the examination, Judge Brady elicited the fact that Anna had been selling liquor to her ten boarders and fined her $27.50, or forty days in the county jail. Wadovitich was given a $15 fine, or forty days, also.

Charles Callahan has been appointed secretary of the Mesaba Range Credit association, to succeed C. E. Dwyer, who has sent in his resignation, to take effect Nov. 1.

Miss Elsie Young, who has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. George E. Scott, has returned to her home in Aitkin.

Mr. and Mrs. William Webb, who have been visiting in Duluth the past few days, have returned home.

Mr. John Kleffman held the lucky ticket in the raffle held Sunday, for the little race horse Edna, the "Kid."

Rev. Frank Beebe of Stewart will occupy the pulpit next Sunday in the Methodist church in the absence of Rev. J. F. Pickard, who has gone to attend the Methodist conference at Litchfield.

The remains of Mrs. W. H. Harvey, wife of Supt. Harvey of the Shenango mine, were taken to Green Bay, Wis., yesterday for interment.

E. E. Hunter is entertaining his brother, Hale Hunter, of Palmer, Mich.

F. H. Holliday, who has been in Minneapolis the past few days, has returned to Hibbing.

Mrs. D. C. Rood is in St. Paul for a couple of weeks visiting her sister, Miss Wadsworth, of that city.

A delightful little gathering assembled at the home of Mrs. B. MacCready on Fourth avenue last evening in honor of Miss Nettie Thompson of Minneapolis.

Arthur Klingman of Detroit, Mich., who has been visiting in Hibbing the past week, has returned home.

OLD TIME CHECK COMES TO LIGHT

Issued in Virginia Thirteen Years Ago, Presented for Payment.

Virginia, Minn., Oct. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—There was a leaf from a time check of the past opened before the city council last night when a time check issued thirteen years ago was presented for payment. It was issued in 1895 by J. W. Crocket, who was at that time street commissioner, was received by the clerk and presented to the council. The check calls for the sum of $18.50, and is made out to A. H. Joachim for team work done for the city at that time. Mr. Joachim, who is now a resident of Meadow Land, this state, wrote that he had found the check among some old papers and claims that the amount has never been paid. The matter was laid over by the council.

According to the report of the finance committee, it will cost the city of Virginia the sum of $5,448.65 to pay its bills for the month of September just past.

That Virginia is a most orderly city is shown by the fact that only the small sum of $149 was collected in fines by Municipal Judge James P. Carey.

Edward Deering made application to the council for a position as fireman on the fire department. The application was referred to the chief.

John Gulaz was granted a license to sell intoxicating liquors in the building just west of the New England hotel.

W. E. Lyons, a former conductor on the Duluth, Rainy Lake & Winnipeg railroad, was appointed by Mayor Hawkinson to succeed Joseph Lebeau as patrolman on the police force.

J. P. Rooney was granted the contract for the construction of cement walks and crosswalks around the public library building for the sum of 25 cents per square foot. There are about 1,520 square feet of walk in the contract.

The clerk was instructed to draw a warrant for the sum of $200, payable to the First National bank of this city, for interest on general fund bond held by that institution. The original bond called for $8,000, but only about $4,000 remains of this issue, and the city expects to pay that before the end of the year.

The clerk was instructed to issue warrants for the sum of $1,249 for labor performed during the forest fires which recently threatened our city. The city will be reimbursed for this amount by the state, which has agreed to pay all expenses incident to the occasion.

The reconstruction of sidewalks along the north side of Oak street, between Railroad and Mesaba avenues was ordered by the council.

There are three Republicans on the election board in the Second ward, and Alderman Mattson, for his constituents, protested against the discrimination and thought there ought to be at least one Democrat among them. No action was taken, as the aldermen were of the opinion that the matter would adjust itself at the proper time.

The matter of placing time detectors and the gong telephone systems, to be used by the police force, was referred to the police committee with power to act.

Mayor Hawkinson reported to the council that he was unable to find any one who was willing to accept the position of poundmaster, and therefore the office is still vacant. However, the mayor stated that he would make another strong effort to secure one by placing advertisements in the local papers and posting notices in public places. Residents here who have gone to considerable expense in setting out trees and otherwise beautifying their properties are quite indignnant because of cattle being allowed to run at large.

The sewer assessments of block 98, recommended by City Engineer E. F. Johnson, were adopted and will be sent to the county auditor to be placed on the tax rolls for each parcel of land in that block.

EVELETH FIXES CITY TAX LEVY

It Amounts to Over Eighty Thousand Dollars; Council Doings.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The tax levy for Eveleth for the coming year will amount to $81,265, the tax rate will therefore be forty mills. The report of the board of tax levy was received last night by the council and approved. The estimated expenditures for the year 1908 is $111,575, the estimated receipts for that time is $30,110. The expenses for the fire department were figured at $12,000, the police department $6,000, the water works department, $13,000, the cost of erecting a new water tank and the necessary piping is estimated at $25,000. The earnings of the water department is figured at $7,000.

A motion was passed petitioning the judge of the district court to appoint three men as a charter board to secure a home rule charter for the city. This matter has been discussed for some time, but has just lately come to a head.

The bill of Former City Attorney Ferry for $100 for services during month of August and September was laid on the table. The report of the superintendent of water works for the past quarter showed receipts of $3,152.85 and disbursements of $3,657.04. The fines collected by the municipal court for the month amounted to $256.75. Although the light and water committee favored granting the contract for the intake at the pumping station to Pastoret & Lane, the only bidders at $2,473, the council decided to let the matter go over until the exact size of the intake needed can be settled.

The bid of C. C. Buttler of Virginia for $2,689 for the Monroe street sewer work which was laid on the table at a former meeting was accepted. Work will start soon as he furnishes bonds.

An ordinance relating to the sale of liquors had its first reading. It develops that the city has never had a liquor ordinance and that it has been working under the state laws. An ordinance was drawn up at some time while Eveleth was still a village, but the ordinance was never published. This ordinance read last night was made out to insure the city of getting all fines accuring from convictions under the liquor laws.

The estimate of City Engineer D. B. Austin on contemplated sewer improvements was received. The figures are $2,999.40 plus 5 per cent. The question of who should pay the bills for the fighting of the small first fires around here was brought up, and one alderman was in favor of having the state pay it. On account of the small total of the bills the council decided to have the bills paid from the city treasury.

HAD SISTER IN VIRGINIA.

Fireman Darcy Dead at Valley City, N. D., From Injuries.

Valley City, N. D., Oct. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Arthur Darcey, a former resident of Grand Forks, is dead here as a result of injuries received last Thursday. He was a fireman employed on the Soo railway, and was crushed between the tender of the flyer and the coal chute here. He had made his home at Fessenden for a number of years and the body was shipped there for the funeral yesterday.

The deceased was 22 years old and unmarried. He is survived by three brothers and four sisters, Phil, Grand Forks; Walter, Virginia, Minn.; and James, Nellie, Margaret and Louise, Fessenden. He is a nephew of J. K. Swan of Fessenden, who was sheriff of Grand Forks county a number of years ago.

CHISHOLM HAS MUCH BUILDING

Builders Rapidly Undoing Work of Terrible Fire of Last Month.

Chisholm, Minn., Oct. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Messrs. Mitchel, Kirk and Godfrey have decided to rebuild at once on their two lots next to Magnusson's and work was commenced upon the excavating last Wednesday.

Joeph Karl, whose lot adjoins those owned by Kirk, Godfrey and Mitchel, commenced excavating this week and will push the building through to completion this fall, as will Matt Matzele, whose lot is 75 feet above.

The Conley cafe has moved into its new quarters on Second avenue.

Five drills have been at work since the fire in the southeast part of town on the White River Iron company's land.

The houses at the Clark location are up and the contractors will not be long in moving them when the road is cut through. The houses are to be moved into town. The location is one mile from Chisholm.

Nic Kovacevich has put in a grocery on the county road near the entrance to the Monroe location, but will move into town later.

VIRGINIA SLIVER SHIPPING.

Famous Property Has Begun Sending Out Product.

Virginia, Minn., Oct. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Virginia Silver mine, operated by the M. A. Hanna interests, began shipping ore yesterday morning. It is the intention of the company to ship about 50,000 tons before navigation closes.

EVELETH NIMRODS ARE DOING SOME SLAUGHTERING.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mr. Barton of the Eveleth pharmacy and C. B. Hoel, cashier of the Miners' National bank, went out duck hunting Saturday, but did not find the sport very profitable. They returned Tuesday morning. Yesterday Mayor Smith left for Hope, N. D., to shoot ducks. At noon E. C. Carpenter of the Lyceum theater and M. E. Nichols, the local merchant, also left for the same place, where they will join Mayor Smith. Superintendent of Schools Greening and J. P. Tredinnick left yesterday for Bowstring, Minn., for a few days' duck hunting.

JEWS OF VIRGINIA ARE TO BUILD SYNAGOGUE.

Virginia, Minn., Oct. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Virginia will soon have a Jewish synagogue. At a meeting of a large number of the Jewish residents it was decided to erect one in this city and the sum of $2,000 has already been subscribed to the fund. It is estimated that the synagogue will cost, when completed, in the neighborhood of $4,000. The officers of the society chosen at this meeting are as follows: President, J. Mesberg; vice president, Sam Milavetz; secretary, H. J. Nathanson; treasurer, Morris Shanelding; trustees, Adolph Keller, Julius Shanelding and James Lavick.

GREENWAY TOWNSHIP HALL CONTRACT AWARDED MONDAY

Marble, Minn., Oct. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The contract for building the new town hall in Greenway township has been awarded to Emil Johnson of Minneapolis, the man who erected the high school building here, for $12,000. The new hall is to be 60x60, two stories and basement, hot water heat, with town offices and fire equipment downstairs and auditorium upstairs. The building was designed by Wagenstein of Duluth and is to be of pressed brick and Georgia pine construction.

BRIEF VIRGINIA EVENTS.

Virginia, Minn., Oct. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Harold O'Hayer, the star first baseman for the Virginia team, left yesterday for his home in Chicago.

Oscar Graham, who did such excellent work in the box for the Virginia team the past season, has accepted a position as brakeman on the Duluth, Rainy Lake & Winnipeg railroad.

The range printers' ball given at the Fay opera house last night was attended by about 100 couples. A number of young people from Hibbing, Eveleth and Ely attended. The ball was a greater success than was anticipated.

Mark Elliott, superintendent of the Interstate Iron company, and Gilbert Clark of the Dupont Powder company, returned yesterday from a several days' duck hunt at Rice Lake. They report fairly good luck.

RELIEF COMMITTEE HAS LARGE AMOUNT ON HAND.

Hibbing, Minn., Oct. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—After building cottages and in other ways helping the unfortunates who lost everthing in the recent disastrous Chisholm fire, the relief fund committee will still have on hand about $40,000 of the $100,000 which has been subscribed. The appeal for help of about 100 persons was turned down. It is the intention of the relief committee to help the North Shore sufferers with the surplus.

Dismantling Fayal Pumps.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The pumps and other machinery at the No. 3 shaft of the Fayal mine are being dismantled. The mining company will start soon to strip over the ground formerly taken up by the shaft. In most of the other shafts, and the open pit, men are working night and day. All boys under the age of 21 in all the local mines have been laid off. Some are intending going to school, especially to take up the new commercial course, which is now taught in the Missabe Mountain township hall.

STEPHEN WELCH CROSSES DIVIDE

The Well Known Duluth Broker Dies of Bright's Disease.

Stephen T. Welch, 42 years old, and for the past twenty years a resident of Duluth, died at 7 o'clock last evening at his residence, 1620 East Third street. A complication of diseases, following an attack of Bright's disease, was the cause of death.

Mr. Welch had been in poor health for several months past. His condition was not considered serious until quite recently, however. During the last week or two he has been failing rapidly, and last week it was announced to his friends that his chance of recovery was very slight. All hope was given up Sunday, but he rallied, and yesterday was reported to be recovering. The end came suddenly, after a relapse yesterday afternoon. During most of the time he was in Duluth, Mr. Welch was actively engaged in the grain commission or stock brokerage business and he was a familiar figure on the floor of the Duluth board of trade. He was a prominent member of the Elks and the Masons, being a Shriner, and had hosts of friends in those organizations and out of them. Mr. Welch is survived by a wife, four brothers and a married sister, whose home is in Iowa. Funeral arrangements have not been completed, but it is probable that the burial services will take place tomorrow under the auspices of the Masonic fraternity.

Lycan & Co., have conducted that hostelry, two years ago, has resigned his position here and will enter the employ of Thomas Beare of Brainerd as manager of the Hotel Ramsford.

Mr. Rattinger is a competent hotel man and a member of the local Elks lodge, having acted as secretary during the past six months.

GETS $315 BALM FOR BROKEN HEART

Pernilla Malmberg Settled Her Breach of Promise Suit.

Because it was shown that Pernilla Malmberg had signed an agreement by which Ole Swenson was to pay her $315 as balm for her shattered heart, Judge Dibell directed a jury in district court yesterday afternoon to return a verdict for the defendant in the breach of promise suit brought against Swenson. Miss Malmberg sued for $1,500, but the production of the agreement put an end to the proceedings.

The proposal, on which Miss Malmberg based her suit, is claimed to have been made by letter last December. The woman then lived in Sweden, conducted a private school, had a little home of her own and was living happily. She corresponded regularly with Swenson, who had come to this country some years before. When Swenson's proposal of marriage came, she says she resigned her position, sold her home and hurried to the land of the free to wed the man of her choice.

When she arrived, she claimed that Ole's heart had turned to stone. He repulsed her and she claims he secured possession of the letters he wrote to her and burned them, destroying all evidence of the proposal. When she brought suit, however, he offered to settle for $315 and it was claimed in court she signed a written agreement to that effect. The court thereupon directed the jury to return a verdict for the defendant.

HUNGRY ROBBERS LOOT TWO STORES

Get Several Dollars Worth of Ham and Eggs, But Little Cash.

Two unknown thieves were so hungry last night they couldn't wait until the stores opened this morning, and in order to satisfy the inner man at the least possible expense, crawled through the transom of the store occupied by the Duluth Provision company, and made their exit through the side door after they had loaded themselves down with six hams, half a dozen sides of bacon, six dozen eggs and one dollar in change.

From the appearance of the store this morning the midnight lunchers were in no hurry, and picked out only things that appealed to their delicate tastes.

J. G. Ostby, who keeps a grocery store at 12 West Fourth street, also reported to the police that his store had been entered, and a quantity of groceries, cigars and $5 in change taken.

The same men may have committed both burglaries. At Ostby's store they got in through a window, after crawling over the top of a high shed in the rear of the store.

MEXICAN DIET
Not Conductive to American Energy.

"After about thirteen years in Mexico, where I was on a Mexican diet into which coffee and greasy food enter largely, I found that everything I ate distressed me," writes a man from our neighboring republic.

"Nervous breakdown with pain in the heart caused me to give up mental work. After trying various stomach remedies without benefit, I found relief, at last, by eating Grape-Nuts and cream.

"I could digest Grape-Nuts, and the heart and nervous symptoms soon improved to such an extent that I could do some brain work and a fair day's manual labor.

"When away from home I get out of sorts from eating wrong food, but at home a few days on Grape-Nuts puts me right again.

"I once worked ten consecutive hours on a dike without much fatigue, by having a small box of Grape-Nuts in my pocket and eating a little dry, whenever I felt faint. I can now teach all day without fatigue, after a breakfast of Grape-Nuts and cream, stewed fruit, toast and Postum.

"That old dull feeling, when I tried to live on my former diet, has disappeared and the delightful sensation of being fully nourished is present now. And the smile on our 18-months-old boy at a sight of a Grape-Nuts package is worth seeing." "There's a Reason."

Chicago, Oct. 7.—What is said to have been the closest pennant contest ever waged by American league baseball clubs, came to an end in this city yesterday when Detroit, champions of 1907, captured the emblem for another year, by defeating Chicago, 7 to 0.

Detroit, Cleveland and Chicago struggled all season for first place, never being far from each other in the percentage table, and not until yesterday could the winner be picked. St. Louis put Cleveland out of the running Monday, leaving the field to Detroit and Chicago.

Chicago's fight has been an up-hill one, but Manager and Captain Jones never despaired until the last Chicago player had been retired yesterday. Had Chicago triumphed the pennant would have come to this city, but the defeat of the local team in the final test left no subject of debate for the "lf club."

Victory Is Decisive.

Detroit's victory was clean and decisive. Jones used three pitchers—White, Walsh and Smith—but could not subdue the Detroits. Donovan pitched the kind of ball that will win almost any game. His teammates coming first to bat, lent him confidence in the initial inning by knocking White out of the box and putting four runs over the plate.

Inning after inning, with a calmness approaching nonchalence, Donovan proceeded to make first base a very north pole of unattainability for his opponents.

Two hits, in different innings, were all that Chicago could garner, and a local runner reached second base just once. That was the only time that Chicago made even the wraith of a threat. Donovan, casually observing that the sixth inning, with Chicagoans on first and second bases, had an unfamiliar appearance, straightway struck out Captain Jones and the gigantic Isbell and retired Dougherty with a high fly to right.

Fans at Fever Heat.

This being the first time the Chicago enthusiasts had won an opportunity to cheer, they seized it and for a time bedlam would have appeared a quiet retreat compared to the South Side ball park. J. Atz of the Chicagoans, coaching off third base, became so excited that he intruded on the diamond and was ordered to the bench by Umpire Sheridan. Atz protested with such vigor that he was expelled from the grounds.

Detroit's assist column showed only two, for when Donovan did not strike out the batsman he pitched the brand of ball which resulted in flies. All told, he struck out ten men. Behind him errorless ball was played, and hits were made when hits were needed.

The Tiger Sluggers.

There were thirteen of them, a fatal proportion of them from the local viewpoint being in the first inning. Detroit's batting alone would have captured the contest with ease, but assurance was made doubly sure by Chicago's errors, five in number.

Detroit's commanding lead at the outset did not dishearten Chicago, but it had a depressing effect, which deepened as the game proceeded, and Donovan's superb control showed no signs of weakening.

The rain officially predicted for yesterday did not materialize, although the sun was often obscured by the clouds before and during the game. The score:

SAYS CHICAGO WILL WIN GAME

President Murphy Gives Out Emphatic Statement at Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Oct. 7.—President Murphy of the Chicago National league club last night gave out the following statement:

"We will play Thursday and we'll lick 'em too.

"I will make it so decisive this time that Bone-headed base running can cast a shadow of doubt on the contest. We want to win the championsnip on the playing field and not in the legislative halls of baseball politics. The Cubs will take the twentieth century flyer tomorrow in Chicago and arrive in New York Thursday morning. Manager Chance and his players are all in good condition and we will have no excuse if we fail to bring the third successive National league pennant to Chicago.

"I am very sorry that the White Sox lost, but must radmit that Manager Jones and his men made a great fight for the flag in the American league. I had hoped sincerely that they would win the deciding game from Detroit, so that all the games for the championship of the world could again be played in Chicago, which is in a class in itself as a baseball city.

"The members of the board of directors of the National league, who handed down their decision yesterday did so only after a long and careful consideration of the matters involved, and I think that each and every one of them acted to the best of his judgment and belief in the premises. Of course, the decision is a disappointment to the Chicago club, as we felt that the game was ours under the constitution. We will take our medicine, however, and be game, and I feel that we will again prove that ours is the greatest team of players in the world.

Cincinnati, Oct. 7.—For the first time in the history of the National League of Baseball Clubs a post season game for the settlement of the championship is announced for Thursday of this week, the tangle that arose over the last series in New York between the New York and Chicago clubs having brought a decision from the National league directors to that effect.

For nearly two days and a large part of one night the directors listened to evidence and considered the matter in its various phases and finally announced their decision late yesterday afternoon.

Chairman Ebbetts made a little speech before asking August Hermann to read the text of the decision, calling attention to the importance of the case and the care that had been taken to give proper consideration to all interested.

Two protests were up for decision on appeals from the ruling of President Pulliam.

Pulliam Sustained.

New York appealed from the decision sustaining the ruling of the umpires that a game played Sept. 23 was a tie, and the second was an appeal by Chicago from the decision that they were not entitled to a forfeited game score under the league constitution. In both cases the league president was sustained.

As to the first case, the decision says:

"In our judgment this case is the most important one that has ever been presented to the board of directors of the National league for its adjudication. We have examined all the testimony submitted in evidence very carefully and have listened attentively to the arguments advanced by both parties. In arriving at our conclusions we are guided entirely by the law and the rules as they exist, and the evidence as it is submitted, and cannot be governed by anything else. The case no doubt is fully understood by every persons who has taken an interest in it."

Player Merkle's Blunder.

After detailing the play, the directors, speaking of Player Merkle's failure to run down to second base, say:

"The game would have been won by the New York club, had it not been for the reckless, careless, inexcusable blunder of one of its players—Merkle."

The rule covering the play is quoted and the decision continues:

"While it may not have been compelled within many other games; while other clubs may not have taken advantage of its provision in the past under similar conditions, yet it did not deprive the Chicago club of the right to do so, if they so desired, notwithstanding that it might be termed as taking advantage of winning or losing a game upon a technicality.

"Merkle should have had only one thing on his mind, viz: to reach second base in safety, by a hit, error, or in any other way. The evidence clearly showed the following:

Didn't Reach Second.

"After Bridwell hit the ball safely, he ran to and over first base; McCormick started for home, and crossed the pate; Merkle started for second and when about half way to the base turned and ran in the direction of the clubhouse, without having reached second base. Emslie was officiating as umpire back of the pitcher; O'Day back of the catcher. When the hit was made, Emslie fell to the ground to escape being hit by the ball; he got up and watched the play at first base, and and saw that the batter had run out his hit. In the meantime, the ball was fielded in by Hoffman and eventually fielded to second base to Evers for a putout on Merkle. Tinker notified Emslie that Merkle did not run to second base. Emslie stated he did not see the play; and then went to his colleague, O'Day, and asked him whether he had seen the play. O'Day answered in the affirmative, and then Emslie asked him whether Merkle had run to second, and being informed that he had not, Emslie declared Merke out, which under the rule quoted above, he not only had a right to do, but was required to do.

Has a Precedent.

A similar case to this, occurring at Pittsburg earlier in the month, was mentioned as explaining O'Day's care in noticing the play. The decision continues:

"We therefore find that the ruling as made by the umpires was in accordance with the playing rules and in conformity with what happened on the field at the time. To set an umpire's decision on a judgment of play, by evidence from the persons in attendance at any game, would, in our mind, be establishing a bad and dangerous precedent, and one that the baseball public would condemn in a very short time. In this case, however, there is not a single line or word of testimony offered by the New York club that could even by inference be construed to mean that Merkle reached second base at any time, except from the affidavit of the player himself, which, however, was not made until after Mr. Pulliam had passed on the case. We can, therefore, come to no other conclusion than that the New York club lost a well-earned victory as the result of a stupid play of one of its members. We sustain the president in upholding the report of the umpires with reference to this game."

The directors state that they do not think any consideration should have been given to the protest of the Chicago club. It is stated "that the evidence shows that on the night of the game in question the Chicago club filed a claim with Mr. Pulliam for forfeiture of the game. This claim on their part tied the hands of the president and prevented the playing off of the tie game on the following day. The evidence also shows that on the day following the game in question, the New York club conferred with Mr. Pulliam and inquired of him whether they would be required to play off the tie game, and were informed by him that they would not be required to do so. To make an award of the game against the New York club under these conditions would be absurd. We therefore sustain the findings of the president with reference to the appeal filed by the Chicago club.

Must Play Tie.

"In reviewing this entire matter, we realize the great importance that the game in question may be in determining as to what club is to be declared the winner of the championship in the National league. In considering the same, the thought has occurred to us as to whether or not the New York club can be deprived of their rights to play off the tie game in question, especially so in view of the fact that the game was not played off by reason of any action of that club. Our judgment and finding is, that they cannot be deprived of their rights under the circumstances. As we have already stated, the evidence shows that the game was not played off on account of the estoppel of the Chicago club under the constitutional operation of their first claim. The evidence, we repeat, also indicates, in our judgment that the New York club would have played off this game on the only available day possible, had they not been informed by Mr. Pulliam that they would not be required to do so. This action on Mr. Pulliam's part cannot be criticised by any one because his hands were tied by the attitude of the Chicago club. We, therefore, hold that the New York club, should, in all justice and fairness under these conditions be given an opportunity to play off the game in question. For that reason we order that the game be played off on the Polo grounds on Thursday, Oct. 8, or as soon thereafter as the weather conditions will permit and both clubs are directed to govern themselves accordingly. We also require that the rules governing the world's series in so far as they apply to the playing field, shall govern in this contest.

New York Wins.

New York, Oct. 7.—There was another big gathering of fans at the Polo grounds yesterday, and they had an anxious time during the first five innings. Ferguson held his old clubmates well in hand up to the sixth inning, when they scored one run and followed up with three more in the seventh. Wiltse was very effective, but the visitors saved a shutout through Seymour's muff of Ferguson's fly, and the Boston twirler got home on a double to left center by Bates, after Becker had beaten out a nicely placed bunt. ## DETROIT WILD WITH DELIGHT

Citizens Celebrate Jennings' Victory in Every Way Imaginable.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 7.—Horns and squeakers, drums and blazing torches waved aloft with Manager Hugh Jennings' familiar cry of "Wee ah" on every tongue, wildly acclaimed Detroit's second winning of the pennant of the American league last night. Not only in the down-town section, but throughout the city unguarded packing boxes and lumber blazed up in celebration in every direction, while good natured police and firemen were kept busy checking bonfires and trying to keep the celebrators within bounds.

Official recognition of yesterday's victory of the Detroit American league baseball team was given by Mayor Thompson in the submission of a special message to the common council and the adoption by the council of the following resolutions:

"Resolved, that we on behalf of the people of the city of Detroit extend to Manager Hugh Jennings and to each and every member of the team the most hearty congratulations for the splendid work already done in winning for the second time within the space of two years, the championship of the American league.

"Resolved, that the merchants and the citizens generally are requested to decorate their places of business and residences for the day on which the games of the world series will be played here and that all employers be requested to afford every possible opportunit to those who desire to attend the world's championship games."

STUDENTS WHOOP IT UP

Rooting Will be a Big Feature in Saturday's Game.

Team Working Hard for Game With Grand Rapids Team.

Great preparations are being made by the students of the high school to attend the first big football game of the year next Saturday with Grand Rapids at Athletic park.

Horns, cowbells and everything that will make a noise along with pennants and colors are passing over the counters of Duluth stores in wholesale lots.

Brakes have been hired, automobile parties made up, and even the great race for the National league pennant is overshadowed by the football enthusiasm that has the students so firmly in its grasp. In the class rooms, on the campus, on the way to recitations, and even in chapel, the one topic talked is "football." The rooters' meeting had much to do with this, and it is safe to say that the team will not lack encouragement when it lines up against "Len" Rosette's strong Grand Rapids team.

Reports from Grand Rapids say that the team is showing wonderful form. That they are both heavy and fast, and they work together as a football machine should. They have a competent coach, a man who got his information while playing football on the team of the University of Wisconsin under Phil King, and if the boys from the brownstone school want to get away with the contest they will have to play the game for all there is in it.

It is expected that Cummings will be back in the game Saturday, and that the team will be made up wholly of the men who have been successful in making the eleven, and will play the entire year.

It's all over and the Tigers have won the greatest pennant race in the history of the American league. The result was in doubt until the last game of the season was played, and three teams finish within two games of each other.

The Sox broke under the whip in the stretch and went to pieces in the last game against the hard hitting Tigers, after one of the most wonderful exhibition of gameness seen on any diamond. The Tigers also showed what they were made of in rushing to lose their nerve when Chicago was coming with such a rush. The last victory was clean cut and decisive.

It was a victory of a team of sluggers over a team of "hitless wonders." The Sox are in many ways a phenomenal team. Dougherty is the only real batter on the team. He has been hitting .283 during the season, but the other players on the team average about .230. They make up for their weak batting in their sensational fielding, their wonderful base running, and their inside knowledge of the game. Time and again they have won games with one, two and three hits, while their opponents made two or three times that number, but the Sox were not beaten until the last ball was pitched.

The Tigers were just the reverse. They relied upon their sluggers to win their games. Crawford, Cobb, Rossman and McIntyre are a quartet of batters which worried the best of pitchers, and they were likely to break loose at any time with a cluster of hits. The first three batted over the .300 mark, which in these days is a phenomenal record, and McIntyre was close up with .286. No other team in the league could present such a quartet of hitters, and in fact Detroit had as many .300 hitters as all the rest of the league teams together. Only seven men passed the coveted mark, and one of these was Criss of St. Louis, who played in but a few games.

The victory of the Tigers is a triumph of batting and good coaching. They got a bad start, but steadily fought their way to the top of the league.

Many fans were anxious to see Cleveland win the pennant. The Naps have made a game fight for several years past, and were always a dangerous team. This year they were within striking distance all of the time, and lost by but half a game. The Cleveland team is probably the best balanced team in the league, having its share of good hitters, at least two star slab artists, and some sensational fielders.

In Duluth the Sox were probably the greatest favorites with Cleveland second, but the Tigers are conceded all the credit that is due them.

Turning to the National league, the sympathies of the Duluth fans are largely with Chicago. The game fight made by the Cubs in the face of their many handicaps has made them the favorites. Any other team would have been hopelessly out of the running, with Chicago's run of hard luck, but the Cubs stayed with the game and the game with New York tomorrow will decide the pennant winner.

In spite of the fact that the game will be played in New York in the presence of some 30,000 blood-thirsty Gotham fanatics, the Cubs are expected to win. They have found New York easy picking this season. It will be a battle worth seeing. Brown and Mathewson, looked upon as two of the greatest pitchers of recent years, will probably oppose each other. Brown has had a good rest, and Mathewson has also been saved for the game, not having pitched for four days.

VIRGINIA GETS CUP.

Hibbing People Admit That Virginia Has the Better Ball Club.

The loving cup offered by John Haley, proprietor of the Hibbing hotel, offered at the beginning of the year for the best baseball club on the range, has been awarded to Virginia.

Both Hibbing and Virginia put up a good article of ball this year and it was nip and tuck with them all summer, the rivalry between the two towns being at fever heat during the progress of some of the games, and as both teams had the ardent support of the fans, much money changed hands as a result.

The Hibbing management admits that the Virginia bunch had a shade the better of the argument this year. They take their defeat gracefully, however, and are already warning Virginia to begin to think about next year.

WRIGHT AIRSHIP CONTRACT LET

American Soarist to Sell Patent Rights for $100,000.

Lemans, Oct., 7.—Wilbur Wright has made a new airship record, remaining in the air for 1 hour 4 minutes and 26 seconds. His best previous record with a passenger was 53 minutes and 37 seconds.

Wright thus fulfills the conditions of the contract signed by him and Lazare Weiller, representing a syndicate. The contract calls for the payment to Wright of $100,000 by the syndicate, in return for which the syndicate secures the patent rights of the machine in France and the colonies. M. Weiller has already given an order to a French manufacturer for fifty aeroplanes on the Wright model.

Uncle Sam Wants Four.

Washington, Oct. 7.—Aerial navigation as an auxilliary to the naval service is contemplated in specifications for four flying machines for which proposals for construction will be asked. The specifications require that each machine shall carry two persons of a combined weight of 350 pounds, a sufficient supply of fuel at the start for a flight of at least 200 miles, for four hours at an average speed of not less than forty miles an hour, and to remain continuously in the air during the trial.

PUTS BLAME ON THE FISHERMEN

Nimrods Believed to Have Started Disastrous Fire Near Chisholm.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Forestry Commissioner C. C. Andreds after investigation has formed the conclusion that careless fishermen were largely responsible for the forest fire which destroyed Chisholm.

"I employed L. W. Ayer, an experienced cruiser and woodsman of Little Falls, Minn., to investigate and trace the Chisholm forest fire to its origin," said the commissioner. "This he did and reported that it had been started by fishermen at a lake eight miles northwest of Chisholm in the south part of the unorganized township 59, range 21. To satisfy myself more fully I spent two days last week in looking over the ground with Mr. Ayer.

"While the evidence is not absolutely conclusive, the circumstances show beyond a reasonable doubt that the fire was caused by the negligence of those fishermen. There were several persons in all, being residents of Chisholm, who engaged in fishing principally Saturdays and Sundays and making a business of taking fish for sale. There the two places at Island lake where their camp was burned out by their own negligence.

"There is good evidence that small forest fires started by these fishermen were burning in the vicinity of this lake two weeks before the Chisholm disaster. The track of the fire increasing in intensity leads from the camp of these fishemen directly to Chisholm. The country is rather undulating and with the exception of here and there some young growth, the valuable timber had been cut and removed several years ago, but the tops and refuse had been left, which with the bushes, grass and other dry vegetation made a dangerous amount of combustible material. In many places the soil itself appears to have been burned over from the intensity of the fire."

POLK COUNTY GOOD ENOUGH.

Land Authority is Satisfied With Northern Minnesota.

Crookston, Minn., Oct. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Joseph Ball, who deals in lands in this section, has returned from a trip to Oklahoma better convinced than ever that this section is far superior to the new state in a farming way.

"I am entirely satisfied with being a resident of the valley, and especially Polk county," said Mr. Ball. "To be sure, they are doing things in that section at the present time and their development has been something wonderful, but when it comes to comparing black soil with red, you can count me as favoring the black every time. I believe with the proper cultivation there is no reason why we cannot secure as large and almost as diversified crops in this section, and in my opinion, the time is not far distant when this will be demonstrated.

"I have talked with some of the best land men in the country and they are practically unanimous in expressing the opinion that next spring nothing can head off a big movement of landseekers and practical farmers into the Red River valley. They are beginning to talk it in all sections and the proper atmosphere is being created. There is no other section of the country where the conditions have been more propitious than here, and there is every reason to believe that it will be productive of results."

S.S.S. NATURE'S PERFECT TONIC

There is scarcely any one, no matter how vigorous and healthy, who does not need a tonic sometimes. Little physical irregularities upset the system, the appetite fails, digestion is poor, the body feels tired and worn-out, and other unpleasant symptoms give warning that the system is disordered and needs assistance to ward off, perhaps, some serious sickness or ailment. S. S. S. is recognized everywhere as the best of all tonics, nature's medicine, made entirely of healing, cleansing, invigorating roots and herbs, a systemic remedy without an equal. S. S. S. has the additional value of being the greatest of all blood purifiers. It re-establishes the healthy circulation of the blood, rids the body of that tired, worn-out feeling, improves the appetite and digestion, and brings about a return of health to those whose systems have been weakened or depleted. S. S. S. acts more promptly and pleasantly than any other medicine, and those who are run down in health should commence its use at once. It will thoroughly purify the blood and tone up the system. S. S. S. is admirably suited for a systemic remedy because it is free from minerals; it may be used without harmful results or unpleasant effects by persons of any age.

NEW LEAGUE MAY BE A GO

Al. Kuehnow Returns From St. Paul Enthusiastic Over Baseball.

A. C. Anson, Formerly of White Sox, May Manage Team.

Al Kuehnow reached the city last night after his jaunt to the Twin Cities for a talk with George Lennon and Mike Cantillion in reference to forming a new baseball league, bubbling over with enthusiasm over the project. Mr. Kuehnow says that both men are heartily in favor of giving the scheme a tryout, and that before very long things will be down to a working point in the new league. A meeting will be held some time next month in St. Paul, when the managers from all the towns included in the new league will be present, and the scheme will be thoroughly gone over at that time. Committees will be appointed to look well into every detail, and after the meeting it will be known whether or not the new league will be a go.

Eau Claire has already signified her intention of going in, and La Crosse can be depended on to furnish the goods. St. Paul and Minneapolis fans take well to the scheme, and Superior people are tired of amateur ball and have expressed a desire to be included.

While in Chicago Mr. Kuehnow talked with A. C. Anson, the old White Sox manager, who had already expressed a desire to come to Duluth and dip into baseball affairs. Mr. Kuehnow offered the veteran manager a controlling interest in the Duluth team if he would assume the management. Mr. Anson will come to Duluth later and may decide to stay.

"Further than the fact that there will be a meeting some time during the month, at which time things will take definite form, there is nothing new in the baseball situation," said Mr. Kuehnow.

CONVENTION IS CLOSED

Constitution of Sisters of Sons of Hermann Changed.

Next Aunual Meeting of Order to be Held at St. Paul.

The closing session of the annual convention of the Sisters of the Sons of Hermann of Minnesota was held this morning at Eagles' hall, the time being devoted to making necessary changes in the constitution of the order.

At yesterday afternoon's meeting the officers for the year were elected as follows: President, Fritz Ziegler of Stillwater; vice president, Mrs. W. Borchet of St. Paul; secretary, Mrs. Bertha Ench of Minneapolis; treasurer, Mrs. Augusta Haedrich of St. Paul. St. Paul was chosen for the annual meeting place for October of next year.

This evening the local lodge, of which the officers are Mrs. Elsie Beetcher, president; Mrs. Lenora Collatz, vice president; Mrs. Caroline Gnifke, exchequer; Mrs. Elizabeth Stock, treasurer; Mrs. Henriette Jensen, financial secretary, and Mrs. J. Huhm, secretary, will hold a meeting and initiation at Kalamazoo hall. Many of the delegates returned this afternoon to their homes, while others are remaining in the city to visit the points of interest.

CITY IS PROTECTED.

Insurance Policies Will Protect Municipality in Crematory Suits.

If Mrs. Lizzie Tierney, in her suit against the city for $5,000 damages for the death of her husband at the crematory, should secure a verdict from the jury, the city will not be out anything.

The city of Duluth is protected by two insurance policies from loss of money resulting from accidents at the plant. There is a public liability insurance policy which is supposed to cover losses the city might be held for in the case of the death or injury of persons not employed by the city at the crematory, and the employers' liability policy, which covers the losses when city employes hurt at the plant recover damages.

Tierney was employed as teamster by the Zenith Paper company and fell to his death while unloading waste paper at the incinerator. He was practically roasted alive.

Mrs. Tierney has given notice of a suit against the city.

CURLING CLUB MEETING.

Committee Will Try to Get Games With St. Paul.

At the first meeting this season of the Western Curling club, which was held last evening at their club home, corner of Bristol street and Fifty-seventh avenue west, plans for the curling games this winter were thoroughly gone over, and the rules revised to such extent, that new members may have an equal chance with the older. Instructions were given to the games committee to secure games at St. Paul and other cities.

In addition to the three trophies the club already has to play for during the coming winter, William Hurst has offered the club a set of four cups to be played for.

At the next meeting which will likely be held next week the remaining committees will be appointed.

DENIES HE STOLE COIN

George Drannen Says Money Found on Him Was His.

Case of Former Patrol Driver Almost Ready for Jury.

George Drannen, the former patrol wagon driver, charged with grand larceny in the second degree, in the theft of $30 from Herman Benson, a prisoner, at the police station, Aug. 2 of this year, was on the stand all morning in district court, in his own behalf. His testimony was a denial of having taken Benson's money, and he sought to prove that the money Chief Troyer found on him after Benson had claimed to have been robbed, was his own.

Drannen said that about July 15, he borrowed $15 from L. C. Coffin, with which to pay some small bills, which were already due. One account of working days and the stores being closed when he went off duty, he said he still had $10 of that money on Aug. 2. He said that the evening of July 31, he had drawn $20 from City Treasurer Voss to pay some other bills due on the first of the month. On account of Walter Murray, the other driver, asking him to work an extra day on that shift, he said he didn't get a chance to pay the bills on Saturday and was consequently waiting until Monday. He said he had the $30 on him when Chief Troyer searched him the first time.

The state's case was all in yesterday afternoon. Chief Troyer, the last witness for the state, told of the prisoner, Benson, complaining of having been robbed and he having searched Drannen for the money, failing to find it, but discovering it in the watch pocket of the man's trousers, the second time. The bills were not folded, he said, but were crumpled, as though crushed in the hand. Their denomination corresponded to those which Benson claimed to have lost.

The case will probably go to the jury this afternoon.

DULUTHIANS AT ROSEBUD.

Many Go to South Dakota to Try for Indian Lands.

About 100 Duluthians have gone to the Rosebud agency, South Dakota, to participate in the government's drawing for the opening of that large reservation for settlement.

An excursion over the Omaha yesterday, going by way of the Twin Cities and Sioux City, took many of the land seekers. Another excursion will be run next Tuesday.

Most of the Duluthians who left went prepared to camp out until the drawing takes place, as the accommodations for handling such a large crowd as will be on hand, are most inadequate at the agency.

FLIRTING WITH ORPHEUM PEOPLE
Duluth Men Offer Site for New Vaudeville House.
If the Orpheum circuit theater people are anxious to get a site in Duluth, on which to build a playhouse, they have an opportunity now.
Thomas Furniss and Thomas A. Merritt have leased the southeast corner of Second avenue west and First street for a period of 200 years, and are willing and anxious if the proper terms can be reached between them and the theater people, to sub-lease it to them. This is according to a statment made by Thomas A. Merritt this morning. He denied that they had already closed a deal with the Orpheum company, but said they would gladly negotiate with them for the site he and Mr. Furniss have recently leased.

NEW HOTEL FOR DULUTH

A Seven Story Building Planned for Fifth Avenue.

Work on Structure Will be Begun This Winter.

Duluth is to have a fine new seven-story hotel, which will cost several hundred thousand dollars.

The work on the new building, which is to be located on the northwest corner of Fifth avenue west, opposite the Lyceum building, will be started this winter. The plans are now being drawn up by Bray & Nystrom, architects. S. T. Levin, who owns the property, is backing the enterprise.

Several weeks ago it was stated in The Herald that an improvement would be made on this property, and the hotel is the building that was under consideration.

William T. Bray, of Bray & Nystrom, left today for a trip through the East, where he will investigate several of the most modern hotels, so that the ideas that he has thus obtains may be made use in erecting the new hotel for Duluth.

It is said that the new building will be larger than the Spalding or any other in the city at present, and will be thoroughly up-to-date in every respect.

Accidents will happen, but the best-regulated families keep Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil for such emergencies. It subdues the pain and heals the hurts.

Condition Is Critical.
Miss Annie Gould, who attempted suicide in a St. Croix avenue disorderly resort Sunday morning, is still in a critical condition at St. Mary's hospital. Her recovery is doubtful.

Stole Grain Doors.
One woman and two men were in police court this morning charged with petit larceny. It is claimed they stole grain doors from the Northern Pacific cars in the local yards. Mrs. John Havron, charged with taking two doors, was allowed to go under suspended sentence. James Jacobs, with fifteen doors to his discredit, and George Baum, charged with the theft of twelve doors, valued at $1 each, pleaded not guilty, and their hearing was set for tomorrow afternoon.

Gasoline Explosion.
E. Petrinsky, who owns the popcorn wagon at the corner of Superior street and First avenue east, was scorched at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon as the result of an explosion of his gasoline tank. The burning gasoline was scattered over his person, but bystanders succeeded in putting out the blaze before any serious damage was done.

Verdict For Company.
Under direction of Judge Dibell, a jury in district court returned a verdict yesterday afternoon of $708.50 in favor of the Duluth Brewing & Malting company in its suit against Maurice Harley. The suit was for goods furnished Harley while he was engaged in the business of bottling beer.

Report of Clerk.
The report of the clerk of the district court to the county attorney on the disposition of criminal cases on the May calendar has been compiled. It shows that of twenty-eight cases tried there were twenty-three convictions and five acquittals. Seven prisoners were sentenced to Stillwater, nine to the reformatory and seven to the county jail or to pay fines.

UNCLE DANIEL DEWBERRY.

Uncle Daniel Dewberry, from up Vermont way, stood in front of one of the big Broadway theaters and fished in the pockets of his corduroy pantaloons for a match. Failing to find one, he approached a sphinx-featured Thespian who stood near by, airing the homeliest bull terrier ever seen outside of Newport society.

"Mister, could you obligize me with a match?' drawled Uncle Daniel.

"Naw!" he blurted.

"I said naw. Do you understand?"

"Can't say that I do. Our schools down home teach yeou to say no, haven't they any schools here 'n Noo York?"

The board treader looked as though he was about to explode.

"To the woods!" he thundered. "Back to the maple trees for yours!"

"I don't understand neighbor," he drawled finally. "I asked yeou for a match."

"Yes; I'll hand you a package, old sugar face!"

"A package of matches? Why, by heck! I only need one match."

"Naw; not a package of matches. I'll hand you a lemon—big, juicy lemon."

"A lemon?"

"Sure! A ripe lemon."

"But what do I want with a lemon? I can't light my pipe with a lemon, by gum!"

"Aw, beat it!"

"Beat what?"

"Skidoo!"

"W-what?"

"23!"

"And what is 23?"

"Ain't yer wise, old glucose? 23, 23!"

"But what is 23?"

"Say, you listen! 23 is sixteen and seven. That's your number. Just mark down thirteen and add ten. That for yours—see? Are you on or off? Woof!"

The Thespian blew a puff of smoke from a purple-banded cigar into the face of Uncle Daniel and then strode up Broadway with the walking-beam strides of the heavy tragedian.

"Waal, by gum!" soliloquized Uncle Daniel as he took a firmer purchase on the handle of his yellow satchel. "I always did hear that the speed mania here in Noo York was turning the town TRY IT IN PARIS.

"Our French Independence Day," said M. Ecoffer, the famous cook, "is July 14. We make quite a day of it, too, I assure you. You don't outdo us at all in patriotism and enthusiasm on that day.

"We have a good joke in Paris that we play on our cabbies on July 14. You know how one asks a cabby if he is disengaged: 'Cocher, vous etes libre?'—'Driver are you free?'

"Well, the joke is to hail a cab and say:

"'Cocher, vous etes libre?'

"'Oui, monsieur,' the man answers, pulling up.

"Then you give a loud laugh, and say as you hurry off:

"'Mol aussi. Vivi la liberte!'—'So am I. Hurrah for freedom!!'"

A PRIMITIVE HOTEL.

The Rev. M. G. Dickinson of the Second Baptist church of Hoboken, was discussing the brilliant and successful war that he had made on the sheath skirt.

"The fact is," said Dr. Dickinson, smiling, "a good many women have lost sight of the purpose of the dress. They are misuing dress as—as—

"But listen: A friend of mine stopped overnight in a rough mining camp. The sole hotel's accommodations were most inadequate. My friend had no sugar for his coffee.

"The waiter took his cigar from his mouth and laid his soiled hand on my friend's shoulder in kindly fashion.

"'Sorry, boss,' he said, 'but ye'll hev to wait a few minutes fur the sugar, which there ain't but three lumps in the house. An' them Redface Leary an' Stump Jerome is usin' jest at present. They got 'em marked an' are shaking' dice with 'em. But I'll fetch 'em in the minute the boys are through.'"

Fishing Schooner Founders and Twenty-five Are Drowned.

Sole Survivor, Who Clung to Planks, Loses His Reason.

St. Pierre, Oct. 7.—Twenty-five men have been drowned as the result of the foundering of the French fishing schooner Juanita, on the grand banks.

The sole survivor, the captain of the vessel, who managed to cling to some planks for several hours, was brought here today. He has lost his reason.

The disaster occurred during a heavy gale.

WOMAN IS HELD IN MURDER CASE

Authorities Decide to Arrest Mrs. Erb, Following Tragedy.

Philadelphia, Oct. 7.—As the result of an investigation today, District Attorney McDade of Delaware county, has deemed it necessary to order the arrest of Mrs. J. Clayton Erb, whose husband was shot and killed late last night at the Erb country home, near Glen Riddle, Pa.

This is because Mrs. Katherine Beisel, Mrs. Erb's sister, had repudiated an alleged confession the police say she made last night, in which she admitted having killed her brother-in-law. Detectives reached the house this afternoon and it is expected the widow will be taken to jail as soon as she recovers her composure sufficiently to stand the trip.

It is said Mrs. Beisel was in the house not longer than ten minutes before the shooting occurred.

SNAKES' EGGS HATCHING.

Scientific American: Because of the popular aversion to the serpent family there is a surprising amount of ignorance about even the simplest of snake habits. It is doubtful if many correct answers could be given to the question whether snakes lay eggs or bear their young alive. As a matter of fact, some species are viviparous and others oviparous. Most of the poisonous snakes, as well as many of our harmless varieties, belong to the former class.

The European ring snake is closely allied to our common water snake and goes by the scientific name Tropidonotus natrix. Curiously enough, all other members of the genus Tropidonotus are viviparous, and this species alone lays eggs. Furthermore, according to Gadow's "Amphibia and Reptiles," the new laid eggs usually show not the slightest visible sign of an embryo, unless oviposition is delayed, when the embryos are more or less developed.

The eggs are laid in July or August in a soft bed of loam or decaying vegetation, or in a heap of manure. The older snakes sometimes lay as many as a dozen eggs or more, and they usually stock together so that the entire cluster can be picked up at once. Sometimes, however, if the process of laying is slow, they will be separated. The eggs are about an inch long and of a whitish yellow color. The shell is thin and flexible like parchment.

The young hatch in late summer or autumn. Before hatching they develop a sharp calcareous growth on the tip of the snout known as the egg tooth, with which the shell is slit open. Unlike hatching chicks, which are suddenly dispossessed by the breaking of their brittle shells, the young snakes may make many incisions in the parchment envelopes and take many peeps at the inside world before venturing forth into the new environment. Shortly after hatching the egg tooth is lost.

At first the young live on insects and worms, but within a few weeks they are strong enough to attack and devour young frogs. Strangely enough, although the adults are strong swimmers, and spend much time in ponds and streams hunting the fish and frogs on which they subsist, the young are unable to swim, and they will soon drown if they fall into the water. The European ring snake, as well as the American water snake, makes an excellent pet; it is perfectly harmless, becomes very tame, and learns to know the difference between friends and strangers. Gadow tells of a pet ring snake that would eat from his hand, crawl up his coat sleeve and coil itself contentedly on his arm.

TURN ABOUT.

"On account of this treatment," she said, "intelligent young men and women keep out of domestic service, despite the good pay and the comfort. But who can blame them? In a court of law, one day, a man cook was testifying and simply because he was a cook, everybody there, from the judge down to the cryer, felt entitled to call him by his first name. Had he been a cart driver they would have called him Mr. Smith. But no, he was in domestic service.

"A young governess, a Vassar girl, turned to me during the trial and said that she, as a governess, met with just such treatment on all sides. She said that, on the lawn of her country house, her mistress once introduced her to a gentleman.

"'Miss Jones,' so the introduction concluded, 'is our governess, you know.'

"The governess looked at her mistress expectantly, as if waiting for something.

"'And,' she said—'I beg your pardon—but what does the gentleman do?'

"'What do you mean?' said the mistress haughtily.

"'You have told him my occupation,' said the governess, 'Now I want to know his, so that the acquaintance may start fair.'"

GNAGG SCENTS A TRAP.

And Makes a Quick Change in His Summer Plans.

Mr. Gnagg, striding up and down the apartment and tousling his hair, exudes in essence and in part, the following:

So you don't feel like visiting your folks out in Indiana for a couple of months this summer, eh? Oh, all right. I only meant to let you have a good time in sending you out there to the farm, but if you can't see it, why, that ends it.

Of course, you never think of me. You think only of yourself. That's come to be an understood thing.

It would be too much to expect you to consider that I need a kind of change and a rest from—a rest once in a while. That's where all you women make a miserable mistake. You hang and hang and hang on to a man, and never give him ten inches of rope or a run for his money or a chance for his taw marble, and the result is that he becomes harness sore and tired and——

How's that? Now, never mind putting words into my mouth. I didn't say that I wanted you away from me. I merely sugested that if you were to visit your people for a couple of months this summer you could have a fine restful time on the farm while I——

Oh, there you go. You imagine that the minute a man's wife goes away on a summer trip he immediately begins to haunt the stage doors of theaters, and prowls around roof gardens hunting for affinity trouble, and drinks himself to the verge of the d. t. s., and scouts around playing poker and the ponies all the rest of the time. That's the kind of a hasheesh idea most of you women frame up, and that's the reason, of course, you stick and stick and stick around until absolutely a fellow sometimes——

Huh? No such thing, and you know it! Me all run dow and sick and nervous when you came back from your visit to your folks three summers ago? Moonshine! I was feeling as fit as a bulldog when you got back that time, only I was annoyed when you came romping back upon me without letting me know that yu were coming.

I telegraphed for you, asking you to come home? Ha, ha! Well, well, if I had an imagination like yours I'd be unreeling best sellers with both hands day and night, and I'd——

But shucks, what's the use of a man getting himself all worked up arguing with a woman? I'm a fool to do it. If I haven't learned yet, after all these years, that women haven't got as much sense of reason as a red ant on a hot rock, I guess I'm hopeless, and that's a fact.

How's that? You wanted to visit your folks in Indiana during the holidays and I wouldn't let you go? Well, d'ye suppose I was going to have you gallivanting around the country in the middle of winter and everything cold and dreary around here, and——

What's the difference between your going then and going this summer? Heap of difference. All the difference on earth! The summer's the time when a fellow feels like sort of throwing off the shackles and—I mean, you'd have a lot more fun visiting the farm in the summer, wouldn't you, than in piling out there in the middle of winter, with snow on the ground, and——

Oh, that's it, is it? You like the ocean breezes pretty well yourself in the summer time, do you, and you don't feel called upon to landlock yourself out in the middle of Indiana during the four open air months on the Atlantic seaboard? I might have known you'd say something like that. Always, forever, perpetually thinking of yourself, and nobody else.

I tell you what, this matrimonial game as it's practiced in the United States isn't fair, and you know it. It's lopsided, and the man gets the punk end of it at every stage of the route.

He's expected to dig out, day after day, week after week, month after month, and year after year, and slave and toil and moil for the money, and he's never allowed an inch of leeway or sea room, and he's under the gun from the time he gets up until he turns in at night, and he's never allowed to enjoy the companionship of bright people that he might be on all sorts of chummy terms with if he weren't tangled up in a connubial arrangement that gives him the worst of it from beginning to end, and when the whole blamed business gets on his nerves and becomes a bore, and he even hints at such a thing as an occasional little chance to get off by himself for a spell so's he can think for himself and get back to his normal individuality, why—

How's that? Is it conceivable that a married woman ever gets tired of the same sort of monotony? You can just bet it is, and—er—

Say, look a-here; am I to understand that you're getting your kicking clothes on? Who said anything about monotony? I haven't used the word for five years to my certain knowledge. Monotony, hey! So you find it monotonous around your home, do you? Oho! That's the lay of the land, is it?

However, go as far as you like. I'm getting armor-plated to cracks like that, I am, and—

Oh, I'm complaining all the time, am I? That's it, adopt the old, old feminine dodge of trying to sidetrack me and put me on the defensive—go ahead.

I'll tell you one thing, though, and that is, that if you're not going to visit your folks in Indiana this year, I certainly am not going to spend the summer hiking you around summer resorts, I've had all of that kind of thing I care for. We'll stay right here, and if you—

How's that? Would I keep the apartment open if you went out to visit your folks? Sure I would! Where d'ye imagine I'd sleep—on top of the Singer building?

You see, my dear, my idea is that if you went out to Indiana, why, we could let the maid go, and I could just sleep here, you see, and get my meals out anywhere, and the janitor's wife could keep the apartment straightened out—make the bed and all that sort of thing—and probably while you're gone I'll have the place repapered and new burlap put on the dining room walls; and look at the fun you'd have with the chickens and things out there on the farm—how you do love chickens—and you could have those fine old buggy rides that you like so much, and you'd feel a thousand times better out there than you would paddling up and down a fool boardwalk or in some bedinged summer resort hotel, where you had to dress four times a day, and—

Huh! Why don't I go out to the farm with you, then? By the way, I'm going to have some of these allenists look you over, I certainly am. What! You want to drag me off to a measly old—I mean to say, how the dickens could I leave my business? Answer me that.

Anyhow, when it comes to that, and since you're so blamed inquisitive about it, let me tell you that our cases are different. You were virtually brought up on that farm out there, whereas I don't know anything about farms. I was born and bred in the city, and—

Oh, that's all the more reason why I should enjoy learning something about farm life, is it? Great line of reasoning, that! Why don't you ship as carpenter's mate on a man-o'-war so's you can learn how to shiver your timbers and splice the starboard rail and all like that? Huh!

But here I go again, maundering on like an infernal pulp nut, when I know, or ought to know, that there isn't a chance in the world that you'll ever meet my views with regard to anything, and that—

What's that? You were only fooling, and you meant all the time to go out and visit your folks in Indiana? Well, that's something like it. There's a dear girl, and I'm sure you'll have the finest imaginable sort of a time, and when you get back—

How? You're sure yourself that you'll have a fine time, because there's a fine new automobile and country club out near your folks' farm now, and all of your old beaus have sold their horses and buggies and bought automobiles, and you—er—you— you——

Well, I like that, blamed if I don't. So that's your idea, is it? Well, I always thought I was more or less blind, and now I know it.

I see it all now. You've only been putting up a phony fight against going out to Indiana so's to make me strong on the subject of your going—aha! Well, men are a dumb lot, but I guess you'll find me not quite so dumb as you suppose.

I know what these country clubs in the Middle West are, you know. Know all about 'em. Those country clubs out there can give the bookmakers' restaurants in this man's town cards and spades and still beat them out for hetupness, and——

Aha! So that's it, is it? And all of those hankypanks of old beaux of yours have staked themselves to buzz wagons now, have they, and you were framing up—scientifically framing up—a cute little summer for yourself out on your folks' farm, were you?

Well, I'm going to have my head examined under the violet ray, that's all. It needs it. When you can come so near to getting away with a frameup like that, why, it's pretty nigh time—

But I guess I'm still allowed to handle the little old cancelling machine, eh? I am, let me tell you that. You lose on that Indiana scheme of yours for this summer—lose good and plenty. I guess we'll just about put in the summer on this side of the Alleghanies in the usual way, couple of weeks at the beach and then a trot around up in the mountains and so on.

But just to think of how near I came to biting! You pretending all the time that you loathed the idea of a visit to your folks this summer, and all the time you were thinking about those Rubes and their rattletybang old gas gigs—and me falling for it! It'll be a Matteawan finish for me. I can see that. Matteawan, just as sure as shootin'!

BEAMS FOR ORGAN PIPES.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat: "Organ pipes," says a well-known builder of this city, "are made of the best white pine and the older and better seasoned the wood the better the quality of tone given out by the pipe.

'In Germany and England, when an old public building, such as a church, town hall or large structure of any kind, is to be taken down, there is always an organ builder haunting the place to find out of what wood the roof and floor beams are made, and if he discovers that they are of white pine, he is ready to pay almost any reasonable price for them, provided, of course, they are in good condition, without knots or nail holes. He knows that many of these churches and other buildings were erected 400 or 500 years ago, and that through forty or fifty decades the wood has been slowly drying and hardening until it has reached a condition which, from the organ builder's point of view, is perfection. Then he takes the old beams home to his factory, covering them in transit with tarpaulins, cuts them into boards of the desired size, and makes his pipes with perfect confidence that the organ will be a musical success.

"Most of the old organs of Europe, that is, organs built from 100 to 300 years ago, have a mellowness of tone that distinguishes them from modern instruments, and although the skill of the tones is now lessening the difference between new pipes and those that have been seasoned by long use, there is still a difference between the old organs and the new, just as there is between violins made now and those Cremona instruments that have mellowed with time.

"American organ builders spend no time looking for old beams, but they do keep their lumber seasoning, and for several years before they use it, and then depend upon the toner to make up the difference."

HE DIDN'T WORRY.

The Working Out of Hezekiah Doolittle's Theory.

Youth's Companion: His name was Hezekiah Doolittle and he was blessed with a sanguine temperament. When he proposed to Annie Warner she inquired what means he had with which to support a wife. "None whatever," said the cheerful Hezekiah, "but poverty is no disgrace, and some day I expect to strike it rich."

They were married and went to live with Annie's parents, "until something turned up." Hezekiah passed by the small jobs, looking for something big, but he was always on hand for meals.

Annie fretted because they were a burden on her parents and chided him for his inaction.

"Don't worry," said he. "It will spoil your beauty."

Hezekiah lived up to his own creed and refused to worry, no matter how great the provocation. Even when Annie's parents turned them out he was perfectly calm. "The Lord will provide!" he exclaimed placidly, but his wife wasted no time on talk. She rented a small cottage, bought some furniture on credit and took in washing.

"The debt on the furniture will soon be due," she reminded him one day.

"Never trouble trouble until trouble troubles you," quoted Hezekiah.

So his wife did plain sewing at night to increase their scanty income. Then a baby was born and Annie was unable to work. "What shall we do?" she cried.

"Don't worry. It will injure your health," soothed Hezekiah. "I am still expecting something to turn up."

Annie's folks helped them for a year and then rented a larger house and took in boarders.

"The rent will soon be due" she told her husband as she glanced anxiously at the calendar.

"Take no thought for the morrow," reproved Hezekiah. "The morrow will take thought for things of itself."

Annie worked harder. Her cares increased as the family increased, and she lost her beauty, her health and her temper.

"You worry too much," remonstrated her husband. "Why don't you take a hopeful view of life, as I do?"

Human endurance has its limits, and the end came at last. Annie died of overwork, her parents took the children and the hopeful Hezekiah was left to shift for himself.

"The world owes me a living," said he, so he took to the road. As he tramped out of the village, past the little country cemetery, his eye sought out the unsodded grave of his wife and he sighed.

"The ways of Providence are inscrutable," he murmured resignedly. "She was a good wife, but she would worry."

Mrs. Allen B. Clarke of Garfield county, California, has just received the indorsement of the Normal Institute for the office of state superintendent of public instruction. She is now serving her second term as superintendent of schools for Garfield county. Her indorsement by the Normal Institute was non-partisan.

Are you hoping that your business will break all records this fall? Herald publicity is the most important factor in bringing this about.

WHEAT HAS AN ADVANCE

Patten the Chicago Bull Causes Some Little Excitement.

Flax is Off at the End of Session in Duluth Market.

Duluth Board of Trade, Oct. 7.—Mr. Patten of Chicago furnished much of the little excitement there was in the wheat market today. Mr. Patten bought diligently and persistently through the session, and in the face of his activity, the prices went up. There was no particular provocation for the rise in Duluth and some of the other markets, but they all advanced in sympathy with Chicago.

The government crop report placed the total yield of spring wheat in the United States this year at 223,090,000 bus, an average of 13.2 bus to the acre. This report did not occasion any surprise to the trade.

Liverpool closed ¼d higher to ½d lower, Berlin ¼c lower and Budapest 1¼c lower.

The December option closed ⅝c higher in Duluth and St. Louis, ⅞@1c higher in Chicago, 1c higher in New York, ⅝@⅝c higher in Kansas City and ⅝c higher in Winnipeg. The May option closed ½c higher in Duluth, 1c higher in Chicago and St. Louis, ⅝c higher in Minneapolis, ⅝c higher in New York and Kansas City and ⅜c higher in Winnipeg.

December corn closed ¼c higher in Chicago and ½d higher in Liverpool. December oats closed ⅛@⅜c higher in Chicago.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "Wheat—The weakness in American and Canadian markets yesterday was off-set by the fact of very small American clearances and shorts here were nervous, which resulted in a steady opening with values unchanged to ½d lower. During the early trading the near-by month gained an additional ½d on the continued light cargo arrivals and fair demand. Later, however, selling pressure developed in the distant month, which lost ⅝d. This selling was due to the continued highly favorable crop reports from both Australia and Argentine, advance in consols and the heaviness in spot markets. At mid-day, the market was dull and unchanged to ½d lower than Tuesday.

"Corn was steady at the start and unchanged. Later shorts in October, started covering and this month was advanced ¼d. The general market, however, was extremely dull."

Primary receipts of wheat were 1,783,000 bus, last year 1,697,000 bus. Shipments 1,122,000 bus, last year 1,079,000 bus. Clearances of wheat and flour were 845,000 bus.

Primary receipts of corn were 277,000 bus., last year 875,000 bus. Shipments 165,000 bus, last year 647,000 bus. Clearances of corn were 2,300 bus.

Wheat was fairly active during the early part of the session today, when prices were off, but they rallied when the demand improved and in sympathy with Chicago.

December wheat opened ¼c lower at $1, declined to 99⅞c, reacted to $1.01 and closed there, a gain of ¾c over yesterday. May wheat opened ⅝c lower at $1.01, declined to $1.03⅞, rallied to $1.05 and closed at $1.04⅞, a gain of ⅛c over yesterday.

Durum wheat closed ⅛c higher and cash spring wheat was selling on a basis of 1½c over December for No. 1 northern.

Flax was fairly active, but the tone was easier and closing prices off. October flax opened ½c lower at $1.24, declined to $1.21⅞, rallied to $1.23 and closed at $1.22¼, a loss of ¾c from yesterday. November flax opened ¼c lower at $1.23¾, went off to $1.22¾, rallied to $1.23⅝, declined to $1.22¾, and closed at $1.23, a loss of ½c from yesterday. December flax opened ¼c lower at $1.21⅛, declined to $1.21½, rallied to $1.22 and closed at $1.21¼, a loss of ¾c from yesterday. May wheat opened ¾c lower at $1.26⅜, went off to $1.26, rallied to $1.26⅜ and closed at $1.26, a loss of 1c from yesterday.

Oats closed ¼c higher and other coarse grains were unchanged.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Brisk Buying by the Commission Houses Wipes Out Losses.

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 7.—The wheat market opened easy at declines of ⅛ to ⅜c, but soon regained all of the initial losses on brisk buying by commission houses. The weakness at the start was due to lower prices for wheat at many of the European grain centers, and to continued liberal receipts in the Northwest. December opened at 98 to 98⅛c and advanced to 98½c. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 1,414 cars against 1,083 cars last week and 611 cars a year ago.

The market gained additional strength during the last part of the day, because of a report that Eastern millers were active buyers of cash wheat here. The high point for December was reached at 99⅝c. The close was strong with December ⅞@1c higher at 99⅜c.

Buying by leading bulls caused strength in the corn market following moderate weakness at the start due to general selling brought out by favorable weather for the maturing of the new crop. The December delivery, which was in greatest demand, advanced to 64⅝c, after opening off a shade to ⅛@¼c at 64¼ to 64¼c. Local receipts were more than what had been estimated, the arrivals being 116 cars, with 47 of contract grade.

Oats were steady on buying by shorts and pit traders based on the firmness of wheat and corn. December opened ⅛@¼c lower at 48⅝c and sold at 48⅜c. Local receipts were 130 cars.

Provisions were firm in sympathy with strength of grain. Prices at the opening were 7½c lower to 5c higher.

Close: Wheat—December, 99¼c; May, $1.02¾; July, 96c. Corn—October, 74c; December, 64½@⅝c; May, 63⅜c. Oats—December, 49½c; May, 51⅛@⅜c; July, 46⅜@⅝c. Pork—October, $13.80; December, $14.02½; January, $15.95; May, $15.80. Lard—October, $9.92½; November, $9.95; January, $9.55; May, $9.50. Ribs—October, $9.22½; January, $8.50; May, $8.50@8.62½. Corn—No. 2, 78@79c; No. 2 white, 78½c; No. 2 yellow, 73½@⅞c; No. 3 yellow, 78¼c; No. 3 yellow, 79c. Oats—No. 3 white, 47@50c; No. 4 white, 44@48c; standard, 51c.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Bumps Dollar Line, But Does Not Go Below.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 7.—December wheat bumped the dollar line at the opening today, but did not go below and quickly rallied a cent. The government report was awaited with interest and a good many bought wheat on expectation of bullish figures. The supply seemed bearish. Elevator stocks made the biggest increase of any one day this season, gaining a straight half million and showing an increase of 1,650,000 bus for four days. Minneapolis received 715 cars against only 146. Duluth 403 against 397, Winnipeg 548 and 261. The government report was moderately bullish, showing somewhat lighter returns than indicated last month. This caused ½c additional advance. December opened at $1.00¼@1.00¼; high, $1.01⅜; low, $1; close, $1.01⅜; old December closed at $1.01⅜. May opened at $1.04¼; high, $1.05⅜; low, $1.04¼; close, $1.05⅜.

Cash demand was excellent, No. 1 Northern going to millers and elevators at 1⅛@2c over December and No. 2 at December prices to ¼c under. There was no difficulty in selling everything despite the liberal offerings. There was good demand for velvet chaff and durum wheat. Closed: No. 1 Northern spot $1.02⅞@1.03⅛; to arrive, $1.03⅛. No. 2 Northern spot, $1.00⅞@1.01⅛; to arrive, $1.01⅛. No. 3 wheat 96@99c.

No. 3 yellow corn, 74½c.

No. 3 white oats, 46¼@⅝c.

No. 2 rye, 71⅜@72¾c.

The market was just about even with yesterday all around. Close: 51@57½c.

Flour remains firm and unchanged, demand domestic trade holding up and enough foreign inquiry coming in to make a good business. Shipments, 69,314 barrels. First patents, $5.65@5.80; second patents, $5.50@5.65; first clears, $4.45@4.50; second clears, $3.50@3.60.

MASONIC NOTICE.

All members of Ionic and Palestine Lodges, A. F. & A. M., and sojourning Master Masons, are requested to meet at Masonic Temple, Thursday, Oct. 8, at 2:30 p. m. sharp, for the purpose of attending the funeral of our late brother, Stephen T. Welsh.

By order,
C. F. WIEHERG, W. M.
H. R. BURGO, Sec'y.

A QUICK GROWER.

William M. Mauss, Chicago's industrial commissioner, recently visited New York and with great success pointed out to New Yorkers, Chicago's many advantages as an industrial center.

Praising his great city at a dinner, Mr. Mauss smiled and said: "Indeed, the quick growth of Chicago is as remarkable as that of Tin Can.

"'Only six years old,' he said, 'and the finest young town in the West.'

"'Tin Can, the finest young town in the west? Nonsense!' said the tenderfoot. 'I don't like it at all.'

"'You don't?' exclaimed the native, astonished. 'When were you there?'

"'Last week.'

"'Ah,' said the native, 'but you ought to see the place now.'"

ANOTHER GIBE AT WEDLOCK.

Bernard Robbins, head of the legal department of New York's Court of Tears—this charity helps the poor to adjust their marital troubles without going to the expense of lawsuits—said the other day:

"Such work as mine makes you, if you are not careful, pessimistic about marriage, so that you find yourself telling grimly, over and over again, the story about St. Peter and the widower.

"What, you don't know the story?

"Well, it seems that two souls approached St. Peter side by side, and the younger was repulsed sternly by the saint on the ground that, since he had never been married, he had never known suffering.

"The older man advanced with glad confidence. He stated that he had been married twice.

"But him, too, the saint repulsed, saying:

"'This is no place for fools.'"

STOCKS ARE IRREGULAR

Market Opened With Uncertain Tone, Advanced But Fell Off.

Rise in United States Steel Feature of Last Hour.

New York, Oct. 7.—The tone of the opening stock market was very irregular. The most active stocks, Union Pacific, Reading, Rock Island stocks and Amalgamated Copper, were a fraction lower while Southern Pacific, the Hill stocks, Erie and American Smelting advanced a fraction. Minneapolis & St. Louis rose 1 and Great Northern preferred, Canadian Pacific, New York Central and American Smelting large fractions. Union Pacific declined ⅝.

The trend of prices turned upward, covering of shorts in Union Pacific and Rock Island and a brisk demand for the Erie and the United States Steel causing a general hardening to above yesterday's closing. Rock Island preferred rallied from 49 to 49⅞ but met an avalanche of stock later which broke it to 47½ and forced the general list into a decline. Union Pacific and Northern Pacific gave way a point below last night and some other leaders receded to the lowest. Pittsburg, C. C. & St. Louis preferred gained four.

The pressure in Union Pacific, Reading and the Hill stocks was decisive on the tone of the market. Union Pacific was forced down 2, Reading 1¾, Northern Pacific 1½, and Amalgamated Copper and a number of others, a point more. Pacific Coast sold at a decline of 2¾. News from Europe was regarded as threatening. Bonds were irregular.

Higher prices were registered, the requirements of the short interest rallying Union Pacific and Northern Pacific a point and bringing other stocks back to yesterday's closing level. Purchases of United States Steel at an advance of ⅞ contributed largely to the improvement. Chicago and Alton advanced and Louisville and Nashville, Republic Steel preferred and Utah Copper, 1.

The demand persisted until the list was on a parity with yesterday's closing, after which buying slackened, but there were no symptoms of weakness. Pullman advanced 2½.

The market closed irregular and uncertain. The rise of 1½ in United States Steel to 47 was the feature of the last hour. Some of the other iron and steel stocks rose in sympathy. There was a demonstration also in the Southern railway group, Louisville & Nashville and Pittsburg, C. C. St. Louis rising 2½, Atlantic Coast Line and United States Realty 2 and the Southern Railway stocks and Chespeake & Ohio 1. The rest of the list did not respond vigorously to this restricted movement and sold off again later.

Closing prices are bid.

HUNTED BY A SKELETON.

So many years ago that the reading public must have forgotten all about it several packages containing human bones were fished out of the bay and the newspapers made a sensational story out of the find. The usual theories of murder were advanced and the early day yellows even supplied the details, says the New York Sun.

Then something else happened which demanded space and the occurrence was forgotten. There was one man in New York who was glad that the matter passed out of public knowledge, for those same bones had bothered him for years.

A little investigation at the time would have settled that there was no murder, that the bones made up a complete skeleton which some doctor or medical school had discarded. Why the one man who knew did not come forward and explain will be clear from what follows.

An army surgeon who was about to leave the city asked a brother who lived then in Forty-first street to take care of some of his belonging, included in the list was the pasteboard box containing a skeleton, not articulated.

The brother accepted the charge, though he demurred a bit over the skeleton. He took it, however, and stored it in a sort of attic up under the roof. Not the regular sort of attic which is meant to store things in, but just the space between the third floor ceiling and the flat roof.

There the bones reposed peacefully for some years. The army surgeon never returned to claim them. As a matter of fact he died in a foreign land.

The involuntary custodian of the skeleton decided to sell his house. He sold it to a lawyer and found a home elsewhere. When he moved, the box of bones stored up under the roof was forgotten.

Some months later the lawyer's wife, happening to go to the roof for some purpose, notic

ARTICLES OF INCORPORATION.

We, the undersigned, for the purpose of forming a corporation under and pursuant to the general statutes of the State of Minnesota, more especially Sections 3070 and 3071, Revised Laws of Minnesota for 1905, have signed and agreed upon and do hereby adopt the following:

I.

The name of this corporation shall be International Mines Development Company. Its principal place of business shall be at Duluth, Minnesota, but it may also establish offices elsewhere without this state. The general nature of its business shall be the mining, smelting, reducing and refining and working of ores and minerals and marketing the products thereof. The principal place of transacting said business shall be in British Columbia.

II.

The time of the commencement of this corporation shall be October 10, 1908, and the period of its duration shall be thirty years.

III.

The names and places of residence of the incorporators are: William Wallinder, Erick G. Wallinder, Louis Ramstad, Edwin Ramstad and Charles Danielson, all of Duluth, Minnesota.

IV.

Its management shall be vested in a board of five directors who shall be elected by the stockholders at each annual meeting thereof to be held in the city of Duluth, Minnesota; their term of office shall continue until the next annual meeting thereafter or until their successors shall be elected. The foregoing incorporators shall compose the first board of directors and hold their office until the first election thereafter.

V.

The annual meeting of said corporation shall be held at the office of said Company in the city of Duluth, Minnesota, on the second Monday in the month of October, each year, at 1 o'clock P. M., and no notice thereof shall be required.

VI.

The amount of its capital stock shall be $100,000 to be divided into 1,000 shares of the par value of $100 each; it shall be paid either in property or cash or both as may be determined by the board of directors.

VII.

The highest amount of indebtedness or liability to which the corporation shall at any time be subject, shall be $300,000.

VIII.

The sale or disposal of the entire stock held by a director or an officer shall ipso facto terminate his office. In case of a vacancy in the office of a director or the president or secretary shall call an election upon three days' notice to the stockholders given through the mails, at which election his successor shall be elected to fill the vacancy for the unexpired term.

ORDER FOR HEARING ON PETITION FOR ADJUSTMENT OF FINAL ACCOUNT AND FOR FINAL DECREE OF DISTRIBUTION.—
State of Minnesota, County of St. Louis, —ss.
In Probate Court.

The petition of John Benesch, as representative of the above named decedent, together with his final account of the administration of said estate, having been filed in this court, representing, among other things, that he has fully administered said estate, and praying that said final account of said administration be examined, adjusted and allowed by the court, and that the court make and enter its final decree of distribution of the residue of the estate of said decedent to the persons entitled thereto, and for the discharge of the representative and the sureties on his bond.

IT IS ORDERED, That said petition be heard, and said final account examined, adjusted and allowed, by the court, at the Probate Court Rooms, in the Court House, in the City of Duluth, in said County, on Monday, the 26th day of October, 1908, at ten o'clock A. M., and all persons interested in said hearing and in said matter are hereby cited and required at said time and place to show cause, if any there be, why said petition should not be granted.

ORDERED FURTHER, That this order be served by publication in The Duluth Evening Herald, according to law.

Dated at Duluth, Minn., September 29th, 1908.

By the Court,
J. B. MIDDLECOFF,
Judge of Probate.

POSTMAN WHO GREW FAMOUS.

When all the belated dispatches heralding the progress of Jack London, novelist, about the unchartered seas in his yacht Snark have been collected there will be ample material for another autobiography, or a magazine contract from the pen of the author of "The Call of the Wild." Yet there are a few items concerning London's youth which the author and his friends have overlooked in the past, says the New York Sun.

For instance, it has never been told that when London had his first piece of fiction accepted he was a postman. Just about the time that his check arrived from a well known short story magazine of the newsstand type, published in Boston, London's name was posted in the postoffice at Oakland, Cal., in the list of those who had passed the civil service examination for the position of carrier.

His rank was higher than that of any of the other ten or a dozen successful applicants. London carried the mail pouch for a short time only and then he suddenly began to find himself famous because of the vogue of his first Alaskan stories and he gave up his job with the postoffice.

When London came back from his cruises on a sealing schooner to enter the Oakland high school he was a shock haired, unkempt youth of about 21, who always wore a blue sweater and who rode to school on a dilapidated bicycle. Because of his age he appeared to the other students there as a man full grown who was hardly to be met on the footing of comradeship.

It was not until he began to write little monologues in tramp dialect for the school paper that London attracted attention. Some of the things he wrote for that school paper he could sell under his name today, for they were far and way above the calibre of the school paper story.

The awe in which the students held the husky young man increased one day when after he had been attending school for about a year he was arrested for addressing an outdoor Socialist meeting in Oakland's City Hall park without police permission. That capped the student wonder and he was generally considered either a genius or a "bug."

ADVICE TO THE LOVELORN.

An Albany politician was discussing the heart troubles that ofttimes draw famous men unwillingly into court.

"If these men," said he, "would paste in their hats poor expatriated Abe Hummel's advice, they'd have no difficulty whatever.

"Abe's advice, which he incessantly repeated to his clients, was:

"'Never make love to a woman through an ink bottle.'"

HEARING IN NOVEMBER

Tax Amendment Will Not be Argued Until After Election.

Case is Set for Nov. 20 on Supreme Court Calendar.

The tax amendment to the state constitution, providing that the legislature may classify different kinds of property in the state and levy different taxes, according to this classification, but with a uniform tax on each class, which was voted on at the last general election and declared carried by the election board, but which later was declared lost by Judge Dibell in district court, will come up for argument in the state supreme court Nov. 20.

According to the decision handed down by Judge Dibell, the tax amendment, which was declared carried in the first place, was really lost. Through the transposition of the amendments on the tally sheets, hundreds of votes, which were intended for the road and bridge amendment, on the same ballot, were credited to the tax amendment. The road and bridge amendment, included to provide funds for improving roads and building bridges through the state, was originally lost. It was declared carried by the Duluth judge, and last July an appeal was taken to the supreme court by the attorney general.

Attorney H. H. Phelps has represented the good roads people in the fight against the tax amendment and for the good roads amendment in an effort to have the court declare the good roads amendment carried and the tax amendment lost. He will argue the case before the supreme court Nov. 20. A decision is not expected before January. This will be after the next general election, as will also the arguments before the supreme court. The tax amendment is again to be voted on at the November election, and it is believed the chances are that it will be voted down.

Whether it is voted down or carried the arguments before the supreme court will go on just the same, for even if it is carried, there are several important points in the case on which it is desired to have an expression of opinion from the supreme court. If it should be lost, and the supreme court should by any chance hold that the tax amendment carried at the last election, which, however, seems hardly possible, the amendment will become a part of the constitution anyway.

The constitution as it stands at present, provides that taxation shall be uniform on all classes of property, whereas the amendment provides that the legislature may put the property of the state in different classes and provide a uniform taxation for each individual class.

MARINE NEWS

BRIDGE NEEDS LONGER PIERS

Marine Men Say Slightest Bump Would Keel It Over.

Vesselmen say they have a kick coming in regard to the strength of the newly repaired Interstate bridge.

They claim that as the bridge is supported from the center, the slightest blow from a large boat would topple it over into the water again. Their companies are then subject to heavy damages, and they say that the officials of the Great Northern road could remedy all this risk at very little expense to themselves by building out more protection from either end of the vessel channel.

The protection now extends out only a few feet, hardly enough say the captains, to save the bridge should the structure be hit at all. This has been drawn to the attention of the Great Northern people, but they say that the channel is wide enough so that careful captains will not have accidents.

"A very slight wind is enough to shift even the largest boats loaded," said a captain this morning," and should a man be caught in the Interstate channel by a gust of wind, ten chances to one the bridge would be again out of condition for some time."

Grain on the Move.

Grain is going down the lakes at a great rate the last few days, the boats being loaded and sent back as fast as they can make port. The grain rush is now on in earnest, and both the railroads and boat companies are busy handling the harvest from the West. Ten boats were loaded and sent down yesterday. Two of these loads were of Canadian bonded wheat, and were sent to Canadian ports for export.

Calumet is Released.

Port Huron, Oct. 7.—After lightering 1,200 tons of ore into the lighter Rescue, the steamer Calumet was released from the head of Stag island Monday by the combined efforts of the steamer Queen City and the wrecking tugs Favorite, Harding, Excelsior and Sarnia.

The Calumet will be taken to Cleveland for repairs to some plates which were broken by the lighter Rescue.

Briton Aground.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 7.—The steamer Briton of the Pittsburg Steamship company is on the rocky channel bank in front of Amherstburg. A thick fog came up Sunday night, and she dropped her anchors, but they dragged and she went on the bank. Tugs have gone to her assistance.

Steamer Hall is Free.

Alpena, Oct. 7.—After lightering her deck load of coal, the steamer Stephen C. Hall of the Gilchrist fleet was released from Black River reef by the tug Ralph Tuesday. The steamer is leaking, but not greatly damaged.

Where Bullets Flew.

David Parker, of Fayette, N. Y., a veteran of the civil war, who lost a foot at Gettysburg, says: "The good Electric Bitter have done is worth more than five hundred dollars to me. I spent much money doctoring for a bad case of stomach trouble, to little purpose. I then tried Electric Bitters, and they cured me. I now take them as a tonic, and they keep me strong and well." 50c at all drug stores.

ALL HE NEEDED.

Chicago News: "It's a dandy," said the warehouseman, in conclusion. "You ought to take your wife and go see it."

"I think I see myself,' said the packer. "It must be a jimdandy. No, sir, I guess I'll pass that up. I know better ways to put in an evenin'."

"I thought you liked to take in a good show," said the warehouseman. "It's the best I know of."

"Well, you're welcome to all of them kind," said the packer. "Yes, I like a good show, but that ain't what I call good. Think I want to see an old guy killed an' the wrong feller doin' time for it an' his kid dyin' an' his wife starvin' out in the snow? Not much I don't."

"You must be a chump," said the warehouseman. "What's the difference as long as it all comes out right in the end? In the last scene don't they throw the hooks into this guy Chauncey good an' plenty? Didn't I tell you? This Jack Hardy breaks out o' the pen an' Chauncey trails him to the cottage where his wife's been stayin' ever since she was reskyerd from the river, an' the woman she's stayin' with is Chauncey's wife, what he deserted, an' she's got him dead to rights with the papers he thought was burned. So when he cops bust in the door to get Jack she springs the papers on 'em an' jest as Chauncey's climbin' out through the window the 'loot pulls his gun an' gives him his. What's wrong with that?"

"It's all right if you like it, I guess," said the packer. "I don't see what you had to feel good about when the cop shot him. Anyway, the kid died."

"She come to life again darned quick if she did," said the warehouseman. "My wife an' me seen her eatin' a lunch o' rye bread an' bologna an' beer when we went into the rest'rant after the show, to get a bite."

"It's all right about that, too," said the packer. "I didn't s'pose they telephoned to the undertaker as soon as the curtain went down, but you felt bad while the dyin' act was goin' on."

"Sure," said the warehouseman. "She done it as natural as life. The old woman wet her handkerchief till you could wring the water out of it, cryin'."

"You must have enjoyed it."

"I cert'nly did."

"That's the diffrunce between you an' me. I'd sooner see a bally or a couple o' good Dutch c'mejuns. I ain't huntin' trouble, myself. I'd sooner give 30 cents to keep out of it than to see it. If I want a good time in a voddervil show an' see somethin' worth seein'. You take a good tumblin' act or sleight-o'-hand or bell ringers an' it gives you somethin' to think about an' don't give you the blues. I see a guy the other night played the clarinet with his nose. That's right. He played a toon on it. 'Stid o' puttin' it to his mouth he held it up to his nose an' snorted down it. 'Harrigan was what he played. An' there was an armless wonder that drawed pictures on a blackboard with colored chalk. He had Taft an' Bryan an' John D. an' Teddy an' a lot more. Swell!"

"You're nutty," said the warehouseman.

"Maybe I am," returned the packer. "I've been havin' a touch o' lumbago an' the landlord's threatenin' to put the furniture on the street if the rent ain't paid next week. I'm payin' interest now on a loan o' $50 that I got from one o' these sharks an' that keeps me wigglin'—that an' the doctor's bill."

"That's hard luck," said the warehouseman, sympathetically.

"It's hard enough for me," said the packer. "If the boss 'd raise my pay an' I could get them debts out o' the way maybe I'd go to see 'A Demen's Revenge' just to tone down my high spirits, b't as it is I ain't interested in Jack or Chauncey or any of them. I've got troubles of my own."

"Well I don't know as I blame you," said the warehouseman.

NOT WRITTEN BY SOLOMON

Pastor Says a Political Critic Penned the Famous Poem.

St. Louis, Oct. 7.—That the song of Solomon was not written by Solomon at all, but was a political campaign document penned by some skillful poet of the time when the object of exposing the profligacy of the Israelitish king was the startling declaration of Rev. W. C. Bitting, pastor of the Second Baptist Church, in an address before the Baptist Ministerial association here.

Assailing the generally accepted new idea that the song was written by Solomon and refers to the mystical marriage of the church and Christ, Dr. Bitting argued that it is a beautiful love story aimed to rebuke the evils rampant at Solomon's court, and was written by a political critic. This critic, said the pastor, shows the plaintive sorrow of a Shulamite woman of northern Palestine crying for her beloved and trying to escape the attempted enforced luxury of court life for the sake of her mountains and shepherd lover.

Attack on Solomon.

Taking this most obscure book of the Bible, in the 5,000 words of which the name of God does not appear, and whose place has been the cause of bitter controversy, Dr. Bitting gave it as his view that the book was the work of some northern poet in the tenth century, B. C.; that its aim was to make Solomon and his home odious to the people of northern Palestine and that it was the forerunner of the division of the kingdom.

"It was written," said the doctor, "to expose the profligate monarch. Solomon, you remember, had 700 wives and 300 concubines. The age was voluptuous. The king set a bad example. The story tries to show the black background of his lustful life. It was written to show that in the mountains there still was such a thing as pure, incorruptible human love.

"The whole story converges on the question of monogamy as ordained in Eden, and was intended to rebuke the lustful orientalism into which Solomon's court had fallen. The family life had been debauched and a social condition was exposed that had drained the resources of the land. It is the true, inflexible love of one woman for one man as proof against the assault of passion and of position that is held up to praise."

Scores Foreign Weddings.

Dr. Bitting drew a parallel between the tempting of the mountain maid from North Palestine by court glamor and wealth and the "matrimonial brokerage" of today. He condemned marriages for wealth, physical attractions and social position, and especially American girls who marry titles, as baneful blots on mod

Constantinople, Oct. 8.—The proclamation of the union of the island of Crete with Greece may not be accepted by Turkey without retaliation.

It is reported here today that the Turkish government has ordered four of its warships which are at present at Smyrna to proceed to the island of Samos.

These vessels are the cruiser Medjidieh and three torpedo boats. Samos is a Greek island and pays an annual tribute to Turkey.

Guerilla Warfare Planned.

REPORT RAISES HONESTY ISSUE

Grand Trunk Directors Criticise Management of Canadian Road.

London, Oct. 8.—The report presented today by Sir Charles River Wilson, president of the Grand Trunk railway of Canada, at the semi-annual meeting of the company was adopted only after an acriminous discussion and sharp criticism of the management. One of the shareholders, amid applause declared that he was not at all satisfied with the accuracy or the honesty of the accounts and that he so seriously distrusted the alleged economies that he doubted their reality. The president admitted that the report was disappointing, but said it was not discouraging. He said also he was satisfied that the worst of the depression that had prevailed throughout North America was now over.

MOB STORMS THE PALACE OF PETER

Belgrade, Oct. 8.—The clamor for war with Austria-Hungary, because of the occupation of Bosnia and Herzegovina is growing here constantly, and scenes of wild enthusiasm are being witnessed on the streets of Belgrade.

This morning a mob of demonstrators forced its way to the precincts of the palace and demanded to see King Peter.

The attitude of the crowd was so threatening that troops and gendarmes finally had to be called out. They surrounded the palace and had to charge several times before the war-fevered patriots would disperse. The patriots are very much dissatisfied with the tone of the protest of Servia against the occupation of Bosnia and Herzegovnia. They declare it lacks vigor and does not represent the feelings of the nation, which would rather go to war than acquiesce in this act of Austria-Hungary.

There is a steady flow of telegrams from the interior, assuring the government of support in the shape of money, men and arms in the event of hostilities.

KING PETER

The Servian proclamation, issued today, points out that the rights accorded Servia under the Berlin treaty are incomparably inferior to the sacrifices imposed on Servia, which has scrupulously observed the terms of the pact. No modifications to the advantage of Servia have been made, whereas there have been a number of modifications to the advantage of other powers.

SWOONING WOMAN FALLS UPON A STOVE.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. A. M. Wilbur of 3403 Cedar avenue south was severely burned at noon yesterday, when she fainted and fell across a gasoline stove in her home.

Mrs. Wilbur was preparing the noon meal when she suddenly swooned. The terrible pain roused her to consciousness and she staggered to her feet. Screaming, she ran out of the house. Neighbors came to her aid, and the woman was taken to the city hospital. Dr. John O. Taft, police surgeon, who attended her, says that she may not live.

Passerby Hears Moans and Summons the Police.

Waterbury, Conn., Oct. 8.—Illuminating gas, leaking into the permeating sleeping rooms in an Italian boarding house on bank street, kept by Guiseppe Santoro, killed four young Italian men early today and but for the opportune passing the house of Antonio de Marco, on his way home, the dead might have been more than twice that number.

Besides the dead, eight men and two women were found unconscious from the fumes when the police whom de Marco had called entered the house. One of the women is the wife of the proprietor.

All of those still living were taken outside and medical aid was summoned. Four quickly recovered sufficiently to go to the homes of friends, but six others only slowly responded to the doctor's efforts. Mrs. Santoro was sent to a hospital.

DeMarco told the police that his attention was attracted to the house by moans and thinking that something was wrong he summoned the police.

PUT NEW LADING BILL IN EFFECT

New York, Oct. 8.—The 416 roads in the official classification territory, extending west to the Mississippi and south to the Ohio rivers, will put into effect Nov. 1, new rules requiring all shipments to be made under a new form of bill of lading, which has been approved by the interstate commerce commission.

The terms of the bill determine the carrier's responsibility to the shipper in case of damage or loss. It is the belief of the railroads this will greatly lessen the friction between the carriers and shippers in respect to claim for damages to freight.

In order to enforce the use of the new form of bill roads will make the acceptance of the new form a condition of accepting freight at published rates. A shipper who does not ship under the new bill of lading will have to pay 10 per cent additional.

ARKANSAS BACK TO THREE-CENT FARES.

Little Rock, Ark., Oct. 8.—The former 3-cent passenger rate that existed on railroads in Arkansas prior to the enactment of the two cent passenger rate law by the state legislature will be re-established. It is reported that the rate will be put into effect Oct. 15. The increase is the result of the decision of Judge Vandeventer in St. Paul, in the federal court in the injunction suit brought by the trunk lines of the state against the railroad comaission.

HILL BITTER AS TO LAWS

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 8.—In a letter to the deep waterway convention today, James J. Hill, after emphazing the correlation between rail and water transportation interests, made this bitter attack on recent railroad legislation:

The average man, familiar only with what has been done in his own state, has little conception of the aggregate results of the last few years in frenzied railroad legislation. Within the last three years twenty-five states have

CAN'T FIND $278,501.74

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Irregularities in the methods used by the Minneapolis board of education are becoming more and more apparent as the investigation proceeds.

Hugh Marchbank, clerk of the board, was put through a thorough examination in his office by County Attorney Smith, with reference to the latest budget of the board for $278,501.74, which reached the hands of Camptroller Brown Tuesday.

Records in the office of the clerk of the board fail to disclose how this large amount of money was expended. Comptroller Brown says this condition of affairs is by no means novel, as irregularities in former budgets have been frequent.

Nothing criminal is alleged in connection with the office business of the board, but the grand jury is making an inquiry into the lax methods of doing business.

WATERWAY MEN IN BRYAN TUMULT

Chicago, Oct. 8.—The second session of the Lakes-to-the-Gulf Deep Waterways association was attended today by as great and enthusiastic an audience as that which listened to William

DAVID R. FRANCIS.

H. Taft on the opening day. William J. Bryan was the magnet of the second session, and his appearance on the platform and introduction by David R. Francis, of St. Louis, was the signal for a tumult that forced the Democratic candidate to bow repeatedly and wait many minutes before delivering the first sentence of his speech.

Road Would Raise Capital.

Montreal, Oct. 8.—At the annual meeting of the Canadian Pacific railway, the shareholders voted to ask the sanction of the governor in council to perfit the raising of $50,000,000 of new capital for the company, bringing the ordinary stock up to $200,000,000.

FORTUNE IS LOST; FOUND

Ten Thousand Dollars in a Grip Taken by Mistake.

Traveling Man in Minneapolis Hotel Has Cold Chills.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—R. A. Spencer, traveling saesman for a jewelry company in Detroit, Mich., was minus $10,000 for about fifteen minutes, and during that period the West hotel, in Minneapolis, was in an uproar.

Spencer walked up to the desk to register and deposited his grip, containing jewelry samples valued at $10,000, on the floor while he did so. When he turned to pick up the grip it was no longer to be found.

Cold chills ran up and down his back as he thought of the small fortune ho had lost, and he told the clerk what had happened in an excited voice.

In a moment everything was in a turmoil. Detectives and hotel employes hurried about, searching every nook and crevice and investigating the baggage of other traveling men stopping at the hotel, while Mr. Spencer experienced sensations he does not care to recall.

Finally, when the excitement reached its height, the mystery of the disappearing grip was suddenly solved by the appearance of a traveling man who strolled casually into the lobby and told the clerk he had taken some one else's grip by mistake.

LA FOLLETTE TO START A PAPER

Madison, Wis., Oct. 8.—United States Senator La Follette is to start a Commoner. It will not be called the Commoner, however, and in fact the name, if decided upon, has not been made public. The announcement of the senator's intention is made by him today as follows:

The increasing demands on me for addresses and for such printed matter on representative government as I furnish for public distribution, have impressed me with the belief that I should establish a weekly paper, published primarily in support of government by the people.

"With assured support I shall proceed at once with the regular publication of a weekly magazine, devoted to the public interest upon lines broad enough to appeal to the progressive people of the entire country. I shall print the records of public officials and political parties on vital questions. I shall discuss men and measures impartially and fearlessly.

"With the assistance of able writers and correspondents I will furnish readers a summary of important news, a digest of proceedings in congress, a report of the progress made in the struggle for self-government in cities and states, and timely, well considered contributions and editorial discussion upon economic, financial and social questions. The paper will deal not only with these problems, but as widely as possible with other questions of human interest.

"Mrs. La Follette will have a department in which education and the home will be discussed from the woman's standpoint.

"The people's cause can never be too well served. The contest between special privilege and the common good is drawn close, and is becoming more critical. The need of plain speech and sound measures was never greater. I shall make this paper before all other things the vigilant campaign of true representative government."

TWO KILLED IN WRECK IN MONTANA.

Butte, Mont, Oct. 8.—Two men were killed and one injured in a wreck of a Great Northern passenger train, at Marias river. The dead:

UNKNOWN ENGINE WIPER.

Engineer Charles McClintock was severely injured. The train, while traveling at high speed, struck a soft stretch of road bed, the engine rolling into the ditch, followed by the baggage and smoking car. Ramspeck and the wiper were buried under the wreckage. The passengers were severely shaken up.

Lake Superior Iron & Chemical Company Works an Old Bluff About the Resumption of Industry.

Ashland, Wis., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The plant of the Lake Superior Iron & Chemical company, has been shut down for two or three months, and preparations were under way to reopen Oct. 15, but this morning, Manager Wilkins received a telegram from the general office as follows:

The Ashland plant is a part of a syndicate with general offices in Detroit. This is the first public notice in Northern Wisconsin that the reopening of business hangs on the election. The Ashland plant comprises a pig-iron and alcohol plant, charcoal kilns and iron mine.

New York, Oct. 8.—Chicago today won the National league pennant by defeating New York here, 4 to 2; playing off the tie game of Sept. 23.

Thirty-five thousand persons crowded into the Polo grounds to witness the last contest of the season. Many night workers did not go to bed, but stayed up at the park gates all morning waiting for admission, and 100 policemen had all they could do, with liberal use of clubs, to maintain order. The weather was perfect and every player on both sides was in the pink of condition. The Cubs arrived from Chicago twenty-five minutes ahead of time and, after a good night's sleep, were as fresh as could be.

On Hand at Daybreak.

The gates were opened unusually early today, that so far as possible the inevitable congestion in the last half hour before the time set for calling play might be relieved. Lines began to form shortly after daybreak, and when the gates swung open at 11 o'clock there was a large crowd. From then on an ever-increasing hundreds, men, women and boys, fairly hurled themselves inside the inclosure and then, at top-notch speed, sprinted to the bleachers and unreserved sections. Scrimmages over positions were frequent.

Before the gates were thrown open there were but the bare outlines formed by grandstands, bleachers, club house, "U" structure, viaduct, speedway, roofs, trees and overhanging cliffs westward. Then, suddenly, here, there, everywhere—men, women—and more and more. Every possible vantage point, however precarious, soon came to have its human cluster. And in the center of this all the empty diamond, cleared out on the browned field. In the grand stand were numerous notables and "fans," many of whom had traveled hundreds of miles for the event.

No last act of any drama ever held in expectancy such an audience as this. Hundreds of its counterparts, in miniature, throughout the country watched bulletin boards, in Chicago, where by almost instantaneous flashes over the wires, play by play was reproduced on a mammoth perpendicular diamond; and even in little villages where the enterprising weekly records on an impromptu poster the results half-inning by half-inning wired from the press box here.

At 1 o'clock every seat in the great amphitheater was taken, and hundreds were standing wherever possible throughout the stands, cheering, horn blowing and guying those who were fighting for places.

Giants Warm Up.

At 1 o'clock, Doyle, who has been laid up for some time, ran out onto the diamond and was greeted with great applause. The home team began to warm up. The weather conditions were perfect. The gates to the diamond were closed and the Polo grounds practically sealed against further entrance.

At 1:15 p. m., the gates to the field were opened and thousands rushed for vantage places. Outside the gates pandemium reigned, thousands clamoring for admission, which was denied them. Chicago at this noint went on the field to warm up. Manager Chance, crossing the field, joined his team, was greeted with jeers and hisses from the bleachers. Manager McGraw, strolling from the clubhouse across to the benches, was greeted with tremendous applause. Mathewson arrived on the field at 1:50 and was received with wild enthusiasm.

McGinnity Pushes Chance.

The practice of the visitors was interrupted by the ringing of the bell, and although they were supposed to have fifteen minutes for this work Pitcher McGinnity of the local team went to the plate and started to bat a ball which was pitched by Overall. Manager Chance asked McGinnity to desist, but the New York player replied by shoving his elbow into Chance's chest.

The police then interferred and avoided any trouble from the players, who rushed up and surrounded the men at the plate. After a couple of minutes' argument the visiting players moved away to their own bench and the New York team took places on the diamond and began warming up.

The crowd is apparently in an inflammable condition.

Play started with Klem and Johnstone umpiring.

Ground rules were agreed on. A hit into the crowd was good for two bases and one base was allowed for an overthrow.

Batting order:

Chicago.

New York.

First Inning.

Chicago—Sheckard struck out. Evers went out on a fast stop and throw, Herzog to Tenney. Schulte fanned. No runs. The crowd cheered wildly for Mathewson, who was in superb condition.

New York—Pfeister and Kling were the Chicago battery. Tenney took his base, being hit by the first ball Pfeister pitched. Herzog got a base on balls. Tremendous cheering. Bresnahan struck out and Herzog was caught off first by Chance on Kling's throw. (A double play.) Donlin doubled to right, scoring Tenney. Chance claimed the ball was foul, but Umpire Johnstone said no. Seymour walked. Chance took Pfeister out of the box and substituted Mordecai Brown. Devlin fanned. One run.

Second Inning.

Chicago—Chance singled to right, but was caught napping off first. Matthewson to Tenney. Chance protested, while the crowd "booed." Moran, who was coaching, was put off the coaching line. Steinfeldt fanned. Hoffman was mixed up in the argument and was sent to the bench. Howard batted in place of Hoffman and struck out. No runs.

New York—McCormick flied to Schulte and Bridwell went out the same way. Mathewson went out, Tinker to Chance, in a very fast play. No runs.

Chicago—Tinker tripled to deep center. Kling singled to left center, scoring Tinker. Brown went out, to Tenney, unassisted, Kling going to second. Sheckard flied to Seymour, whose throw held Kling on second. Evers walked. Schulte doubled to left, scoring Kling. Chance doubled to right, scoring Evers and Schulte. Steinfeldt struck out. Four runs.

New York—Tenney singled to left and Herzog fouled out to Kling. Bresnahan hit to left for a base. Donlin forced Bresnahan out at second, by Tinker unassisted. Seymour flied to Sheckard. No runs.

Fourth Inning.

Chicago—Howard went out, Herzog to Tenney. Tinker was easy for Mathewson and Tenney. Kling flied to McCormick. No runs.

New York—Devlin went out, Steinfeldt to Chance. McCormick flied to Howard and Bridwell went out, Evers to Chance. No runs.

Fifth Inning.

Chicago—Brown was dismissed on a fine stop and throw, Bridwell to Tenney; Seymour got under Sheckard's fly. Evers went out, Mathewson to Tenney. No runs.

New York—Mathewson went out, Steinfeldt to Chance. Evers and Chance dismissed Tenney. Herzog foul-flied to Chance. No runs.

Sixth Inning.

Chicago—Schultze foul-flied to Devlin. Chance singled to left, but was caught trying to steal to Herzog Steinfeldt singled to left.

Howard fanned. No runs.

New York—Bresnahan went out, Tinker to Chance. Donlin flied to Sherkard ano Seymour sent a long fly to Schultze. No runs.

Seventh Inning.

Chicago—Tinker flied to McCormick. Kling fanned. Brown went out. Mathewson to Tenney. No runs.

New York—Devlin singled to left center. McCormick hit safely to right for a base. Bridwell walked, filling the bases. Doyle batted for Mathewson and fouled to Kling. Tenney flied to Schulte and Devlin scored. Herzog out, Tinker to Chance. One run.

Eighth Inning.

Chicago—Wiltse went in to pitch in place of Mathewson, for New York. Sheckard struck out. Evers doubled to left. Schulte hit to Tenney and was safe on the latter's fumble. Evers going to third. Chance flied to McCormick and the latter threw to Bresnahan, nailing Evers at the plate. No runs.

New York—Bresnahan went out, Brown to Chance. Donlin flied to Sheckard. Seymour went out, Evers to Chance. No runs.

Ninth Inning.

Chicago—Steinfeldt fanned. Howard popp-flied to Devlin. Tinker foul-flied to Tenney. No runs.

New York—Devlin went out, Steinfeldt to Chance. McCormick flied to Sheckard and Bridwell went out, Tinker to Chance. No runs.

TOM TAGGART IS HIT BY COURTS

Indianapolis, Oct. 8.—Two rullings, both by the highest courts in the state struck the hardest blow to the French Lick Springs and West Baden hotel companies, known as the Indiana Monte Carlo, that could be given to the corporations.

The appellate court held that the state has a right to bring suit to forfeit the charters of the hotel companies for violation of the state's laws. Simultaneously the supreme court held that the affidavits filed against the casions at the springs were valid. Both decisions mean the ultimate extinction of the corporations, which are headed by Thomas Taggart.

WHY THE GREAT GAME TODAY WAS MADE NECESSARY

In the last half of the ninth inning, Sept. 23, Chicago was retired without breaking the tie. Two of New York's men also were out. There were two men on bases, McCormick on third and Merkle on first, and Bridwell at bat. Bridwell smashed a single to center and reached first base safely, scoring McCormick, and forcing Merkle off first. A dispute arose as to whether Merkle touched second. Manager Chance protested, declaring Merkle did not touch second base, but ran from first to the clubhouse, and the crowd, which rushed onto the field, prevented the Chicago players from getting the ball. Merkle maintained that he completed the play by touching second base before running to the clubhouse. After hearing the reports of the two umpires, President Pulliam of the National league declared the game a tie, and his decision was upheld by the board of directors of the league.

IN PEERLESS STYLE FOR FALL!

THE Chicago boy hasn't a bit the best of the Duluth youngster. The very line of Children's Knickerbocker Suits that is made so much of by Marshall Field & Co. of Chicago, is here in duplicate. Tony—swell—nifty—these words would scarce describe the many deft finishing touches put into the garments for boys, as featured here. One should SEE the way the coat pockets are trimmed off in button and slant styles—one should SEE the neat mannish cuffs to the sleeves. All of those charming browns; olives, greens and red shaded fabrics are here—the suits are truly chuck full of vim and stylish kinks. It's the one Duluth boys' stock that makes a man of a little fellow.

WANTON WASTE OF GAS PROMPTS ACTION TO SAVE

Congress and State Legislatures Will be Urged to Stop Fuel Loss of Billion Cubic Feet Daily of Pure Hydro-Carbon.

Chicago, Oct. 8.—To check the waste, that is called "anarchistically wanton," of a billion cubic feet of natural gas daily, the fuel equivalent of a million bushels of coal, is one solution for the approaching exhaustion of coal in the United States, which will be urged upon the next congress and legislatures by the Conservation League of America, with headquarters just established in this city. The certainty that the coal supply of this country will be gone by the end of the next century unless immediate provision be made for conserving the supply by the use of substitute fuels, will be urged as one great reason for the immediate enactment of state and national laws similar to Indiana's, which prevent the greater part of a waste of natural gas that, it proves, is upon an appalling scale.

This is one result of the summarized items of the country's industrial extravagances, which were cited by scientists and experts at the conference of governors in Washington last May. Following the paper of Andrew Carnegie, who put the consumption of coal since 1820 at 7,500,000,000 tons, and the accompanying waste at 9,000,000,000 tons, and declared the end of the nation's heritage was in sight, Dr. I. C. White, state geologist of West Virginia epitomized the value of the hydro-carbons of natural gas which is and has been going to utter waste throughout the country. He gave it as his opinion that the original supply of gas rivaled or even exceeded coal in heating value. Mr. Carnegie had said: "The most promising check on coal consumption is the substitution of other power." Dr. White declared: "At this very minute this unrivaled fuel is passing into the air within our domain from uncontrolled gas wells, from oil wells, from slight flambeaus, from leaking pipe lines and the many other methods of waste at the rate of not less than one billion cubic feet daily and probably much more.

Element of Supremacy.

That the gas supply is our most certain element of industrial supremacy over Europe, and therefore worthy of first consideration in the conserving of the nation's resources, was pointed out by Dr. White with this comment: "Partial nature has apparently denied this great boon to many other lands. It is practically unknown in France, Germany and Great Britain, our chief competitors in the world of industry. Even wood and coal must first be converted into gas before they will burn, but here is a fuel of which nature has given us a practical monopoly, lavish in abundance, already transmuted into the gaseous stage and stored under vast pressure to be released wherever wanted, at our biding. The record of waste of this, our best and purest fuel, is a national disgrace."

The situation today was graphically stated by Dr. White in this way: "Suppose that it were possible for some Nero, inspired by a mania of incendiarism, to apply a consuming torch to every bed of coal that crops to the surface from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and that the entire coal supply of the Union was threatened with destruction within a very few years, what do you think would happen? Would our state legislatures sit undisturbed panoplied by such a carnival of fire? Would the governors of thirty states remain silent while the demond of flame was ravaging the coal resources of the republic? Certainly not, there would be a united effort by the governors and legislatures of all the states of the Union to stay the progress of such a direful conflagration; even the sacred constitutional barriers wisely erected between state and federal authority would melt away in the presence of such an awful calamity, and the mighty arm of the nation would be invoked to help and the common peril to every interest. And yet this imaginary case is an actual one with the best and purest fuel of the country, equal probably in quantity and value for heat, light and power to all of our coal resources. This blazing zone of destruction extends in a broad band from the Lakes to the Gulf, and westward to the Pacific, embracing in its flaming pathway the most precious fuel possessions of a continent. No one can even approximate the extent of this waste. From personal knowledge of conditions which exist in every oil and gas field, I am sure the quantity will amount to not less than one billion cubic feet daily, and it may be much more. The heating value of a billion cubic feet of natural gas is roughly equivalent to that of one million bushels of coal. What an appalling record to transmit to posterity!"

Value of Natural Gas.

The value of natural gas is best understood by remembering that 1,000 cubic feet of it weighs forty-eight pounds and 6,000 cubic feet of it will yield a forty-two-gallon barrel of oil when condensed, so that a well flowing 6,000,000 feet of gas is pouring into the air daily the equivalent of 1,000 barrels of oil.

"What would our petroleum kings think," continued Dr. White, in his address, "if they could se ethis river of oil (for the equivalent of a billion feet of gas is more than 160,000 barrels of petroleum, and of practically the same chemical composition as benzine or gasoline), rushing unhindered to the sea? Would they not spend millions to check such a rightful waste of this golden fluid? And would they not be the first to appeal to the national government for aid in ending such great destruction of property? And yet because natural gas is invisible, and its waste is not so apparent to the eye as a stream of oil, or a burning coal mine, the agents of these oil magnates have not only permitted this description of the nation's fuel resources to continue, but they have prevented by every means in their power the enactment of any legislation to stop this frightful loss of the best and purest fuel that nature has given to man."

The Indiana statute, which is regarded as a precedent if not a model, for the prevention of the waste of gas still going on at a tremendous gait in other states, has been declared constitutional by the highest courts. It says in effect to oil producers: "You cannot take the oil from the ground where nature has safely stored it, until you provide a method of utilizing the accompanying gas, or volatile oil as well," and it also says to both the producer and consumer of natural gas, that it is against "public policy to waste this valuable fuel and that it will not be permitted to either party."

NIGERIA FISHING TACKLE.

London Standard: Natives of Nigeria are remarkably skilful anglers, and their manner of catching fish, recommends itself alike for simplicity and success.

The fisherman grasps a small line weighted at the other end with a small stone, and at regular distances along the line he attaches a number of hooks made of animals' bones in the form of a narrow V, while to the angle of each V is fastened a short line made of sinews and baited with a kind of snail; the fish, swallowing the bait and the line, swallows also the hook, which is so acted upon by the tension of the line as to expand its two prongs and fasten them firmly in the throat.

The victim struggles and whirls about the line, thus attracting its family and neighbors to swallow the same snare.

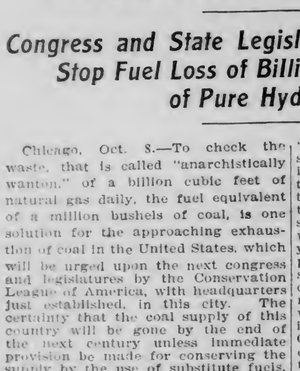

MINISTERIAL SKILL.

Liverpool Post: At a recent banquet given at the house of the prime minister of one of the Balkan states, a distinguished diplomat complained to his host that the minister of justice, next to whom he was sitting, had taken his watch.

The prime minister said, "Ah, he shouldn't have done that. I will get it back for you."

Sure enough, toward the end of the evening the watch was returned to its owner. "And what did he say?" asked the guest.

"Sh-h! He does not know I have got it back," said the prime minister.

PLANS ARE COMPLETED

All Details of Governor Johnson's Appearance Arranged for.

Republican Committee Offered Services of Eddy and Eberhart.

Arrangements have been completed for the Monday night speeches of Governor Johnson, in West Duluth and the West end. The governor will address the meeting at West Duluth first, going immediately from Wade's hall, West Duluth, to the Lincoln Park skating rink, in the West end.

The governor will be the last speaker on the program at the West end. Today, it was announced that Martin Hughes of Hibbing, Joseph W. Reynolds, and Dr. O A. Oredson, candidates for the state legislature from the Fiftieth district, would speak before the arrival of the governor. The meeting will begin at 8 o'clock and by the time the governor reaches the West end, the first part of the program will have been completed.

Young Men's Club.

There will be an organization of the Duluth Young Men's Progressive club at the Lenox hotel this evening. Representatives from all the precincts of the city will be present, and it is expected that a large meeting will be held. The club will take in the entire city. Reports from all the precint workers will be heard this evening. It is expected that the new club will be one of the largest Democratic clubs ever formed in this city.

It was announced today at the Republican headquarters that Jacob F. Jacobson would speak here, either Oct. 22 or a few days later. It has not been definitely settled when the Republican candidate will make his appearance in Duluth.

Eddy and Eberhart.

The members of the local Republican committee have been offered the services of Frank Eddy, the political humorist and Prohibition worker, who is stumping the state in the interests of the Jacobson candidacy, and A. O. Eberhart, Republican candidate for lieutenant governor, as local speakers. The committee will accept the offer of the Republican state central committee and the two men will be heard here at some future date, to be determined by the local committee.

A meeting of the precinct committeemen of the First ward will be held at Lakeside tomorrow evening. The Lakeside Republican club holds its meeting Friday evening, also, and it is probable that the precinct workers will hold their business meeting before or after the political rally.

The precinct committeemen of the Eighth ward will meet Saturday evening and the precinct workers of the Sixth ward will hold a meeting next Tuesday evening. These meetings are for the purpose of getting a report from the organization workers and forming new plans for the work.

The Republican managers report that the organization is practically complete and that a meeting of the ward workers will be held tonight at the Republican headquarters in the Manhattan building. The organization of the Republican forces will be completed at the meeting this evening.

HOLD FATE OF DRANNEN

Attorney McMahon Injects Humor and Pathos Into Argument.

Raps Police Department and Charges Spite and Persecution.

Arguments were made this morning, Judge Cant gave his charge after the opening of the afternoon session and the jury retired to determine the fate of George Drannen, the former patrol wagon driver charged with grand larceny in the second degree in the theft of $30 from Herman Benson, a prisoner, at the police station Aug. 2.

The arguments were completed just before noon. Assistant County Attorney W. E. Greene made a plea for the conviction of the prisoner. He dwelt upon the fact that when Chief Troyer charged Drannen with the theft of the money and announced his intention of searching him, Drannen did not acknowledge that he had any money in his clothes, nor did he say anything about the $30 or claim that it was really his until Chief Troyer found it on him. He said that Drannen had plenty of time to pay bills with the money he had borrowed from L. C. Coffin about July 15 and the story that he still had $10 of it on Aug. 2 was improbable.

He dwelt upon Benson's showing the money to Dickman and Nelson and offering it to them and pointed out that nobody except Drannen had a chance to take it on the trip frim the patrol wagon to the second floor of the police station.

Attorney M. H. McMahon's plea for Drannen was an arraignment of the methods of Chief Troyer and members of the police department, who had testified against Drannen. He claimed spite-work and ridiculed the testimony. His talk took a humorous trend at times and brought out laughter from the spectators, which was suppressed by the court officers on several occasions.

McMahon claimed that Chief Troyer had been watching Drannen for seven years and when Benson complained of losing his money, suspicion fell on Drannen. The circumstance of his having $30 in his pocket was an opportunity the chief lost no time in grasping, he said, despite Drannen's explanation. He explained Drannen's failure to show the $30 before being searched the first time as natural confusion on being charged with a serious crime. He dwelt on the testimony of Rueben Scott and the boy, Stark, who, he said, had no interest in perjuring themselves, but who testified to having seen the money before the time of the alleged theft.

On the question of Drannen's character, Mr. McMahon got in his raps at the police department. Chief Troyer came in for the bulk of it, but other members of the department, whom he styled as the "underlings" received their share. He called attention to the testimony of business men, who had known Drannen for years and then to the police officers, who had sought to refute the testimony.

"Chief Troyer was as fair on the first day of this trial as any police officer I have ever seen on the stand," he said. "But when we had presented our case and Troyer saw that Drannen was slipping through his fingers, his upper lip curled and the wolf's tooth showed."

The comment caused a roar of laughter in the court room. Mr. McMahon continued with an enumeration of the officers who had testified. Ex-captain Resche, he termed as "the little martinet Resche, who came up like a little colonel and pumped out his answers before we had a chance to ask questions." Capt. Fiskett, he said, "was a captain with a chief's ax hanging over his head." Other witnesses received the same treatment.

Mr. McMahon closed with a plea for the acquittal of the prisoner. "My experience with men had taught me that a man of this character, with the winter of life tinging his hair and a wife and five children depending on him, doesn't become a thief and a scoundrel all at once," he wound up.

The woman who is beguiled into buying a garment, simply upon its first general appearance or because it "looks more for the money" than another, is like the "tenderfoot" who rushed into camp telling a wonderful story of the gold he had found, only to be met with the laugh that it was pyrites or fool's gold. Thus it is with garments. The glitter of a little extra trimming or a poorly-made thing pressed into shape for mere show has fooled many a person into buying, only to find that the true gold of merit was sadly lacking. The inference is plain. # CHANGE PLEAS; FINED BY COURT

Three Blind Piggers Are Heavily Assessed by District Judges.

Three blind piggers from the range, who pleaded not guilty to the charge against them earlier in the term, appeared in court this morning, changed their pleas and were sentenced to pay a fine of $100 and costs, with an alternative of ninety days in the county jail with an additional sentence of thirty days in jail suspended during good behavior.

The men were Matt Gustin, Frank Clun and Frank Arko, all of Chisholm. Arko is a cripple and in poor circumstances and the court was inclined to show him clemency, giving him four months in which to pay the fine of $100. His case was aggravated somewhat by the fact that he lives within a block of a school at Chisholm and the court lectured him severely on his transgression of the law.

THE PERSONAL EQUATION

Counts in Business as Well as in Astronomy.

The newspaper announcements that certain magazines had offered President Roosevelt a dollar a word for his story of his African experiences furnish a striking example of the value of the personal equation in literature. It is not a question of what is to be written, but of who is to write it, says the New York Sun.

The personal equation, it may be explained, is a certain figure, perhaps only a fraction, with a minus or plus sign attached, which represents the allowance to be made because the subject under consideration has been handled by a specified individual whose personal equation in such matters has been ascertained.

Strictly, personal equation belongs to astronomy. In all observatories the personal equation of each member of the staff is a matter of vital importance, and great pains are taken to ascertain it with accuracy. Some men anticipate what they are looking for and they will see a star reach the meridian a fraction of a second before it actually does so. Others always want to be quite sure, and they will never admit that a star has reached a given point until they are convinced of it by observing that it has actually passed it.

The exact extent of the error in each case can be accurately measured, and in the trained observer it is found to be always precisely the same. The man who waits until he is quite sure that the star has passed always waits the same length of time to a fraction of a second, while the one who anticipates always just the same fraction of a second ahead in every observation he records. These fractions representing personal equations are taken into account in conjunction with other data with as much confidence as if they were recorded by a split second watch.

Some business houses have reduced the personal equation to a science in the matter of discounting reports and analyzing views of market probabilities, but they note that the fraction has to be increased when the salesman's report is accompanied by a request for a remittance. Perhaps the largest personal equation ever heard of was that recorded by a monument man in Cincinnati, who had a salesman named Jarvis covering Kentucky and Tennessee. Every time Jarvis met a funeral on the road he wrote to the house that he had another monument sold.

If the public could be provided with a table of personal equations for some of our press agents and for writers of get rich quick circulars it would be a valuable safeguard. On the other hand, the public itself has a personal equation which has to be taken into consideration. Any advertisement writer of experience will tell you that it is useless to confine yourself to the strict facts of the case. The expert at writing advertisements knows to a nicety how much the public will discount what he says, how much it will read and how much it will skip. He puts the gist of what he has to say in the first line and the last, because he knows the public is too lazy to read it all unless both ends are interesting. In his exaggerations his skill depends on his ability so to adjust matters that his own personal plus equation shall equal the public's minus equation.

There are many things which can never be quite relied upon, simply because the personal equation entering into them is not accurately known. Some fifteen or twenty years ago there was a well known timer at athletic meetings who was fully convinced that a certain clubmate of his could do the hundred in 9 4-5, although less enthusiastic watches always made it 10 1-5. No matter how often this man ran, this particular official was always on hand with his watch just two-fifths of a second faster than the other timers' watches.

One day at Manhattan Field he caught the time as 9 3-5, which staggered him a bit as he looked at it. A bystander immediately offered to bet that the official time would be evens, although the runner had never beaten 10 1-5 in his life, and he was right. Quite unconsciously perhaps he had applied the personal equation, which was always two-fifths too fast, and had figured that the timer could not possibly have made an error of three-fifths.

This story is told of the power of the personal equation in matters which influence the public: A publisher had printed a first edition, 1,000 copies, of a little book which both he and his readers thought was a good thing. Six months after publication only about 800 copies had been sold and the title was scratched off the lists as not worth a second edition.

Returning from Boston one day this particular publisher had read all the newspapers forward and backward and was looking around the parlor car for something to suggest an occupation for another hour when his eye fell upon a local sheet carelessly thrown on the floor.

Picking it up and glancing through it his eye fell upon a report of a speech made by President Roosevelt the day before at Bangor. In that speech the little book which had been such a disappointment to its publisher was mentioned, in fact it was recommended to everybody.

Two hours later the accuracy of the report of the speech was verified by telegraph, and then followed a vigorous advertising campaign, exploiting the president's indorsement of that book. Result 280,000 copies of it were sold within a year. The book was Wagner's "Simple Life."

PERUNA ADVISED FOR SUDDEN COLDS.

It Should be Taken According to Directions on the Bottle, at the First Appearance of the Cold.

St. Joseph, Mich., Sept. 1901.—Last winter I caught a sudden cold which developed into an unpleasant catarrh of the head and throat, depriving me of my appetite and usual good spirits. A friend who had been cured by Peruna advised me to try it, and I sent for a bottle at once, and I am glad to say that in three days the phlegm had loosened, and I felt better, my appetite returned and within nine days I was in my usual good health. —Miss Helen Sauerbier.

Peruna is an old and well tried remedy for colds. No woman should be without it.

LANE WARNS OF CAR SHORTAGE

Says There May be More Trouble; Prosperity Returning.

Washinton, Oct. 8.—Franklin K. Lane of the interstate commerce commission opened the proceedings of the twentieth annual convention of the National Association of Railway Commissioners by submitting a report from the committee on car distribution and car shortage.

He stated that during the present year practically all the railroads had been able to furnish transportation facilities within a reasonable time after application from their shippers. This change from the extreme car shortage of the fiscal year 1906-07 he said was due partly to increased facilities on the part of the carriers, partly to more efficient use of facilities and partly to the receent business depression.

The question of car supply will be an important one with the return of business prosperity, he said, from the present outlook

HILL SHOWS GROWTH OF MINNESOTA BANKS

New York, Oct. 8.—James J. Hill, chairman of the board of directors of the Great Northern Railway company, arrived here today from St. Paul. Mr. Hill declined to discuss the political situation except to say that never in his experience had he observed a condition prior to a national election when party lines were so indifferently drawn. He remarked that the Northwest is indeed prosperous, displaying a table showing the growths of banks in the Dakotas and Minnesota, the table indicating that in these sections during the past ten years the bank deposits had increased 200 to 300 per cent.

REPUDIATE CROSBY AS AGENT OF THE COMPANY

Claim That No Ratification Was Given to Representations.

New Phase Developed in Butte & Superior Suit Against McAlpine.

"Expert" Meany Gets Severe Grilling by Attorney Hollister.

The case of the Butte & Superior Copper company against John McAlpine for the recovery of $2,000 on a promissory note given by McAlpine as part payment on a stock subscription, took a new turn this morning when Mr. McAlpine was called to the stand by Attorney J. B. Richards for the defense. Mr. McAlpine said that he had executed the note, which was introduced in evidence, having gone to the office of George H. Crosby for the purpose. Mr. Richards then asked him what conversation had taken place between him and Crosby and immediately Attorney T. J. Davis, who had been in the background during the examination of the expert witnesses of the defense, was on his feet with an objection.

He claimed that what conversation had taken place between Mr. Crosby and Mr McAlpine had no bearing on the case, as there was nothing to show that Mr. Crosby had acted as an agent for the company in the transaction. He said that until actual agency was shown any representations that might have been made by Mr. Crosby to Mr. McAlpine could not be binding on the Butte & Superior company, which had regarded Mr. Crosby as an outsider.

Mr. Richards claimed that the very fact that the Butte & Superior Copper company accepted the note from Mr. Crosby and later brought suit upon it, ratified Mr. Crosby's agency and ratified any representations he may have made in securing the note. He also claimed that the reply of the company to Mr. McAlpine's answer, charging fraud, was a ratification of Mr. Crosby's actions and a concession as to his agency.

Mr. Davis held that because Mr. Crosby was charged on the books of the company with $1,855 for one-fourth payment on stock credited to other people was no significance that Mr. Crosby was an actual agent of the company. He claimed that the fact that Mr. McAlpine had voluntarily visited Mr. Crosby's office, had put a proposition that Mr. Crosby accepted and had made out a signed note for delivery to the Lutte & Superior Copper company from Mr. Crosby as such. The company, he claimed, is suing on the note itself and not on any representations made by a volunteer and not actually ratified by accredited agents of the company.

The arguments on the objection took up an hour and were not completed when court adjourned at noon. As Mr. McAlpine's defense is based on misrepresentations made by Mr. Crosby, as an agent of the company, to Mr. McAlpine, the decision of the court on the objection has great bearing on the case and will be an interesting phase.

Meany Again on Stand.

Pat Meany was on the stand again this morning and after a short redirect examination by Attorney Richards, Attorney Hollister again began his efforts to discredit Meany's testimony as an expert. The witness and attorney had several tiffs and the court had to stop rather heated arguments at times between the two attorneys and the witness.

The form of Mr. Hollister's questions didn't please Meany, at times, and he wasn't slow in saying so. Once he exclaimed: "You can't testify for me; I want to do my own testifying," to which Mr. Hollister replied with equal warmth, "No, nor you can't ask my questions for me. I am running this end of the examination."

Under cross-examination, Mr. Meany admitted that the government maps showed no intrusive rhyolite within a half mile of the "Eight P" claims of the Butte & Superior company. He said, however, that he was willing to swear that they might sink 150 or 200 feet on the Paris, Pekin, Paul and Pueblo claims without striking granite.

Mr. Hollister sought to secure an admission from the witness that if there was valuable coppe deposits on the Elmore Lou, the Crocsus and the Berlin claims, there might also be valuable copper ore in the Black Rock. Meany said that the silver ore in the upper levels of the Black Rock was the same as on the other claims, which are on the same vein, but it was a base-milling ore, and that there is little possibility of copper existing under base-milling ore. Mr. Hollister failed to secure an answer to the hypothetical question, as to whether there might not be heavy copper deposits at depth on the Black Rock claim, if rich copper ore was found in the lower levels of the other mines on the same lead, it being ruled out on objection.

Meany said that in his experience, he found that the Black Rock ores would not concentrate and he claimed that though there have been improvements of late in the appliances for concentration, they would have no effect on the concentration qualities of the Black Rock ores.

After Meany left the stand, W. W. Wells, a clerk in the First National Bank of Duluth, was called. He said he had been unable to find papers called for in his subpoena, and had been able to find no record of any certificates of shares of stock of the Butte & Superior Copper company having been deposited in that bank after Nov. 9, 1906, running to the names of A. B. Wolvin, J. F. Killorin and T. L. Davis.

Mr. McAlpine was then called to the stand and had been on but a few minutes, when the arguments on Mr. Davis' objection cut off further testimony.

The "Expert" Grilled.

A battle of wits between Pat Meany, the Butte "expert," testifying for the defense, and Attorney Theodore Hollister for the plaintiff, held the interest of the spectators yesterday afternoon.

The examination was mostly sarcastic, sometimes it was humorous, and once, in the heat of the conflict, Mr. Hollister shot at the witness: "Oh, you're simply a laboring man and a politician out there, who has worked a few small mines. Isn't that all you are?"

"What do you call a politician?" Meany retorted, but the court shut off further conversation along that line on a protest from Mr. Richards.

Mr. Hollister showed a thorough knowledge of the Butte district and the development work done on different mines and he laid pitfalls for Meany at every turn. The Butte man picked his way along the edges of the precipices, answering carefully and swinging, "I don't know," into the breach several times when danger threatened. He contradicted himself several times and made admissions at variance with his former testimony.

Mr. Hollister dwelt at some length on the characteristic of the Butte camp, that silver in the upper levels depreciates with depth, while copper is struck at some depth, and then the copper values appreciate as the mine is sunk. Meany admitted that such was the case in some mines, but at another point maintained that all the really great mines of Butte had copper in some quantity from the grass-roots.

Mr. Hollister maintained that the ore of the Black Rock shaft showed 40 per cent zinc, 14 ounces of silver and $1.20 in gold and asked Meany if that wasn't a good value. Meany said it was, if the ore was in sufficient quantities and could be easily mined. He said that his experience with Black Rock ores, when Senator Clark had operated the mine, had been that the low grade ores were in great quantities and the high grade ore in small quantities.

Prospective Values.

On the question of prospective values, Meany wouldn't concede a point. He maintained that even if a rich vein ran right up to the edge of a property in Butte, the property would not be worth a cent in his estimation until the vein had actually been exposed on it, the ore assayed and proved to have commercial value.

On the question of the value of the Niagara property, Mr. Hollister brought up the suit in which W. A. Clark was involved when he drove a drift from the 500-foot level of the Black Rock into the boundaries of the Niagara and had to pay a large sum indemnity for the trespass. Meany admitted a knowledge of the case. He said, however, that he didn't know that the Niagara had valuable silver ore now, however.

"If the Niagara had valuable silver ore, wouldn't it be a valuable mine?" asked the attorney.

"It would," said Meany.

"You haven't been in the Niagara tunnel since 1892 and you get upon the stand and swear that the mine is valueless," said the attorney.

"I believe that any mine is valueless unless actual values have been demonstrated," said the witness.

"Is it fair to condemn any property until it is explored and proved to be valueless?" asked Mr. Hollister.

"Yes," said Meany.

Meany said that ore sent from the Black Rock to the Colorado smelter when Senator Clark operated the mine assayed about 15 per cent of copper. He said the average of the Butte camp was about 4 per cent and admitted that some mines were operating at a profit with 3 per cent ore. He admitted that on account of improved milling processes ores practically valueless ten years ago are now of considerable value. He admitted also that theories formed once in regard to the value of mines in the Butte camp had to be changed to conform to developments, which had shown unexpected situations.

Admits Ignorance.

Meany was questioned at some length on the North Butte properties and the Minnie Healy mine of the Butte Coalition. He admitted that the Minnie Healy had been supposedly "unloaded" on Heinze for $57,000 and millions had been struck within a week. When the witness showed unfamiliarity with the underground workings of different Butte mines, Mr Hollister exploded: "You, you get upon the stand and tell us that you know every foot of the Butte camp, the size and extent of every vein and everything else about the camp. You tell us you know everything and we find that you don't."

Mr. Hollister closed his examination just before the close of the session yesterday afternoon and Mr. Richards again took the witness.

The testimony showed that a switching crew was making up a string of cars in the yards and after blockading Tenth street for some time, finally "cut" the train to permit waiting rigs to cross. The little girl had waited for some time and was caught while attempting to cross. One leg was crushed off and serious internal injuries received from which she died a few hours later. The road was censured for failure to have gatemen at that point.

SIGNALS FOR THE BRIDGE

Marine Men Say All Boats Should Give Warning.

Claim Safety of Public Demands Whistling by Boats.

All letters in regard to the new harbor signals and the whistling of boats for the aerial bridge must be received by Col. Fitch by Saturday of this week. All marine men are taking an active interest in these proposed changes and many letters are being sent to the United States engineers in regard to them.

Boats coming straight toward the bridge need not whistle, and only those coming out of the slip at Lake avenue need sound a warning under the proposed rules. Vesselmen are opposed to the method, and say that while they are not directly concerned, they fear accidents might occur for want of a little precaution.

"If a boat should strike the bridge," said a marine man this morning, "the structure being made of steel and iron, would snap off, and the suction would be so great when the car hit the water that all on board would be taken down with it. The public rides back and forth on the car and they are the ones that are directly concerned, and I should think they would have enough interest to insist that every boat blow for the bridge.

"I say emphatically that it is the public that is taking the chance and I should think they should be the ones to be consulted instead of the marine men. We are in favor of blowing at all times for the bridge. The bridge tender on the aerial bridge is no different from other bridge tenders, and is apt to get careless, whereas if a whistle be blown the approaching boat cannot help but attract his attention.

"The only reason given by the engineers for the change is that the whistles annoy a great many people up town. This I consider a lame excuse where so many lives would be endangered, and I consider the wishes of the 'nervous' folks up town of little consequence alongside of the risk the change would make.

"A few years ago the citizens of a town on the lower lakes asked that the fog horn blowing be discontinued because it kept them awake at night. Now I want to say that if these same people would be on a boat in a thick fog, the horn would be welcome music to their ears. Allowing a boat to approach the bridge without whistling is just as foolish, as the illustration quoted above, and the citizens of Duluth in general and Park point in particular should rise up against it and demand that all boats approaching the bridge would whistle.

"As matters stand now the bridge has no rights at all. It is supposed to keep out of the way of all vessels, and this would be a mighty hard matter for a sharp man on a thick night, if the boat did not blow. It's a matter that needs careful consideration on the part of everyone who uses the bridge before they decide upon the new rules."

Lake Light Changes.

The tower is thirty feet in height. The light will illuminate the entire horizon, will be 117 feet above the mean lake level, and visible twenty miles to the observer's eye fifteen feet above the lake.

A six-inch siren, operated by compressed air, will sound during thick or foggy weather. The blasts will be of two seconds' duration separated by silent intervals of thirteen seconds.

The light at Two Harbors will be changed from fixed white to flashing red every five seconds without further change.

BOOMS PARCELS POST BEFORE CARRIERS.

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 8.—One of the features of today's session of the National Rural Letter Carriers' association was an address by D. M. Carr of Omaha, who has been prominent in a movement to secure parcels post legislation.

Mr. Carr, on the matter of parcels post as planned by the postmaster general and presented in the Burnham and Kean bills introduced in the congress characterized them as among the most important legislative measures before the nation, and of which the people in general are little informed. He showed by figures of cost that the Burnham bill, if enacted into law, would during the first year of its operation make the rural delivery part of the parcels post self-sustaining.

It was decided to lay a four-foot wooden walk to the Mohawk location, a distance of about three-quarters of a mile.

One liquor license was granted, another application laid on the table and a third rejected because of the absence of a surety bond.

enacted car-service laws; twenty-three have regulated train service and connections; twenty-two have fixed maximum passenger rates; nine have enacted maximum freight rates; thirty-six have regulated the general corporate affairs of the common carriers. Yet in the twelve years before this only four statutes were added to the list of those prescribing maximum rates and fares. While, in these last five years, fifteen state railroad commissions have been created or received large extensions of power, it is in the field outside of this that legislative activity has been most pronounced and destructive. Within that short period thirty-three states have enacted a total of 334 laws regulating railroads within their jurisdiction, and nearly all of these laws have been enacted without investigation or knowledge of their effect.

"It is perhaps needless for me to say that, if this were to continue, the future of railroad transportation would end in the destruction of the business of the nation. Fortunately we have reason to believe that saner councils will prevail. Already the touch of misfortune has convinced many of the suicidal folly of destroying the interest which, next after the cultivation of the soil, is most important in the whole country. This carnival of legislative wrecking has also demonstrated the necessity of substituting federal for local legislation. In practice, it is evident that the through rate can never be more than the sum of the locals, and that these added together will constitute the through rate, although the interstate commerce commission may have declared a higher rate reasonable and ordered it into effect.

"There can be but one authority over the railroads. No subject can serve two masters. The greater can not yield to the less; nor the interstate traffic which constitutes from 65 to 97 per cent of the total over large portions of the country accept directions from the comparatively trifling percentage of state business."

"Servia cannot obtain full satisfaction other than by the complete restoration of the situation with regard to Bosnia and Herzegovina as established by the treaty of Berlin. If this solution is regarded as absolutely impossible the Servian government, appealing to the sense of equity of the powers, demands corresponding compensation for Servia."

NATIONAL CURE FOR ECZEMA

When you have a scratch on your hand you wash it out and cleanse it and then the skin cures itself. You do not take blood medicine to cure a festered wound.

The fact that eczema is a skin disease and not a blood disease is evident from statistics which show that nearly all eczema sufferers are perfectly healthy in all other ways except as to their skin. If the eczema patients were really suffering from an inward malady, the entire body and not only the skin would be diseased.

You can prove immediately the relief of a true skin cure by using oil of wintergreen as compounded in D. D. D. Prescription.

This liquid attacks the disease germs, numbing them while building up the healthy tissue of the skin. We have now handled this meritorious and thoroughly scientific remedy for so long and have seen its reliable result so many times that we freely express our confidence.

Attempt to Blow Safe in Great Northern Depot at Chisholm.

Scared From Grocery Store Under Threat of Being Shot.

Chisholm, Minn., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—An attempt to break into the safe at the Great Northern depot was made at about 2 o'clock yesterday morning by yeggmen.

Depot Agent J. Abbey, when he arrived at 7 o'clock, found both doors broken open and a crowbar, coupling pin and a can of nitro-glycerin lying by the safe. After investigation Mr. Abbey saw that the safe had been tampered with, but not broken. The yeggmen first broke the doors open and after locating the safe put soap in the cracks of the safe. They then poured nitro-glycerin over the soap, but it ran off. The burglars, it is supposed, set and lit the fuse and it not going off or for some other reason they were scared off, for they left a can of nitro-glycerin, a crowbar and coupling pin lying on the floor.

It is thought that the yeggmen were professionals. As yet there is no clue to the perpetrators, but the police have the matter in hand and they expect to catch the robbers before long.

Grocer Drives Burglars Away.

An attempt to break into the grocery store of A. Apo, situated a few hundred feet from the depot, occurred at 1:45 o'clock yesterday morning. Mr. Apo, who sleeps in the rear of the store, was awakened at 1:45 by somebody trying to open the window of his store. He at once slipped out of bed and armed with a revolver he proceeded toward one of the windows and shouted, "If you don't go away I'll shoot you."

He then looked out of the window and saw three men running towards the depot. The authorities believe it was the same gang that broke in the depot a few minutes later.

"CLOSE THE PIGS" SAY SALOONMEN

"Then We Will Obey the Law," Reply to Eveleth Civic League.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Civic league which was organized a few months ago among those people who are in favor of having the saloons obey the laws more strictly is gradually making itself felt. A meeting was held by a few members of the Civic league and a few saloonkeepers at the city hall, when matters of common interest to both, but on opposite sides, were discussed. The league wants to see that all the saloons obey the 11 o'clock and the Sunday closing law. The saloonkeepers claim that the blind-pigs, who are the worst evils on the range, are not being exterminated. If the blind pigs are done away with altogether the saloonkeepers will obey the law to the letter. They say they will help in clearing out the blind pigs, but they must also have the aid of all the citizens. The saloons have to pay license, put up a bond and are controlled by state laws, while the blind pigs run without license and without having to obey laws. The blind pig question has been an uppermost question in the minds of the local citizens for some time. Blind pig cases have been brought up for trial and the offenders fined, but this does not drive the blind pigs out. At a recent meeting of the Civic league a committee of three was appointed to go to Duluth, consult the officials of the Oliver Mining company and see if they will keep out all beer wagons from their lands.

The league has also decided to try to get out the disorderly houses from their present locations, and if possible altogether out of town.

MANY HIBBING PUPILS.

Report of Supt. Young for First Month Presented.

Hibbing, Minn., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The newly created independent school district of Hibbing completed its organization Tuesday by the election of E. E. Hunner as president, T. J. Godfrey, secretary, and Richard Geary, treasurer. The other members of the board are John A. Redfern, Scott L. Holtzlander and Martin Hughes.

The report of Supt. Young of the city schools shows an enrollment of 1,566 for the first school month. Both kinderpartens and one primary are now on half day sessions and three basement rooms are in use.

The board considered the bids submitted for the excavation, foundation and cement work for the new twenty-room grade building to be erected on Second avenue in the same block with the present grade building. The contract was awarded to McLeod & Smith of Duluth at $6,700. It is expected that the contractors will be on the ground at once, as it is desired to get the foundation in before the weather grows very cold. The superstructure will not be put up until next spring.

EVELETH'S EXPENSES.

What It Will Cost to Run City Another Year.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The estimate of the expenses for the year 1909, which were not available at the meeting of the city council because they were not approved by the mayor follows: Salaries, $4,000; maintenance of the city hall, $1,900; pound, $375; city lighting, $7,600; election expenses, $250; postage and express, $100; boarding prisoners, $150; printing and publishing, $800; engineering, $1,200; municipal court, $2,000; fire department, $12,000; health department, $3,000; police department, $6,000; streets and alleys, $13,000; miscellaneous, $2,000, making a total of $50,375.

For the special funds and estimates are as follows: Water works, $13,000; bonds and interest, $6,000; water tank and connection, $2,000, making a total of $61,000 or a grand total of $114,375, of which it is estimated about $30,000 will be received in the way of receipts and the rest by a tax levy of $81,266.

FOR MORE SCHOOLS.

School District No. 6, Itasca County, Sells Boads.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—To provide funds with which to build additional schools to keep abreast with the increase in the number of pupils in school district No. 6 of Itasca county, the board of each district has sold $35,000 in bonds to Minneapolis parties.

A large share of this sum will go toward the putting up of a new high school building at Deer River, which village is included in the district. The school at Deer River is so crowded that it cannot accommodate all the pupils and some classes are being held in the basement of the Methodist church. Work on the new high school building will start at once. Other schools will be built in the rural parts of the district.

The town of Arbo, Itasca county, has issued bonds to the extent of $10,000, to be used in road and bridge work throughout the township. A large part of this sum will go toward the payment of the new steel bridge across the Prairie river on the Grand Rapids-Bovey road. The town of Arbo and Itasca county joined in building this bridge.

OFFICIALS VISIT COLERAINE.

Look Over Mines and Washing Plant on Western Mesaba.

Coleraine, Minn., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Thomas F. Cole, president of the Oliver Iron Mining company, and other officials of the United States Steel corporation were here yesterday looking over the local mines and inspecting the new washing plant. They also looked over the route to the new washing plant to be erected next year.

Six large, healthy horses from Montana purchased by the Oliver Iron Mining company have arrived here to replace the animals that were the victims of glanders a few months ago. Including in the purchase was a fine dapple-gray animal, a saddle horse for Supt. John Greenway, replacing the fine animal he lost.

The Norwegian Lutheran people have begun the erection of a church edifice adjacent to the new Presbyterian church and opposite the Greenway school. The stone foundation for the superstructure is completed. The building will be 40 by 60 feet and will cost about $4,000.

THEY ACTED SUSPICIOUSLY.

Eveleth Chief Ordered Two Questionables to Leave.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two men were run out of town yesterday by Chief of Police Kent as suspicious characters. One of the men visited various business men representing himself as an expert repairer of typewriters. He approached Editor George A. Perham of the News, the Miners' National bank the postmasters and others. He did not get anything to do. It is believed that the men are advance agents of some yeggmen who have been working in this vicinity lately and might have been members of the gang that robbed the bank at Biwabik just before the Chisholm fire, and were here to get the lay of the land so as to be prepared in case they should make some raid on either of the local banks.

TWO HARBORS SCHOOLS SHOW LARGE ATTENDANCE.

Two Harbors, Minn., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The enrollment of the schools of District No. 2 for the month of September is as follows: Two Harbors high school, 240; Hiawatha, 351; John A. Johnson, 269; Minnehaha, 115; Waldo, 27; Stewart, 26; Silver Creek, 21; London ,12; Castle Danger, 9; Lindros, 13. Total, 1,093.

LET BRIDGE CONTRACT.

Two Harbors, Minn., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Lake county board of commissioners has given a contract to Cyrille Fortier for a bridge across the rapids at the foot of White Iron lake in Fall Lake township.

The board also let a cantract to Joe Betzler & Son of Beaver Bay for the grading of a mile and a half of road near that place.

A petition to divide the towns of Two Harbors was denied.

VIRGINIA BRIEFS.

Virginia, Minn., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Joseph Cassidy and children are spending the week in Duluth visiting with her sister, Mrs. Arthur Riddle, who will soon depart for Florida to reside.

Joseph Backus and Frank Miller have gone to the Bow String country to hunt ducks for several weeks.

Judge J. M. Martin has returned from St. Paul, where he went to defend a suit brought by the city of St. Paul against a brother of Louis Fong of this city. Mr. Martin won his case.

E. F. Britts, cashier of the First National bank, has returned from a business visit to Duluth.

Municipal Judge Carey sentenced Otto Eklund to the county bastile yesterday for thirty days for disorderly conduct.

County Commissioner Neil McInnis of Eveleth is in the city looking after business connected with the roads north of this city. Mr. McInnis is recovering from the injury he sustained recently when he was thrown from a rig on the Miller Trunk road near Eveleth.

Virginia Club Election.

Virginia, Minn., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual meeting of the Virginia club was held at its club rooms in the Fay Opera House block last evening. The matter of securing more commodious rooms was taken up and referred to a committee with instructions to secure better accommodations if possible.

The following officers were chosen for the ensuing year: President, Mark Elliott; vice president, M. E. Fanning; secretary, Ed Wenzel; treasurer, A. E. Shipley.

Eveleth Doctor Married.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The many friends of Dr. P. F. Brown will be pleased to hear of his marriage today to Miss Kidney of Appleton, Minn., at the home of the bride. Dr. Brown has been for a time attached to the staff at the More hospital and was recently appointed health commissioner for the city and for the school district.

Dr. More of the More hospital has gone to the Twin Cities to attend the meeting of the state board of health.

Odd Condition Reported.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—A peculiar condition of affairs is reported as existing between the city and the Miners' National bank, the city depository. The bank, according to an alderman, has not given a bond yet. When the city overdraws on any of its accounts it has to pay interest at the rate of 7 per cent, even though the city may at that time have money in the bank under a different fund, for which it receives no interest. According to the alderman the city ought to make some arrangements so that it can receive some benefit from the money that lays idle in the bank.

LOVE'S YOUNG DREAM ENDS IN POLICE COURT.

Hibbing, Minn., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—"This is the end," declared Lydia Goodreau, the 17-year-old wife of John Goodreau, as she picked up their 2-year-old baby that had been toddling about the court room while the husband and wife aired their grievances before Acting Judge T. M. Brady yesterday, and swept from the court room.

The couple had been married three years, the wife being only 14 when the man led her to the altar. The husband is nearly 40, and the couple of late have not agreed. The wife claimed her husband beat her, while the latter alleged his wife went on the street too much.

The court cut short a long-winded airing of troubles by fining the man $5 and advising both to try and live amicably together. The court suggested to Goodreau that he accompany his wife home, but Goodreau said he guessed she could find her way, and as the woman left carrying the baby, she gave utterance to the remark quoted.

Again Petition Council.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The residents in Central Division No. 2 who sent in a petition some time ago to the council asking to be taken into the city have again brought the matter to the attention of the council. The petition was referred to a committee and some changes will have to be made in the petition before anything can be done by the council.

INQUEST OVER INGEBERT MOE

Fatal Injuries May Not Have Been Received in City Jail.

Instead of falling to his death in the city jail last Tuesday morning, as was at first supposed, it is believed Ingebert Moe may have died as the result of injuries received before his arrest. It has developed that when taken into custody he was suffering from wounds about the head, and the coroner may hold an inquest tomorrow to try to find out whether these wounds or a fall from the balcony in the jail to the cement floor underneath, caused his death.

Coroner J. A. McCuen held a post-mortem examination yesterday afternoon over the body, but could not say positively just how the fatal blow on the man's head came to be inflicted. When Moe was arrested Monday night, by Officer Nelson Perry, on Garfield avenue, he was cut and bleeding. Lewis Johnson, who was in charge of the patrol wagon at the time, says that Moe had received the injuries about the head prior to his arrest, possibly in a fight. An examination showed the skull to have been fractured for four inches, and the fact that the injury was to the right of the center, may indicate that he was struck by a weapon in the hands of another, instead of falling. Dr. E. W. Fahey, who performed the autopsy, believes the wound could have come from either a blow or a fall. It is expected that new facts will be brought out at the inquest, Friday.

Some of the police officers are of the opinion that Moe did not fall from the balcony, as was at first supposed. There is a railing about the balcony, and as Moe was a large man, it is thought hardly possible that he could have fallen through. So far as can be determined, none of the prisoners who were in jail at the time, saw Moe fall.

CHANGE IN THE PLANS

Police Station Will Not be Built in West End.

An Automobile Patrol Wagon Will be Purchased Instead.

At a special meeting of the city council last night, called by Mayor Haven, for a reconsideration of the tax levy, $2,500 was added to the police fund of $76,000, for the purchase of an auto patrol for the police department.

Seven thousand dollars was transferred from the permanent improvement fund to the general fund. The money was originally set apart for the erection of a new police station in the West end, but it was discovered that with the installation of the new patrol wagon, a station will not be needed there, as the automobile, traveling much faster than a team, will be able to handle all the prisoners from that part of town, bringing them direct to headquarters up town.

In the matter of the auto patrol, both Mayor Haven and Chief of Police Troyer recommended the move, saying it would be an economical move, as well as being in the line of municipal progress. There are six horses now maintained by the police department for patrol wagon service, and four of these will be sold. The youngest and best two will be transferred to the West Duluth department, to replace the older horses now in use there.

Chief Troyer appeared before the meeting and said the auto would fill the bill nicely. He said it could be operated at a daily cost of 90 cents for gasoline, according to the information received from other cities where such machines are in use.

In addition to the $2,500 added to the police fund, $3,000 was appropriated for reducing the grade on Piedmont avenue, between Third and Sixth streets, so the Duluth Street Railway company will be able to extend its lines up Piedmont, giving service to people in the hillside district. The fund of $2,000 for repairs to Garfield avenue was increased to $3,000, and the remaining $500 from the $7,000 was added to the $2,500 that had been appropriated for repairs to No. 2 fire hall.

LEANDER LOWELL PROTESTS

Against Voting of Certain Stock in Lake Superior Corporation.

New York, Oct. 8.—At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Lake Superior corporation, held in Jersey City yesterday, Richard L. Austin, George W. Young, Solomon E. Kaufman and Thomas Gibson were elected directors in place of F. B. Reeves, L. M. Lowell, H. G. Lloyd and J. T. Terry, Jr. Counsel for Leander M. Lowell protested against the voting by the management of about 34,000 shares of stock which had been transferred to several Philadelphia banks and gave notice that the proceedings would be contested in court.

To Try Accused Lawyer.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 8.—In the matter of the petition of E. Southworth, for the board of examiners, for the removal of J. J. Davis, Benson, Minn., from the bar for wilful misconduct in his profession, the supreme court appointed Arthur A. Stewart as referee to take evidence in the matter.

Davis' plea of not guilty was allowed to be withdrawn and he substituted a written statement in its place.

BURGLARS ARE ACTIVE

Three More Stores Were Entered During the Night.

Thieves Open Safe But They Secure Little Plunder.

Three more burglaries were committed in Duluth last night.

The thieves seem to be partial to grocery stores. Two grocers were the victims of their attentions Tuesday night, and last night the store of Frank Suech, at 329 West First street, was broken into. The thieves secured about $2 in small change from the cash drawer, and about $30 worth of cigars. This is the seventh time in five years that Mr. Suech's store has been entered. The men broke in the back window, and gained access in that manner.

The office of L. R. Helbing, at 322 East Superior street, was also broken into. The burglars managed to work the combination of the safe. It is claimed that the safe had been left locked, and if this was the case, the thieves succeeded in finding the combination and opening it. They secured only $2.50 in cash. A number of checks were left undisturbed.

The third place visited was the tin shop of Burrell & Harmon, at 308 East Superior street. The thieves got nothing here, as no money had been left in the cash drawer over night.

This makes five burglaries in two nights, and the police are making every endeavor to run down the thieves. They believe that all five burglaries were committed by the same men, and merchants are warned not to leave any money in their stores over night, unless it is out of the reach of sneak thieves.

CAMPAIGN FUND LAW ATTACKED.

Honolulu, Oct. 8.—The constitutionality of the enactment prohibiting corporations from contributing to campaign funds is being attacked in a case before United States District Judge Dole. The ground taken in the objection is that the act affects the election of state and county officers in cases where no federal congressional office is concerned, making it an intereference with state rights.

TWO GOVERNORS IN ONE EVENING

Republican Committee Trades J. Adam Bede for Gov. Cummins.

With the prospect of their big show at the armory proving a frost, as the result of the cancelling of the engagement of Governor Cummins, the Minnesota state central committee got very busy yesterday afternoon, and reached the governor at Sedalia, Mo. They put their predicament up to him in such a manner that he could not refuse to come to Duluth, and he finally consented, reluctiantly, on condition that J. Adam Bede be sent to Iowa to fill a date there. The committee was willing to swap Mr. Bede for the governor, and the trade was effected.

Duluth will, therefore, entertain two governors in one evening, as Governor Johnson opens his campaign in Northern Minnesota by speeches at West Duluth and the West end, on the same evening.

It was also announced yesterday that Jacobson would appear in Duluth in about two weeks. He will follow Governor Johnson over the ranges.

Duluth—W. B. Henderson, First ward; E. F. Claik, Second ward; Walter H. Borgen, Third ward; Dr. J. J. Eklund, Fourth ward; David Fredin, Fifth ward; Andrew Borgen, Sixth ward; A. J. McCauley, Seventh ward; L. A. Barnes, Eighth ward.

Hibbing—Dr. H. R. Weirick, A. E. Pfremmer, Dr. P. C. Budd, Clarence E. Dwyer, Herman Antonelli, A. P. Silliman, Frank A. Wildes, Emil Anderson and James Butchart.

Chisholm—A. B. Kirk, W. G. Shane, James H. McNevin, Ralph S. O'Neal.

Virginia—Andrew Hawkinson, Benjamin F. Smith, J. Kennedy, Michael Boylan, J. C. Bickford, W. B. Pratt, W. H. Eaton and James Lavioliette.

Ely—George L. Brozich, Luther B. Brockway, U. S. Grant McMahon, John E. Porthan and Henry Chinn.

Biwabik—Fred B. Meyers, Frank S. Colvin and J. H. Silber.

McKinley—Dr. John C. Farmer, William G. Dundas and Frank Gleason.

Sparta—Clyde M. Campbell, Lazarus Rubenstein and John N. Carlson.

Floodwood—John Stokie and Andrew H. Markane.

Buhl—Dr. Albert W. Shaw.

Stevenson—Capt. Claude Harrison.

Tower — Edward Wheeler, Albert Weinzierl, Gustaf A. Colberg and Anton Erickson.

Soudan—Paul F. Chamberlain.

Proctor—Henry Gilderman.

Garfield's Son President.

Williamston, Mass., Oct. 8.—Perry Augustus Garfield, of the class of '85, son of the late President James A. Garfield, was inducted yesterday into the office of president of Williams college. Seventy-five college presidents were present.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

NEW RUMOR ABOUT SOO

Thief River Falls Has Report of New Line to Duluth.

Road Coming From Red Lake Town to Duluth Via Virginia.

Thief River Falls, Minn., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—This section is worked up over the railway news that has leaked out within the last ten days, regarding the attitude of the Soo railroad in taking such an active part in the construction of a line from Virginia on the iron range into Duluth.

This line, it is reported, is to connect with the Cooke-O'Brien Rainy Lake road, but that it is part of the plan of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic, a subsidiary company of the parent Soo, to extend their line directly west through the unoccupied part of Northern Minnesota and connect with the Soo at Thief River Falls, the headquarters of this road in the upper part of the state.

This would bring the whole northern portion of the North Dakota, now traversed by the Soo "Wheatline" to Kenmare, into short and direct communication with the Head of the Lakes, and, at the same time, occupy a rich open part of Minnesota and tap the iron range. Surveys have been run from Thief River Falls to Duluth by way of the western end of the range, which is on an air line between this city and Duluth.

This line would pass just south of the great Red lakes and, paralleling the Great Northern at a distance of about forty miles, would tap the woods towns and iron ranges, thus assuring a heavy traffic from the outset. This is the last and only connecting link between the Dakota and Red River valley grain fields and Duluth, and it is given out as authoritative that as soon as the Soo terminals are constructed at the Head of the Lakes that this short gap will be filled in by an extension of the South Shore.

NEW RECEIVER ARRIVES.

Lester Bartlett Takes Charge of Cass Lake Land Office.

Cass Lake, Minn., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Lester Bartlett the newly appointed receiver of the United States land office has arrived here and has already been acquainting himself with his new duties. Mr. Oakley, his predecessor will leave next Monday for St. Paul where he will at once assume the duties as assistant United States district attorney.

SPOKE ABOUT DAIRYING.

Dairy Expert Addresses Farmers at Forbes.

Forbes, Minn., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—John N. Tidd, who is connected with the dairy department of the University of Minnesota, conducted a farmer's meeting at the Forbes school house Tuesday night.

Mr. Tidd lectured on "Dairying in Northern Minnesota." He explained and proved his points in such a plain and simple, yet scientific way as to absorb the interest of even those who were not interested in dairying. He has with him a model cow stall of his own invention, which he urges that every farmer put one in like it. There are no charges for the farmer to build one like it.

At the close of the meeting sample bottles were given out to every one who wanted their cows tested for butterfat, which will aid the farmers to find their good cows and cull out the poor ones, or "star-boarders" as Mr. Tidd calls them.

Mrs. Helen Barton, of 27 Pearson Street, Chicago, Ill., writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I was all run-down, and on the verge of nervous prostration from overwork and worry, and ill in bed, when I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After I had taken it a week I commenced to get better. I continued its use, my nervous trouble disappeared, and I am completely restored to health. I hope Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will benefit other women as it has me."

FROM CASS LAKE TO GRAND RAPIDS

Father Buechler is Transferred and Succeeded by Father Koehner.

Cass Lake, Minn., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)— Rev. L. Buechler, who has had charge of the Catholic parish here for the past two years has received notice that he has been appointed to take charge of the Grand Rapids parish. Father Buechler has accomplished much during his stay here. He has through his zealous work cleared the local church of a heavy debt and beside has expended over $6,000 in remodeling and beautifying it. Rev. Father Buechler's successor will be Rev. Father Koerner of Pine City.

HIGHWAYMEN HAD WINNING HAND

Flourished Six Shooters and Held Up Some Poker Players.

Dazey, N. D., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Five bandits a few nights ago pulled off a little stund that would have furnished excellent material for a sensational melodrama. About 2:30 a. m. two masked men entered the pool hall of J. Strsla, lined the twenty-two men there at that unseemingly hour up against the wall and relieved them of their valuable, securing some $200 and a miscellaneous collection of watches. A number of games of poker were in progress when the robbers appeared upon the scene, but as thy seemed to hold the best hand, nobody objected to their taking the pots and cleaning the tables. Both men were tall and dressed in dark clothing with soft shirts and appeared to be dark. After they left, putting out the lights when going, the twenty-two men remained there for an hour and a half before they moved, turned on a light or got out of doors.

Sometime during the night a window was forced in the office of Osborne Bros., dealers in wood, the safe blown with nitro-glycerin and about $15 in cash and $100 worth of checks secured.

It is supposed that there were five men in the bunch and that three of them tried to do away with the night watchman and crack the bank. The watchman, George Lee, heard a cry of murder and for help but as he could see the men making the cry, he did not get excited and stayed in the neighborhood of the banks. He believes that if he could have been decoyed away, a bank would have been robbed.

SEMI-ANNUAL MEETING

Of Lake Superior Association of Congregational Churches.

Hancock, Mich., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The semi-annual meeting of the Lake Superior Association of Congregational Churches and Ministers will be held in the Hancock Congregational church on Wednesday, Oct. 28. A splendid program has been arranged for the occasion. Morning, afternoon and evening session will be held. Copper country ministers will give addresses and in addition Rev. John W. Sutherland, D.D., superintendent of the Michigan Congregational conference, and Rev. J. W. Anderson of Ironwood will participate. The music at the session will be furnished by the choir of the Hancock church. Each church is entitled to representation by its pastor, deacons, clerk and treasurer, and six delegates elected by the church. The public will be cordially invited to attend all of the meetings. The Hancock church expects a full delegation from each church and will gladly entertain all who come. The officers of the association are Rev. C. H. Harger, moderator; J. A. Patton, assistant moderator, and H. Appleton, registrar and treasurer.

DEDICATE NEW HALL.

Italian-Americans of Calumet to Have Notable Ceremony.

Calumet, Mich., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The dedication of the new Italian hall takes place next Saturday and Sunday. The several Italian fraternal and other societies in the Copper country will be present for the occasion and previous to taking part in the dedication ceremony proper, will parade the principal streets of Red Jacket and Laurium in the morning. In the afternoon speeches will be delivered by General Manager James McNaughton of the Calumet & Hecla and J. Castigliano and John B. Rastello. Messrs. McNaughton and Rastello will speak in English while Mr. Castigliano will address those assembled in Italian. A banquet will be served on Sunday, at which more addresses will be delivered. The dedication ceremonies promise to be of an exceptionally high-class order, and it is expected Calumet will be honored by a large number of visitors during the two days.

WOMEN HELP DRAG BEAR.

Wives of Homesteaders Take Part in Bruin's Undoing.

Aitkin, Minn., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Three more bears have been killed in the northern part of the county by the Geisdorf brothers, who killed three others a few weeks ago. In this killing of last week they were assisted by two women on whose place the bears were found.

The Geisdorfs live in Hebron, and in town 51-25, which is north of there, only one family resides. This is Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Geiger and her sister. They are occupying a homestead, and as Mr. Geiger is away at his work much of the time, these two women are then the only residents of the township. They are a mile from the Geisdorfs and probably five miles from a neighbor where there is a woman in the family, which entitles them to the claim of having good nerve. The bears were killed on their place, and as there is no road for a long distance, the bears were dragged out where they could be reached with a team, and the women helped in this task.

Mrs. Geiger was in town yesterday, having come down with John J. Rulon, Fred Geisdorf and Forest Rolpd, for the purpose of going to Duluth and Proctor for a visit with her husband and friends.

GETS WATCH THROUGH MAIL.

Surprise in Store for President of Crookston Council.

Crookston, Minn., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—President P. Snyder of the Crookston city council was the recipient last Sunday of a most valuable present through the mail, in the form of a handsome 23 jewel gold watch, worth about $100.

The watch was sent through the mails unregistered, this fact probably being due to a desire on the part of the sender to conceal his identity and the only clue as to where the watch came from is that on the tag attached to the box can be deciphered the letter "W" and he is of the opinion that the watch may have come from his brother at Williston, N. D., as it came in on the western mail.

The president of the council has shown no signs of wrath over the receipt of the present, and states that any more of the same kind will be received with the greatest pleasure.

TWO FISHERMEN FINED.

Failure to Comply With Wisconsin Law Proves Expensive.

Stillwater, Minn., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Henry Beckman and Louis Cartoney, fishermen of this city, who make it a business to use seins in the St. Croix, failed to comply with the fish laws of Wisconsin and as a consequence were up against it. O. E. Poole of St. Croix Falls, a game and fish warden found three nets on the east side of the St. Croix at what is known as the Sauntry rafting grounds. One of them was not tagged as the law requires and he siezed it. The owners were also summoned before a court officer in Hudson who imposed a fine of $50 each with costs that amounted to $112.64 in all. The men paid the sum assessed. The net that was seized was sold atauction across the lake from the city yesterday and E. E. Johnson purchased it.

TAMPERING WITH MAIL.

Mail Clerk Alleged to Have Violated His Trust.

Crookston, Minn., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—It is understood that a special representative of the United States postoffice department is in the city looking after some alleged irregularities on the part of some mail clerk. It appears that a local party made a number of remittances to a certain order, and that when the letters arrived at their destination the money had been extracted.

It is understood that suspicions point to a certain employe on the railroad, who runs on a line a long distance from this city, and that he may have a hard time clearing his skirts. No arrests have been made.

SCORES NON-VOTERS.

Campaign Speaker Tells Ashland Men They Are Poor Citizens.

Ashland, Wis., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dale Wood of New York city spoke at the city hall in the interests of the Democratic party, confining his two-hour address almost entirely to the emergency currency bill, denouncing it as a vicious measure, and also paid his respects to the man who failed to vote, claiming that the man who has not patriotism or enough interest to vote was a poor American citizen, and that the franchise should be taken from him.

Mr. Cate, in introducing the speaker, announced that C. D. O'Brien, who was to have addressed the meeting, was unavoidably delayed in coming.

DEAD TRAMP PROMINENT.

Wealthy Relatives in France to Take His Body Home.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., Oct. 8.—Louis Vionnet, a tramp, who was run over and killed by a freight train here July 27, was the son of a prominent family in Paris, and had left France years ago to make his way around the world on his own resources. This was learned in a letter received here containing a description and photograph of the dead man. Mr. Vionnet's mother desires to have the remains exhumed and sent to Paris.

WOMAN CHANGES MIND.

Having Spent Alimony Money, Wants Divorce Set Aside.

Fergus Falls, Minn., Oct. 8.—A most unusual proceeding has been instituted before Judge Baxter, the court being asked to set aside a divorce decree and restore the divorced wife to her rights in her former husband's property.

Lena Voelz secured a divorce from her husband, Albert Voelz, more than a year ago. She is 57 years of age and her husband is 59. In her complaint she alleges that her husband treated her cruelly, beat her at times and paid a good deal of attention to other women. She obtained her decree and $350 alimony.

The present suit is brought to annul the divorce granted in 1907. Mrs. Voelz now claims that she was induced to bring the original suit by "cruelties, duress, fraud, procurement and conspiracy," and that being unable to read or speak the English language, she was not thoroughly aware of the nature of the original proceedings. She alleges that Mr. Voelz is worth $20,000; that her alimony of $350 has been spent; that she is ill and penniless. She asks an order of the court, compelling Mr. Voelz to pay her $10 per week while the suit is pending, together with $200 attorney's fees and $50 court money. The case will probably be tried next month.

WIFE MURDERER SENTENCED.

Thomas Williams Gets Ten Years in Michigan Penitentiary.

Houghton, Mich., Oct. 8.—Thomas Williams, the aged murderer of his wife at their home in Calumet, who was found guilty last week, was sentenced to Marquette prison for a term of ten to twenty years. Williams is over 50 years of age, and alleged his wife attacked him with a bread knife.

GRAND FORKS SCHOOLS HAVE GOOD ATTENDANCE.

Grand Forks, N. D., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the meeting of the board of education Tuesday evening Supt. J. Nelson Kelly gave a report on the attendance so far this year. The report showed that up to the present time there was a total enrollment of 2,184 children in the five schools of this city, this being eighty-seven more than there was at the end of the first month of last year.

NORTH DAKOTA WOMEN HAVING CLUB MEETING.

Minot, N. D., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is a large attendance of members of the North Dakota State Federation of Women's clubs at the annual meeting being held here. The annual address was delivered yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Frank White of Valley City, the president. Mrs. N. C. Young of Fargo and others delivered papers today. The attendance is declared the best in the history of the organization.

MICHIGAN VILLAGE HAS BIG FIRE LOSS.

Menominee, Mich., Oct. 8.—Fire early yesterday, starting from unknown causes at Wabeno, a small village near this city, destroyed the hotel belonging to J. Chicoctta, a meat market owned by E. C. Smith, a saloon and bowling alley owned by Ralph Dyoytte, and several residences near by. The loss is between $18,000 and $20,000, and is only partially covered by insurance.

Margaret Earle at Home.

Grand Forks, N. D., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The story given publicity to the effect that Margaret Earle of this city had attempted to commit suicide in St. Paul by poisoning herself is not based on fact according to a statement made yesterday afternoon. The young woman referred to is at her home on University avenue, where she has been ill a number of days with tonsilitis.

Wyman Case Postponed.

Fargo, N. D., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Wyman shooting case has gone over till Oct. 26. The occasion of the postponement of the hearing was because of the request of Attorney Lovell of the defense for an examination of Dinehart to locate the bullet, alleged to be in the young man's neck. The defense evidently intends to attempt to prove that Dinehart was not hit by the bullet, but that his injuries were caused in some other manner. The defense will bear the expense of the examination.

Shoots Up Town; Arrested.

Stillwater, Minn., Oct. 8.—John Weller of St. Paul was put in jail here yesterday, for shooting up the town of Lake Elmo. He made threats to wipe out a certain family of the village and was found in a citizen's yard with guns and cartridges near him. It is supposed he was crazy drunk. No one has as yet appeared to prosecute him.

Johnson At Mankato.

Mankato, Minn., Oct. 8.—The Democratic committee has arranged for an address to be given in this city by Governor John A. Johnson, on Monday evening, Oct. 26. The theater has been engaged for the occasion, and this meeting will be one of the two big ones of the campaign by the Democrats. The other will be the night before election, when Congressman Hammond and John Lind will speak at the theater.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Fargo, N. D.—Work at the agricultural college was abandoned Tuesday morning between the hours of 10 and 11 o'clock in order that the faculty and those students who desired could attend the funerals of Prof. H. A. Wood and that of the infant child of Secretary and Mrs. C. E. Nugent.

Hettinger, N. D.—The Hettinger postoffice was entered and an attempt to blow the safe came very nearly being successful. It was a very, very narrow escape from robbery and a little more persistence on the part of the yeggmen and they would have accomplished their purpose.

Bismarck, N. D.—George Hancock, the Democratic candidate for state senator of the Ninth legislative district, who failed to receive the 30 per cent vote at the primaries, will run as an independent candidate, he having filed his petition with the secretary of state, and it containing the requisite number of petitioneers.

Valley City—On Saturday, Nov. 14, in this city the Barnes County Teachers' association will assemble and take up such matters as may come before it. The place of meeting has not yet been decided on but will be announced later.

Fargo, N. D.—The armory proposition is going to be brought to the front after Nov. 1 by the officers and men of company B, First regiment, National Guards, and they are going to start the ball rolling by getting in their bid for the $5,000 appropriation which will be given by the state toward the erection of a home for the local military.

Grand Forks, N. D.—A deal was closed Monday morning by City Auditor Alexander for the purchase of a new 13 yeees sprinkler from the Austin Manufacturing company. The new wagon has a capacity of 750 gallons and costs $400.

Dickinson, N. D.—Word has been received here that Henry Fischer, a wealthy rancher, whose home was supposed to be in Dickinson, had disappeared in Milwaukee, Wis., the day before with nearly $9,000 in cash in his possession.

Jamestown, N. D.—There was a smashup of engines in the railroad yards Monday night when someone mounted a road engine, pulled the throttle wide open and jumped off before the engine had gained headway. Down the yards the engine hurled itself toward a switch engine. Both engines were resultingly considerably and were sent to the repair shop.

Grand Forks, N. D.—The Hub clothing store was entered some time Monday night and the till rifled of its contents, being about $22.50 in all. The men gained an entrance through the door during the night and once inside, the work of securing the cash was comparatively easy.

Grand Forks, N. D.—United States Senator H. C. Hansbrough, who has been spending the past week or ten days in Grand Forks, has left for his home at Devils Lake, and from there will go to Williston, where he is billed to speak on Friday evening.

Bottineau, N. D.—Judge Goss held a special term of district court at the county seat Monday evening for the purpose of granting naturalization papers. Twenty-three new citizens were made.

Grand Forks, N. D.—The funeral of Mrs. Fred P. Nash, who passed away so suddenly early Monday morning, was held Wednesday morning from the residence on South Fifth street. Rev. Mr. Hayes of Chicago, formerly pastor of the Presbyterian church of this city and an intimate friend of the Nash family, conducted the services.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Ashland—It is said the Stearns Lumber company has let three contracts for logging during the coming winter to Joe Auger, Tom McMahon and Johnson, for 5,000,000, 9,000,000 and 8,000,000 respectively. This 22,000,000 is believed to represent the amount that the company will cut during the coming winter in excess of its own cut.

Marinette—At the annual meeting of the Presbyterian synod of Wisconsin, which will be held in Marinette on Oct. 13, 14 and 15, Dr. Joseph W. Cochran, formerly of Madison, Wis., now of Philadelphia, will preach the opening sermon, in place of the moderator, the Rev. G. M. Colville, who has removed to Binghampton, N. Y.

Madison—The seventy-first annual meeting of the Wisconsin Congregational churches was opened Tuesday morning with an address by the Rev. John Faville of Appleton.

Wabeno—Fire at 2 o'clock Tuesday morning destroyed the hotel belonging to J. Checola, a meat market owned by E. Smith and a saloon and bowling alley owned by R. Dousyetes. The loss is estimated at $15,000.

Rhinelander—As a result of the forest fires, millions of feet of timber will have to be logged this winter. It is estimated that there is upward of 50,000,000 feet of fire-swept timber in Oneida and Vilas counties.

Milwaukee—Fred Fritsche, aged 72 years, pioneer resident of Milwaukee, died at his home, 1312 Prairie street, at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, after a six weeks' illness of abdominal trouble. Mr. Fritsche was born in Saxony, Germany, and in 1867 came to Milwaukee. For the past twenty-eight years he has been in the employ of the F. H. Bresler company as cabinetmaker.

Ripon—Because they disobeyed rules set down by the sophomores, John Muggly of Oshkosh and Clinton Whitney of Green Bay, freshmen, were ducked in the pond by second-year men Tuesday night. Two freshies were led through the streets of the city, one wheeling the other in a wheelbarrow.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

L'Anse—Victor Peterson, who resided in L'Anse some eight years ago, died Sept. 23 at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Carl E. Sundstrom, in Iron Mountain. Deceased was 61 years of age, having been born in Sweden in 1847.

Houghton—Capt. Barry of the Salvation Army's Houghton corps, left Monday for Minneapolis to attend the ceremonies of the welcome of Commissioner and Mrs. Estile, who come from Japan to take command of the Northwestern district.

Hancock—Local nimrods who have explored the woods report that partridge are plentiful, but there are too many leaves yet owing to the absence of frost to mak the shooting very good.

Houghton—At the request of the supervisors of Houghton county, Game Warden Wilson has issued a warning to hunters advising them to exercise every possible care to prevent fires while in the woods. He cautions them about blazing guns, brands, dropping matches or ashes from cigars and pipes.

Hancock—The remains of the stranger who died at the hospital recently and have been at the Crawford undertaking rooms since, have been identified by a former companion of the man who gives the name of the deceased as Axells Nimi, and his former residence Baraga county.

Calumet—While Driving from Centennial to the Allouez, Mrs. Marie Dullum and Miss Feodosia Hinsimoff met with painful accidents by being thrown from the rig. Mrs. Dullum, who is 62, was painfully hurt about the chest, while her companion sunstained cuts and bruises about the face and head.

Houghton—The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon at Redridge of Mrs. William Polkinghorne, a well known resident, who died Monday aged 48, survived by her husband and five children. Interment was made here in Forest Hill cemetery.

Ontonagon—There appears to be considerable misunderstanding in regard to the payment of services for fighting fires. Claims are pouring in to the Ontonagon township board at a lively pace and it is probable that they will aggregate close to $2,000.

Red Jacket—A movement is on foot among a number of business men of Red Jacket to ask the Red Jacket council to provide another night watchman to patrol the streets of the village, so that the property of merchants and others may be better safeguarded.

Marquette—Sebastian Ockstadt, for twenty-two years a resident of Marquette, died at his home, 136 Prospect street Tuesday. The deceased was born in Germany, at Bingen-on-the-Rhine, July 8, 1862. He is survived by his wife and daughter; his mother, who resides at Green Bay; two sisters, Mrs. Catherine Allen and Mrs. Elizabeth Neauser, and four brothers, Henry, George, Philip and Peter.

Negaunee—Dr. Charles Sturgeon and wife of Globe, Ariz., arrived in the city Tuesday on a visit to Mrs. Sturgeon's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Houle. They spent part of last week at Washington, D. C., where the doctor attended the National Tuberculosis association's convention.

Gladstone—The construction during the fall of a large veneering mill is under contemplation by the Northwestern Cooperage & Lumber company. If erected, the plant will be of concrete and about 100 by 200 feet in ground dimensions. The mill would convert 10,000 or 12,000 feet of high-grade lumber into veneers daily.

WILL BREAK ALL RECORDS

Cas-Ka Co.'s Final Week in Duluth—Mail Order Department Running Close Second to Local Sales.

A Well Kown Duluth Merchant Helped—See What He Says on Another Page.

F. J. McMillan when seen this morning said so far as the sale of CAS-KA is concerned just how large the sale will be between now and Saturday, Oct. 17th, can only be estimated, but all indications point to a distribution of at least 15,000 bottles in this city alone. This does not include the immense amount of CAS-KA that is now being shipped by the mail order department to all parts of the state.

Mr. McMillan, who has this department in charge, stated that he could give no definite idea as to what amount would be sent out of the city before the sale was over. "We send the preparation to any part of the country outside of the city limits," he said. "We are receiving orders from all parts of the West and are filling them as rapidly as possible. We do not send less than $1 worth of CAS-KA by express. CAS-KA is the medicine that is being sold so largely for stomach and kidney trouble, catarrh and rheumatism. All mail orders must be in before Oct. 18th.

Do you know that the secret of success with CAS-KA is its action on the kidneys?

And those people who have been relieved of indigestion, dyspepsia, catarrh, rheumatism and kidney troubles, if you ask some of the wise ones they will say that it is no doubt CAS-KA is a good stomach medicine that moves the bowels and helps those other troubles sympathetically. But when children that wet the bed and people that have to get up nights are relieved in two or three days that shows a direct action on the kidneys and it is through the kidneys that CAS-KA cures rheumatism.

You ask any doctor or druggist who has watched the action of CAS-KA and if he tells you what he knows about CAS-KA, it will be in CAS-KA'S favor. Come to Boyce's drug store and talk with some of the people that are buying this medicine.

Saturday, Oct. 17th is your last chance to get three bottles of CAS-KA for $1. See small bill testimonials of Duluth people benefited by CAS-KA.

GIVES BRYAN EQUAL CHANCE

R. E. Fitzgerald Says Presidential Fight Will be Decided in New York.

R. E. Fitzgerald, advertising manager for the American Newspaper association, who has thoroughly covered the country since the present campaign started, stated today at the St. Louis hotel that in his opinion William J. Bryan had an equal chance of carrying the state of New York, and that should he carry the Empire state his election was practically assured.

Mr. Fitzgerald says that the laboring men in every section of the country are for Bryan and that the railroad men are solid for the Commoner.

"There are many laboring men out of employment in New York state," says Mr. Fitzgerald. "Bryan will receive the vote of these men. I have talked to some of the employers of labor in New York state and they have informed me that the laboring vote will support Bryan almost unanimously in the Empire state.

"I believe that Bryan's chances for election are 20 per cent better than they were in 1896. If he carries New York, and from what I know of conditions there I am inclined to believe that he stands an equal chance with Mr. Taft there, I believe that Mr. Bryan will be the next president.

"At the present time it looks as if Hughes will be defeated for the governorship of New York. They are laying odds of 10 to 7 on Chandler. Hughes has caused a split in his own party, and while he is perhaps the cleanest man in American politics today, it looks very much as if the politicians would succeed in causing his defeat.

"It also looks as if Stevenson would defeat Dineen in the Illinois gubernatorial fight. The Yates crowd are openly fighting Dineen and it looks as if they would cause the defeat of the Republican nominee."

The damage suit of Eugene F. Warner against James Norman is being given a jury trial in municipal court today. Mr. Warner asks for $36.95 damages as a result of a collison between his automobile and Mr. Norman's. The former claims that his car was standing on the lower end of Lake avenue, when the latter's machine ran into it, damaging it to such an extent that repairs in the sum of $36.95 were necessary.

Personal Injury Suit.
The suit of Mike Stepancic against the Oliver Iron Mining company was called before Judge Dibell yesterday afternoon and is still on today. Stepanic, who is administrator of the estate of John Stepancic, sues for $5,000, for the death of the latter, who was killed by a dynamite explosion at one of the mines of the company on the range. John A. Keyes appears for Stepancic and Baldwin, Baldwin & Dancer for the mining company.

Divorce Case Dismissed.
Notice of dismissal of the divorce suit of Mrs. Therese Thiel against her husband, Carl Thiel, was filed with the clerk of the district court yesterday. The case aroused considerable interest when it was brought and it figured at different times in the courts of Sioux City, Iowa, Minneapolis, and Duluth. Mrs. Thiel now lives in Minneapolis and her husband is on the range.

Proceedings Transferred.
Judge M. D. Purdy, of the Federal court, has ordered that in the involuntary bankruptcy proceedings of the Northwestern Milling company be transferred to O. C. Merriam, Jr., of Minneapolis, the bankruptcy referee for that district. The judge found that most of the creditors lived in Minneapolis, and therefore, took this action.

A YOGA'S FEAT.

Strand Magazine: For fourteen years Bava Luchman Dass received from the priests of the Black Caves of central India the necessary education in order to become a yoga, as a yoga must be capable of taking forty-eight postures of the Hindoo idols.

Perhaps his greatest trick consists in balancing himself on the ends of his fingers while the whole of his body is in the air. Bava stated that in order to obtain the rank of yoga in the Black Caves of India he had to continue in this position on the ends of his fingers under the eyes of the judges, without a second's interval, for seven days and nights!

TRAVELING IN MOROCCO.

Situation of Fez and Camps of Tribesmen.

The road to Fez passes through a rich grazing and agricultural land for almost the whole way. Large crops of corn, oats and barley are grown in the neighborhood of the villages, while numberous herds of cattle, sheep, goats and camels find food in plenty on the rich prairie land. There are no woods, writes a correspondent of the London Morning Post, and you consider yourself fortunate if you find an orange grove or isolated tree to shade you from the noonday sun, which at this season of the year renders traveling far from pleasant.

There are no mountains to be crossed and hardly any hills worthy of the name until you actually approach the neighborhood of the capital, which lies in a plain. For mile after mile the track passes through the same stony prairie land, delightfully green in the spring, but at this season of the year, burnt to an arid brown. Water is plentiful; there are innumerable springs, and two fine rivers continually strike the road in its numerous windings. But the sameness of the scenery becomes excessively monotonous, especially at this season of the year, when the sun is so hot that you seem to be living in the steam from a great boiler.

The Moors dislike travelling at night through fear of being robbed, especially while the country is disturbed by a revolution. Therefore it was necessary to rise at half past 3 o'clock in the morning, move off at daybreak and march until 10 or 11 o'clock, then halt for three hours, where there was good water and if possible shade, and move on again at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, reaching camp at 7 o'clock. By this time forty or fifty miles had been covered.

The days passed uneventfully and we were left severely alone by the travellers we met or in the villages through which we passed. When within three miles of our camp we met three soldiers, who said that they had been sent by the Mulai el Hafid from Fez with letters to Mr. Carleton at Alcazar. They were very friendly, and asked us to wait one day in camp for them, when, having fulfilled their mission, they would accompany us to Fez as a guard in accordance with the wish of their master.

To this proposition, which was really in the nature of a command, we agreed, the oldest of the three, who was much fatigued by the journey, remaining with us. At our halting place, the village of Shumaja, we were well received by the kaid, or head man, with all the customary Arab hospitality. We remained there on the following day to await the return of the soldiers, and on their arrival we resumed our journey, making a long and trying march of forty-five miles in the great heat to a village called Warga, situated on the river which flows through Fez.

We were greeted by the younger son of the late kaid in a most friendly manner and provided with food and forage. Our third and last camp before reaching the capital was at a village called Hamuda, lying high among the hills which guard the approaches to Fez from the north.

On the following morning a six-hours' ride through the hills brought us in view of Fez. The first sight of the capital is somewhat disappointing, as it is small and devoid of fine buildings. The prevailing color is not white, as is most Moorish cities, but a dull green and brown. The eye falls immediately on the series of buildings with sparkling green roofs, which make up the palace of Abdul Aziz, now the headquarters of Mulai el Hafid.

The town is divided into three parts —the Maghzen, or portion devoted to the royal palace and government offices; the Mella, where dwell the Jews; and the Medina, the crowded quarters of the townspeople. Fez is surrounded by a fine old earth and stone wall, loopholed and pierced by many gates. The river flows through the town, and, together with the many springs, provides the inhabitants with a fine water supply. On the plains which lie beyond the town on three sides we saw the numerous camps of the tribesmen and soldiers who accompanied Mulai el Hafid on his march to the capital. We entered by the north gate and guided by an Arab hastened to a house which had been prepared for our arrival by Mulai el Hafid's orders.

The streets through which we passed were densely crowded, and it was easy to see by the animation that prevailed that the people were taking a keen political interest in the events of the day. Concealed by our Moorish dress, we attracted but little attention, though ocasionally a Moor, more observant than others, would gaze long and earnestly at our white skins and draw his companion's attention to us.

HE NAMED "OLD GLORY."

Story of Captain William Driver, Who Christened the Flag.

Capt. William Driver, the man who christened the American flag "Old Glory," was born in Salem, Mass., March 17, 1803.

At the age of 13 Driver was apprenticed to a blacksmith. Instead of making plows and shoeing horses, however, the blacksmith's wife set him at work milking cows and doing light chores. In order that he might surpass the other boys of the place in personal appearance, the blacksmith's wife clothed him with a shirt waist of unbleached goods, with great rows of ruffles down the front, says the Salt Lake Herald. Driver demurred, but the blacksmith's wife insisted that the shirt must stay on.

However, when Driver was going out through the gate it was noticed that he rolled up his sleeves; he knew that he was in for a fight with every boy in town. When he got around the corner he carefully cut away as much of the ruffles as he could, but he had to fight, nevertheless; and he came out of it all triumphant, though somewhat disfigured, as might be expected of a lad that has to lick the whole crowd just because some woman puts a ridiculous costume on him. So he ran away and went to sea.

During his first voyage at sea, after a severe storm, which caused the ship to spring a leak, the men refused to work the pumps unless their wages were raised. The old captain of the ship sent Driver below for his pistols and pipe. When he brought them on deck the captain cut the boats loose, lit his pipe, sat down and notified the crew they would either pump or "all hands would go to hell together." They returned to the pump and saved the ship.

He sailed with this captain for five years, who soon afterward made him mate, and from him he learned many valuable and useful lessons. He left him to become a mate on another vessel, and soon afterwards trading master. At the age of 21 he was made master of a ship in 1824.

It was about at this time that he christened the flag "Old Glory," as he and his old captain had seen some stirring times under its folds and considered no name too sacred for it. He commanded different ships from that time on until he left the ocean and settled in Nashville, Tenn., in 1837. He passed through many thrilling and perilous adventures after he became captain, was chased by a heavily armed "Yankee pirate" in the Caribbean sea for six hours. He outsailed and dodged him in the dark, and saw the pirate hanged afterward, much to Capt. Driver's satisfaction.

He had considerable experience with Malay pirates and South sea cannibals, to say nothing of the ocean storms. He left Salem once in company with six other vessels. They were caught in one of the worst snow and wind storms ever known on the New England coast. His ship alone escaped; the other six and all on board were lost. He stood at the wheel for forty-eight hours during the storm and saved the ship.

During the voyage he rescued sixty-five persons, descendants of the mutineers of the English ship Bounty, who had been taken from Pitcairn island to Tahiti and were dying with fever. He took them back to Pitcairn island, their original home, 1,400 miles out of his course, free. He received a very pathetic testimonial for his kindness, dated Dept. 5, 1831, signed by their teacher, George H. Nobbs and others.

From there he sailed completely around Australia and adjacent islands before he returned home. He afterward made two trips around the world, the last in 1836, in the ship Black Warrior, was the shortest on record for a sailing vessel, the log showing about 40,000 miles in 197 sailing days, nearly seven miles log run per hour fair or foul weather. The trip, including eighty-nine days' stoppage in ports, made it altogether 268 days. This was his last trip to sea.

His flag "Old Glory" which had been his companion for years he packed in his camphor wood sea chest and moved to Nashville, Tenn., in 1837, where he died March 2, 1886. He gave the flag to his daughter, Mary Jane Roland, in 1873. She still has it in her possession at Wells, Nev. Its original dimension was 10x20 feet, blue field 5x6, an anchor in the lower inside corner blue field, thirteen stripes and at the breaking out of the Civil war thirty-four stars, the number of states in the Union at that time. He asked to have a new star put on the flag every time a new state was admitted, but added none after the war, as the old flag had seen its day.

An effort will be made to have this flag taken to Washington and placed in the national archives and historic relics.

WERE IT BUT POSSIBLE.

Dr. C. H. Benton of Chester, W. Va., says that drunkenness is the result of auto-intoxication—that man's wretchedly cooked food, fermenting in his stomach, brings on a very painful auto-intoxication wherein the sufferer turns, for relief, to alcohol.

It was at the American Medical association's convention in Chicago that Dr. Benton made this novel statement, and at one of the association's dinners he said afterward:

"To escape the tortures of auto-intoxication men should marry women of intelligence. Then their food would be properly looked after, and, with healthy stomachs, they would shun drunkenness as one shuns smallpox or any other hateful affliction.

"But men worship beauty. They marry for beauty. When a man marries a woman for her mind he is deemed eccentric, even foolish.

"A Chester lawyer married a young woman of exquisite mind—a thin, bigheaded girl in spectacles. He would never suffer from auto-intoxication, no doubt of that. A friend from the East was introduced to the lady one night, and later on the bridegroom said to him:

"George, what do you think of her?"

"George puffed thoughtfully on his cigar.

"'Well, he said, 'to tell you the truth, she isn't much to look at, is she?'

"The husband's face fell.

"'Ah, but,' he said eagerly, 'what a mind she has! Externally, perhaps, she isn't all that could be desired; but within—ah, George, she has a beautiful mind.'

"George smiled.

"'Then have her turned,' he said."

EPISCOPAL WIT.

"Our Bishop Burgess," said a Garden City man, "is one of the few American clergymen who, being graduates of the famous University of Oxford, are entitled to wear the Oxford hood.

"At a certain service another bishop, also an Oxford man, nodded toward the officiating clergyman and whispered excitedly to Bishop Burgess:

"'Why, look, he has got an Oxford hood on.'

"'So he has,' said Bishop Burgess.

"But he is not entitled to it. He has no Oxford degree,' exclaimed the first bishop. 'Why, the man is wearing a lie on his back.'

"'Hush, said Bishop Burgess. Don't call it a lie. Call it a false hood."

The state of North Carolina is one of the most notable in the Union for the production of gems, particularly diamonds, emeralds, rubies, aquamarines, beryls, hiddenite, rhodolite, amethysts and remarkable rock crystals. These gems have been found mainly in the course of mining operations, although a few systematic searches for them have been made and two companies are now engaged exclusively in such work.

HELPED BY CAS-KA

Next Week the Last of Sale of $1.00 Bottles for 35c; Three for $1.00.

You probably never in your life took one dose of medicine that benefited you more than CAS-KA, especially if your kidneys are weak or you have a bad stomach, or are bothered with constipation. When you can feel the benefit of one dose—from the impurities CAS-KA removes from the system—you can imagine what CAS-KA will do if you try it one week. You cannot see ten minutes pass during the day at Boyce's drug store but what you will see some one come in and buy all the way from one to one dozen bottles of CAS-KA. Come to the drug store and talk with some of the people that are buying this medicine. Come and try one dose.

Vice president of Wright-Clarkson Mercantile company, 332 West Michigan street. F. A. Clarkson, 332 West Michigan street: How I came to take this CAS-KA is we have a little girl at our house who has been bothered a great deal with pimples and sallow complexion and about half sick all the time. We got her a bottle of CAS-KA and it is certainly wonderful what it has done, complexion clearing up, pimples going away in one week. So I thought maybe this medicine might help me. I had a constant pain in my stomach for two years that I have tried everything I have heard of for. I have taken this CAS-KA just three days and my pain is gone. And if what CAS-KA has done for me is only lasting I will be well pleased. I also know several others CAS-KA has helped.

James Riley, watchman with Scott-Graff Lumber company: I was bothered with my kidneys. I had to get up three or four times a night. One bottle of CAS-KA has helped me so much I want three more bottles.

Thomas Maxted, 125 E. First street, carpenter and builder: CAS-KA is the only thing that helped my rheumatism. Give me three more bottles.

If you ask Mr. Boyce I think he will tell you that he never had a medicine come to his store that gave any better satisfaction than CAS-KA.

If you are going to take a blood purifier next spring, when you can find over 1,000 people here recommending CAS-KA for heumatism and catarrh, does not that demonstrate CAS-KA as a great blood remedy? If you are bothered with your stomach or kidneys go in and get a bottle this week and if it does you no good take back the bottle and get your money back. Saturday, Oct. 17th, is your last chance to get the $1 bottles for 35 cents, or three for $1. See small bills with the names of Duluth people benefited by CAS-KA. Mail orders will receive prompt attention.

OLD TEMPLE A THEATER?

Rumor Has It That Playhouse Will be Restored.

Roller Rink Occupies the Premises at Present Time.

Persistent rumors have it that the old Masonic Temple theater is going to be restored and to house the drama once more.

That part of the building which contained the theater was never completely rebuilt after the fire. Three years ago it was partly rebuilt and fitted up as a roller skating rink. A rink is being operated there now, but it is whispered that the rink is to clear out and that construction crews will make the place into a first-class theater once more.

G. G. Hartley is the owner of the property, and he stated today that it was not his intention at present to restore the theater.

He declared that the rink people's lease still had some time to run, and, even if he wanted to, he could not rebuild the theater until the roller skaters' occupancy was terminated. Farther than that he said nothing.

CARRIES IT BY STORM

Says: "God Made the Rivers, Man Made the Railroads."

Chicago, Oct. 8.—When W. J. Bryan, speaker of the day at the second session of the deep waterways convention, reached the Auditorium theater today, the audience arose in a body, cheering lustily, and waving American flags. It was a repetition of the reception accorded W. T. Taft yesterday. Bryan showed only a trace of hoarseness when he began speaking. His address was repeatedly interrupted by laughter or applause as he made some humorous touch, or drove home an argument.

In beginning, he related a few humorous stories which caused much laughter. He then said:

"I am glad to meet with those who assemble here in the interests of the development of the waterways of this country. I am in hearty sympathy with you. You cannot give the people too good facilities for the transportation of their merchandise. If you tell me you want to improve the Mississippi, I tell you that it is all right. I will help you improve it just as far as you please and work for a canal as wide as you please and as deep as you please and when you get to improving the Mississippi I will start out all alone if necessary to improve every river that empties into the Mississippi.

"Water transportation is the natural transportation. God made the rivers and man made the railroads. The rivers were the means before the railroads were invented, and the railroads have given us speed but not cheapness.

"And speed is not the only thing. The railroad cannot rival the water course in cheapness, and then there is another advantage that the water course has. When you finish a river sufficiently deep for commerce, or a canal upon which boats can float, you make it possible for a man with small capital to act, while the railroads make it possible only for men with large capital to act. Where there is a river, any man who can build a boat can engage in transportation and if he cannot build a big boat he can build a little boat, and if you have a large number of little boats, the big boat will have to meet the rate that the little boat fixes. You will find it much easier to regulate rates on water than on land because competition can be much more active on water than on land."

DISOBEYED HIS FATHER, BOY ACCIDENTALLY SHOT.

Norway, Mich., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Edward Flourdo, aged 15 years, of the state road, had his arm blown off while out hunting yesterday. He started out against his father's will. While standing on a log with his arm resting on the gun, he slipped, which caused the gun to be discharged.

He was taken to the Columbia hospital, where the doctors say that he will recover.

By Copper Country "Drys."

Calumet, Mich., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Phohibitionists of the Copper country held their representative and senatorial conventions at the Finnish Temperance hall here Monday night. Rev. C. J. Johnson of Calumet was nominated for the office of state senator, opposing Charles Smith of Hubbell, the Republican candidate. William C. Kinsman of Red Jacket was named for representative. The legislative committee is composed of Rev. E. Sedweek and Rev. K. Selin. The members of the senatorial committee are Prof. T. R. Davis and Rev. W. J. Balmer.

INFLUENCE OF THE MULLAHS.

Pearson's Weekly: Ever since the beginning of the new constant troubles in India a good deal has been heard about the mullahs.

A mullah, or, as it is more properly written, mollah, is a title given in India and throughout the East generally to a religious leader of any desription.

Thus, the sultan of Turkey is a mollah, because he is the supreme head of the Moslem world. The hostile Somali leader who caused us so much anxiety between 1901 and 1905, and whose name occasionally crops up even now in the daily papers, was also a mollah, and there are hundreds of others.

To most of the more conspicuous among them we prefix the adjective "mad." This, however, must not be taken to mean that they are insane, the word being used rather in its Oriental signification of "inspired."

The influence wielded by the mollahs who are now stirring up against us the border tribes of Afghanistan is enormous. Clad in their sacred robes, bearing aloft the green standard of Islam, they go up and down the valleys shrilling the Mohammedan war cry, and woe be to him who refuses to heed.

The person of the mollah is sacred. True, the amir the other day was reported to have ordered that any of them caught preaching the jehad (holy war) should have their tongues torn out. But if he really issued such an edict—which is extremely doubtful—it was merely meant for European ears. Not even the mighty Habibullah himself would care to lay a sacrilegious finger on one of these saintly personages. If he were to venture such an unheard of thing vengeance would surely overtake him. For it is the cardinal principle of the Ulima—as the mollahs are collectively termed—that an injury purposely caused to one of their number can only be atoned for by the death of the individual inflicting it.

A RANDOM SHOT.

"Mr. Cleveland," said a New York banker, "took much to heart the revelation of our rich men's corruption. He told me one day at luncheon that if these revelations continued it would be hard to name a multimillionaire without naming a criminal.

"He said that an English capitalist came to New York last year with letters to the greatest captains of industry. He dined with one of these captains one night, and after dinner his host's little son was presented to him. He was a fine, well-grown lad. The Englishman patted him on the head, and said, by way of a joke:

"'You are a dear little fellow. I hope you'll grow up a better man than your father.'

"The Englishman laughed merrily at his joke, but the millionaire father looked grave. And after the boy was gone, the father said, in a heartbroken voice, with tears in his eyes:

"'I am indeed grieved that you, sir, a gentleman of education and refinement, should cast reflections on my character, and that, too, in the presence of my son. It is true that the missing stocks were charged to my account, but I was honorably acquitted by the courts.'"

Judge Robertson of Chandler stopped a little newsboy at the Denver convention and asked for an Oklahoma paper. "Where is Oklahoma?" asked another newsboy who stood by. "I don't know where it is," answered the first hopeful, "but it's where all this convention came from."

SOUTHERN BUSINESS MEN

To the Number of at Least a Thousand to be in Washington When National Conservation Commission Meets in December.

Washington, Oct. 8.—The National Conservation commission has received word that at least a thousand of the leading business men of the South will be present in Washington when the commission holds its first full meeting here early in December. This information comes in a letter from G. Grosvenor Dawes, Secretary of the Montgomery, Ala., Commercial club, who tells of a meeting of the representatives of numerous business associations in the Southern states, held in Atlanta. These men formed a working organization, and, after receiving assurances of support from commercial bodies all through the South issued a call for a Southern Commercial congress. The time and place were set so that the members can be in Washington during the first meeting of the Conservation commission, on Dec. 1, the conference between the commission and the governors of the states, or their repreesntatives, which follows on Dec. 8, and the meeting of the National Rivers and Harbors' congress, which will be held here during that time. In the proceedings, of all of which the men who will compose the Southern Commercial congress, are intensely interested from a business standpoint. The chief purpose of the Southerners in holding their big meeting is, in the words of one of the originators, "the provoking of a fuller understanding by the people of the South of the gifts that nature has placed under their control." But, without discounting the vital importance of promoting the business interests of their section of the country, the promoters of this congress in Washington say they hope that it will have an even deeper significance and bring about a closer union between the North and the South. "Of course, the congress has practical and commercial aspects," says one of these men, "but there lies in the minds of the originators an ethical purpose looking towards a fuller understanding and union between those who have for a generation suffered from misunderstandings and a seeming separation of interests."

To Remove Prejudices.

Mr. Davis, in his letter, suggests that the attainment of a fuller understanding between the South and other parts of the country would have its effect in bettering business conditions in the South also. He writes:

"The Southern Commercial congress is also intended as a means of combatting hindering prejudices that exist against the South in both Northern and Eastern states. We have felt that such prejudices are most easily removed by personal contact, and we shall, therefore, work to have present on Dec. 7 and 8, 1,000 or 1,500 leading business men of the South, who will later stay to participate in the deliberations of the National Rivers and Harbors' congress, and also be present in Washington to receive inspiration from the reports made to the National Conservation commission."

"Beyond all this, we feel that the presence of our solid business men in meetings made up largely of solid business men of the North and East will act as a guarantee and pledge of business men's participation in further political affairs of the South, and thus guarantee safety to investors."

Many of the men who are most active in organizing this Southern Commercial congress have for a long time been preaching that the South should not only develop its agriculture to a higher degree of efficiency, but that it is time for the men of that part of the country to take more energetic measures to expand their manufacturing and business interests. They believe that the attendance of a large number of the most enterprising men of the Southern states at the conference between the National Conservation commission, and the state governors or their representatives, will lead to a fuller realization of the immense natural resources of the South.

Immense Power Available.

In this connection they cite a recent report by the geological survey, which stated that there is a minimum of about 2,800,000 indicated horse power developed by the rivers rising in the Southern Appalachian Mountains, half of which, at the very least, developed to make an appreciable showing, compared with the enormous possibilities. Full development of storage facilities in these river basins would increase the horse power from three to thirty times, according to the experts. But, taking the minimum of 1,400,000 horse power, its rental at $20 per horse power per year would amount to an annual return of $28,000,000. Water power is much cheaper than fuel power and will become more and more so as the available supply of fuel is depleted. This means that the demand for water power will increase. These Southern business men foresee a great manufacturing future for their section, and are determined to instill their ideas into the minds of others. They point out, also, that the usefulness of these rivers can be increased, not only for manufacturing, but for transportation. The improvement of the lumber business and of the allied industry of turpentining has also received much attention from them. In some states they say there are very rich mineral deposits which might be worked with great profit.

RUST THAT FARMERS FEAR.

Chicago Tribune: Rust still corrupteth the American cereal crops, and that to annual damage exceeding $500,000,000. The department of agriculture has put on record the amazing statement that the injury to wheat and oats from rust probably exceeds that caused by any other fungus or insect pest, and in some localities is greater than that caused by all other enemies of the crops combined.

The farmer in some season or other in looking over his fields during early sumer cannot help noting that the fresh green appearance of the wheat crop is changing in color from day to day, becoming gradually quite yellow. On examining closely one of the withered leaves the observant cultivator can detect orange yellow spots or lines, and with the aid of a low water lens also can see that the epidermal tissue of the leaf has ben ruptured by th mission of countless numbers of orange yellow seeds or spores.

The spots and lines upon the leaves multiply rapidly, and when the leaves are shaken by the wind the spores are set fre eand fall upon th other leaves, and thus the disease is spread. Wherever wheat is grown this destructive pest is known and dreaded.

In appearance the disease is the same wherever the crop attacked is grown—Europe, America, Australia—pale yellow during springtime and summer, deepening later in the season to a dark brown or black on the green laves not only of the cereal crops but of many surrounding wild grasses. In the early stages of rust the fungal spores or seeds are called "uredo spores," from "uro," to burn, owing to the rusty or burnt appearance of the leaves.

JACOBSON---ENEMY OF DRAINAGE.

Candidate Jacobson, importuned for some statement of his views upon the public questions of the day, evasively replies that he "stands on his record."

He does not mean his record of riding upon free passes while the clamor of his attacks upon railroads still echoed; he does not mean his record of accepting a nomination for governor at the hands of interests which he fought when he was a "champion of the people:" he means his legislative record.

Very well; so be it. Let us look into his record, and see if we can find therein something to commend him to the voters of Northern Minnesota. For if he expects Southern Minnesota to judge him by his record, he must also expect Northern Minnesota to judge him by his record.

Northern Minnesota wants the state to drain the state swamp lands. Since Jacobson got out of the legislature a start has been made in that work. It is known that a dollar put into drainage will return profits of $10 in the increased value of the land, so it seems a splendid business investment. But when Jacobson was in the legislature he never could see beyond that single dollar coming out of the state treasury. His mental grasp was not broad enough to take in the promise of profit. So he fought drainage, throughout his career; fought it bitterly and, shame though it be, successfully.

Jacobson opposed drainage in every session at which drainage measures were offered. In 1895, as page 660 of the house journal of that session informs us, he voted against House File No. 307, a drainage bill.

In 1897, as page 339 of the house journal of that session shows, he recommended, as a member of the appropriations committee, the defeat of House File No. 353, a drainage bill, and voted against it.

In 1899, as page 1321 of the house journal of that session discloses, he voted against Senate File No. 211, "a bill for an act to provide a drainage commission and to provide for the drainage of the swamps and marshy lands of the state, and to appropriate money therefor."

The files of the newspapers reporting these sessions show the bitter and vindictive manner in which Jacobson fought every drainage proposal. Arguments that the federal government gave the land to the state on condition that it drain it and make it fit for use, and that the expenditure of state money in draining it would bring handsome returns, were ineffective. All he could see was that there were proposals to take money out of the state treasury for the benefit of Northern Minnesota, and this he opposed as he opposed all other measures looking to the development of the latent riches of the north country.

The files of the newspapers of Northern Minnesota covering these periods will show bitter resentment of Jacobson's short-sighted policy, such as this from the Crookston Journal in April, 1899: "We regret to report that the appropriation for drainage did not pass. This is one of the measures which the legislature acted unwisely in refusing to pass. The money was needed and not merely the Red River valley but the state at large would have been benefited by this legislation. The members from this section worked faithfully up to the last moment, but the opposition led by Jacobson was too strong for them. THE HONORABLE JACOBSON WILL, HOWEVER, HEAR FROM THIS PART OF THE STATE."

INVESTIGATION SHOULD BE THOROUGH.

Tuesday morning the attendants at the city jail found upon the floor the dead body of Ingebert Moe, a victim of drink who had been arrested the previous night and committed to the jail overnight for a hearing the next day.

The first story was that Moe had in some manner fallen from the balcony fronting the upper tier of cells, and in the fall had broken his skull. When it happened, if it did happen, nobody appears to know. The man was put into the jail at night, left there without attention, and found dead on the floor in the morning.

At the post mortem examination, which appears to have revealed little except that the man came to his death from the injury to his head, it developed that in the opinion of some of the police officers the injury was received before the man's arrest, as he was cut and bleeding when the arrest was made.

The coroner is wise in deciding to hold an inquest, and the inquiry should be thorough. It is hard now to see how the jail attendants can escape a charge of culpable negligence. It is bad enough to think that a helplessly drunken man can be allowed to blunder to his death in the city jail and be left without attention all night, but if this man came into the hands of the police with a broken head, and was left to die in the night without medical attendance, it is far worse. The coroner's inquest should determine just what happened, if possible. If the jail attendants are not guilty of gross negligence, justice to them demands that the fact be shown. If there was negligence, steps should be taken to see that it cannot occur again.

GEORGIA'S CONVICT SYSTEM.

Minnesota has such an excellent system of disposing of convict labor that it is hard to realize how badly off some other states are in this respect. For instance, Georgia has lately partially corrected her infamous system of leasing convicts out to contractors, being prevented from making a complete reformation by the revolutionary character of the change proposed and by the influence of the beneficiaries of the old system.

In Minnesota the state has avoided the two extremes of convict labor evils, idleness on the one hand and competition with domestic free labor on the other, by setting her prisoners at work in industries not followed in this state to any considerable extent, with the statutory provision that no more prisoners may be engaged in any industry than will equal a certain small percentage of the number of free laborers engaged in that industry in this state; a provision, by the way, demanded by organized labor and opposed by J. F. Jacobson, then a member of the legislature.

In Georgia the prisoners were farmed out to contractors, thus competing directly with free labor, and conditions were so vile, because of the abusive methods of handling convicts, that the state recently had its first special session of the legislature in twenty-five years, expressly to reform its convict system.

Under the new arrangement, as it is described in Charities and The Commons, the counties are to have the use of convicts for public works, distributed in proportion to population; after the counties the cities, and after the cities the state prison farm for its necessary work. If any remain, they are to be farmed out to contractors for one year only, instead of for five years as at present. Pay of guards and wardens is substantially increased, and they are forbidden under penalty to share in the profits of convict labor, which they have been doing, and to abuse convicts. The bill abolishes the "wild-cat" camp entirely, prohibits the leasing of misdemeanants and authorizes the use of state lands for the maintenance of convicts and the employment of road-building experts to supervise convict labor on roads. Room is still left for the evil system of farming out convicts, and Georgia's reform will not be complete until this is entirely abolished. The degree of evil resulting from the new law will, as Charities and The Commons suggests, be in proportion to the ability of Georgia's prison reformers to sustain public interest in the question, and to their watchfulness of the prison commission and other prison authorities. There are still opportunities for collusion between prison authorities and contractors, and between county and city officials and the prison authorities.

In Minnesota the prisoners are engaged in making manila binding twine, an industry not pursued in this state outside the prison, and lately they have taken up the work of making farm machinery. The state prison not only saves large sums to the farmers, but it nets a positive profit to the state.

OH, LOOK WHO'S HERE!

After several weeks of sulking in its tent, sucking the sore thumb of petty jealousy, the News Tribune has come out for Jacobson. This will be welcome news to the friends of Governor Johnson everywhere. They had the fullest confidence in his victory before, but it always seems so much more comfortable to have the News Tribune opposing him that they did not feel quite contented until now.

With the characteristically cheap, specious cunning which it mistakes for political strategy, the morning paper charges Governor Johnson with having advocated the tonnage tax on the stump, quoting passages from his speeches in support of that charge, regardless of the fact that none of them has even the remotest bearing upon the tonnage tax. Also, because the governor has declared for a tax on "franchises, royalties and inheritances," it affects to believe that this means iron ore royalties. As a matter of fact, Governor Johnson has not advocated the tonnage tax. That is a dead issue, because the tax commission appointed by Governor Johnson has increased the valuation of the iron mines to a figure that has brought relief to the taxpayers of Duluth, the range towns and the state. The mines are now paying their due share of the public expense—possibly a little more than their share—and only the purblind zeal of that late convert to the Jacobson cause, the News Tribune, is making the tonnage tax an issue in this state. On the other hand, the man whom the opponents of the tonnage tax have to fear is J. F. Jacobson, the original tonnage tax advocate, who has at all times championed it in its most impractical, most vicious and most destructive form in season and out of season.

TWO USEFUL ASSOCIATIONS.

Much interest will be manifested in the joint annual meeting of the National Municipal league and the American Civic association, which will be held in Pittsburg Nov. 17 to Nov. 20, inclusive. These two societies, by their researches into social and political problems and the publicity they give to their findings, have both developed to a large extent the potentialities of public usefulness which their aims involve.

Last year the sessions were held in Providence, and the Outlook then declared, with warmth that was warranted by the results, that they exceeded all previous sessions of both bodies in enthusiasm, inspiration, breadth of view and attendance. Naturally the Pittsburg people who are arranging for this year's sessions believe that they will exceed all other meetings in every respect.

The program, which is only partially completed, will cover a wide range of subjects, which will be treated by a long list of distinguished speakers, fully qualified to speak with authority. A very interesting session will be devoted to public utility commissions, and the chief speakers will be Chairman Meyers of the Wisconsin commission, Thomas M. Osborne of the New York commission and J. B. Eastman of the Boston Franchise league. The example set by New York and Wisconsin in the creation of boards vested with authority to regulate all public service corporations will probably be followed by many other states, and this probability gives particular interest to the subject.

The conservation of natural resources will be another vital topic that will receive full attention. Chief Forester Pinchot and President McFarland of the American Civic association will lead this discussion, and in all probability Secretary Root and Congressman Burton will participate. Billboards, the smoke nuisance and the fight on flies and mosquitoes will be taken up for consideration, as well as the subject of local improvement. School extension and rural improvement will occupy a session. The Bureau of Municipal Research idea will be described and discussed by the secretary of the New York bureau, Dr. W. H. Allen, and uniform municipal reporting will be handled by Le Grand Powers of the census bureau and Harvey S. Chase of Boston.

"Militant Citizenship" will occupy a session of the program of the Municipal league, and there will be a vigorous discussion by active reformers from Boston, New York, Philadelphia, St. Louis, Cincinnati and Minneapolis and Kansas City.

The two societies will proceed independently of each other, but there will be two joint sessions. One of these will be devoted to the discussion of "A Municipal Sanitation Program," and the other to "The Pittsburg Survey," which has been carried on under the auspices of the Sage Foundation for a year, dealing with congested population, city planning, improved housing conditions, etc. Minor topics will be "Municipal Affairs and the Liquor Problem," "City Planning" and "The Playground Movement."

HOTEL GOSSIP.

"It begins to look as if Bryan will come very close to carrying Minnesota, if the present rate of progress is continued until election time," was the remark of George A. Smith of Minneapolis, at the Lenox last night. Mr. Smith covers the state thoroughly and keeps pretty good tab on the political situation.

"Take the situation in Lyon county as an instance. This county was strongly Republican four years ago, when Roosevelt was the candidate of his party. A test vote was recently taken in one district of the county, and it showed that the sentiment was overwhelmingly for Bryan. I don't say that Bryan will carry Minnesota, for that is a pretty big contract for a Democrat on the national ticket; but I do think that if the gain in Bryan sentiment continues as it has since the apathy of the campaign wore off, Mr. Bryan will come very close to carrying this rock-ribbed Republican stronghold.

"I cover the state very well during the course of my work, and I have sounded a good many people upon the political situation since the campaign started. I have been surprised to observe the strong sentiment for Bryan. Men who bolted the party when free silver was sprung and who refused to vote for Bryan the second time he was a candidate, tell me that they are for him this year. That isn't the most surprising thing, though. Every good Democrat is sure to return to the fold some day. The most surprising thing is that many Republicans, who I know have not split the ticket for years, have told me that they are going to vote for Bryan."

Baseball and the chances of the Cubs and the Giants was the topic of conversation in the lobbies of the hotels last night. A conservative estimate is that at least $1,000 will change hands as the result of the game this afternoon. Chicago is the natural favorite among the hotel lodgers, but the fact that the Cubs are in the hands of the Philistines, so to speak, and the bulldozing tendencies of the New York crowd, which in the past have more than once influenced the decisions of the umpires, leads many to pick the Giants as the victors. It is hard to find many people who won't admit that the Cubs have the better team of the two; yet with Mathewson on the hurling hill and 30,000 fanatical, frenzied fans making the historic big noise of bedlam sound as tame as a Chautauqua lecturer with a sore throat, many believe that the Giants should be quoted an even chance in the betting. Even money was wagered around the hotels all of today, one bet of $50 being made. Most of the bets ranged from $5 to $10, and these small wagers were made with enough frequency to bring the total up to a very neat little amount.

* * *

The hotel clerk was in a reminiscent mood last night.

"You meet a lot of funny people in this business," he began. "If you stay in the business long enough you get pretty well acquainted with human nature.

"Now, there is that fellow over at the cigar counter. He doesn't draw a salary that burdens him, not by any means. Yet he always stops at the best hotels. Many times he takes a room that is clear beyond his means. Why? He thinks that he has to put on a 'front.' He smokes clear Havana cigars or scented cigarettes, and he wears clothes that would place him in fast company in the haberdashery league, all right. If you want to peg him right, follow him to where he treats the inner man to a grub stake. You will find him hesitating at the 15-cent sign and keeping off the grass when the two-bit provender sign is flashed on the menu card.

"That's the way with a lot of those young fellows. They starve themselves and keep away from the thick steaks, so that they can throw on the canine in the dress line.

"Then there are the class D dressers. They never get drafted to the big clothes league, but just the same they are there with the wampum. I used to think when a man wore old clothes that he was poor in this world's goods. I have got over that line of thought. Some old fellows who can sign their check for five figures are the ones who dress in the 'don't notice me' line of clothes. They just naturally don't care for the scenery. They live well; have the best of the stuff that cheers and sustains the inner man; but they just don't care for the 'front' that the young man who isn't earning what the interest on their money amounts to daily, thinks he must have. It's funny, isn't it?"

The Partisan Editorial.

Lincoln State Journal: A liver-jostling laugh and a "reductio ad absurdum" of the purely partisan editorial opinion, is the sum and substance of result from the Omaha Bee's blunder out of which the Democrats are trying to make political capital. The editor of the Omaha organ puts a part of the Republican tariff plank in Mr. Bryan's mouth and there lambasts it as a typical Bryanesque vagary. Had Mr. Bryan defended one of the ten commandments, a partisan Republican editor who failed to recognize it would feel obliged to condemn the sentiment, and if Bryan denounced the commandment, the Democratic organs would have to follow suit. That is the fundamental quality of the newspaper that has no opinions but party opinions. Its work does not demand fine discrimination, since all it has to do is hurrah for what the politicians of its party say, and abuse the opinions of the other fellows. The Bee's mistake was the more natural since a prominent far western organ had made exactly the same mistake in virtually the same language, a few days before, and nobody had taken the trouble to point out the error.

THE WEATHER.

Fine fall weather, this. Last night the thermometer ducked under the freezing point, but this morning it was warmer, and the air was crisp and splendidly invigorating. The weather man looks for fair weather tonight and tomorrow, and says it will be warmer. A year ago today it was bright and cheerful, though the sidewalks were covered with thick frost in the morning. The sun rose this morning at 6:16 and sets tonight at 5:35, making 11 hours and 19 minutes of sunlight.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "The slight barometric depressions central Wednesday morning north of Lake Superior and south of Arizona caused light rains over most of the lake region, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Eastern Texas. Colder weather prevails in the lake region, Ohio and Mississippi valleys attending the high pressure area central over Nebraska. Freezing weather occurred this morning in Minnesota, the Dakotas and Manitoba. The barometer is falling and the temperature is rising again over most of Western Canada because of a disturbance developing there. Generally fair weather and milder temperature may be expected at the Head of the Lakes tonight and Friday."

Department of Agriculture, Weather Bureau, Duluth, Oct. 8.—Local forecast for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m., Friday: Duluth, Superior and vicinity, including the Mesaba and Vermilion Iron ranges—Fair weather tonight and Friday; warmer; fresh westerly to southerly winds.

H. W. RICHARDSON,
Local Forecaster.

The Declaration of Prosperity.

Graham Taylor, in Charities and The Commons: It is more than a coincidence, not a conceit that the form in which the governors of our states and territories drew up and signed their declaration for the conservation of the country's natural resources resembles that of the Declaration of Independence. It may prove to be as prophetic as the occasion was historic. They certainly began to make new history at that conference in the White House, last May. As it is followed up, that occasion will be ranked with the victory for union in the Civil war, the adoption of the Constitution, and the Declaration of Independence, in the historic significance of its grasp upon the destiny of the whole country. While the participants in the conference, then and ever since, have greatly impressed others with their profound impression they themselves received of the momentous importance of the situation they faced and the duty it imposed, they did not attempt to do more than state it and strike the note to arouse the legislatures and the people to action. The forces of the nation have already begun to respond to the summons of their final appeal, "Let us conserve the foundations of our prosperity."

The Chances For Young Men.

Kansas City Star: John D. Rockefeller's contention that "the young man's chances today are better than his father's were," is believed to be well taken. The young man who steps upon the stage of action today finds in the atmosphere an ingredient of moral ozone that is distinctly helpful to a useful and honorable career. He discovers clean, straight roads marked out by the power of regenerated opinion, for his feet to tread in. The former crooked and devious paths have disappeared; the thickets and the underbrush have been cleared away and the highway to success lies broad and open to the sunlight.

It would be quite impossible for any young man, whatever his talent for self-aggrandizement and commercial chicanery might be, start out and build up now such a predatory system as the Standard Oil company or any other trust formed to prey upon the public.

Mr. Rockefeller is right. The chances for young men are better, in the highest sense, than they were when the trusts began to enter upon their mission of spoliation, though the Standard Oil company can claim no credit for the improvement.

The "Castle Garden" Barometer.

Indianapolis News: "The gates of Castle Garden swing inward" again. For the first time since last October immigration exceeded emigration, week before last, 311. Last week the excess was 700. So it might seem as if the tide had turned. Last September—just before the panic—the excess was 17,000 a week. Since the panic 527,000 working people have gone back to Europe and 270,000 have come here. Thus our working population has been decreased in that time in this way 257,000. The process has been continuous. Even in August the excess of weekly departures over arrivals was 5,000. But now, for two weeks at least, the stream has been flowing the other way. It may or may not be continuous. Normally this is not the time of year for immigration. In fact it is the time when working people leave the country. So the present small increase may not continue, yet immigration experts are quoted as looking for an early and substantial increase.

If this should prove to be so it would mark the end of an almost unprecedented episode. The New York Post points out that "there is no parallel in our history to these after-panic figures." After the panic of 1893 the annual immigration fell at once from 502,000 to 314,000, while the annual emigration increased from 135,000 to 190,000. At this the inflow was larger than the outflow, but on the other hand the autumn season did not check the outflow, and in 1895 immigration had risen to 280,000, while emigration had risen to 216,000. After the panic of 1873 the effect lasted for more than a year, the emigration of 1875 being nearly double that of 1873, while the immigration was hardly one-third of it.

What this new turn in the human stream means there is hesitancy in saying. Have the unnamed millions of Europe an occult means of sensing material conditions here as birds know when to migrate and so are coming, confident in the expectation that what they seek will be duly waiting them? And if so why should they begin this at the season when an approaching winter forbids any great expanse and generally warns for conservative action in this way? These things are not to be answered. We know simply the fact that for two weeks now the inflow has steadily gained on the outflow and become the greater. It can at least hardly be a bad sign. So in case of doubt we may call it good.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

Melville W. Fuller is now chief justice of the United States. He took the oath of office this morning, and tomorrow will occupy the seat which was vacated last year by the much deplored demise of Chief Justice Waite. The oath was administered by Justice Miller, who ranks as the senior associate justice.

Notice has been given of the dissolution of the contracting firm of John S. Wolf & Co., composed of John S. Wolf, Sr., John S. Wolf, Jr., Grant Wolf and George A. Bubar. Mr. Bubar retires, and the business will be continued by the others under the same firm name.

Spencer & Forbes have established a branch office in Minneapolis, where they will receive wheat from their customers consigned to that place. The demand for low grade wheats and the difference in price of these grades between Duluth and Minneapolis necessitated this step.

J. C., and R. M. Huntter in four days disposed of 143 lots in their Gressy Point addition.

A. H. Wigdahl stated at the French Republican meeting last night that he had withdrawn as a candidate for sheriff.

The government thermometer yesterday registered 72 degs. as warm a day as any in September and as pleasant as any in the entire year.

At its meeting this evening the city council will fix the amount of the tax levy for 1888. Our total valuation is about $30,000,000, nearly double what it was when the last taxes were levied and the rate of taxation should be proportionately lowered. It should not be over 18 mills at the outside.

All plans for the building of the Duluth & Winnipeg railroad have been completed at a meeting at Chicago, attended by Halsey J. Boardman and C. W. Whitcomb of Boston, representing the old company; ex-President Fisher of the St .Paul & Duluth, T. B. Casey of Minneapolis, A. W. Wright of Saginaw, Mich., Mr. Robinson of Toledo, Ohio, and others. A contract for fifty miles of road has been let, and work will be pushed all winter toward Grand Rapids.

Flour is retailing in Duluth today at 4 cents per pound, or $8 a barrel. Not since the Franco-Prussian war in 1870 has it been so high.

The French Republicans held a large meeting at Svea hall last night. Frank McDonald was chairman and J. C. Marquis was secretary, F. R. Leroux of Minneapolis, Z Demalles, Camille Poirier and George N. La Vaque delivered addresses.

Fred Bischoff, the first white man born in Superior, is a candidate for county treasurer of Douglas county. E. V. Mundy, formerly of Duluth, is a candidate for register of deeds.

AS TO MR. JACOBSON.

St. Peter Herald: Up to date Jacobson has not mentioned Taft in a single one of his speeches. Can it be that Jake has deserted the Republican party?

Fairmont Sentinel: They do say that that part of Jacobson's keynote speech devoted to immigration and drainage is wonderfully like an address delivered on the Fourth of July by Immigration Commissioner George Welch. It is possibly a mere coincidence.

Red Lake Falls Gazette: While Jake is standing on his record, it may not be amiss to remind him that he used to do his own talking and at least a modicum of his own thinking. Now it appears that Frank Eddy is doing both for him. If it is true that Frank Day is the governor under the Johnson administration, how will the people of the state feel about changing him for Frank Eddy?

St. Cloud Times: The Minneapolis Journal (Rep.) editorially said: "A governor is a show citizen. He is 'our best foot foremost,' so to speak, and almost everybody would rather be represented by one who had the manners of a gentleman rather than those of a boor!" This is what our Fifth avenue zealot terms personal abuse of Jacobson.

Fergus Falls Wheelock's Weekly: In regard to the statement made by J. F. Jacobson in a speech at Minneapolis, saying that through legislation effected by him while a member of the legislature the producers and shippers have now a free and open market, we wish to make a correction. The laws giving the country shipper a free and open market were passed long before Mr. Jacobson appeared as a member of the legislature. These laws giving farmers' organizations or individuals a right to build warehouses or elevators on the right-of-way of railroads, and also to run cars on track, and for state supervision of terminal elevators so as to protect the shippers, were passed in 1885 and 1887 through the influence of the Farmers' alliance.

Fairmont Sentinel: Now that drainage, canalization of rivers, reforestration and other works of internal improvement are being accomplished in Minnesota, J. F. Jacobson advocates them all. It was not like this in the old days. When drainage, reclamation of the state's wet and overflowed lands in Northern Minnesota, conservation of the state's mineral lands and kindred developments were new and the settlers were fighting for their very existence, Jacobson was consistently opposed to every bill in the legislature for their relief.

Warroad Plaindealer: When Jake Jacobson seized upon the issue of "divided responsibility" and undertook to parade the—to his small mind—evils of having a governor of one political faith and a legislature of another, he threw discredit all over the Minneapolis Journal, which paper has been giving it out that Jacobson has broadened since he got to hobnobbing with the interests. Jacobson hasn't broadened a bit. He has merely agreed to allow the interests to direct his acts in matters affecting them; and that is why you can't get a word out of him on such matters. In all other things he is the same narrow, boisterous Jake Jacobson that he always was, and his attempt to make out that to have a governor from one party while another party dominates the legislature is an evil, is sufficient evidence of his narrowness—the narrowness that places the party before the state.

Why Bill Felt Easy.

Last fall when all my work was done
I though I'd take some well earned fun;
Just thought I'd spend about a week
A visitin' my friend, Bill Peek
With whom I uster fight an' play—
Bill lives down Oklahoma way—
So down I went, as free from care
As anybody anywhere.

"How's tricks, ol' man?" says Bill t' me.
"O, bully, Bill, I'm in G."
An' then I told him of success
That I had earned through storm and stress.
"Some years were fat an' some were lank,
But I got money in th' bank;
An' now I guess as how I will Quit workin' hard," says I t' Bill.

That night along 'bout 8 o'clock
I got a mighty sudden shock—
A message from my wife that said:
"Our bank is broke!" An' home I sped.
In less than one short half day
I saw my savin's fade away.
The bank was broke—'tween me an' you
T' date I ain't got nary sou.

This fall Bill came t' visit me
An' found me workin' hard, b'gee!
But we went visitin' aroun'
An' spent some leisure time in town.
Says Bill t' me: "In that there wreck
It seems you got it in th' neck."
"Correct," says I, "you stated facts—
Right where th' chicken got th' ax."

That night Bill read his bank had closed.
An' I jus' nacherly supposed
He'd hike fr home a feelin' blue.
Jus' like I had—an' so would you.
But Bill he laughed an' said: "I guess
"That ain't goin' t' make distress."
"But all your money, Bill?" I said.
"Guaranteed," said Bill; "let's go t' bed."

Death Penalty for Bigamy.

Law Notes: In a pending prosecution in Maryland for bigamy, the fact has been brought to light that a statute pased in the time of James I, which imposes the death penalty for the offense, without any alternative punishment, is still in force in that state. This curious old statute starts off thuswise: "Forasmuch as divers evil disposed persons, being married, run out of one county into another, or into places not known, and there become to be married, having another husband or wife living, to the great dishonor of God, and utter undoing of divers honest men's children, and others, now therefore be it enacted by the king's majesty," etc. Then it meanders pleasantly along, providing death as the punishment for these "evil disposed persons."

MEANT TO BE FUNNY.

Atlanta Constitution: "I understand the new magazine has a high standard."

"Indeed, it has. It went up yesterday."

Fliegende Blatter: Authoress—I'm very happy in married life. I find my husband such a help.

Friend—Indeed! Does he cook, or write?

Yonkers Statesman: He—Are you putting away something for a rainy day?

She—Oh, I hope not! I'm saving up for an Easter bonnet, you know!

Harper's Weekly: Mr. Newlywed—But, my love, why are you weeping?

Mrs. Newlywed—Oh, John! I just peeped into the kitchen and saw that cook in her traveling gown!

Life: He—If you refuse me I shall go out and hang myself to the lamppost in front of your house.

She—Now, George, you know father said he wouldn't have you hanging around here.

Baltimore American: "Is your husband voracious in his appetite, madam?"

"I can't say as he is, doctor. He'll eat anything and everything as long as there's anything to eat."

Philadelphia Press: Hi Tragedy—Yes, we opened in Oshkosh.

Lowe Comerdy—And what did your audience think of your Hamlet?

Hi Tragedy—Why—er—he went out before I had a chance to ask him.

Detroit Free Press: "Cheer up, old man," said the consoling friend. "You know love laughs at locksmiths."

"Yes, I know," replied the dejected lover. "But her father ain't a locksmith; he's a boilermaker."

Philadelphia Press: Gaussip—There's a new baby at Mugley's house and it takes after the mother.

Knox—Ah, lucky child!

Knox—No; but I've seen Mugley.

The Floorwalker: Mr. Tell-It—My wife says her shopping at the bargain counter today reminded her of the last ballet she had seen.

Mr. Hear-It—How was that?

Mr. Tell-It—Well, because everything was 50 per cent off!

Milwaukee Wisconsin—The Art Collector—Congratulate me, old man. I bought a genuine Vandyke today.

His Friend (an autoist)—Fine! What's its horsepower?

"Oh, it might have been worse. Remember, the home team's going to play in town for a month now."

Philadelphia Press: "The last time I gave you money," said the kindly old lady, you promised you wouldn't walk right into a saloon and spend it."

"Dat's right, lady," said the hobo.

"Yes, but as soon as you got the money you did."

"Say! lady, don't youse know the difference between a walk and a sprint?"

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: Being resigned to a thing is being winded from fighting it till you couldn't fight it any longer.

When a man isn't ashamed to talk about earning his bread and butter, generally it's worth earning.

The prouder a man is about having a lot of children, the madder he can get over the bills it costs to support them.

One of the most unreasonable traits of a woman is the way she can think it isn't her fault when her husband cuts himself shaving.

Say, Little Boy!

Say, little boy, with the red-ripe cheeks,
What says your heart when the school time calls?
Lingers it not where the playtime speaks,
Slinking away from the lore-grimed halls?
Say, little boy!

Say, little boy, does your top lament?
What say your bat and your gloves and toys?
Weeping, they mourn o'er the days they've spent
Playing with you and the other boys—
Eh, little boy!

Ah, little boy, it's a busy world.
But there's a time and a place for play;
Off to school in a trice you're whirled,
But vacation time, it will come some day—
Eh, little boy!

Say, little boy, dry your dimming eyes!
Sunshine were joyless were't not for the rain;
Work while you may, and the school time flies—
But work and anon you may play again!
Say, little boy!

No Kissing for Taft.

Boston Herald: In shaking hands with the babies instead of kissing them, Mr. Taft inaugurates a salutary reform in campaign methods, though why not pat them under the chubby chin instead.

Adam and Eve.

Boston Transcript: Congressman J. Adam Bede, who was defeated for renomination in Minnesota has a wife named Eve. The most famous couple bearing these names in many centuries!

FAIRBANKS SAYS: NEED NO CHANGE

Declares Americans Are All Right Under Republican Rule.

Franklin, Ind., Oct. 8.—In his address here, Vice President Fairbanks said in part:

"What the Republican party is we know by what it has accomplished. It is fair to say that when entrusted with power, it has redeemed its pledges to the people.

"When it came into power eleven years ago, it found industries prostrated, commerce paralyzed and the interests of agriculture suffering, because of the want of a remunerative market. Millions of American working men were idle, although eager for work at any wage. This unfortunate condition of affairs was the fruit of the policies and the administration of the opposition. We are now invited to turn over the affairs of the nation and state to the control of those who so signally failed when last entrusted with power. Why should there be a change? Why should the party in power be required to surrender its great responsibility? The last eleven years have been years in which prosperity has reached the highest level ever attained not only in our own country but in any country of which we have record.

"In recent years abuses have multiplied in the management of many corporations and combinations of capital engaged in pre-education and distribution. Our industrial growth has been evolutionary. Old methods have been largely superseded by new eras. Small capital has been inadequate to carry forth large industrial undertakings. The highways of commerce have required tremendous sums. The small local roads have merged into larger systems. Trusts have been formed, which have violated the principles of fair competition, and wholesome industry. The Republican party was the first to make war upon such abuses. It has safeguarded capital property employed in our industrial and commercial development. It has thoroughly investigated the abuses which have inhered in our industrial and distributing agencies, and it has enacted laws drastic in their character, intending forever to put an end to them. The interstate commerce law, and its subsequent amendments and the Sherman anti-trust law, are among the measures it has written into the national statutes. They have not been allowed to rest there unexecuted."

STAGE SET FOR BIG GAME

Cubs and Giants All Ready for the Final Contest.

New York Wins Last Game of Boston Series.

New York, Oct. 8.—With the Chicago baseball team reaching New York on the Twentieth Century limited; with the local team rejuvenated by relief from the haunting fear of the past three days that some mischance might lose them one of the Boston series and lead to a possible triple tie; with a deluge of telegraphic and telephonic requests for seat reservations pouring into headquarters; and with every baseball enthusiast in the land at almost the limit of nerve tension, it is clear that the stage is being fittingly set for what is undoubtedly to be the most dramatic baseball event in the game's history. The national league pennant belongs to today's winner at the Polo grounds.

Yesterday the attendance at the Polo grounds was not more than the average, the fans being confident that New York would win. After the short fight in the opening inning which gave Boston two runs and New York none, it was evident that the home players have strong control of themselves, and are in every way fit and confident.

Ames pitched, despite Mathewson's pleading with McGraw before the game that he be allowed to go to the box both yesterday and today. Mathewson will undoubtedly be in the box today. The only feature of yesterday's game, which New York won handily by the score of 7 to 2, was McCormick's remarkable catch of a long fly for which he had to reach far out over the bleacher fence.

Milwaukee, Oct. 8.—Sheriff Knell yesterday, acting under instructions of Governor Davidson, notified Milwaukee fight promoters that there could henceforth be no more prize fights in Milwaukee, referring particularly to the Kelly-Papke fight, scheduled for Oct. 15.

GRIDIRON GOSSIP

The Duluth high school football team is not the only one in the state to lose good football material because of the ineligibility of its candidates. Every school in Minneapolis has lost from one to three of its star players, and as a result the teams claim they are badly crippled. The following is a dispatch from Minneapolis:

The high school eligibility axe has fallen and with it come the heads of several stars whose absence from the game will cripple more than one team.

The most serious blow is sustained by North in the loss of its captain and star halfback, Ralph Leighton. West will be minus the services of a tackle, Edwin McCarthy, while Central loses Kreig. Lewis Broderick, halfback, and Semon Hall, end, caught it at East, while the report is current that South will be in the field without Solem, end, and Frank Savage, quarter. Action against these men was taken at a recent meeting of the principals of the various schools, comprising the eligibility board of the local high schools.

Many of these men are standbys of their teams and their absence from the game will have a marked effect on the championship situation. Captain Leighton at North has been ruled out because this is his fifth year in high school. Leighton is probably the best defensive player on the North team and is also a power in carrying the ball.

Broderick at East is a halfback, equalled on few of the other teams, and Hall was reasonably sure of a place on the first team. McCarthy at West is a big fellow who would have been a power in the line for the new school. Central loses the services of Kreig, who is past the age limit of 21. He has been played on the second team, however, and his loss will not cripple the development so far made by the red and blue team.

If South loses Solem and Savage as reported, then its championship aspirations will be dimmed. Savage is an excellent man in running the team, while Solem bid fair to be a wonder at end.

Four of the high school teams are in active preparation for opening games of the season at the week's end. East and West are bending every effort to get into form for their meeting at Nicollet Friday in the first championship game, while South is busy patching up for a game with Mechanic Arts at St. Paul on the same day. North will meet the team of Northfield high on Saturday.

Central is the only team that will be idle as far as a scheduled game is concerned, but Coach Webster will line up his men at Nicollet this afternoon against St. Thomas in a practice scrimmage behind closed gates. The same teams will also clash on Saturday.

Of course the interest-commanding contest is that between West and East. Not only is it the first game that will have a bearing on the championship, but high school rooters are anxious to watch the new claimant for honors, West in action. Coach Burrier has been putting his men through the formations which he will use in the game and has worked early and late to make a good initial showing.

Minnesota football prospects received another slam today when it was announced that Ed Chestnut, left end of last season's team, had failed to clear up the damands of the engineering department by way of an examination and would not be able to play this season. Chestnut took his examination Monday, but the paper did not suit the examiners, and the man who made the most sensational run and touchdown ever negotiated against the Carlisle Indians, was informed that he could not get into the going this season.

Chestnut's sailing of the football seas was somewhat squally from the start. He was first tried as a quarterback last season. He was very light and it was thought that his physique would prove too light for anything but that position. "Ches" was a dismal failure as a quarter. He passed the ball after the manner of a pair of oil well shooters handling cans of nitroglycerin. He did not show anything. He was relegated to the discards on the sideline, but one night was called out to play the end for a few minutes in a scrimmage. He played like a fiend and his tackling was the most deadly and effective shown by any man on the team. He looked light and frail, but once he shot into an opponent, that opponent hit dirt with celerity and was lucky if he did not also gouge up some sod with his features. Chestnut made the position like a flash and all through the season played a star game.

He was as fast as a greyhound in getting down the field under punts, and played an aggressive game all of the way. He was so aggressive in the Chicago game that the officials requested him to go to the side lines and suppress his enthusiasm, alleging that he had become so intense in his play as to wallop Patrique Page of the maroons, twice, with more than the lawful vigor. Chestnut always declared that he was merely brushing the sand and grass off Patrique's countenance after a tackle. The pair had communed together the night before at the "purity" banquet, and Edward always averred that he would not break bread with a man and then attempt to break his face within the next twenty-four hours. Nevertheless, the stubborn official ruled Edward out.

Then came the Carlisle game, when Chestnut, grabbing a fumbled ball on Minnesota's 5-yard line, raced up the field, pursued by the entire tribe of Sioux and Chippewas, and planted the oval down for a touchdown. He played a great game against Wisconsin, and was expected to develop into one of the star ends of the West this season.

Now the scholastic snickersnee has fallen athwart his jugular and the coach is face to face with the additional task of developing another green man. The news that Chesnut is out of the going will hardly cause any great amount of gloom in the Chicago and Nebraska camps.

CENTRAL IS SCORED ON

Scrub Team Tears 'Em Up and Drop Kicks a Goal.

High School Team Shows Wretched Form in Practice Game.

If the high school football team wants to win that Grand Rapids game Saturday they will have to ginger up, and display more energy than they did Wednesday evening in practice.

According to the coaches, and those who saw the game, they were as slow as the Proctor stage, and displayed about as much enthusiasm and spirit in their work as a lot of baseball enthusiasts at an afternoon sewing bee. The line was particularly weak, and the team representing the bankers that lined up against them in a practice game, tore them up with ease.

A number of the regular men, including Boyle, the star quarterback, were out of the game, but this was no excuse for the ragged playing of the line men. The opposing team tore them up in great shape, and Nelson of the Bankers, drop kicked a goal from the thirty-yard line, making the first score made this year on the Centrals.

There was no regular game played, the ball changing hands at the wish of the coaches. It was an off day for the Central team, and it was much better that it came in practice than in a regular game.

All the regulars will be out in force tonight, and another stiff scrimmage will be in order. Cummings, who was out of the game last week, will be back in the game Saturday.

The teams lined up as follows:

| Centrals. | Position. | Bankers. |
|---|---|---|
| McFadden | le | Clausen |
| McFarlene | lt | Olson |
| Quinn | lg | Dixon |
| Helmer | c | McGhie |

Baseball for next year is the talk of Duluth fans on every side. Perhaps it is because of the enthusiasm displayed over the great races in the National and American leagues this year, and perhaps it is just because everyone wants Duluth to have fast baseball next season. Anyway, there is plenty of talk, and nearly everyone has a different idea about the way the ball club should be run.

A number have expressed themselves in favor of a fast independent team, claiming that the city would get more advertising out of it, and that a better class of ball could be furnished.

Among these independent enthusiasts is Dick Jacobs of the fast Fitwell semi-professional club. Mr. Jacobs says that he would be willing to put a fast independent team in the field and furnish good baseball for the fans. The team could take long jaunts through the country, and do much in the advertisement of the city.

As an instance of how popular independent ball is, Mr. Jacobs points to the success of the Hibbing, Virginia and other range towns which refuse to enter a league.

Mr. Jacobs is upheld in his version of successful baseball in Duluth by many others who believe with him that a greater variety of teams brought to Duluth would arouse great interest and put the game back on a paying basis in this city.

There are others who think that a league made up of the range towns and Duluth would be the proper stunt. Some believe that a properly organized ball league of the towns that have been suggested, including St. Paul and Minneapolis, would prove very popular.

No matter which way things turn out, Duluth fans are bound to have a change in baseball affairs in this city before another season begins, and whether or not the city has a good, live team in a new wideawake league, or a fast independent team playing with all the teams from the Northwest, is a question the fans will be called on to settle before the weather begins to suggest baseball another year.

There's a ball game in New York today that nearly every man, woman and child in the country is interested in. The Cubs are playing the Giants for the right to battle with the Detroit Tigers for the championship of the world.

Can you imagine the Great White Way deserted, the theaters empty and yourself in the midst of that cheering, howling, baseball-crazy mob that has gathered at the Polo grounds to watch the final struggle?

The most sensational, nerve-racking, whirlwind finish in the history of baseball will be over tonight, and no matter which way the contest turns out, thousands of people will throw their hats in the air, and act like a lot of Sioux Indians. It's the old time rivalry between Chicago and New York, and the fans from both cities are pulling for all they are worth for their favorites.

LOGGING LATE IN STARTING

But Few Orders for Men Have Been Received.

From all present indications, logging operations will be slow in starting this winter.

It being presidential year, many of the companies are said by the employment agencies to be holding back from ordering crews for their camps.

During the past few days, however, several small orders have come in to the local agencies, requesting that men be hired for work in the woods. The pay offered is no better than it was last winter, from $20 to $26 a month being paid for general all around work in the woods. For teamsters, $30 is offered. The best wages are offered to piece work men, in making railroad ties and fence posts. Eleven cents is offered in exchange for the labor of making a finished tie.

Few Lumber companies at present have signified their intention of operating on a large scale. In most cases they will conduct one or two camps, with only small crews. Later, if the lumber market grows better, they will increase their forces.

CUPID BROKER'S BOND REDUCED

Marian Grey's Tears Win Officials of United States.

Chicago, Oct. 8.—The tears of Marian Grey, "Cupid's broker," sentenced by Judge K. M. Landis to one year in the bridewell, won the sympathy of United States officials yesterday.

A year ago Miss Grey, who made thousands of dollars a year through her "Searchlight" club of Elgin, was released on an appeal bond of $1,000 cash. A short time later she appeared before the three circuit court judges and asked that her bond be reduced to $200 in order that she might have sufficient funds on which to support herself. This plea was granted.

Miss Grey yesterday appeared in the office of Assistant United States District Attorney Shirer, who secured her conviction in the district court.

While hysterically weeping, she cried:

"Mr. Shirer, you know I did not mean to do wrong. I only wanted to bring together people who wanted to become married and who were too bashful to conduct their own courtship. Won't you help me out in my case before the United States court of appeals?"

Miss Grey was taken into the office of United States Attorney Sims.

"What do you want us to do?" asked Mr. Sims.

"I have not a cent to my name," cried the girl. "Col. J. Hamilton Lewis has promised to defend me if the case comes to a second trial, and I want the judges to cut my bond in half so I may have enough to live on until their decision is rendered."

"We don't want to persecute anyone," announced Mr. Sims. "I am perfectly willing that your bond be reduced, and I will recommend it before the circuit court judges.

Later in the day the bond was reduced and Miss Grey refunded $250.

Miss Grey was the first of the matrimonial agents arrested by the United States government in a crusade against fraudulent matrimonial agencies.

LIKE RAINY LAKE COUNTRY.

Minneapolis Parties May Found Hay Fever Health Resort There.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Plans are under way for a mammoth health resort, to be financed by Minneapolis men, at Rainy Lake, Minn.

Impetus was given to the movement by the junketing trip to International Falls and the lake country last summer. Upon that trip were a number of persons suffering from hay fever. A few of them were physicians who had been suffering acutely from the malady in Minneapolis. They noticed that in less than a day after they had reached the islands, they were free from any sign of the trouble.

After coming back to the city, with recollections of the grand islands and splendid summer country in their minds, the idea of the resort came to them. Several islands were purchased, to be held for the purpose, and the idea is to make the place a hay fever cure for the whole country. The place is to be advertised extensively, and hotel and cottages provided. Everything is to be fully equipped, and launches and pleasure boats are to be a part of the program. The whole plan will be completed by midwinter so that the proposition can be started early next spring.

Many Schools Tenchericss.

Mandan, N. D., Oct. 8.—Owing to the new requirements for county certificates in this state, more than thirty schools cannot be opened at this time, on account of the scarcity of teachers. The rapid development of Morton county and the opening of many new schools, with no material increase in the number of teachers, is also one of the causes of the scarcity.

SHOOTING AT PORCUPINE, FATHER KILLS DAUGHTER

Wausau, Wis., Oct. 8.—Death came to 11-year-old Ottilie Will, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gottlieb Will, who live near Wausau, as a result of a gunshot wound received accidentally at the hands of her father.

They were working in the fields, when they saw a porcupine climbin nearby tree. They had been los chickens recently, and believing t animal the thief, they went together the house to secure a gun to kill it.

Returning, the girl was a few pace ahead of her father, and the old gen tleman was loading the gun. Afte loading it and closing the breech, he raised the hammer to see if it worked hard, the gun having been used but little, and it slipped from his grasp.

The girl was in direct range and received the full charge.

BRYAN CLASPS HANDS WITH TAFT; BOTH SPEAK AT CHICAGO BANQUET

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 8.—When William Jennings Bryan, Democratic presidential candidate, and William Howard Taft, Republican presidential candidate, met at the Association of Commerce banquet last night, one could hear the cheers a quarter of a mile away. An ear-splitting shout gave warning of the arrival of Taft. Mr. Bryan, in common with every one else, arose and looked toward the entrance. A huge frame, moving like a ship among a swarm of tugs, was moving slowly up the narrow aisle between two tables. Those at a distance occasionally could catch a glimpse of a smiling face, acknowledging greetings. A policeman in uniform and assistants in plain clothes aided in the progress of the distinguished guest. Mr. Bryan, who had ceased in the destruction of some sort of a chop suey masquerading under a French name, turned his head slowly as his political rival drew near, smiling slightly. The dramatic moment, which had been anticipated with such deep interest, was soon over. Mr. Bryan's hand awaited that of Mr. Taft. A single lingering pressure, a word or so which none could overhear, because of the tumult, and the Republican leader passed on. The cheering continued for a minute or so after those at the speakers' table had taken their seats. At the first moment the noise subsided, Mr. Bryan leaning to one side and smiling broadly, asked Mr. Taft if he "had a good day." This display of friendliness on the part of the two candidates stirred the crowd to renewed cheering, and, words being useless in the din, Mr. Taft stroked his throat for answer. Then Taft laughed and the applause increased. "What is the matter with Bill?" cried some one in stentorian tones. "He's all right." "Who's all right?" "Bill's all right." It took music by the orchestra and a song by the guests to restore a semblance of quiet. When talking in ordinary tones became possible the two candidates entered into an animated conversation.

WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT.

WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN.

In his speech, Taft said in part:

"What I wish to call your attention to tonight is the delays and consequent inequalities in the administration of justice in controversies between private persons. All our institutions are now being subjected to close scrutiny with a view to proving that some of them should be radically changed. The chief attack is on the institution of private property, and is based upon the inequalities in the distribution of wealth and of human happiness that are apparent in our system. I believe that the interests of private property next to that of personal liberty has had much to do with the physical and moral improvement of the whole human race, but that it is not inconsistent with the rights of private property to impose limitations upon its use for unlawful purposes, and that this is the reform needed rather than the abolition of the institution itself. An evil which is likely to grow in importance is the inequality between the poor and the rich growing out of the delays in the administration of justice between individuals. As between wealthy litigants where each party is able to pay the expense of litigation, and to undergo for the time the loss of interest on the capital involved, our present system, while not perfect, does not call for anxiety.

"A defect of our system is seen in the unequal burdens which the delays and expense of litigation impose on the poor litigant. The reform must be reached through improvement in our procedure. Our codes are generally too elaborate.

"There has been manifested in our appellate courts too great a disposition to revise cases for error in the trial below. The complaint that the courts are made for the rich and not for the poor has no foundation in fact in the attitude of the courts upon the merits of any controversy which may come before them, for the judges of this country are as free from prejudice in this respect as it is possible to be. But the inevitable effect of the delays incident to the machinery now required in a settlement of controversies in judicial tribunals is to put at a disadvantage the poor litigant and to give great advantage to his wealthy opponent. I think a step in the direction of the dispatch of litigation might be taken in requiring higher qualifications for those judges that sit in cases involving a small pecuniary amount. A poor man should have the benefit of as acute and able judges as the rich and the money saved from the smaller salaries to the justices of the peace and the judges of the inferior courts is not an economy in the interest of the public."

In his speech Mr. Bryan said in part:

"Commerce is today extending its influence throughout the world and binding people together as they were never before bound. Compare the possibilities of today with the possibilities of a few centuries ago and we will see in the future the difference. Whenever invention of importance has been heralded, some are ready to exclaim that it will deprive somebody of employment and sometimes the labor saving machine is condemned because it enables a few to do what it required many to do in the same time, but the labor saving machine is rather a labor multiplying machine.

"Every new invention has enlarged the demand for labor as it has multiplied the efficiency of labor. I am not prepared to say that we have yet recognized the duty that society owes to bear some of the burdens that may fall temporarily on people displaced by improvements that bring a large gain to society.

"I am not sure that we have yet recognized that when society is to get honor, society ought to compensate those who individually suffer for society's benefit. But whether we have found an accurate adjustment or not, there is no doubt that society has largely gained one of the great institutions that has made largely for the enlargement of commerce in the corporate entity.

"The corporation is a step in advance. It enables people to do together what people could not do alone. But with every new step in advance, responsibilities come. When the railroad took the place of the turnpike, laws were necessary that were not in the highway, but society, recognizing that the railroad had become a necessity, adjusted itself to the railroad and then proceeded by legislation to correct whatever abuses might arise in the management of railroads. And so society accepts corporations as an established fact and proceeds to enact such laws as may be necessary to make the corporations serve the purpose for which they were created and I am sure that the members of the association,, this association organized for the promotion of the city's interest, for the development of the city's commerce and for the advancement of the city's good, recognizes that with the large power that corporate action gives restriction is not necessary."

How Is Your Digestion Today?

If it isn't right—"there's a reason." The reason is:—wrong eating—undigested food. Kodol will digest the food and rest the stomach. It removes cause and "the reason."

Then you have no more indigestion. Indigestion is of course impossible when there is perfect digestion of food. And imperfect digestion of food is impossible where there is Kodol.

If you could see Kodol digest every particle of food, in test tubes, in the laboratory of the manufacturers, you would understand this better. Or, what is even more convincing, let it digest the food in your stomach, the first time you have an attack of indigestion.

Of course, you may never have indigestion. Yet most of us, at one time or another, are subject to its pains and discomforts. It is true that this is usually our own fault—but that doesn't help matters any.

Kodol will help the matter very quickly. It doesn't cure dyspepsia understand. It isn't claimed to cure anything. The day of "cure-alls" is past. Modern medical treatment merely aims to assist Nature. Kodol is one of Nature's most invaluable assistants.

The best plan by long odds, is to keep good digestion when you have it. Many persons, however, are unable, for one reason or another to do this. Others don't care to take the trouble to do it. But the "troubles" usually come later, just the same. Then you will want to know about Kodol.

A work recently issued by the U. S. Dep't. of Agriculture, says: "In * * * * * * eating, we are prone to let natural instinct be overruled by acquired appetite. * * * * * * * We need to observe our diet more carefully—to regulate appetite by reason."

That is the idea! Simply use reason. Don't starve yourself—eat plenty of good, wholesome nourishing food. But eat it at the proper time, and in the proper way. Starving or dieting never cured anything—or prevented anything.

Nature planned that we should take food to sustain life. But what if the food does not undergo the essential processes of conversion into the elements required by the organs and tissues? Natur's entire scheme is frustrated, at the outset.

Here is where Kodol steps in and sets Nature's scheme right again. It does this by completely digesting all food, for a time. Nature then rests, heals and cures the digestive organs—and they resume work. After that you don't need Kodol—until you put your stomach wrong again.

STRAUS DECLARES BRYAN WILL MAKE A RELIABLE PRESIDENT

Chicago, Oct. 8.—For more than an hour yesterday, William J. Bryan addressed the Business Mens' National Bryan and Kern association in the parlors of the Auditorium hotel. Assigning his reasons for supporting Mr. Bryan and his interest in the work of the association, President Noffer Straus said in a telegram to the meeting:

"I feel sure that he will be elected, and I say as a busines man, one who is much interested perhaps as any, in the general prosperity of the country, as one who is bound to feel personally any lack of prosperity among the masses, that I believe his election will be a benefit to all the country and to all of the people. Those that talk otherwise, those that predict panic and disaster, as the result of the election of an honest man, chosen by an honest majority of the people, are narrow-minded and short-sighted, or pretend to believe that which they know is not true, or they are seeking to obscure the real vital issues of the campaign.

NATHAN STRAUS.

"Mr. Bryan will make a safe, reliable, conscentious president. He will represent the American people, not any class, and for that reason I shall work for him until election and vote for him on election day."

Bryan prefaced his remarks by saying:

"If I thought a Democratic victory would be injurious to the business interests of this country, I would not think of asking you to serve on this business mens' committee. I would not think of asking a laboring man to take part in a campaign for the election of the Democratic ticket; if I thought that a Democratic victory would be injurious to the laboring interests of the country. I would not ask a farmer to interest himself in our success if I thought a Democratic victory would be injurious to their interests, and I would not ask a business man to support the Democratic ticket if I thought that a Democratic victory would tend to impair legitimate business in this country. I believe that Democratic victory is absolutely necessary if confidence is to be restored and the country is to become permanently prosperous."

"I take pleasure in saying that I have kept Chamberlain's Colic, cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in my family medicine chest for about fifteen years, and have always had satisfactory results from its use. I have administered it to a great many traveling men who were suffering from troubles for which it is recommended, and have never failed to relieve them," says J. C. Jenkins of Glasgow, Ky. This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

"HUGHES, 1912; SHELDON, 1916"

Says Placard.

Hastings, Neb.,... Oct. 8.—After having spoken in fourteen towns, all within a radius of a few hundred miles of the home of the Democratic candidate for president, Governor Charles E. Hughes of New York in a speech here tonight declared he was convinced "the voice of Mr. Bryan's own country would not be the weakest in repudiating the Bryan and re-affirming the Republican policies next month."

At Lincoln, Governor Hughes was escorted through the streets by Governor George L. Sheldon of Nebraska in an automobile decorated with a large placard bearing the words "Hughes 1912, Sheldon, 1916." Enthusiastic crowds greeted the New York governor when he spoke from the train at Ashland, Havelock, York and other stops. The yells of cowboys and the music of a brass band from a "Hughes" show joined in the tumult of greeting at Grand Island. The public schools at Kearney were dismissed to allow the pupils to hear the governor. At Hastings tonight Governor Hughes reached the extreme western point of his tour.

Glacier Ice From Alpine Mountains.

The introduction of electric railways into Alpine districts has been the means of establishing a new and somewhat strange industry, namely, the quarrying of glacier ice for distribution in large cities, says a consular report. High as the Alps in quality is golden grain belt beer. It is brewed from the best of nature's products in a better way than any other beers, and deserves a place on the home table. Order of your nearest dealer, or be supplied by Duluth branch, Mineapolis Brewing company.

Figures About Rheumaline and Rheumatism That Astound.

When you have tried all the so-called cures for rheumatism, or been to all the resorts and springs, then if you still have rheumatism, try Rheumaline Those are just the kind of cases that the proprietors of The Rheumaline Co., of Cincinnati, delight in—cases that have baffled every other known remedy—cases that have discouraged the sufferer and made him think there was no relief. Then Rheumaline steps in and does the business. It is just such cases that have made a constant drain on the pockets of the patient and the nominal price of Rheumaline cannot help but appeal. Think of it! Rheumaline costs only $1.00. It only requires a few bottles; only a few dollars at the most to effect a permanent relief.

For example: You have been a slave to rheumatism five years. Two months of every year you have been incapacitated for work. That is ten months. Almost a year. At $3.00 a day (an average wage), your rheumatism has cost you by laying you up, the tidy sum of $912.00 for ten months or 304 days. You, therefore, have lost in five years, just $88.00 less than $1,000.00. Do you have the smallest conception of what your rheumatism is costing you now? Add to this the pain and suffering you have undergone. And here is Rheumaline, which is positive in its action against Rheumatism, Lumbago, Sciatica, Neuralgia, Gout, and any disorders arising from Uric Acid, awaiting you at the Lyceum Pharmacy, procurable at any time you have the incentive to go down and purchase it It is always the same price, $1.00. Rheumaline Capsules cost 50c per box, and should be taken with Rheumaline in what is called the Rheumaline Treatment, to obtain the best results. Remember, in taking Rheumaline, keep the bowels open by Rheumaline tablets. This is quite essential. Don't be poor or suffer any longer. Get Rheumaline. It removes the cause.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON: OCT. 11. 1 Chron, 17:1-14; God's Promise to David.

By Rev. J. S. Kirtley, D. D.

THE CONNECTION.

David's chief concern was with the religious culture and habits of his people. After bringing back the ark to the new capital, Jerusalem, and placing it in a temporary tent or tabernacle, he began to dream of a permanent house for God's worship. It would both unify and spiritualize the nation.

The time seemed ripe, for his foreign wars were over and there was peace; the national spirit was growing, and the people would help him; he himself had an elegant palace built of cedar, and God was entitled to a suitable place for His ark, which contained His Word and symbolized His presence and mercy.

THE LESSON.

I.

God Refuses David's Offer, 1-6.

"And it came to pass, when David dwelt in his house, that David said to Nathan the prophet, Lo, I dwell in a house of cedar, but the ark of the covenant of Jehovah dwelleth under curtains. And Nathan said unto David, Do all that is in thy heart; for God is with thee. And it came to pass the same night, that the word of God came to Nathan, saying, Go and tell David my servant, Thus saith Jehovah, Thou shalt not build me a house to dwell in: for I have not dwelt in a house since the day that I brought up Israel, unto this day, but have gone from tent to tent, and from one tabernacle to another. In all places wherein I have walked with all Israel, spake I a word with any of the judges of Israel, whom I commanded to be shepherd of by people, saying, Why have ye not built me a house of cedar?"

1. Two Good Impulses that Needed Correcting.

It was reverent, wise and far-sighted—David's wish to build God a temple, but that did not prove that he was the one to build it. It was a good impulse that led Nathan, the superb old prophet, to approve of it, but that night God corrected him, giving him a vision and sending a message forbidding David to build the house.

He must have felt great hesitancy in withdrawing his approval the next day. But he was a man of conscience, and therefore of courage, as he afterward showed in rebuking David for his great sin (xii., 1). He was a man of wisdom and learning, as David afterward chose him as the teacher of Solomon. He was a man of decision and patriotism, as he afterward secured the choice of Solomon for the throne and prevented a civil war by Adonijah. But Nathan did his duty, and told David that God did not want him to build the temple, though it must have cost him an effort to reverse his former decision and dash the sincere and ardent impulse of the King.

2. Three Good Reasons for the Refusal.

One reason was that God had never yet had a permanent temple, and therefore it would not be fatal to wait a while longer. And yet He has achieved wonders in bringing up the nation from Egypt—all without a temple; He had been with them, for He moved with them—"walked" rather than abode in one place. The structure in which He dwelt was temporary, as their's had been, a tent and a tabernacle—the latter word describing the movable frame structure, and the former its covering. Precedent is against a change, and David need not feel that it is necessary right on the spot. Another reason is that in all of His journeyings with them He has never commanded or requested that they build Him a house, and had never reproached them for not doing so by the question, "why build ye not me a house of cedar?" A third reason existed which David may not have been told just then, but knew all about later—that he was a man whose hands were bloody with wars and ceremonially unclean, unfitted to build a temple of peace. The refusal was further tempered by a gracious approval of the past and a sublime promise for the future. David must also have begun to see that while there were any outside complications, it would be hard to concentrate all the energies of the people on the building of the temple, and that a long lifetime might not be time enough to do it rightly.

II.

God Approves David's Past, 7-8.

"Now therefore thus shalt thou say unto my servant David, Thus saith Jehovah of hosts, I took thee from the sheepcote, from following the sheep, that thou shouldst be prince over my people Israel: and I have been with thee whithersoever thou has gone, and have cut off all thine enemies from before thee; and I will make thee a name, like unto the name of the great ones that are in the earth."

1. God's Product.

God never wounds without healing, never denies one thing without granting something better. While David is feeling the disappointment, he is given assurance of a personal providence over his life. God called him while he was a shepherd boy, was with him in his wanderings and sorrows, gave him victory over his enemies, made him a ruler, won him a great name—and what then? This—God will not desert him nor the nation.

2. God's Pledge.

The blessings that God had given him were a guarantee of other blessings, yet to come. A personal, loving Providence that brought him these blessings has still more in store for him, and for the nation, too. David's wonderful triumphs over his enemies, especially Saul; his wide reputation as one of the great men of the world; his amazing success in lifting a small and vassal state into a high place among the world's greatest nations—all these things indicate God's personal, loving care, and pledge the same for all the future.

God Makes Great Promises. 9-14.

"And I will appoint a place for my people Israel, and will plant them, that they may dwell in their own place, and be moved no more; neither shall the children of wickedness waste them any more, as at the first, and as from the day that I commanded judges to be over my people Israel; and I will subdue all thine enemies. Moreover I tell thee that Jehovah will build thee a house. And it shall come to pass, when thy days are fulfilled that thou must go to be with thy fathers, that I will set up thy seed after thee, who shall be thy sons; and I will establish his kingdom. He shall build me a house, and I will establish his throne forever. I will be his father, and he shall be my son; and I will not take my loving kindness away from him, as I took it from him that was before thee; but I will settle him in my house and in my kinkdom forever; and his throne shall be established forever."

1. National Stability.

He promises that the nation shall be stable from this time on—not unrooted, but "planted," and therefore fixed and fruitful; not homeless, but having "a place of their own," owners instead of intruders; permanent, "to move no more."

2. National Protection.

He promises protection from the children of wickedness, such as the Philistines had been, and the Egyptians and the enemies that so often oppressed them in the time of the Judges, like the Midianites.

3. A Stable Dynasty.

He promises to build David a house—the house, stock, family, dynasty of David. He had promised that David himself, as king, should prevail, and now that his house or family shall become the one ruling family of Israel. That promise was fulfilled, for only from one family were the kings of Judah taken, while the kings of the part that split off and organized the Northern Kingdom, known as Israel, came from various families, some of them usurpers and murderers. David longed for a permanent throne for his family. He cannot build God's house, but God will build his house.

4. A Son Who Should Build the Temple.

David cannot build the house, but his son shall. He gathered the material, and Solomon built it, and that was as agreeable to him as to have built it himself. One sows and another reaps. God was respecting the purposes David formed, and helping him to carry them out in the best possible way.

5. That Son Should be God's Son, Too.

God promises to make David's son His own son. He will be fatherly in two ways—in securing the throne to him perpetually; in chastizing him when he did wrong, not with the rod of destruction, but with the rod of loving and intelligent authority, "with the stripes of the children of men." God's mercy would prevent a fate such as befell Saul. These promises were partially fulfilled in David's great sons and perfectly so, in "great David's greater son." Here we learn that the Messiah was to come from David's family. He perpetuates the house of David, for "the posterity of David could only last forever by running out in a person who lives forever."

WHAT THE MASTERS SAY.

It is something to have a great purpose, although it may never come to anything visible. David dreamed a temple, and he was the better for the dream. In proportion to the width and general nobleness of our thought is the benefit accruing from it to our whole life. A grand wish is an instrument of education. It comes almost to the dignity of a prayer. Think of a mind without a great thought, a heart without a generous purpose, a life without a dream. Why, it is like the earth without sky.—Joseph Parker.

God takes our plans and works them over bigger and better, if he may. His touch always sweetens and enriches. David is thinking of a temple of hard wood. He would use his wealth and power in honoring God. God takes that plan, uses it through David's son, and extends it. David's descendants are to be used to the honor of God, to the greatest way, down to the very tip end of time, and out to the outermost rim of the earth. Go ahead with your plannning. But mark every plan, "subject to change from above,' and keep a keen ear for God's voice.—Gordon.

Cedar wood was in great request for the doors and ceilings of temples, from the middle of the third millennium before Christ to the days of Daniel. Abraham may have seen the great cedar door of the temple of the moon god, set up by the first kings of the dynasty of Hammurabi; and the father of Belshazzar boasted of having used five thousand cedars in the restoration of a famous temple—W. T. Smith.

POINTS TO IMPRESS.

1. That we must submit all our plans to God for correction.
2. That, in denying us, God usually commends us.
3. That He always restores more than He takes away.
4. That God's purpose cannot fail.
5. That God builds the house of our life, his true temple.
6. That because we are his children, He must teach and train, direct and correct us.
7. That each Christian is a royal son of God, to reign with Christ forever.

IRON ACTIVITY AFTER ELECTION

Weekly Review Shows the Production to be Increasing.

New York, Oct. 8.—The Iron Age Review says:

"Production of iron in the United States increased in September to 1,419,000 tons, the heaviest total since November last year. Pig iron production has made quite marked progress since the summer lull. In June the output had declined to 36,500 tons per day. In September it averaged 47,300 tons. This is at the rate of over two-thirds of the production of the banner month of last year. Unfortunately no statistics of stocks are available, so that it is impossible to judge whether consumption is taking care of all the current market. It is well-known, however, that in some leading districts the accumulations have been considerably reduced, while in others makers being able to carry their iron are content to wait for a turn for the better. One feature is that consumers' yards are bare all over the country.

Commenting on general conditions in the iron and steel trade the Iron Trade says:

"The whole line of crude and finished branches of the iron trade is simply making time. It is only under exceptional circumstances that buyers surrender their reserve preferring to await developments, however, confident they may feel a spell of increased activity will follow the elections.

To Redden the Blood

Rich, red blood.

Red blood to form new cells and tissues, to invigorate the nerves, to strengthen the heart's action, to give energy and vigor to the organs of the body.

The elements from which nature forms rich, red blood are found in condensed and easily assimilated form in Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills and because of its wonderful blood-building qualities this great restorative has become world famous.

There is no guess work, no experimenting with this treatment. Every dose is bound to do you a certain amount of good.

Mrs. H. Harbrough, Mansfield, Ohio, states: "A child of mine was pale, bloodless, weak and nervous. Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills acted splendidly, making the nerves strong, the blood rich, the color good, and building up the system in every way."

Danderine

Grows Hair and we can PROVE IT!

DANDERINE is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow abundantly long, strong and beautiful. It at once imparts a sparkling brilliancy and velvety softness to the hair, and a few weeks' use will cause new hair to sprout all over the scalp. Use it every day for a short time, after which two or three times a week will be sufficient to complete whatever growth you desire.

"When I began using Danderine my hair would not come to my shoulders and now it is away below my hips."

Another from Newark, N. J.

"I have been using Danderine regularly. When I first started to use it I had very little hair, now I have the most beautiful long and thick hair anyone would want to have."

WEST END

WEST END TO SET PACE

Democratic Club Will Make Johnson Meeting a Record Breaker.

Club Will Meet Friday to Plan Reception for Governor.

Great preparations are being made for the visit to the city of Governor John A. Johnson, who will be in the city Monday and deliver addresses in the pavilion at Lincoln park and in West Duluth. A meeting of the West End Democratic club will be held Friday night, at which time the final arrangements will be made for the biggest political celebration ever held in the West end.

The club members are determined that the West end will give the governor a reception that will set a pace for the rest of St. Louis county to follow during his three days' stay in this part of the state. The Lincoln park pavilion is one of the largest halls in the city outside of the Armory, but the club members declare that it will be inadequate to hold the crowd that will assemble Monday night, in spite of the counter attraction at the Armory.

The governor has the strongest kind of a following in the West end, and Duluth people have had no opportunity to hear him speak since his sudden rise into national prominence.

The West End club members will turn out in force to the meeting, and Friday evening they will probably make plans to march to the hall in a body.

OIL CAN, MATCH, BOY, BANG!

Youthful West Ender Sets Fire to Gasoline Can.

Johnny Brobosky, who lives with his parents at Seventh street and Twenty-ninth avenue west set fire to a gasoline can yesterday and it was necessary to call a physician to dress the wounds caused by the explosion.

The skin on the boy's face suffered the most. It is likely that his features will be marred for life, by the accident. His injuries while painful, are not fatal.

Leaves for Marinette.

Rev. John A. Anderson and family were tendered a farewell reception last evening at the First Swedish Methodist church. Mr. Anderson leaves the pulpit of the church after nine years of service there, to become superintendent of the Lake Superior district of the Swedish Methodist conference. The family will remove today to Marinette, Wis., where Mr. Anderson will have his headquarters.

Several speakers last evening expressed regret upon the departure of Mr. Anderson and had nice things to say about the work he accomplished during his residence in the West end. Among those who spoke were Rev. O. N. Hildreth of Superior, John Sundeen, Rev. O. Ostrom and Rev. H. K. Madsen. Musical numbers were given by Mrs. Olga Hedstrom, Miss Esther Wilson and Miss Mabel Fulton.

Mr. Anderson was presented with a purse of money.

West End Shortrails.

John Wahl and family have gone to Center City, Minn., to visit Mrs. Wahl's relatives. They will be gone about ten days, during which time Mr. Wahl expects to get in some duck shooting.

Mrs. Theodore Dahljelm left yesterday for Taylor's Falls, to visit friends and relatives.

Richard Fox of Port Arthur, Ont., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. David Adams. Mr. Fox was in Duluth twenty-three years ago and was greatly surprised to notice the growth Duluth has enjoyed in that time.

Martin Larson's new brick block at Piedmont and Garfield avenues is rapidly nearing completion. It will be occupied by his drug store.

Mrs. James Sanacker, wife of the new district superintendent of the Norwegian-Danish Methodist conference, was called to Oconomowoc, Wis., yesterday by the death of her father.

A. E. Larson of West Second street has returned from Minneapolis.

The Luther league of Bethany Swedish Lutheran church will meet this evening in the church parlors.

Dr. Green has returned from Lake Pokemega, where he has been hunting ducks. He got some.

The Young Ladies' society of the First Swedish Baptist church is being entertained this afternoon by Mrs. John Fredin of Eleventh avenue west. Friday evening the society will meet with Mrs. John Palm of West Third street.

The Ladies' Aid society of the First Norwegian-Danish Methodist church is meeting this afternoon with Mrs. Nels Selseth.

A Jeweler's Experience.

C. R. Kluger, the jeweler, 1060 Virginia avenue, Indianapolis, Ind., writes: "I was so weak from kidney trouble that I could hardly walk a hundred feet. Four bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy cleared my complexion, cured my backache and the irregularities disappeared, and I can now attend to business every day, and recommend Foley's Kidney Remedy to all sufferers, as it cured me after the doctors and other remedies had failed. Sold by all druggists.

SCANDANAVIAN LITERATURE

Library is Loaned Fifty Books in Swedish and Norgegian Languages.

The local library has received from the state library commission fifty books in the Swedish and other Scandinavian languages, which will remain at the Duluth library for one month for circulation among the Scandinavian residents of the city. There have been many requests for literature in the native languages of the people of the North, who form a large part of the Duluth population, and it is hoped that the books will be in constant use during the month, which they are loaned by the state commission. There are twenty-five books in each language. Ten are fiction and the other forty are histories and books of general interest.

ANOTHER GIRL MISSING.

Police Declare She is Victim of White Slave Dealers.

Chicago, Oct. 8.—Mary Henrietta McCormick, 16 years old, has mysteriously disappeared, and the police believe that she is the victim of a white slave plot.

She has not been seen at her home or heard from for six weeks. She left with the intention of working for a wealthy family in Austin. Her mother, Mrs. Louisa Murphy, is on the verge of prostration as the result of information that has just been unearthed by the police.

The police found that the girl did not go to Austin, but was seen in the company of a woman known to the under world.

They declare that this woman, under the pretense of sending Miss McCormick into the home of a wealthy family, where she was to work for fabulous wages, instead sent her to Elgin, and from there she was to be forwarded East through the regular channels of the white slave service.

When the girl did not write or send word to her mother or grandmother for a week the matter was reported to the police of the Desplanes street station.

Detectives were specially detailed and yesterday it was learned that the girl had been seen in the company of a woman who has been under surveillance for some time.

On the day the girl disappeared the woman purchased a ticket to Elgin for her at the Northwestern depot.

That was the last seen of the girl in Chicago. The woman has not been arrested, but is being watched.

FARGO IS WAGING WAR UPON THE SOCIAL EVIL.

Fargo, N. D., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Segregation of the social evil is again a vital issue in Fargo, and there is a recurrence of the crusade against this form of vice. Following months of ineffectual effort to drive the women out of the business blocks and flats in the city, the women were permitted to return to the prescribed district. This plan has not proven satisfactory to the opponents of the evil, and they have started another moral wave, which may result in the women having to vacate the district.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

"Who's a liar?" asked the lady, who is interested in politics.

"I'm not," said her husband with promptness and asperity. "And if you're going to everlastingly doubt that one little story about—"

"Why John, I never thought of such a thing. Of course, you're not a liar. Sometimes it's necessary I know, and surely I can draw a little mantle of charity over your fairy tales—"

"It was the truth," said John, with firmness.

"What was?" asked his wife.

"Everything," said John.

"Of course," said his wife, soothingly "I know. I don't mind you telling little ones so long as we both know they are nice, imaginative—"

"It was the truth," said John.

"Of course it was," said his wife. "I know."

John maintained a dignified silence.

"What I wanted to know, though," said his wife, "is about this political business. Across every page in the paper there screeches the word, 'liar' and I can't for the life of me discover what it's about. Do you know, John?"

"Certainly," said John, with the dignity of the man who votes.

"Should you mind explaining it to me," with a honeyed tone of humbleness.

"No, I shouldn't," said John. "If you promise to keep still and not interrupt."

"I promise. Please explain it in words of one syllable."

"Well," said John, clearing his throat "the peaceful somnolency of the campaign was interrupted a while ago by Hearst. It was going along with gentleness and quiet that wouldn't wake the baby. Nothing, absolutely nothing, doing. When suddenly the soporific—"

"I said words of one syllable, John."

"Soporific virtues," continued John "of the presidential race were interrupted by the same man Hearst. He found some letters—"

"Something like that," said John. "At any rate, Hearst—"

"I think he's terribly interesting, don't you?" asked John's wife.

"No," said John, I don't. When a man of that sort with pestilential ideas concerning a great many things gets abroad in the land the harm he can do is incalculable, I say." John was waving his arms excitedly.

"There, there, I know. But anyway, he does something, and I—"

"What does he do, woman, what does he do?" asked John in excitement. "He—"

"Well, about the letter," said John's wife.

"Well Hearst produced the letters in which he tried to show that Foraker—"

"What's Foraker?"

"Foraker" said John "is a Republican gentleman and scholar. Also a kind father and husband, a devoted son and it is at this gentleman that the accusation has been cast—that he forsooth has taken money that didn't belong to him as a bribe you understand."

"But the liar part of it" suggested John's wife.

"Hearst also said and of course every man must hit the bull's eye once in a while, that Governor Haskell, a man of Duluth population, and it is hoped that the books will be in constant use during the month, which they are loaned by the state commission. There are twenty-five books in each language. Ten are fiction and the other forty are histories and books of general interest.

"Haskell is a Democrat, a representative Democrat" said John, who is a fair-minded man. "He has taken, if you will believe me a half of a million dollars to use his office as a means of defrauding the public, of stealing from the widows and orphans, of conniving at the—"

"But the liar" said John's wife.

"Well," said John, "Roosevelt—"

"He's a Republican, isn't he?" said John's wife.

"Yes" said John he is. "Well Roosevelt—"

"I bet he straightened things out" said John's wife.

"Well Roosevelt—" said John.

"Is Alice Longworth going to do any campaigning this year?" asked John's wife.

"I don't know," said John. Roosevelt—"

"I should think she would, wouldn't you. Politics is so interesting," said John's wife.

"Well after that Bryan—"

"Bryan's a Socialist isn't he?"

"No, Bryan's a Democrat," said John. "He's interesting, don't you think so?" said John's wife.

"No I don't," said John.

"I do" said John's wife. "I hope he's elected for governor."

"He's not running for governor," said John. "Anyhow after all this, Roosevelt and Bry—"

"After all what, John? You didn't say."

Why the discussion and letters and one thing and another, Roosevelt said, 'You're a liar.'"

"Rather rude of him, I think. I hate strong language," said John's wife. "Who did he mean?"

"How should I know?" said John.

"Then what happened? Please quick."

"Everybody who thought he meant him stood up and said 'You're another' good and loud."

"That's the only thing I've got against politics. People do get so wrought up and unmannerly. And then what happened?"

"I don't know," said John wiping his brow.

"But that's so silly. Really over nothing at all. Just a few letters. And maybe they're forgeries, who knows? Don't you think it would be kind of fun to ride to the police station in the new city automobile," asked John's wife, "seeing we haven't one of our own."

"Yes," said John feeling of his limp collar "I'm just crazy about it."

UPTON - ANDREWS.

Miss Stella Upton Becomes Bride of Worth Andrews.

Mr. and Mrs. Worth Andrews are the guests of Mr. Andrews' parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Andrews, of 5601 London Road. Mrs. Andrews was formerly Miss Stella Upton, daughter off A. B. Upton, and her wedding to Mr. Andrews took place Sept. 16 at the home of her sister at Eufala, Oklahoma. The bride is well known in Duluth, where the family formerly resided. Mr. Andrews and his bride will be with his parents at 5601 London Road until after the holidays.

Autumn Assembly.

The regular autumn Assembly will be danced at the Spalding Friday evening of next week. Since the cessation of the regular summer informal outings and picnics the season has been a rather dull one and this affair, at which the members of the Assembly will be hosts, will be a bright spot in the social horizon of next week.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

Mrs. Ward Celebrates Her Eightieth Birthday.

Mrs. Elizabeth Ward was the guest of honor at a birthday party at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Emma Wicks, of 1201 West Third street. Mrs. Ward celebrated the eightieth anniversary of her birth. One of the interesting features of the afternoon was the tieing of a quilt which the guest of honor had pieced before the Civil War. The rooms were prettily decorated in American beauty roses, white astors and autumn leaves, and Mrs. Ward was presented with an amethyst brooch and a birthday cake surrounded with candles. The guests were the members of the Ladies of the G. A. R. and the Rathbone Sisters and those present were:

Mesdames—
Pike. Cutliff.
Dennis. Gibbs.
Shirrer. Owens.
Laux. McHugh.
Bottsford. Eddins.

Misses—

DESIGN IN STENCIL.

Classes to Be Organized at Art School.

Classes in stenciling and design will be organized tomorrow afternoon at the Art school. The meeting will be held at 2 o'clock. Classes in the simple handicrafts will be conducted, and basket-weaving, tooling in leather and metal work will be features of the fall term. There is special interest being shown by many Duluth women in the classes in stenciling.

A children's class will be organized Saturday morning for training in design and its application to some of the simple crafts.

HUMOR SIDETRACKED.

Shaw Yields to Wagner in Lecture Course.

The announcement which has been made that the second evening lecture in the course being presented before the Twentieth Century club by Dr. N. I. Rubinkam of Chicago, will be changed from a discussion of Bernard Shaw's "Caesar and Cleopatra," and Shakespeare's "Antony and Cleopatra" and "Julius Caesar" to a discussion of Wagner's "The Meistersingers of Nurenberg" has caused much disappointment among many of the members of the club.

The Bernard Shaw lectures have been anticipated by many as among the most delightful of the course and especially the one dealing with the coming of Caesar to Egypt. It is treated in a manner that has come to be called truely Shawesque. This lecture promised to bring the leaven of humor to the course, and it was looked forward to by many. Ibsen, so reason those who would like to hear Shaw and Shakespeare discussed, whatever else he may be, will never be called a humorist, and of cours, Wagner is not noted as a mirth producer. Those who do like a modicum of humor are regretful over the elimination of the satire of the brilliant Irishman.

Dr. Rubinkam has presented his Wagner lectures with great success in Chicago, and there are some, of course, who are delighted with the change as announced.

Card Party.

CHEERFUL AGE.

Blighted Beings Have No Place in Society.

The age is growing happier. We may be less romantic, but we are more cheerful. The future is allowed to hold more hope. We do not spend nearly so much time before the drawers of escritoires, turning over packets of old love-letters. Many people file them nowadays, or keep busy writing new ones. We stay younger longer, and surely it is wiser to use old love letters for purposes of reference than tears? To make light of the old love is better than to make a trouble out of it, says Constance Smedley in "The Queen."

People who are suffering from love disappointments are not favorites now, but they are not the permanent infliction they used to be. In times gone by they were allowed to make such a business of their troubles; in fact, they were expected to concentrate their whole remaining years to a round of blankness and regret. The simple fact that they had not gratified one particular desire was accepted as a valid reason for the abandonment of themselves to a state of general uselessness. It was considered most praiseworthy of gentlemen to give up their careers and pass their declining years in restrospection of the tragedy of their past. If they could manage to decline away altogether they were held up as examples to the race; they had proved their troubles were real. In those days grief was looked on as a positive accomplishment; a fine art; a study in which honors could be taken. Even today one hears misanthropic-looking individuals referred to with a certain respect as people who have kept up their unhappiness for a commendably lengthy period. The onlookers vaguely feel this shows stability. A good many men—and women, too—do not get what they want, either in love or their professions, and yet maintain a cheerful interest in life and their fellow beings. But the outsider feels their troubles cannot have been "real" ones. Onlookers reserve their sympathy for those who carry their disappointments about with them; who nurse the sense of Fate's injustice; who feel they deserved better treatment, and let the world know they think so. Cheerful people are always suspected of a lack of profundity.

Besides trouble is held by some to be a hall-mark of superior refinement. When we were little a gloomy expression was promptly corrected as denoting "sulks;" but when we grow up we should brand such a criticism as "heartless." When one is grown up troubles are considered proofs of sensibility, and sensibility is universally felt to be an adornment. We were whipped for it when we were children.

THE SMALL GIRL

Has a Gay Ribbon Decorated Coiffure.

Almost as pretentious as the grown-up's coiffure is that of the small girl's of today. In this coiffure ribbon plays an extensive part and the head of the wee belle now gives the impression of having more ribbon than hair. This ribbon, too, is very wide—very often seven inches and never less than five—and at least two or three bows are demanded by the present styles.

One favorite modes of placing the bow is, in the case of a very small girl, to tie back the strands of the hair from the temples right over the ears. In the case of older girls the hair is often tied at the nape of the neck with one ribbon, and in the center of the braid with another ribbon. Hair combs for small girls are now threaded with ribbon and an arrangement which is generally becoming is to have the ribbon in these combs in a huge rosette at the left ear. Wire filets, woven with ribbons and flowers, are also worn in children's hair.

For school and every-day wear only dark colors are worn, but there is unlimited license in the selection of those for party and house wear. Indeed, the ribbon for these dress-up occasions cannot be too gay.

Dress Economy.

There are three dangerous rocks in the beginning of a season on which a woman who must practice economy is likely to founder; the first, cheap novelties; the second, advertised bargains which are sold cheap because discriminating buyers will not pay for wearing apparel a season old; and, third, hasty buying of the very new in fabrics, color or shape. New shades of standard colors are especially dangerous, unless the person selecting them is a prophet. Not very many are, and even astute tailors go slowly in purchasing until this or that dress form or color has "made good."

Never buy a tailor suit of last year's cut, because it is cheap, and because you think it can be recut at home and brought up to date. In nineteen cases out of twenty this cannot be done. If it were possible, tailors with their workrooms full of people at their disposal would themselves make changes and reap the benefit. When such garments are worked over at home they usually end in a home-made appearance, and, all counted, will cost more than a new season's gown.

One-Piece Gown.

There is no doubt that the one-piece gown has come to stay, and it certainly has many features to recommend it—its grace, its appropriateness for many occasions, its comfort and simplicity and the desirable way in which it can be combined with all sorts of wraps.

The jumper frock in which the blouse was a mere skeleton sleeveless affair has been succeeded by the blouse with sleeves, or at least half sleeves, of the gown material. The guimpe is still separate and adjustable, and sometimes the undersleeves match the guimpe, but the tendency is for the blouse with sleeves rather than the sleeveless overbody.

Sash Ribbons.

The growing girl who adores yards of colored ribbon wound around her waist is having her innings, for it is the fashion to wear sashes. The old-fashioned kind won't go that spreads out around the waist six inches deep and is tied into a wide set bow at the back. The new kinds are made of liberty satin ribbon, quite soft, and in all the wonderful shades that have been copied or created for this summer. They are twisted at the back into two loops with long pointed ends or finished at the left side with a rosette and two ends. Girls from 10 to 18 years old wear these. Little girls of 10 and 12 years old have a pretty trick this season of loosely twisting two-inch ribbon until it looks like a stick of peppermint candy, then putting it around the waist and finishing at back with a loose knot and several short ends.

You can depend upon Hunt's Perfect Baking Powder and Extracts to produce satisfactory results; not sometimes but always. They are pure and uniform.

THE COURTSHIP OF SAM

By George Bingham.

"Allie, I'm goin' to ask you once more to marry me. You've been fooling along, giving me just enough encouragement to leave some hope, but not enough to make me happy. I'm goin' to ask you once more and I want this to be 'yes' or 'no.' I'm ready to hear the answer. I was on trial once in the courthouse, and it was left with the jury. They had my future in their hands—my freedom was in the balance. I had courage and braced up ready to take the verdict and it came, and I was happy.

"You are the jury in this case. It is all left with you. I'm ready to hear your verdict. I've got a farm over yonder in that creek-bottom. There's a house there; it's well fitted up for me and you—not for me and somebody else. Say it, I'm ready to hear."

"Sam, I know you have waited for me and I couldn't decide, but now I have decided; I'll go and be your wife. I'll go."

"When will it be Allie? Tonight?"

"No, not tonight—but the next day after Thanksgiving."

Sam was happy and went to his home.

* * *

The morning was cold, and the big flakes of snow drifted through the keen air and settled on the frozen ground. It was Thanksgiving and the day was good for killing hogs.

Before sun-up Dock Hill built fires under the big kettles down in the horse lot and the neighbors came over to help him. The neighbor women wrapped shawls around their heads and flocked to the house to assist Dock's wife in preparing the big dinner.

That morning Sam went across the field to Dock Hill's. When he arrived there other men were standing around the roaring fire built between two large logs, upon which rested the scalding kettles filled with dirty-looking water. The boys piled old boards around the kettles and the flames were shifted from one direction to the other by the changeable currents of wind. The men stood close to the fire keeping out of the way of the smoky blazes.

Sam came through the patch of weeds and climbed the rail fence.

"We're waitin' fer you. The water's gettin' hot," some one called. Then this same person in a lower tone spoke to those around him: "I wonder if he's heered the news yet? I wonder how he's goin' to take it?"

"You tell him, Jim."

Sam came up from the fire and pulled his hands from his deep pockets and held them in the blaze until the hair was singed from the back of his rough hands.

"How's everybody this morning? You aiming to kill the old spotted sow today, Dock?"

"Yes, 'lowed I'd jest as well kill her, Sam. I've been feedin' her up the past week and she's in pretty good fix now."

Jim Carpenter spoke up. "Sam, have you heerd the news?"

"No, whut is it?"

"Why, didn't you heer about Allie and Ben Tillman running away last night?"

Sam never moved—never looked up. He only gazed deeper in the fire. His heart died there—wilted away. All that was good in him went out—was driven out when those words went into his ears. His face changed color, changed from a healthy red to a sickly pale.

But he raised his head and spoke to Dock across the fire. "How's yo' hawgs goin' to weigh out this year, Dock?"

"Purty fair, Sam."

Sam turned around and started away. "Dock, I don't reckon I can help you today. I'm not feelin' good."

Sam went toward his home over in the Cumberland river bottoms, and after he was out of hearing, one of the men spoke up: "Say, Sam don't seem to keer a durn if Allie did run off with that other feller, does he?"

The day's work began, and the squeals of the fat animals that were losing their life-blood resounded through the woods and over the hills and bottoms.

Sam Williams went to his home and saddled his horse. Slowly down the road he started with an ashy face and eyes that looked at nothing. His horse took him to the nearest village, where whisky was sold. Late that afternoon he came back. His horse was in a dead run, and its rider, with a long pistol in one hand, startled the people living in sight of the road with shots and wild whoops.

"Well—did—you—ev—er!" an old woman exclaimed. "If that ain't Sam Williams. Who'd a thought it? Never saw him that way before, and I kain't believe my old eyes now."

When the darkness of that day came the wind settled, the air grew softer and snow began falling.

Dock Hill opened his front door and looked out into the darkness. "It's just peppering down snow. I'll bet the woodpile is covered up in the morning. Don't believe I ever seed it snow so brisk. Hi, whut's that big light I see over to'ards Sam Williams' house? Gimme my hat, I'm gone; Sam's house is afire!"

Away across the hills toward the river bottom a huge light made a hole in the darkness.

Dock drew near to the house of Sam Williams and saw the red flames and spark-laden smoke rise up in the night, and heard the roar of the house falling. Nearly breathless he ran up, and there on the yard fence he saw Sam Williams sitting with a gun in his hand.

"Go back home, Dock. This is my house and I've got a right to do as I like. Go back, go back."

After the fire in the building was beyond the control of any one who might want to interfere, Sam took his horse from the stable, started a fire in the large hayloft and galloped away down the road on his steed. There are people in this community who heard the hoofbeats of Sam's horse as he swept down the road that night, but there are none who have seen him since.

PUTS VETO ON SKYSCRAPERS

New York to Stop the Erection of High Buildings.

New York, Oct. 8.—Decision was reached yesterday by the building code revision committee to stop the erection of skyscrapers in this city.

The committee tentatively approved the plan to restrict the height of buildings to 300 feet, unless the structures front on a park, square or plaza, in which case the total height is not to exceed 350 feet.

Chairman Thomas J. Brady made a report to this effect to Chairman Kenneally of the building committee of the board of aldermen.

The practical meaning of this decision is that none of the great skyscrapers erected in the last half decade could be duplicated if this restrictive clause is put in the revised building code.

Here are some of the buildings that could not have been erected under such a law:

Metropolitan Life, 700 feet.
Singer building, 612.
City Investing building, 434.
West Street building, 404.
Park Row building, 382.
Times building, 362 feet.

There are also a number of skyscrapers ready for construction that cannot be completed if the restriction is adopted.

CHEAP TRIPS TO NEW YORK.

Visitors Can Get Along on Less Money Than Formerly.

The tens of thousands of tourists who descend on New York every summer can be well lodged and fed here for less money than it would cost them in any other large city of the United States. This is the assertion of an experienced hotel man, says the New York Sun.

The average tourist, he says, pays a good deal less for good board and lodging than he would have paid ten years ago. This is as certain as that the wealthy visitor, who demands the best of everything, will have to pay more than formerly. This is one of the surprises New York hands out. Said the hotel man to a reporter:

"Nowhere on earth the year around are first-class hotel bills larger than right here in New York, and nowhere else on earth in midsummer can travelers find equally comfortable accommodations at such small cost. There are two reasons for this: The greater magnificence of our first-class hotels and the correspondingly greater expense of operating them, and the multiplication of medium-priced apartment hotels and of clean, comfortable restaurants which furnish good food at popular prices."

Today there are chains of popular priced restaurants all over the city from the Battery to Harlem and from river to river, including districts close to Fifth avenue and to all the thoroughfares most used by the tourist—restaurants hygienic in every detail. Ten years ago such places were few and far between.

It is estimated that in the territory bounded by Fifth and Seventh avenues and Forty-second and Forty-seventh streets there are 40,000 strangers during the months of July and August. This estimate is given by restaurant keepers and hotel men of that neighborhood, who say that there is no part of New York more popular with tourists, for the reason that it is close to most of the roof gardens and theaters, and also that it abounds in apartment hotels and low priced restaurants.

It goes without saying that the 40,000 visitors are not on hand all at once. The average length of the summer tourist's stay is two weeks. The bulk of the 40,000 have traveled on special excursion rates and they want to do New York at the smallest expense compatible with comfort. That is why they strike the apartment hotel belt instead of filling up the many boarding houses which are all but empty all summer long.

In winter the apartment hotels are pretty well filled up with regular tenants, but from the time when summer rates go into effect the clientele is made up mainly of transients. It is the summer rates which account partly for the presence of the 40,000 tourists in that neighborhood.

One thing the apartment hotel man does not do is to cut his restaurant prices, therefore many of the summer tourists resort to the cheaper restaurants of the class already referred to. It is only the rich visitors who care to spend much money for food, and rich visitors don't come much in summer and seldom in parties.

At one of the many plain, popular restaurants of the modern type, where customers sit democratically in rows, elbows touching, at stone topped long tables, the proprietor said that his business would fall off very much in summer were it not for the crowds of strangers that pour into New York. His place is in Broadway, and many of his customers, who are connected with the theaters and the concert halls, leave town when midsummer comes.

The summer tourists, one of the hotel men explained, have nothing whatever to do with the host of buyers who arrive here in August to lay in a stock of goods for their firms. Buyers are never short of cash. They always go to certain hotels and eat and drink at certain well known restaurants. The best is none too good for them. The rank and file of the tourists New York now gets in the summer are here more to see New York than to buy goods, and they include far more women than men—women for the most part who are not overburdened with riches.

The South sends an increasingly large number every year; women teachers from the Far West and from New England come in droves. Since the big bridges and the subway and the skyscrapers and Coney Island have been achieved not to have seen New York is considered almost a disgrace among educators. Said a young Western schoolma'am to a friend in the lobby of a hotel last August.:

"I have saved for two years to take this trip to New York, and it is worth it."

CAMPAIGN IN FULL SWING

The West Duluth Democratic Club Opens Headquarters.

Will Take an Active Part in the Coming Campaign.

The Democratic campaign in West Duluth has been opened up in earnest, and from now until the close of the campaign on Nov. 3 the political war will be waged at white heat.

The West Duluth Democratic club has engaged the old postoffice room next to the corner of Ramsey and Central avenues for its headquarters, and from this station will direct its operations.

One or more of the members of the club will be in charge of the headquarters from now on. In the evenings it will be the center of interest in Democratic circles.

On Monday evening at 7:45 o'clock sharp Governor John A. Johnson will open up his whirlwind tour of Northern Minnesota at Wade's hall. His speech will be a big event in the political history of West Duluth. From West Duluth he will go to the West end, where he will deliver an address on the same evening at the Lincoln park pavilion.

On Governor Johnson's departure from Wade's hall some of the speakers who will have already spoken in the West end will travel to West Duluth. Among these may be Martin Hughes of Hibbing, Dr. O. A. Oredson and Joseph Reynolds. These speakers have not been definitely decided upon, however.

The next three weeks promise to be most active in a political way for West Duluth, and there will be Democratic mass meetings in plenty.

CANDIDATES TO SPEAK.

Address Will be Made at Republican Meeting Saturday Evening.

The West Duluth Republican club has made arrangements for a meeting to be held on Saturday night in the West Duluth Commercial club rooms, in the Western State Bank building. The meeting is open to the general public, and will be devoted to the discussion of the vital issues involved in this campaign.

The following will address the meeting Saturday night: Richard F. Grant, candidate for the legislature from the Fiftieth district; Warren E. Greene, first assistant county attorney; Peter Borgstrom and George Mallory. Some of the candidates for county office will also be present and deliver short addresses.

NEW PASTOR ARRIVES.

Rev. C. W. Schevenius Will Take Up New Duties.

To take up the duties of the pastor of the Second Norwegian-Danish Methodist church of West Duluth, Rev. C. W. Schevenius, of Virginia, arrived in the city today. He will preach his first sermon from his new pulpit next Sunday.

Mr. Schevenius held his first pastorate in Virginia, where he gained considerable reputation from the manner in which he built up his parish. From a parish of practically nothing, when he took charge, it grew to have fifty mebers under his leadership. It now has a new building, entirely paid for. He delivered his farewell sermon last Sunday at Virginia. Though Mr. Schevenius received a call from Evanston, Ill., to become pastor there, he decided that a larger field is open to him here.

The Second church of West Duluth is in a prosperous state. It has about fifty-five members and has purchased a site for a new building, which will be be erected next summer. He left several weeks ago to resume his studies at the Northwestern University.

A Farewell Party.

The Young friends of Grace and Leland Hendricks gave a farewell party in their honor last evening, at the home of Miss Gertrude Smith. About thirty-five young people were present. Games furnished the amusement of the evening. The Misses Hendricks will leave Saturday for Portland, Or., where they will make their home.

Socialist Rally.

A Socialist rally will be held at Victor's hall Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The meeting will be addressed by Morris Kaplan, who promises to answer some of the questions that were asked at the meeting last Sunday. The meeting will be an open one, and ladies are invited to attend.

Entertained at "500."

Mr. and Mrs. George J. Mallory, were hosts last evening at a "500" party, given at their home, 432 North Fifty-fourth avenue west. Cards were played at five tables, and the favors were won by Mrs. L. A. Barnes and Dr. I. T. Burnside. The consolation prizes were awarded to Mr. and Mrs. J. Allyn Scott.

Reception This Evening.

This evening the congregation of the Westminster Presbyterian church will hold a farewell reception at the church, in honor of Rev. and Mrs. W. J. Lowrie, who will leave next week for Brainerd, where Mr. Lowrie has accepted the pastorate of the First Presbyterian church. A number of the ministers of the city have been asked to speak and there will be addresses by members of the congregation. There will also be a short musical program. Mr. Lowrie will preach his farewell sermon next Sunday.

West Duluth Briefs.

COPPER STOCKS ARE VERY DULL

The Share Market Sags During a Quiet Session.

This was a very dull day in the copper stock market. Trading was very light at the opening and did not liven up much at any stage. An easier tone prevailed. About noon the list became very soft, but rallied somewhat at the close.

North Butte opened at $82.25, went to $82.37½, off to $81, reacted to $81.50 and closed at $81 bid and $81.25 asked. Amalgamated opened at $74.87½, advanced to $75, declined to $73.87½, rallied to $74.37½ and closed at $74.12½ bid and $74.37½ asked.

Greene-Cananea opened at $10.25, declined to $10 and closed at $10 bid and $10.12½ asked. Calumet & Arizona opened at $116 and closed at $115 bid and $116 asked. Butte Coalition opened at $24.37½, declined to $24, rallied to $24.37½ and closed at $24.25 bid. Anaconda opened at $43.75, went off to $43.12½ and closed at $43.25 bid.

Superior & Pittsburg sold at $14.25, declined to $14.12½ and closed at $14.12½ and $14.37½ asked. Denn-Arizona at $3.62½ and closed at $3.50 bid and $3.75 asked. Mowitza at $2.87½ and closed at $2.25 bid and $2.75 asked. Calumet & Sonora at $9.12½ and closed at $8.75 bid and $9.25 asked. Butte & Superior at 87c and closed at 82c bid and 85c asked and Butte-Ballaklava at $7.50 and closed at $7.62½ bid and $7.75 asked.

Red Warrior was inactive and closed at $4.25 bid and $4.50 asked. Carman at $3.37½ bid and $3.62½ asked and Globe at $5.25 bid and $5.50 asked.

Black Mountain sold at $3.50 and $3.37½ and closed at $3.37½ bid and $3.62½ asked.

MUCH BETTING ON BALL GAME

Both Teams Have Many Loyal Supporters in Duluth.

This morning odds were offered on the Giants, but later many even money bets were made. The cigar stores were the center of the betting ring, and the supporters of both clubs were not in the least afraid to back their convictions.

There seems to be a trifle more Cub money in sight than that of people who support the Giants, but an unknown man posted in one of the cigar stores $300 on the New York club, and this was eagerly gobbled up in smaller lumps by the Chicago enthusiasts.

Never in this city has the race in the big leagues brought out so much baseball enthusiasm, and all that is heard on the streets is "Who's going to win the ball game?"

All sorts of stories of accidents to the players, most of them without foundation, are afloat on the street, and everyone seems to be keyed up as much over the contest as though it were being played off out at Athletic park.

BIRDS KILLED BY HAIL.

Columbus Dispatch: "A singular feature of the storm of last Sunday night on the East side," said George Fix of the State House force, "was the killing of birds by hailstones. The area over which the fall of hail was heavy was not large but the stones did pelt down in a way that threatened to break the slate in the roofs.

"The English sparrows, as everyone knows, choose thick foliage trees as their roosting places, depending on the leaves to protect them from the rain. But the leaves, no matter how thick, were no protection from those heavy hailstones in the vicinity of Miller avenue and Bryden road.

"In front of the Evangelical church there are a lot of thick covered maples, which have formed a choice roosting place for the sparrows this summer. There they caught it thick and heavy and the slaughter of the birds was fearful. Monday morning we counted 312 dead sparrows under those trees and no doubt many that were killed were swept into the sewer by the storm water that ran through the streets.

"Some suggested electricity as the cause, but there was no striking by lightning in the vicinity and the wires of telephone companies do not run through the trees. They must have been hit by the hailstones, knocked into the water and drowned."

"The proof is in the package." All the arguments in the world are outweighed by proof. You prove the matchless quality of "Salada" Tea the first time you drink it.

RULES OF ELECTION

Two More Registration Days Will be on Oct. 20 and 24.

Last Chance for Those Wishing to Cast a Ballot.

Every man, who did not vote at the recent primaries, and who wishes to cast his ballot at the general election, Nov. 3, must register Tuesday, Oct. 20, or Saturday, Oct. 24. The twenty-fourth is the last day upon which any one may register, and any one whose name is not on the books then will not be allowed to vote at the election.

Places of registration will be the same as at the primaries. In order to vote, a man must be a resident of the precinct in which he resides thirty days prior to the election. If he moves into a new precinct inside of thirty days before election, he loses his right to vote in both the old and the new precinct. To vote a man must also have been a resident of the state six months, and must have been a citizen of the United States at least three months.

For the protection of those who are unable to be home on registration days, a registration blank has been provided. They can be furnished one of these upon the application of a friend, and when properly filled out and mailed to the registration board it entitles the man in question to vote at the general election. In case a man has moved since the primaries he must register again, and secure a removal certificate from the judges of his old precinct.

Registration booths will be open Oct. 20 and Oct. 24 from 6 a. m. to 9 p. m. Leaders in all political parties in Duluth are anxious for a large registration, and every effort will be made to get the voters out, so that they may make their political choices known in November.

KILLED TRYING TO SEE GAME

New York Man Falls From Electric Light Pole.

New York, Oct. 8.—Henry T. McBride, supposed to be a New York fireman, was killed by falling from an electric light pole, from which place he was trying to get a view of the baseball game, today.

A GENTLE TOUCH.

Unknown Thief Robbed John Herman as He Slept.

According to John Herman, who this afternoon made complaint at police headquarters, he awoke this morning in the Liberty hotel, at Seventh avenue west and Superior street, to find that his pocket had been split open, probably with a knife, and that he had been relieved of $16 and his watch.

Herman says that he went to bed with his clothes on, and slept soundly until morning, when he found that his pocket had been cut open and his watch and money taken.

New Hardware Company.

Articles of incorporation were filed this morning with the clerk of the district court, by the Quayle-Larsen company. This company will deal in wholesale and retail hardware. The principal place of business will be in Duluth. The company is capitalized at $50,000, of 500 shares at $100 each.

The incorportors are William Quayle, president; James Wanless, vice president; John L. Larsen, secretary.

Married Man in Trouble.

A married man who permits any member of the family to take anything except Foley's Honey and Tar, for coughs, colds and lung trouble, is guilty of neglect. Nothing else is as good for all pulmonary troubles. The genuine Foley's Honey and Tar contains no opiates and is in a yellow package. Sold by all druggists.

WE WORK TOO HARD.

Lady Headfort, during her American tour, said in New York that she approved of international marriages.

"They correct us," she explained. "Our Englishmen work too little, your American men work too much, and the international marriage tends to bring about a happy mean.

"Your men do work too much, you know," said Lady Headfort. "I have an English friend who attended the funeral of one of your hardest workers, a multi-millionaire.

"My friend's wife said rather bitterly to him at the funeral:

"'How you have missed your opportunities, my love. Place yourself beside Mr. Ritch there. You are both of the same age. You both began life together. Yet you are a poor man, while he died a multi-millionaire.'

"'Yes,' said the English husband. There Ritch lies, dead of nervous prostration, without one single penny in his pocket; and here I stand, hale and hearty, with a wallet in my coat containing quite a hundred dollars.'"

MR. EVANS'S WRATH.

A Chicago art dealer was talking about the wrath of William T. Evans, the New York collector, upon whom so many bogus paintings have been imposed.

"He's awfully angry," said the art dealer, repressing a smile. "Some of his costliest pictures, you know, have turned out fakes. His blood boils when he thinks of the way he has been duped.

"He told me the other day that he could hardly understand the rage that possessed him against every petty little insignificant dealer that had cheated him. He said it was like the rage of a waiter that he had noted one afternoon at luncheon.

"'At luncheon, Mr. Evans said, he called his waiter's attention to a dead fly in some dish or other.

"'I'd give a $2 bill if I knew for certain that this was the fly that's been buzzing about my nose all the morning.'"

When Sir Robert Walpole retired to private life, time hung heavy on his hands and Horace exerted himself to amuse his father. One day he offered to read to him. "What will you read, child?" asked Sir Robert, wearily. Horace suggested history. "No, no," replied the veteran statesman, "not history, Horace; that can't be true."

WHEAT HAS GOOD BULGE

European Crisis, Heavy Buying Cause the Rise Here.

Flax is Up at the End of Session Here.

Duluth Board of Trade, Oct. 8.—Wheat had a big gain over yesterday during the session of the American markets today. The crisis in the Balkans proved a factor for higher prices again, the apprehension being not so much for the situation as it now stands but for the complications which might arise.

Heavy buying in Chicago was another stimulus. Commission houses there closely linked with Wall street were active bidders throughout the session.

Sentiment among the traders seemed to be, too, that the United States needed about all the wheat she has and that exports must necessarily be light from now on to insure ample supplies on this side of the Atlantic.

Liverpool closed ⅝d to ¾d higher, Antwerp ⅝c higher, Berlin 1¼c higher and Budapest ⅞c higher.

The December option closed 1¼c higher in Duluth and New York, 1½c higher in Chicago, 1c higher in Minneapolis, 1¼-⅜c higher in St. Louis, 1⅜-⅝c higher in Kansas City and ⅞c up in Winnipeg. The May option closed 1⅜c higher in Duluth and Chicago, 1c higher in Minneapolis, 1½c higher in New York, 1⅝c higher in St. Louis, 1⅜-⅝c higher in Kansas City and ¾c higher in Winnipeg.

December corn closed ⅜c higher in Chicago and ¼d to ½d higher in Liverpool. December oats closed ⅛-¼c higher in Chicago.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool:

"Wheat—Steadiness characterized the opening trading in wheat, at which time values were ⅜d higher. Offerings at this time were lighter and shorts were nervous, due to the firmness in American yesterday and the government statement, and the nearby month advanced an additional ⅛d. Later, however, selling to realize caused a decline. Pressure resulted from the steadiness in consols, cheaper La Plata offerings, increase in the world's visible and increased cargo arrivals, both off-coast and on passage. Crop conditions in both Argentine and Australia continue excellent, and reports from Russia are favorable. At midday, the market was dull and ⅛d higher than yesterday.

"Corn was quiet and unchanged. The break in provisions and the quiet demand helped to establish an easier undertone."

Primary receipts of wheat were 1,612,000 bus., last year 959,000 bus. Shipments 721,000 bus., last year 879,000 bus. Clearances of wheat and flour were 454,000 bus.

Primary receipts of corn were 311,000 bus., last year 624,000 bus. Shipments 138,000 bus., last year 650,000 bus. Clearances of corn were 145 bus.

Wheat was active in the Duluth market, and prices were up steadily as the bullish sentiment grew. December wheat opened ⅛c higher at $1.01¼, advanced to $1.02⅜ to ⅝, declined to $1.02¼ and closed there, a gain of 1¼c over yesterday. May wheat opened ⅝c higher at $1.05½, advanced to $1.06⅜, declined to $1.06¼ and closed there, a gain of 1⅜c over yesterday.

Durum wheat closed 1⅝c higher and cash spring wheat was selling on a basis og 1½c over December for No. 1 Northern.

Flax was active and closed firmer. December flax opened ¼c higher at $1.22⅝, declined to $1.22½, rallied to $1.23¾ and closed at $1.23½, a gain of 1c over yesterday. November flax opened unchanged at $1.23, went off to $1.22¾, rallied to $1.24½, declined to $1.23⅝ and closed at $1.23⅞, a gain of ⅞c over yesterday. December flax opened ⅜c lower at $1.21, advanced to $1.22⅞ and closed there, a gain of 1¼c over yesterday. May flax opened unchanged at $1.26, advanced to $1.27¼ and closed there, a gain of 1¼c over yesterday.

Oats closed ⅛c higher and other coarse grains unchanged.

Following were the closing prices:

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Brisk Demand by the Commission Houses Advances Wheat Prices.

Chicago, Oct. .—Wheat prices on the local exchange advanced 1c during early trading today as a result of brisk demand by several leading commission houses. The buying was based mainly on the continued dry weather in the Southwest. The advance carried the December delivery past the dollar mark, several sales being made at $1.00⅛. The opening on December was ⅛c lower to ⅛c higher, at 99¼c to 99⅜c. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 1,099 cars against 1,403 cars last week and 646 cars a year ago.

Prices advanced still further later in the day, December selling up to $1.01⅛. Reports of an active demand for cash wheat at Duluth and for flour at Minneapolis were factors. The market closed strong with prices up 1⅜@1½c, with December $1.00⅝.

The government report had a bullish effect on the corn market, prices at the start being ⅛@⅜c to ⅝@⅞c higher than the previous close. Further advances of about ⅛c were made early in the day, December selling up to 65¼c after opening at 64⅜c to 65c. Offerings in the pit were light. Local receipts were 86 cars, with 23 of contract grade.

The high point for December was 65⅝c. The market was strong all day, chiefly because of the sharp advance in wheat. At the close prices were up ¼@⅝c, with December at 64⅞@65c.

Oats were firm because of lively buying brought out by the government report. The strength of wheat and corn also had a bullish influence. December opened ⅛c higher at 49¼c and sold up to 49½c. Local receipts were 213 cars.

Provisions were firm despite liberal receipts of live hogs at western packing centers. The strength of wheat and corn induced considerable buing outsiders. The poor quality of arrivals was also a bullish factor. October ribs were an exception to the rule, being weak on realizing sales.

Close: Wheat—October, 99⅝c; December, $1.00¾c; May, $1.03½; July, 97⅜@⅝c. Corn—October, ——; May, 64½@⅝c; December, 64⅞@65c; July, July, 63⅜c. Oats—December, 49¼@⅝c; May, 51⅞@½c; July, 47⅛c. ## HEARD ON THE FLOOR.

Someone has asked why December durum is so far below the other options in that grain, and the cash market for it. The explanation is here:

The fellow who buys December durum now or at any time until the deliveries are made, must carry the grain over until the reopening of navigation next spring, and pay all of the storage charges on it.

The market for durum wheat lies in the East and abroad, and it is all shipped Eastward during the months that navigation is open. Deliveries of December durum are not made until after navigation has closed and the fellow who buys it carries it on his hands until the waterway to the East reopens in the spring and a demand for it comes from that direction.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Snap to Other Marts is Felt—Liverpool Strong.

Minneapolis, Oct. 8.—Liverpool was fairly strong and ¾d higher early, and there was a snap to the markets everywhere and a Liverpool close at ⅝@⅞d higher. The increase in local stocks was 400,000 since yesterday making it 2,000,000 for five days, the total now being 7,676,000. Minneapolis got 603 cars against only 171, Duluth, 414 against 358; Winnipeg, 285 against 234. Trade was larger. Shorts covered on expectation of a war scare the bullish interpretation given the government report of yesterday and estimated Argentina shipments of only 800,000 bushels also the trade bulletin summary showing that despite an increase of 27,000,000 bushels in September, world's wheat stocks are still below last year with 149,000,000 against 103,000,000. December opened $1.01⅝@⅞; high, $1.02⅝@⅜; low, $1.01⅝; close, $1.02⅜. Old December closed at $1.02⅜. May opened at $1.07⅝@⅜; high, 1.06¾@⅞; low, $1.05⅝; close, $1.06⅜.

Cash demand showed no abatement and there was milling and elevator inquiry and sales at 2c over for No. 1 northern and full December price for No. 2. Close: No. 1 northern spot or to arrive, $1.4⅜; No. 2 northern spot, $1.02⅝-¾; to arrive, $1.02⅝; No. 3 wheat, 97c@1.01.

No. 3 yellow corn, 74½c.

No. 3 white oats, 46¾c.

No. 2 rye, 69⅜@72½c.

Barley receipts were 79 cars against 151 last year; shipments, 135. The market was 1c higher, partly on light receipts and partly on strength in oats. Close, 51@53c.

Flax receipts were 62 cars; shipments, 23. Sales were at ⅜c under Duluth October. Close, $1.22¾.

Millstuffs were weak and lower. Eastern demand lighter and production heavy. Bran in bulk, $17.50@18.00.

Flour was close to a point of advancing, but was still quoted unchanged, although much stronger in tone in line with wheat. On the other hand demand is not quite so good as last week, both foreign and domestic buyers holding off a little. Shipments, 57,736 barrels. First patents, $5.65@5.80; second patents, $5.50@5.65; first clears, $4.45@4.55; second clears, $3.50@3.60.

OUR MAGAZINE WRITERS.

"It is around the Fourth of July," said Mark Twain at a recent dinner, "that the magazine editors get their Christmas stories done.

"I dropped into a magazine office the other day. The editor, in the midst of our chat, said: 'Excuse me a moment.' Then he turned to an assistant.

"'Milton,' he said, 'have you got the Christmas stories started?'

"'Oh, yes, sir; I've seen to that,' said Milton.

"'Yes, indeed,' said Milton. 'They're cramming in enthusiasm and local color in gobs and hunks. They've hired a room in an ice house, you know, and I send the office boy twice a day to jingle a set of sleigh bells under their window.'"

WEAKNESS IN STOCKS

Liquidation in Higher Priced Stocks and Decline Steady.

Large Selling Toward the Last and Close Was Irregular.

New York, Oct. 8.—Opening prices of stocks today were adjusted to the levels established earlier in London, where the troubled political outlook again caused weakness in the market. Northern Pacific ran off 1¾, Louisville & Nashville 1½, Canadian Pacific and Chesapeake & Ohio 1⅜, Consolidated Gas 1¼ and Southern Pacific, Atchison, St. Paul, Reading, Amalgamated Copper and American Smelting 1. The average losses in the rest of the list ran to substantial fractions.

Indications of support and the willingness of the short interests to cover at the opening prices caused a sharp fractional rally. Later reaction in which Union Pacific went to 163, caused the market to sag back again to about the first prices, after which it became steadier and very dull. Erie first preferred receded 1½, the second preferred 1 and Southern Pacific preferred 2 points.

The activity came in spurts with intervals of extreme dullness. Enormous blocks of Union Pacific and Reading came out, breaking the price 2 points. St. Paul, Canadian Pacific, Amalgamated Copper and American Smelting 1½, Rock Island preferred, Missouri Pacific, Great Northern preferred and Erie 1¼, and many prominent stocks a point. American Snuff sold at an advance of 5¼ and Chicago & Alton 1. Bonds were irregular.

Liquidation was unrestrained among the higher priced railroad stocks and there was a steady fall in values. While the railroad list was the brunt of the selling round amounts of various specialties were also let go at material declines. Union Pacific and St. Paul ruled 3 points below yesterday's closing, Reading 2¾, Rock Island preferred and American Smelting 2½, Southern Pacific 2¾ and Northern Pacific 2¼.

Following a curtailment of the selling pressure prices improved slightly, but the advantage was not long held. A decline of 2 points in Amalgamated Copper unsettled the market afresh.

The market closed irregularly weak. There were some desultory recoveries late in the day after business had ended in foreign markets. There was some large selling towards the last.

AN APT REPLY.

Senator La Follette, discussing the currency bill, said of a certain passage:

"That needs delicate handling. It is like the position of the young man on his honeymoon. This young man's honeymoon was peculiar because, while still in mourning, he had married his deceased wife's sister. A friend of his, a chap he had not seen for seven years, accosted him on the honeymoon in a Niagara restaurant. The friend, after being introduced to the bride, said sympathetically:

"'But who are you in mour

RESULT IN MINNESOTA

Taft and Johnson Picked by Political Prophets to Win.

Do Not Agree as to Size of the Pluralities.

Indianapolis, Oct. 8.—James P. Hornaday, staff correspondent of the News, says in a special from St. Paul: One finds the leading politicians in this state, both Republicans and Democrats, in substantial accord on two things.

1. John A. Johnson, Democrat, will be re-elected governor.

2. William H. Taft will carry the state.

The two political camps do not agree when it comes to discussing the size of the plurality each man is likely to receive. Condensed, the most reliable Republican view is this:

Taft will carry the state by about 50,000 plurality.

Johnson will be re-elected by a small plurality, possibly under 20,000.

Taft will probably carry the state by about 25,000, but we would not be surprised if it fell to 12,000 or 15,000.

Johnson's plurality will not be less than 40,000. It may go a good deal higher.

Prophets Know Conditions.

These summerized views represent the judgment of five or six careful-minded men representing each side of the contest, some of them connected with the management or the campaign, other careful observers who have no part in the management. They are the views expressed by men who know what the actual conditions are, and men who would not be thus frank unless they understood their names were not to be mentioned. Every Republican associated with the management of the campaign admits frankly in private that all the indications point to the re-election of Governor Johnson. Indeed, there are indications that but little effort is to be wasted in attempting to elect Jacob Jacobson, the Republican nominee.

The claims of each party this year when compared with the election results of the last few years, are exceedingly interesting. In 1896 McKinley's plurality in the state was 53,768. In 1900 McKinley increased his plurality to 77,560. Four years ago Roosevelt carried the state by 161,464. Running the same year Roosevelt ran, Mr. Johnson, a Democrat, was elected governor by 6,352 plurality. Two years ago he increased his plurality to 76,623.

Reasons For the Slump.

Accepting as correct the view of the Republican leaders, that the Republican national ticket will do well if it receives a plurality of 40,000 or 50,000 this year, one naturally looks about to get at, if possible, the reasons for a possible slump of 110,000 or 115,000 in the Republican plurality for president.

1. The Democratic national platform suits many Republicans better than the platform their own party made at Chicago.

2. Minnesota Republicans are ardent tariff reformers and they get no hope from the declared intention of the Republicans so to revise the tariff as to guarantee the manufacturers a "reasonable profit."

3. The people of the state are very generally in favor of the guaranty of bank deposits.

4. The sentiment in favor of making campaign contributions public before election prevails everywhere in the state.

5. The Democrats are united and, being in an enthusiastic frame of mind, are financing the campaign more successfully than are the Republicans.

What Test Polls Show.

The whole effort of the Republican state organization is to obtain for Mr. Taft a plurality that will approach that of Mr. McKinley in 1896 or in 1900. Both state organizations have been busy taking test polls the last few weeks. The returns indicate that Johnson will run almost as well as he did two years ago, while Taft's vote will fall behind that received by McKinley in 1896.

A few men know of one rather comprehensive test which showed a gain for Bryan of 121 per cent over the Parker vote of four years ago. But even such a remargable gain as this would give Taft the state by about 7,000.

The Republicans are trying to keep the bank guaranty issue out of the campaign. Some of them say it is true that 90 per cent of the people would favor the bank guaranty idea if it came up as a nonpartisan measure. The program of the Republicans is to try to convince the voters that the whole subject should be treated in a nonpartisan way; that it should not be made an issue in the campaign.

Mr. Taft was not diplomatic in choosing St. Paul as the place for an attack on the bank guaranty proposition. His speech did not take well at all. Many of the prominent Republicans were embarrassed, among them Senator Knute Nelson, who offered an amendment to the Aldrich bill in the senate last winter providing for the guaranty of deposits, the amendment for which Senator La Follette worked and voted. And yet most fair-minded men here say they believe Mr. Taft did himself some good here by persuading the party leaders to get to work. Up until the time he came through nothing had been done.

Crowd Paid to Hear Debs.

The meeting here of Eugene V. Debs, the Socialist candidate, is much talked about. He was here the same week Taft was here, and spoke in the same hall Taft spoke in to an audience that was as large as the one that came out to hear the Republican nominee; and it cost every man, woman and child who heard Debs 25 cents.

The Republicans in their effort to hold Taft's plurality in the state at 40,000 or 50,000, have a good many cross currents to contend with. For instance, there was organized at the University of Minnesota, over in Minneapolis, this week a Bryan Republican club of over 200 members, all voters. The young men who have joined the club assert that they are Republicans, expect to continue to be Republicans, but intend to vote for Bryan because the Democratic platform meets their views on the public questions.

At Republican state headquarters they tell you the club is made up of young men who are "tinged with Socialism."

The fact seems to be that Senator La Follette, or rather the La Follette idea is responsible for the club. The Wisconsin senator has many followers in the state, who, as a rule, are waiting to see what kind of speeches he will make for Taft before deciding how they will vote. The great body of Minnesota Republicans favored the amendments to the Republican national platform proposed by Senator La Follette.

One of the Republicans of first rank in the state said to the correspondent of the News: "Mr. Taft was much stronger in this state before the Chicago convention than he has been at any time since. The platform was a positive disappointment, and most of our troubles at this time are traceable to it. Taft is not our trouble at all. It is the party's platform."

Why Johnson is Popular.

Now something more as to why the re-election of Governor Johnson seems probable: In the first place he has made a good governor. The state is proud of him. On every occasion when he has been called upon to represent it at home or away from home he has reflected great credit on the office. Mr. Jacobson does not seem to measure up to the Johnson standard. Johnson is a Swede, and Jacobson is a Norwegian Johnson, so the politicians say, will get the whole of the Swedish vote and will divide the Norwegian vote with Jacobson. And the politicians also say that whatever the loss Johnson may sustain among the Norwegians will be more than made up by the votes of German Republicans.

Can on Also An Issue.

Speaker Cannon is an issue in the state. Congressman J. Adam Bede, of the Eighth district, was defeated for renomination with Cannonism as the issue. Bede refused to go back on a friend; he told his constituents he was Mr. Cannon's friend, and they retired him. C. B. Miller, who defeated him, and who has no Democratic opposition, publicly promised the people of the district to vote against Cannon for re-election as speaker. In the Second district James T. McCleary, who lost out two years ago because of his standpatism on the tariff, has been renominated. He is now justifying his position on the tariff by saying the Republican party has come to his position by declaring for a tariff that will guarantee manufacturers a "reasonable profit."

W. S. Hammond, the Democrat who defeated him two years ago, is his opponent again, and no one seems to care to predict what the outcome will be.

James A. Tawney, of the First district, chairman of the committee on appropriations, another vigorous defender of Mr. Cannon, had to fight for renomination, and the anti-Cannon people are trying to prevent his re-election. Andrew French, who was the Democratic candidate two years ago, is his competitor again. If the Democrats make any congressional gains in the state, they will be in the McCleary and Tawney districts. The other Republican congressional nominees are fighting shy of the Cannon issue. They never were close to Cannon's sanctuary in the house, and evidently are glad of it.

Roosevelt's Letter Writing.

Everywhere up through Wisconsin and Minnesota the politicians are discussing the effect of President Roosevelt's entrance into the campaign as a letter writer and general manager. Strange as it may seem, the Republicans almost universally say he should keep out; should cease using his high office for partisan political purposes, while the Democrats, or many of them, think that while the president has shown bad taste, he has probably done the party some good by arousing interest in the campaign.

GO TO THE RESCUE

Don't Wait till it's Too Late—Follow the Example of a Duluth Citizen.

Rescue the aching back.

If it keeps on aching, trouble comes. Backache is kidney ache.

If you neglect the kidney's warning,

Look out for urinary trouble—diabetes.

Moses Leckey, flagman on the Northern Pacific railroad, living at Seventy-first avenue west, West Duluth, Minn., says: "A friend did me a great kindness when he recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to me. He had used them with marked benefit, and on his recommendation I got a box and began treating a bad case of backache and kidney disorder, which had troubled me severely all last winter. There was an acute pain in my back and loins, and the irregularity of the kidney secretions was most annoying. It prevented sleep at night. The first box almost rid me of the trouble, but I continued using them until I had taken two boxes, then not a trace or symptom of of the trouble remained. I used Doan's Ointment for itching hemorrhoids with equally fine results, and it is needless to say that I am an earnest indorser of both remedies."

For sale by all dealers. Price, 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

HANCOCK'S BONDS UNPOPULAR

City May Have to Raise Interest to Get a Bid.

Hancock, Mich., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hancock's issue of 5 per cent. sewer bonds are a drug on the market. City Clerk Macdonald reported Monday evening that he had mailed the advertisement together with a statement of the city's financial condition to fifteen bonding houses, and that he had not received a single reply.

He informed the council that unless the bonds are sold soon the work on the West Hancock sewers, which Phil Sheridan is pushing rapidly, must be stopped, as the city clerk will not draw orders upon funds which are depleted. The clerk was of the opinion that the low rate of interest and the fact that the bonds mature in four years made them undesirable to average bonding companies, and suggested that the council either raise the rate of interest or consult some local bank with a view to disposing of the issue. The mayor, city clerk and city attorney were instructed by the council to call upon Hancock banking houses and attempt to induce them to take up the bonds. Between thirty-five and forty men are employed by Mr. Sheridan on th sewer work, and they will be clamoring for their money. The company which furnished the tile already is demanding payment of its bill.

THE BEST WAY TO SAVE MONEY

Read The Herald's "Market Basket" Tomorrow Night.

If you are looking for something good for that Sunday dinner—if you are looking for the best place to do your Saturday shopping and lay in a stock of eatables for next week, it will pay you to watch for The Herald's Market Basket tomorrow night. The city's most reliable grocers and meat dealers will be represented there, all of them with some special inducements for the Saturday buying. There will be no page in tomorrow night's Herald that will be of greater interest to the housewives of Duluth. Thousands of women and men, too, read The Herald's Market Basket every Friday for the Saturday trading. Everybody wants to know where they can make their money go the farthest and secure the best eatables for the lowest prices. The Market Basket tells you where this can be done. Duluth's progressive dealers are wide awake to this fact and they are preparing to give the public a splendid lot of inducements in tomorrow night's Herald. Watch for it.

SAYS CHARGES ARE UNJUSTIFIED

Council Committee Makes Inspection of City's Pavements.

The council committee on streets, alleys and sidewalks, City Engineer McGilvray, Contractor Hugh Steele, and two street inspectors from the city engineer's department, yesterday afternoon made an inspection of the pavements complained of by the special committee of the public affairs committee.

City Clerk Cheadle had notified the Commercial club that the inspection was to blame, but no one from that organization was along.

It is claimed the charges brought by the public affairs committee were found to be unjustified. The party went over the pavements criticised on West Superior street, Tioga street, Robinson street and London road, and while some of these pavements were not in what might be called the best of repair, it is claimed the condition was not due to any of the city officials.

The council committee will hold a special meeting in the near future, and the Commercial club committee will be asked to be on hand to give reasons for the charges made.

How to Cure a Cold.

Be as careful as you can, you will occasionally take cold, and when you do, get a medicine of known reliability, one that has an established reputation and that is certain to effect a quick cure. Such a medicine is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It has gained a world-wide reputation by its remarkable cures of this most common ailment, and can always be depended upon. It acts on nature's plan, relieves the lungs, aids expectoration, opens the secretions and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. For sale by all druggists.

ADDITION TO HOSPITAL.

State Institution at Fergus Falls to be Enlarged.

Fergus Falls, Minn., Oct. 8.—The state board of control has awarded the contract for the construction of the new detention wing at the state hospital here to John Lauritzen, a Fergus Falls contractor. The figure at which the award was made is $55,968.80.

When completed the addition will be used for the confinement and treatment of patients whose return to a normal condition seems probable under a short period of treatment. The capacity will be about sixty.

GUILTY OF MURDER.

Slayers of Ranchman and Daughter Are Found Guilty.

Glasgow, Mont., Oct. 8.—In the case of Milo Long for the murder of John Hayes and his 11-year-old daughter, Jeanette, near Culbertson in this county, July 8, last, the jury brought in a verdict of murder in the second degree and fixed the penalty at thirteen years in the state penitentiary.

In the case of Walter Long a verdict of murder in the second degree was brought in but the penalty was left to the court. Some members of the Walter Long jury were in favor of thirty years and some the limit, and for that reason sentence was left to the court.

Fourteen other members of the Hayes murder case are to be tried later.

Rob Wisconsin Postoffice.

Brandon, Wis., Oct. 8.—The postoffice was broken into Tuesday night and $200 in currency and stamps was taken. The robbers blew up the safe. It is thought that the same gang which robbed the bank at Ladysmith a week ago and which blew the safe at the Warrens bank Friday night had a hand in the robbery.

AN ADDITION TO THE FUND

The Total Received Locally to Date is $70,362.75.

H. M. Peyton of the American Exchange bank, treasurer of the fire relief commission appointed by Governor Johnson, this morning received a check for $20,000 from the Minneapolis fund of $47,000 raised for the range sufferers.

This makes the total amount received to date in Duluth, $70,362.75. A considerable fund was raised in St. Paul, but the commission has as yet received no part of it, although it is understood that the fund is to be drawn on if needed.

Relief work is still going along systematically and in good shape. Mayor Haven, chairman of the commission, this morning left for Chisholm to get in touch with the relief work there. He probably will return to Duluth Saturday afternoon. Eugene T. Lies, who has charge of the Associated Charities in Minneapolis, is still on the ground, and his work is of very great help to the commission. He is remaining in the burned-over district at the request of Mayor Haven, who also was responsible for Lies' visit to the north shore last week.

New buildings are being daily started in Chisholm, and the town is fast taking on the appearance of a booming little city. The relief commission is sending forward lumber and other supplies as fast as they can be secured, and it is believed all the stricken families will be comfortably housed before winter. The work is progressing rapidly and methodically.

Are You Only Half Alive?

People with kidney trouble are so weak and exhausted that they are only half alive. Foley's Kidney Remedy makes healthy kidneys, restores lost vitality, and weak, delicate people are restored to health. Refuse any but Foley's. Sold by all druggists.

BLACKHANDER CONVICTED.

Railroad Laborer Had Scheme to "Raise the Wind."

Clinton, Iowa, Oct. 8.—Alfred Paul, whose home is said to be in New Hampshire, has been found guilty by a Clinton county jury of the crime of attempted extortion by threats, and will be sentenced by Judge House of Jackson county.

The charge against Paul and his arrest followed a "blackhand" letter received by A. G. Smith, a Clinton banker, in which he was threatened with death if he did not place in a certain spot the sum of $500 in currency. The recipient of the letter informed the police, who advised him to place a dummy roll of bills there. The officers had surrounded the spot, and several hours after the fake package, was placed in the alley, a man entered and picked it up. The police closed in and arrested him. He proved to be Alfred Paul, who had been engaged with a crew of "sand hogs," or pressure men, working on the new bridge of the Chicago & Northwestern.

The guilt of Paul was established largely through his handwriting and peculiar spelling of words, which were identical with the letter received by the Clinton banker, experts on the stand and so testifying.

WELCH FUNERAL.

Services for Grain Man Held at the Masonic Temple.

Funeral services for Stephen T. Welch, whose death occurred Tuesday night, were held this afternoon at the family residence, 1620 East Third street, and at the Masonic Temple.

The brief services at the residence were conducted by Rev. Roderick J. Mooney, of St. Luke's Episcopal church, after which the remains were taken to the temple, where Masonic services were held. Members of the Masonic fraternity and the Duluth lodge of Elks were present in large numbers.

The interment will take place at Forest Hill cemetery.

SUPERIOR NEWS

Held for Trial.

After a preliminary hearing in the municipal court yesterday, Gus Jackson and Charles Lesben, charged with robbing the home of Omni Kaleston of $260 on Oct. 1, were remanded to the county jail to await trial, in default of $500 bail each.

Two Wives Granted Divorce.

Two decrees of divorce were handed down yesterday in the superior court, intoxication, non-support and cruel and inhuman treatment being the grounds on which they were granted. The cases were Mrs. Thomas Andrews against Thomas Andrews and Mrs. Nellie Burns against James P. Burns.

Masons Off for Madison.

A large delegation of the Superior commandery of Knights Templar will leave Monday for Madison, where they will attend the annual meeting of the state commandery, Oct. 13 and 14, which will be a joint celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the formation of the grand commandery of Wisconsin and the Robert McCoy commandery of Madison.

Want Dollars for Bryan.

In a circular letter issued by C. N. O'Hare, president of the Douglas County Bryan club, yesterday, an appeal is made to the Democrats of the county for small donations to help carry along the campaign. All money received will be disbursed for the purpose of taking care of the speakers sent to Superior and for the circulation of literature.

THE BEST WAY TO SAVE MONEY

Read The Herald's "Market Basket" Tomorrow Night.

If you are looking for something good for that Sunday dinner—if you are looking for the best place to do your Saturday shopping and lay in a stock of eatables for next week, it will pay you to watch for The Herald's Market Basket tomorrow night. The city's most reliable grocers and meat dealers will be represented there, all of them with some special inducements for the Saturday buying. There will be no page in tomorrow night's Herald that will be of greater interest to the housewives of Duluth. Thousands of women, and men, too, read The Herald's Market Basket every Friday for the Saturday trading. Everybody wants to know where they can make their money go the farthest and secure the best eatables for the lowest prices. The Market Basket tells you where this can be done. Duluth's progressive dealers are wide awake to this fact and they are preparing to give the public a splendid lot of inducements in tomorrow night's Herald. Watch for it.

Council Committee Makes Inspection of City's Pavements.

The council committee on streets, alleys and sidewalks, City Engineer McGilvray, Contractor Hugh Steele, and two street inspectors from the city engineer's department, yesterday afternoon made an inspection of the pavements complained of by the special committee of the public affairs committee.

City Clerk Cheadle had notified the Commercial club that the inspection was to blame, but no one from that organization was along.

It is claimed the charges brought by the public affairs committee were found to be unjustified. The party went over the pavements criticised on West Superior street, Tioga street, Robinson street and London road, and while some of these pavements were not in what might be called the best of repair, it is claimed the condition was not due to any of the city officials.

The council committee will hold a special meeting in the near future, and the Commercial club committee will be asked to be on hand to give reasons for the charges made.

How to Cure a Cold.

Be as careful as you can, you will occasionally take cold, and when you do, get a medicine of known reliability, one that has an established reputation and that is certain to effect a quick cure. Such a medicine is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It has gained a world-wide reputation by its remarkable cures of this most common ailment, and can always be depended upon. It acts on nature's plan, relieves the lungs, aids expectoration, opens the secretions and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. For sale by all druggists.

ADDITION TO HOSPITAL.

State Institution st Fergus Falls to be Enlarged.

Fergus Falls, Minn., Oct. 8.—The state board of control has awarded the contract for the construction of the new detention wing at the state hospital here to John Lauritzen, a Fergus Falls contractor. The figure at which the award was made is $55,968.80.

When completed the addition will be used for the confinement and treatment of patients whose return to a normal condition seems probable under a short period of treatment. The capacity will be about sixty.

GUILTY OF MURDER.

Slayers of Ranchman and Daughter Are Found Guilty.

Glasgow, Mont., Oct. 8.—In the case of Milo Long for the murder of John Hayes and his 11-year-old daughter, Jeanette, near Culbertson in this county, July 8, last, the jury brought in a verdict of murder in the second degree and fixed the penalty at thirteen years in the state penitentiary.

In the case of Walter Long a verdict of murder in the second degree was brought in but the penalty was left to the court. Some members of the Walter Long jury were in favor of thirty years and some the limit, and for that reason sentence was left to the court.

Fourteen other members of the Hayes murder case are to be tried later.

Rob Wisconsin Postoffice.

Brandon, Wis., Oct. 8.—The postoffice was broken into Tuesday night and $200 in currency and stamps was taken. The robbers blew up the safe. It is thought that the same gang which robbed the bank at Ladysmith a week ago and which blew the safe at the Warrens bank Friday night had a hand in the robbery.

AN ADDITION TO THE FUND

The Total Received Locally to Date is $70,362.75.

H. M. Peyton of the American Exchange bank, treasurer of the fire relief commission appointed by Governor Johnson, this morning received a check for $20,000 from the Minneapolis fund of $47,000 raised for the range sufferers.

This makes the total amount received to date in Duluth, $70,362.75. A considerable fund was raised in St. Paul, but the commission has as yet received no part of it, although it is understood that the fund is to be drawn on if needed.

Relief work is still going along systematically and in good shape. Mayor Haven, chairman of the commission, this morning left for Chisholm to get in touch with the relief work there. He probably will return to Duluth Saturday afternoon. Eugene T. Lies, who has charge of the Associated Charities in Minneapolis, is still on the ground, and his work is of very great help to the commission. He is remaining in the burned-over district at the request of Mayor Haven, who also was responsible for Lies' visit to the north shore last week.

New buildings are being daily started in Chisholm, and the town is fast taking on the appearance of a booming little city. The relief commission is sending forward lumber and other supplies as fast as they can be secured, and it is believed all the stricken families will be comfortably housed before winter. The work is progressing rapidly and methodically.

People with kidney trouble are so weak and exhausted that they are only half alive. Foley's Kidney Remedy makes healthy kidneys, restores lost vitality, and weak, delicate people are restored to health. Refuse any but Foley's. Sold by all druggists.

BLACKHANDER CONVICTED.

Railroad Laborer Had Scheme to "Raise the Wind."

Clinton, Iowa, Oct. 8.—Alfred Paul, whose home is said to be in New Hampshire, has been found guilty by a Clinton county jury of the crime of attempted extortion by threats, and will be sentenced by Judge House of Jackson county.

The charge against Paul and his arrest followed a "blackhand" letter received by A. G. Smith, a Clinton banker, in which he was threatened with death if he did not place in a certain spot the sum of $500 in currency. The recipient of the letter informed the police, who advised him to place a dummy roll of bills there. The officers had surrounded the spot, and several hours after the fake package, was placed in the alley, a man entered and picked it up. The police closed in and arrested him. He proved to be Alfred Paul, who had been engaged with a crew of "sand hogs," or pressure men, working on the new bridge of the Chicago & Northwestern.

The guilt of Paul was established largely through his handwriting and peculiar spelling of words, which were identical with the letter received by the Clinton banker, experts on the stand and so testifying.

WELCH FUNERAL.

Services for Grain Man Held at the Masonic Temple.

Funeral services for Stephen T. Welch, whose death occurred Tuesday night, were held this afternoon at the family residence, 1620 East Third street, and at the Masonic Temple.

The brief services at the residence were conducted by Rev. Roderick J. Mooney, of St. Luke's Episcopal church, after which the remains were taken to the temple, where Masonic services were held. Members of the Masonic fraternity and the Duluth lodge of Elks were present in large numbers.

The interment will take place at Forest Hill cemetery.

SUPERIOR NEWS

Held for Trial.

After a preliminary hearing in the municipal court yesterday, Gus Jackson and Charles Lesben, charged with robbing the home of Omni Kalesten of $260 on Oct. 1, were remanded to the county jail to await trial, in default of $600 bail each.

Two Wives Granted Divorce.

Two decrees of divorce were handed down yesterday in the superior court, intoxication, non-support and cruel and inhuman treatment being the grounds on which they were granted. The cases were Mrs. Thomas Andrews against Thomas Andrews and Mrs. Nellie Burns against James P. Burns.

Masons Off for Madison.

A large delegation of the Superior commandery of Knights Templar will leave Monday for Madison, where they will attend the annual meeting of the state commandery, Oct. 13 and 14, which will be a joint celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the formation of the grand commandery of Wisconsin and the Robert McCoy commandery of Madison.

Want Dollars for Bryan.

In a circular letter issued by C. N. O'Hare, president of the Douglas County Bryan club, yesterday, an appeal is made to the Democrats of the county for small donations to help carry along the campaign. All money received will be disbursed for the purpose of taking care of the speakers sent to Superior and for the circulation of literature.

PASSED CENTURY MARK.

Balatan, Minn., Oct. 8.—John Shequin, living five miles east of here in Soden township, Tuesday celebrated his one hundredth birthday anniversary. His wife is 90 years old. They live alone and keep house.

They were married on Sept. 20, 1838, and on Sept. 20 last celebrated their seventieth wedding anniversary. Last summer Mr. Shequin did considerable work in his garden.

Fans on Hand Early to Get Seats for the Game.

PULLIAM HAS GOOD WORD FOR GIANTS

Cincinnati, Oct. 9. — The members of the national baseball commission left today for Detroit to attend the opening game of the world's championship series. President Pulliam said: "It was the greatest race in the history of baseball. All honors should go to the New York team for the gallant fight they made to bring the flag to Gotham. With practically only two dependable pitchers they fought their way from a lowly position to the leadership in the race, holding that place for a long time by a display of gameness and baseball ability that has rarely if ever been equalled in baseball. As evidence of what a clean race it was, I need only cite the fact that there was much less trouble with players this year than ever before, only four men on the three leading teams being suspended during the season."

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 9.—Before daylight today there were camped before the ticket windows at Bennett park, where tomorrow the Detroit American league and Chicago National league baseball teams will open their second struggle for the world's championship, several hundred enthusiasts, determined to be in advantageous position for the opening of the reserved seat sale at 10.

It was just after midnight when a policeman discovered the first applicant. He announced it was his intention to secure the first ticket for the world's series, and that he purposed to stay there until he did. Hundreds more gathered during the early hours of the morning.

While the sale of seats was occupying every person connected with the business department of the club, Manager Jennings and the players were en-

CONSUL HANSON RESIGNS OFFICE

George Beich, Now in Argentina, Comes to Chicago.

Chicago, Oct. 9.—Christian H. Hanson, for ten years Danish consul at Chicago, at his own request was relieved from office yesterday. This consulate has jurisdiction in the Central West. Another order received today transfers Vice Consul Sorenson from Chicago to London. George Beich, now vice consul at Buenos Ayres, Argentina, will succeed Mr. Hanson.

FIRE LOSS IS LARGE.

Enormous Increase Over Last Year is Shown for September.

New York, Oct. 9.—The fire loss of the United States and Canada for the month of September, as compiled from the carefully kept records of The Journal of Commerce and Commercial Bulletin, shows a total of $21,131,400, an enormous increase over the figures for the same month in 1907.

During the month just closed there were no less than 332 fires, causing a loss of $10,000 or over in each instance.

The fires during the month of September which caused the most serious insurance loss were these:

Rawhide, Nev., business portion of town, $240,000.

Chisholm, Minn., entire town, $1,700,000.

San Francisco, Cal., planing mill and lumber, $250,000.

Chelsea, Mass., box factory and other, $414,000.

Fond du Lac, Wis., Church and other, $237,000.

Erie, Pa., business block, $360,000.

Dallas, Texas, wholesale liquor store and other, $260,000.

NO REHEARING IN ESTATE CONTEST

VESPASIAN WARNER.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 8.—The Supreme court has denied a rehearing to Vespasian Warner, commissioner of pensions, and Flora Warner McDermott, Arabella Warner Bell and Minnie Warner Mettler, surviving children of Dr. John Warner of Clinton. The suit was brought by Mrs. Isabell Warner to set aside the nuptial contract entered into between Mrs. Warner and Dr. Warner by which she was to receive only $10,000 on the death of her husband. The Supreme court decided in her favor and set aside the contract. Under this decision Mrs. Warner will receive one third of the estate.

Paris Cable Confirms Story of Charles P. Taft's Dealings.

New York, Oct. 9.—The inquiry into the Panama canal discrimination charges were temporarily interrupted in a sensational manner today when William A. Brothers, who brought the charges, publicly accused Spencer Miller, a representative of the Lidgerwood company.

Brig. Gen. Garlington, who is conducting the inquiry, rapped repeatedly for order, but there was so much commotion in the room for a time that he could not make himself heard.

"There is only one side of this thing being heard anyway," shouted Brothers over the din. "There is no use of my talking. You don't want to hear the truth. I will withdraw."

With that Brothers left the room, and as Gen. Garlington was unable to restore order, adjournment was taken.

A Paris cable says:

"The agents of a French bank in Paris, who helped to conduct successfully the arrangements which led to the sale of the Panama Canal to the United States government, express surprise that the part played in the negotiations by a group of American financiers should be considered in any way to their discredit. One bank official says:

"These gentlemen were engaged for many months in buying up the old Panama shares at the cheapest rate possible. When they had enough shares, or enough influence, to control the fate of the canal they managed to bring to a successful issue the

INKSTER IS HIT BY SERIOUS FIRE

Nearly All Business District Burned, Loss Reaching $75,000.

Grand Forks, N. D., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—A loss of $75,000 was sustained at Inkster last night in a fire which destroyed practically all of the business district. The blaze originated in the Minneapolis & Northern elevator by the overturning of a lamp about midnight, and before it was stopped it consumed fifteen buildings and two lumber yards.

A call for help was sent to Larimore at 1 o'clock and a special train carrying the fire fighters was sent to the unfortunate city, but it took three hours before the fire was under control.

The principal losses are sustained by W. J. Bailey, owner of the lumber yards valued at $16,000 and insured for $8,000. The Inkster Mercantile company sustained a loss of $12,000 and Bemis & Co. had a loss of $20,000.

GOVERNOR BURKE PUTS IN STRENUOUS DAYS.

Bismarck, N. D., Oct. 9.—Governor Burke is leading a strenuous life these days. He is making from six to eight speeches a day and will speak at the Atheneum Saturday night next. He will go across the river the following week for a number of speeches.

EXPLORING IS COSTLY

Puts in $6,250,000 Before Mining Single Ton of Ore.

New York, Oct. 9.—James J. Hill, chief factor in the Great Northern railway, made the surprising statement here that the United States Steel corporation had not as yet extracted a single ton of ore from the enormous properties in the Mesaba range which were leased from the Great Northern road.

The Steel corporation has to date expended about $4,000,000 in exploration work, drilling and stripping earth to lay bare the ore deposits. It will furthermore have paid over to the trustees of the Great Northern iron ore properties by the end of this year at least $2,500,000, thus making its cash investment by that time represent close upon $6,500,000.

Makes Minimum Payments.

Mr. Hill explained that the Steel corporation, under its contract, agreed to mine 750,000 tons of ore in 1907, and in 1908 1,500,000 tons. Including freightage over the Great Northern, it pays a royalty of about $1.65 a ton. Although none of this ore has yet been mined, the corporation is obliged to make its minimum payments, nevertheless.

"The Steel corporation," said Mr. Hill, "is conducting an extensive exploration program. It is stripping earth and laying bare the ore deposits and drilling the holes to ascertain the depth of such deposits. The ore lies, as a rule, from sixty to more than one hundred feet under the surface. About $4,000,000 has been spent in this exploration work on this land, which indicates today that the bodies are much in excess of amounts estimated at the time the contracts were made."

Mr. Hill's enthusiasm regarding the ore properties has not abated one jot since last year, when he said the Great Northern stood ready at any time to take back the properties from the Steel corporation if the purchasers were dissatisfied.

Rural Carriers Appointed.

Washington, Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rural carriers appointed: Brownton, route 2, Lee Arnold, carrier; Frank H. Gibson, substitute. Rice Point route 1, Andrew J. Hohmann, carrier; George Hohmann, substitute. Sauk Center, route 2, Jessie G. Wallace, carrier; Charles Perkinson, substitute.

PARCEL POST FIGHT BRISK

Trans-Mississippi Congress is Divided Over the Issue.

Sub-Committee Reports Adversely; Attempt to Reject Action.

San Francisco, Oct. 9.—Installation of officers occupied the opening hours of the trans-Mississippi congress today, following the presentation of a report by the committee on resolutions. This committee has been busily engaged ever since its appointment on the first day of the session, sifting the great mass of proposed resolutions that have been presented by the delegates.

Several sharp battles have occurred, particularly that over the parcels post resolution, which was adversely reported by the sub-committee, to which it was referred. A fight for the carrying of the resolution, despite the committee's veto, is expected when it is brought up before the congress.

Another resolution in which great interest is being taken, is one urging the next president of the United States to appoint a Western man as secretary of the interior. The Kansas delegation is straining every nerve to have the congress indorse J. B. Case of Kansas City, former president of the congress, for the post, and there appears to be a considerable movement among the other delegations in the same direction.

MANY BALLOONS IN BERLIN FOR CONTEST.

Berlin, Oct. 9.—Eighty-six balloons are here to take part in the series of airship contests tomorrow. Among the pilots are army aeronauts of world-wide reputation. The races will start from the suburb of Schmargenborg. The principal event will be the contest for the international cup, which will take place Sunday.

OLD LIBERTY BELL OUT

The Philadelphia Crowds Cheer Cracked Ringer Carried in Parade.

Founders' Week Fete Reaches Climax; Historical Parade.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 9.—Philadelphia's celebration of Founder's week reached its climax today with the passing of the historical pageant, a most elaborately-planned and artistic display.

Eminent historians, students, artists and artisans of consummate skill, gave freely of their thought and services to make the series of floats depicting scenes from the times of the earliest settlers down to the present day of the "city beautiful," a panorama unequalled alike in the faithfulness of its portrayals and beauty of its composition. The rush to find available spaces along Broad street began early and seats in the grand stand, which had been held at the modest price of 25 cents during the week were eagerly bought up today at $2 and more.

Accorded a well-deserved position of honor in the line of sixty-nine magnificent floats, and furnishing a touch of real history in the glowing pageantry of make-believe, was the old liberty bell itself. Specially detailed policemen guarded Old Liberty until the cracked and corroded bronze was once more safely returned to its accustomed resting place beneath the quaint old belfry, where once its deep-toned throat voiced the freedom of the nation.

DULUTH SINGERS IN CHOIR UNION

Are Heard in St. Paul at Lutheran Conference Opening.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 9.—Swedish choirs from the Twin Cities, Duluth and other Minnesota cities, gathered at the St. Paul Auditorium, last night, and with an orchestral accompaniment, gave a rendition of J. Victor Bergquist's oratorio, "Golgotha."

The production marked the opening of the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the Minnesota conference of the Swedish Lutheran Augustana synod.

BRIDEGROOM SCORES.

Floors Man Who Decorated Him With Chain and Cowbell.

Des Moines, Iowa, Oct. 9.—The wedding of Charles Carson, a business man of Emerson, and Miss Amber I. Malm of Des Moines ended in confusion last night when Carson accidently struck Herman Malm, his newly acquired brother-in-law, over the head with a log chain, laying Malm out unconscious for four hours and making a wound requiring seven stitches.

Malm was the leader of a bunch of society guests which fastened a chain and cowbell around the neck of Carson to prevent him and his bride from reaching their carriage. The bride with the aid of a chisel freed Carson, who picked up the chain and hurled it at his tormenters striking Malm on the head.

MARKET IS HIT BY WAR RUMORS

New York, Oct. 9.—International securities suffered another violent decline at the opening of the stock market today, the occasion being the increased tension in the Eastern European situation. Canadian Pacific fell 4¾, National Lead, 3¾; Cleveland, C. C. & St. Louis, 2¾; Reading, 2⅛, and Union Pacific, Northern Pacific, Southern Pacific, Louisville & Nashville, Amalgamated Copper, American Smelting and other active issues, 1½ or more. The selling, as was the case yesterday, was largely for continental account. The market steadied some soon after the opening, but the undertone continued feverish and uncertain.

Valetta, Island of Malta, Oct. 9.—Several of the British war ships here have been instructed to sail under sealed orders. Their destination is believed to be the Turkish island of Lemnos. The fleet includes the battleships Glory and the Prince of Wales, and the cruisers Diana and Lancaster.

Confirmed in London.

London, Oct. 9.—The foreign office and the admiralty have confirmed the press cablegram from Malta, saying that British warships have been ordered to the Aegean sea. It is explained that these vessels are sent out simply to watch events, but it is undrestood from other sources that Turkey intimated she would welcome the appearance of the British fleet as likely to calm the population.

FOREST RESERVE ACTS TO GO ON

Injunction Against the United States Government is Denied.

Carson, Nev., Oct. 9.—United States District Judge Farrington has handed down a decision in the case now pending in the United States court of this district, wherein the Eureka Livestock company is contesting the right of President Roosevelt, the forestry commission and the secretary of the interior to set aside the territory, which composes the Monitor forest reserve in Eureka county, this state.

The decision denies the application of the plaintiffs for a temporary restraining order against the government carrying out the prescribed rules governing forest reserves. The question whether the president of the United States has jurisdiction in the matter was not decided by the court.

HEMPSTEAD SPECULATED.

Gambling in Wheat Said to Have Caused His Downfall.

Grand Forks, N. D., Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Was the underlying cause of the suicide of John Hempstead, the Esmerado banker, here recently, wheat speculation? It is currently reported that he lost money on the wheat market, and this was the cause of his shortage with the Farmers' Elevator company, and his subsequent suicide.

Papers in the possession of J. S. Hatcher, special administrator, show that Hempstead speculated in wheat at as early a period as February of this year. His operations continued from that time and appeared to be heaviest in April. From the letters, copies of letters and telegrams, it appeared that he was successful in his trades, as a rule, and was ahead of the game up to May 1.

It is believed that if Hempstead lost large sums during the months just previous to his death, he destroyed the correspondence. The trades were carried through a firm of brokers in Minneapolis.

It has also been found that Hempstead used some of the elevator company's money to carry on his automobile agency business at Rugby. Although there should have been a nice balance, the account of the elevator company in the bank of which Hempstead was cashier was overdrawn for over a year.

Style, Gentlemen is not

The ability to confer style is a gift. The designers that possess it are few in fact, can almost be counted on one's fingers.

Might as well try to explain a sunset to you as to attempt to tell about the syle of our garments, particularly the Oak Hall bench made garments.

We can't put it into print, but we can put it on your back.

And the best of it is that Oak Hall clothes cost not a cent more and are quite a bit better than so-called just as good. Compare and satisfy yourself—we invite comparison.

EXTENSION COMPLETED

Commercial Club Will Hold Special Meeting to Plan Celebration.

Building of Boulevard to Cemetery Road, Club's Pet Plan.

It has been announced to President L. A. Barnes of the West Duluth Commercial club, by I. T. Burnside, West Duluth member of the park board, that the west extension of the boulevard has been completed to the Oneota cemetery road.

The West Duluth Commercial club has been very much interested in this improvement and has been an important factor in its promotion. For this reason, President Barnes is very anxious that there should be a large attendance at the meeting of the club this evening, so that a suitable manner of celebrating the finishing of the extension, may be arranged.

It has been suggested to Mr. Barnes that the club engage rigs in which to drive the members of the park board and the officials of the city over the new highway, and that a program of speeches and band music be arranged.

Tonight's meeting of the club was to have been a smoker and a purely social affair, but the announcement, has made a change in the plans. This will be the club's second meeting this season, and from now on they will be held every Friday evening as is usual during the winter months.

FILM COMPANY INTERVENES

Toledo Concern Claims Reels Involved in Litigation Here.

A new phase in the Ellison-Frey controversy, over the possession of three moving picture films, which is of considerable interest in West Duluth, developed this morning, when H. H. Phelps filed notice that at the special term tomorrow he will move, as the attorney for the Toledo Film company, the right to intervene in the case.

Ellison is suing Frey for $500, the value of the three reels of film, which he claims to have given Frey as security for a loan of $15, and which he claims Frey never returned. Frey claims that he offered to return the films to Ellison, but Ellison wouldn't take them.

Now the Toledo Film company steps in and declares that neither Ellison nor Frey owns the films. The proposed complaint of intervention states that the Toledo Film company rented films to the Ellison-Weiss Amusement company last winter and the three films in controversy are films rented to the company and owned by the Toledo Film company. The company asks that its ownership of the films be affirmed by the court.

BARN DANCE PROHIBITED.

Owners of West Duluth Halls Will Not Allow It.

The West Duluth advocates of the rollicking barn dance will soon have to look elsewhere for halls in which to carry on their frolics, for the owners of the halls there have come to the conclusion that the modern dance, which this season threatened to revolutionize the staid old forms of dancing, is a menace to the supposedly solid walls and floors of their buildings.

At a recent dance given by the Irvinf Tigers, in Wade's hall, the barn avenue was the principal feature of the evening's program.

It was an exceptionally large dance, nearly 150 couples being on the floor at once, and it was a great social success, but the lookers-on feared for the building.

While the dance was in progress small crowds gathered in front of the building, and in fear and trembling watched the building's vibrations in accompaniment to the tread within. The large plate glass windows of the store below and smaller windows of the hall above, rattled and kept time to the music and the dance, at times that it appeared as if they would leap from their frames.

The one, two, three, kick, swinging time of the barn dance is too much for any ordinary building. Of course there are many ways of dancing the barn dance. Some are light and graceful, while others seem designed for the utter destruction of the plaster below. It is the latter the owners of the buildings fear, and for this reason, some have prohibited the barn dance from being practiced in their halls. The owners of Gilley's hall decided a short time ago that those who rented their hall would have to exclude the barn dance from their dance cards. At the armory recently, the patrons of a dance were asked to desist from the pleasures of the fantistic step. S. M. Kelley, building inspector suggests that some regulation be passed by the city council, restricting the practice of the barn dance to certain buildings pronounced capable of standing the strain. He says that in the case of many buildings containing dance halls, especially the older ones, the barn dance is apt to be a source of danger.

CONGREGATION SAYS GOODBYE

Farewell Reception for Pastor and Wife is Well Attended.

The Westminster Presbyterian church last evening was the scene of a farewell reception tendered to Rev. and Mrs. William J. Lowrie, who are leaving West Duluth next week for Brainerd, Minn., where Mr. Lowrie has accepted a call to become pastor of the First Presbyterian church. About 150 of the congregation gathered at the church, in compliment to the pastor and his wife who have been the spiritual directors of the Westminster church for the past six years.

During the evening, remarks of appreciation of the work which had been done by Rev. and Mrs. Lowrie and of regret at their departure were spoken by the following: Rev. S. A. Jamieson.; Rev. Arthur Hoag, pastor of the West Duluth Baptist church; David Sang; Rev. C. W. Lowrie, brother of the retiring pastor, and pastor of the First Presbyterian church at Cloquet; A. G. Macauley, president of the Western Curling club; L. A. Sulcove, assistant superintendent of schools; and others In response to these remarks Rev. and Mrs. Lowrie thanked the congregation for their kindness, which made it hard for them to leave.

There was also a short program of music, instrumental and vocal, following which refreshments were served.

Rev. Lowrie preaches his farewell sermon Sunday.

West Duluth Briefs.

John Trow has gone to Barnum for a week's visit.

James Ryan has returned to his home in West Duluth, after spending the summer at International Falls.

Edward Epper, formerly of West Duluth, has been brought from Ranier, and is now at the St. Mary's hospital, with the fever.

The Young People's society of the Plymouth Congregational church, and their friends, will hold a gathering this evening at the church, preparatory to the winter season's work.

Arrangements have been made by the congregation of the Westminster Presbyterian church to fill the pulpit regularly for Sunday morning services, after the departure of Rev. W. J. Lowrie, their former pastor. There may be no regular evening services.

Rev. J. A. Lumley has returned from Minneapolis, where he visited his son, who has been ill. While there he made an address at one of the churches.

Miss Elizabeth Campbell, of North Fifty-seventh avenue west, has returned from Eau Claire, Wis., where she visited.

Harry W. Lanners has returned from a short trip to Moose Lake.

Two Hundred Young Workers Are Showa New Building.

Two hundred employed boys were the guests of the Y. M. C. A. at the main building, Third avenue west and Second street, last evening.

The boys were given permission to take a swim in the fine bathing pool and most of them took advantage of the opportunity. They were shown all through the building and then enjoyed a stereopticon entertainment.

Short talks were made to the boys by Secretary McLeod of the boys' department, A. C. Pearson of French & Bassett and F. L. Chandler of the Marshall-Wells Hardware company.

BILLY HUNG ON.

Hon. "Billy" Mason, whose term as United States senator from Chicago expired in 1903, made a strenuous fight for re-election, but the political cards were stacked against him. Two prominent Illinois Republicans were in the race against him. One day a friend met Mason, whose width almost equals his height, and asked as to the truth of a report that he intended to retire from the contest.

"Out in Chicago one day," answered Mason, "there arose a discussion as to which was the more courteous, Senator Cullom or myself. A Cullom champion, as a sort of clincher, related that he had on one occasion seen Senator Cullom get up in a street car and give his seat to an old Irish washwoman. 'Huh, that's nothing,' avowed a defender of mine, 'I've often seen "Billy" Mason get up and give his seat to two women.'

"I am forbidden by the Constitution," Mason explained, "from giving my seat to both the eminent gentlemen who are after it, and as I don't like to show partiality, I guess I'll hold on as long as I can."

Mrs. Emma Barry of San Francisco has just returned from trip to the Arctic Circle, during which, it is asserted, she went farther north than any other white woman. She accompanied her husband prospecting for gold, and after she lays in certain supplies she will rejoin him in Alaska.

ICICLES SIXTY YEARS OLD.

Rehoboth Beach correspondence Baltimore American: Claiming to have found icicles that have been preserved for over sixty years, Harry E. Elliott is backed by four companions who were with him when the discovery was made. Over sixty years ago an old oilhouse, where the fluid was kept for use in the Cape Henlopen lighthouse, was suddenly covered up by the shifting sands of Rehoboth beach. No effort was made to uncovred it, and the sand remained there until many had forgotten that a house had ever been on the spot.

Last week, when Harry E. Elliott, a well known merchant, and four other companions were walking down the beach near one of the sand dunes they noticed the peak of a small house showing forth and procuring shovels started to dig the sand away, until finally the door of the little place appeared. Bursting open the door from its rusted hinges the men suddenly plunged into a veritable icehouse and were astonished to find icicles hanging from the roof. The ice was broken off, but in a few moments melted away.

Upon investigation it was found that the old oilhouse had been covered up for over sixty years and the icicles, which were formed then, had kept in the perfectly airtight compartment until the men dug the sand away.

Prof. Jewett's comments on the young men of Balliol, Oxford, often took the form of crushing sarcasms. "The college, Mr. X. thinks highly of you," he once said, "perhaps too highly, I am sure, as you think of yourself."

CONCERNING WOMAN.

He was a man who went on canoe trips. The middle of each October he went away, and when he returned, about the first of November, he immediately started to prepare for next year's trip. He studied catalogues with a persistence that was worthy the attention which should be given to the selection of a new season's hat. He bought new contrivances, and then, after much careful thought and long discussion, discarded them.

"The object is," he said, many times to whomever would listen to him, "is to have the kit as light as possible, and as compact, too. Now here's this reflecting oven. Every other year I've been in the woods the biscuits were cooked as hard as a rock on the bottom, and you'd hardly know that the top was near the fire. But you see, with this cover you stand it up in front of your camp fire, just like that—and the heat strikes right back here, and is then reflected to the top of the biscuits—just like that. The result, as you can very well see is nice, brown, tender, well cooked biscuits. And I tell you they do taste good out in the woods. With a little fat pork, and a little water, or something like that, you have a meal fit for a king. I tell you that reflecting oven is a fine thing. And then you see how it folds up. It doesn't take any more room than if you didn't take it at all. It folds so compactly, just like that—that you can poke it anywhere. Great contrivance, that."

And so it went. Then this year it occurred to the man to have a down sleeping bag. "The others are too heavy," he said. "This will fold up just as compactly, and be a great deal lighter.

"I'm going to make it," said the man. "I'll buy the canvas and the down, and in two jiffies I'll have the finest sleeping bag you ever saw." Gentle protests were unheeded, and one evening with several bags of the tenderest feathers that geese grow, and a canvas sleeping bag of the right dimensions, the man retired just before dinner to a vacant room.

He stealthilly unfastened one bag of down. But the down was not found asleep. It popped out of the bag and soared and soured, held in by the immovable walls of the room. The man clutched at a handful and missed. There was plenty of down all about him, but that one handful upon which he had his eye was what he wanted. So he blew down out of his way and fought through great billows of it, and, then, Eureka! In the northwestern extremity of the room he clutched that wandering handful of down and brought it back and opened up the sleeping bag and placed it carefully within. Although down had penetrated every recess of the room, and was occupying the inside of the man's mouth, nose and throat, and although it rested in his hair and on his clothes, that one little handful was all that was between the covers of the sleeping bag.

"There's no use in trying to catch this bagful," said the man, while he put his foot on the handful he preserved. "I'll open another more carefully." He fitted the opening of the sleeping bag carefully to the opening of the bag that contained the feathers, and started to pour them in. Something slipped, and the fleece-like clouds descended and then arose higher and higher, and thicker and thicker became the atmosphere.

"Dear me!" said the man—just like that.

Then he started and scrambled hastily, and with no show of dignity, about the room. He clutched madly at handfuls of down that were not there. He secured one or two handfuls and put them carefully in the most distant corner of the sleeping bag. At the end of an hour he had succeeded in collecting a quarter of a pound of down, after letting ten pounds loose. He was warm. He didn't feel that in the most bitter night of winter, if he should sleep out of doors, that he would need a sleeping bag. His warm, red, moist face shone through the clouds of down like a rising moon, when the moon's red. He began to wonder if in all eternity he would ever get the taste of feathers out of his mouth. He wondered what the family was doing downstairs, that haven of rest and quiet, where there were no feathers. What should he do, he wondered. Obviously he couldn't spend the rest of his life clutching at feathers that wouldn't be caught. That way lay madness.

Then a gentle voice at the door said, "Dinner is ready."

"Don't open that door!" yelled the man.

"Why not?" asked the voice, opening the door. To the particular ones, let it be said that the hand of the owner of the voice opened the door. "My sakes!" said the voice in an accusing tone, shutting the door again quickly, herself on the outside.

And then she giggled.

"How am I ever going to collect all those feathers?" she asked in an accusing tone through the door.

"I don't know," said a lugubrius voice from amidst the down.

"What are you going to do about it?" asked the voice without.

"I don't know," said the voice within.

"Do you realize what a mess this is?" asked the voice without.

"I do," said the one within.

"Well, dinner's ready," said the voice without.

And a few minutes later a figure on the rear lawn was brushing furiously to remove little feathers that floated around and then comfortably settled down again on his coat.

HOME WEDDING.

Miss Rose Become Bride of W. Hendricks.

The wedding of Miss Celia Rose and W. Hendricks took place Wednesday evening at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. J. F. Johns of 5705 London road. The wedding service was read by Rev. H. B. Sutherland of the Lakeside Presbyterian church. The bride wore a pretty gown of white embroidered mull and carried a bouquet of lillies of the valley. Only the intimate friends were present for the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Hendricks left for a short wedding trip. They will be at home after their return at the West end.

Union Rally.

The Christian Endeavor union of the city will hold a rally this evening at the lecture room of the First Presbyterian church. An interesting program has been arranged and it is expected that a large representation of the societies of the union will be in attendance.

Events of Interest.

The Misses May and Edna McLeod entertained last evening at their home, 4110 East First street in honor of Miss Mabel Helen Reed, whose wedding will take place next week. During the evening the guest of honor was presented with a number of pretty gifts of china plates.

Saturday Club.

The regular meeting of the Saturday club will be held tomorrow afternoon at the Y. M. C. A. building. For current events recent topics of interest will be discussed. The regular study hour will be devoted to history with Mrs. J. A. Keyes as leader and the outline is as follows:

I. The Meravinlan Kings.
   a. Increasing power of the nobles.
   b. Eastern and Western Franks.
   c. Decline of the Merovinglans.
   Miss Multhaner.
II. Carolinglan Kings. 714-987.
   a. Rise of the family.
   b. Pepin of Heristal.
   c. Charles Martel.

   Miss Mayme Davis.

Children's Party.

Mrs. G. H. Mance entertained at a children's party yesterday afternoon at her home, 1632 East Superior street in honor of the fifth birthday anniversary of her little daughter, Mary Elizabeth. Twenty-four little guests were entertained.

Cecilian Society.

The first meeting of the year of the Cecilian society was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Harry Strong, of East Fifth street. Haydn's symphonic, "De La Reine de France," was studied. The instrumental numbers were played in a piano duet by Mrs. K. A. Ostergren and Miss Elsie Smith. Mrs. G. W. C. Ross and Mrs. Strong also appeared on the program. The year will be occupied with symphony studies.

Afternoon Reception.

Mrs. A. D. Thompson was hostess at a delightful reception yesterday afternoon at her home, on West Second street, in compliment to Mrs. James E. Granger, who will leave next week for Grand Rapids. Mr. and Mrs. Granger will spend the winter away from Duluth.

The rooms were decorated in American beauty roses and Ascension lilies. During the afternoon a musical program was presented by Miss Alice Sjoselius and Miss Simonds.

In the dining room Mrs. O. H. Simonds and Mrs. Page Morris presided, and at the punch bowl were Miss Peyton and Miss Ostrom. About fifty guests were entertained.

Personal Mention.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Silvey are at Minneapolis, for a short visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward Ames, Jr., will occupy the E. W. Matter house, at 2105 East First street, during the winter. Mrs. Matter and son will leave the first of November to spend the winter in Florida.

Miss Mamie McMahon has returned from Struther, Ohio, where she attended the wedding of her sister.

Miss Marion Cleveland has returned from the East, where she has attended school for two years.

CONCENTRATION.

The Great Need of the Present Day.

The great need of the present day is concentration. We sometimes spread our energy over a wide surface, with the thinness incidental to such a proceeding. Those who concentrate their force are the ones who achieve something worth while. An unthinking world calls their hard-earned success luck, and even the knowing have no real understanding of the long hours and hard work, mental as well as physical, that figured in the battle.

There is no great chance in life for the woman or man who does only fairly good work. There is a living for them as long as there is health or nobody better is available, but there will be nothing beyond that save for unwonted devotion to some line of work in which advancement is possible. The responsible positions in business are filled by men and women who have proved their worth, generally workers who began in an humble way and advanced by pure merit.

Stand Up.

There is no one thing that, to those who desire to be attractive, will give more pleasure than to know how many men of intelligence in a day say "She carries herself well, doesn't she?" Many a plain faced woman has made herself extremely attractive by carrying herself well and at the same time making sure that she is as neatly and accurately put together as is possible.

Chest thrown out, shoulders thrown back and with a constant feeling of "holding up," acquire a light elastic step and a smart gait. The sum of this often equals a pretty face and far overbalances it, unless the beauty is accompanied with exquisite neatness of dress and all accessories.

After carriage, we have breathing. Deep breathing it should be, while one's chest is thrown out and quiet. We have learned how to steam our faces once a month and now we must learn the value of massage, especially for the hair.

THE ARRIVAL OF PRINCE CHARMING

By Linda M. Stevens.

Two questions seriously troubled Rosie. Where was her father? Why didn't Rachael have a beau? Rachael, who was her mother, had long ago concluded the child was an oddity and paid little or no attention to her endless queries and singular habits. Though oftentimes she would pause in her work to gaze at Rosie, rocking to and fro, with a kitten hugged tight in her arms and singing in a shrill voice a quaint little song.

Rachael invariably sighed. Her relation to her child was not of an intimate nature. She was always too overworked to encourage friendliness and therefore, Rosie seemed strange and remote. Romance seemed strange and she lived in a world of her own creation, far removed from her humble surroundings. She went to the little whitewashed schoolhouse on the hill, and at recess played with the children but afterward she came home and sat on the doorstep alone, meditating with her chin in her hand upon the queerness of things. The boys and girls whooped as they raced by, but they never came inside her gate. Sometimes she cried, but mostly wondered, and finally philosophically concluded it was all because she and Rachel were strangers and probably village folks were shy about making friends in a hurry.

One day a little girl, who was exceedingly small, but very important because her father was the storekeeper, began to swing on the schoolyard gate and looked Rosie over with contemptuous disapproval.

"Why do you stick after us?" she asked.

"I don't," said Rosie quickly, "and I think it's mean of you to say so."

"Oh, do you?" cried the little girl, I'd like to know why, when my mamma said it was a pity we respectable children had to play with you, even that you didn't have a father even, and—"

"My father—" Rosie paused. She knew she could say one of two things. "He is away," she ended triumphantly.

"Away?" Is he coming back?" she asked, with newly awakened interest.

"Yes," said Rosie, "he is coming back some time," and suddenly she turned and fairly flew down the sunbathed road.

Rachel sat on the doorstep mending a garment. She was thin and frail, with a pink flush on her sunken cheeks and a burn in her dark eyes. She smiled as the child rushed up and let her work fall in her lap.

"Well, what is it?" she inquired, listlessly.

"They all have 'em—where is my father?" she cried, in little pants. "When is he comin' back?"

"Comin' back?" Rachel echoed in amazement.

"Yes. I told Mamie he was comin' sometime."

"Well, he's not"—an angry light darted in her eyes—"you haven't one, even, and tell her so if she asks you again. Little idiots,' she added, more to herself than to the child.

Rosie's arms had fallen limp at her sides. Horror, astonishment and belief successively came in her face. Then slowly her eyes wandered past her mother to a little brood of chirping chickens in the back yard. They didn't have a father. Why should she, fathers were a nuisance. Didn't Bessie care? Besides, there were times when Doan's father get drunk and beat her with a gum switch? Didn't the storekeeper scowl and drive poor Mamie away? After all there were very few decent ones. But when night came Rosie tossed in her bed, and remembered the blacksmith who kissed his little girl and gave her pennies when she passed his shop, and the solemn-faced doctor who brought his boy a bicycle from the city. Finally, when she fell asleep, she talked of fathers good and bad, and Rachel drew closer and dropped silent tears. For it was at night that the mother made her nearest approach of tenderness, while her little child was pitifully unconscious of the coveted affection thus bestowed.

The next morning in the schoolhouse several of the children were gathered around the teacher, so Rosie shyly joined the group and heard the last part of the conversation.

"Little Lucy Harlow is going to start to school today, and you must all be especially nice and kind to her, for she hasn't a father."

Oh! Oh! Rosie's heart beat tumultuously. At least there would be one of her kind.

Lucy Harlow and her mother came in just before the last bell rang. Rosie did not attempt to probe the difference, but she knew immediately that Mrs. Harlow was curiously unlike the other teachers in the village.

If they ever stop pesking her," Rosie said one morning, as she ate her solitary breakfast, "I'll let her know we're alike. My, won't she be glad!" And the love-hungry eyes, much too large for the little thin face, lighted up with joyous anticipation.

Going to school they met. Rosie flushed, and overjoyed that the longed-for opportunity had at last arrived, plunged into confidence.

"I haven't a father, either, but I don't mind, do you?"

Lucy Harlow broke into a merry little laugh.

"Because you talked so funny then," said the child, but at the sight of Rosie's grave face she paused. "Did you love your father so much?" she inquired, somewhat abashed.

Rosie could think of nothing to say. She tried to swallow, but a lump had grown in the way, and before she could check them, two big tears rolled out and trickled down her cheeks.

"Never mind, I won't talk about it. You get your mamma to find a beau and then you'll have a father again. That's what my mamma is going to do."

So Rosie faced her second problem.

One evening Rachel came home from the Harlows, where she had been helping with the fall cleaning, and on served, in her usual tired-out tone, "Goodness me, them big houses is a sight to clean."

One evening Rosie stood at the gate, gazing up and down the road, until finally her diligent watch was rewarded. A man, wearing a shabby blue suit, a gay necktie, patent leather shoes, and carrying a traveling bag, walked briskly towards her.

Rosie looked dubious. She knew she could not buy soap, and yet, Prince Charming had been too long in coming to allow him to escape now that he stood upon their very threshold. Rachel would soon turn the bend in the road, but until that moment she had not considered that it would be a very dirty, tired-looking Rachel. A happy thought suddenly occurred to her.

"I tell you what" Rosie raised shining eyes. "Come again 'bout dusk. My mother will be home by that time."

"Well, I say you're an uncommonly polite little girl. I'll be back," and to Rosie's astonishment, Prince Charming lifted his hat and went leisurely towards the village.

When her mother returned, she said: "You beat all, you queer little thing. But I wouldn't dress for a soap agent or a prince tonight, why, I'm actually too tired to eat," and with a sigh she sank wearily on the steps.

Down the road came the soap agent.

"I am selling soap," he began and stopped abruptly.

"Frank!" she cried placing her hand to her forehead in a piteous effort to suppress her emotion.

He gazed at her dumb-struck, until the appeal in her faded, bitter face gave him understanding. Yet she did not wait for his words. She had no desire to hear the reproaches he would shower upon himself. She only wanted to tell him the pathetic story of his little child.

Later on the moon outlined Rosie's slight figure, and as she came towards them they saw that a happy smile wreathed her features, and suddenly through the silence came her low childson:

"Hush my darling, don't you cry,
Your sweetheart will come by and by,
When he comes he'll come dressed in blue,
To let you know his love is true."

"Tell her," said the soap agent, and there was an unmistakable tremor in his voice, "Prince Charming is here."

NO INQUEST NECESSARY

Ingebert Moe is Buried at the Expense of the County.

Coroner McCuen Says Police Performed Their Duty Fully.

It developed yesterday afternoon that Ingebert Moe, the man who died in the city jail Tuesday morning, fractured his skull in a fall in the saloon of Bloom & Carlson 1903 West Superior street, the evening of his arrest. If he had been given the proper medical attention when first taken to the police station, it is said that he probably would have recovered.

Detective Schulte yesterday afternoon investigated the case. Gustav Carlson, one of the proprietors of the saloon in question, says Moe fell down the cellar stairs while his arms were filled with bottles. He struck on his head on the cement floor, and was found lying there in a pool of blood shortly afterwards.

Mr. Carlson claims to have telephoned to several doctors, but was unable to get any of them on the wire. When Moe recovered consciousness he left the place by the rear door. The saloonmen claim they washed his wounds and did what they could for him. Later, he was found lying in a stupor near a scrap iron pile at the corner of Eighteenth avenue west and the railroad tracks. This was at 8 o'clock in the evening. Policeman Perry was called, and he sent Moe to headquarters.

It is said Moe visited the home of his wife, 312 Garfield avenue, Monday afternoon, and did some work on the premises. He entered Bloom & Carlson's saloon about 5 o'clock in the afternoon. He frequently did work around the place, and his fall occurred while he was carrying some bottles down stairs for the proprietors.

Buried By County.

Moe was buried this morning at the expense of the county. No coroner's inquest was held, Coroner McCuen deciding, after a personal investigation, that it was so plainly a case of accident, that one was not necessary.

"So far as I can see, the police are to be excused for not calling a physician," said Dr. McCuen, this morning. "Moe appeared to be in no worse condition than dozens of drunks who are arrested every week, and who get cut in drunken brawls. Had the police had any idea that Moe was in so serious a condition, there is no doubt that they would have summoned medical assistance. The man was able to walk and talk, and there was not as much blood on him as there is on a great many men who are arrested as common drunks. Although his skull was fractured, there was no cut in the scalp of course, the skin was bruised under the hair, but as there was no cut there was not a free flow of blood, and there was nothing to indicate that the injury was of a serious nature. Most of the blood came from a cut on the wrist, caused by falling on one of the broken bottles he was carrying at the time of the accident. I did not deem an inquest necessary, for it was evident that death was plainly accidental."

Chief of Police Troyer says he very much regrets the fact that no physician was called when Moe was taken to the station, but does not blame any of the men on duty at the time, because no physician was summoned.

"Probably one man in every ten arrested, puts up a worse appearance than did Moe," said Chief Troyer, today, and yet the services of a physician are in most cases unnecessary, for their wounds are very slight, usually the result of fistic encounters, although some slight cut may bleed quite freely. Whenever it is evident, however, that a man's injuries or physical condition otherwise is really serious, or even likely to be serious, we always call in a physician to attend to the prisoner.

"From looking at Moe, after the accident, and from what I can learn of his actions upon entering the station, I do not attach blame to any of the officers on hand at the time for not calling in a doctor. He could walk all right and did not look as if he were at all badly hurt. No one here had any idea that he was seriously injured. It was supposed he had been in a fight, and had gotten a little the worst of it. We could not believe the injuries he had when arrested caused his death, and that is how we at first thought he was killed by a fall in the jail."

TAYLOR FUNERAL.

Services Over Body of Duluth Man Held in Minneapolis.

The funeral services over the remains of William G. Taylor of Duluth, who died at Detroit, Mich., Oct. 2, were held Monday afternoon from the Children's Home, 2200 Stevens avenue, South Minneapolis.

The services were conducted by the Rev. Dr. Samuel Long, formerly pastor of the M. E. church of this city. Dr. Long knew Mr. Taylor personally, and paid a warm tribute, mentioning especially his devotion to his mother and family.

Mr. Taylor was connected with the Duluth, Missabe & Northern, up to the time of his last illness, when he went to Detroit, hoping to regain his health. He is survived by his father, Richard Taylor of Minneapolis, a brother George W., of San Antonio, Tex., and three sisters, Mrs. James Pigott of Detroit, Mich., Elizabeth of Minneapolis, a teacher in the Children's Home and Miss Emma Taylor of this city. The interment was in the family lot at Lakewood, Minn.

A Good Medicine.

Laughter not only gains friends, but it's a good medicine—keeps the eyes bright, the heart light and increases the number of red corpuscles. So does golden grain belt beer, which is rich in food value and an aid to digestion. Better than tea or coffee for table use. Taft Puts in Quiet Day.

Cincinnati, Oct. 9.—W. H. Taft had a quiet day today. He remained later than usual in his home and occupied himself with his correspondence.

Sentence of Twenty Years.

Des Moines, Iowa, Oct. 9.—Six minutes after retiring the jury returned a verdict finding Earl Nizert, a negro, guilty of an attempted assault upon Lizzie White, while she was sleeping the last night of the state fair. Nizert choked and bit her, but was caught after putting up a terrific fight. The judge sentenced him to Anamosa for twenty years. Nizert has been identified as one of the negroes who caused the Springfield riots.

ROBBED AND STRANDED

Mrs. M. E. Roberts of Seattle Penniless in Strange City.

Money Taken by Thief, and Woman is Wild With Grief.

Robbed of all the money she had by a thief at the Union station and frantic with fear that she will not be able to secure funds with which to complete her journey to Seattle, Wash., Mrs. M. E. Roberts is at the county jail, pending news from her brother, William McLaughlin, of Dike, Texas, who has been informed of the circumstances by Judge J. B. Middlecoff of the probate court.

When the woman was first taken to jail, it was thought she was insane. It developed later that her supposed insanity was merely the excitement on discovering the theft of her money. She was wild with grief and her actions led spectators to believe that she was crazy.

It seems that Mrs. Roberts had been to Ohio to attend the funeral of her mother and was on her way home to Seattle. She paid for a lunch at the Union station and then had her money, amounting to $12 or $15. Later when she opened her purse, the money was gone. She immediately made an outcery and her actions resulted in the authorities taking a hand. When she told her story to Judge Middlecoff, it was immediately seen that she was sane, and steps were taken to relieve her. She is held at the jail because there is nowhere else to place her, and she will be allowed to remain there until something is heard from her relatives. It is believed they will furnish her money sufficient to pay her way to Seattle.

DIFFERENT DANGERS.

F. R. Baldwin, the noted aeronaut, paused in his aeronautical experiments at Hammondsport, N. Y., to say to a reporter:

"Advise the general public to go in for flying. A good airship can easily be made for $15. Of course it has no motor; it's a glider; you take a run from a hilltop and go gliding down the air. When all the people are experimenting with these simple and cheap gliders, then real progress in flying will be made."

"But," said the reporter, "the danger?"

"There's no danger," said the aeronaut. "You learn from low hilltops, you don't attempt the heights until you have mastered aerial balancing. No, there's not nearly the danger in flying that there is in automobiling or in marrying too young a bride."

Mr. Baldwin smiled.

"How dangerous it is," said he, "to choose too young a bride. Do so, and either your children kill you, or you rush heartbroken into the divorce court in a year. Nevertheless, these unequal marriages are on the increase.

"The other day I met an aged millionaire whom I hadn't seen for years. He had two ladies with him. Introducing them, he said:

"'Mr. Baldwin, my wife and my daughter. The younger one is my wife.'"

A MOTH CURE.

Ripley Hitchcock, the editor and critic, said of literary popularity at a dinner in Philadelphia:

"To win popularity it is only necessary to write with sincerity on a taking subject. To hit on the taking subject, though—that is the difficulty. Upon Sinclair hit on it in 'The Jungle,' but that shot was accidental, mere luck; for, as Mr. Sinclair says himself, he aimed at the public's heart in 'The Jungle' and his bullseye in the public's stomach was a mistake.

"Taking subjects are abundant, but they are very hard to hit on. The writer in search of them resembles, indeed, the lady with the moths.

"There was, you know, a suburban lady whose house, one summer, was quite overrun with moths. A tramp told her that, in return for a square meal, he would give her an infallible moth cure. She set a square meal before the tramp, he devoured it, then he said:

"'All ye need to do, ma'am, is to hang yer moth-filled clothes and carpets and things on a line and beat 'em with a stick. Good-by to yer moths then.'

"'Will that kill them?" asked the lady.

"'Yes, if ye hit 'em,' said the tramp."

TRAILING AN ELEPHANT HERD

London Field: About three days west of Masaka, which is the government station of Buddu, the high impenetrable grass which covers the greater portion of Uganda is left behind, and a good game country, not unlike parts of East Africa, is reached. Soon after pitching camp, after the third day's march from Masaka, we learned from a passing caravan that elephants had been heard early that morning near the road.

The elephants were in a narrow belt of dense jungle on the right of the road; beyond the jungle a small, rock strewn hill rose abruptly to a height of 100 feet. On the left of the road was an extensive swamp, while beyond it were more rocky hills. I decided immediately to move through the belt of jungle in which the elephants were feeding, and, if possible, gain the hill and endeavor to get a view of the herd. With great difficulty we forced our way through the matted vegetation, and at length gained the hill.

The elephants, however must have heard us, for they almost immediately filed out of the cover in which they had been feeding, and, crossing the road, moved into the swamp. We got a fine view of them as they moved away. There was one fine beast with tusks well above the average, a second with average sized tusks, and three others with only small ivory. We immediately left our hill and commenced the stern chase. We followed the herd up a valley, with high hills on either side, for about three hours; they were evidently much alarmed, and the tracks told us that they were moving at a steady pace. At length the valley divided into two.

The herd took the branch running to the left, which was well wooded and very narrow. They had evidently hesitated on arrival at this point, for the dung, which up to this time had been cold, was now found to be slightly warm. I decided that our best course was to climb the hills on our right, from which we could look down into the valley. A short climb showed us that the valley led up to a neck connecting two hills and that the neck had a clump of large trees on it.

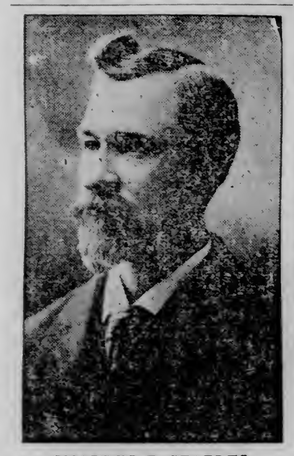

We now moved along the side of the valley toward the wooded neck, and very soon an elephant's back was spotted below us as he moved across an open space. The sun was gaining strength, so it was evident that the elephants were in search of shade. Having ascertained the direction of the wind, we made a long detour and eventually crawled out on a spur of rock overlooking the wooded neck. The herd were huddled together among the trees, and we easily crawled to within twenty paces.

A shot was impossible, as only patches of elephant hide were visible, so a wait was the only alternative. It was nearly an hour before there was any movement in the herd, when, at length, a full-sized bull moved slowly into the open. As we were three hours from the road and some six from camp I decided to take the chance offered and put a shot from my .450 behind his shoulder. There was the usual crash as the herd made off down the valley. The animal I had fired at made off with his companions; he was soon left behind, however, and with the help of my field glasses I saw him suddenly stop and roll over.

My postion was ideal for observing the movements of a herd of elephants when suddenly fired at. They all went off at top speed for about a mile, when they suddenly stopped and turned around. Then they continued their retreat at a steady ambling pace. The old bull then separated from the younger members of the herd and

FAVORS NATIONAL ROAD VALUATION

Washington, Oct. 9.—The National Association of Railroad Commissioners concluded its twentieth annual convention. Officers were elected as follows: President, Martin S. Decker, New York; first vice president, R. C. Burr, Florida; second vice president, Charles F. Staples, Minnesota. The next convention will be held here, Oct. 12, 1909. Mr. Staples submitted a report favoring a national valuation of railroad property, and it was adopted.

BANNER YEAR, SAYS WASHBURN

Minneapolis Miller Says Wheat is of Uniformally High Grade.

John Washburn, manager of the Washburn-Crosby Flour Milling company of Minneapolis, accompanied by William H. Dunwoody and James S. Bell of the Minneapolis chamber of commerce, is here on a short business trip.

Mr. Washburn states that this is a banner wheat year. He says that over 65,000,000 bushels of wheat were on record Oct. 1, with a quality of 89.4 after government inspection. Mr. Washburn recently returned from Buffalo, where a $500,000 addition was constructed to the Washburn-Crosby mill.

Mr. Washburn stated that the quality of the present crop is very high. He says that there will be very little low grade wheat to gurad against and that most of the wheat will be available for milling purposes.

TAFT REGISTERS IN A PLUMBING SHOP

Cincinnati, Ohio, Oct. 9.—William Howard Taft is a registered voter in precinct H, Ward 2, of the city of Cincinnati.

The Republican presidential candidate registered yesterday, his last opportunity before the November election, thus accomplishing the object for which he came.

There was rivalry for the honor of voting Mr. Taft. Michael Mullen of the Eighth ward, in which Mr. Taft was a resident before the city was redistricted, was keen to have the nominee on his books, but Taft went to the same locality in which he has voted for the past twelve years.

The registry office is in a plumbing shop, and when the candidate entered it, he was put through the following catechism by the registry clerk.

"How old are you?"
"Fifty-one."
"How many years have you lived in the state of Ohio?"
"Fifty-one."
"How many years in the country?"
"Fifty-one."
"How many years in the precinct?"
"Twelve."
"Married?"
"Yes."

The candidate then signed "William Howard Taft" to the registry book and the act was completed.

NOTABLE FUNERAL.

Hundreds of Friends Pay Their Last Tribute to S. T. Welch.

Stephen T. Welch's funeral yesterday afternoon was very largely attended by business and professional men of the city. The deceased was a member of both the Masonic and Elk lodges, and had a large circle of friends outside of these organizations. So numerous were the beautiful floral tributes that a special carriage was necessary to take them to the cemetery.

Rev. R. J. Mooney, rector of Holy Apostles' Episcopal church, conducted a brief service at the family residence, 1618 East Third street. From the house the casket was removed to the Scottish rite room in the Masonic temple, where the Masonic funeral ritual was conducted under the auspices of the Masons. The funeral sermon was delivered by Rev. Roderick J. Mooney.

The Duluth lodge of Elks was present in a body. They marched to the Masonic temple from their hall on Superior street. The music was under direction of A. F. M. Custance, and Mrs. Bert Holcomb sang. Interment was at Forest Hill cemetery. The pallbearers were C. W. Stilson, J. L. Cromwell, Tilton Lewis, P. B. McTague, William A. Eden and Frank Green.

FIVE PRETTY TOOTSIES

Were Tickled by Bold Burglar and Cash Was Saved.

Youngstown, Ohio, Oct. 9.—Five pretty pink tootsies peeping out from neath the coverlets as Mrs. John Rouan, of No. 266 Adams street, tossed in her sleep, caught the eye of a bold burglar as he was tiptoeing through the room. He was on his way to the window with $500 in money and a bunch of jewelry all tied up in a bag. But on seeing Mrs. Rouan's dainty foot protruding from under the bed clothing the burglar stopped. He tittered.

"Such a joke it would be; yes, I'll do it," he chortled, and carefully placed his bag of swag on the floor. Slowly crawling in the semi-darkness of the room he reached a point where he could reach the dainty tootsies. Then with his finger he reached up and tickled Mrs. Rouan's pink little toes. She sat up in bed and found herself staring into the face of a masked man. Her shrieks awakened her husband and frightened the burglar so he fled. He left his booty behind.

LEASING COMPANY PLAN IS PROPOSED.

Minneapolis, Oct. 9.—Material progress has been made, says the Northwestern Miller, towards unraveling the affairs of the Pillsbury-Washburn Flour Mills company, limited, and in establishing a basis upon which a reorganization may be effected. The Miller adds:

"The question of a reorganization has been discussed and one proposition enjoying favor is to form a leasing company for the operation of the mills, with the Messrs. Pillsbury heavily interested.

"The leasing company would go on and operate the mills and the rental would go to the stockholders. The general proposition would contemplate the leasing of the mills and other property of the company to the leasing company for ten to fifteen years."

Arrested Watching Parade.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 9.—E. T. Collins of Denver, was arrested in the crowds viewing the Redmens parade here by detectives of New York and Kansas City on a charge of embezzling funds from a bank at Marshalltown, Iowa. The detectives say a constant search has been made for the man for more than six months.

Rare Special Bargains for Saturday!

Many departments have contributed to make Saturday a day of economies for those who shop here. Nothing has been sacrificed but the prices. Quality, first, as always. Styles, absolutely correct.

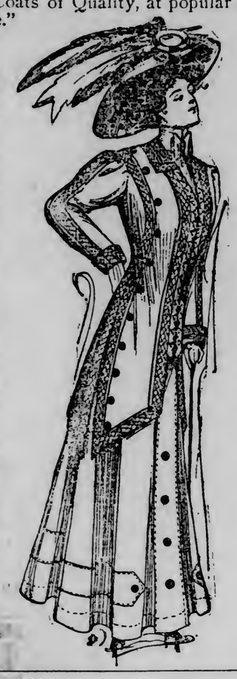

Look carefully over the list, and save richly by buying liberally!

Women's, Misses' and Children's Suits and Coats

A few particularly good values from these various stocks for Saturday's shoppers, showing that it is possible to procure Suits and Coats of Quality, at popular prices, if the purchasing is done at the right place—"The Glass Block Store."

LADIES' TAILORED SUITS — At $19.50 we have selected a big assortment of suits, varied in style and materials and thoroughly representative of the values to be found in this department. They are of the popular 36-inch length, semi-fitted coats, button trimmed and satin lined, skirts are the full gored or pleated models, materials are cheviots, broadcloths, chevrons, fancy suitings and striped worsteds, and come in shades of blues, browns, black and fancies. These suits are equal to suits shown elsewhere up to $25.00— Our price for Saturday..... $19.50

At the popular price of $29.50 we are showing tailored Suits of unquestioned quality, a largely varied and attractive assortment of new and up to date models—Coats are of the long 36 to 38-inch style, either plain tailored or with satin or braid bindings and edgings. Many of these suits show the modified Directoire tendencies, big lapels and revers, slashed coats, etc. The materials used are fine broadcloths, serges and imported worsted suitings, in all the season's new popular shades, as well as in the more staple colors. These suits will compare favorably with the best you can buy elsewhere at $35.00— our price for Saturday..... $29.50

LADIES' AND MISSES' COAT SPECIAL—New semi-fitted and Empire models, of all-wool cheviots, kerseys and broadcloths, in blacks and colors, some are trimmed with satin strappings and braid trimmings, others are plainly tailored, all are half lined with satin or silk. There are both ladies' and misses' sizes in the lot and a wide assortment of styles to choose from. Special values for Saturday..... $15.00

CHILDREN'S LONG COATS — We have never shown a larger or better assortment of children's coats than at present. Our showing includes everything new in both styles and materials, coats upon which as much care has been taken in selection and make-up as in our ladies' garments. A detailed description of the many styles displayed here would be a job of big proportions. So we merely mention for Saturday two specials of more than ordinary worth.

Plain tailored Box Coats of all-wool cheviot, with velvet notch collars, double breasted styles, with yoke lining of self cloth, full cut swagger little coats for girls of 6 to 14—colors are blue, brown and red—these are $7.50 values. Special for Saturday..... $5.98

CLUB WOMEN HAVE CHOSEN OFFICERS

Mrs. H. A. Tomlinson of St. Peter Vice President at Large.

St. Cloud, Minn., Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Minnesota Federation of Club women in session here will ask the legislature to increase the appropriation of $25,000 voted by the last legislature for the girls' industrial school at Sauk Center.

Active work is to be carried on by the club women both before and after the election and a sub-committee that already numbers fifty members is writing to legislativ nominees and interviewing them that they may be put on record before they are voted for.

For the first time in the history of the state federation, "the White Ribbon" women sent greetings and they were voiced yesterday by Mrs. Bessie L. Scovel of Minneapolis, the state W. C. T. U. president, who asked the club women to work with the W. C. T. U. in an effort to secure from the legislature franchise for women, the strengthening of the temperance laws and legislation looking toward the overthrow of polygamy in the United States. She also asked the club women's assistance in an active campaign against the licensed saloon in Minnesota.

Mrs. Perry Starkweather of Minneapolis, inspector of conditions of working women and children for the state bureau of labor, has a measure that she wants made into a law by the legislature, and she requested the help of the club women to secure the passage of an act to make it a misdemeanor to employ women in factories or stores more than ten hours a day.

She asked the club women to discourage country girls from coming to the city. She has written to all ministers in Minnesota, requesting them to give one Sunday a year to the conditions of working women and children.

A letter of regret that he was unable to be present and speak was received from Governor Johnson.

The following officers were elected:

Vice president at large, Mrs. H. A. Tomlinson, St. Peter; recording secretary, Mrs. T. F. Kinney, Minneapolis; auditor, Mrs. R. L. Gale; custodian, Mrs. A. Barto; treasurer, Mrs. E. J. Lewis, Sauk Center; district vice presidents—Sixth, Mrs. C. M. Petek, Brainerd; Seventh, Mrs. C. B. McCune, Benson; Eighth, Mrs. B. L. Hollister, Aitkin; Mrs. Alexander, Barnesville.

Hopeful and interesting reports were read by the vice presidents representing the congressional districts of the state. These reports show that the clubs are gradually doing more practical work in addition to the purely literary programs that are usually followed.

Mrs. DeField of St. Paul gave an interesting report on the State Sunshine society. Last year was the most successful in its history, having collected $1,823, which has been distributed among the poor.

The historian's report was given in verse, by Mrs. H. N. McKusick of Stillwater.

Mrs. G. O. Welch of Fergus Falls, custodian of the state federation, talked of "Sound Minds in Clean Bodies."

Dr. A. C. Rogers, superintendent of the state school for the feebleminded at Faribault, delivered an address on "Degeneracy and How to Prevent It."

He made some startling statements in regard to degeneracy, and believes it can be improved.

DYNAMITE BLAST KILLS.

Ladysmith, Wis., Oct. 9.—John Coey, 15 years of age, was instantly killed, and his father, Samuel Coey, was terribly injured by the premature explosion of dynamite in a well at Bruce, nine miles west of here, Tuesday evening.

Seventy-five Per Cent Working.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 9.—It was a great surprise to the returning striking mechanics in the Canadian Pacific shops when the company posted a notice that all men returning to work shall receive the maximum pay, according to their classification. The company also promoted the men's representative on the board of conciliation, Jacob Hillis, to the foremanship of the car shops. Seventy-five per cent of the strikers are now at work here.

KERN, IN DEFENSE, CITES INDIANAPOLIS FOUR-CENT FARES; ANSWERS HEARST

Vice Presidential Nominee Says His Official Record is Open to Inspection by All, and Stands Pat on It.

Fincastle, Va., Oct. 9.—John W. Kern, after reading the attack upon him by W. R. Hearst in a speech in Los Angeles, Cal., gave out a statement in which he said that he had repeatedly stated the facts about his employment by the Big Four railroad in connection with certain damage suits, which employment, he said, would be understood by any fair-minded man. Concerning his connection with the French Lick Springs hotel company, he said that with other counsel he was employed to defend suits involving forfeiture of charter and the appointment of a receiver, and that he and his associates served the corporations as he would have any other client. Similar service was rendered at the same time to the West Baden Springs company, with which Thomas Taggart had no connection. As to his nomination Kern says:

"It is well known I did not want the nomination and so declared at Denver. However, after the convention had given me the nomination by unanimous vote, the idea that I would insult the men who had thus honored me by saying that I owed the nomination to Mr. Taggart is so preposterous to need no denial. My record in all official positions I have ever occupied is open to inspection. I am willing to stand by that record.

The street railroad franchise of Indianapolis provides for 4 cent fares and universal transfers, and has resulted in giving Indianapolis the best service of any city in the country."

PIANO SWINDLER CAUGHT.

Arrested in East for Working Old Game on Farmers.

Milaca, Minn., Oct. 9.—George Von Bremmer, a traveling salesman, canvassed this section several weeks ago, in the interest of a New York company, and secured a number of orders, most of them being from farmers living south of town, near Pease. He managed to induce some of them to sign notes as part payment on the instruments and subsequently cashed the paper at one of the banks.

As the pianos failed to arrive in due time, some of the farers complained to the company, and it was discovered that the fellow had not sent the orders in, and consequently the company knew nothing of it. The piano company immediately took steps to apprehend the delinquent agent and he was finally caught last week at Springfield, Minn., and placed under arrest. From there he was taken to Superior, Wis., and lodged in jail, to await trial.

TROOPS ORDERED TO QUELL NIGHT RIDERS.

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 9.—Fearing an attack from Night Riders on the town, officials of Hickman, Ky., applied to Governor Willson to send a guard of state troops at once. The governor ordered Maj. Bassett, at Hopkinsville, to take a company to the sceen of the trouble.

ELY SCHOOLS ARE GAINING PUPILS

Steady Increase in Enrollment Shown Since School Began.

Ely, Minn., Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first month's work in the schools of District No. 12 shows a steady increase in the enrollment, a gain of twenty-five for the month, making a total enrollment to date of 1177. Of this number 106 are in the high school assembly room under the instruction of the high school faculty, fifteen from the advanced class of the eighth grade having been seated in this department on account of the overcrowding of the eighth grade room.

An average attendance of over 95 per cent was maintained throughout the district, eight rooms having over 98 per cent of perfect attendance, and three having over 99 per cent in attendance. The three rooms having the latter excellent record were the rooms of Miss Gratia Lyman of the Central school, Miss Adelaide Van Blarcom of the Central school and Miss Edna Bottomley of the Sletten school. Out of a total of 1177 pupils in attendance, 1129 were present without tardiness the entire month, there being only 46 cass of tardiness in the entire district during the month. The report for the month shows a total of thirty-nine teachers located as follows:

High school building: Edmund T. Durfield, principal, science and mathematics; Irene Patterson, English and history; Eleanor Nickerson, German and Latin; Ethel Sanborn, science; H. G. Staton, stenography and commercial branches, Colton A. Porter, manual training; Isabel Brush, music and drawing; Frances Rowe, domestic science; Edna Danford, eighth grade; Ida Odgers, seventh grade; Signie Hansen, seventh grade; Susan Lyman, sixth grade; Alice Meighen, first grade and second grade; Signa Skogland, librarian.

Central school: Gratia Lyman, principal and fifth grade; Leona Hedloff, fourth grade; Elizabeth Sexton, third grade; Adelaide Van Blarcom, third grade; Leolore King, second grade; Ruth Miller, second grade; Hilda Brown, first grade; Charlotte Garrick, kindegarten; Edith Baughman, kindergarten.

Pioneer school: Tryphena Chisholm, principal and fourth grade; Florence Keefe, sixth grade; Mary Hickey, fourth grade; Josephine Ostrem, third grade; Selma Wikman, second grade and first grade; Emma Baribeau, second grade.

Winton school: Fred Dafley, principal and grammar grades; Henrietta Smith, intermediate grades; Esther Hawley, primary grades.

Savoy school: Olive Callaway, principal and intermediate grades; Clara Carman, primary grades.

White Iron Lake school: Minnie Perttula, principal and mixed grades.

GIGANTIC STRIPPING PLANS.

Opening New Ground at Hull-Rust on Extensive Scale.

Hibbing, Minn., Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—For several months preparatory plans for the most gigantic stripping operations ever undertaken in this section have been carried on at the Hull Rust mine.

It includes the building of numerous structures, such as oil houses, round houses, machine shops, etc. Stripping operations meantime are being carried forward in the Hull pit and in the new Rust development with the greatest vigor, and the Hull-Rust will be the scene of the most active mining operations on the range for many years to come.

The Hull underground mine has shut down and no more underground mining will be done. It is understood that the Rust underground workings will also be discontinued this month and that both shafts will be discontinued.

FOOTBALL AT VIRGINIA.

Two Harbors and Roosevelt School to Play Saturday.

Virginia, Minn., Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Virginia high school football team will line up against the Two Harbors Y. M. C. A. team at Roosevelt park tomorrow afternoon. The team has been put through some hard practice during the past week, as several weak spots were discovered by Coach "Roxie" Walters in the game with Ely last Saturday. The game is expected to be very interesting, as the Two Harbors team is a strong one. The game will be called at 2:30 o'clock and an admission fee of 25 cents will be charged.

BROUGHT FROM CHICAGO TO ANSWER BAD CHARGE.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—R. H. Phillips has been brought here from Chicago by Deputy Sheriff Fred Fish to answer to the charge of making an assault upon William Davis at Cohasset, when he is alleged to have stabbed his victim in the leg. He will be given a hearing next Tuesday by Judge Huson.

POULTRY ASSOCIATION PREPARING FOR SHOW.

MISSING FINN FOUND HANGING

Despondent Over Family Troubles, Takes Life Near Coleraine.

Coleraine, Minn., Oct.9. —(Special to The Herald.)—While walking along the shores of Trout lake near here yesterday evening William Wilson and Fred Habercourt came across the decomposed body of a man hanging to a tree. Papers upon the person, notably a letter in Finnish in which he gave family troubles as the reason for his self arranged exit from life, showed that the man was a Finn by the name of Elj and had a family consisting of a wife and several children living in Bovey, and he had hanged himself. He had been missing six weeks. The coroner of Itasca county is looking into the case.

OPEN LIBRARY SUNDAYS.

Management of Hibbing Institution to Favor Public.

Hibbing, Minn., Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—For the convenience of those who cannot visit the library week days it has been decided by the library board to open the institution on Sundays

Sunday opening will begin with the advent of cold weather. The library will probably be open Sunday afternoons only. At present the library is open every week day from 2 to 5 and from 7 to 10 in the evening.

Supt. C. E. Young of the city school has donated to the library an engraving of Guido Reni's "The Aurora." The picture has been hung on the library walls. Rev. Theodore Livingstone has given a series of classics in the Swedish language.

Books are now being issued at the library to children and the demand for children's books is very strong. The children's room at the library is well filled during the library's opening hours.

DEPARTMENT TRANSFERRED.

This Furnishes More Room for Manual Training.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—On account of there not being room enough in the basement of the Fayal school, where the manual training department was first placed this semester, this department has been transferred to the Fayal kindergarten building. New lathes run by electricity have been ordered for the manual training department so that a wood turning department can also be available. In the domestic science department conducted by Miss Mandeville, a number of electric discs will probably be used by those taking the subject. Miss Mandeville has had one of these discs on trial and as she approves of it they will no doubt be ordered to supply the department. These will take the place of the small stoves that the pupils had to use for cooking. New lockers are being placed in the basement.

MORE MEN AT FAYAL.

Night and Day Shifts to be Placed at Work.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—More men are to be employed at the Fayal underground mines. On Monday, night shifts will be put to work in all the shafts, so that more men will be at work than at any time since the strike, last summer. Night and day shifts are already working in the open pit, and with this additional force of men, much work will be done at the Fayal. The No. 3 shaft is now being stripped. The purposed stripping at the Adams mine is going on steadily.

BIT OFF OPPONENT'S FINGER.

Serious Charge Preferred Against Itasca County Farmer.

Grand Marais, Minn., Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charged with biting off one of the fingers of John Miller, John Francisco, a farmer living a few miles south of town, is in the city jail, awaiting a hearing on the charge of mayhem. Francisco will be given a hearing before Judge Huson some time next week. It is stated that while in a drunken condition, Francisco made a rush for Miller with the evident intention of biting his nose, but Miller managed to push Francisco's head away with his hand. It was then that Francisco is said to have bitten Miller so severely.

Owing to the inability of Judge McClenahan to be here Tuesday, the opening of the adjourned session of district court was postponed until yesterday. There are a number of civil actions to be tried and a special ventre of jurors will probably be required, if the case of Hepfel against the village of Grand Rapids is called for trial.

The Itasca county board met yesterday and considered plans for a new heating plant for the county poor farm. Bids will be advertised for the contract in a few days.

BRYAN-JOHNSON CLUB WILL BE ORGANIZED.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The popularity of W. J. Bryan and John A. Johnson in this section is attested by the fact that a Bryan and Johnson club will be organized here at a meeting to be held at the city hall tonight, to advance the interests of the candidates for president and governor respectively.

A Taft-Jacobson club has been formed here with a fair-sized membership.

HOMESTEADER FINED FOR KILLING A MOOSE.

Two Harbors, Minn., Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Warren Batters, a homesteader, living seven miles northwest of town was arrested by Game Warden August Tabor for having moose meat in his possession. He was brought before Judge Andrews and pleaded guilty to the charge and paid a fine and costs, amounting to $58.

COURT AT VIRGINIA TO BE COMMENCED OCT. 27.

Virginia, Minn., Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Clerk of the District Court J. P. Johnson has announced that a session of the district court will be held in the council chambers in this city on Tuesday, Oct. 27, at which time a number of cases will come up for trial.

PROGRAM FOR TUESDAY CLUB

Subjects to be Considered by the Two Harbors Organization.

Two Harbors, Minn., Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Tuesday club has decided upon the following program for the coming three months:

Oct. 13—"Whistler, American Artist," Miss Lottie Delaney.
Oct. 20—"Some Famous Operas," Mrs. M. K. Knauff.
Oct. 27—"Study of London." Miss Anderson.
Nov. 3—"Elizabeth Barrett Browning," Mrs. W. B. Woodward.
Nov. 10—"Race Question—Booker T. Washington," Mrs. W. S. McCracken.
Nov. 17—"Glimpse of Child Study, and the Influences Brought to Bear Upon It," Miss Morrisey.

TO REBUILD O'NEIL HOTEL.

Men Are Busy Clearing Ruins of Chisholm Hostelry.

Chisholm, Minn., Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—R. S. O'Neil, proprietor of the O'Neil hotel which was destroyed by the fire, has a large force of men at work cleaning up the premises. It is understood that he will rebuild the hotel this fall.

Mr. O'Neil had one of the finest hotels on the range. It was recently erected at the cost of $35,000 and had every requirement of a hotel, including a buffet, barber shop and baths. The people of this vicinity are hoping that Mr. O'Neill will rebuild at once as much transient trade goes to other towns instead of Chisholm.

LOOKING FOR ROUTE.

Engineers Seeking Non-Mineral Lands for Right of Way.

Chisholm, Minn., Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Surveyors employed by the Oliver Iron Mining company are at work east of the Catholic church trying to find land that will not be mined for a certain length of time. As soon as the surveyors are through and they make a report to the officials of the mining company the officials will give the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad a permit to run cars over the mining company's land between the Chisholm mine and town.

Supt. West and Supt. Mitchell have promised a permit for a certain length of time to the railroad officials and this fixes the only hitch that was in the way of the Missabe coming into Chisholm.

PROBABLY SAME MEN.

Suspects Driven From Eveleth, Probably Attacked Chisholm Safe.

Chisholm, Minn., Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The people of this town believe that the suspected characters that were chased out of Eveleth Tuesday morning are the same men that broke into the Great Northern depot early Wednesday morning, and tried to blow the safe open with nitro-glycerin, but failed and were either afraid to come back and find out why the fuse didn't work or were scared by somebody passing on tracks in front.

The authorities have looked into the matter and will try to round up the suspected characters that were last seen in Eveleth.

HIGH SCHOOL PROGRAM.

Given on Friday by the Two Harbors Pupils.

Two Harbors, Minn., Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The pupils of the high school rendered the following program in the assembly room this morning:

Ballad, "The Miller of the Dee."....
High School Chorus.
Paper, "Ballad Poetry." .....
Matilda Rensvold.
Reading, "Lord Thomas and Fair Anne" .....

GRAND RAPIDS EVENTS.

Current Happenings in the Itasca County Seat.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Oct. 9.—Special to The Herald.)—A chicken pie supper will be served at Miller's by the Ladies' Guild of the Episcopal church on Saturday evening next.

As one of the results of Perrington's illigitimate moose, Charles Wright, who lives on the north shore of Ice lake has been arrested on a charge of having some of the spoils in his possession. He will have a hearing on Friday, Oct. 16, before Justice Huson.

Mrs. John Anderson of Hibbing, who arrived on a visit to her parents at Blackberry, also John Anderson, has been under the doctor's care since coming here last week. She has been stopping at the home of B. E. Benson.

Harry L. Denier of Bigfork has decided to locate in Grand Rapids for the present and engage in view and general photo work. He is stopping at the Fountain house and will be pleased to do work of this character for patrons.

E. W. Shepperd late foreman of the Phoenix building barber shop, Minneapolis, has accepted a position with Billideau in the Pokegama shop. He takes the chair of Oliver Dutton, who in company with Lee Peckhanu, will open a shop at Coleraine.

Mrs. S. J. Cable, wife of S. J. Cable, who formerly was engaged in the meat business at Grand Rapids, died recently in Crookston.

Going to Raise Fruit.

Virginia, Minn., Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Alderman James Laviollette, proprietor of the Virginia Troy steam laundry, has gone to North Yakima, Wash., where he expects to invest in a fruit orchard. Mr. and Mrs. Laviollette recently returned from a visit to Washington and were so favorably impressed with that section of the country that that decided to go into the fruit raising business.

Victim of Lung Trouble.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Millie Millavitz, 23 years of age, who works at the Adams mine, died early in the week in one of the Adams camps of pulmonary consumption, was buried Tuesday, interment being at Virginia.

A number of births have been recorded during the past week. Last Saturday a son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Abram Hiltunen and a son was also born to Mr. and Mrs. Mike Lushin. On Tuesday a daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Nester Maki.

TIGERS ARE CRIPPLED UP

gaged in their final practice for the great game. The players reported at the park immediately after breakfast, and were kept at work at top speed, until noon. Under the rules governing the world's series, Shortstop Bush is not eligible to play with the local team in the series, and this will put O'Leary into the game, despite the fact that he has a badly bruised thumb.

It is Manager Jennings' intention to have Pitcher Killian, Detroit's strong left-hander, face the Chicago team in the opening game. Catcher Schmidt is expected to catch most of the games during the series, in spite of a painful finger, which the club physician says is both dislocated and slightly fractured.

Contractors had men at work in the park today putting up extra seats, and President Navin declared that by noon tomorrow the park will be ready for a crowd of 20,000 to 25,000. It is expected there will be seating capacity for about 25,000.

The Chicago team arrived here this afternoon. "I feel confident we will win the world's title," said Jennings today, "yet I will make no prediction. All I will say is that when the Cubs get through with the series they will know they have been in a fight."

RAPS THE RAIL LAWS

the Great Lakes will not only develop the whole Mississippi valley, until it becomes as great in manufacture as it is in agriculture, but it will aid in the further progress of the entire nation.

"I think I fairly represent the general sentiment of their officers when I say that the railroads of the country do not look upon your enterprise with unfriendly eyes, because we realize that this work finished will make it possible—and nothing else short of the expenditure of appalling sums of money could—for us to handle the commerce, which is certain to follow the return of a firm establishment of national prosperity."

Mr. Shonts declared that the greatest obstacle that the steam railroads have to overcome if they are permitted to operate and expand as the traffic of the country grows, is the providing of adequate terminals, and the opening of this waterway would greatly aid in the solution of this question.

Shonts declared because of hostile legislation and fear of owners of railroad securities that they will not be allowed to manage their own properties, the railroad development of the country is at a complete standstill, and he further said that there can be no return of prosperity that will stay with us until the railroads are fairly treated.

the entrance to the Dardanelles. It belongs to Turkey. The population mainly is Greek.

Reservists Ordered Out.

Budapest, Oct. 9.—According to information received here the Servian reservists have been ordered to join the colors, Oct. 11. It is reported, also, that Servian bands are being formed and directions, consequently, have been given to guard the roads and bridges on the Bosnian frontier.

Situation Improving.

Vienna, Oct. 9.—Official advices received here this morning declare that the situation at Belgrade, Servia, is improving. The general excitement among the Servians is calming down. In Vienna the fears of a war with Servia are noticeably less. The morning papers, however, warn Servia not to play with fire, as Austria-Hungary will not stand any nonsense.

In spite of the official statement that the dispatch of river gunboats from Budapest in the direction of Belgrade is only a maneuver, this action is believed here to be a measure of precaution similar to the guarding of the bridges near the frontier by regiments of infantry. The hope is expressed that this will make an impression on Servia and prevent that kingdom from precipitating hostilities.

Ordered to Continue.

Constantinople, Oct. 9.—The porte has instructed the imperial Ottoman commissioner resident in Sofia to continue his functions, as neither Turkey nor the powers have recognized the independence of Bulgaria.

pourparlers with the American government.

"Nevertheless, the men in the institutions concerned have been closemouthed regarding their role in the Panama sale. On several occasions political agents have been in Paris investigating reports that an American syndicate and not the French company really sold the canal to the United States, but they were unable to obtain the complete details.

"The last investigator was a certain Col. Bacon, who grew weary over the obstacles placed in his way, but who returned with sufficient data, so it is said, to 'make things hot' for the members of the syndicate concerned. These men were Charles P. Taft, William Nelson Cromwell and J. Pierpont Morgan, the last named being much in the background.

WHITE HAIRED COUPLE WED AFTER MANY YEARS.

Menominee, Mich., Oct. 9.—County Clerk Hansen witnessed one of the strangest marriages in his official career yesterday afternoon, when George Geddes and Lovina McDonald of Grover, Wis., were united as man and wife. Her lover for years, a white haired Grand Army boy of 78 years, promised to love, honor and obey his sweetheart of 76 years. The couple were as happy as elopers of 16 years. The ceremony was performed by Edwin P. Radford, who is the chairman of the board of supervisors of this county and also a justice of the peace.

REPORTED GOLD FIND.

Prospector Said to Have Discovered Rich Canadian Lead.

Port Arthur, Ont., Oct. 9.—The greatest discovery of gold in Western Canada, between here and the Great Lakes is said to have been made this week by Peter King, at Sturgon lake, in the district near Port Arthur, where he has been prospecting. He brought back samples of the gold ore and nuggets of great value. The ore taken from the property is so rich that there is already a stampede of hundreds to the new district.

Here to Meet Sister.

Eau Claire, Wis., Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Helen Luhm, who resides at 917 Barland avenue, will leave for Duluth the latter part of the week, where she will be met by her sister, Clara, who has been visiting friends and relatives at that city for the past week, from whence they will leave for Spokane and other points in the West. They expect to remain until the holidays.

"O. K." Legal Form.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Oct. 9.—Judge Heaton of the superior court held yesterday that the letters of an order for money and having a signature under them, mean "all right," and are equivalent to an indorsement.

STRIKE OF A MILLION

Cotton Spinners of Lancashire, England, May Join Unemployed.

Would Directly Affect the Livelihood of 3,000,000 People.

London, Oct. 9.—One million persons may be added to Great Bratain's immense army of unemployed by the action of the cotton operatives of Lancashire in resolving, by an overwhelming majority, to resist the employers' demand for a 5 per cen reduction in wages. The spinners' majority amounted to 92.44 per cent of those who took part in the ballot; that of the card room workers was 90.59 per cent.

In the case of the former, no ballot papers were circulated; members went in person to their respective headquarters, and 75.5 per cent gave proof of their keen interest in the dispute by recording their votes. It is worth mention that the employers carried their resolution in favor of pressing for a reduction by 92 per cent of the members of the association; hence the percentage of support behind both parties is practically the same.

The issues at stake are enormous, as the strike will directly affect the livelihood of 3,000,000 people, of whom 1,000,000 are in the mills and other works dependent on the cotton fabrics. The other 2,000,000 are their dependents.

Many Out of Work.

News from other manufacturing centers is equally pessimistic. Twenty thousand workmen are unable to find employment in Glasgow, hundreds are being discharged at Liverpool and other shipping centers and unemployment demonstrations are taking place everywhere.

In some cities "hunger marches" are being held. Public collections are being taken in many cities, but the amounts received are too small to relieve the distress in any appreciable degree.

The growing distress in the city of Belfast is taxing the resources of the poor law authorities, and not a little anxiety prevails in regard to the winter months. There were over 700 more inmates in the workhouse than at the corresponding period last pear. Inquiries show that there is no immediate prospect of any general improvement in the linen trade. A few factories have gone on full time, but unfortunately the same cannot be said of any of the establishments in the spinning end.

Some of the factories have gone on full time to use up yarns or execute orders. If the mills were to go on full time it would only be with a limited number of spindles. The restriction of output by working only thirty-two hours per week has prevented the great accumulation of stocks which took place seven or eight years ago during a similar period of depression.

A National Disaster.

A strike in the Lancashire cotton trade is little less than a national disaster. Those who remember the bygone strikes in that district know how fiercely they are waged there, and to what extremities the combatants generally proceed, when once war is declared, before they will listen to overtures for peace.

There has been no strike during the last fifteen years, though disputes have not been infrequent, and some were pushed very close up to the line. Yet a golden bridge was always devised at the last moment.

As most people are aware Lancashire has lately passed through a veritable golden age of prosperity. A dozen years ago it was common to hear mill owners lamenting the ruin of the country. They freely prophesied that no capitalist would ever be rash enough to build another cotton mill, and the extinction of the industry was only a matter of time.

Then came a turn in the tide; things gradually mended through a steady succession of years, and in 1904 there set in a boom to which the history of the trade can supply no parallel. During the next three years the profits made, especially by the spinners, were fabulous. Every wheel that would revolve was set going, and a mania for mill building began, with golden results for the moment, but containing within itself the certainty of eventual loss.

$75,000,000 in Spindles and Looms.

It has been estimated that a sum of no less than $75,000,000 was invested in Lancashire during the boom years from 1904 to 1907 in laying down new spindles and looms. This enormous increase of new productive power could be profitably employed so long as orders continued to pour into Lancashire from all quarters of the world. But towards the close of last year it began to be evident that the end of the boom was near; trade slackened visibly, and of late the depression had grown more and more acute, till Lancashire became almost a dead region.

There were not sufficient orders to keep the new machinery at work. The production was vastly in excess of the demand. Huge stocks accumulated, and the ports of the Far East, especially were said to be choked with consignments of unsalable cotton goods.

Boom Helped Operatives.

The operatives, of course, benefited during the boom years by reason of regular work and increased wages. All the changes in wages during the last eight or nine years had been in their favor, and the recent rate was the highest ever known in the industry. The argument of the employers was that, now the boom was over, there ought to be an immediate reduction, did not appeal to the operatives, who replied that labor did not obtain even a trifling increase until after capital had secured roaring profits from the spurt in trade.

It is undeniable that the great spinning companies which publish balance sheets have put away to their reserves during the last three years sums of money which guarantee their shareholders reasonable dividends for the next few years, notwithstanding strikes or bad trade.

ANCIENT INDIAN SITE.

North Dakota Historical Society Secured Good Place.

Bismarck, N. D., Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The most desirable ancient Indian site has been secured for the State Historical society of North Dakota, by land grants obtained from the United States government for the purpose of exchanging these lands granted for the lands of private owners, on which that Indian village was located.

The site is located north of the old Fort Lincoln site. It is the second Mandan Indian village found (abandoned twenty years before their expedition) by Lewis and Clark, who had their fourth camp in North Dakota, on a knoll directly south of the village site. The village is in a very good state of preservation, and is rich in an abundance of deposits containing valuable relics of a time previous to their contact with white people, except a very few like the De la Verendrye brothers and maybe a few of the French trappers.

MOSQUITOES WERE FIERCE

Nearly Ate Up Explorer in the Hudson Bay Country.

New York, Oct. 9.—Dr. R. H. Lowie of the department of anthropology in the American Museum of Natural History has returned from his journey to the land of the primitive Chippewayans thirteen pounds lighter, but greatly the gainer in knowledge of a strange people. It took him a month and a day to reach the remote region of the Hudson Bay country, and when he got to the starless north he fought mosquitoes by the millions, lived on corn cakes and salt pork three times a day, and devoted a large portion of his time to getting in and out of canoes.

His passage of the Athabasca river was in a craft which was towed up stream by eight obliging Indians, who ran along the shores or waded the shallows for 100 miles. The jolting and the rolling about that the doctor experienced as well as the attacks of the most savage mosquitoes he has ever seen, caused him perceptibly to reduce his weight. He was obliged constantly to wear a head net.

The savant, however, managed to get back after many hard-fought battles with conditions. He left this city on May 5th last, proceeded to Alberta by rail, to the Athabasca river, then embarked on the stream, and eventually arrived at Fort Chippewayan on Lake Athabasca.

The Indians there are regarded as less affected by civilization than any other tribe, and only once or twice a year do they go to the trading posts. They exchange peltries for food and clothing, but care little for the merchandise of the white man. Dr. Lowie brought back with him weapons, beadwork, implements for tanning hides and the like. He also gathered much of the lore and traditions of the people, which will be published under the direction of the museum.

Where Bullets Flew.

David Parker, of Fayette, N. Y., a veteran of the civil war, who lost a foot at Gettysburg, says: "The good Electric Bitter have done is worth more than five hundred dollars to me. I spent much money doctoring for a bad case of stomach trouble, to little purpose. I then tried Electric Bitters, and they cured me. I now take them as a tonic, and they keep me strong and well." 50c at all drug stores.

SEDITION IN INDIA

Ultimate General Uprising Against British Rule in View.

Preaching Revolt and Assassination of the Hated English.

Calcutta, Oct. 9.—Widespread disaffection against the imperial government prevails in the provinces, and all India seethes with sedition.

Awakening to a realization of their almost irresistible strength, if united, agitators are corrupting the loyalty of the people, with an ultimate general uprising against British rule in view. Activity in the revolutionary movement does not stop at words. There are attempted assassinations, and in some instances loyal tribesmen are attacked.

Civil war is raging throughout the Orakzai territory, from the Khanki valley and Samanga range on the south to Tirah on the north. The various Orakzai tribes have thrown in their lot either with the Samil faction or Gar faction, and the quarrel with regard to Clitmark, the state of the late Sarwar Khan, has resolved itself into a political, intertribal feud, which is rending the country from end to end.

Sepoys returning to their homes on leave, and other travelers, have to proceed with the greatest precaution; for, not only is every man's hand of the one tribe against every man of another, but the present state of anarchy and war has encouraged bands of robbers to attack all travelers indiscriminately.

Gars Fight Samils.

The war is being waged with particular violence and hatred between the Ali Khel and Mala Khel. The former are Gars, the latter Samils. The contending lashkars are separated by a narrow nullah, not more than 100 yards broad, across which a hot fire is poured all day.

The Mala Khel have built a cannon, which takes 160 men to draw it; and with this weapon are investing the fortified Ali Khel village of Zanga Khel. Up till lately a Siku, trained in some British battery, has been working the gun at a charge of twenty rupees for every hit. He managed to make three holes in the chief tower.

Now the gun has been handed over to a well-known character, Jemadar Mir Khan, late of the Fortieth Pathans. The Jemadar Sahib is a Mishti and has undertaken to level the Zanga Khel fortifications for the Mala Khels. He has taken on the business on a contract by which he gets 1,000 rupees on the destruction of the fort.

Powder is a difficulty, but projectiles are available in almost unlimited quantities, having been laboriously collected from the various battlefields of the '97 war, such as Dargai and Sampaga.

Wazir Wazirs Driven Out.

On the death of Sarwar Khan two years ago the Wazirs seized his estates of Chinarak. The inhabitants of Chinarak have now offered the Ali Khel a large sum of money, said to be $10,000, if they will drive out the Wazirs. The Ali Khel are, of ucorse, anxious to do so, but the Mala Khel, who would doubtless like to take up the contract themselves, are preventing them from offering Chinarak any assistance.

The Mishtis, emulating the Malas, have built a gun at the cost of $350, and its explosions can be heard all day in Fort Lockhart. Its range is 500 yards, and it throws olive wood balls bound with iron bands. At first it shot deplorably high, but the weights have been readjusted, and it is now the terror of the neighboring hostile towers. There seems absolutely no prospects of matters quieting down. The Afridis, Zaimasht and other neighbors are taking no interest in the quarrel.

One in Eight Must Enlist.

According to reports received at Allagabad, from Kabul, regulations regarding recruiting for the army are being fully enforced, one man in every eight having to enlist. The ameer has issued orders that recruits are to be trained at the military headquarters of the various provinces. Frontier news states that the tolls have been abolished upon arms, and ammunition imported into Afghanistan. This will encourage the gun runners, controlling caravans which visit the Mekran coast every cold weather.

Prices are steadily falling in consequence of the large number of rifles that have recently been received by Afghan traders, and a brisk trade in arms is now being done, especially in the Jellalabad district. It is said that the Mohmands and Bajouris are among those making purchases, so that the number of breechloaders in the tribal country to the north of the Kabul river is likely to increase at a rapid pace.

To Tell of Indian Troubles.

Bepin Chandra Pal has left Calcutta for a tour around the world. There was a small gathering of Bengalis, numbering about thirty, at the docks to see him off. Bepin Pal is reported to be going first to Marseilles and thence to America. It is stated that he will "place the cause of India before the independent world."

Dacca was recently placarded with the following notice in Bengali, printed in bold characters: "Wake up, sons of India! Wake up! Instead of one head of a Bengalee, chop off 100 heads of Faringhees."

During his recent tour, Sir John Hewett, lieutenant governor of the United Provinces, held meetings at Lucknow, Allahabad and Agra, at which he addressed the citizens on the political situation. His honor referred to the attempts to assassinate Sir Andrew Fraser, the Muzafferpur outrage, the attempt on the maire of Chandernagore, as well as to the fact that there is a secret society in Bengal, the creed of which is anarchy, pure and simple.

Sir John Has No Fears.

Sir John added that he did not think for a moment that there was any widespread disaffection in the United Provinces, but because influences undoubtedly were abroad which had for their object the corruption of the loyalty of the people of these districts, he thought it necessary to speak to the leaders of the people with freedom and confidence.

The movement in Bengal was directed primarily against the government, but it also spelt danger to all who had any stake in the country, and if human society was to hold together it was necessary to extirpate anarthy and the anarchists from their midst. The first duty of government was to preserve law and order, and he invoked the assistance of the people in suppressing the elements of disorder.

He referred to the tone of certain newspapers, and said he was determined to insist on the enforcement of the law in respect of seditious writing.

FISH BECOMING SCARCER.

Lake Superior Fishermen Making Fewer Big Catches.

Marquette, Mich., Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—That the fish of Lake Superior are being depleted at an alarming rate is the assertion of commercial fishermen operating at this point. As evidence in support of this contention, attention is directed to the fact that since the spring of 1907, eight fishing tugs have gone out of commission, and that at the present time only four are being operated in Michigan waters, compared with double that number a year ago.

Two of the four tugs are the Theora and Columbia, of Marquette, and the Booth company's Emba and Endress, of Grand Marais. Where formerly tons of whitefish were taken at a lift, the fishermen now consider themselves lucky to get a few hundred pounds, and to a lesser extent, the same conditions apply to the catch of lake trout. The jumbo whitefish, which brought only five cents per pound twenty years ago, and then had to be salted down for want of a ready market at times, is now in constant demand at from eighteen to twenty-five cents per pound.

Only for the fact that the Federal government collects spawn in the fall, as the tugs lift their nets, and subsequently propogates and plants the fry that are hatched from the eggs, is the fish supply of its present proportions. The fishermen recognize the great work of the United States fish commission, and efforts are to be made to secure the establishment of a fish hatchery at Marquette. There are institutions of the kind at Duluth and Sault Ste. Marie, but their combined capacity is not sufficient to care for all the spawn it is possible to secure.

SICK DRUGGISTS

What they do when THEY have Kidney Disease.

Druggists know that "Kidney trouble" is "inflammation of the kidneys" and that if it doesn't yield promptly it becomes chronic, which the books declare to be incurable. Hence they don't lose much time with so-called kidney medicines.

W. H. Bell the leading druggist of Live Oak, Fla., went to the Atlanta specialist, Dr. W. M. Durham, to treat his kidney disease. He had it in such a serious form that he wanted the best. He also went to Dr. C. Drew, the leading physician of Jacksonville, Fla. All efforts failed and the dropsical stage began.

He then sent to California for the Fulton treatment.

The seventh month thereafter he wrote as follows:

"I am doing finely, the swelling is" "all out and I am 100 per cent better." "Mrs. R. W. Price of this city also" "had serious kidney disease, and" "could not turn over in bed. I told" "her about the treatment. She" "took it and is now doing her own" "work again and says she is well." "Another lady here had kidney dis-" "ease all her life and could not get" "out much. I put her on the treat-" "ment and she is well, too."

How can people doubt the curability of chronic kidney disease in view of the constant stream of testimony like the above?

FAST AUTOS AND FINES CLOTHES

Bane of the Church, Declares the Pennsylvania Coadjutor.

New York, Oct. 9.—Alexander Mackay-Smith, bishop coadjutator of Pennsylvania, with Mrs. Mackay-Smith, who has returned from attendance at the Lambeth conference of the Protestant Episcopal church, held at London, had some interesting things to say on the attitude of the Episcopal church toward divorce, and the difficulties that confront the church in the United States.

"The English bishops," said he, "introduced a very radical resolution in the conference, absolutely prohibiting the clergy from performing the marriage ceremony for divorced persons, no matter whether in fault or not. Through the influence of the American bishops this resolution was modified, permitting the remarriage of divorced persons who were not at fault. This is the rule enforced by the Protestant Episcopal convention in the United States."

"What is the greatest evil with which the church is called on to contend?" he was asked.

"Worldliness," was the reply. "Too much money, too much prosperity. They make men and women careless of their souls' salvation."

"Is such wealth as that possessed by the Morgans and Rockefellers and Harrimans objectionable?"

Bishop Mackay-Smith did not answer directly.

"It is the general tendency toward extravagant living that I refer to," said he. "Too much epicureanism, too much fine raiment, too many fast automobiles."

"And the remedy?"

"Preaching of the old-time gospel. I do not mean to preach hell, fire and brimstone, but I do mean that the preacher should have them in mind when he addresses his congregation."

VALLEY CITY CONCLUDES VERY GOOD BOND SALE.

Valley City, N. D., Oct. 9.—The city council met in regular session and transacted considerable business Tuesday. The most important business of the session was the opening of bids for the municipal bonds, which were voted for the purpose of taking up floated electric light plant obligations. There were ten bids submitted, all from regular parties. The successful bidder was the Minnesota Loan & Trust, Minneapolis, their bid being $18,645 for the bonds, interest at 5 per cent annually. The interest dates from Sept. 1, 1908, making the bonds more than $720. This was a remarkably good sale and to one of the largest concerns of the Northwest.

Would Mortgage the Farm.

A farmer on Rural Route 2, Empire, Ga., W. A. Floyd by name, says: "Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured the two worst sores I ever saw; one on my hand and one on my leg. It is worth more than its weigh in gold. I would not be without it if I had to mortgage the farm to get it." Only 25c at all drug stores.

CAUSE AND CURE OF RHEUMATISM

A DISCOVERY OF STATISTICAL FACTS THAT LED TO A NEW TREATMENT.

NERVE PAIN MEANS NERVE STARVATION

How Modern Methods Succeed in Disposing of the Cause of the Disease Instead of Treating the Symptoms.

Neuralgia means simply "nerve pain," so there may be great variation in the character and intensity of the pain and any nerve in the body may be affected.

There are a number of causes of neuralgia but the most common is a general run-down condition of the physical system. The discovery of this fact from reliable statistics led to the new treatment for neuralgia which consists in building up the general health by the tonic treatment and so disposing of the cause of the trouble.

Persons reduced by acute sickness, or by severe mental or physical strain or by loss of sleep are frequently victims of neuralgia and it is common in the case of those suffering from anaemia, or bloodlessness. This brings us very close to the actual cause of neuralgia which is nerve starvation. The blood, which in normal health carries to the nerves all of their nourishment, is unable to perform this duty satisfactorily when it is weak and impure. Build up the blood then, and the neuralgic pains will disappear as the nerves become better nourished. The tonic treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, a blood-making tonic, meets this condition most admirably as the cure of Mrs. Mary Burrows of No. 109 Willis avenue west, Detroit, Mich., proves.

"A few years ago," says Mrs. Burrows, "while in a run-down conditon from overwork, I began to suffer with neuralgia. The pains were all over my body, but principally in my limbs. As the disease became more pronounced I noticed that the muscles of my legs were becoming numb. After a time my left leg became so bad I could walk only a little ways, when I would have to stop and rub it before I had the use of it again. The skin was cold, I had headaches and dizzy spells. I could not sleep well and was troubled with melancholy.

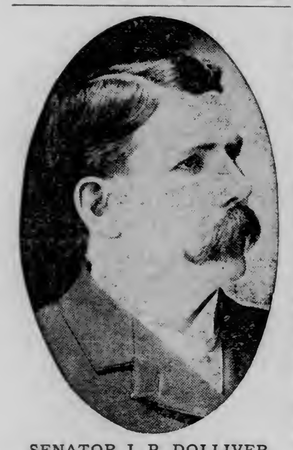

"I consulted the best doctors and was in three hospitals in Montreal, where I was then living. After eight months in the hospital I was as bad off as ever. I then tried several remedies and also massage with no better results. In a book left at my home I read that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills had cured many cases similar to mine and I commenced to take them. I began to have less pain and more use of my legs and grew more cheerful. I kept improving all of the time until cured and have never been seriously ill since. I always keep the pills in the house as a tonic medicine."

Further information about the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in neuralgia and other diseases of the nerves is given in our booklet "Nervous Disorders." It is free upon request.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be sent, postpaid on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams' Medicine company, Schenectady, N. Y.

DOLLIVER NAMED— SUCCEEDS ALLISON

Fort Dodge, Iowa, Oct. 9.—Senator J. P. Dolliver of this city has received a communication from President Roosevelt, informing him that he has been appointed a member of the waterways commission, to fill the vacancy made by the death of the late Senator Allison. The appointment came as a complete surprise, and is significant by reason of the fact that the president made the late senator a member as a mark of his appreciation for his knowledge of the natural resources of the country and his rare judgment as to what means could best be employed for their conservation.

The appointment denotes the fact that the president recognizes the ability of Senator Dolliver to cope with many of the burdens which recently rested on the shoulders of Senator Allison.

Cultivating Slimness

Fat women must take this injunction to heart if they want to be in style for the new modes will not drape over a fat figure.

The fat has got to come off quickly, but without harm, of course, and this means only one thing can be depended upon. Exercising or dieting are too slow. The fat woman who wants to wear a form-clinging gown must make an immediate trip to her druggist and get a case of Marmola Prescription Tablets, which will cost her about 75 cents.

Taking one of these after each meal and at bedtime should be enough to bring her to the "losing-a-pound-a-day" stage before even the first case is used up. It is hardly believable that such delightful results can be obtained without harm and for such a small sum of money, but then, fact is stranger than fiction.

Test the effect of these tablets by getting a case yourself, either from the Marmola Company, Detroit, Mich., or from any druggist. They are made in exact accordance with the famous Marmola Prescription and, consequently, can not have any ill effects.

IS OPPOSED TO ELOPING

Mrs. John A. Logan Points Out Evils of Clandestine Marriages.

Says the Lives of Both Parties Are Usually Wrecked.

(By Mrs. John A. Logan.)

Washington, Oct. 9.—Next to divorces, of which they are frequently the forerunners, elopements are the most deplorable events in the line of matrimony. There have been happy marriages in which elopements figured, but permanent happiness rarely.

A man who suggests elopements to the girl or woman whom he wishes to marry has not that keen sense of manliness, honor and discretion which would eventually overcome opposition to the consummation of his desires if he would wait and prove to the friends of the one he would make his wife that he would be a worthy husband.

There is no excuse that can be offered by young or old people that justifies entering into the sacred relations of marriage under circumstances attending "runaway" affairs. There is a lack of dignity and appreciation of the solemnity of the holy ordinance on the part of persons who marry clandestinely. When parents or guardians oppose the marriage of any two persons, there are always grounds for such opposition, and persons who defy those who love them best and wilfully disregard expressed opposition, almost invariably have occasion to repent of their folly. If true love is at the bottom of the desire to marry, the parties most interested can afford to wait until all opposition disappears. In the meantime they may discover that what they supposed was undying love for each other was a hallucination, and that they are ill suited for each other. "Married in haste, one may repent at leisure," is an adage as old as the language we use.

* * *

Washington is a veritable Gretna Green for Maryland, Virginia, and the Carolinas. Scarcely a day passes that does not bring couples from these states who come to Washington to be married and see the sights of the capital city. The superintendent of police is appealed to constantly to prevent the marriage of minors, but rarely succeeds in apprehending them until too late, as those bent on matrimony are very wary and generally find a minister who is willing to perform the ceremony before the police find that those whom they seek are in the city. In cases where children in their teens follow their romantic ideas to the extent of actually getting married, it is a sin and anyone performing the marriage ceremony should be prosecuted to the extent of the law.

A perfect wave of elopements has swept over the country during the past two or three years. Many of these marriages being nothing more or less than escapades, they have in a brief time appeared in the divorce courts. In some cases where mere children have dared to enter secretly into wedlock, parents have interfered and separated the would-be husbands and wives. This is a serious matter, and one fraught with many grave problems as to what is best to do in such cases. The lives of both parties to a clandestine marriage are usually wrecked by the foolish marriage. School girls and boys getting into automobiles and hying themselves off to some county seat or city hall, where they can obtain a license and find some one authorized to perform the marriage service is of all too frequent occurrence.

Not long ago a boy and a girl took a trolley ride out to Rockville, the county seat of Montgomery county, Maryland, obtained a license and found some one who was wicked enough to marry them. They then went to a confectioners, bought some candy and sat down near the track and waited for a car to return to Washington. They each returned to their respective homes and thought to keep their marriage a secret. The mother of the young bride, being dissatisfied with her daughter's explanation of her disappearance from home, insisted upon being told the truth as to where she had been and who was with her, and finally succeeded in getting the whole story. The father of the boy groom was informed of the facts and was so outraged and indignant that the boy ran away, and both families were overwhelmed with grief over the affair.

Disappointment, ruin of careers, eventual disagreements, disenchantment and separation are the usual consequences of elopements.

ASKS JURY FOR A CONVICTION

Prosecutor Outlines State Case in Gollnik Murder Trial.

Little Falls, Minn., Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The state put in yesterday in the Gollnik murder case introducing evidence in support of its contntion, that Mrs. Gollnik killed her husband and asked that the woman be convicted of murder in the second degree.

A jury was selected after 133 men had been examined and consists of the following: John Blake, Motley; Frank Blake, Bellevue; G. S. Smith, Morrill; T. A. Krause, Clough; Frank Duford, Little Falls; Joseph Husting, Cushing; George Ogg, Morrill; John Nygren, Motley; Peter Picotte, Belle Prairie.

Prosecutor Blanchard, in his statement to the jury of what the state proposed to prove, spoke of the way in which William Gollnik had met his death and stated that the blows must have been struck while he was asleep and that they were struck from the side. He recalled the fact that the defendant and her husband had not gotten along well for several years and that she had started action three times for divorce. She had also told the neighbors that she would divorce herself. He said that the defendant at one time purchased a revolver and practiced shooting. The state also mentioned the fact that one night the murdered man left the house and went to the barn where he slept that night. The defendant acknowledged later that she had a strong temptation to follow him and shoot him, after which she would drag the body down the hill and say that her husband had killed himself. Mr. Blanchard told of the last day of William Gollnik's life and how he went home in a drunken stupor and retired in the same state. He reminded the jurors of the fact that the defendant and three small children were the only persons in the house with the dead man that night.

LARGE ENTERING CLASS.

Freshman Class at Princeton is Largest in Three Years.

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 9.—The entering class at Princeton university is somewhat larger than it was last year. At present the tenative figures are: Academic, 160; bachelors of science and of letters, 152; civil engineers, 60; making a total of 372 as against 324 last year, a gain of 48. There is an increase of 28 in the academic department and the bachelors of science and of letters show a gain of 51, but there are 31 less civil engineers. The loss in the engineering department is accounted for by the fact that the new increased requirements for admission to that department went into effect this academic year. As compared wih recent years the present freshman class is the largest since 1905. The exact data as to the number of freshman entering with conditions are not obtainable, but the report that there are fewer applicants admitted this year on trial is corroborated by the faculty committee in charge.

CONTESTANTS RESTRAINED.

Bigelow and Gyams' Hands Tied in Stock Ownership Fight.

Boston, Oct. 9.—An injunction was granted by Judge Lowell in the United States circuit court yesterday restraining Albert S. Bigelow and G. M. Hyams of this city, from contesting the ownership of the Calumet & Hecla Mining company of 22,801 shares of the stock of the Osceola Consolidated Mining company at the annual meeting on Oct. 10 of the Calumet company. Judge Lowell stated that he would not issue a formal decree until he learned the decision of the Michigan federal court, which recently decided that the Calumet company had the right to hold the Osceola stock.

Pending the issuance of the decree, he ordered the Calumet company to file a bond of indenture, the amount to be agreed upon, that Messrs. Bigelow and Hyams might not suffer loss pending the arrival of the Michigan decision.

CONVENTION MEETS IN A BEDROOM TO NOMINATE

John Maddox of Minnesota Named for Vice President.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Oct. 9.—The Liberal party held its first national convention in this city for the purpose of putting candidates in the field for the presidency and the vice presidency of the United States and the following nominations were made.

For president, Sydney C. Tapp of Atlantic, Ga. For vice president, John Maddox of Minnesota. Mr. Maddox was chosen as chairman of the national committee.

The convention was called to order in a bed room of one of the hotels and was attended by not over a dozen persons, including the candidates. Although the leaders have made it a particular point to impress on the ladies the fact that the party is the champion of woman suffrage, there was not a woman present at the national convention. The doors were securely locked and the public was barred from the session.

Land Registrations.

Dallas, S. D., Oct. 9.—It is estimated that 60,000 have filed applications for Tripp county lands at all points by yesterday's registrations were 5,553 at Dallas; 703 at Grigory; 480 at Preshe; 3,477 at O'Neil and 188 at Valentine. There was more disorder today and sixty police now guard the town. There was a great crowd today.

JACOBSON---ENEMY OF DULUTH.

Duluth takes great pride in its beautiful and useful normal school, and there are many who remember the long and hard struggle it took to get that school located here and constructed. Apparently, judging from the fact that there are Duluth men who openly support the candidacy of J. F. Jacobson for governor, some have forgotten that struggle, so it will be well to take a look through the records and refresh the public mind.

Duluth won its school, but it was won against the bitter opposition of Jacobson, who fought its every step as he fought every other measure that directly benefited Duluth and Northern Minnesota, and as he supported every measure promising harm to this section.

The first step was taken in the session of 1895, when it was provided that if the city of Duluth would donate a site of six acres of land, the normal school would be established there, with a proviso that no money should be spent upon it immediately. Jacobson bitterly opposed this measure, which passed the house March 12, 1895, and also took occasion to attack the entire normal school proposition. He saw only that it took money out of the state treasury; it meant nothing to him that the money was invested in properly preparing teachers for their highly important duty of educating the children of the state. He is one of those men who can see why cattle should be carefully raised, but cannot see why the state should give attention to the rearing of its children. After the bill was passed an attempt was made to get a little money through the omnibus appropriation bill, and this Jacobson fought and defeated.

In the session of 1897 an attempt was made to get an appropriation of $70,000 to build the school. That amount was recommended by the state normal board. Again Jacobson showed his teeth, and while he was unable to defeat the item entirely, he got it cut to the insignificant sum of $5,000. Later in the session the Duluth delegation tried to raise this to $15,000, but Jacobson was successful in defeating that attempt.

The final fight of 1899 will long be remembered by those that participated in it. The matter had dragged through two sessions, and though Duluth had complied with every term of the conditions imposed by the legislature, and had supplied a splendid and convenient site for the school, the site still lay idle, and nothing had been done except such preliminary work as the $5,000 pittance of 1897 had provided for. An attempt was now made to secure an appropriation of $75,000 with which to build the school. This Jacobson opposed with all his characteristic vehemence and bitterness. He used every possible variety of tactics to delay and defeat the proposal. The committee on appropriations, of which he was a member, recommended the appropriation, but on the floor of the house Jacobson led a prodigious fight against it. He emptied his vials of wrath and venom upon the proposition, incidentally betraying his characteristic enmity to Duluth and to education generally, fighting every foot of the way with jaundiced determination. Working with their friends, trading a vote here and a vote there, the Duluth members finally won, with a scant margin of three votes, and Jacobson, discomfitted at Duluth's triumph, had the bitter experience of seeing the bill pass and go over to the senate, where it was adopted with but little opposition.

This is the man who asks the citizens of Duluth to vote to put him in a place where his potentialities of mischief would be infinitely greater than they were when he was in the legislature.

CAMPAIGN BRIBES AND THREATS.

It had seemed that there was to be no repetition this year of the shameful bulldozing and bribery of dependent citizens that disgraced the two previous campaigns in which Bryan was a candidate, but it is now evident that that sanguine expectation is not to be realized.

The form is milder this year than it was in 1896 and 1900, but it is the same old sordid appeal, though it is hardly conceivable that it will have the weight in 1908 that it has eight and twelve years ago.

For instance, it is reported that a Philadelphia manufacturer, employing a thousand hands, has posted a notice to the effect that if Taft is elected, the cut of 10 per cent in wages made some time ago will be restored. This is practically an offer of a fixed amount of money to these employes if they will vote for Taft. If that isn't plain bribery, what is it?

Other cases are reported where employers have promised more work or more pay if Bryan is beaten, and less work and less pay if Bryan is elected. These are either bribes or threats, depending upon which way you look at it. From no viewpoint whatever do such methods appear to be anything like fair campaigning.

Again, there is a report that one large copper producer said: "If Bryan is elected, copper will sell at 11 cents per pound. If Taft is elected it will sell at 15 cents a pound." This is another form of the same brutal method. This is an intimation to the employes of that copper producer that if Bryan is elected, production and wages will fall off; if Taft is elected, production and wages may increase. To holders of copper stocks it is an intimation of dividends if Taft is elected and of no dividends if Bryan wins. As a matter of fact, the copper producer that said that doesn't know anything about it. If business picks up, and the consumption of copper goes back to its old level, the price of copper will rally. If business does not pick up, copper will stay where it is or go lower. Business will pick up regardless of whether Bryan or Taft is elected. It is picking up, already, and has been for many months. When the election doubt is dispelled, business will take on a new impetus, and that no matter whether the successful candidate is Bryan or Taft. It is altogether probable that if Bryan were elected Wall street would seize the occasion to "bear" stocks for a week or so, but Wall street seizes almost any occasion fraudulently to manipulate stock values, and if the country tries to shape its course to suit the will of Wall street gamblers, it will have a busy time and a profitless one.

The use of bribes in elections is condemned universally, when it takes the form of paying $2 apiece for votes. Why shouldn't it be condemned as vigorously when it takes the form of offering higher wages and more work for votes?

BRAZEN MISREPRESENTATION.

If you stand for a liberal policy of state development, there must be adequate revenue; and will you raise this revenue by increasing the burden on the farms, homes and business houses which always pay their share, or will you raise your increased revenue from iron ore, lumber, franchises, royalties and inheritances, which in the past have shared taxation the least while able to bear taxes the most?—Governor Johnson at Montevideo Sept. 22.

With the characteristically cheap, specious cunning which it mistakes for political strategy, the News Tribune charges Governor Johnson with having advocated the tonnage tax, quoting passages from his speeches regardless of the fact that none of them has even the remotest bearing upon the tonnage tax. As a matter of fact, Governor Johnson has not advocated the tonnage tax.—Duluth Evening Herald, Oct. 8.

Governor Johnson distinctly indorsed the tonnage tax at Montevideo. No other tax on "iron ore" is possible except a tonnage tax. The present and only form of taxation is on the land.—News Tribune, Oct. 9.

With the brazen effrontery by which it usually seeks to bluff through a deliberate falsehood, the News Tribune this morning returned to the charge that Governor Johnson advocates the tonnage tax, quoting again the above paragraph from his "keynote" speech in support of that charge. By no possible distortion can these phrases be interpreted to imply a tonnage tax. The News Tribune's statement that no other tax upon iron ore is possible except the tonnage tax is the flimsiest falsehood, if it be not arrant ignorance. The iron ore in the ground is what gives the value of $200,000,000 to the iron properties; without the iron ore the assessment of the "land" would be nominal, for the land itself is nearly worthless.

In his opening speech Governor Johnson, replying to Jacobson's absurd charge of extravagance and increased taxation, showed that what Jacobson termed extravagance consisted of enlightened investment of state funds in profitable public enterprises, and that the increased taxation fell entirely upon the shoulders of interests that had not, in the past, been bearing their due share of public expense.

The quotation made by the News Tribune is a part of that argument, and another part of it is where he shows that one of the largest interests which were called upon for more taxes was the iron mining industry. The last Republican state board of equalization left the valuation of the iron mines at $42,000,000. The first board appointed by Governor Johnson pushed the valuation up to $70,000,000. A year or so ago the tax commission and the board of equalization, both appointed by Governor Johnson, again raised this valuation to $190,000,000, increasing the state tax from the iron mines from $114,000 to $660,000.

No tonnage tax here. No advocacy of it, no thought of it. Merely an attempt to make the iron mines pay their just share of the public expense by an increase in valuation which the iron companies have accepted. This not only saved money to the small taxpayers all over the state, but it cut the county tax rate in St. Louis county more than 43 per cent, and it reduced the local tax rates in all the iron range communities correspondingly. The object is equality of taxation. The means adopted to obtain that object took the form of an increased valation. There was no need of an impractical tonnage tax, and Governor Johnson, who is concerned only in fair taxation, is not advocating the method which Candidate Jacobson clamored for throughout his career.

THE FALL OF THE POLITICALLY MIGHTY.

If the present presidential campaign has done nothing else, it has served a good purpose in showing the vast change in political leadership and political morals that has been brought about in recent years.

A few years ago it was counted no disgrace to a political party to have intimate relations with large business interests. Railroad attorneys were high in party councils, were sent to the senate and put upon the bench. In many states the party machines were dominated in their inner and most powerful circles by corporation attorneys and agents. The railroads supplied passes to carry delegates to conventions, and provided campaign funds to keep the machines going. As the railroads were friendly to large business enterprises, they distributed a share of the good things to them, and accepted their advice and campaign contributions in return.

This was true of both the great parties, but more true of the Republican party because it was the party in power and therefore the party more worth cultivating.

How different it is now, at least on the surface! Foraker, discovered, is cast out. Dupont, because of his association with a trust, is forced to resign. Haskell, because of his suspected affiliations with Standard Oil and high finance, meets the same fate. Both parties indignantly spurn corporation money; at least they say they do. Both parties run away in great fright at the friendly advances of corporation attorneys and directors. Perhaps the fright is affected; perhaps they give the corporation men the wink and meet them at night in a dark alley: but before the public, at any rate, the political parties and big business are no longer bed-fellows.

In the old days, big business dominated the party machine. It is not dislodged yet, in one of the great parties, but its friendship has become dangerous. Now, for a welcome change, public servants are expected to serve people as well as property.

Cannon is hated because he still serves property, preferably property that is congested in vast amounts in few hands. His friends in congress are being defeated or, if they are particularly lucky, elected by menacingly small pluralities. Senators who habitually take the property side of a dispute between property and humanity are being defeated or scared into timid snubbing of the big interests. A few—a very few—of these reactionary statesmen have been convicted before the bar of public opinion of having taken their stand for property for a money consideration. Others not yet convicted stand accused, and must pick their steps with great deliberation and great caution.

Verily, it is a fine thing that public servants are being made to see that humanity has rights that property is bound to respect, and that the people are impatient of having their cherished hopes destroyed by the corrupting interference of arrogant greed.

After all that has been said of Foraker, Haskell, Bailey and the rest, the real question still is, as it was before: Should Bryan or Taft be elected president? And strictures upon other members of either party have little bearing upon that question.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

F. E. Drummond, one of the proprietors of the Drummond Pork Packing company of Eau Claire, Wis., stated in the St. Louis hotel yesterday that the changes that had occurred in Duluth within the past few years were something remarkable. Mr. Drummond used to make Duluth very often, at the time he was on the road for his house. Since he left the road he has not been here for five years.

Speaking about the changes in the city, Mr. Drummond stated that he had never seen such an improvement in any city in such a short space of time.

"I used to believe five or six years ago that Duluth was destined to run along in a kind of rut," said Mr. Drummond yesterday. "Duluth was a fairly lively city then, but there was not any particular promise of the improvement that has come within recent years. People used to tell me of the great future that Duluth had before it, but I used to discount about 50 per cent of what I was told. At the present time the story sounds very much different.

"I was very much surprised to see so many changes in the city. I suppose that many people come here and give you this same line of talk. Well, with me it is on the square. I am really astonished at the progress I have noted. The attitude of the business men seems to have changed since the time I used to transact business in Duluth. They seemed to be more indifferent then. I have noticed a new spirit of enterprise that seems to be in keeping with the growth and development of Duluth.

"I was talking to a man yesterday, who was telling me of the interest that is being taken in dairying. You know the reputation Wisconsin has for dairying. Dairying is one of the chief industries of our state, and it has developed Wisconsin almost as much as any one industry. I am of the opinion that the dairy industry will do great things for St. Louis county.

"Let me say one little word about Eau Claire. It is going to be the Duluth of Wisconsin. We are progressing and developing just like you are. We are getting new industries, are adding to the population of the city, and in every way are developing in a manner that promises to make Eau Claire one of the leading cities of the state within a short time. The business men have developed a broad business view toward securing manufactures for the city, and are working to build up the city in every possible way. The growth of the little city has been remarkable within the past two or three years, and before very long we are going to have a city that will compare with any city in the state, in point of progressiveness and opportunities for the business man or manufacturer."

Nels Dueholm couldn't refrain from saying something when he learned that the Cubs had twisted the caudal appendix of the New York Giants. Mr. Dueholm, valiant Chicago rooter, who has refused to accept defeat even in the darkest and most discouraging moments, even when fate seemed to be issuing injunctions against the Cubs winning a game, was informed of the Cub victory in his room at the McKay. His face was wreathed in smiles. He seemed on the impulse of giving forth an explosive outburst. Then, with an effort, he controlled himself.

"I told you so," said Mr. Dueholm, and he smiled sweetly, as only Chicago rooters can smile—sometimes.

But there is goom among the New York men in this city. New York hasn't won a pennant for some time, for exactly three years, to be exact. The easterners thought that it was time that the pennant remained in the East. They have believed all the time that New York could cop the rag. Two weeks ago they were certain; up to the very last, they were confident that the Giants would show an eyelash at the wire.

And there is one unpopular young man in old Gotham today. Can you guess his name? It is Merkle, of the slow-working mental equipment; the player who forgot to touch second base; the player who by stupidity on the base lines, made it possible for the Cubs to come back and win the coveted rag. Mr. Merkle probably dined at Sherry's last night, and his section of the luxurious food place was crowded with fond admirers. But if you really believe this, ask some New York fan what his opinion of young Mr. Merkle is.

"Oh, h—l!" he said. The interview was closed.

Back to the Land.

Charities and the Commons: A real start in putting immigrants on the land has been made with a colony of Russian Jews near Hawkins, Wis., 150 miles from St. Paul, Minn., which is the work of one man, John Rafffeson, who was compelled to give up factory work by an accident. He took to peddling and while going about into the country decided to make himself a missionary for drawing his co-religionists out of the cities and back to the soil. The new colony is small, but it owns 920 acres, sold on long-time payments at $10 an acre. It is co-operative in its plan and will have a co-operative store. Its officers, a president, vice president, secretary and treasurer, and all the heads of families, sit as a court in case of any dispute arising. Raffleson goes into Milwaukee and Sheboygan and persuades people to go out to the new colony. He has thus far succeeded in getting a nucleus of ten families and says he wants only four more as a beginning. These people are working as the old pioneers worked, clearing the land of timber and slowly beginning their planting. They will undoubtedly be equally successful.

THE WEATHER.

This is typical Duluth fall weather, the kind that cannot be beaten anywhere. This morning it was crisp but mild, and the air was invigorating. Except for hazy clouds the sky was clear. Last night's lowest temperature was 42 degs. and yesterday's highest was 54 degs. The weather man looks for partly cloudy and occasionally threatening weather tonight and tomorrow, with warmer temperature tonight.

A year ago today it was rainy and cool.

The sun rose this morning at 6:18 and sets tonight at 5:33, making 11 hours and 15 minutes of sunlight.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "Slight barometric depressions are central over Alabama and Saskatchewan. These disturbances caused light to copious rains in the Eastern Gulf and South Atlantic states and over scattered parts of the lake region. The Saskatchewan low pressure has also caused milder weather throughout the Northwest generally. An area of high pressure extends from the central lake region southwestward to Texas, attended by cooler temperatures in the central and eastern lake region, Kansas, Oklahoma, Tennessee and the gulf states. More or less clondiness may be expected at the Head of the Lakes tonight and Saturday."

Following were last night's lowest temperatures:

Upper Michigan—Increasing cloudiness with showers tonight or Saturday; rising temperature.

Short and Simple Annals of the Rich.

New York World: George W. Parkman, dying in Boston, left half of his $8,000,000 estate for the maintenance of the city's parks, and the fact was chronicled in a few paragraphs. Yet this benefaction was approximately eight times as great as Smithson's bequest to the Smithsonian Institution. Peter Cooper endowed Cooper Union with $630,000, but little more than the $500,000 bequeathed by Henry Jones Braker to Tufts College, which passed almost unnoticed.

These comparisons throw light on our altered standards of wealth. The estate of the late John J. Emery, the "Astor of Cincinnati," owner of 1,000 houses, was estimated at $40,000,000, more than four times the fortune that made Stephen Girard one of the celebrated rich men of his time. W. B. Leeds died possessed of $30,000,000, but virtually all went to the man in the street. W. H. Singer, of Pittsburg, distributed $16,000,000 among his children in the form of "dinner favors" on the occasion of his golden wedding. F. C. Hewitt, the bachelor capitalist of Tioga county, left $20,000,000. The will of Wesson, the revolver-maker, when probated after two years of litigation, revealed an estate valued at $25,000,000.

These great fortunes were amassed by men of whom fame took little note. Except for Wesson, not one of them is enumerated among the nearly 15,000 names in "Who's Who." They were never denounced as "malefactors of wealth." So far as can be recalled, they never gave butterfly balls or $10,000 dinners. A generation ago, when Commodore Vandervilt with $90,000,000, ranked as the world's richest citizen next to Rothschild, their names, if not household words, would at least have been familiar.

To possess $40,000,000 and to be less well known than the captain of the "Giants" or a Broadway actor, gives a more real impression of the "swollen fortunes" of America than do the accumulations of a Rockefeller or Carnegie.

The Results of Alcohol.

D. H. S. Williams, in McClure's: Experiments go to show that alcohol is not a stimulant, that its final effect is everywhere depressive and inhibitory, that, in short, it is properly to be classed with the anesthetics and narcotics. Experiments show that alcohol does indeed stimulate the flow of digestive fluids, but that it also tends to interfere with their normal action; so that ordinarily one effect neutralizes the other. As regards the action of the heart, the ultimate effect of alcohol is to depress, in large doses, to paralyze that organ. Dr. Williams continues:

"The experiments show that alcohol does not increase the capacity to do muscular work, but distinctly decreases it. Doubtless this seems at variance with many a man's observation of himself; but the explanation is found in the fact that alcohol blurs the judgment. As Volt remarks, it gives not strength, but, at most, the feeling of strength. A man may think he is working better and faster under the influence of alcohol than he would otherwise do; but rigidly conducted experiments do not confirm this opinion. 'Both science and the experience of life,' says Dr. John J. Abel, of Johns Hopkins' University, have exploded the pernicious theory that alcohol gives any persistent increase of muscular power. The disappearance of this universal error will greatly reduce the consumption of alcohol among laboring men. It is well understood by all who control large bodies of men engaged in physical labor that alcohol and effective work are 'incompatible.'"

Two of a Kind.

New York Evening Post: Mr. Roosevelt, says Mr. Woodruff, thinks the alleged finding of $300,000 in the Democratic treasury "queer." But the good E. H. Harriman's gift of $264,000 to the Republican campaign fund four years ago looked to the same eyes perfectly straight and normal.

Viewing With Alarm.

Ohio State Journal: You wouldn't think it possible, after reading the open letters, that the nation could possibly survive if the other fellows happened to win.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1888.

G. H. White, formerly superintendent of the Duluth & Iron Range road, has been appointed engineer of the Minnesota Car company's work, and will begin his duties at once.

The following officers have been elected by the St. Jean Baptiste society for the ensuing year: President ,Capt. A. Paul; first vice president, Louis Beaurivage; second vice president, Peter Grignon; secretary, J. C. Marquis; treasurer, Michael Willet.

Maj. A. N. Selp, formerly of Duluth, has been sued by George M. Lyon of Chicago for $128,000. The plaintiff charges fraud on the part of Selp in failing to purchase a piece of land known as the Ryan tract, and frustrating the sale by his demand for double commissions.

The West Duluth Land company has withdrawn from the market all lots in its addition on the Oneota side of First avenue.

The remains of Nils P. Jensen, who died from typhoid fever yesterday at St. Mary's hospital, will be taken to Albert Lea.

At the city council meeting last evening the board of public works reported that two bids had been received for electric street lighting, those of the Duluth Elecric Light & Power company and the Duluth Electric company. The board recommended that the latter be given the contract for 100 arc lights of 2,000 candle power each at 35 cents per light per night. The Jenney Electric company of Indianapolis offered to sell the city a plant of 120 arc lights of 2,000 candle power each for $27,500. J. H. Nordby was given the contract for the new central enginehouse. Mayor Sutphin presented a communication on the need of a building inspector and a stringent ordinance on building construction. The committee on water supply recommended that the Duluth Gas & Water company be ordered to build a new reservoir at once to supply the higher parts of the city, and that the intake pipe be extended to a depth of sixty-five feet below the surface and to a distance of 600 feet from shore.

Alex Chisholm, for some time bookkeeper for A. J. Sawyer & Co., left yesterday for Minneapolis, where he will take a similar position with the same house.

The tax rate of the city is not to be lowered, as far as the city council is concerned. At its meeting last night it fixed the levy for city purposes at .4 of a mill higher than last year, despite the heavy increase in the assessed valuation. The total city, school, county and state rate will be about 24 mills as against 25.5 last year.

Harry Guy Selby, son of Mrs. H. Selby and brother of Mrs. George V. L. Brown of this city, died at his home in St. Paul yesterday. Mr. Selby was a Duluth boy and was known and respected by all the older residents.

Miss Mann of Boston, who is a large owner of Duluth realty, left today for her home after a long visit here.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Winona Independent: J. Adam Bede and Minister Wu Ting Fang, both having lost their jobs, might do a humorous combination stunt on the vaudeville stage to good advantage.

Virginia Enterprise: The Mesaba Ore is an advocate of county division, but resents the proposition of the Eveleth News that Virginia be named as the county seat. What's the matter with splitting the old county up right when we get to it, so as to give both Hibbing and Virginia a county seat?

Walker Pilot: If a country editor printed all the news, all the time, he'd certainly be afraid to go home in the dark.

Mibbing Mesaba Ore: Better than $100,000 were contributed for the relief of the Chisholm fire sufferers, and the greater part of it came from Minnesota people. There are no tight wads in this great state of ours.

International Falls Border Budget: J. Adam Bede's defeat cannot be so bitter, after all the delightful little paragraphs that are shied at him for being a good loser.

Mankato Free Press (Rep.): There are a few newspaper editors in this state that appear to have a grouch directed toward the Republican party. This grouch had its beginning when the aforesaid editors were pushed away from the "trough" so that other faithful workers could get a place thereat. "Pie" is the only article of food that will keep some men in line, and when they cannot get to the "trough" they commence to shout independence in politics and do all they can to break up the political organization that had treated them so liberally with patronage.

Winona Independent: It is altogether likely that Mr. Archbold's incoming mail from United States senators and other men in public life has suffered a serious decline during the past few days.

Badger Herald-Rustler: The glamor of political office is so strong that many a man spends far more time and money in seeking some petty office with a petty salary attached, than would enable him to do far better financially, and in other ways, if they were used for that purpose.

Cass Lake Times: The Republican leaders of the state should not attempt to drive the men who broke down the party fence two and four years ago back into line; force will not suffice. If they can show to the voter that their candidate is more capable, will serve the people more acceptably and bring to the position the respect and honor we crave, they may be able to recover a large portion of the vote the party lost in the last campaign. The independent voter quite aptly resembles the fence-breaking steer who has had a taste of the corn inside; he knows he can get the coveted morsel by breaking the fence again, and to restrain him from future depredations we apply the "poke." Will the kicking voter of the past consent to the poke? Show us that your candidate is the best man, and we'll show you a majority as of old.

Waseca Herald: For the past four years the Republican bosses have had entire control of the presidency and both branches of congress. If they are or were in favor of a revision of the tariff, why have they not revised it? They must take the fellows in the Republican ranks to be a set of chumps.

Send in the swift stenographers. I have a brief remark
To make unto my people, let all the nation hark!
Instruct the Western Union and the Postal line as well,
Their fleetest operators must work tonight like fun:

Dic. T. R.
I did accept a bulky roll from Harriman one year;
But Bryan took subscriptions from the Silver Kings
—I'm clear!
I did call off proceedings when hot on Morton's trail,
But Bryan stood for Haskell until Willie told his tale!
I did agree to send Depew to Paris, there to shine;
But Foraker's a friend of oil—I'll smash 'em down the line!
I did agree, then disagree, the tariff to reform;
But Bryan never knows his mind—I'm sending 'em in warm!
I did dismiss the colored troops without sufficient proof;
But Cleveland never bust a trust—just watch me raise the roof!
I did drum up a war scare, just t' get a navy big;
My enemies are liars all—wa'n't that a ripping dig!
I did create a panic dire, to hoist trade from its rut;
But Bryan's no creator—that's a corking upper cut!
No matter what I did, I did, and that's defense enough;
But all that Bryan's done, he's done—oh, I'm handing out hot stuff!

Pumpkin Pies.

Note.—Twenty thousand pumpkin pies are consumed daily in New York city from September to February.

Oh, grand consumption, you are not
The great white plague; but say,
You are the glorious, golden joy
Which yearly comes our way.

Arise, ye happy appetites
That may be gratified
In luscious mush that is not chewed,
But goes down with a slide.
Arise, arise, and take your fill
From pumpkin pies galore;
If twenty thousand's not enough,
Stand up and yell for more.

Three times a day fares forth the feast,
And better, three times three;
The measure of such bliss as this Should be infinity.
All are invited; take a wedge;
One bite, you close your eyes,
And in your mouth you dream you have
The dawn of Paradise.

Oh, lords and masters of mankind,
Ye millionaires who sigh
To spend your money for our good,
Please pass the pumpkin pie.
Whatever may be said of you,
In truthfulness or lies,
Pray, be assured there is no punk
In glorious punkin pie.

That what he has is all there is that may be worth achieving!
I wish that I were of his tribe, unplagued by doubt and zealous
In holding to the doctrine that my critics all were jealous.

The Stomach Does Not Cause Dyspepsia

The stomach is a strong, powerful organ, which is composed of muscles of great strength. It is filled during digestion with gastric juices which, when the stomach, extending and compressing the food, dissolve it and separate the nourishment from the waste matter. If, however, these gastric juices are lacking, the stomach is not capable of digesting its food because it has not the tools with which to work successfully.

The gastric juices when in a perfect state do away with all foul odors, fermentation and decay, reduce the food to a disintegrated mass and the stomach then presses it into the intestines where another form of digestion takes place. Then the intestines take from this mass of food all that is nourishing and give it to the blood. The waste matter is thrown from the system.

If instead of nourishment the intestines receive impure deposits combined with a poisonous and imperfect gastric juice, it can be readily seen that they must turn such imperfect nourishment into the blood. The blood then being unable to give each part of the body that which it requires, becomes impoverished and disease is spread broadcast.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets corrects such a condition at once. If the gastric juices are lacking and imperfect, these tablets do their work just the same. They build up the elements in the juice which are lacking and remove those elements which cause disturbance.

Meat, grains, fluids, vegetables and delicacies, in fact each portion of a large meal have been placed in a glass vial and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have digested them to a perfect fluid just as a healthy stomach would do.

A large complex, hearty meal holds no terrors for a dyspeptic if Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are used. Abnormal eating, late dinners, rich foods cause ill effects to the stomach, but when Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are used one may eat when and what one will without danger of dyspepsia or discomfort.

Forty thousand physicians endorse and prescribe Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and every druggist carries them in stock, price 50c. Send us your name and address and we will send you at once by mail a sample package free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

SWORD SENT TO JOHN D.

By London Woman Sold for Non-Payment of Duty.

New York, Oct. 9.—At a sale in the appraisers' warehouse, a sword, sent to John D. Rockefeller by Miss Annie Parry of London, was sold for $5.50. In a letter accompanying the weapon Miss Parry asked Mr. Rockefeller to send her $500 for it and gave its history as follows:

"I send this sword for your museum. It was in the ground for 150 years, near Leigh Faris church, and it was lost in the bombardment of the church by Oliver Cromwell, making it nearly 300 years old."

Mr. Rockefeller refused to take the sword at any price, and Col. Storey of the seizure department of the customs service, sold the relic to pay the duty. C. W. Woodbridge, a laborer in the appraisers' warehouse, was the purchaser.

ARMY OF COONS MARCHING SOUTH THROUGH OHIO.

Ada, Ohio, Oct. 9.—A large army of raccoons is raiding the corn fields of this territory. The ringtails have cleaned up a number of fish dams and corn fields to the north of Ada and are gradually working their way south. They seem to be under the leadership of a monster patriarchal coon that were considerable larger than the average number of rings and that has complete control over the drove.

Several farmers' dogs have been sent to the tall timber by the gigantic ringtail and orchards and corn fields are suffering much damage from the visits of the army of raccoons which seem to be travelling slowly.

Restorative Treatment for Nervous Men

Coming from a source of unquestioned authority on the ailments of men it is presumed to be infallible, while the profession generally endorse the ingredients and prescribe them in many different forms of various diseases. The following formula is highly efficient in quickly restoring in nervous exhaustion, melancholia, anxiety, timidity in venturing, dizziness, heart palpitation, trembling limbs, insomnia, thinness, cold extremities, tired-all-in feeling and general inability to do those natural and rational acts upon which depends a man's success and happiness in social and everyday life.

The instructions for mixing at home secretly so that no embarrassment may be felt, are as follows: First get three ounces of syrup sarsaparilla compound and one ounce compound fluid balmwort; mix and let stand two hours. Then add one ounce compound essence cardiol and one ounce tincture cadomene, and mix all together. The directions are to take one teaspoonful after each meal and one when retiring, until bounding health and full strength are restored. Even a few weeks will witness most wonderful results.

Astonishing nervous force and equilibrium follow the treatment, no matter how serious the case.

This contains no opiates whatever and may also be used by women who suffer with their nerves with absolute certainty of prompt and lasting benefits.

VAGRANCY PROBLEM

Short or Suspended Sentences Only Perpetuate the Tramp.

Wherever Hard Labor is Required, the Vagrants Decrease.

(By Orlando F. Lewis, Secretary of the National Committee on Vagrancy.)

Among news items published frequently are court proceedings in connection with vagrants. Short or suspended sentences are given in our courts to men without homes, without employment, without money, and generally without any intention of working. In the large majority of instances tramps and vagrants are either sentenced to a short period in jail, or are given a suspended sentence with the admonition to leave town.

Our city is not alone in this practice. Throughout the United States this way of dealing with tramps and vagrants prevails. Nothing in the end is more conducive to perpetuating the tramp. A writer in the Atlantic Monthly for June, is making an exhaustive study of the American tramp, and eliminating the sentimentality or romance often told or published about him, has this to say: "Minimum sentences or suspended sentences are common; first, because the potential criminality of the vagrant is not sufficiently appreciated, and secondly, because perhaps it seems more just that ninety-nine guilty should escape than one innocent person should suffer. Moreover, it costs money to keep tramps in jail, the good money of the taxpayers. Why should the town pay the tramp's bills? They do not belong to the town; the railroads give, therefore let the railroads take away."

James J. Hill of the Great Northern railroad writes that he believes that the passing on of vagrants or their imprisonment under short sentences to be absolutely wrong. "The only penalty that can wipe out or considerably reduce vagrancy is enforced labor. The stone-heap and work on the public highway are the best remedies against roving vagrants."

Vagrants Along Railroads.

This has been a year of many tramps. George T. Slade, general manager of the Northern Pacific Railway company, writes under date of June 16, to the author of the Atlantic Monthly article: "The camps of vagrants are to be seen at bridges and water tanks all along our main line, and vagrants are seen on our passenger and freight trains in every conceivable place where they can catch on and be for a time undetected by the trainmen. In many cases there are so many vagrants on a train that it is hazardous them off. These vagrants pilfer cars, set fires along the right of way, occupy empty equipment set out on passing tracks, often building fires inside of the cars which cause conflagrations, use the company's material for the construction of small shanties, which are often fired, terrorize the occupants of section houses in isolated localities, and commit the various usual depredations known to this type." Almost all the great trunk lines report far more tramps than usual.

But a town does not get rid of vagrants because it warns some of them out of town. Other towns are doing the same thing and, as James J. Hill says, when all neighborhoods are doing the same thing, the community receives exactly as much refuse as it gets rid of. Yet when tramps are committed to jail they are generally idle or are required to do but little work. In many a county the penitentiary is well-known as a winter vacation resort. In one town in Kansas the Associated Charities reports that the sequence of events is (1) arrest; (2) fine; (3) sentenced to work on rock piles in lieu of fine; (4) no guard placed over prisoners; (5) vagrants run away; (6) which is what was intended.

No Solution.

Short sentences are no solution for vagrants. Thirty-six chiefs of police of large cities in the United States were recently asked about the sentences of vagrants. The predominating minimum sentence is thirty days; the average sentence thirty days, and the maximum sentence six months. Such sentences are of little deterrent value, if accompanied by hard labor, and especially if the prisoners are to be discharged before the completion of their sentences.

Some striking facts have been shown by the recently published special census on prisoners and juvenile delinquents, based on figures gathered in 1904. Vagrancy stands second in the number of commitments to penal institutions. Vagrancy, drunkenness and disorderly conduct total up more than half of all commitments in the United States in 1904. Of all the committed prisoners, 67 per cent were sent to county jails and work houses. Of the vagrants committed, about three-fifths were committed for less than thirty days, another fifth for one month, another fifth for three months. In other words, over half the vagrants were committed for one month or less.

If we can once realize that vagrancy is a serious and costly problem in our country, we shall begin to take sterner measures for its repression. Some persons may not be too friendly toward the railroads, and yet all will agree that if, as one prominent railroad man recently said, tramps and vagrants cost the railroads of the United States $25,000,000 a year, vagrancy is a question too important to neglect longer. What vagrancy costs in public and private charity, in almshouses, workhouses and jails, on the road, in communicated diseases, and in bad examples and strong temptations to the young, no one can compute; yet the aggregate cost in money and in life must be very great. Frequently we read of vicious assaults not only upon men but upon women, made by tramps.

Results of "The Road."

Day after day appear the reports of the arraignment of boy tramps before magistrates in many of our American cities. Five thousand trespassers are killed every year on our American railroads, of whom a considerable proportion are tramps. As many more trespassers are found seriously injured. Tramps crippled by railroad accidents turn beggars and exploit the community. There are but a few of the results of "the road." What can we do? Several things are simple and effective. We can refuse food at the door. We can make work a requirement for a subsequent meal. We can urge that vagrants receive reasonably long sentences when arraigned before magistrates, if they are evidently habitual vagrants. So far as possible, co-operation ought to be maintained between railroad police and city police. Unless tramp trespassers upon the railways are convicted when arraigned in court, the railroads have little power to reduce railway trespass. City police should not tolerate evident vagrants upon the streets of the city. We should endeavor to obtain, when possible, more adequate vagrancy legislation. If railway trespass is at present not covered by our laws, it should be. So long as towns or cities must stand the expenses of vagrants committed to jail or to the workhouse, just so long will towns or cities be loath to commit. The maintenance of committed vagrants should be a state charge. Most important of all, among measures that can be at once adopted, is the necessity of accompanying a sentence for vagrancy with hard labor. Wherever hard labor is required, there, too, vagrants become suddenly less in number.

In connection with work, the labor colony bill to be introduced into the New York legislature next winter seems a most interesting attempt to reduce vagrancy. This bill, framed by specialists in charitable work, in New York state, has already received much attention from the press, and is supported by charitable organizations and railways. Briefly, it proposes an appropriation for a labor colony to which habitual vagrants shall be committed, their terms to be indefinite. Good care, good food, a reasonable amount of work, reformatory influences, a parole system, and a chance to learn a trade are among its principal features. The bill is a model in many respects upon compulsory labor colonies which have already proved their success in Europe. Of course, one labor colony will not solve the vagrancy question, but it will make a good beginning, and will be watched with great interest as an important experiment.

CHOLERA AT WEDDING.

Groom Drops While Dancing and Dies Later in Hospital.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 9.—A wedding feast was brought to an abrupt termination under particularly tragic circumstances at Yareslav. Ivanoff, a young railway official, aged 22, had been married in the morning to the station master's daughter.

During the dance in the afternoon the bridegroom, who had been in excellent spirits, suddenly collapsed and fell on the floor, dragging his partner after him. A doctor was summoned, and to the terror of all present, declared that Ivanoff was suffering from cholera.

He was at once conveyed to the hospital, where he died after a few hours, in the arms of his heartbroken bride. She had remained with him, declaring that she desired nothing but to get the infection. Up to the present, however, she appears to have none of the symptoms of the disease.

NO SIBLEY SPEECHES; HIS LETTERS ENOUGH.

Mercer, Pa., Oct. 9.—Joseph C. Sibley has been effectually eliminated as a factor in politics in the Twenty-eighth congressional district, which he has represented both as a Democrat and a Republican. Since William R. Hearst made public Sibley's correspondence with John D. Archbold of the Standard Oil company, it is doubtful if the former congressman could be elected to a township office.

There was some talk last spring about Sibley being nominated for congress again by the Republicans, but his friends advised against it when they saw what a formidable rival Nelson P. Wheeler would be. When Sibley gave up the idea of running this year he may have been looking forward to making the race in 1910. But the recent disclosures have made his candidacy an impossibility, and it is doubtful if he will ever be a candidate for office again.

The various county chairmen in the Twenty-eighth district are congratulating themselves that Wheeles was nominated, rather than Sibley, for the recent disclosures by Hearst would not only have dragged Sibley to defeat, but would have endangered every county ticket in the district. There was some talk about Sibley making speeches in the district, but the thought is not being entertained now.

GAY OLD BOY IS 103, BUT DRIVES IN HORSE RACES.

White River Junction, Vt., Oct. 9.—At the age of 103, Charley Taylor, the youngest old man in the world, is still driving trotters and pacers, record-breakers, strong of jaw and high of mettle.

He is the only man alive who ever won a trotting race at the age of 96, and the only one who ever drove a champion over a track at the age of 100.

According to his own statements, Taylor never fell in love, never smoked or chewed, never drank intoxicants, and never swore except once or twice.

WATTERSON SCORES THE STEAM ROLLER OF REPUBLICANISM; IS BITTER AGAINST G. O. P. RING RULE

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 9.—Henry Watterson presided and was the principal speaker at a Democratic rally in the Masonic theater here, last night. As this was Mr. Watterson's first political speech since 1892, and will probably be his only platform utterance during the present campaign, much interest was manifested. Others who addressed the assemblage were Former United States Senator William Lindsay and Congressman Swager Sherley. Mr. Watterson said in part:

"I truly rejoice that I have lived to look upon a reunited Democracy, as I was born in a Democratic campaign, which proved a year for Democrats, and attained my majority just in time to see the party go over the precipice on sectionalism to what seemed its ruin.

"If I were a Republican I would vote for Bryan. If I were a Republican I would let the big chief, with his 'big stick,' go hang. If I were a Republican I would turn my back upon a candidate, no matter how personally acceptable, who represents the vicious methods of ring rule and the steam roller.

"Whatever usefulness the Republican party ever possessed it has for the time outlived. It stands today a menace to equal taxation and economic administration, if not to orderly overnment and free institutions."

Sherman Closes Trip.

Mansfield, Ohio, Oct. 9.—A vigorous two weeks' campaign through the Middle West, during which he visited sixty towns and traveled over 3,000 miles was brought to a close here last night by James S. Sherman, Republican vice presidential nominee, in a rally.

THWARTED AT THE ALTAR.

American Wife's Certificate Stops a Marriage in Moscow.

Moscow, Oct. 9.—A marriage was arranged to take place here the other evening at 5 o'clock between M. G. N. Susloff, manager of a large Moscow firm and Mlle. M. Shapiro. The wedding guests were assembled in the church and the choir had begun to sing as the bride entered, when a stranger handed to the officiating priest a marriage certificate and letter from the wife of M. Susloff, which showed that he was married in the United States and that his wife was still living and had not been divorced.

M. Susloff admitted the fact, but defended himself on the ground that a civil marriage celebrated in the United States was not recognized by the Russian church. The priest, however, refused to proceed with the ceremony, and the guests dispersed.

WOODMEN SUED.

Efforts Made to Recover on Two Insurance Policies.

Two suits on insurance policies were filed against the Modern Woodmen with the clerk of the district court yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Edla East claims $1,000 on the policy of her husband, Frank East and Mrs. Bennie E. O'Connor seeks to recover $2,000 on a policy held by her husband, James O'Connor.

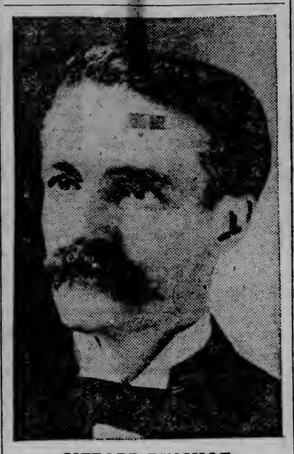

In the East case, the society claims that East was in arrears in his dues and the policy had lapsed. In the O'Connor case, it is contended that O'Connor died of a gunshot wound inflicted by his own hand, while the plaintiff claims that the wound was accidental.

IOWA POLITICIAN GONE WITH GIRL

Alleged to Have Eloped With Chambermaid of Hotel.

Des Moines, Iowa, Oct. 9.—All efforts to locate Fred Russell of Rockwell City, chairman of the Iowa state pharmacy board, and one of the leading politicians of the state, who is alleged to have eloped with a chambermaid from the Savery hotel in Des Moines, have proven futile.

From the day two weeks ago when, in company with a beautifully gowned woman, he cashed a half dozen checks, since alleged to be worthless, in Sioux City, nothing has been heard from the missing man save a letter he wrote home to his heartbroken wife at Rockwell City. The letter was dated at Billings, Mont. In it Russell told his wife that he would never return to her and their four children.

Governor A. B. Cummins, who named Russell as chairman of the state pharmacy board five years ago, has now declared the place vacant. There are fifty applicants for the job, but the governor has made no appointment as yet.

Simultaneously with the disappearance of the pharmacy chairman, Miss Carrie Seelinger, chambermaid of the Savery, disappeared. She was known to be a friend of Russell's.

A few nights prior to his disappearance Mrs. Russell, wife of the missing man, dropped into Des Moines, where the pharmacy board was in session. She was shocked beyond expression, when, upon entering her husband's room at the Savery, she found him giving a midnight supper for two. Russell accompanied his wife home.

MOROSINI'S DUAL LIFE.

Millionaire's Name Was Napoleon Partegnazza, Says Rome Dispatch.

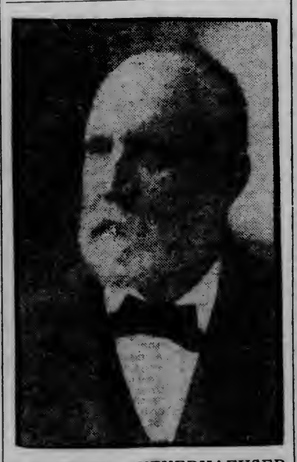

New York, Oct. 9.—Information received from Rome is to the effect that G. F. Morosini, who recently died, lived under false colors in America. His name, it is asserted by his brother, was Napoleon Partegnazza. The Cavalier Partegnazza has Morosini's birth certificate, which shows he was born in Venice July 11, 1831, son of Antonio Partegnazza and Marie Angela Da Mattia, his wife. When he was 18 years old, after the end of the campaign of 1849 with Garibaldi, Morosini ran away from home.

FALLS HEIR TO TEN MILLIONS

But New York Lawyer Will Not Drop Small Practice.

New York, Oct. 9.—Waking yesterday morning to find himself unexpectedly the heir to an estate valued at $10,000,000, Theodore R. Shear believes his sudden accession to a fortune will make no change in the well-ordered routine of his life.

The notification that he had become an exceedingly rich man was received by Mr. Shear while sick in his home.

He is a lawyer, 55 years old, and has a wife and three children. The bequest comes from a bachelor uncle, John R. Packard of Santa Cruse, Cal., who died on Saturday, leaving an estate valued at over $20,000,000. Mr. Shear, according to the will, receives one-half of the estate.

Packard went West in '49 and accumulated a string of silver mines and cattle ranches, which steadily increased in value as the years rolled by. All his investments turned out well. His two nephews, Mr. Shear and Edward Winslow Packard of Salt Lake City, always were favorites of his, and they share alike in the fortune.

"We are just plain people, who sleep well and eat three meals a day, said his wife "and we are not going to make any great change in our mode of living just because we have come into the money. Mr. Shear probably will continue to go to his office to attend to his law practice and I shall continue to see my friends and other things I have been accustomed to doing. We can hardly look upon this legacy as a piece of good fortune, for we always have been more than friendly with Mr. Packard, and my husband feels his death keenly."

Mr. Shear is the father of Prof. Theodore Leslie Shear, whose romantic marriage in May, 1907, to Miss Nora Jenkins, daughter of Emperor William's personal physician was the talk of the two continents.

Fair Visitors in Wreck.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Oct. 9.—In a collision between an eastbound Rock Island passenger train and a freight train at Yukon, a small station seven miles west of here, seven coaches of the passenger train, which was loaded with state fair visitors, were derailed. Twenty persons were slightly injured.

Loyal Americans Elect.

Fargo, N. D., Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The local lodge of Loyal Americans has elected the following officers: President, J. F. Rice; vice president, Mrs. William Mills; secretary, K. H. Mallarian; treasurer, William Mills; prelate, Miss Lizzie Milker; sargeant, Alec Mattson; first corporal, Mrs. John Herman; second corporal, Mrs. James Madison; guard, Paul Milker; musician, Miss Edna Hulbert.

S.S.S. CURES MALARIA

Malaria is due to impurities in the blood which destroy the rich, healthful qualities of the circulation, and reduce it to a weak, watery fluid. The body is then deprived of its necessary nourishment and strength, and is unable to resist the countless disorders that assail it, and the general system suffers in consequence. The appetite fails, digestion is weakened, chills and slight fever are frequent, while the sufferer loses energy and ambition. Boils, skin eruptions, and sometimes sores and ulcers follow when the blood becomes deeply polluted with the malarial germs. Both a tonic and blood purifier are needed to cure Malaria, and S. S. S. is best fitted for this work. It is the most perfect of all blood purifiers and at the same time an invigorating, healthful tonic. S. S. S. goes down into the circulation, and removes every trace of impurity or poison, and gives to the blood the health-sustaining qualities it needs. It cures Malaria thoroughly and permanently, because it removes from the blood the germs and poisons which produce the disease, and while doing this tones up and strengthens every part of the system. Book with information about Malaria and any medical advice furnished free to all who write.

HIS SERMON IS PRAISED

Rev. Alexander Milne's Address at State Congregational Meet.

Steps to Form State Brotherhood Taken; County Option Indorsed.

Faribault, Minn., Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual sermon delivered before the General Association of Congregational churches of Minnesota, now in session here, by Alexander Milne, pastor of Pilgrim church, Duluth, was pronounced a scholarly and most masterful setting-forth of the things which remain as the vital elements of Christianity. Dr. Milne was generously congratulated by his ministerial brethren upon the excellence of his effort.

During the present session, one of the important matters given the initial consideration was that of the organization of a state brotherhood, a committee of fifteen laymen being appointed to take the matter in charge.

Among the resolutions adopted was the following relative to county local option:

For County Local Option.

"Resolved: That we heartily indorse the effort to secure through our legislature a county option law, and pledge our co-operation in the effort to elect men, who are in sympathy with such legislation. We desire to express our appreciation of the methods and work of the state and national Anti-Saloon league and pledge our hearty co-operation and support."

At the meeting of the Missionary society, Dr. George R. Merrill, superintendent, made a very encouraging report. The same was true of Dr. Herrick's review of twenty years of Sunday school work in the state. A proposition was made looking to the raising of a permanent fund of from $50,000 to $150,000 as an inducement for state work. This was favorably received and will doubtless be acted upon.

To stimulate the raising of Minnesota's share of the proposed $2,000,000, for benevolences the following committee was appointed: Rev. C. E. Burton, chairman; Harlem W. Page, Rev. F. H. Oehler, M. W. Bates, President C. H. Cooper, Hon. A. A. Miller, Rev. Francis Frigley, Rev. Everett Lesher, Rev. E. F. Wheeler and Rev. C. H. Curtis.

Woman's Home Missionary Union.

The Woman's Home Missionary union met in separate session, Mrs. W. H. Nugent of Minneapolis presiding. The address of welcome was made by Mrs. J. H. Albert of Faribault and the response by Mrs. W. H. Laird of Winona. Following the appointment of various committees, annual reports from the corresponding secretary, chairman of directors, treasurer and the young peoples' children's and literature secretaries were read. Rev. Mr. Harris of Biwabik spoke on the work being accomplished in the mining districts of Northern Minnesota. Mrs. T. L. Riggs, the only white woman missionary to the Indians of South Dakota, gave an excellent review of her work.

Over $1,500 was raised the past year among the Indians for missionary work among their tribes. The Indian Missionary society has a membership of 500, and there are five native missionaries at work in the field.

The officers chosen are: President, Mrs. W. H. Nugent, Minneapolis; vice presidents, Mrs. C. J. Hurd, St. Paul, and Mrs. George R. Merrill, Minneapolis; corresponding secretary, Mrs. F. T. Dunmore, Minneapolis; recording secretary: Mrs. Charles H. Wingate, Minneapolis; treasurer, Mrs. C. D. Siehl, Minneapolis; board of directors, Mesdames. W. H. Laird, Winona, J. C. Sterling, Minneapolis; J. S. Cross, St. Louis Park; W. A. Black, St. Paul; Arthur Keith, St. Paul; J. E. Truesdell, Minneapolis; J. H. Anderson, Merriam Park; M. B. Whitney, St. Anthony Park; M. B. Morris, St. Paul; J. C. Shellard, Minneapolis.

OVERWHELMINGLY BEATEN.

Farmers of Red Lake County Against Agricultural School Scheme.

Thief River Falls, Minn., Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The complete vote on the proposition of bonding this county to erect an agricultural and domestic school at some central point, was found to be 1,185 against the bonding and 377 in its favor, of which 106 were cast in St. Hilaire, the town that expected to have the school. As this is the first attempt to establish such a school under the law passed by the last state legislature, the contest was interesting, though disappointing to the friends of the measure. Sepaker Lawrence Johnson spent a week in the county speaking in favor of the move, but to no avail; the farmers would have none of it. They are not opposed to the school on principal, but they refuse to place in the hands of the county commissioners the taxing powers that this measure calls for, and, on general principals, they oppose an increase of taxation at this time.

FARMERS' BOAT IS BUSY.

Hauling Grain to Market Along Red Lake River.

Thief River Falls, Minn., Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The farmers steamboat that makes regular trips on the Red Lake river is busily engaged in hauling down barges of grain from the towns along the reservation. Heretofore the farmers have been compelled to haul twenty miles from town up along the river, they find this boat method much easier and cheaper.

The several boats that have plied the waters of the river and the Red Lake report that they have enjoyed an unusually prosperous season. The government has been petitioned to do some necessary dredging in several places along the 100 miles of navigable stream and also to improve the outlet of the Red Lake by means of the construction of a dam which will control the water supply. Aside from the Mississippi river there is no stream in this state that carries the traffic that this river does and that has as many boats running on it, employed in the transportation of freight and passengers.

GOLDEN IN TROUBLE.

Write-Up Artist Said to Have "Jumped" Board Bill.

Brainerd, Minn., Oct. 9.—A printer, giving the name of Edward Golden, but traveling under a typographical union card issued to H. E. Smith, is in jail here on the charge of "jumping" a board bill, having been arrested at Staples. Golden claimed to be about to start a labor paper and made the acquaintance of the business men, stating that he was going to issue a free initial boom edition. He had "write-ups" of various houses which he had hired type written, forgetting to pay the girl who did the work. Wednesday afternoon, just before leaving the city he secured $6 on a worthless check from a local merchant, claiming he had $1,200, but that the bank was closed and he wanted to use the money. He will be prosecuted on the charge of jumping the board bill and maybe on the more serious one of passing a worthless check.

PRINTER STEVENSON IS HELD ON SERIOUS CHARGE.

Jamestown, N. D., Oct. 9.—On motion of George W. Thorp, state's attorney, H. Stevenson was bound over to answer to the charge of attempted criminal assault. In default of bonds Stevenson was committed to the county jail. Stevenson is about 45 and a painter. It is believed he is the man who made improper proposals to other young girls, and other charges may be lodged against him.

POLICE STOP WAGER.

Refuse to Allow Farmer to Drink Heavily on a Bet.

Minneapolis, Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Iver Overson, a farmer living near Madison, Minn., who is in Minneapolis on a pleasure trip only, bet a friend last night that he could visit fifty saloons, take a drink in each place and then get away from the police.

Perhaps Overson would have won the bet if the police hadn't intruded long before the fiftieth drink. The Madison man got along nicely for a time, and his friend kept a record of the number of saloons and drinks. Overson says he was as fit as a fiddle at the seventeenth drink, but the police made him stop. He explained to them, he said, that he was doing it on a wager, and they told him he was trying to commit suicide. He pleaded in vain. He was locked up and put to bed with only seventeen glasses of whisky. Yesterday he pleaded guilty in police court to being a little drunk and paid a fine of $5.

BISHOP McINTYRE ARRIVES.

New Methodist Divine Has Reached St. Paul.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Bishop Robert McIntyre, who was elevated to the enpscopacy by the Methodist Episcopal conference at Baltimore this summer, arrived in the city yesterday afternoon over the Rock Island from Stanton, Neb.

The arrival of Bishop McIntyre was unexpected and the local Methodists had little notice of his coming, as he was not expected until Oct. 10.

The bishop was met at the train by an impromptu committee which included Supt. J. F. Stout, William Bannon, H. M. Hodgman, D. R. Elliott, F. J. Clemens and Rev. A. C. Stevens.

Bishop McIntyre was accompanied by his wife and one daughter, and they weer taken to the Angus, where it is expected that they will make their home.

JOHNSON AT NORTH BRANCH.

Will Address People of That Section Next Monday Afternoon.

North Branch, Minn., Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. Thomas Zelen, chairman of the Democratic committee in this county, has received word from Democratic headquarters that Governor John A. Johnson will be in North Branch next Monday afternoon to deliver an address to the voters of this community. The governor will arrive at 1:20 on the down train and will begin his address at 2 o'clock sharp.

The meeting will be held at Lindstroni's hall.

RETAKE FORMER CONVICT.

Frank Lieske, Wanted in Detroit, Caught by Policeman.

Marquette, Mich., Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frank Lieske, a former convict at the Marquette prison, whom the Detroit police have been looking for the past ten days, for the alleged crime of shooting Detective Frank Wilkinson, has been retaken. Lieske was arrested while working for Frank Haskell, a Flint contractor, by Patrolmen James Cole and Frank C. Green of Flint. Lieske had been working as a carpenter on a new grocery store since last Wednesday. Until Monday he wore a full beard. When he shaved this off, Haskell compared his features with the cut printed in the papers immediately following the shooting, and concluded that his employe was the man for whom the Detroit police department had been hunting for over a week. Haskell notified the patrolmen and the latter communicated with Chief McColl of Flint, with the result that Lieske was arrested and taken to the Flint police station.

ADMITS MURDER.

Lake Benton, Minn., Oct. 9.—Martin Schwab, who was indicted on Tuesday for the murder of John Lorenzen at Lake Benton on May 5 last, pleaded guilty to murder in the second degree and will be sentenced to state's prison. Schwab committed the crime for a few paltry dollars, which he knew his victim carried on his person.

BREWERY AGENT UNDER CLOUD AT MOORHEAD.

Moorhead, Minn., Oct. 9.—Anton Berg, manager of the Rud-Wagner Brewing company agency, was arrested yesterday for an alleged shortage in his accounts of $222.66. He waived an examination and was bound over on a $600 bond. An auditor has been named to go over his accounts. Berg says he is innocent.

THRESHER IS KILLED.

Minot, N. D., Oct. 9.—Ole Olson, a thresher, working near Sawyer, lost his life by falling between fly wheels of a threshing machine. His shoulders were crushed, his face being unrecognizable when he was pulled out. He lived near Sawyer, and was well and favorably known.

Marquette Range Pay Days.

Ishpeming, Mich., Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company's pay days will start next Monday, the 14th, when the employes of the Cliffs Shafts and Lake mines will receive their checks. The Hard Ore and Salisbury men will be paid Tuesday; the workmen at the Negaunee, Maas and Jackson properties, also the Imperial, the latter at Michigamme, will be paid Thursday, and the men in the Swansey district will be paid on Saturday of next week.

Ely Man at Negaunee.

Negaunee, Mich, Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Matt E. Gleason, a former well-known resident of Republic, who is now in business at Ely, Minn., was in Negaunee Wednesday on a business mission. He is interested in some land on the Cascade range, where a diamond drill is in operation.

Accused of Ring Theft.

Grand Forks, N. D., Oct. 9.—John Mullen of St. Paul was arrested here yesterday on a charge of having in his possession a stolen ring, valued at $150. He claims the ring was sent to him by his sister, Miss Lila Mullen, 262½ Selby avenue, to pawn. The ring is believed to be one stolen from Mrs. Florence Sanborn, held up here a few days ago.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Calumet—The wedding of Miss Johanna Healy of Laurium to Thomas P. Donahue took place Wednesday morning at the Sacred Heart church, Rev. Father Cashmir officiating. The young people will make their future home on Pewabic street.

Houghton—Florence Frazer, a 16-year-old Houghton girl, who has had a bad habit of playing hookey from school, and who, the officers declare, has been guilty of a number of petty thefts recently, was sentenced by Justice L. L. Croze to the Industrial Home for Girls at Adrian.

Sumner—Arthur E. Fowler of this place, who is camping in the vicinity of Seney, was arrested on the charge of violating the game laws, and was taken to Manistique by Deputy Sheriff Harcourt. He was tried in Judge Knox's court and was acquitted by the jury.

Houghton—The Copper Range railroad has something like 17,000 tons of coal stored at its new storage trestle and sheds at Mill Mine Junction and more will be sent there from Houghton as soon as sixteen large chutes, now in course of construction, are completed.

Hancock—Hilda, aged 6 months, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Esko Heikkinen of Coburntown, died at an early hour Wednesday morning, and the funeral was held Thursday afternoon, with interment taking place at Lakeside.

Calumet—Wine-making is in progress in Calumet. Several car loads of grapes have already arrived, and more are expected daily. Most of the luscious fruit is coming from New York, although consignments are being received from Southern Michigan.

Hancock—James Carrigan left Tuesday night for Butte, Montata, where he has taken a position. Mr. Carrigan is a graduate of the high school and has been taking a course since graduation in the Michigan College of Mines.

Calumet—Contractor Will Milford has been awarded a contract to erect another story on the Calumet Dye Works building, adjoining Vertin Bros., department store on Sixth street.

Houghton—After suffering for over a week at St. Joseph's hospital with appendicitis, Frank St. Dennis, Jr., aged 15 years, died at the institution Tuesday night. His remains were shipped to Manistique, where the family now reside, they having formerly made their home in Houghton.

Negaunee—The farmers in and near Negaunee will within the next few days finish harvesting their pota crop. The crop is not as large as usual, but the potatoes are of excellent quality.

Ishpeming—The M. A. Hanna company, operating the American mine, twelve miles west of Ishpeming, recently completed installing three fine new boilers, and the erection of a new boiler house was started Monday by J. Wahlman & Son of this city. The structure will be forty-six by fifty-two feet, with walls thirty-two feet high.

Fargo, N. D.—A change has been made in the management of the Northwestern Traffic & Credit bureau of this city in which G. M. Springer succeeds J. W. Thompson as chief of the Fargo offices of the company. Mr. Thompson resigned and will depart for other fields.

Grand Forks, N. D.—The state board of medical examiners is holding a meeting in Grand Forks, a class of about twenty writing fo radmittance to practice in North Dakota.

Bismarck, N. D.—The Botanical Museum of Berlin has requested for its cases samples of North Dakota wheat. It wants the head, stem and roots as well as the berry. The commissioner of agriculture has some fine specimens which he will ship to Berlin.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Milwaukee—Hollis W. Barrows, a machinist, 70 years of age, committed suicide Wednesday by hanging himself to a rafter in the bedroom of his boarding house, 90 State street. The corpse summoned aid when the rope broke and the body fell heavily to the floor, arousing occupants of the house. Barrows was in feeble health and out of work.

Algoma—John Barrand is accused of having written a black hand letter to August Klatt demanding that $300 be placed in a cemetery on pain of death. The letter said $700 had already been collected from Algoma people for a Chicago black hand society.

Appleton—Certain pledges of $2,500 are already in the hands of George C. Jones, who is heading the movement for the erection of a soldiers' monument on Market street and the transformation of that thoroughfare into a beauty spot.

Milwaukee—The largest number of students in the history of the medical department of Marquette university are fairly started in the work of the year. The freshman class this year numbers 125, a great increase from the class of 1907, when there were ninety-one freshmen to matriculate.

Janesville—With the neighborhood of 60,000 tons of sugar beets to work into 14,000,000 pounds of sugar, the Rock County Sugar company will begin slicing on Saturday next and expect to work night and day for at least a hundred days. It will mean employment to forty laborers.

Ashland—William Banks and Kate Mayotte pleaded guilty before Judge Parish Wednesday to a statutory charge and a fine of $100 was imposed on each. The Mayotte woman lives in Odanah, and Banks also formerly lived there, figuring in a sensational shooting scrape at Odanah three or four years ago. The fines were paid in each case.

Madison—The Wisconsin Baptist Ministers' union elected these officers: President, the Rev. Robert Gordon, Milwaukee; vice president, Dr. J. W. Bailey, Oshkosh; secretary, F. F. Parsons, Sheboygan Falls; treasurer, A. T. Rickson, Waupaca.

Neenah.—The annual conference of the Wisconsin District of the United Danish Lutheran Church of America began at the Danish Lutheran church Thursday evening in this city. The meeting will continue through Sunday evening. Twenty-four ministers and about seventy-five delegates will be in attendance.

Milwaukee—Over two million tons of coal, anthracite and bituminous, have been received in Milwaukee during the present lake season. The total is 265,723 tons short of the figure reached last year, but two months of the navigation season remain. During this time the total tons for 1908 will not reach the figure of 1907.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Isanti—Ned Blinn of Cloquet spent a few days here visiting friends, and left for the southern part of the state Sunday evening to visit relatives. Ned was helper at the Isanti depot a few years ago, but has been employed at Cloquet during the past two years.

Cambridge—When Arnold Lawson of Route 2 was delivering his mail at the Cambridge postoffice Monday evening, his horse took fright when he was inside the building, and, starting to run, brought the buggy in contact with the post supporting the heavy night-mail box. The upper part of the post was splintered and the box knocked off.

Perham—Next Sunday the anniversary of the dedication of St. Henry's church will be celebrated. Early mass will be held at 8 o'clock and high mass at 10:30 at St. Henry's church. Dinner will be served at 12 o'clock and supper at 6 o'clock in the basement of the church.

New York Mills—Mrs. L. H. Minor left Wednesday night for a short visit with her husband at Chisholm.

Little Falls—B. C. Littlefield, who has been night operator at the Northern Pacific depot, has taken a position at Glenwood, and H. O. Glah of St. Cloud has been selected to fill the local vacancy.

St. Cloud—Mrs. A. W. Wheelock, mother of Mrs. A. G. Whitney, died at the Jackson health resort at Dansville, N. Y., Wednesday. Mrs. Wheelock is survived by the following children: Mrs. A. G. Whitney of this city; Mrs. Frank Tolman of Paynesville, Mrs. Arthur McNair of Indianapolis and Harry and Charles Wheelock of Fargo, N. D.

Brainerd—Thursday evening Hon. J. F. Jacobson delivered an address at the opera house at 8 o'clock.

St. Cloud—That the city of St. Cloud is slowly but surely paying off its bonded indebtedness becomes evident from the supplementary report of the finance committee, which has been filed with City Clerk Vossberg. The report shows that durin gthe year $17,000 bonds have been paid.

Moorhead—H. J. McCarthy got 100 bushels of potatoes to the acre this year from his 120-acre field. He sold all of them except what he kept for seed, etc., and got a check for $5,280 for same.

St. Paul—Gen. C. C. Andrews, state forestry commissioner, has received notice of the arrest of Antone Zilbert of Port Hope, Beltrami county, charged with setting a forest fire in township 148, range 32, Sept. 21, which burned over several hundred acres of wood and hay lands and did damage of approximately $5,000.

Throw away your soap! GOLD DUST will do your household cleaning in half the time, with half the labor

Count the cracks in your kitchen floor. There's no end to them. There's no end to the dirt either if you clean with greasy soap. Soap and water are all right in their place, but they won't do the work of GOLD DUST.

GOLD DUST pries out dirt—dissolves it. Hot water rinses it away—leaves your woodwork clean and fresh.

Aside from doing better work, GOLD DUST saves about half your time and labor. It is a cleansing powder of magic power, which starts to clean the moment it dissolves.

GOLD DUST is soap with its working clothes on.

FIREWORKS IN HEARING OF THE M'ALPINE SUIT

Defendant's Testimony Brings Hot Retort From Attorney.

Says McAlpine's Charges Have Hurt Small Holders of Stock.

There were some fireworks in the early part of the morning session in the trial of the case of the Butte & Superior Copper company against John McAlpine, when Mr. McAlpine from the witness stand gave his reasons for refusing to pay the note which he gave as part payment on 1,000 shares of the stock of the company.

Mr. Hollister, cross-examining Mr. McAlpine, accused him of "hedging" on the note, and Mr. McAlpine retorted that he wanted to withdraw because he didn't want to be connected with a degrading position of the kind. He said the promoters of the Butte & Superior company had taken the money of widows, orphans, clerks and stenographers and had given no return. His characterization of the promoters of the enterprise as "robbers" caused a sensation in the court room, and brought attorneys on both sides to their feet.

"Aren't you the man who, by your failure to pay your note and your charges made here in court and given publicity in the newspapers, has done more than any other to prevent the widows, orphans, clerks and stenographers selling their stock, even if you don't prove the charges?" shouted Mr. Hollister.

Mr. McAlpine replied that the damage had already been done when the court proceedings came out in the newspapers.

The matter came up through Mr. McAlpine's statement that he understood Mr. Crosby to say that if the deal wasn't satisfactory, the money Mr. McAlpine paid would be refunded and the note returned. He said when Mr. Wolvin and Mr. Crosby called at his office, he demanded the return of the money he had paid and his note and Mr. Wolvin asked him if he thought he had been given a gold-brick. He said that he replied that he thought so and Mr. Hollister's request that he state his reasons for so thinking brought out the tirade against the promoters of the company.

Mr. Davis on Stand.

After Mr. McAlpine left the stand, T. J Davis, attorney for the company and one of the original promoters, was called to the stand by Mr. Richards for the defense. The calling of Mr. Davis brought out a battle of legal wits between Mr. Richards and Mr. Davis, who carefully guarded his answers and made no admissions except from personal knowledge. Mr. Davis was secretary of the company for a time, last signing the record on April 15, 1907.

Mr. Davis said that he had no part in the organization of the Butte & Superior Copper company except in a legal capacity. He said that Mr. Wolvin, prior to the organization of the company, gave him a chance to be one of twenty people to put up about $100,000 to secure options on the properties afterwards taken over by the Butte & Superior company and within thirty minutes after the offer had been made, he had turned over Davis & Hollister's check for $5,000. He said he had a prospective interest in the 200,000 shares received for the options, but did not know at the time he paid his $5,000 that he was to receive returns in the way of stock at the rate of 50 cents a share.

Mr. Richards sought to secure an admission from Mr. Davis that the original board of directors of the company merely acted as agents for the original promoters and organizers, but failed. He also failed to secure an admission that in transacting the important business of the meeting of Nov. 9, 1906, the board had acted under instructions from the organizers. Mr. Davis said that the holders of the options made a proposition to the board of directors, as the company, and the proposition was accepted.

Mr. Davis said he didn't know what means were adopted to bring the fact that the subscription books were open, to the notice of the public, but he understood a tentative agreement existed that no advertising was to be done in the newspapers. He said J. B. Becher had been appointed trustee of the company and he had full charge of the receiving of subscriptions. He said the only inducements he knew of offered to the public to subscribe for the stock, was the fact that it was sold at 80 per cent of its par value.

Mr. Davis was still on the stand when court adjourned, at noon.

* * *

John McAlpine, was on the stand all yesterday afternoon. He told of the making of the note and the representations made to him by George H. Crosby, who, he claimed, acted as an agent for the company in the sale of stock.

The plaintiff objected strongly to the introduction of McAlpine's testimony as to representations made by Crosby, contending that agency had not been shown, but the court ruled that until the testimony had been introduced, he could not tell whether agency existed or not, so Mr. McAlpine was allowed to testify under the objections and exceptions of the attorneys for the plaintiff.

Mr. McAlpine said that Mr. Crosby represented to him that the Butte & Superior company owned the land in fee, had money to sink a shaft 1,200 feet deep and would be shipping ore in ninety days. He said that Mr. Crosby claimed the Butte & Superior company was bigger and better than the North Butte and would be paying dividends in a short time greater than those paid by the North Butte. Also, he claimed, Mr. Crosby said that Senator W. A. Clark and Louis W. Hill were interested in the company and would carry the enterprise through. He said he understood from Mr. Crosby, that the shares, which were then selling at $4 would never be less and that Crosby himself owned a large block of the stock, which he intended to hold for dividends.

He said the representations made by Crosby on the occasion of his making the first subscription on Dec. 31, 1906, were repeated and enlarged upon when he made the second subscription Feb. 11, 1907, at which time he gave the note, upon which he is being sued. He said that on that occasion Mr. Crosby said the showing was better than he expected and that the officers of the company had made a sworn statement that the company was worth $8,000,000.

"Mr. Crosby said that the company had money in the bank, didn't need cash at that time and the note would do in payment for the stock," said Mr. McAlpine. "He also said that the stock would never go below $4 and would double and treble in value in a short time."

In reply to a question of Mr. Richards, Mr. McAlpine said that Mr. Crosby stated the company's property was fully paid for and the company had money in the bank. Mr. McAlpine said he relied on the statements of Mr. Crosby and wouldn't have given his subscription unless he believed them to be true.

Grin Worried Witness.

When Mr. McAlpine was taken on cross-examination by Mr. Hollister he assumed a non-committal attitude. He resented Mr. Hollister's inquiry into what he termed his private business and took exception to inquiries as to his interest in timber and mineral lands. Once, under fire of Mr. Hollister's questions, he pointed at A. B. Wolvin and exclaimed:

"If that man would stop grinning at me, I would like it a little better. That's been going on for several days." A roar of laughter in the courtroom was suppressed by the court officer, and the court threatened to have the room cleared.

Mr. McAlpine admitted under cross-examination that he thought at one time that the check, with which he paid a previous note on a subscription made Dec. 31, 1906, and the note on which he is being sued, covered one subscription, but he afterwards found that he had made two subscriptions. He said he left everything to Mr. Crosby, thinking that Crosby was all right. "I found out differently later," he said.

When the question of his taking the note from Mr. Becher was broached, Mr. McAlpine denied ever having told Mr. Becher that he would pay the note. He said that when Mr. Becher brought the note to his office on his request, he said that he wouldn't pay it, but wanted to see it. He said that he hadn't received value or the note and wanted to secure it, so when Mr. Becher gave it to him he put it in his pocket and refused to return it. He said that when Ir. Crosby and Mr. Wolvin called on him, he told them that the note was given under misrepresentations and he wouldn't pay it.

Mr. McAlpine was questioned on the answers filed in the suit and he denied having given William B. Phelps, who was first his attorney, the information on which the first answer was drawn. He said he fully understood from Mr. Crosby that the Butte & Superior would be better than the North Butte, would be shipping ore in ninety days and would be paying dividends within a short time afterward. He said he expected dividends in less than two years.

He was still on the stand when court adjourned for the day.

OHIOANS SLOW IN REGISTERING

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 9.—The second day's registration in Cleveland shows much apathy. Approximately the number was 23,540, making a grand total for the first two days of this year 46,733. The total registration for the first two days last year was 64,391. The registration on the second day last year was 39,941. Two days yet remain in which voters have the right to register. Election officials asserted today that the entire total this year would not run over 85,000 or 88,000. The grand total a year ago was 93,321 and in 1904, when President Roosevelt was elected, it was 84,819.

GARBANZO GROUP OF MEXICO.

Mexican Herald: The garbanzo is neither a pea nor a bean, but occupies a position somewhat between the two, and although but little used among foreigners it is highly prized in all Latin countries. There is a demand for it in the Mediterranean ports of Spain and Italy and in Cuba, and it forms an important article of export among the agricultural products of this country.

When roasted it somewhat resembles a roasted chestnut in flavor, although by many persons preferred to the chestnut. It is also boiled with rice, and a very good broth is made from it.

The arbanzo crop of Mexico is rown on lands which are adapted to the growth of wheat, but as it is raised without irrigation when the wheat crop is short, the garbanzo crop is proportionally large, as it is planted on wheat land that did not have sufficient water for irrigation. It is not confined to this class of land, however, as any good black land will produce it. The plant itself resembles somewhat a dwarf pea vine, although much more stocky and with smaller leaves. There are from one to four garbanzos in a pod, and as a rule the fewer there are per pod the larger the garbanzo.

The best quality of garbanzo is one of the highest priced Mexican field products. The best qualities are exported to Spain and Cuba, and as it is very susceptible to the influence of dampness, it is not sent to the coast until the vessel on which it is to be imported is actually in port. It is customary for the exporters to collect their shipments at points with a dry temperature and several thousand feet elevation, but that are near enough to the tide water to be able to reship promptly when the opportunityarrives.

THE MEN SAID NOTHING.

At a dinner at the Plaza in honor of Mrs. Elinor Glyn, the lights went out. Then, in the dark, Mrs. Glyn in her prim English voice, told this story:

"A debutante was describing to her mother a week-end visit she had made to a smart house in Devon.

"'At dinner on Sunday night,' she said, 'the lights went out, and—wasn't it funny, mamma?—the women didn't want the butler to light them again.'

"'How do you know they didn't?' asked the mother.

"'Because they were all crying out: "Don't!" and "Stop!" and the men didn't say a word.'"

MATHEWSON'S ONE BAD INNING GIVES CHICAGO THE PENNANT

Cubs Score Four Runs in Third, Winning the Game.

Giants Are Unable to Do Anything With Brown.

Great Crowd of Dissappointed Fans Witness the Contest.

New York, Oct. 9.—"Chicago 4, New York 2"—this was the tale in a phrase told at the end of the most decisive baseball game played in this country in many years; played at the Polo grounds, in this city, yesterday, to decide the National league championship for the season of 1908. In the presence of a record-breaking crowd, which swamped the grounds and left many thousands outside long before the game began, a game was played in deadly earnest—"Straight baseball, with no frills"—to settle as tensely dramatic a situation as the most ardent lover of sport could imagine. Chicago won and New York lost.

The game was played in the cheerful sunshine of an ideal baseball day, before a vast concourse of peopel, who carried with them to the Polo grounds the pent-up enthusiasm, hopes and fears accumulated day by day, in the closing weeks of a season's fight for a National league pennant, which had been absolutely unprecedented for constantly intensifying interest and uncertainty.

At dusk the great multitude departed from the historic enclosure—hushed and disappointed. Its winners, who arrived here on the Twentieth Century Limited yesterday morning, are now on their way homeward. The large, black headlines in the newspapers—"New York 2, Chicago 4"—are like mourning captions over the grave of some great personage's death. And yet probably Manager McGraw's words after the game, in the unwonted quiet of the training quarters, where the Giants were having their last showers and rub downs, epitomizes the feelings of the vast army of New York's followers, from those of the merest office boy, who had to sacrifice another grandmother to get off early and climb an "L" pillar for an occasional diamondward glimpse, to the occupant of a grand stand box:

"I do not feel badly about the game; we merely lost something we had won before."

Fair, or not, this appears to be the view generally obtaining in Greater New York.

A Great Game.

It was great baseball, witnessed by the greatest of great baseball crowds—which would have been more than doubled if the fences had been stretched out into a circle of sufficient size to include all those who had clamored vainly for admittance, and who thronged everything that offered the least possibility of catching even an echo of the applause within. Speculators who know the game, however, bitter they may feel over the tie-decision, which made yesterday's game compulsory, seem to concede that the work of the Chicago team was practically perfect.

The Giants, well though they played, were outplayed.

Chicago fresh from rest and well-judged practice and coaching, was superb in form. Brilliant, errorless fielding, snappy base running and opportune hitting in the third inning, which made effective in scores, a double by Chance, won the game. New York could not hit at critical times. Mathewson—"the great Matty"—favorite of the favorites, could not keep his invincible power an dthe effect of a moment's lapse in that third inning, could not be overcome. McGraw's substitution of Wiltse in the box in the last two innings may or may not have been wise. The home team needed a long hit; needed the tremendous rallying power, which Mathwson has more than once inspired in them at the very finish, and wrung victory from seeming defeat.

The gathering of the vast crowd, which witnessed the contest for the premier honors of the National league, was picturesque in the extreme.

Immdiately the gates swung open hundreds upon hundreds fairly hurled themselves within the enclosure. The stands rapidly began to fill. By noon the sale of tickets ended, and soon there was not a seat—hardly standing room. And out beyond the enclosure, every over-topping structure—chimneys, derricks, roofs—had their swarm of "rooters."

Crush of Spectators.

Outside the grounds for an hour preceding the calling of the game at 2:45 o'clock, there was an almost uncontrollable rush of many thousands, desperately anxious to get inside. Suddenly the corner gates to the diamond were flung wide—and hundreds rushed madly to the sides of the field, fighting for places, stopping the practice of the nines. Police fought the crowd back and finally a sufficient margin of field was maintained around the diamond. When the word came: "Play," a silence fell over all—a tenseness, which could be felt. The thousands of cowbells and horns were unsued. The game was on. It held the crowd as by a spell. The players felt the tension—that was evident. Chicago plainly showed it, and Sheckard, facing Mathewson, struck out.

The deafening greeting of this beginning was in striking contrast with the silence as, at the game's end, the home team, out in one, two, three order, rushed across the diamond to their clubhouse.

Two Great Innings.

The two great innings of the game were the third and the seventh. In the former, Chicago made all its runs. In the latter, opening with tremendous enthusiasm, following the loud-shouted, "The Giants' Lucky Seventh," hopes were revived, but faded after one run, which kept company with that made in the first inning on the mammoth bulletin board far out afield.

It was Chicago at bat for the opening, and Sheckard began auspiciously for New York by failing to get on to Mathewson's curves. Then Evers went out on a fast stop by Herzog to Tenney, Scvhulte struck out. No runs.

New York to bat:

Tenney was hit with the ball, and went to first. Herzog got a base on balls; Bresnahan struck out, and Herzog, who had started for second when Kling dropped the ball, was caught at first by a wonderful throw by Kling to Chance, making a double play. Then Donlin knocked out a two bagger and Tenney scored, the first man in the game to reach the home plate. Chance strenuously but vainly protested that the two-base hit was a foul. Seymour was given a base on balls. Pitcher Pfeister was in a tight position, there being two men on bases, and one run already scored, and Chance took him out of the box, putting in Mordecal Brown. Devlin struck out.

Second Inning.

Chance singled to right, but was caught off first, Mathewson to Tenney. A protest came, this time from Hofman, and the crowd groaned and urged "Speed instead of talk." But Hofman continued to talk and was finally ordered off the field. Then Moran, who went to the coaching box, began more talk, and he, too, was promptly ordered from the field. Play resumed, Steinfeldt struck out. Howard went to bat in Hofman's place, and likewise struck out.

It was one, two, three for New York in the second, for McCormick filed to Schulte, Bridwell did the same, and Mathewson went out—Tinker to Chance. No runs.

Chicago Scores Four.

The third was more eventful. Tinker's beautiful three-bagger to deep center started the run-getting for Chicago. Kling then singled to left and Tinker came home amid great cheering, in which even the New York partisans could not withhold a well-deserved participation. Brown grounded out to Tenney, advancing Kling to second. Sheckard flied to Seymour, who made a spectacular throw, holding Kling on second. Then Evers went to first on balls—the first and only "walk" Mathewson allowed the visitors. Schulte then doubled to left, scoring Kling, and Chance's twolbagger to right scored Evers and Schulte. Steinfeldt struck out. The Westerners got no more than the four runs, but they were enough.

Tenney singled to left. Herzog fouled out to Kling; Bresnahan knocked a single to left and was forced at second by Donlin through Tinker unassisted. Seymour flied out to Sheckard. No runs. New York still had only 1, and the home "fans" began to be axious.

Howard opened the fourth for Chicago by going out, Herzog to Tenney. Tinker followed suit—Mathewson to Tenney, and Kling flied to McCormick. Again no runs.

It was even briefer for New York. Devlin out, Steinfeldt to Chance, McCormick out with a fly right to Howard's ready hands. Then Bridwell went out with a grounder—Evers to Chance.

The fifth was the same story, monotonous yet full of intensity. Straight basegall was being played by the rivals "for all they were worth." A fine stop and throw, Bridwell to Tenney, put Brown out, Seymour was right on hand to take in Shekard's fly and Evers was out, Mathewson to Tenney.

The contest seemed to have resolved itself into a question of which side could go out fastest. New York did it with dispatch; Mathewson by Steinfeldt to Chance; Tenney by Evers to Chance, and then Herzog put a fly right into Chance's glove, but all the while it was professional baseball of the finest type. Fifth inning, no runs; still Chicago 4, New York 1.

The sixth afforded a very little variety, though there was nothing unusual in Devlin's being right at the terminus of Shulte's foul fly. Chance started another chill down New York's spine by singling to left, but he was enthusiastically applauded for being caught stealing second. Steinfeldt hit safely to left, but Howard struck out and left him there.

New York fared no better. Bresnahan was out, Tinker to Chance. Donlin dropped a fly accurately into Sheckard's hands, and Seymour drove a long one out straight to Schulte.

The Lucky Seventh.

Now the "Lucky Seventh," but it was not lucky for New York. After Tinker had flied out to McCormick, Kling had struck out, and Brown had sent a grounder to Mathewson, who threw it to Tenney, the New York "fans" toop up their famous war cry, "Giants' Lucky Seventh," and New York went to bat. Donlin singled to left center and McCormick hit safely to right for a base. Bridwell got a base on balls and all the sacks were full. At this critical juncture, when suspense accentuated the silence, Manager McGraw sent Doyle in to bat for Mathewson. Great clamor broke forth, for it meant that Mathewson would pitch no more in this game. A long hit was needed. Everythin had prepared the way for this particular instant. Mathewson had a way of rallying at the moment of greatest stress. Doyle failed to fill the bill. He sent up a nice little "pop foul," which fell into the clutches of Catcher Kling. Devlin scored on Tenney's fly to Schulte, but Herzog went out, Tinker to Chance, and the seventh was over.

The eighth was quickly over. Wiltse pitched for New York, now in Mathewson's place. Sheckard struck out. Evers knocked a double to left, Schulte got to first on Tenney's fumble, which allowed Evers to make third. Chance filed out to McCormick, who threw to Bresnahan at the plate, catching Evers there.

One, two, three again for New York in this inning. Bresnahan out, Brown to Chance, Donlin on a fly to Sheckard and Seymour, Evers to Chance.

It was three up and three out on each side in the ninth. For Chicago, Steinfeldt struck out, Howard batted a little fly to Devlin, and Tinker did the same to Tenney, that closed the game for Chicago—unless by some remarkable luck New York should tie the score.

It was not to be. Devlin went out, Steinfeldt to Chance; McCormick by a fly to Chance, and Bridwell by Tinker to Chance. It was all over, and there was hardly a shout from the immense crowd.

Chicago, 4; New York, 2. And there was no appeal. The pennant of 1908 was securely in Chicago's grip, and it was Chicago, not New York that would seek the world's championship with Detroit.

GOLF CHAMPION HERE.

William Anderson is Guest of Members of Northland Club.

William Anderson, one of the greatest amateur golf players in the country is in the city, a guest of the Northland Country club. This is the first time in the history of golf in the city that a real champion has been entertained, and much interest is being shown by the members of the club and their friends in seeing him play the great Scottish game.

Today he is being entertained by the different members of the club at luncheons, and sight-seeing trips around the boulevard. Saturday he will play a match game with L. J. Hopkins, the local champion, and the members of the club on this day will be allowed to bring their friends to the grounds.

FIRST GAME AT DETROIT

Championship Series Begin Saturday in the Michigan City.

The National Commission Gives Out Rules for the Contests.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Oct. 9.—Beginning at 2 o'clock on the afternoon of Saturday, Oct. 10, the baseball teams of Chicago and Detroit which have just won the closest recorded contests for the championship of the National and American leagues, will meet at Detroit to enter upon a six-day series of games for the baseball championship of the world. But one game will be played at Detroit before the scene shifts, the Sunday and Monday contests being scheduled for Chicago, while the Tuesday and Wednesday games are to be played at Detroit, and the sixth game, if one is necessary, will then be given to Chicago. There have been some additional rules adopted concerning such contests, although in most respects the rules will be as in former years.

The national baseball commission will be in charge, but the immediate control of the game is given to two umpires from each league. For the National league, Umpires O'Day and Klem were designated by President Pulliam, while President Johnson of the American league named Sheridan and Connolly to represent his organization.

The notice as given out by the national commission this afternoon, follows:

All the rules heretofore adopted and approved by the National and American leagues will apply to the series, as well as the detail rules adopted by the commission since these games have been provided for. All of these rules will be found in the fourth annual report of the national commission. Since this report has been issued one change has been made providing for the appointment of four umpires, instead of two umpires, as follows:

Umpires, how selected, Section 14—The president of the National league and the president of the American league shall each select two umpires from their respective leagues and the umpires so chosen shall be assigned to duties to be subject to the order of the chairman of the national commission.

Additional Rules.

The following additional rules have also been adopted since the first of the year:

Rule 17—Neither one of the contesting clubs shall be permitted to pay a bonus or prize to any or all of its players who may take part in the series either before or after the same has been completed, and the commission will require from each club which each club is required to deposit under rule six until such time that they may be satisfied that there has been no violation of this rule, and in case there is a violation of this rule, then said certified check shall be cashed and credited to the funds of the national committee.

Rule 18—In order to facilitate the arrangements for all of the games during the world's series, the National committee will furnish to the contesting clubs all of the general admission tickets, consisting of two sets for each game, one set to be sold at the rate of $1 for each admission and the other at the rate of $1.50 admission. All of said tickets to have rain checks attached for all games played, and the following specialties with regard to the sale of tickets and the settlement therefor shall govern:

A—No tickets, except reserved seat coupon tickets, shall be sold before the gates are opened, and all tickets other than reserved seat tickets shall be sold only at ball park ticket offices.

B—In order to furnish an accurate check on turnstiles, the home club, before each game, shall furnish the business representative of the commission with a list of tickets given each ticket seller. The count of the number of tickets sold shall be taken each day and compared with the turnstile registers, the larger amount to be taken as the official count.

C—The contesting clubs, on the day prior to the first game in the respective cities, shall furnish to the representative of the commission a diagram of all reserved seats, settlement to be made by the difference between the reserved seats not sold and the number listed.

D—Each club shall set aside daily two reserved seats for each eligible player of the visiting club, the same to be delivered to the secetary of the visiting club and to be paid for by that club.

The commission desires again to call particular attention to rule 16, governing these contests, which reads as follows:

Umpires Are It.

Rule 16—The authority of the umpires in these contests will be supreme; and the umpires are authorized to eject from the game all players indulging in vile and indecent language and unfair tactics. Before the distribution of the prize money belonging to the players, the commission will take cognizance of all reports by their umpires, and inflict such penalties as they may see fit against offending players, and the penalties so inflicted shall be taken from the prize money belonging to such players.

The following details will govern the world's championship series to be played in October, 1908, between the Chicago National league club and the Detroit American league club:

The certified checks—The certified checks of $10,000 shall be deposited by each club with the secretary of the commission not later than 11 o'clock of the first day of the scheduled game and shall be thereupon by the secretary immediately placed in bank to the credit of the National commission.

The schedule—Saturday, Oct. 10, Detroit; Sunday, Oct. 11, Chicago; Monday, Oct. 12, Chicago; Tuesday, Oct. 13, Detroit; Wednesday, Oct. 14, Detroit; Thursday, Oct. 15, Chicago.

The schedule as adopted was determined by lot, as is provided by the rules. If any of the games scheduled at any park is postponed on account of rain or any other cause, the teams will be required to play such postponed games on the first day available after such postponement provided, however, that the game scheduled for the Chicago park on Sunday, Oct. 11, shall be played at that park.

In case it becomes necessary to play the seventh game the city in which it is to be played will be determined by the commission, as provided by Rule 6, at the time designated by supplemental rule No. 4.

The Players—The following players will be eligible to participate in the game and none others:

Chicago National league club—Brown, Chance, Durbin, Evers, Fraser, Howard, Hoffman, Kling, Kroh, Lundgren, Marshall, Moran, Overall, Pfeister, Reulbach, Sheckard, Slagle, Shulte, Steinfeldt, Tinker, Zimmerman.

Detroit American league club—Coughlin, Cobb, Crawford, Downs, Donovan, Jones, Jennings, Killian, Killifer, Mullin, O'Leary Rossman, Schmidt, Summers, Suggs, Schaefer, Thomas, Willets, Winter, McIntyre.

The Umpires—Under section 13, President Pulliam of the National league has selected as umpires from this league Henry O'Day and William Klem and President Johnson of the American league has selected as umpires from his league John F. Sheridan and T. V. H. Connolly. Under the rules governing the contests, the umpires shall be assigned to duty and be subject to the orders of the chairman of the National commission.

The Commission—The entire commission and its secretary will be represented. The business representatives of the commission will be John Heidler and Robert McRoy.

The headquarters of the comission will be at the Auditorium Annex, Chicago, and the Pontchartrain, Detroit.

The Scorers—The official scorers selected by the commission are A. J. Flanner of the Sporting News and Francis C. Richter of the Sporting Life.

Preliminary Meeting—The national commission, together with the umpires, official scorers, and the club owners of the contesting clubs, will meet at the Ponchartrain, Detroit, Saturday morning, Oct. 10, at 11 o'clock.

Prices of Admission—At Chicago: General admission $1; grand stand (unreserved) $1.50; grand stand (reserved) $2; box seats, $2.50. At Detroit: General admission, $1; pavilion, $1; grand stand, $2; box seats, $2.50.

Tickets for Officials and Press—In order that the club officials of the two leagues and the special guests of the commission may be properly provided for, sixty-five tickets shall be delivered each day to the commission for this purpose. The press tickets shall be delivered by the respective clubs.

Time of Game—The games shall be called in both cities at 2 p. m.

Rain Checks—Rain checks shall be issued each day, regardless of the weather conditions. Should a game be postponed on account of the weather the check issued shall be good only for the next game in the same city.

Official Balls—The official ball of the National league will be used in all games on the National league grounds and the official ball of the American league shall be used in all games on the American league grounds.

CHICAGO IS WILD WITH DELIGHT

Windy City Fans Go Crazy Over Result of Great Game.

Chicago, Oct. 9.—Scarcely had the shouts of the people in the street, greeting the news of Chicago's third consecutive capture of the National league pennant died away than the enthusiasts of the city turned their attention to the contest which will be waged between Detroit and Chicago, beginning at Detroit Saturday. The problem of securing tickets for the first game in Chicago on Sunday was uppermost in the mind of every follower of the game. President Murphy's telephone was ringing with great frequency on account of inquiries as to how and where tickets might be secured, but the boy left in charge of the office had no information to give out in the absence of the officials of the Chicago club.

Ground Enlarged.

That record-breaking crowds will attend the games in this city goes without question. Since last year, when Chicago defeated Detroit for the world's championship, President C. W. Murphy has greatly enlarged the stands in the West Side park. Grandstands and bleachers as they now exist, will, it is explained, seat well over 20,000 persons. But with any kind of baseball weather, it is confidently predicted that the attendance at each of the games played in this city, will more than test the seating capacity of the grounds. Last Sunday, when Chicago played with Pittsburg, the attendance was officially given out at 30,247.

Scores of telegrams of congratulation were sent from Chicago last night to President Murphy of the Chicago team and Frank Chance, its manager and captain, at New York. Special trains, it is said, will take delegations of Chicago "rooters" to Detroit for the opening game and probably for such others of the series as are played off in the Michigan metropolis.

Ninth Time For Chicago.

The 1908 pennant is the ninth to be won by the Chicago team since the organization of the National league. By winning this year's championship, Chicago attained the unique distinction of having twice won the leadership of the league for three consecutive years. The first series of victories occurred in the years 1880, 1881 and 1882. In 1885 and 1886 the pennant again came to Chicago, but in 1887 victory was wrested from them by Detroit. Not until 1906 did Chicago again lead the organization. In that year the local team made a runaway race of it, but lost the world's championship to the Chicago American league team. Last year Chicago not only won the league championship in easy fashion, but won the world's championship in four straight games from Detroit.

1908 Race Very Close.

The National league race this year was a remarkably close one, which kept players and followers of the game alike on tenter hooks most of the season. Chicago secured first place early in the season, but lost it shortly afterward by a remarkable combination of illnesses and accidents which kept many of the regular players out of the line-up. At one time only two regulars were playing, Capt. Chance who has a remarkable faculty of making the team work together and at top speed, was out of the game for weeks, and the pitching staff, almost to a man, lost its form. From that time on the struggle to regain lost ground was unceasing.

AS VIEWED BY CLUB LEADERS

What Murphy, McGraw and Chance Thought of Game.

New York, Oct. 9.—President Murphy made the following statement last night:

"With the winning of the third successive National league pennant by the Cubs, we can claim, with a pardonable pride, the most remarkable achievement ever accomplished in organized baseball. Manager Chance deserves a world of credit for his generalship, individual play and incessant earnestness. Every member of the team also is deserving of unstinted praise.

"No gamer ball club has ever trodden the diamond, and during the season just passed we have had between seventy and eighty serious accidents, and in very few games indeed have we been able to present our full lineup on the field. I can readily understand why every loyal Chicagoan thinks so much of the Cubs. When it looked darkest, the players were optimistic and full of confidence, and they have always believed that they would win the National league flag the third time in succession.

"The Giants have put up a great fight and McGraw and his men deserve the commendation, good will and support of all loyal New Yorkers. They fought us to a finish, but in my judgment the better team won. I am glad our vicory was a decisive one, so that it cannot be ascribed to anything of a technical nature.

"Notwithstanding that we won decisively from Detroit a year ago, we feel that that team has been greatly strengthened and that they will give us a hard battle for the highest honors in professional baseball. We ought to win, but we realize we will have to exert ourselves to the limit in order to once more secure the honors in the national game."

A display of rowdism at the very end of the game by a few disgruntled spectators marred in a measure what had hitherto been fair treatment of the visiting players. No attempt was made during the game itself to interfere with the Chicago team, but after the game, when the crowd had swarmed on the field a number of roughs attacked Capt. Chance, who, with his fellow-players, was making his way to the clubhouse. Several pop-bottles were thrown, and one struck Chance in the neck, inflicting what is said to be a slight bruise.

Manager McGraw of the New York club said at the clubhouse after the game:

"I do not feel badly about this game. We merely lost something we had won before. This cannot be put too strongly. As for Mathewson, he pitched winning ball. It was merely one of those lapses which the best pitchers experience under such terrific strain. The whole team showed the effects of it, but they fought to the end."

Manager Chance of the Chicago team said:

"My boys were very nervous at the start of the game. The circumstances naturally account for that. But then they braced up and you know the rest. The team is the finest in the history of the sport.

FAST MATCH TO COME OFF SOON

Charley Sutter and Alex Wood to Mix at Temple Rink.

The first wrestling bout to be pulled off under the auspices of the Olympia Athletic club this year, will take place at the Temple Roller rink, Saturday evening, Oct. 17, when Charley Sutter of Proctor, lightweight champion of the Northwest, and Alex Wood of St. Paul, champion the Twin Cities, will meet for a match to decide the championship of the north country.

Both men have been in training for some time; both say they are in the pink of condition, and each of them thinks his chances for winning are the best ever.

They are both fast, and the match should be an interesting one.

"Suffered day and night the torment of itching piles. Nothing helped me until I used Doan's Ointment. It cured me permanently."—Hon. John R. Garrett, Mayor, Girard, Ala.

BIG GAME SATURDAY

Grand Rapids Coming Determined to Whip Duluth at Football.

Duluth May Go Into the Game Badly Crippled.

The past week has been the most unsatisfactory practice week the Centrals have yet put in.

For the most part there has been a big run of hard luck in their camp. Ostergren and McFadden, the two ends, were out of the game for two days on account of illness; Stevens, the suquarterback, was hurt; Cummings' shoulder was in bad shape, and yesterday Crawford turned his ankle. It is expected that all these men, although not in the best of condidon, will be in the game at least for part of the game with Grand Rapids Saturday.

Cook, the star fullback, was at home two days, and not once this week did the second team show up in sufficient numbers for a good stiff workout.

Grand Rapids is touted as being a great machine this year. They are both heavy, fast, are being tutored by an old student of the game under Phil King of Wisconsin, and they are coming to Duluth with about 200 rooters, determined to clean Duluth up.

Their coach was in the city last Saturday, acting as one of the officials in the game between Hibbling and Duluth, had a good chance to study Duluth's style of play, and it is safe to say that during the past week he has drilled his warriors in methods of blocking some of the fancy plays pulled off by the Duluth team at Athletic park last Saturday.

ALL DETROIT WAS INTERESTED

Outcome of Chicago-New York Game Was Eagerly Watched.

Detroit, Oct. 9.—Interest was intense in Detroit yesterday afternoon, in the game between New York and Chicago, to decide which team should oppose Detroit in the world's series. Manager Hugh Jennings of the Detroit team was disappointed at the defeat of his old friend Manager McGraw, but glad of the opportunity of again meeting the Chicago team, and endeavor to wipe out the crushing defeat administered by the National league champions last year. The news that the series will begin here on Saturday was a surprise, as it was generally thought the first game would be played in Chicago. President F. J. Navin, of the Detroit club, said, when told of the decision of the National commission: "We will have to hurry, but we will have everything at Bennett park in readiness for Saturday afternoon. We will be able to seat between 18,000 and 20,000. In addition to the regular stands, I have ordered circus seats from Chicago, which will accommodate 10,000, and which will be in place tomorrow afternoon."

The news that the series is to open here Saturday spread like wild fire through the city, on the heels of Chicago's victory, and increased the baseball interest which has been intense since Detroit's victory over Chicago, Tuesday.

HARD SCHEDULE.

Spaldings Have a Stiff Football Season Ahead of Them.

The strong Spalding football team will try conclusions with the fast team from Proctor, Sunday afternoon. This team is now rounding into excellent condition. They have arranged a hard schedule, and are making a strong bid for championship honors.

Their schedule so far as arranged is as follows: Oct. 11, Proctor; Oct. 18, Superior Telegram at Duluth; Oct. 25, Oliver team of Hibbing at Duluth; Nov. 1, Blaine Alumni at Superior; Nov. 8, Oliver team at Hibbing.

Goes Into the Finals.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 9.—Miss Grace Semple of the Country club, St. Louis, and Mrs. A. F. Anderson of the Midlothian Golf club, Chicago, were the victors in the semi-final round of the Women's Western golf championship at the Country club yesterday afternoon, and will compete today in the final match for the championship.

Miss Semple defeated Mrs. H. Sprague of Omaha, two up. She played a surprisingly strong game, coming from behind in the last four holes and overcoming a lead of two strokes.

Mrs. Anderson defeated Miss Sallie Ainslee of the Calumet club, Chicago, two up and one to play.

Favorite Wins.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 9.—The Transylvania, the greatest and most prized stake for light harness horses, was won yesterday by the overwhelming favorite, Spanish Queen, owned by G. H. Estabrook and driven by Gus Macey. The victory was easy.

The pacing division of the Futurity was unfinished and went over until today. Catherine Direct, the favorite, won the first and fourth heats; Col. Forest the second and thrid heats.

The track was heavy.

EGGS ARE CLIMBING

Join Butter Prices in Skyward Flight—Vegetables Scarcer.

Fresh Apple Cider in Market—Pork Prices Lower.

Last week's activities did not seem to lessen the vigor or the advancing proclivities of the butter and egg market.

The strength of these two products furnished practically the only feature of the local produce market last week, and this week, they have continued in stellar roles.

Butter has gone up and so have eggs.

There is nothing unusual about the advance. The colder weather always brings a bulge.

Creamery butter is 29 to 30 cents for prints. Tubs are 28 to 29 cents.

YOUR CREDIT IS GOOD FOR CLOTHING AT FRED W. EDWARDS

UPSTAIRS OVER GIDDING'S FIRST AVE. W. & SUPERIOR ST.

During the last two days eggs have gone up from 21 to 23 cents a dozen.

There is not great prospect of lower prices for these articles from now until spring. They will keep on a very firm basis.

* * *

Fresh green vegetables are getting scarce and consignments from the hothouses are beginning to arrive. Fresh tomatoes are still in the market, at $1.50 for six-basket crates.

* * *

Fresh cucumbers have made their last blow and the hot house variety is now being offered at $1.75 a dozen. Lettuce is also scarce.

* * *

After about one more big shipment comes in, the crab apple season will have terminated. They are selling now for $2.25 a box.

* * *

Plums, peaches and California oranges are getting scarce. Florida oranges are expected very soon and they will hold a place on Michigan street during most of the winter, giving way in popularity to the luscious California Navels as soon as they begin to come in.

* * *

Grapes and apples hold the center of the fruit stage. New York Concord grapes are still plentiful around 22 cents a basket and the Tokays from California are popular at $1.50 a crate. Receipts of these have been quite liberal during the week and are taking the place of the Delaware grapes, which have been the popular fancy grapes of the season, up to the present time.

The quality of the apples is very good. Receipts are increasing and almost every variety is now offered here. The crop in New York was very good this year and most of local receipts are from the Empire state orchards. There are all varieties, except Baldwins, which are late apples.

* * *

The dry season caused a shrinkage in the cabbage yield and prices for that vegetable are higher. Receipts have been rather light all fall and the market for the heads is $2 to $2.25 a crate.

* * *

The potato market holds firm around 70 to 75 cents a bushel. Sweet potatoes are $1.50 a bushel.

* * *

Apple cider is in the market now. The sure enough New York stuff is selling here at $3.50 per keg.

* * *

There is a slightly easier tone to the poultry market. Springs are 17 cens a pound and hens are quoted at 14 cents.

Pork prices continue to go off a tittle and comprise about the only feature of the meat market at the present time. Hog receipts at the killing centers have been increasing since harvesting was completed and pork loins were marked off to 12½ cents a pound here. Lard is a trifle easier, as well. Otherwise, the meat market is steady and unchanged.

STRAWBERRIES IN BLOOM ON LAKE BEMIDJI SHORE.

Bemidji, Minn., Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—That Beltrami county is fast becoming a "banana" belt, was demonstrated by the finding of a bed of wild strawberry plants, which were in bloom, indicating the second crop of berries for this season.

R. E. Fisher, operator at the Minnesota & International depot, while walking along the west side of Lake Bemidji, some three miles north of the city limits, found a big patch of strawberry plants, many of which were in bloom. He picked several of them and brought them to Bemidji. The berries were just beginning to tinge red and gave promise of bearing quite plentifully provided they are not nipper by the frost before maturity.

Graphite Production.

Washington, Oct. 9.—The world's production of graphite for 1908 is estimated at 100,922 short tons valued at $3,063,385, considerably less than the two previous years says a report of the geological survey.

Lock Tender Given Prize.

Neenah, Wis., Oct. 9.—For maintaining the third best appearing grounds about his lock, the government has awarded George Allans, tender of the Menasha lock a cash prize. Albert Rasmussen, Kaukauna and Axel Fahlstrom, Appleton, secured first and second prizes respectively.

WOMAN DYING OF OPIUM POISONING

Bemidji Chinaman Under Arrest on Suspicion of Furnishing Drug.

Bemidji, Minn., Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Lying in a bed at her home in an unconscious condition and violently delirous part of the time from opium poisoning, Mrs. Mike Seberger has been carefully watched since Tuesday night, when she became unconscious and physicians were summoned to her bedside to ascertain the cause of her illness. According to the physicians at her bedside, there is no hope for her recovery.

Mr. Seberger states that his wife became addicted to the use of opium while she was an inmate of the local hospital, a year ago in June. In some manner, Mrs. Seberger got possession of some opium tablets and used them. According to her husband, after she left the hospital Mrs. Seberger had a hankering for opium and was closely watched at all times by her husband.

So far as he is aware of Mrs. Seberger had not been able to secure any of the opium.

Wednesday night, Sam Kee, a Chinaman, who conducts a laundry in this city, appeared at the home of Mrs. Seberger and inquired after Mrs. Seberger. He was given a close questioning and admitted that he had given opium to other people in Bemidji, but strenuously denied having furnished any of the drug to Mrs. Seberger. He was confronted with the box of stuff, which had been found in the home, but would not admit that he had supplied the sick woman with the fatal narcotic.

The Chinaman was loud in his protestations. Kee was taken into custody in order to prevent his leaving the city. If it can be proven that he furnished the drug to Mrs. Seberger he will be prosecuted.

TEACHERS WILL MEET IN DULUTH

Northeastern Association Will Meet Here Nov. 13 and 14.

The eighth annual meeting of the "Educational Association of Northeastern Minnesota," will be held in Duluth, Friday and Saturday, Nov. 13 and 14.

Nearly all the teachers in this part of the state are members of this association, and it is expected that a great number of them will be in the city to attend the meetings, as some exceptionally strong talks have been arranged for their benefit.

The meetings will be held in the assembly hall of the Central high school, and the first one will be called to order Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, when the teachers will discuss general school conditions in Minnesota. Saturday morning will be devoted to the discussion of departmental work.

Prof. Edward A. Ross, of the chair of sociology, University of Wisconsin, will deliver two addresses, one on Friday evening, and the other during one of the day sessions.

The executive committee consists of E. W. Bohannon, of Duluth, president; Scott A. Foster of Duluth, vice president, and C. F. Young of Hibbing, secretary.

WANTS DIVORCE AND ALIMONY

Mrs. Ida D. Hone Says Husband Used Her Cruelly.

Mrs. Ida D. Hone yesterday afternoon filed suit for divorce against her husband, Cosmos D. Hone, and Hone's answer was filed at the same time. Mrs. Hone asks temporary alimony of $50 a month, the costs of the suit, and possession of the one child. Mr. Hone asks the court to dismiss the action of his wife and give the care and custody of the child to him.

The complaint sets forth that the couple were married on July 29, 1900, at Lodi, Wis., and they have one child, six years of age. Mrs. Hone alleges cruel and inhuman treatment, claiming that her husband has beaten, abused and choked her, and has sworn at her. She says that her husband's income is more than $200 a month, and she is without means. Mr. Hone denies the allegations of cruelty.

Mr. Hone lives at 209 Third avenue west, and is engaged in the tailoring business, at 201½ West First street. Reynolds & McClearn appear for Mrs. Hone, and Thomas J. McKeon for Mr. Hone. A hearing on the motion for $50 a month alimony will be held at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning.

METHODISTS GET TIP TO WAGE WAR AGAINST CANNON

Baltimore, Oct. 9.—The legislative committee of the Temperance society of the Methodist Episcopal church, which is conducting a movement against the re-election, not only as speaker but also as a representative in congress, of Joseph G. Cannon of Illinois, yesterday gave out a letter addressed to Methodist voters for their guidance in the fight against Cannon.

The voters belonging to the Methodist communication in the speaker's district are advised to co-operate with temperance people of all other denominations through the Anti-Saloon league, which the letter says was now leading the fight against Cannon.

Further the committee urges that every Republican candidate for congress be publicly asked whether he favors the re-election of Cannon as speaker and his reply published in the newspapers of his district.

MARINE NEWS.

WATER IN GREAT LAKES IS LOWER

Lake Levels Fall Off During the Month of September.

Lake Superior shows a loss of about four and one-half inches from the average September stage of the water for the past ten years, and about one and one-half inches from last year, according to the United States lake survey report just issued.

It also shows that during the last month Lake Superior fell two and one-fourth inches; Lake Huron, five and one-fourth inches, Lake Erie, five inches; and Lake Ontario, a trifle over nine inches. The general fall of the water levels of the past month is due to the extremely dry weather.

Lakes Huron and Michigan show a stage of four inches above the September average for the past ten years. Lake Erie is five inches above the average, and slightly lower than in September of last year. Lake Ontario shows the highest average since 1894.

ECZEMA AFFLICTS WHOLE FAMILY

Suffered for Two Years with Terrible Itching and Burning—Children in Fearful Condition—Unable to Sleep and Kept Scratching.

EIGHT SPEEDILY CURED BY CUTICURA REMEDIES

"The Cuticura Remedies cured eight in our family (my husband, six children and myself) of a terrible eczema. We had it so bad that the children couldn't sleep at night for scratching themselves. They were broken out thick and crusted all over. Then it would itch and burn and big sores came on their hips and legs. They would cry with them and I myself suffered terribly with the itching and burning. We were this way for two years. It would get worse in the winter. I used all the home remedies that I could hear of without any relief and then I went to a physician and got medicine three different times but it did not do us any good. I did not know what to do so I went to a friend and asked her what it was she used for her children, and she told me it was the Cuticura Remedies. I sent at once for the Cuticura Remedies consisting of Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Resolvent Pills. I also got one more box of Cuticura Ointment and two cakes of Cuticura Soap. They relieved us at once and in a short time we were cured. I am truly glad of finding a cure for eczema, and I shall recommend the Cuticura Remedies highly to every one so afflicted. Mrs. Ruey B. Bolce, Rockcastle P. O., Jackson Co., W. Va., Mar. 3, 1908."

SKIN HEALTH

Obtained by Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment.

For preserving, purifying and beautifying the skin, for cleansing the scalp of crusts, scales and dandruff and the stopping of falling hair, for softening, whitening and soothing red, rough and sore hands, and for torturing, disfiguring humors, eczemas, rashes, itchings, irritations, inflammations and chafings of infants, children and adults, there is nothing so pure, sweet and economical as the Cuticura Remedies. They afford immediate relief and point to a speedy cure in the majority of cases when other remedies fail.

WATCHMEN ARRESTED

Claimed to Have Stolen Systematically From Mining Company.

Detective, Disguised as Watchman, Secured Evidence.

In the arrest yesterday at Hibbing of Night Watchman Jerry McCarthy and Bob Dunbar of the Nassau mine of the Pittsburg Iron Ore company by Thomas P. Maguire of this city, superintendent of the Employers' Detective association of Duluth, disclosures were made of the thefts of the company's goods within the past two months that will amount of to over $2,400.

Not only did McCarthy and Dunbar steal from the company, it is charged, but they also stole from the personal belongings of the men employed in the Nassau mine. Watches and other articles belonging to the mine workers were unearthed in McCarthy's home when he was arrested, it is claimed, and also goods that had been missed from the company storehouse.

The officials of the Nassau mine have been missing property for the past two months. Recently they decided to investigate.

Mr. Maguire was communicated with over the long distance telephone and immediately sent a detective to the Nassau mine to act as a night watchman. The detective worked with McCarthy, Dunbar being sent over to the Croxton mine, four miles from Chisholm.

It didn't take the detective-watchman long to suspect that McCarthy was the man who was doing the thieving. A warrant was issued for his arrest.

McCarthy was discovered at his home in Hibbing yesterday. The detective who acted as the watchman was taken along with Mr. Maguire, a pair of handcuffs being placed on his wrists, to carry out the bluff to the end. McCarthy submitted to being placed under arrest, but claimed that Dunbar was the man who had been doing the thieving. McCarthy and the detective were handcuffed together, the latter being handcuffed to the seat of the buggy. Then Mr. Maguire made a search of McCarthy's home.

In the house three pairs of hip boots were found, and in the trunk fifteen gold and silver watches were discovered. A further search of an old trunk brought to light two money bags, one containing $161 and the other $180. This money, it is claimed, was obtained from the sale of the stolen articles.

Maguire then drove over to the Croxton location and found Dunbar. Dunbar was told that McCarthy had implicated him. He is claimed to have confessed that both he and McCarthy had been stealing from the company and that they had gone halves on the sale of the stolen goods. He also implicated McCarthy's daughter-in-law, who he claimed had sold the goods.

The officials of the Nassau mine claim that property valued at $2,420 has been stolen within two months. This does not include the personal property of the men. McCarthy and Dunbar are under arrest at Hibbing.

The wise housekeeper will accept no substitute for Hunt's Perfect Baking Powder or Extracts. She knows they never disappoint.

METHODIST CONFERENCE

Bishop Advises Pastors to Stop Reading Ordinary Magazines.

Should Study Bible for Better Equipment in Pastoral Work.

Litchfield, Minn., Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Bishop Wilson today advised the members of the Northern Minnesota Methodist Episcopal conference to abstain from reading ordinary magazines for six months, and to study their Bibles for better equipment in the pastoral work. After devotions by Bishop Wilson, the conference corporatino met, Rev. J. H. Dewart presiding, with Rev. C. M. Heard as secretary. Rev. Dr. Long of Minneapolis read the report of conference claims and funds, of which Rev. J. B. Hingeley was secretary. There is $55,913 subscribed toward a fund of $100,000. F. A. Chamberlain of Minneapolis was appointed treasurer of the fund, and Rev. J. B. Hingeley addressed the conference about the fund, saying a few subscriptions were conditional. Revs. W. E. G. Gratz, W. T. Stout and C. F. Davis were appointed a committee to nominate trustees.

Prof. G. S. Innis said that no money would be lost by the conference superannuates by the failure of the Hamline bank, in which some of the money was deposited.

Dr. Bridgeman of Hamline university addressed the conference on eduaction. Rev. Dr. Blake represented the Sunday school board at New York, and Rev. Donald McKensie of Excelsior gave a Bible study on the Book of Amos.

Rev. Thomas Nicholson of New York, secretary of the education board, addressed the conference last evening in the opera house on Methodist schools and colleges. Rev. J. W. Powell of Duluth presided, and President Bridgeman of Hamline made an invocation.

Rev. E. C. Clemans, superintendent of the Duluth district, read his report, which was loudly applauded, as were the reports of Rev. E. H. Nicholson, superintendent of the Litchfield district, and Rev. S. P. Long of Minneapolis. Dr. Long said Methodism had increased 33 per cent. this year.

In a decision on leaving out all advertisements from the conference minutes and decreasing in size, Dr. Gillies of Minneapolis and Dr. Powell of Duluth objected to the change and wished the minutes to be enlarged. M. S. Rice and E. C. Clemans of Duluth and W. H. Jordan of Minneapolis were appointed a committee on publishing the minutes.

Deaconess Paul, of Asbury hospital, represented its needs. Asbury is accommodating 103 persons every day; it is splendidly equipped and in good repute throughout Minnesota. She pleaded for $250,000 to finish the buildings, and said every Methodist church should contribute to Methodist hospitals.

Dr. Tucker, of Minneapolis, was excused from the conference and returned home for dedicatory services. W. H. Farrell, G. E. Tindall, J. M. Rice, E. A. Cook and T. W. Stout, were appointed a committee on aggressive evangelism.

Fourteen hundred dollars were handed to the conference treasurer as the percentage of profit from the Methodist book concern.

Several changes are looked for in the pastorates in the Duluth and Brainerd districts.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary society anniversary was addressed by Rev. Andrew Gills of Minneapolis.

Justus Parish, C. W. Ramshaw, J. L. Porris, Lawrence Radcliff and T. A. Stafford were advanced from the studies of the first year to the second year.

The following are the assistant treasurers: J. T. Smith, J. M. Stewart, C. P. Keast, R. A. Saunderon and C. H. McCrea; assistant statistical secretaries, F. J. Johnston Edward Deacon, W. G. Boyle, G. S. Kettlewell, C. J. Chappell and J. O. Orrick; assistant secretaries, C. R. Oaten, R. J. Taylor, W. E. Grubs, Donald McKenzie, Thomas Grice and C. W. Ramshaw.

WARD WORKERS HOLD MEETING

Preliminary Plans for Forming Democratic Club Discussed.

Preliminary steps toward the organizing of the Young Men's Progressive Democratic club of Duluth were taken at a meeting held at the Democratic headquartors last evening. Representatives of the various precincts of the city were present, and the formation of the club will be accomplished at the next meeting.

At the meeting last night the situation throughout the city was gone over and arrangements made for another meeting of the ward and precinct workers in the near future. Plans were also made for the celebration of Governor Johnson's appearance here Wednesday evening.

Another meeting of the ward representatives, and those who have charge of the entertainment of Governor Johnson, during his visit here, will be held before Wednesday evening. At that meeting definite plans for the procession and other details of the celebration, to be given in honor of the appearance of the governor, will be completed.

GOLF CHAMPION TO PLAY LOCALS

L. J. Hopkins and W. J. Lawrence Will Try to Down Expert.

Late this afternoon some of the members of the Northland Country club got together and framed up a contest for Saturday afternoon that should prove both novel and interesting. According to the conditions of the new frame up W. J. Lawrence and L. J. Hopkins will play against "Willie" Anderson, the golf champion, who is a guest of the members of the Northland club.

He will play against the best ball of the local men, and the best scores at each hole of the other two men, will count against his own.

At first it was arranged that Mr. Hopkins would play Mr. Anderson a match game Saturday afternoon, but the new scheme was suggested, and was readily agreed upon. Mr. Lawrence is the club professional.

As stated elsewhere in this paper, Saturday will be an open house day and the members will entertain their friends at the clubhouse.

AMERICA HAS AN ACCIDENT

Loses Iron Shoe and Puts in at Toben's Harbor.

The steamer America of the Booth line yesterday, lost her iron shoe near Isle Royale, and also bent her rudder so that she was unable to come back to Duluth alone. The Booth office learned of the accident last night from Port Arthur, from which place a member of the crew after making the Canadian port in a gasoline boat, telegraphed the Duluth office.

She had to put in at Tobin's harbor, and will await there the arrival of the steamer Easton, which was sent to her assistance last night. It is expected that the Easton with the America in tow, will reach port some time Saturday morning.

The C. W. Moore went on the America's run this morning and will continue to care for the north shore traffic until the America has been repaired.

FRENCHMAN LEFT CITY

Plans for Moving Sidewalks in Duluth Go Glimmering.

Nothing Heard of Roemer and His Scheme for a Month.

It was all a vision.
Duluth will have no moving sidewalks.
Not for several years, at least.
"I'll be back tomorrow afternoon," said J. Roemer, the French engineer, who was going to give tired Duluthians a rest by letting them ride up hill on a beautifully constructed moving sidewalk.

It was a month ago that he addressed these words to the clerk at the St. Louis hotel. He paid his bill and departed. His disappearance from the city was complete, and nothing has been heard of him in Duluth since that date, despite his promises to appear before the council within a week or two with the plat of a preliminary survey for his sidewalk system.

Mr. Roemer was a good talker. He blew into Duluth from no one knew where about two months ago. He called on the city officials and told them he was here to construct a system of moving sidewalks, so people could get up the hill without any effort on their part. This was only a part of his scheme, however. The other part was an aerial railway to run along the top of the hill from Duluth to Fond du Lac. The cars were to run at a speed of 130 miles an hour, or some such matter.

The Frenchman looked all right, and there was a businesslike air about him that made a good impression at the start. He asked permission to explain his idea to the aldermen at a regular council meeting, and the permission was granted. Before this he said Duluth would have to act quickly if it wanted his services, for he was a pretty good thing and would jump to some other town, perferably Seattle, unless Duluth was smart enough to jump at the wonderful opportunity he offered.

One good part of the scheme was that he did not want any money locally. He said he had plenty of foreign capital behind him. Evidently the cash was very much foreign, for its color has not been seen in Duluth.

The Zenith City was well pleased with the Frenchman's idea, and the aldermen told him to go ahead and make preliminary survey. He was promised every possible support, and promised to appear before the council all a little while afterwards with further details. Two or three days later he paid his hotel bill and left town. No one locally has heard of him since. He may come back some day, and again he may not. Meanwhile Duluthians will continue to walk.

OLD SILVER MINE FOUND

Wisconsin Central Workmen Strike Tunnel Made in Cliff.

Traces of Silver Ore Which Proves to be Worthless.

The early silver craze that struck this city was recalled the other day, when the Wisconsin Central workmen on the tunnel that will afford an approach to the city, struck an old abandoned tunnel into the cliff at Twelfth avenue west, which was made about thirty years ago by several Duluth citizens, who believed a rich silver mine existed there.

The men interested in the venture put some capital into the project and tunneled into the point of rocks. It was said at that time that some silver was really discovered. If silver was discovered, however, it was not in paying quantities, for the tunnel was abandoned.

That some silver was discovered is confirmed by the fact that the Wisconsin Central workmen found some ore that showed traces of silver. It was subsequently learned that the ore contained such a small amount of silver as to render it practically valueless.

The discovery of the silver by the railroad workmen excited some "mineral lust," which was given a cold water cure by the discovery that the ore was worthless.

EARL GREY ENDS PERILOUS JOURNEY.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 9.—Earl Grey, governor-general of Canada arrived at Cranbrook yesterday on his way to Ottawa, after a perilous trip over the Rocky mountains. He has been traveling on horseback through the southern part of British Columbia. Reaching the summit of the mountains near Argenta he was delayed by snowstorms and snowslides and after much suffering the party was compelled to go on foot with packs on their backs over perilous paths till the foothills were reached. They were brought to Cranbrook on a handcar.

DEAL NOW COMPLETE

J. W. Norton Gives Details of Consolidation of Mining Companies.

Duluth-Sonora Mining Company is Name of New Organizaiion.

James W. Norton, president and manager of the Mexican Corporation of the Calumet & Sonora Mining company, has just returned from Cananea and Los Angeles. The Herald representative asked Mr. Norton about the consolidation with South Cananea Copper company, and he said:

"The Calumet & Sonora Mining company has sold the Buena Vista Group of six claims, and the Duluth and Ronquillo claims to the Duluth-Sonora Mining company, a new organization, for 120,000 shares of its capital stock. The South Cananea Copper company has sold its fourteen claims adjoining the Buena Vista Group for 120,000 shares of the capital stock of the Duluth-Sonora Mining company. The Duluth-Sonora Mining company will have a capitalization of $3,000,000, divided into 300,000 shares of $10 each. The other 60,000 shares of the capital stock of the new company will remain in the treasury.

"The acreage turned in by the Calumet & Sonora Mining company will exceed 500; the acreage turned in by the South Cananea Copper company will exceed 3,700, which will make the holdings of the new company between 4,000 and 5,000 acres of mineralized ground. This sale includes all the claims owned by the Calumet & Sonora Mining company in the Cananea district excepting the Catalina Group of eight claims comprising 630 acres. The tract of land taken over by the new company is more than four miles in length and one and one-half miles in width, and lies in a solid body.

"Development work will begin on the new properties at an early date. The Norton shaft, which is now at the 293 foot level, will be sunk to 400 feet. Drifting will then begin northeast and southwest to get under the ore bodies already shown up in the drifts at the 200 foot level. The vein northeast of Norton Shaft is 57 feet wide and shows values in sulphide ores assaying 4.25 per cent. to 19.6 per cent. The vein southwest is 64 feet wide and of the same kind of ore. The two big veins coming down from Massey No. 2 and crossing the Buena Vista group in the vicinity of the Norton shaft, going on down through and into the Collins claim, forming a junction with the big veins crossing the Collins, is the place selected for the sinking of the new shaft.

"In my opinion, the largest body of copper ores in the Cananea district will be opened up at the junction of the three veins. The management of the Duluth-Sonora Mining company will be the same as that of the Calumet & Sonora Mining company. The directorate of the Calumet & Sonora Mining company will figure largely in that of the new company. The stock in the new company taken over by the Calumet & Sonora Mining company for its lands will doubtless remain in the treasury of the Calumet & Sonora Mining company."

Mr. Norton says he expects to return to Mexico in a few days to arrange for the beginning of shipments of ores on a large scale from the Catalina claims, where large bodies of high-grade ores have been shown up, exceeding in value the capital stock of both companies. Ores are now being hoisted from Chivera No. 2 shaft, of high grade, also from No. 1 and No. 2 Catalina.

In July two half-ton samples of ore, one from Chivera dump and one from Catalina No. 2, were sent to Henry E. Wood, the chemist of Denver for analysis. Mr. Wood's report showed the sample from Chivera No. 2 to run 56 per cent minerals, besides the silver, and the Catalina No. 2 37 per cent in addition to the silver. By separation of the gangue from the minerals, the ores will net the company about $100 a ton. It is less than a year since development work began on the Catalina groups, and today there are two distinct mines shown up on this group.

GUGGENHEIM TO BUY CANADIAN MINES.

Winnipeg, Oct. 9.—It is reported here that the Guggenheim syndicate will purchase a controlling interest in some of the more prominent mining properties in the Kamloops district, which are regarded as among the richest in British Columbia. When the deal is completed the Guggenheims will erect a smelter at Kamloops.

PRISONERS RELEASED

Douglas County Jail Could Not Accommodate Those Sentenced.

When New Prisoners Came Old Ones Were Released.

It was learned today that, owing to the crowded condition of the Douglas county jail, the jailer there, with the arrival of each new lot of prisoners, has been setting free an equal number of old prisoners to accommodate the new arrivals. It was a case of taking in at the front door and letting out at the back.

The authorities were ignorant of this state of affairs until today. The appearance in the municipal court of a negress, whom Judge Parker had sentenced two weeks ago to a term of ninety days, brought the matter to light. The judge, who thought he had got rid of the woman, who is an old offender, for at least three months, demanded an explanation, and was astonished to learn the way things stood.

Chief of Police McKinnon claims to have had no knowledge that the jail was crowded to such an extent. He said this morning that he is going to petition the county board for a new county jail to replace the old one, which has done service for a good many years, and which now appears to be for too small.

GUESS IS 42,595.

Superior now has a population of 42,595. This is according to the 1908 city directory, which will be published this week. The directory figures show an increase over last year of 835 people.

Assault Charge.

For alleged threatening to kill Abel Peterson, William Holman, a negro, was held for preliminary hearing yesterday in Judge Parker's court. His bail was fixed at $2,000, which he was unable to furnish. It is claimed that Holman, crazed with "dope," started a fight with Peterson early yesterday morning on Cumming avenue. Peterson shows the marks of the struggle. He has several bad cuts about his head. A long spike was found in Holman's possession, when arrested.

Fined for Sweeping Wheat.

Victor Sabbe, Julius Hidaubik, Jerome Cavette and Alphonse Matta, were each fined $2, and Hugo Schweltzer and Sam Casbe, $5, in the municipal court yesterday for sweeping wheat from the freight cars.

Pay Flying Visit.

A party consisting of H. C. Starr, vice president and general manager of the Wisconsin Central; C. N. Kalk, chief engineer, and a number of other officials of the road, arrived in Superior yesterday, on a special train of an engine and two cars, coming all the way over the Head of the Lakes extension of the Wisconsin Central, to inspect the progress of the work on the road. None of the officials would give a definite statement concerning the time when trains would be running regularly into Superior, but it is believed that it will be by the latter part of next month. The officials left today.

Held for Forgery.

John Kohlman, 53 years old, was arrested yesterday for trying to pass a forged check for $24.50 at S. Cohen's clothing store, in payment for some goods. In the municipal court, Kohlman, who is a stranger, was not able to satisfactorily explain how he obtained the check, and his hearing was set for Oct. 16.

Bryan Goes to Missouri.

Chicago, Oct. 9.—William J. Bryan left here today for Joliet on a trip through Illinois. After a short speaking tour in this state he will enter Missouri, where he will make a number of addresses. He was accompanied by ex-Governor David R. Francis of Missouri.

Brother Dead in Spokane.
The police were this afternoon requested to find Charles Cranstadt, who is believed to be in Duluth, and notify him of his brother's death at Spokane. The name does not appear in the city directory, and the police have been unable to find him as yet.

Is Given Damages.
The municipal court jury trying the case of Dr. Eugene F. Warner against James Norman returned a verdict in favor of the plaintiff yesterday afternoon. Dr. Warner sued for $36.95 for damages to his automobile as the result of a collision with Mr. Norman's car on lower Lake avenue last July. The accident, it is charged, was due to the carelessness of Mr. Norman's chauffeur. A verdict was returned for the full amount.

Too Many Guns.
Anton Vecek and Fred Prackner, two out of town men, invaded the St. Croix avenue district last night armed with a shot gun and revolver, and while they did no shooting, the occupants of Lizzie Thomas' house, 231 St. Croix avenue, called the police, and the two were arrested.

Lutefisk Stolen.
Engdel Hageman, a painter, was arrested last evening charged with the theft of forty pounds of lutefisk from the saloon of Sixtus Lindahl on West Superior street, between Fifth and Sixth avenues.

DIES VERY SUDDENLY.

Mrs. Ellen McCoy Found Lifeless in Bed, by Neighbors.

Mrs. Ellen McCoy of 1031 West Second street died very suddenly yesterday. Mrs. McCoy was about to give birth to a child and had been confined to her room. Yesterday neighbors found her lying dead in her bed. Heart failure was the cause of her death. The maid, who was employed in the house, said that Mrs. McCoy had been sleeping when she last visited the room.

Mrs. McCoy was 30 years old, and leaves two small children and her husband, T. J. McCoy, chief engineer of the steamer Clemson, who is expected to arrive in Duluth at 10 o'clock this evening from down the lakes. She also leaves three sisters, Mrs. P. Haley, of 1203 West Fourth street, Mrs. W. D. Murphy of Superior and Miss Murphy of Buckingham, Can. The arrangements for the funeral will be made later.

GOVERNOR DETAINED

He Will be Unable to be in Duluth Monday Morning.

State Business Keeps Him in St. Paul Until Tuesday.

State business has interfered with Governor Johnson's trip to Duluth, and he will be unable to fill the political engagement for Monday night that had been planned for him by his local supporters. An important meeting of the pardon board is the reason for the governor postponing his trip.

After the amount of enthusiasm shown in the West end over the visit of the governor, his many friends in that part of town are keenly disappointed.

The range trip will be taken, however, as per schedule, the governor arriving here early Tuesday and the big meeting at the armory in Duluth Wednesday will not be interfered with.

The governor was billed to speak both at the Lincoln Park roller rink and at Wade's hall in West Duluth Monday evening.

VERDICT FOR WALTER CARR

Secures Judgment Against Holman Brothers in District Court.

The suit of Walter W. Carr against the stock brokerage firm of Holman Bros. & Co. was called in district court this afternoon and the court awarded Mr. Carr judgment to the amount of $1,187.

The defendant in the action, which was to recover money on a stock deal, failed to apear in court, and the court immediately handed down a decision for the plaintiff, allowing judgment for the amount named

GOOD REPORTS FROM THE GLOBE

Fine Grades of Ore Are Shown Up—More Shipments Made.

The following dispatch from Manager M. McCarthy of the Globe Consolidated company was received at the offices of the company in this city yesterday afternoon, and gives a very encouraging report of the development of the mine, from which shipments are now being made to the Old Dominion smelter:

"Globe, Ariz., Oct. 8.—John Uno Sebenius, 403 Lonsdale building, Duluth, Minn.: Gem vein 152 feet. Vein 6 feet 6 inches wide; clear sulphide ore for full width. Analysis gives copper 4 per cent, iron 33 per cent, sulphur 42 per cent. This vein will produce ore of the most desirable grades in the camp. Future copper vein west 368 feet, vein 4 feet wide, and I am very favorably impressed with present conditions, as vein shows increase of chalcocite and indicates better values ahead. Boston east drift 43 feet; drill holes now in ore; next blast will cut vein. Second car of ore shipped from Gem yesterday, and loading car each from Gem and Boston today.

"M. McCARTHY."

Copper stocks were soft during the early part of the session today, but a better feeling prevailed later on and interest in the leaders awakened. The firmer demand put prices back to yesterday's closing level and some of them higher than that.

Chin Soon Chong Sues Charley Lee for Money Loaned.

Chinatown troubles will be aired in court at the November term, when Charley Lee will be forced to show why he didn't pay back $528 that Chin Soon Chong claims to have loaned him. The complaint in the case was filed with the clerk of the district court this morning.

Chong says he let Lee have $623, but Lee gave only $95 back and Chong wants the other $528. Chong says he tried to collect the debt himself, but failed, so he wants Melican court to collect it for him.

DYED WOOL LACES ARE USED ON DRESSY GARMENTS

A DIRECTOIRE MODEL IN CHINCHILLA.

PRACTICAL FOR THE STREET OR MOTOR.

First Comes the Utility Coat - The Influence of the Sheath Skirt - Suit Coats That May Be Worn as Separate Wraps - Sashes a Feature - The Dernier Cri.

Since the fashion for annual autumn touring came into vogue tailors have been puzzling their brains in the effort to design a coat for women which would look smart and trim and yet be sufficiently roomy to promise comfort, and could be developed in some material which would not readily show the wear and tear of travel. Apparently they have finally come to the conclusion that the checked and striped coarse serges and heavy English mohairs and sicilennes are the best of all fabrics for the purpose, and it is evident that their customers agree with them, judging from the number of orders custom-makers are turning out, and ready-made garments the shops are selling. They are made in a variety of models which do not differ greatly, save in minor details, as there seems to be a general predilection for the plain double-breasted garment, hanging straight from throat to hem, finished with deep cuffs as well as a deep collar, which may be turned up or down, as the state of weather dictates.

The Utility Coat.

Undoubtedly the number of women who must make one long coat answer for all-round daytime service is greatly in the majority, and to such is addressed the statement that in selecting such a garment it will be better to secure a material not too heavy for ordinary autumn and spring use, relying upon extra wraps for additional warmth in winter. Any of the medium-weight worsteds, supposing always that they are close and firm of weave, are advised, but special attention must be devoted to their coloring, which should show a preponderance of white or gray rather than black, dark brown, blue or green, as the dust seems to settle on weaves in those colors as though with a firm determination to cling in the proverbially brotherly manner, whereas white, gray and tan simply become a bit more dull, but never look actually rusty.

Single-breasted Wraps.

While the double-breasted coat model undoubtedly leads in the line of severely tailored utility wraps, not every woman finds them to her liking either because they seem to add too much to her apparent size or because they are too warm in moderate weather. However this may be, certain it is that there are to be found any number of long wraps which combine the advantages of the double-breasted box coat with the semi-fitting redingote, which defines the figure to some extent and at the same time is so loose that it may be drawn on easily. This model necessarily demands a sharp slope in the side forms, which sometimes start at the waist line, instead of beneath the arms. That there may be no extra fulness across the bust, darts are set into the tops of the front forms, which close with large buttons extending from the throat to just below the hips.

Various Sleeve Types.

Having made the statement that all coat sleeves are long, one might go on indefinitely in regard to their differences; for this season there are seen sleeves of almost as many types as coats to fit them into. The safest model for the all-round coat, because it never actually goes out of fashion, is the conventional type made precisely like that worn by men and now put into the arms-eyes in the same manner, without the slightest fulness at the top and fitting smoothly over the shoulder. This is the sleeve of the box coat which is developed in the heavier and more cumbersome sort of materials, such as chinchilla and Irish frieze. Many garments built on the same model in regard to general details have sleeves of a widely different character. Some of them are exceedingly wide throughout their entire length and deeply plaited into the top of the arms-eye, as well as into the cuffs; others are adapted to Oriental arms-eyes or cut in one with the garment, thus bringing into prominence the long, sloping shoulder of the kimono type.

The Kangaroo Sleeve.

The term "kangaroo" is not especially suggestive of beauty in sleeves, and yet the style to which the name is given is a most graceful one and certain to be much in use for coats of a certain class or rather two classes, for it is seen in the simpler types of evening coats, as well as those made up of coarser materials and designed for motoring and traveling rather than for general street service. The feature of the kangaroo sleeve is the fulness which is afforded underneath the arms, where it is set into the "eye" with deep plaits, while at the top and sides it fits smoothly and clings to the arm from shoulder to wrist, where it is gathered into a band beneath a deep cuff, the plaits at the under side being stitched down flatly from elbow to wrist. Sometimes this sleeve is so cut that at the top it is in one with the garment, the fulness beneath the arms being let in by means of a little gore.

Advantages of Slashed Sides.

Since the sheath skirts have had so marked an effect upon outer garments by making the majority of them less voluminous, slashed sides are more than ever an advantage in the case of long coats, many of which are made so narrow that to walk in them comfortably would be an impossibility were it not for the openings which start either just below the waist or the hip line. A majority of the ulsters have these open sides, but they are an almost general feature of the seant box coats such as are intended for general utility wear. In the slashed side models is seen a coat which is destined to play an important role in the winter wardrobe of the women who must literally make one wrap do the work of two.

Dressy Broadcloth Wraps.

Every year broadcloth tailored suits gain additional popularity, especially with the woman who appreciates the advantage of having one really well made street costume which may correctly be worn morning and afternoon and evening for certain evening functions. For a number of seasons past she has had to content herself with the box or the military coat and the plaited or gored walking skirt, but this year Dame Fashion has proved a veritable fairy godmother in that she has provided a type of broadcloth costume which, while modestly unassuming for morning use, is yet sufficiently dressy for an afternoon reception. This is the broadcloth suit of three pieces—a short and a trained skirt and a coat which may be made to extend to just above the knees to a trifle below them or almost to the skirt's hem. The advantage of this mode is that such a coat may be correctly worn with a skirt of another color providing that it harmonizes, or with the satin gowns which every woman who can possibly acquire one will include in her winter's outfit.

Empire, Directoire or Continental.

The dressy cloth coat, whether or not designed to accompany a special skirt, is in any of the popular types—Empire, Directoire or Continental—and may be trimmed in many different ways. On some of them are placed black or matching satin bands, elaborately soutache braided, on others fancy and soutache braids are employed together or separately, and again there are broad and narrow bands of wool lace dyed to precisely match the tone of the material.

Cabachons and Olives.

Cabachons and olives of extreme size are employed on all of the more elaborately trimmed separate coats, the olives being generally of heavy silk cording or of crochet work and in matching hues with the other trimmings, while the cabachons are similarly treated or of metal, jewel set. These ornaments are placed at the terminus of the shortened waist line, used as front fastenings, set on the collar and cuffs and pockets—if there are pockets—and furnish the centers for the big rosette-bending sashes.

Sashes and Neckties.

Not every separate coat has a sash, although the majority of the dressy models carry them. Such accessories are of satin precisely matching the garment's color, unless of black, which is frequently the case. They are finished with deep fringe, heavy embroidery, in silk, or chenille, or applications of jet, or passementerie, and invariably weighted, for the ends of the modern sash must not fly recklessly about in obedience to every wind's behest. Neckties are on the majority of the outer wraps now being made up, and certainly add immensely to the smart appearance of the simplest of them. When a sash is used the necktie precisely matches its coloring, material and decorations, otherwise it is of black satin or taffeta, embroidered with silk or fringed with matching silk or with gold bullion, save in the case of a coat designed for a quite young girl, when some bright hue may be employed, preferably toning with the insets of her coat collar and cuffs.

Young Girls' Coats.

Girls' coats are made up on the simpler of the box models, having conventional sleeves. Few of them are developed in black and not many in dark blue, as there seems to be a tendency toward the using of the new shades, which figure so prominently among the winter suits. These include the deep purple of the Concord grape, the dried prune and the wild plum, the various catawba shades, the reddish browns, the mahogany reds and those having a copper tone. These colors come in heavy, smooth-finished cloths of fine texture, and many of the coats developed from them are lined with white or delicately tinted satin, for the young girl's long separate wrap is usually the one which she wears to dancing school over her lingerie or silk frock.

The Satin Vogue.

Satin separate coats are among the fashionable garments of the hour, and long may their vogue continue, for certainly never has there been a material which has proven so eminently satisfactory. Not only are the all-silk qualities of the fabric immensely popular for the semi-fitting, full-length and severely tailored coats worn during the day, as well as during the evening, but the wool-back satins are largely employed because they afford so much more warmth than the liberty weights. It goes without saying that the wider the material the more easily may a coat of this character be developed from it, particularly one having sleeves cut with the front and back forms. This type in satin is used principally for evening wear and in the paler tints, which may be effectively trimmed with bandings in dyed lace, oriental embroidery, passementerie applications and jet or gold bullion.

White Satin With Lace.

One of the most practical of evening coats, because it is of a three-quarters length, and may therefore the more easily be preserved from soiling under ordinary conditions, is of white satin and six-inch width heavy lace bands. It is actually a single-breasted box coat, bordered all around with the lace, from beneath which the satin is cut away, and having other broad bands crossing the shoulders from hem to hem extending down the straight, wide sleeve from shoulder to wrist and bordering it similarly to the body of the garment. Inside is tacked a liberty satin lining which may be taken out when it is necessary to substitute another one of quilted silk, thus making the garment possible for year-round service.

The Last Chirp From Paris.

The dernier cri, which elicited a gasp of admiration from certain hardened customs officials as the wearer of it fluttered above her luggage like a hen with one chicken, is in the shape of a separate coat, developed in fine, satin-faced black broadcloth and designed to be worn with a black-and-white checked skirt or any other with which it may harmonize. The back of the coat, which was loose and yet betrayed every line of the figure as though it had been accurately shaped to it and then let out as widely as possible, extended almost to the feet in a narrow, curved swallow-tail and was flanked with shorter and more sharply sloped side forms which were cut away from the waistline of the double-breasted fronts, severely plain save for their wide revers. The slashed sides of the coat, slightly weighted, revealed a white satin lining which showed again on the turned back points of the Incroyable collar and the edges of the Louis cuffs finishing the long and small coat sleeves.

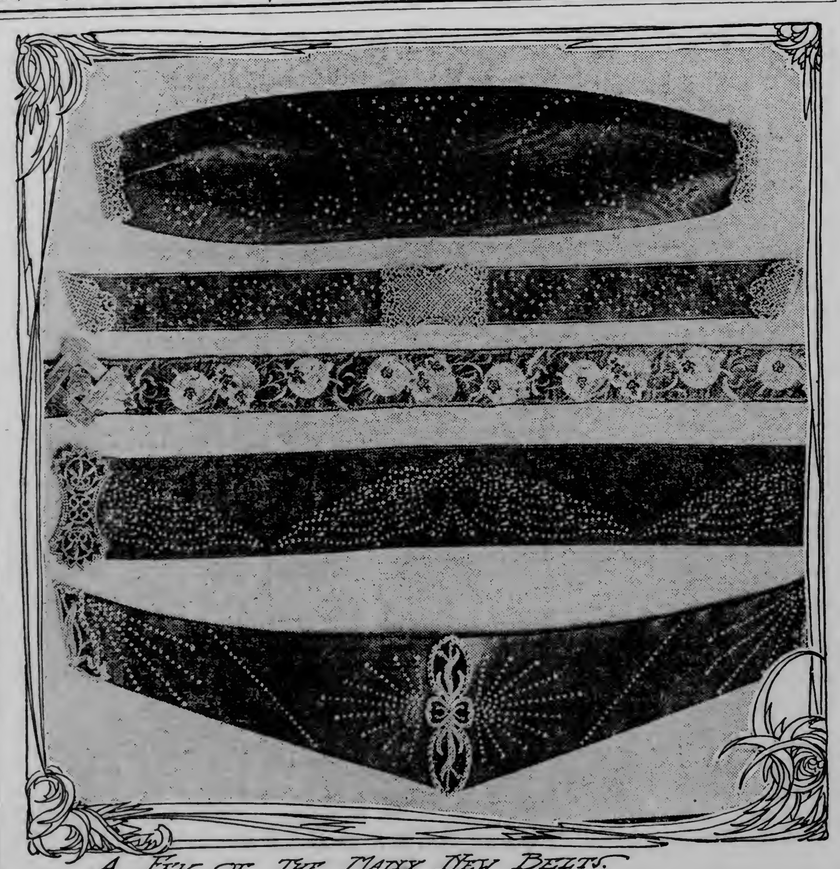

Another coat, but one which could only be properly worn with a short skirt, was also of fine black broadcloth. It had double-breasted waistcoat fronts, the typical Incroyable revers, collar, sleeves and cuffs and an abbreviated swallow-tail back below tight-fitting waist forms. This garment was brightened with two group gold button decorations defining the waist line at the back, closing the fronts and punctuating the points of collar and cuffs.

Leather Outing Coats.

Not only for motoring but for general outing service, leather coats are considered by many women of vast experience in the wrap line as being far and away the best investment, although they are slightly more expensive in the beginning than are even the most exclusive models in cloth. They are developed in the various shades of brown, green, blue and gray in the softest of pelt—supposed to have been imported from Sweden and probably grown on American-bred animals—which is not in the slightest degree burdensome even when made into an exceedingly long garment. The more popular types, however, are those on the short box or the Norfolk jacket order such as are worn with English mohair outing and traveling skirts.

Collars and Cuffs.

Leather collars and cuffs are put on many of the smartest of the herringbone mixtures, English tweeds, American checks and plaids, and Scotch worsteds used in the building of utility and motor coats intended for late autumn and winter service.

A FEW OF THE MANY NEW BELTS.

At the Belt Counter.

This is the season of the year when the girl who has a shapely, slender waist revels in the dazzling array of belts and girdles which the counters of the big shops display to tempt her from the path of economy and self-denial.

Because the fashions of the moment permit of most gorgeous designs in the matter of the smaller accessories of the feminine toilette it is not to be wondered at that anything to fit about the waist should be of the most ornate description. And to such an extent has this been carried that even the belts worn with the simplest of shirt waists and tailored skirts are exceedingly elaborate. Of these morning belts, as they are termed by the glib-tongued shop woman, there are many that appeal strongly to the tailor-made girl who likes to have everything that she wears match in color or tone. For the brown serge or mohair checked or striped skirt there are broad belts of alligator or a kindred rough pelt, with large buckles and back supports of brown and gold metal, pounded to represent a crinkled or rough surface. To accompany dark blue or green skirts or suits there are fine soft kids, with metal buckles set with clever imitations of emeralds or amethysts, and for tan costumes are natural colored pigskin belts, with self-buckles, which, while the plainest of all, are so perfectly finished that they are immensely smart.

Cloth of gold and silver is used for many of the simplest belts. These are among the least expensive of the autumn novelties, as any girl who can sew neatly may make one for herself out of an eighth of a yard of the material, lining it, of course, with gold or silver satin and joining the ends with a buckle of matching metal that can scarcely be too ornate.

It is quite possible to decorate the cloth of gold or silver belts most attractively if the amateur accessory maker understands the art of applique work, for there are any number of scraps of oriental embroidery to be picked up at the bargain counters which show wonderful bits of color in their flowers or medallions. These are to be cut away from the ground work and appliqued on to the bullion cloth with thread of a contrasting metal tint.

Silk elastic has for sometime been a favorite belting and still continues to be fashionable. In black it is used chiefly as a foundation for steel nailheads, which are arranged in innumerable attractive designs, usually of the conventional sort, and in many instances in the Greek key pattern now to be found on decorations of every imaginable description.

Black satin belts are to be found in every imaginable shape. Some of them are straight and wide and heavily embroidered in self or colored silk, others are studded or thickly jetted and many are soutache braided. Their buckles and back supports are often wholly of cut jet or they are of rhinestones, but, singularly enough, few of them have metal ornaments of a very elaborate description. This rule, however, does not apply to the immensely wide black satin girdles which help to give a short-waisted effect to some of last year's gowns, for these often are fastened with immense cabachons that fairly glisten with "jewels" set in gold, silver or gun metal or of hand-painted porcelain, jewel framed.

To smarten up a simple afternoon house gown, there is nothing better than a wide girdle or a belt or ornate design. These are made of brocaded satins and silks, showing vividly colored designs on pale grounds, and they fasten with huge rosettes, with "jewel" cabachon centers. In this class there are numerous attractive black silk girdles braided and embroidered in gold or silver butterflies and closing with matching buckles, but none of these are quite so alluring as those to be worn with lingerie house frocks by matrons and at parties by girls not yet "introduced." These are chiefly developed in white satin thickly spangled with gold or silver, although some of them have pearl beading put on as are the jets and the nailheads applied to black satin and silk elastic, while others are gold and silver bullion embroidered in flowers and butterflies.

There are to be picked up by the woman, who walks about the big shops with her eyes wide open, any number of fabrics which will make pretty belts. Among these are sash ribbon remnants often so wide that a half yard may be utilized by splitting it and joining two ends beneath the back support, for both the edges, rough or selvage, must necessarily be turned underneath, as a ribbon belt always calls for a lining, unless it is of the crush order. Almost any of the fancy silk trimmings, especially in the pale colors intermixed with gold threads, will make delectable belts if they are mounted on dark corded ribbon; and there are no end of striped black and white satin patterns too positive in character for an entire gown or blouse that will work up into stunning girdles to accompany dark blue, green or black gowns of the simpler sort.

STANDS ALL TESTS

Bridgeman-Russell company's milk is real milk in its natural state, cleansed, cooled and sealed in bottles to prevent contamination, just as you seal up your canned fruit in summer. If not properly cared for our milk will sour, as all good milk should do. But if you will keep it cool and leave the cap on until you are ready to use, you will find it always sweet and palatable with nice rich cream at the top—the ideal food.

Order a bottle or two and try it. That's the true test. Our wagons pass your house every day.

THE DOMESTIC FLY.

Timely Facts and Speculation Concerning an Interesting Creature.

New York Sun: "The common domestic fly," said a man who is no scholar but has managed to pick up many interesting facts, "is altogether too common and too domestic. She is one of the most interesting animals—"

"You don't mean 'animals,'" a listener broke in; "a fly is not an animal."

"Then she must be a vegetable or a mineral," said the first speaker. "Call her whichever you please, but she is one of the most interesting creatures extant.

"An industrious female fly lays about 3,000,000 eggs. There are no indolent flies and few males. The fly does not set after laying; if she did she would be retired from her wonted activity during longer or shorter periods of incubation. Her eggs hatch without motherly attention, and it is seldom that one fails to hatch.

"The fly has so many eyes," the man who is no scholar went on, "that she can see in all directions at once without turning her head or rolling her eyes. That's why it is so hard to hit her. A fly time poet sang:

Now doth the little busy fly
Buzz in a fellow's hair,
But try to smite her hip and thigh
And, lo! she isn't there.

"The intelligence of flies is an interesting and exasperating study. One of the ordinary ways of trying to kill flies is to fold a newspaper in the shape of a heavy flat pad and whack at them with it when they are sitting still.

"Now, the fly is familiar with the scientific fact that if she sits perfectly still the descending paper will make an air cushion in front of it that ninety-nine times out of a hundred will protect her from being crushed. The concussion momentarily stuns her and she falls to the floor apparently dead, but in a few minutes she has recovered and is again on the job.

"That's why, when you strike at a fly hard enough to spatter the butter all over the walls, she is able to reappear so quickly on the rim of the sugar bowl.

"When out not for food but merely for the fun of tantalizing you, the fly knows when she has had enough. Then she sits down on a dark spot in the carpet and watches you prance around the room looking for her on the walls.

"A very good way to catch flies is to distribute fly paper and platters of poison on the tables and window sills. No matter how thick the flies are, where this is done their number will be quickly reduced. You can easily prove this by counting the flies you have caught. It is a great comfort, when there are a few million flies in the air and more coming, to count up your catch and know that a dozen or so will never pester you any more.

"This method of getting rid of flies is often employed in restaurants. It was the method used in the railroad restaurant where a passenger hurried in for refreshment, glanced along the display of pies and said:

"'Give me a piece of this huckleberry.'

"'That ain't huckleberry,' said the waiter girl, waving her hand over the pie; 'it's custard.'

"'Up with the lark' is a poetical expression for early rising. 'Up with the fly' would be stronger if less poetic. The lark doesn't compel you to get up, but the fly does. Besides, the lark is an English bird, but the fly is a bird that knows no nationality. If the fly would go away and let you sleep till the lark gets up, you would have less cause for complaint.

"When we were children we were taught to believe that a fly's foot was a wonderful part of creation—that when it was placed flat upon the ceiling the weight of the fly pulled it away in the center and made a tiny vacuum, and that the pressure of the atmosphere around it, in accordance with a law of nature, held the fly from falling. Several 'human flies' broke their necks trying to do the same trick with artificial flies' feet before it was discovered that if flies kept their feet clean they couldn't walk on ceilings.

"Flies believe that mankind was created for their amusement, and it has always been a question with me which gave a fly the more solid enjoyment—to buzz around your nose and make you get up a few hours earlier in the morning than you want to, or to pester you in the daytime until you rage around the room with a paper slapper in your hand while she watches you from behind a door hinge."

A MIXED COMPLIMENT.

Joseph Leiter, at a Washington dinner party a few days before his marriage, said he agreed with John D. Rockefeller and Russell Sage that young men with their way to make in the world should not take vacations.

"A vacation doesn't strengthen the average young man," said Mr. Leiter. "Deranging all his regular habits, it weakens him. He plays too hard on his vacation. He comes back home thin and pale and tired. But good, hard, regular work, with the temperate habits it necessitates, is good for a young man's health. Nearly all the breakdowns laid to hard work are really due to something else—to bad hours, to dissipation.

"I always liked to hear the story my father used to tell of a big, rosy country preacher who said, one Sunday morning in June:

"'My friends, I am all run down from the winter's work, and the collection today will be devoted to my traveling expenses, as I am going to the shore for my health. The more you give me the longer I can stay away.

"The preacher's look was rather confused when he announced afterward to the people that the collection had been the largest in the history of the church.'"

WHEAT HAS STRENGTH

Firmness Continues in the Markets of the World.

Flax is Off at the Close in the Duluth Market.

Duluth Board of Trade, Oct. 9.—Firmness continued in wheat today and all the American markets showed fractional gains over yesterday.

All of the news was bullish. Cables were higher. Argentine shipments small and the Modern Miller's report on the conditions in the Southwest was bullish.

The export demand was quite firm, twenty-three loads of Manitoba wheat being worked by local exporters during the session.

Liverpool closed ⅝d to 1d higher, Berlin ⅛c higher, Budapest ⅜c higher and Antwerp unchanged.

The Modern Miller says:

"Rains are necessary in the winter wheat belt, particularly in the soft winter wheat states, to permit of the completion of plowing, to start the growth of the plant where the seed is lying dormant, because of lack of moisture."

Argentine shipments of wheat were: 624,000, against 1,320,000 bushels last week and 792,000 bushels a year ago.

The December option closed ¼c higher in Duluth, ⅛@¼c higher in Chicago, ¼c higher in Minneapolis, ⅜c higher in New York, ⅛@⅜ higher in St. Louis and Kansas City and ½c higher in Winnipeg. The May option closed ¼c higher in Duluth, Minneapolis and New York, ⅜c higher in Chicago, Kansas City and Winnipeg and ⅝@½ higher in St. Louis.

December corn closed ⅛@¼c lower in Chicago and ¼d to ½d higher in Liverpool. December oats closed ⅛@¼c lower in Chicago.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "Wheat in sympathy with the firmness in America yesterday and rumors that war had been declared, offerings in this market were light and shorts nervous which resulted in an advance of ½d. Argentine shipments were light and the visible supply there showed a liberal decrease and this together with continued small cargo arrivals and light shipments from both Australia and India led to a belief of a more moderate world's shipments for the week. During the morning, however, prices showed a moderate decline under profit-taking, due to the continued favorable crop advices from both Australia and Argentina and considerable to sell new Australian cargoes. At midday, the market was irregular with the nearby month ¼d higher and the distant month ¼d lower than yesterday.

"Corn was steady at opening and unchanged. Later support developed and values advanced ⅛d due to a better inquiry for La Plata parcels."

Primary receipts of wheat were 1,473,000 bus., last year 970,000 bus. Shipments 689,000 bus., last year 846,000 bus. Clearances of wheat and flour were 748,000 bus.

Primary receipts of corn were 220,000 bus., last year 637,000 bus. Shipments 304,000 bus., last year 575,000 bus. Clearances of corn were 252,000 bus.

Wheat trading was active during the session in Duluth. During the early part of the session, the advance was steady, but there was an easier undertone during the last half hour, although the closing prices were firm, as compared with yesterday's. December wheat opened ¼c higher, at $1.02½, advanced to $1.03½, declined to $1.02½ and closed there, a gain of ¼c over yesterday. May wheat opened ¼c higher at $1.06⅝, advanced to $1.07⅜ and closed at $1.06½, a gain of ¼c over yesterday.

Durum wheat closed ¼c lower, and cash spring wheat was selling on a basis of 1½c over December for No. 1 northern.

Flax was steady and firm at the opening, but went off during the latter part of the session, showing fractional losses from yesterday at the close. October flax opened unchanged at $1.23½, advanced to $1.23⅞, declined to $1.22⅝ and closed at $1.22¾, a loss of ¾c from yesterday. November flax opened ¼c lower at $1.23¾, advanced to $1.24¼, declined to $1.23 and closed there, a loss of ⅞c from yesterday. December flax opened ½c lower at $1.22, advanced to $1.22⅝, declined to $1.21½ and closed there, a loss of 1c from yesterday. May flax opened unchanged at $1.27¼, went off to $1.26¾ and closed at $1.26½, a loss of ¾c from yesterday.

Oats closed ¼c higher and other coarse grains unchanged:

Following were the closing prices:

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Fear of European War Causes Advance in Wheat.

Chicago, Oct. 9.—An advance of more than 1c occurred in wheat today, as a result of a big general demand, inspired by a fear of a European war, growing out of the trouble between Turkey and Bulgaria. Continued drouth in the winter wheat section of this country also helped to strengthen the market. Early in the session December advanced to $1.01⅞, and May to $1.04⅝. The opening on December was up ¼c to ½c at $1.01 to $1.01½. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 810 cars, against 1,153 cars last week and 771 cars a year ago.

The sharp advance called out free realizing sales, which caused a loss of all of the early gain. December declining to $1.00¾@⅞. The market, however, was by no means weak at any time. The close was firm, with December up ⅛@¼c at $1.00⅝@1.01.

Corn was active and strong, chiefly on account of the bulge in wheat. Leading bulls were active bidders, but offerings were meager. December opened ⅛@¼c higher, at 65¼c, and advanced to 65½c. Local receipts were 125 cars, with 28 of contract grade.

The decline in wheat brought out profit taking sales in corn which caused moderate weakness late in the day. December selling off to 64⅜c. The close was easy at the low point, with December ⅛@¼c lower, at 64⅜c.

Oats were bullishly affected by the strength of wheat and corn, but prices advanced only a trifle. December opened a shade higher, at 49⅜c and sold at 49⅜@½c. Local receipts were 229 cars.

Trade in provisions was quiet and the market was steady, prices at the opening being a shade lower to 2½c higher.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Sags at Times, But Has Firm Undertone.

Minneapolis, Oct. 9.—The war feeling put wheat higher. It saged at times, but retained a firm undertone. Aside from the advance of ⅜d Liverpool and disturbing war news there was a sharp drop in Duluth receipts, only 298 cars against 409. Minneapolis 527 against 221. Winnipeg 538 and 329. Local stocks will increase about 30,000 for the week. Argentine shipments only 624,000 bushels, were bullish. With continued unfavorable reports from the Balkans, a bullish report on winter wheat seeding and clearances of 748,000 bushels for the day, the strong news predominated. Near the close profit taking sales were more numerous and the market sold off, closing easy. December opened $1.02½; high $1.03⅜; low $1.02⅛; close $1.02½. Old December closed $1.02½. May opened $1.06⅜; high $1.07⅜; low $1.06⅜; close $1.06⅝.

Cash wheat met best demand so far this season, millers, elevators and shippers all coming after it. No. 1 northern sold 2c over December and late in the session was 2⅛c over for anything choice. No. 2 northern shared the strength, held strong at the December price and brought it over for selections. Fully 600,000 bushels No. 1 northern was bought mainly by millers to arrive. Close: No. 1 northern, spot or to arrive, $1.04¼; No. 2 northern, spot, $1.02¼@¾; to arrive, $1.02¼. No. 3 wheat, 97½c@$1.01.

No. 3 yellow corn 15¾c; No. 3 white oats, 46¼c.

No. 2 rye, 40¾@71¾c.

Barley receipts 61 cars against 204 last year; shipments 80. Feed grades, low grades and medium were ½@1c higher. Good malting was ½c up and choice malting about steady with yesterday. Close 52½@58c.

Flax receipts, 62 cars; shipments 20 cars. Buyers paid ¾c under Duluth October and nearly everything went at the flat prices, $1.23. Close, $1.21¾.

Millstuffs on basis of $17.50@18.00 for bran in bulk. Patent flour was advanced 10c a barrel on the strength in wheat. Demand was not so good. There is continued satisfactory home trade, but foreign buying seemed hesitant. Shipments, 55,439 barrels. First patents, $5.75@5.90; second patents, $5.60@5.75; first clears, $4.45@4.55; second clears, $3.50@3.60.

ELECTRIC ENGINES IN MINES.

Cassier's Magazine: The first electric mine locomotive was built in 1887. It looks as clumsy, compared to its modern successor, as the model of the first railway locomotive beside the gigantic machines turned out from the shop in the year 1907.

Some of these early creations, however, have lasted straight through the period of improvement, and are still in operation. One such was built in 1889. At the time of the Pan-American Exposition in Buffalo the officials whose duty it was to gather exhibits for the Electrical Building decided to obtain this locomotive.

They wrote to the manager of the mine where it had been used to ask if it could be "resurrected from the scrap heap." The manager replied, with some indignation, that it could not be "resurrected from the scrap heap," being still in operation; but that it could be loaned, provided a new locomotive were to be substituted to do the work during its absence.

"THE IRISH AND THE DUTCH."

The young doctor was forced to admit that there seemed to be no hope of old Hans Schmidt's recovery from typhoid. Everything he knew—and more—had been tried, but Hans grew steadily worse. He had only one desire—to taste his beloved sauerkraut once more before he died, which, of course, the doctor sternly forbade. However, old Hans eluded his nurses in the night, made his way to the kraut keg, and, as he expected to die anyway, ate his fill. He was surprisingly better next day, and finally told the doctor what he had done. The doctor immediately gave him permission to eat plenty of sauerkraut and Han's recovery was rapid.

The young doctor made the following entry in his book:

"Sauerkraut cured the Dutchman."

His next case of typhoid was an Irishman, and he also was desperately sick. Recalling the remarkable recovery of Hans, the physician suggested trying Pat with a little well-cooked sauerkraut. When he came back in the morning, poor Pat had succumbed, and the next entry under the "Typhoid" list read:

"But killed the Irishman."

A knight in full panoply of martial array was a fearsome sight once, but he would only be a curiosity now—like the dignified, old-fashioned merchant who considers advertising to be beneath him.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Market Starts Lower, Recovers Losses But Falls Off Again.

Persistant Buying of Union Pacific and Erie Was Feature.

New York, Oct. 9.—The opening stock market today reflected the renewed uneasiness abroad over the warlike outlook in Eastern Europe. Stocks with an international market were naturally most affected, but the whole list was down from a fraction to 1½. Canadian Pacific suffered to the extent of a 4¼-point decline, National Lead, 3¼; Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis, 2¾; Reading, 2⅜; Consolidated Gas, 2, and Union Pacific, Northern Pacific, Rock Island preferred and Brooklyn Rapid Transit, 1⅝ to 1¾. Stocks were unloaded freely in all parts of the list.

After the first batch of selling orders had been executed, the market recovered itself somewhat and hardened fractionally. Another break in the Harriman stocks started liquidation anew, and forced prices to a lower level than at the opening. Southern Pacific broke 2⅝, Union Pacific 2⅜, Amalgamated Copper 2¼, and Erie first preferred and American Smelting 2. The market was ruling a good fraction above the lowest at 11 o'clock, but was dull.er. Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie preferred advanced 3 points.

Persistent buying of Union Pacific and Erie lifted them a point above yesterday's closing, and pulled the rest of the list up so that there was no evidence left of the early severe losses. American Locomotive rose 1.

Profit taking in Union Pacific sent it fractionally below yesterday's closing and affected the general market slightly. A later rise in Union Pacific to about the highest failed to revive the activity.

The market closed slightly irregular and dull. Rock Island preferred rose 3⅜ to above 48, but as Union Pacific sold off the general list refused to respond. St. Louis and San Francisco second preferred rose 1¾, Chicago & Alton 2 and Tennessee Copper 1. Toledo, St. Louis and Western preferred fell 2.

CHANGE IN SERVICES.

Evening Instead of Morning Sermon at St. Luke's Church.

Commencing Sunday, a radical change will take place in the services at St. Luke's Episcopal church, Nineteenth avenue west and First street.

For several years services have been held there only in the morning, as the rector has also to preach in Holy Apostles' church, West Duluth.

Members of the parish and Rev. R. J. Mooney, the rector, have decided that the services would reach a larger number, and would be better suited to the locality, if they were held in the evening, and they will be held then from now on.

Mr. Mooney is planning to have a very attractive service in St. Luke's every Sunday evening. The morning service will be abandoned, and he will preach in Holy Apostles then, instead of in the evening.

"The church is well lighted and cozy, and we now have the best choir in the history of the parish, so that good music is assured," said Mr. Mooney today.

The change will be made Sunday. The service will begin at 7:45 p. m., and Rev. R. J. Mooney will preach on, "Has Christian Obligation Changed?" Sunday school will be held in the morning, as usual.

TICKETS ARE INDORSED.

The Swedish Republican Club Holds an Enthusiastic Meeting.

Republican state and national tickets were indorsed by the Svea Republican club, at an enthusiastic meeting held last night in Sloan's hall.

The speakers urged the members of the club to work hard for the Republican candidates for all offices, and had warm words of praise for the Republican leaders. Among the speakers were P. J. Borgstrom, K. A. Ostergren, Peter Olson, J. A. Wallin, Andrew Hornqren and Carl A. Johnson. The Svea Glee club sang.

The club will hold a big rally in Sloan's hall, Oct. 22, and a committee, comprising Otto Gafvert, W. A. Anderson and C. E. Johnson, was appointed to make the arrangements.

TWENTY-FIFTH ANNIVERSARY

First Norwegian-Danish M. E. Church Will Have Celebration.

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the organization of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church, Twenty-fourth avenue west and Third street, will be celebrated with special exercises in the church this evening.

An interesting program has been prepared and the work of the congregation during the quarter of a century will be reviewed. Among those who will speak are Rev. James Sanacker, district superintendent, Rev. F. L. Trelstad of Superior, Rev. C. W. Scheblius, Rev. P. Jensen and Rev. H. K. Madsen.

A splendid musical program has been prepared under the direction of John J. Moe and P. George Hanson, committee on music and refreshments.

Would Raise Money.

The old question of the extension of the car line on Piedmont avenue will be the principal topic of discussion at the meeting tonight of the West End Hillside Improvement club, at Twenty-third avenue west and Tenth street.

Members of the club are much interested in the project and now that the city council has set aside $3,000 for the grading of the street, the club is anxious to raise the remaining $4,000, necessary to complete the work.

Club is Organized.

Members of St. Jean Baptist Catholic church, a French parish, have organized a club, the object of which is to induce male members of the congregation who have not already done so, to become citizens of the United States.

The club has a membership of more than 150 and the officers are: President, Peter Grignon; vice president, Joseph Bourdage; secretary, Charles Samson; treasurer, Peter Benaud; commander, Louis Lanontague. The next meeting will be held Tuesday evening.

West End Shortrails.

A. E. Wilbur of Eau Claire, Wis., is in the West end on business.

Miss Elsie Bean has returned from Havre, Mont., where she has been visiting relatives for the past four months.

The Luther League of Bethany Swedish Lutheran church held its regular meeting last evening in the church parlors.

Gust Fargemann and John Lento have returned from a hunting trip. They secured quite a number of ducks.

Miss Lillie Cheli is expected from St. Croix Falls tomorrow. She will accept a position in the West end.

Rev. J. A. Anderson and family left yesterday for Marinette, Wis., to make their home.

The West End Democratic club will hold a meeting this evening in Sloan's hall, to make final arrangements for the visit of Governor Johnson Monday evening.

RALLY AT CASS LAKE.

Speeches Delivered by Lindbergh, Wright and McGarry.

Cass Lake, Minn., Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—A Republican rally was held here last night, when Congressman Lindbergh, Wright, candidate for judge, and McGarry, candidate for the legislature, opened the campaign. All appealed to the voters to support the entire Republican ticket. Lindbergh delivered the address of the evening. He talked briefly on the tariff and guaranty of bank deposits, and paid a high tribute to Taft. Jacobson and Wright. He stated that Bryan was a credit to the American people, but not the man for president. Johnson, he said, has made a good governor and did his duty, and all are proud of him, but he claimed Jacobson would do more.

UNDER A SHIP'S KEEL.

A Diver's Miraculous Escape From a Terrible Death.

Some of the adventures met with by members of the diving traternity are briefly chronicled in the newspapers from time to time, but very few, comparatively speaking, ever come to light. Divers regard them as "all in the day's work," and hold their peace concerning them, says the Wide World Magazine. The story related in the following pages would probably have been relegated to oblivion in similar fashion had not a representative of the Wide World Magazine made a special visit to Ipswich and interviewed its hero, Diver George Richmer. The narrative is here given as nearly as possible, in his own words:

On Monday, April 15, 1907, I was directed by my employers, the Ipswich dock commissioners, to examine the bottom of a French barque, the General Boisdefelle, then lying in the Ipswich docks, which had arrived a day or two previously with a cargo of grain from San Francisco. She was a fine vessel, but had, on her recent voyage, sprung a slight leak, and it was the location and extent of this that I had to discover.

I was compelled to have my diving barge, from which I always descended, on the side nearest the quay, as on the other side the ship was being unloaded. I descended in about twenty feet of water, and was soon busy in my endeavors to locate the faulty parts.

I was not long in discovering the cause of the trouble—some rivets had worked free, allowing the stern-post to become loose. Having made a thorough survey of the whole of the ship's sides and bottom, to make certain that the daage was not more extensive, I commenced the work of repair. Things went on quite satisfactorily, both morning and afternoon on the Monday, and also on Tuesday morning. The work was, indeed, progressing fast, but on Tuesday afternoon there came a setback which nearly cost me my life.

Everything was all right and in order when I descended at 2 o'clock on that never-to-be-forgotten afternoon. I have already explained that, owing to the fact that the cargo was being charged at the time, I was compelled to place my diving barge between the vessel and the quay. As I had found the leak to be on the other side, this made my task rather more awkward; I had to crawl right underneath the bottom of the ship before I could reach the damaged area. This had not hitherto impeded my progress, however, as there was no less than three feet of water between the ship's keel and the bottom of the dock.

On the Tuesday afternoon in question I soon reached the spot where I had been working, but before I had been at my task many minutes I distinctly felt the barque move. I wondered what the reason for this could be, and decided that I had better investigate the cause. I therefore made an attempt to crawl under the ship's keel in order to get back to the side on which my diving barge was situated, so that I could give the signal to be hoisted to the surface, for it was useless to do so until I was on the same side as the barge.

To my surprise, I found only one foot of water between the barque's keel and the bottom of the dock, instead of the three feet there had been when I descended. I afterwards discovered that for some unaccountable reason the sailors on board had loosed several of the sails. As there was a strong north-easterly wind blowing right across the dock, the consequence was that the ship heeled over slightly, and, disturbing the mud on the bottom of the dock, caused it to bank itself up, with the result described.

In spite of the narrowness of the space, I endeavored to crawl underneath the ship in order to be on the right side when pulled up. I succeeded with difficulty in getting my head and arms through the opening, but suddenly something seemed to seize hold of my left leg, preventing me from making any further progress. Mystified, I tried to back, to see what this obstacle could be, only to discover that I was securely anchored to the bottom of the dock by what appeared to be, so far as I could ascertain by the "feel" of it, a tangle of old wire cable, lying half buried in the mud. Annoyed at the delay, I did all I could to extricate myself, but to my dismay found it utterly impossible to do so; what with the ship's keel pressing down upon me from above, the thick, clinging mud below, and the wire holding me behind, I was as securely trapped as a fly in a spider's web. Directly I realized my predicament I pulled the communication cord six times—the danger signal among divers—thinking that what my own efforts had failed to accomplish my men above might do by main force. They immediately tried to pull me up, but in spite of repeated efforts on their part and on my own I still remained firmly fixed in the horrible coils of that wire death trap. Four strong men were putting forth their utmost efforts to hoist me to the surface, and in spite of my diving costume I could distinctly feel the strain that was being brought to bear to release me from my precarious position.

By this time, of course, those at the surface realized that something was amiss with me, and I afterward learned that quite a crowd of people had collected on board the diving barge to assist or offer suggestions, and grave doubts were expressed as to whether I could be rescued in time to save my life.

I repeatedly pulled the life line in order to notify them that I was still all right, and also continued to struggle desperately for freedom. Thoughts of my wife and children, happily unconscious of my present peril, urged me to persist in my efforts, though all I seemed able to do was to stir up vast quantities of mud; the cable still held me as firmly as ever. Before I had been under water many minutes I felt as if I had been there at least two or three hours. After about an hour had really elapsed—although it seemed to me so much longer—I commenced to wonder whether I should ever see daylight again. Up to this time, although I fully realized my danger, I had not thought of the possibility of death, but during the progress of the second hour my ideas commenced to undergo a complete change, and I began to despair. It was all over, I told myself; I was doomed to die miserably down under the ship's keel. Then, making an effort, I threw off this numbing feeling, and once more struggled violently to release myself, but the only result was that I managed to kick off one of my boots.

Although my struggles, combined with the efforts which were being put forth from above, were in the end successful, yet, at the same time, they nearly resulted in my death during the last few minutes I was under water. As a result of my frantic endeavors to get free, and although I tried in every possible way to get it clear again, I was unable to do so. To make matters worse, my exhaust pipe also became jammed in the mud, and this had the effect of preventing the foul air escaping. Instead, the water commenced to trickle slowly into my helmet. Directly I discovered what was happening all hope vanished from my mind, for I knew only too well that unless the people on the diving barge were successful in hoisting me to the surface during the next few minutes, I should die a horrible death, from suffocation.

Oh, the agony of those last moments! Before another three minutes had passed away I began to experience great difficulty in breathing, and as the seconds slipped by this difficulty became greatly intensified. Meanwhile the water continued to ooze in slowly, creeping with maddening persistence farther and farther up, and I knew it would not be long before my helmet became quite full. Which would win the race, I wondered, dully—the water or the foul air? Should I mercifully lose consciousness before the end came, or should I fight a last dreadful battle for breath? Fortunately, perhaps, for my reason, I began to lose consciousness under these trying conditions, and in the lethargy that was creeping over me I did not seem to possess sufficient energy or will-power to continue signaling to those above, although I had at frequent intervals pulled the cord during the last two hours in order to notify them that I was still alive.

When the water first commenced to enter my helmet my thoughts, as I have said, were of a most agonizing description. But now that unconsciousness was coming upon me, my feelings were of a very different character. I did not care for anything, and was quite indifferent whether I lived or died. In fact, all my struggles ceased, and I remained quite still, prepared for death. I felt perfectly contented at this stage, and even seemed to derive a certain amount of satisfaction and peace from the knowledge that I was doomed.

I remembered no more until I suddenly felt a violent jerk, and a minute afterward knew that I was lying on my back on the diving barge, with the sky above me. I heard a far-away voice say, "How are you, George?" and answered faintly, "All right," but immediately lost consciousness again. Blood poured freely from my ears and nose for some minutes, but a doctor, who had, of course, been summoned some time before, soon succeeded in stopping this. My helmet was taken off and brandy administered, artificial respi

SHIPS CRASH, MANY DROWN

Big German Steamers Come Together in a Dense Fog.

Captain of the Nipponia, Struck by the Pretoria, Perishes.

Hamburg, Oct. 10.—The German steamers Pretoria and Nipponia have been in collision in the fog, off Scheveningen. Thirteen of the Nipponia's crew, including the captain, were drowned. The Pretoria was not damaged. The Pretoria belongs to the Hamburg-American line, and left New York Sept. 26 for Hamburg. The Nipponia is owned in Stettin and left Lulea, Sweden, Aug. 11, for Emden.

ROBERTSON WINS DANGEROUS RACE

Autoist Covers Two Hundred Miles in Four Hours.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 10.—The 200-mile automobile race around a dangerous eight-mile course in Fairmount park was won by Robertson, time 4 hours, 2 minutes and 30 seconds.

Motor Parkway, L. I., Oct. 10.—Car No. 3, Buick, driven by Easter, won Nassau sweepstakes in the great motor Parkway race today. Distance, 250 miles.

SAY PRIESTS INTIMIDATED

Mrs. Rogers' Faction Among Catholic Foresters Demands Recount.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 10.—Mrs. Rose D. Rittman of Minneapolis, vice high chief ranger of the Catholic Women's Order of Foresters, was declared elected high chief ranger by one vote in the ballotting by the 800 delegates to the nineteenth annual convention here. The defeated candidate is Mrs. Elizabeth Rogers of Chicago, who organized and was for eighteen years high chief ranger of the order. She demands a recount on the ground that the delegates were intimidated by priests who were ejected from the convention a few days ago.

Father Dolphin There.

John F. Dolphin, pastor of St. Stephen's Roman Catholic church, Minneapolis, has declared that he was one of the priests refused admission to the sessions of the Women's Catholic Order of Foresters convention and, supported by Rev. Peter J. O'Callaghan, the Chicago priest who secured the final reprieve of Herman Billik, convicted necromancer and poisoner, has issued a statement in which the order is attacked.

Father Dolphin read a certified copy of a letter from the insurance commissioner of Minnesota, reflecting upon the methods of the order, and following this an order was promulgated barring the priests from the sessions.

Says Others Were Excluded.

Father Dolphin's statement declares that not only he, but Father McNamee, Joliet, Ill.; Father Dorney, Morrison, Ill.; Father MacCorry, Chicago, and Father Foley of Dixon, Ill., were refused admittance to the convention's sessions.

CROOKSTON YOUNG MEN ORGANIZE JOHNSON CLUB.

Crookston, Minn., Oct. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Young Men's Johnson club has been organized here by young men who are interested in the re-election of the present governor. A large number of the younger voters are members. The club will have a big meeting tonight when it is expected more members will join. The officers are: President, John K. N. Kirsch; vice presidents, Peter Boukind, Arthur Egley, Peter Eide, Bert Evans; treasurer, Richard Getty; secretary, A. G. Brager.

Prairie Fire Does Harm.

Fergus Falls, Minn., Oct. 10.—A fire, set by a passing locomotive, swept over a wide stretch of prairie, fifteen miles west of here, Thursday, and burned over 200 tons of hay. Another fire in the same neighborhood destroyed nearby 200 tons a few days before. That section of country raises a large amount of hay for balling and shipment, and the work of balling had just fairly begun. The loss will amount to about $5,000.

SECTION OF THE WORLD WHERE WAR CLOUDS ARE GATHERING

For years it has been the annual prediction of European correspondents that "there will be trouble in the Balkans in the spring." They based their predictions partly on the quarrelsome disposition of the petty chiefs of the Balkan governments, but more on the lustful eyes the bigger governments have kept on the lesser territories. But all was supposed to be put in a state of armed truce, at least, by the treaty of Berlin at the close of the Russo-Turkish war, by which Russia was robbed of the fruits of that great war and, as to the provinces now getting turbulent, by a compromise that, while the sovereignty of Turkey over Bosnia and Herzgovina was recognized, Austria-Hungary was made a sort of guardian. Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria is the exciting agent this time, proclaiming his country independent of Turkey, and Turkey meets the movement with a mobilization of troops on the Bulgarian frontier. The semi-official news from Vienna seems to indicate that back of Ferdinand is Austria, having in view the ultimate appropriation of Bosnia and Herzgovinia. The activity of the European chancelleries, all signatories of the Berlin treaty, indicates the credence given this time to the probability of war in and about the Balkan states.

Turkey has protested to the powers against the annexation of Bosnia and Herzgovnia by Austria-Hungary, and the Turkish imperial commissioner at Sofia has been instructed to continue the discharge of his duties, as neither the porte nor the powers have recognized the independence of Bulgaria. This may lead to some overt act against the imperial commissioner. M. Iswolsky, the Russian minister of foreign affairs, has left Paris for London to continue his efforts for the calling of the international conference. France is convinced that, if an acceptable program can be decided upon, an outbreak may be avoided by diplomacy.

HAS EXPLOSIVE CARGO.

Steamer Sailing the Lakes With Nitrate of Soda.

Marquette, Mich., Oct. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Carrying a cargo more menacing to life and property than dynamite, the steamer Parent arrived here with 3,000 tons of nitrate of soda consigned to various milling plants of the Dupont Powder company. The Parent received her cargo at Montreal, after it had been transported many thousands of miles from the west coast of South America, around the horn and north on the Atlantic to the St. Lawrence river, and she arrived here after passing through the Welland canal and navigating Lakes Ontario, Huron, Erie and Superior. The steamer will discharge a portion of her cargo at Washburn, as well as here, and will then proceed to Chicago to unload the remainder.

VERDICT FOR COMPANY.

Mike Stepancic Recovers Nothing for Death of Brother.

A jury in district court yesterday afternoon returned a verdict for the defense in the case of Mike Stepancic, administrator of the estate of John Stepancic, against the Oliver Iron Mining company. The suit was for $5,000, the plaintiff claiming that Stepancic had been killed by a premature blast in the Fayal mine at Eveleth. John Keyes and J. De La Motte appeared for Stepancic, and Baldwin, Baldwin & Dancer for the company.

TRIED TO BRIBE RUEF CASE JUROR.

San Francisco, Oct. 10.—The jury in the case of E. A. S. Blake, a contractor, charged with attempting to bribe J. M. Kelly, a prospective juror in the Ruef bribery trial now pending, brought in a verdict of guilty.

GOV. WARNER WAS LOSER.

Throwing Out Voting Machine Ballots Cost Him Dearly.

Menominee, Mich., Oct. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Because the supreme court ruled that the use of the voting machine in Spaulding township, Menominee county, was illegal, Governor Warner lost a big bunch of votes that had been cast for him at the recent primary election.

All of the votes of the precinct were thrown out, and they numbered 144, of which Warner had received 130 and Dr. Bradley only fourteen.

CHIEF REVOLUTIONIST ILL IN COUNTY JAIL.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 10.—Ricardo Flores Magon, leader of the Mexican revolution movement is ill in the county jail with a pulmonary affection, which it is believed already has developed into consumption.

MOVE OUT BECAUSE OF TAFT PICTURE

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 10.—"Take down that picture of Taft or we will move state Democratic headquarters out of the Maxwell house."

This ultimatum was delivered to Manager Hume of the Maxwell house last night by the managers of the Democratic headquarters. Manager Hume, not wishing to show discrimination between Democrats and Republicans allowed the picture to remain in the hotel lobby.

The Democrats today moved out.

CANE MAKER FOR PRESIDENTS DIES

Kansas City, Oct. 10.—William McKenzie, a farmer 84 years of age, died at his home in Wyandotte county, Kansas, fifteen miles west of here yesterday. McKenzie's favorite pastime was making canes, and every United States president, from Grant to the present, has received a cane carved by him, and has acknowledged it by an autograph letter.

STANDARD OIL'S SECRET CODE LOST

Muskogee, Ok., Oct. 10.—A copy of the secret code of the Standard Oil company is lost, according to local police, who recovered a valise stolen here from W. A. Ledbetter, general attorney for the Waters-Pierce Oil company in Oklahoma. The code was in the valise when taken, but was not recovered. There are said to be only thirteen copies in existence.

WAR ALL BUT BEGUN

Servians Blow Bridges; Flags Burned in Front of Palace.

Powers Are Asked to Send Battleships to Balkans.

Spezia, Italy, Oct. 10.—The Italian fleet, which has just completed its regular fall maneuvers, has received orders to remain concentrated here.

Paris, Oct. 10.—The Vienna correspondent of the Temps reports that the eleventh and thirteenth Austro-Hungarian army corps, with arms and ammunition, are being hurried in the direction of the Servian frontier. Hospital trains are being prepared, the correspondent declares further, at Vienna and Budapest.

Paris, Oct. 10.—The Paris morning papers are filled with alarming, but unconfirmed rumors from the Near East. Among them are the following:

That the Servians have blown up bridges along the Austrian frontier, that martial law has been declared and that a Servian officer has been captured and shot.

From Constantinople comes a story of anti-Christian agitations in Symrna and rumors that the English, French and Italian consuls have asked their government to send warships to the scene.

From Athens comes the rumor that Bulgarian agents are active in Macedonia, especially in the vicinity of Seres, distributing arms and inciting the population to insurrection.

A special to the Matin from Constantinople says the editors of the Constantinople newspapers believe war is inevitable.

Denial by Germany.

Constantinople, Oct. 10.—Baron Marshal von Bieberstein, the German ambassador, in a conversation with Kiamil Pasha, the grand vizier, denied the supposition that recent events in Turkey are the result of an understanding between Germany and Austria or any other country. The ambassador added: "I am commanded by the emperor of Germany to protest energeticaly against such a supposition. The events in question occurred without consultation with Germany."

War Spirit in Congress.

Belgrade, Oct. 10.—The extra session of the national assembly summoned to deal with the war crisis began this morning amid scenes of excitement. The warlike sentiment of the delegates was noticeable and this spirit was given expression by th prompt election to the presidency of the assembly of Prof. Jovanovits, one of the most prominent agitators in favor of war with Austria. Two Austrian flags were burned by a mob in theater square this morning.

To Protect Americans.

Washington, Oct. 10.—Administration officials are watching closely the developments in the Balkans. Not being a signatory to the Berlin treaty

HOLD-UPS GET PITCHFORK.

Royalton, Minn., Oct. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—A pitchfork carried by one of their victims was all that five desperate looking characters recovered from Andy McCutcheon, Henry Fincher and Ed Peterson when they held up those worthies a few evenings ago two miles east of town.

The three men were returning from thrashing when the highwaymen armed, ordered them to hold up their hands. While the highwaymen were searching his two companions Peterson took to his heels and got away. A pitchfork that Fincher carried looked good to the robbers and they had to be satisfied with that implement.

ASK CROOKS, SAYS HUGHES

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 10.—"Ask the crooks of New York about it. Do not ask them who they are for; ask them whom they are against. Then you will learn the truth."

Governor Charles Evans Hughes of New York, arriving after an all-night run from Webb City, Mo., in a speech here today thus opened a discussion of railroads with particular reference to his veto of the 2-cent fare bill in New York state.

Governor Deeneen of Illinois, joined Governor Hughes at Alton, Ill., where the New York governor spoke before a large audience. He made other stops in Illinois at Lincoln, Bloomington, Pontiac and Joliet.

WARSHIPS OFF FOR JAPAN.

Sixteen Craft of Atlantic Fleet Sail From Manila.

Manila, Oct. 10.—The sixteen big battleships of the Atlantic fleet are en route to Japan. Sailing orders were given by Rear Admiral Sperry for the fleet to depart two hours earlier than the announced time and early today the flagship Connecticut got under way. Half an hour later all of the great ships followed.

"DOC" RUTLEDGE RESIGNS.

Quits Position as Game Warden and Will Hustle for Judge Stanton.

Bemidji, Minn., Oct. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—"Doc" A. G. Rutledge, editor of the Pioneer, who is also well known as game warden for this district, has resigned the game warden job.

It is understood he will devote his energies to advaicing the candidacy of Judge Stanton, independent, for re-election as district judge for this district.

Northome Couple Wedded.

Cass Lake, Minn., Oct. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—A very pretty wedding was solemnized Thursday at the home of C. M. Taylor, when Miss Florence Shook and P. S. Serbner, a popular Northome couple were married by Rev. Mr. Barr of the Congregational church of this city.

Chinese Alliance Sought.

Hongkong, Oct. 10.—It is learned today that the real reason of Sir Robert Hart's recent visit to England was to bring about an alliance between China, the United States and Great Britain to conserve the interests of the nations in the Far East.

CORPSES OF MAN AND WOMAN ARE FOUND WIRED TOGETHER

New York, Oct. 10—A mystery which promises to tax the ingenuity of the police department before it is unravelled, came to light today when the bodies of a well dressed man and woman, bound securely together with wire, were found floating in Jamaica bay. The bodies have not been identified. They were found by two fisherman. Both victims had their valuables intact; the woman's chatelaine bag was even wired to her wrist, but there was nothing on either corpse to aid identification. The bodies had not been in the water more than six hours. The man was apparently 45. He was six feet tall and weighed 200. In his pockets were a gold watch and chain and $4.38. The woman was about 35, and exceptionally good looking. Her brown hair was tinged with gray, and she wore a wedding ring, and long black gloves. She had $10 in small bills in her bag.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 10.—The Detroit pennant winners in the American league today lost the first game in the world's championship series to the Chicago National league pennant winners by the score of 10 to 6. Umpires—O'Day and Sheridan.

Two Sets of Umpires.

Before the game Garry Herrmann, president, at a meeting of the national commission, at which it was decided that two sets of umpires—O'Day (National) and Sheridan (American) and Klem (National) and Connolly (American), should alternate at the several games. On American league grounds the American league umpires will be at the home plate; on National league grounds the National league man will occupy that point.

An hour and a quarter before the game began the Chicago team took the field amid a chorus of cheers and blasts from the hundreds of horns, rattles and megaphones added to the clamor. Manager Chance was the last "Cub" to come through the gate, and the crowd gave him a personal welcome. The echoes of the Cub yells had not died away when Manager Jennings led his white clad Tigers into the diamond and a welcome more vociferous was given. Detroit immediately started practice on the diamond, while Chance and his men started a dozen balls tossing back and forth in the space between their bench and the diamond.

Detroit—McIntyre, left field; O'Leary, short stop; Crawford, center field; Cobb, right field; Rossman, first base; Schaefer, third base; Schmidt, catcher; Downs, second base; Killian, pitcher.

Chicago—Sheckard, left field; Evers, second base; Schulte, right field; Chance, first base; Steinfeldt, third base; Hofman, center field; Tinker, short stop; Kling, catcher; Reulbach, pitcher.

The umpires and captains conferred at the plate in a slight drizzle of rain, and it was still falling when play was called at 2 o'clock.

First Inning.

Chicago—Sheckard doubled to right field. Cobb falling in the wet grass as he reached for the ball. Evers struck out. Schulte out, Shaefer to Rossman. Sheckard taking third. Chance walked. Chance stole second. Hofman flied to Crawford. No runs.

Detroit—As Detroit came to bat the rain was falling heavily. McIntyre singled over third base. O'Leary struck out. Crawford struck out. McIntyre stole second. Cobb singled over third base, scoring McIntyre, but was thrown out, Sheckard to Evers, when he tried to stretch the hit into a two-bagger. One run.

Second Inning.

Chicago—Hofman went out, Downs to Rossman. Tinker flied to Crawford, who made a wonderful one-handed catch. Kling walked and Reulbach forced him out, O'Leary to Downs. No runs.

Detroit—Rossman went out, Tinker to Chance. Schaefer flied to Hofman and Schmidt was out, Reulbach to Chance. No runs.

Third Inning.

Chicago—Before Sheckard came to bat, a dozen bushels of sawdust were sprinkled around the home plate and the pitcher's box. Rain was falling heavily. Sheckard doubled over first base and Evers bunted toward third, endeavoring to sacrifice, but Schaefer fell and he was safe, Sheckard taking third. Schulte singled between first and second, scoring Sheckard. Evers took second. Manager Jennings sent Summers out to warm up. Chance bunted and Killian threw Evers out at third, Chance being safe at first. Steinfeldt singled to left, scoring Schulte, and took second while Chance took third on poor handling of the throw-in. Hofman walked, filling the bases. Summers then took Killian's place in the box. Tinker then stole second. Kling hit to third a slow bounder which slipped through Schaefer's hands, Steinfeldt scoring. Kling tried to steal, Schmidt to Downs. Chicago, 4.

Detroit—Tinker made a wonderful stop of Downs' grounder, throwing him out to Chance. Summers struck out and McIntyre fouled out to Kling. No runs.

Fourth Inning.

Chicago—Reulbach struck out and Sheckard singled to center, making his third hit. Evers sacrificed, Summers to Rossman and Schulte flied out to McIntyre. No runs.

Detroit—O'Leary went out, Tinker to Chance. Crawford lined to Evers and Cobb went out, Evers to Chance. No runs.

Fifth Inning.

Chicago—Chance fouled to Schmidt. Steinfeldt walked. Hofman forced Steinfeldt. O'Leary to Downs and Tinker was out, Schaefer to Rossman. No runs.

Detroit—Rossman struck out. Schaefer sent a high fly to Sheckard and Schmidt flied to Hofman. No runs.

Sixth Inning.

Chicago—Kling flied to McIntyre, who made a pretty catch. Reulbach went out, Downs to Rossman and Sheckard flied out to McIntyre. No runs.

Detroit—Downs bunted to Reulbach, who threw him out at first. Summers hit to Reulbach, who threw him out at first. McIntyre hit the ball to the mud in front of the plate and it rolled out of Kling's reach. McIntyre reached first. O'Leary singled, but Crawford hit only a little grounder to Reulbach, who retired him easily at first. No runs.

Seventh Inning.

Chicago—The rain had ceased somewhat at the beginning of the seventh inning. Evers hit a grounder to Rossman and was safe, when Rossman waited too long for Summers to cover the bag. Schulte sacrificed, Summers to Rossman. Downs fumbled Chance's grounder and was safe at first, Evers taking third. Steinfeldt flied to Crawford and Evers scored on the throw-in, O'Leary and Downs tried unsuccessfully to catch Chance, but the Chicago captain made second. Hofman died. Summers to Rossman. One run.

Detroit—Cobb's drive was too hot for Reulbach to handle and he was safe at first. Rossman singled down second base, Cobb taking third, by a daring run, and Rossman went to second in the attempt to catch out Cobb. Schaefer struck out. Schmidt hit to Tinker and was thrown out at first, Cobb scoring on the play. Rossman was held at second. Downs doubled down the bird base line, scoring Rossman. Summers drove a pop fly just over Tinker's head and Downs scored. Reulbach was then taken out and Overall began pitching. McIntyre was hit by pitched ball. O'Leary flied out to Schulte. Three runs.

Eighth Inning.

Chicago—Tinker singled to right and went to second on a slow throw-in. Kling sacrifice, Summers to Rossman, Tinker taking third. Overall struck out and Sheckard was thrown out at first by O'Leary. No runs.

Detroit—Crawford walked and then Overall was taken out and Brown went into the box. Crawford advanced to second on a wild pitch. Cobb was safe when Chance dropped Brown's throw of his bunt, Crawford taking third. Rossman doubled over second base scoring Crawford. Cobb went to third and then scored when Hofman's throw went wild. Schaefer out, Kling to Chance, Rossman taking third on the play. Schmidt out, Evers to Chance. Downs flied to Hofman. Two runs.

Ninth Inning.

Chicago—Rossman retired Evers, unassisted, on a grounder. Schulte hit safely on the ground to O'Leary and Chance singled over second. Steinfeldt singled over third and the bases were full. Hofman hit safely to left, scoring Schulte and Chance. Tinker bunted a fly in front of the plate, Schmidt falling down and Steinfeldt scoring. Hofman and Tinker next worked a double steal. Kling singled to center, scoring Hofman and Tinker and Brown sacrificed, Summers to Rossman. Sheckard flied to Crawford. Five runs.

Detroit—Jones batted for Summers. Jones struck out. McIntyre walked. Thomas batted for O'Leary. Thomas singled to left. Winter ran for Thomas. Crawford flied to Hofman. McIntyre taking third. Cobb out, Brown to Chance. No runs.

MANAGER JENNINGS, of Detroit.

NORTH DAKOTAN KILLED ALIGHTING FROM TRAIN.

Hillsboro, N. D., Oct. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Erick Olson, a well known hardware merchant of Clifford, this county, was killed under the wheels of a Great Northern passenger train Friday evening in attempting to alight while the cars were in motion.

He had one leg cut off between the knee and hip, and though medical assistance was secured, death resulted. Mr. Olson was one of the pioneer residents of Trail county and leaves a wife and family.

A. B. WOLVIN IN REBUTTAL

Says There Was Never Any Danger of Losing Options.

Backers Ready at All Times to Put Up Cash.

The defense in the case of the Butte & Superior Copper company against John McAlpine in district court closed its case yesterday afternoon, and the plaintiff took up the rebuttal.

A. B. Wolvin was the first witness called in rebuttal, and he gave some facts in regard to the early steps of organization that had not come out previously. He said there was never any danger of the company losing its options, as all cash payments on them were secured, and even if enough stock was not sold to the public to care for the payments, the money would be forthcoming. He said the following men had guaranteed 250,000 shares, or $1,000,000: George Crosby, John F. Killorin, I. Fremuth, William White, A. M. Chisholm, D. T. Helm, W. L. Brown, James H. Hoyt and James C. Wallace. This, he said, was positive assurance that the options would be protected.

Mr. Wolvin said that he offered $3,000,000 for the Elm Orlu and Poser mines and that it was refused. Both of these mines are now heavy producers. Mr. Wolvin said he had drawn no salary from the company and had helped the company to the extent of $50,000, besides paying a large part of the office expenses. Mr. Richards asked Mr. Wolvin but a few questions in cross-examination, and he left the stand just before the afternoon session closed.

At the opening of the afternoon session, T. J. Davis, who had been called by Mr. Richards for cross-examination, was questioned about the sworn statement filed with the auditor of Montana in February, 1907, stating that the company was worth $8,000,000. Mr. Richards asked how assets placed at such a figure could be reconciled with cash payments of only $252,000 on the options. Mr. Davis said the properties were worth that much in his estimation and that the remaining payments on the options were so secured that there was no danger of the options being lost.

Mr. Richards asked what the company depended upon to solidify their stock and Mr. Davis said they depended upon the stock and cash that had already been paid on the options, the large amount of money due on subscriptions, the financial character of the syndicate, and the stock in the treasury. He admitted, however, that it was necessary to continue the sale of stock after Feb. 11, 1907, to keep up the payments on the options.

A. A. Hobbs, office manager for Mr. McAlpine, was called and testified to giving the information on which the original answer in the suit was drawn to W. B. Phelps, who was then attorney for Mr. McAlpine. He said he told Mr. Phelps the facts just as he believed they had been told him by Mr. McAlpine, who was out of the city at the time the answer was drawn. Mr. Phelps testified to having received the information from Mr. Hobbs.

Woman Interrupts Political Speaker.

A well-dressed woman interrupted a political speaker recently by continually coughing. If she had taken Foley's Honey and Tar it would have cured her cough quickly and expelled her cold from her system. The genuine Foley's Honey and Tar contains no opiates and is in a yellow package. Refuse substitutes. Sold by all druggists.

EVELETH CHURCH NOTES.

Eveleth ,Minn., Oct .10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rev. George Dungan, who occupied the pulpit of the Methodist Episcopal church last Sunday in place of Rev. Taylor, the regular pastor who has gone away for study, will again Sunday occupy the pulpit. No regular pastor has been assigned to the church.

A Thanksgiving festival service will be held Sunday morning at St. John's church, at which time morning prayer will also be said. The rector is to preach and music will be furnished by a vested choir.

Tomorrow night, the members of the Jewish synagogue will hold their annual election of officers. The Jewish holiday celebrating the Feast of Tabernacles was observed here beginning last night. Services were held in the synagogue.

Pugs May Come Together.

Virginia, Minn., Oct. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—"Scraps" Costello of Duluth is in the city endeavoring to arrange a boxing match with Nick Constantine of Eveleth. Both fighters have been telling what they can do for the past year and the fight fans of this section would like to have them come together.

SOME REAL POLITICAL FIREWORKS NEXT WEEK

Appearance of Two Governors Will Put Ginger in Campaign.

Cummins, Jacobson, Eddy and Eberhart After Republican Votes.

Heavy Artillery Will All be Used in This County.

Strenuosity will be the order of the coming week in politics.

Duluth will have the honor of entertaining two speakers of national reputation. oGvernor Cummins of Iowa, the originator of "the Iowa idea," and Minnesota's own chief executive, John A. Johnson, will both address Duluth audiences during the coming week. Their appearance here will mark the beginning of the real activity in the campaign locally, for Duluth as yet, has not had the opportunity of listening to any speakers, who have included state and national issues in their speeches, with the exception of J. F. Jacobson in his initial speech at West Duluth.

It was at first believed that both West Duluth and the West end would have the honor of entertaining Governor Johnson. State business, however, compelled the cancellation of the West Duluth and West end engagements, so that the governor will be heard in Duluth on Wednesday evening only. All of Tuesday and Wednesday will be spent upon the ranges, the governor reaching this city late Wednesday afternoon.

Jacobson Coming.

J. F. Jacobson will follow the two governors. His visit is slated for the twenty-second of the month, although subsequent arrangements may cause it to be postponed for a few days. Following Jacobson will come that veteran campaigner and political humorist, Frank Eddy, who has undertaken to answer many of the questions asked the candidate. Lieutenant Governor A. O. Eberhart will accompany Mr. Eddy, according to present plans, the two speakers appearing on the same platform.

Arrangements are being completed for a tour of the ranges by Mr. Jacobson. It is probable also, that if the arrangements can be made with the state central committee, Mr. Eddy and Mr. Eberhart will also extend their trip to Duluth to the ranges. The members of the local Republican committee are working toward that end at the present time.

Some Roorbacks.

While speaking of the appearance here of the two candidates, it might be appropriate to mention some campaign stories that have been circulated.

Republican party leaders are trying to make capital out of a report that Governor Johnson favors a tonnage tax on ore, and the roorback is being freely spread in Northern Minnesota, where it is calculated to do the most harm. It is quite a familiar friend in Duluth and the governor's friends and supporters who know his stand in the matter, have frequently been called upon to outline the governor's well known views on the question, to those who are not familiar with it.

In the southern part of the state the governor is represented as a friend of Northern Minnesota and as being opposed to the imposition of even a reasonable tax on iron ore. The reports only serve to arouse the sectional feeling between the northern and southern parts of the state, and have little influence upon the intelligent voters.

The Three Meetings.

The appearance here of Governors Johnson and Cummins is counted upon to give an impetus to the rather lagging local campaigns. The members of the local Democratic committee count upon the appearance of Governor Johnson to make many votes, not only for the governor himself, but also for the state and national tickets.

Governor Cummins will probably deal largely with national issues. He is campaigning in the interests of the national ticket, and while, of course, he will put in the conventional plea for local Republicanism, his speech is expected to deal mainly with the national campaign.

Governor Johnson will deal vigorously with state issues. He has a great many things in store of paramount interest to the voters of the northern part of the state, and his Duluth speech will undoubtedly touch upon conditions that are of vital importance to local interests.

The local Republican leaders feel that there is no great danger to the county ticket. On the state ticket—especially the head of the state ticket—they have a decidedly different opinion, and they are hoping that the Northern Minnesota tour will counteract, in part at least, the distrust felt for Jacobson in this part of the state.

The County Campaign.

As for county politics, the campaign goes merrily on. The past week has not been productive of much interest. The candidates are working quietly and hard and they are not making very much noise over the fact that they are running for office.

To get a good idea of a campaign it is necessary to visit the campaign headquarters of the two parties. Here one is given an idea of the inside work that is being done. Both committees are hard at work and both offices present busy scenes. At the Democratic headquarters Austin Connolly, who is in charge of the committee work, has several assistants employed in writing letters, sending out huge stacks of campaign literature, and generally keeping in touch with conditions in the county.

At the Republican headquarters, where ex-senator W. E. Culkin is in charge, there is an equal activity. Mr. Culkin has several assistants, who are sending out Jacobson literature, huge pictures of Taft, and other campaign matter that is calculated to interest the voters of St. Louis county. A short visit to either of the party headquarters will convince one that the county campaign is a warm one, even if there has not been much noise let loose up to date.

Both committee chairman state that they have a strong organization in the field. The Republican committee was completed this week, and now according to Mr. Culkin, is in smooth working order. It has been in constant communication with the state central committee, with the result, as Mr. Culkin has it, "that we will give the voters of this county some rattling good speakers and some rattling good campaign facts to digest." Another speaker of national reputation may be added to the list.

P. H. NELSON,
Democratic Candidate for State Treasurer of Minnesota.

Peter Henry Nelson was born at Kandiyohi, in Kandiyohi county, thirty-five years ago, of Swedish parents. He received a common school education and started to work at the age of 16 years as a telegraph operator. He moved to the Mesaba range fifteen years ago, where he was employed as telegraph operator for five years. He then branched out into business for himself as a lumberman and iron miner. He was one of the pioneers of the town of Hibbing, and has been foremost in the upbuilding of the range country.

It has not been definitely decided as yet whether ex-governor John Lind will speak in Duluth. The members of the Democratic committee are desirous of having Mr. Lind make at least one speech in the northern part of the state, as they consider him, next to Johnson, the best campaigner in Minnesota. Thomas D. O'Brien has also been suggested. He is one of the best speakers in the ranks of the state Democracy, and his appearance here would be certain to give the cause a boost.

Andrew Nelson, chairman of the county Democratic committee, is doing his utmost to secure the best in the way of speakers for Duluth, and he is at the present time completing his program.

The Shrievalty Campaign.

The Democrats are pinning their hopes upon Charles Jesmore, Democratic candidate for sheriff. It looks now as if Mr. Jesmore would at least give William J. Bates, the Republican candidate, a fairly good race for the office. Mr. Bates isn't saying very much. It can be said, however, that Mr. Bates doesn't expect to encounter a stone in his political path in the way of opposition on the part of laborers upon the range. In predicting victory for Mr. Jesmore, the Democrats have predicted that the labor element of the range would oppose Mr. Bates, because of his official duty in connection with the miners' strike. There will be some opposition to Mr. Bates on the part of labor; just how much, though, it is difficult to judge.

The members of the two committees regard the matter in entirely different lights. The members of the Republican county committee are of the opinion that Mr. Bates will secure the normal Republican labor vote; the members of the Democratic committee are of the opinion that Mr. Jesmore will receive a very heavy labor vote upon the range, which, with his personal following there, they profess to believe will land him in the office.

Anton N. Thompson, Democratic candidate for clerk of the court, has been out among the range voters during the week. Mr. Thompson lives in Virginia, so that he may be expected to have a following from the range. J. P. Johnson, the Republican candidate, has been busy in the city and the outlying districts. He will make a tour of the ranges sometime during the next two weeks.

The Legislative Fight.

Of course the only legislative fight that the Democrats have on their hands is in the Fifth district, Dr. O. A. Oredson and Joseph W. Reynolds are pitted against Anton Borgen and Richard F. Grant. The two Democratic candidates are two of the busiest men in the ranks of their party. They have addressed many of the Democratic meetings this fall, as well as making a strenuous campaign among the voters. Then, too, the Democratic committee has centered its strength upon the Fifth district, determined to land at last one of the candidates if possible. The two Republican candidates have made their fight together from the start. They don't anticipate any scratching of the ticket in the Fifth district—that is, as far as their candidacy is concerned and they are confident of election. They have both been active in the campaign and have both assured the Republican committee that they have encountered the most favorable reception.

Other County Offices.

So far John Cashin, Democratic candidate for the office of register of deeds, has confined his attention to this city and West Duluth. He will make a tour of the range the latter part of this month. M. C. Palmer, the Republican candidate, has personally met nearly all of the voters in the county since his fight in the primaries, and he has not neglected his campaign since his nomination.

Dr. J. H. Jern, the Democratic candidate for coroner, and his opponent, J. A. McCuen, are conducting a busy, if quiet campaign. Dr. Jern has addressed several meetings this fall.

Emil A. Tessman, Democratic candidate for county commissioner in the First district, is conceded a very good chance of victory. The First district is quite a strong Democratic district, and Mr. Tessman is making a very active campaign. Mr. Tessman is one of the strongest hopes of his party as far as the county ticket is concerned. Alex Fraser, his opponent, is making a house to house canvass of the district, and has reported that he has every reason to believe that he will be elected.

Albert Overton, the Republican candidate for county commissioner in the Fifth district, has been over the district more thoroughly than has John Lowe, his Democratic opponent. Mr. Lowe has been an indefatigable worker for his party, and has sacrificed his own interests somewhat for the success of the party ticket.

Dr. Margaret Ryan, the only woman candidate of either party, who is a candidate for the office of superintendent of schools, is not passing out any campaign cigars, 'tis true, but she may hold that the brand of some of the campaign cigars that some of the male candidates for office pass out act as a pernicious boomerang, losing rather than winning votes for the candidates who use the daylight torch as a means of lending cheer to the political handshake. Dr. Ryan is opposed by S. W. Gilpin, and the doctor's lady friends are just sure that she will be the next superintendent of the county schools.

Fireworks Due.

It is expected that the coming week will witness more noisy manifestations of the presence of a local political campaign. However, if the local orators fail to make themselves heard, the presence of two national speakers is bound to awaken general interest in the state issues and turn the minds of the voters from the baseball situation to the fact that there is but a short time to form political opinions.

LABOR

AN ENEMY OF LABOR

Delegates to Trades Assembly Hear Jacobson's Record Read.

Republican Candidate Opposed Every Measure of Organized Labor.

J. F. Jacobson, Republican candidate for governor, is far from being a friend of organized labor, according to his legislative record on labor bills, which were cited in a communication from the state central committee of the State Federation of Labor, last evening at the meeting of the trades assembly.

The record, the communication stated, was taken from the official journal of the house of representatives, and it shows that Mr. Jacobson opposed every bill favorable to labor. The communication is a vigorous arraignment of Mr. Jacobson as an enemy of labor.

A bill for an act entitled an act to define the liability of employers to their servants engaged in dangerous employments, and to repeal chapter 13 of the General Laws of Minnesota for the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven; a bill for an act to establish the number of hours constituting a day's work, for all county, state and municipal work.

A bill to provide for a limit to terms of daily service of laborers, workmen and mechanics, employed on public works or work done for the state of Minnesota in eight hours a day.

A bill for an act to regulate and define employment agencies. Originated by State Federation of Labor.

A bill for an act to regulate the practice of horse-shoeing in the state of Minnesota. Proposed by State Federation of Labor.

A bill for an act requiring an employer to furnish to a discharged employe the reason for such discharge, and to allow such employe a hearing upon request.

A bill, commonly known as the Personal Liberty bill, making it a misdemeanor for any company or employer to require as a condition of employment, that the employe should withdraw from or refrain from joining any labor organization, was amended by its enemies providing that no employe or member of any labor organization should by force try to persuade or influence any other employe or candidate for employment to join any labor organization.

The bill drawn at the request of the Shoe Workers' union and the State Federation of Labor. The principal feature of this bill was to limit the number of convicts to 15 per cent of the inmates at any one employment, excepting in the binding twine plant.

A bill introduced in accordance with the desires of the barbers in the session of 1901. The bill provided for the regulation and supervision of barber schools in the state of Minnesota.

He also voted for Anti-Boycott Bill—A bill for an act prohibiting boycotting or by any other means injuring, interfering with or preventing the carrying on of any lawful business or the pursuit of any lawful work or enterprise. Mr. Jacobson voted for the bill.

A communication was also read from President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, calling for political activity on the part of the unions in behalf of the Democratic party.

• • •

An invitation was received from Chairman Andrew Nelson of the Democratic county committee, inviting the delegates to the Trades Assembly to be present at the armory on Wednesday evening to hear Governor Johnson speak. The communication stated that the big procession is to start from the Lenox hotel at 7:30 o'clock on Wednesday evening and march to the armory.

• • •

Delegate James Walsh announced on behalf of the co-operative store, which is being organized by Morris Kaplan, that there will be a meeting of those interested on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at Kalamazoo hall.

• • •

In a short speech James Kelly of Indianapolis, organizer of Interior Freight Handlers and Railroad Clerks, told of his mission in this city. He said that there are about 150 interior freight handlers and about 100 railway clerks in Duluth, who are eligible for membership in the new local he proposes to organize here. He stated that the freight handlers of Duluth were solid for organization and that he had also made good progress with the clerks. He told of the strength of this union in Chicago and the Twin Cities, and promised that he would endeavor to the best of his ability to give Duluth an organization of equal strength.

A meeting for the promotion of a Freight Handlers' and Railroad Clerks' local in Duluth will be held at Kalamazoo hall, 18 West Superior street, Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Mr. Kelley will address the meeting.

• • •

The following is the report of the different delegates last evening on the condition of their trades: Bakers, fair; carpenters, good; blacksmiths, fair; cigarmakers, dull; electrical workers, dull; freight handlers, fair; longshoremen, poor; leather workers, dull; machinists, fair; Typographical union, fair; painters, fair; sheet and metal workers, good; stationary engineers, good; Tugmen's Protective association, fair; team drivers, fair; tailors, good; plumbers, good; steamfitters, good, and cooks and waiters, slow. The reports of "trade is good" or "fair" are rapidly increasing in number.

• • •

The meeting last evening was not a large one. In the absence of President McDonald, Vice President Edward Blackwood took the chair. Mr. Harney was chosen temporary vice president.

RESIDENCE OF M. W. LEE ENTERED

Burglar Called Twice in One Day But is Unlucky.

One lone, bold, bad man gave two performances of "Raffles" at the home of M. W. Lee, the copper broker, at 29 West Fourth street, Thursday. A matinee and night performance were carried out as per schedule, but the best he got was—away.

The maid, hearing a noise upstairs in the afternoon, and knowing that the family was out, left her work in the basement to investigate. She bumped into a strange man in the hall. He said that he could not make anyone hear him at the door, asked when Mr. Lee would be home, apologized and left the house.

Knowing that the family, with the exception of two sons, had left the city, he came back at night, and was frightened away by them on their return from a dance.

Although the house has been carefully gone over, nothing has been found to be missing.

THIEF RIVER FALLS MAN WEDS WHITE EARTH WOMAN

White Earth, Minn., Oct. 10.—The marriage of Miss Florence Beaulieu, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Beaulieu, of this place, and Talmer Marcellens Dahl, Thief River, was solemnized Wednesday morning at 9 a. m., at Benedict's Mission church. The ceremony was conducted in keeping with the rites of the Roman Catholic church, Rev. Father Aloysius, officiating. The bride was attended by Miss Gertrude Labbett, of Detroit, and Francis Dorle Beaulieu, brother of the bride, was best man.

Owes Twin City Men.

Fergus Falls, Minn., Oct. 10.—Swan Grandskjolo, of Moorhead, filed a bankruptcy petition in the United States court in this city yesterday, placing his assets at $700, all exempt, and his liabilities at $4,824.35. His Twin City creditors are George Benz & Sons, Hart & Murphy, Koehler & Heinrichs, Charles Kartak, Conheim Bros. and A. Hirschman, of St. Paul, and J. W. Daily, the Peterson-Festen company, and the Napa Valley Wine company, of Minneapolis.

Grand Forks Valuation.

Grand Forks, N. D., Oct. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The total valuation of Grand Forks county figured from the returns of the state and county board is $12,029,100. The total valuation of Grand Forks city is $3,348,555.

The levy made for state and county is 17.6 mills, for Grand Forks city, all purposes, 25.6 mills, and for Grand Forks city schools, 16.7 mills, making a total levy of 59.9 mills. The total valuation of Grand Forks city school district is $3,349,925.

IS WRECKED MENTALLY

Former Tower Physician is Raving in Chicago Police Cell.

Dr. William Hutchinson Insane From the Use of Drugs.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—Dr. William Hutchinson, former physician for the Minnesota Iron company at Tower, Minn., but now a mental and physical wreck from the use of drugs, raved in a cell at the Harrison street police station yesterday.

Laboring under the hallucination that men were following him to do him bodily injury, he entered the station at 6:30 o'clock.

Three hours previously he had been at the station to report an alleged theft of a diamond ring at the Palmer house cafe. Detectives investigated and learned that he had left the ring in payment for a meal.

Fortune Gone, Says Wife.

When he returned to the station his extremely nervous condition was observed by the sergeant, who ordered him placed in a cell. There he was visited later in the evening by his wife, who is living temporarily at 527 Clarement avenue.

According to the wife's story, Dr. Hutchinson has squandered a fortune of $75,000 in the last five years.

"He is insane from the use of cocaine and morphine," declared the wife, "and I'm afraid he will kill himself or me, or both of us."

A few years ago Dr. Hutchinson was considered one of the most prominent men in the medical profession. He was the personal friend of Charlemagan Tower, former United States ambassador to Germany. As president of the Minnesota Iron company, Mr. Tower engaged Dr. Hutchinson as the company's physician, which position he held several years.

Five years ago Dr. Hutchinson retired from practice with $55,000. Two years later he married the divorced wife of Dr. Charles Gant, a Chicago dentist. They went to live at Prairie du Chien, Wis., but of late Dr. Hutchinson has been living with relatives at Sandwich, Ill.

WINTON SCHOOL NEARLY READY

Work Upon the New Building is Rapidly Approaching End.

Ely, Minn., Oct. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The work on the Winton school building is rapidly nearing completion. The contract for the building will probably be let to Albert Kolstad of this place, he being the only bidder. The St. Croix Lumber company has agreed to furnish the steam for the heating system, and the school board will install a boiler in the building that may be used in emergencies. A large new basement has been added to the school, having concrete walls, and a cement floor. The grounds have been filled three feet or fore and the building raised two feet and concrete walls put in under the entire building.

The manual training department of the high school is to be furnished with three new iron lathes and a back saw power machine at an early date. This will furnish sufficient work for the third year classes with the addition of some cabinet work. It was planned to install forges, and a planer and shaper, but the room is inadequate for the purposes. It is probable that the school board will make some changes at the high school by the opening of the next school year so that this forge may be installed.

GRAND RAPIDS AND BEMIDJI.

Rival Football Elevens to Settle Things at Bemidji Sunday.

Bemidji, Minn., Oct. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The football fans of Bemidji are taking great interest in the contest between the Company K eleven of this city and the Grand Rapids city team, which will be played on the local gridiron tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock.

These two teams met for the first time this season, at Grand Rapids, two weeks ago last Sunday, when neither gained supremacy, the score being, 0 to 0, at the end of the two strenuous halves of fierce playing.

The lineup of the company K team follows: Hillaby, le.; Getchell, lt.; Lucas, lg.; Edd, c.; Otto, rg.; Markham, rt.; Stewart, re.; Shook, qb.; Mantor, lhb.; Bowler, rhb, and Kelly, fb.

The Grand Rapids lineup follows: Johnson, le.; Hashey, lt.; Mulvehill, lg.; Zeninger, c.; LaFreniere, re.; Steffens, rt.; Patterson, rc., G. Meyers, qb.; McLachlan, lhb.; J. Meyers, rhb.; Waleen, fb. It is said that Roseth, who gained fame as fullback for the University of Wisconsin team, is coaching the high school team at Grand Rapids.

SMOKY AT AURORA.

Aurora, Minn., Oct. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Aurora is enveloped with smoke from forest fires again, but no fires are within twelve miles of here. The village's new hose cart, for hose house No. 2, and 1,000 feet of new hose has arrived.

BRAKEMAN LABONTY HURT.

Breaks Instep While Stepping From Engine at Allen Junction.

Aurora, Minn., Oct. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Labonty, a brakeman on a north bound Missabe oretrain, (T. E. McCarty, conductor,) had his instep broken at Allen Junction yesterday afternoon and was brought to Aurora for treatment.

The accident happened just after the engine had taken coal and water and was backing to the train. Labonty went to step off the footboard of the engine, but misjudged the distance, the footboard catching his heel and bending his foot. His partner, Fernal Rally, caught him as he was falling. Labonty was taken to his home at Two Harbors yesterday afternoon.

C. D. TROTT,
THE OPTICIAN,
has removed to 20 East Superior Street.

HAVE HEARING NEXT TUESDAY

Court to Look Into Charge Against Alleged Nassau Thieves.

Hibbing, Minn., Oct. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first dance of the Fifty club was given at Close's hall last evening. Heinie's orchestra furnished the music.

Jerry McCarthy and Robert Dunbar were arrested yesterday at the Nassau location on complaint of Thomas Maguire. It is alleged that the defendants have been stealing rubber boots, chemicals and brass fittings from the Nassau company to an amount of $500. Their hearing is set for Tuesday, Oct. 13, at 3 p. m.

Lemuel I. Baskins and A. D. Smith left yesterday for Green Rock for a hunting trip in that region.

Miss Bessie Sipero, who for the past year has made her home in Hibbing with her sister, Mrs. Max Rogalsky, departed this morning for New York city to remain indefinitely.

Neil Moynihan left for his home at Detroit yesterday morning for a two weeks' vacation. He will arrive there in time to see the first game between Chicago and Detroit for the world's championship.

Ed Eckstrom, bookkeeper for A. P. Silliman, mining engineer, left yesterday for a four days' hunting trip at Bengal.

INDIAN BOYS WANT GAME.

Football Eleven of Lake Vermilion School in Good Form.

Tower, Minn., Oct. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The football season is well on, and foremost among the range teams is that of the Vermilion Lake Indian school. The boys are training daily and give promise of putting up a successful game against any team on the range. They are all sturdy fellows, averaging about 150 pounds in weight and all enter right into the spirit of the game. Superintendent Dr. Rodwell will be glad to receive challenges from any team desiring a game.

FOR BRYAN AND JOHNSON.

Democrats of Itasca County Organize Fine Club.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Oct. 10.(Special to The Herald.)—Hhere assembled in the courthouse last night one of the largest, most enthusiastic and harmonious gatherings of Democrats ever gathered together in Itasca county, the occasion being the organization of a Bryan and Johnson club. The proceedings were enlivened with masterly addresses by local talent, the principal speech being by John B. Shanner, the homestead orator of the Big Fork valley. Mr. Shanner spoke for about one hour and his eloquent presentation of the issues in the campaign was punctuated by deafening applause.

The club starts out with 137 members. Not since Itasca county has been in existence have the Democratic possibilities been of such a hue and the unanimity of feeling of the audience augurs well for the success of the Democratic ticket on Nov. 3. A splendid set of officers were chosen: A. B. Clair, president; F. A. King, secretary; Frank Grant, treasurer.

VIRGINIA DEMOCRATS LAUGH.

Appointment of Ald. Boylan on Republican Committee a Joke.

Virginia, Minn., Oct. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The chairman of the Republican county committee has announced the committees for Virginia and among them is the name of Alderman Michael Boylan. This is considered quite a joke among Mr. Boylan's friends and acquaintances, as it is quite well known that Mr. Boylan is a Democrat and a strong one. Mr. Boylan is a great admirer of William Jennings Bryan and John A. Johnson.

VIRGINIA LUMBER MILL MAKING SAWING RECORD.

Virginia, Minn., Oct. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The new mill of the W. J. Bailey Lumber company closed down for a few hours yesterday, as the saws ran into a railroad spike, which was imbedded in a log.

The mill has been running quite smoothly since it started, some time ago, and recently made a record-breaking run of eight hours. The mill has a capacity of 50,000 feet per day, but on this occasion John Ahrens, who has the reputation of being one of the best sawyers in the northwest, cut 68,000 feet in a trifle over eight hours.

VIRGINIA PHYSICIAN TO MARRY TOLEDO WOMAN.

Virginia, Minn., Oct. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Cards are out announcing the approaching marriage of Dr. O. B. Wood, of this city, and Miss Anna Katherine Lorenz, which will take place at the home of the bride-elect's mother, Mrs. C. Mina Lorenz, 429 Chapin street, Toledo, Ohio, on the evening of Thursday, Oct. 15. Miss Lorenz formerly taught school here and Dr. Wood is a well known dentist of Virginia. They will be at home in this city after Dec. 1, and will occupy the new residence being erected by Dr. Wood, on Maple street.

Road Builders Transferred.

Tower, Minn., Oct. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The crew of men who who for the past couple of weeks were employed by the Vermilion Lumber company, cutting roads into their timber holdings, near Trout Lake, have been transferred to the Pike river district, where they will be similarly engaged. The company owns considerable timber in the latter place and will soon start their camps there.

New Virginia Poundmaster.

Virginia, Minn., Oct. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mayor Hawkinson has appointed J. P. Chalmers poundmaster to succeed H. J. Barvick, who resigned some time ago. The cattle have been very troublesome of late and the new poundmaster will make a strong effort to keep them from running at large and destroying the young trees and shrubbery which a number of residents have gone to so much pains and expense in setting out.

Gets Eveleth Contract.

Virginia, Minn., Oct. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—C. C. Butler, the well-known contractor of this city, has been awarded the contract to construct the Monroe street sewer at Eveleth. His bid was for $2,689. He will begin the work at once.

HAVE USE FOR MONEY

People of Chisholm Object to Refief Funds Going Elsewhere.

Will Protest Against Proposed Returning of Money Subscribed.

Chisholm, Minn., Oct. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The business men and the people generally of this city are organizing with a view to secure for the town a larger share of the relief funds. Specifically what they want is that none of the balance of the relief fund shall be returned to the donors or otherwise used, but that all of the money shall be spent in this town.

Their position is that the money has been given for their relief; they therefore propose to send a delegation to appear before the state relief commission and make their wants known.

Mayor Haven of Duluth, chairman of the commission, was here yesterday. The awards, according to the present plans of the commission, have all been made, and Eugene T. Lies, secretary of the Associated Charities of Minneapolis, who has been in charge of the work in this city, has concluded his labors and returned to Minneapolis.

Mayor Haven stated that the commission has on hand in round numbers $50,000. There are subscriptions raised in the Twin Cities and other places which may probably amount to from $50,000 to $60,000 more.

The scene in this city is one of the greatest animation. Dozens of buildings are going up in every block. The grade of Lake street, the main business street, has been raised several feet, and the ground which is being taken from excavations is dumped in the street. Lumber, brick and other building material is piled in the street, and some of the temporary shacks encroach upon the street, so that the main business street of the town is today an almost impassable thoroughfare.

Stores are doing business under the most modest roofs, and the character of the business done is announced by painted cloth signs. Workmen are busy upon excavation, foundation or walls on almost every twenty-five feet on Lake street, and the scene is one of the greatest confusion.

The new Chisholm will be bigger, better and handsomer than the old.

CARELESS ONES STARTED FIRE

Brush Fires Again Burning in the Knife River Valley.

Two Harbors, Minn., Oct. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—A number of brush fires are burning in the Knife River valley, just north of the county road, this week, presumably by settlers.

While no danger is apprehended, the woods are still very dry and such fires easily get beyond control, with any wind. The fires mentioned were not brush piles in clearing, but mostly the brush at the edge of some clearings and spread into the timber.

THIRTY-NINE ORE TRAINS

Were Run Out of Two Harbors on Friday.

Two Harbors, Minn., Oct. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ore business has taken a sudden spurt the past few days, on account of a rush of boats, and things are looking better. There are twenty-nine crews engaged in the ore service, and yesterday thirty-nine ore train were run out, being one of the best days of the season.

Owing to the increase of shipments from the Ely mines, an additional crew has been sent to Ely, to assist in handling the ore from there to Tower Junction. One additional switch engine and crew have also been put on there.

Stomach Gases and Torpid Livers

Give Way Before the Peculiar Purifying Power of Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges.

A Trial Package Sent Free.

The foul gases of the stomach and the torpid action of the liver are easy victims for charcoal to overcome.

This great natural cleaner and absorbent will most certainly be relished by a system afflicted with gaseous or sluggish tendencies.

Charcoal has long been known as a great absorbent of gas. A panful of charcoal will positively purify a room filled with foul odors and decay. Its absorbing ratio is one hundred times greater than its own volume.

The ancients gave charcoal for many human ills successfully. The North American Indians used it for snake bite, poison from eating wild herbs and cured what they called "stomach bad medicine" with it.

Willow charcoal seems to be the best product for human use, and no doubt the peculiar curative property of the willow is represented in a chemical quality in its charcoal.

Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges are pure willow and sweet honey blended by tremendous power and compression into a very palatable lozenge. Two or three lozenges eaten after meals will prevent the process of digestion from producing noxious gases. They will vivify a lazy liver and aid every organ which is most likely to be overcome through its contact with impurities.

They cleanse the stomach and intestines, bring purity and sweetness out of fermentation and decay and aid digestion by allaying gas. The beneficial effects are made evident after each meal when you use charcoal as Stuart prepares it. To allay gas at night they are excellent and one arises in the morning without that terrible nauseating bad breath which destroys appetite and renders one miserable.

All druggists sell Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges, price twenty-five cents, or send us your name and address and we will send you a trial package by mail free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 200 Stuart Bldg., Marshall Mich.

CURRENT VIRGINIA EVENTS.

Happenings of Local Interest in the Range City.

Miss Louise Hicks returned last evening from a visit with Duluth friends.

Mrs. Marcus L. Fay of Duluth is a guest at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. J. Schulze.

Mrs. Austin, wife of Representative Joseph Austin of Chisholm, who has been quite ill at the home of John Costin, Jr., in this city, since the fire at Chisholm, is reported much better.

Hon. Clarence B. Miller of Duluth was a business visitor in the city this week.

FIRST NATIONAL SOLD.

That is Rumor Concerning Future of Chisholm Bank.

Chisholm, Minn., Oct. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Although it has not been made public, it is reported that the First National bank has been sold to the Merchant's and Miner's State bank of this place. S. R. Kirby is president, and M. Pratt, cashier, of the Merchant's and Miners' state bank.

The Duluth Corrugating and Roofing company have started a branch in Chisholm.

At the last council meeting, held Tuesday, it was decided to pay the firemen $1 an hour for every hour they fought forest fires after the Chisholm fire, which occurred Sept. 5.

EVELETH NOT DIRECTLY CHARGING CITY INTEREST.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—From last night's Herald's dispatch regarding city money deposited in the Miners' National bank, it might be inferred that the bank is really charging interest on any overdrawing of a city's fund. The facts in the matter, as they were not so brought out in the council meeting Tuesday, are that when the city has to overdraw on any fund they issue interest bearing orders and as this can be cashed any place, and they will bring interest, therefore the bank is not directly charging interest as is inferred by the article last night.

MAYOR HAVEN INSPECTS CHISHOLM RELIEF WORK.

Chisholm, Minn., Oct. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mayor R. D. Haven of Duluth spent a day in Chisholm this week, looking over the relief work done by the local committee.

P. E. Dowling of Eveleth was over Wednesday, looking over the erection of the cement building he is erecting in this town.

H. Cohn of Ashland, Wis., attended to business matters in this town Friday.

P. Gordon, a contractor from Duluth, arrived yesterday to build shacks and buildings for several parties in town.

The first fourteen houses to be built by the relief committee were started on today, and others will be built as soon as these are finished. There are forty carpenters in the employ of the committee.

Improving County Road.

Two Harbors, Minn., Oct. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The township supervisors have put a force of men to work making needed improvements to the county road west of the Beckman farm and leading to the Tucker river settlement. No money has been expended for repairs to this road for several years, but the increasing traffic now demands it.

EVELETH PLAYING ELY.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Eveleth high school team is today playing at Ely, and expect a very close game. Last Saturday Ely was defeated by Virginia by a score of 11 to 10. The local team has been practising hard the past two weeks under Coach John Shoemaker. They have some new plays up their sleeves which they will spring this afternoon. On account of the burning of the high school, the football players have been at an inconvenience, and now have only a few lockers that have recently been built. During the next week some new lockers will be built for all the players. The lineup for the local team this afternoon is as follows: Center, Aweny; guards, Williams, Spreitzer; tackles, Floyd, Bayless; ends, Stevens, Andrews; quarter, Sharpe; halves, Wilk Vanderboone; full, Pryor.

TWO HARBORS BRIEFS.

Two Harbors, Minn., Oct. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. E. St. Cyr has accepted a position as clerk at the local Duluth & Iron Range general office, vice E. Evans transferred to the dock office.

The work of putting on and adjusting the spouts at new ore dock No. 6 is being pushed and the structure will soon be ready for use.

Fireman James Madden, who had his hip broken December last and who has been unable to work since has been awarded $1,500 by the B of L. F. & E. organization.

William O'Rourke harvested about 1,000 bushels of potatoes from his homestead near Brimson this year and is finding a ready market for them at 70 cents per bushel f. o. b. cars there.

GRANT AVENUE, EVELETH, TO BE PAVED NEXT YEAR.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—If plans do not fall through, Grant avenue will be paved next summer. In the levy for next year there is some money needed for a circulating or revolving fund. With the $15,000 or part of it, thus secured, the city will have enough money to put in a good paved main street, something that has been needed, and had been asked for for some time. With the money to be secured from the levy the paving will certainly go through. On account of Mayor Smith being in North Dakota this week, the contract for the sewer work, which was finally awarded to Butler Bros., of Virginia, cannot be officially approved, but it will be as soon as Mayor Smith gets back.

VIRGINIA FIREMEN SAVE SALOON FROM BURNING.

Virginia, Minn., Oct. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—But for the prompt action of the fire department, the saloon of David Jamme might have gone up in smoke yesterday. A gasoline stove exploded and the walls about it were a mass of flames, but the fire boys put it out in short order.

the United States has no direct interest. Two years ago the United States was a party to the European conference at Algeciras when questions affecting Morocco were settled, but in acquiescing in the conclusions this government did so with reservation, expressly stipulating that it had no political interests in that part of the world. Hence, how the government would view an invitation to engage in a conference to pass on the Balkan question is problematical, although American missionary interests in Turkey are considerable, and the safeguarding of these and the affording of protection to naturalized Americans there would be the duty of this country.

Russia Will Not Oppose.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 10.—Russia has decided not to oppose the annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina by Austria-Hungary. Without in any way approving the action of Baron von Aehrenthal, Austro-Hungarian minister of foreign affairs, she will bow to the accomplished fact, and her answer in this sense was delivered to Count Berchthold, Austrian ambassador here, today.

The Russian Black sea fleet was mobilized sometime ago for the regular autumn maneuvers. Special orders will not be necessary to prepare for an eventuality, but occasion for the employment of the fleet is foreseen here, bringing up to date the equipment and mechanical devices of the larger vessels, but this was ordered before the present Balkan crisis developed.

Look Under It

Did you ever turn over a big flat stone and watch the pale bugs and worms with a fringe of legs down each side, scurry to hide from the sunlight?

How these little wriggiers hate the man who exposes them.

Do you ever feel an antipathy towards these squirmers that remind you of the lickspittle prostitution of some politicians.

A little further along we lift a stone and give the people a square look before the crawlers can slink out of the sunlight.

You will perhaps remember the one big question before the two National conventions to nominate Presidential candidates was the anti-injunction question. It vitally affects the liberties of the common people vs. the Labor Trust.

At the Republican Convention the machine managers after a trade with the managers of the Labor Trust presented a plank calling for anti-injunction legislation.

Anti-Injunction.

What does anti-injunction mean?

It means the enactment of new laws to prevent the people's courts from issuing any order to stop men, known to be intending to assault workmen or destroy property. In other words tie the hands of the courts and not allow them to protect persons or property.

But the honest members of the Convention at Chicago hooted down this attack on our courts and refused to insert such a plank in the platform, asserting in place of it, confidence in the integrity of our courts and demanding that their present power to protect the citizens be maintained, that was the basis of the plank adopted.

Who Managed.

It was said the National Association of Manufacturers brought about this result. But that is not strictly true.

The National Council for Industrial Defense represented by its counsel the Secretary of the National Citizens' Industrial Association, James A. Emery, was in charge of the work of protection and allied with it were 138 National and local associations of various kinds including the Manufacturers.

This was the work of the great thinking, working masses of men who do things and try to keep the industries of America busy and over 20 thousand telegrams came in one day to the delegates at the Republican Convention, pleading for indorsement of our courts and denouncing the attempts of intending law breakers, to force upon the people laws which would allow the sluggers and dynamiters of the Labor Trust to do their acts immune from punishment.

Failing in their attempted impudence, the leaders of the Labor Trust took their dolls and went out to Denver.

There the noted 16 to 1 trimmer supported by the discontented, from the Black Hand up, met them with the invitation to draw up any terms just so they would "deliver the labor vote."

The deal was made under which, if elected, the Democratic President is to advocate measures in the interests of the huge Labor Trust, by tying the hands of the courts and obstructing their acts when attempting to protect persons and property of the common citizens.

Penny Arcade Talk.

Now we hear in the graphophones in penny arcades a speech of this candidate, including in sonorous tones: "Why should the poor workman be denied the sacred right of a trial by jury for his alleged crime." A white man gets a sickish feeling when he sees such a deliberate attempt to suck sympathy by the most infernal deceit.

What brought up the subject was a demand by the Labor Trust leaders that their lawbreakers, sluggers and dynamiters, when they disobey the orders of the court and do these acts, be tried for contempt of that court by a jury instead of being sentenced by the court itself for contempt of its orders.

In that plan the Trust leaders hope to make it easy for their workers to do these acts and escape by a packed or frightened jury.

But mark you the clean-cut distinction and here we lift the stone and put sunlight on the hidden, bleached squirmers and show how they try to misinform the public to gain sympathy and play upon the emotions of the uninformed.

Under the present law every criminal has a right to trial for his crime by a jury.

The paid slugger of the "entertainment committee" of a labor union always has a jury trial for maiming or killing another workman, or for blowing up property. He is tried by a law court and a jury. Notice therefore the hypocrisy in the maudlin appeal of Bryan and other wilful perverters of fact when they say "why should the workingman be denied the sacred right of trial by jury for his alleged crime?" A man who commits a crime against the people, whether he has smut on his nose and poses as a martyred "workingman" or has his finger nails manicured and is a member of a capital trust, is always tried by a jury. Never is the criminal tried for his crime by the Equity Court which issues an injunction ordering him not to commit it. If he goes on and does the act in spite of the court's orders not to, when that court simply orders him "not to," until the court can enquire into his right to do the act he intends, then in the event he wilfully disobeys the court's order, he is held "in contempt" and is punished not for the crime, (which must be tried by the jury in a law court), but for disobedience of the court's orders.

Anyone Could "Order."

If an Equity court was stripped of its power to punish a criminal for refusing to obey the court's order to not commit the act until the court could investigate, then a street arab could as well issue the order and he would have as much power to enforce that order.

The courts established by the people must be supported by the people and empowered to protect the people else they had as well be dissolved. Notice now the thought line running through all this Labor Trust movement against the courts. It reads plain enough. Every move is directed towards weakening the courts and therefore lessening the possibility of punishment of the paid sluggers and dynamiters, in order that the propaganda of terror and tyranny can be more safely carried on.

Patriotic Union Men.

Don't think this is approved by all Union men. Thousands of them are citizens of the best quality, but they are in bad company and are most arbitrarily ruled by the managers in power. These peaceable members look forward to the time when the boycott, strike, picketing, fighting, spoiling machinery, cutting harness, stopping funerals, blowing up workmen and horses, hate of the most intense kind, slugging and murder will stop and the present managers who lie about their "peaceful" intentions while winking at and supporting the crimes will be replaced by honest leaders who will conduct the affairs of honest workingmen in an honest and lawful manner not prejudicial to the rights of the common people. When labor contracts will be made like other contracts without coercion, threats or violence, when a builder can safely agree upon the price of brick, lumber, glass, iron and labor in his building, and the manufacturer can safely agree to sell his machines or other products in this or foreign countries based upon a certain ano given cost for material and labor, without danger of ruin by violence and destruction of his plant, and when communities of citizens can depend upon the steady running of the industrial establishments upon which such communities depend for daily living. Then, and only then, will this "labor warfare" cease and the tremendous cost and harm to the common man be done away with. Until that time it is manifestly the interest of every man not an interested parteipator in the profits of the Labor Trust (and the common citizens outnumber the others 40 to 1), to work and vote against every move of the Labor Trust to gain more power over the citizens. That allowed, liberty of the common people will disappear. It is time for the citizen to protect himself at the polls. He can only do so by putting down every class either of capital or labor seeking control of the affairs of the public.

In this campaign the Combination Democratic Labor Trust party promise special privilege and immunity from law to the Labor Trust members when they try to ride over the citizens; the Republican platform promises the upholding of the People's Courts and protection for all the people. I am neither Democrat nor Republican, but only speak a word for the common people.

There's a Reason.

C. W. POST, Battle Creek, Mich.

N. B.—Let the reader remember that I am in favor of Trade Unions and these plain statements are printed with the hope that the impudent lawless "men of violent tendencies" will be replaced by careful, honest, law respecting managers who will rescue the sacred name of Labor from the odium the present managers have too often put upon it. Until that time citizens must be alert to protect themselves and their affairs.

GAME TRADE IS ACTIVE

Partridges Being Shot by Pot-Hunters and Sold in Duluth.

Complain of Scarcity of Game Caused by Law-Breakers.

Pot-hunters are spoiling partridge hunting around Duluth, according to many hunters, who have been in the woods the past week.

They are rapidly exterminating this species of the feathered tribe, and Duluth sportsmen are up in arms against the tactics used by these men to rid the country of its game.

Partridges, prairie chickens, ducks, and all kinds of wild game bring fancy prices, and the trade is said to flourish in this city. The regulation price for a partridge is $1.

Various are the methods by which the birds are brought to town. Trunks are used a great deal as are packing boxes with false bottoms. Farmers send them in bags filled with vegetables, and in every imaginable way the birds reach the city and are the source of much profit to those who are engaged in the trade.

It is said that there are several well known cafes, which are engaged in the trade of selling game at all times of the year, fish in the spring and summer, game in the fall, and venison in the winter. These clubs arrange with pot-hunters and farmers for the game, and contracts are even made for the furnishing of a certain number of birds a week.

The trade is flourishing, and the north woods once so noted for its great abundance of game of all kinds, is fast being stripped of that, which was once so plentiful.

The county auditor has up to date issued 320 hunting licenses, but as a great many of these come back empty-handed, and in a great number of cases they only go into the woods for a vacation, it is not from this source that the game is suffering.

Partridges were fairly abundant at the opening of the season, but those who have just returned from trips say that they are both very scarce and very wild.

MAIL GOES DIRECT.

Commercial Club Receives Assurances of Better Canadian Service.

Secretary Eva of the Commercial club has received assurance from the Canadian government that the improved mail service between this city and the American towns west of Ranier will be installed by Nov 2. The Commercial club took up the matter with the United States Postal department, which in turn took it up with the Dominion government.

At the present time mail to Baudette, Roosevelt and Warroad is taken first to Winipeg and then remailed from there. Under the new arrangement it will go direct to the American towns, being carried over the Canadian Northern railway, from its intersection with the Duluth, Rainy Lake & Winnipeg, at Fort Frances.

COMMITTEES HAVE BANQUET

Y. M. C. A. Boys Plan Work for the Winter Months.

The committees in charge of the work of the Boys department of the Y. M. C. A. gathered at the department last night to talk over the plans for the year. Dinner was served at the association building, after which Oscar Mitchell and Norman D. McLeod, secretary of the department, spoke. Each branch of the work is in the hands of a committee and the gathering last night was for the laying out of general plans, the details of which will be in the hands of the respective committees.

PILES CURED IN 6 TO 14 DAYS.

PAZO OINTMENT is guaranteed to cure any case of Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles in 6 to 14 days or money refunded. 50c.

AMERICA IS SAFE IN PORT

Goes to Shipyard for Repairs to Her Rudder.

The steamer America arrived in port this morning, and went at once to the shipyards, where she will have her rudder straightened, and a new shoe put on. The boat is not damaged to any extent, and it is likely that she will go back on her old north shore run Monday.

BOAT CLUB STILL OPEN.

Dance at Main House and Launch Trip to Branch.

The season for the Boat club activities has taken on a new lease of life and there is much injoyment at the various branches of the club during these autumn days. This evening the dancing party at the main house will be one of the largely attended and much enjoyed affairs. Tomorrow the club launch will leave the Fifth avenue dock at 10 o'clock in the morning for the accommodation of those who desire to go to the Spirit Lake club house, making the return trip in the evening.

The Care of the Hair.

Every woman and every man desires beautiful hair. And everyone may have it if they will but give it proper care and attention.

The first and all important step toward the prevention of baldness and grayness, and toward promoting a luxuriant growth of fine, silken hair, is to keep the scalp sweet and clean and free from dandruff.

All kinds of advice have, from time to time, been offered for the removal of dandruff, and for the promotion of hair growth; some bad, some good.

There is, however, one safe, sure and economical way. That is, to use Harfina Soap, Medicated, and Hay's Hairhealth.

Harfina Soap is absolutely the purest and most satisfactory soap made for every purpose of the bath, toilet, nursery, complexion and hair. It is highly medicated, deodorizing, antiseptic, germicidal and delightfully fragrant. "A Breath of Pine Balsam in every cake."

Harfina cleanses the scalp, stops itching and all irritation. Destroys all disease parasites and is the only soap that should be used in connection with Hay's Hairhealth.

Hay's Hairhealth "Keeps You Looking Young." It positively removes dandruff and always restores gray and faded hair to its youthful color and beauty, no matter how long it has been gray or faded or what it soriginal color.

It is not a dye, promotes a fine growth of luxuriant hair when all other remedies fail. Is not greasy or sticky, and does not soil skin or linen.

You can get large 25c cakes of Harfina Soap and $1.00 and 50c bottles of Hay's Hairhealth of any druggist, or they will be sent, prepaid, on receipt of price by Philo Hay Specialties Co., 30-32 Clinton street, Newark, N. J.

THE TWO IDOLS.

"Mrs. Courtenay Bennett, our British consul's brilliant wife, imputes our last panic to the extravagance of American wives," said a New York reporter.

"Mrs. Bennett told me that she thought American women were far worse than American men—that the men were not excessive at all—in their love of money.

"She said with a smile that, so far as our women at least were concerned, that Shanghai museum curator had not been very wrong when he labeled a Buddha 'Heathen Idol' and a silver dollar 'Christian Idol.'"

WOULD QUASH INDICTMENT

Attorney Claims Kalman Light Should be Given His Freedom.

M. H. McMahon, attorney for Kalman Light, the West Duluth man accused of arson in the second degree in setting fire to his store, has not lost hope of quashing the indictment on which Light is being tried. An effort will be made to secure a definite decision from Judge Cant before the case is given into the hands of the jury.

Mr. McMahon contends that the indictment is faulty, in that it charges Light with setting fire to an uninhabited building, endangering the lives of people living in an adjoining building. He contends that the fact that people lived upstairs in the building, in which the store was located, makes the indictment faulty, even if there was no direct connection between the store and the apartments upstairs.

The contention was argued before Judge Cant yesterday and the case was allowed to go on under Mr. McMahon's exception. Before the case goes to the pjury another effort will be made to secure a ruling from the court and have the indictment knocked out.

WILL CELEBRATE.

Commercial Club Members Pleased Over Extension of Boulevard Drive.

To make arrangements for an appropriate celebration of the completion of the boulevard west from Lincoln park to the head of Fifty-ninth avenue west, a committee, consisting of W. B. Getchell, F. W. Jolitz, J. J. Frey, George E. Markus and P. H. Martin, was appointed last evening at the meeting of the West Duluth Commercial club.

This committee is to formulate a plan by which the club's appreciation of the new park driveway, may be fittingly shown. They are to wait on the members of the park board at their meeting on Monday, so as to learn what sort of a demonstration will be convenient.

The extension of the boulevard had added greatly to the beauty of that famous drive. It has made possible a better view of the St. Louis river, Spirit lake and Spirit Island, and of the many places of interest to tourists and residents alike, such as the manufacturing plants and mills of the western portion of the city.

A smoker and social evening had been planned for the meeting last evening, but upon the announcement that the work of the boulevard had been finished, the plans for the evening were changed and the attention of the members turned to the discussion of the important improvement and their satisfaction over it. They also drew up the following set of resolutions:

Whereas, the boulevard roadway from Fifteenth avenue east to Twenty-fifth avenue west was acquired and improved in the early history of Duluth at a cost of about $190,000, which is now a part of the bonded debt of this city, and this club is informed that the present park board extended the boulevard drive from its former westerly terminus to the old cemetery road back of West Dulues, a distance of about one-half the length of the old driveway, at a cost for both the land and improvment thereof of about $4,099.

"Therefore, in the opinion of this club, the thanks of the people of this city are due to the members of the park board for their wise and econmical management of this work. And we hereby call upon the people of the city to show their appreciation of what has been done by a personal examination and inspection of the new boulevard extension."

Evangelistic Meetings.

Rev. A. Ledman of Minneapolis, Rev. O. Johnson of Brainerd, and Rev. P. Sjodhl of Paris, Minn., will speak at a series of evangelistic meetings to be held at the Swedish Mission church, Fifty-ninth avenue west and Green street. The meetings will take place tonight at 8 o'clock, Sunday morning at 10 o'clock, afternoon at 3 o'clock, and in the evening again at 8 o'clock. There will also be services at 8 o'clock on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

Tour State in Auto.

After a month of touring the state in their automobile, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Nygren of 232 North Central avenue, returned home yesterday. Mr. Nygren says that the roads are in excellent condition, as there has been little rain for some time. On the road they stopped at St. Paul, Minneapolis, Fergus Falls and many smaller towns. At Stillwater they made a visit of some length with friends.

Hear Motion in Film Case.

H. H. Phelps, attorney for the Toledo Film Exchange company, argued before Judge Cant in district court this morning for an order allowing the company to intervene in the case of Charles Ellison vs. John J. Frey. Ellison sues Frey for $500 for alleged conversion of three reels of moving picture films. The Toledo company claims the films are its property and were merely loaned to Ellison. The attorney for Ellison offered objections to the intervention, claiming that the Toledo company is at liberty to bring separate action against Frey, as Ellison's suit is for conversion, which does not bring the films into court and under direction of the court.

West Duluth Churches.

At the Holy Apostle's church, Fifty-seventh avenue west and Elinor street, there will be Holy Communion and sermon at 10:45 o'clock in the morning, with Sunday school immediately following the service. The rector, Rev. Roderick J. Mooney, will preach on the subject: "In the Face of the Present, What Is My Duty?"

• • •

At the Plymouth Congregational church, Fifty-fourth avenue and Bristol street, there will be service at 10:30 o'clock, with a sermon by Pastor J. A. Lumley, on the subject: "The Christian Race." Sunday school will meet at 12 o'clock and the Young People's society of Christian Endeavor in the church chapel at 6:45 o'clock.

• • •

At the Third Swedish Baptist church, Fifty-ninth avenue west and Ramsey street, morning service will be held at 10:30 o'clock and evening service at 7:30 o'clock. The Sunday school will meet at 12 o'clock, and Young People's society at 5 o'clock in the afternoon. The choir, assisted by Mrs. Gideon Nylander, will sing at the evening service.

• • •

At the Westminster Presbyterian church, W. J. Lowrie, pastor, will conduct services at 10:30 and at 7:30 p. m. The subject of the morning service will be: "Christ's Invitaion to Men." Mrs. Bailey will sing. In the evening the sermon will be on the subject: "Grace and Place."

West Duluth Briefs.

N. C. Hendrick and family left this morning for Portland, Or., where they will make their future home.

Robert H. Rose, special state agent of the Springfield Fire & Marine Insurance company, was in West Duluth this morning on his way back from Chisholm to Minneapolis.

Joseph J. Adriham returned to West Duluth from a trip to Tower and Ely this morning.

The West Duluth Badger football team issues a challenge to any team in the city of an average weight of 110 pounds to meet them and Saturday. Communications to be addressed to James McIsaac, Fifty-ninth avenue west.

Dr. D. E. Seashore of 702 North Fifty-seventh avenue west is spending a few days in Minneapolis.

The funeral of Mrs. Frank Johnson was held this afternoon from the residence, 305 West Third street, at 1 o'clock, and from the Bethany Swedish Lutheran church, Twenty-third avenue west and Third street, at 1:45 o'clock. The interment was at the Hermantown cemetery.

Mrs. John A. Richardson of 4102 West Fourth street has returned from Goderich, Ont., where she visited.

Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Warde of Chisholm, who have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Richter of 425 North Central avenue, left this morning for Iron Mountain, Mich.

Miss Alvina Violet of Cromwell, Minn., who has been the guest of Miss Maud Wallace of 135 Sixtieth avenue west, has returned to her home.

Rev. C. W. Schevenins, who has just taken charge of the Second Norweglan Methodist church in West Duluth, will preach his first sermons tomorrow morning and evening.

Watch repairing. Hurst, West Duluth.

A Skin Healer and Beautifier.

A scratch or a small cut is only one of the small ills of life, and a pimple or blackhead is but a trifling disfigurement; yet everyone at times has occasion to wish for a quick and simple treatment for these minor annoyances. The prompt results achieved in such cases by Dr. T. Felix Gouraud's Oriental Cream will prove to the most skeptical the healing and purifying virtues of this preparation, and go far toward establishing faith and confidence in its claims to be an unrivalled skin purifier and beautifier for use, not only in emergencies, but as an article of the daily toilet. ## NOT GUILTY.

George Brown and James Jago Did Not Steal Doors.

George Brown and James Jago, arrested Wednesday on the charge of stealing grain doors from cars in the local yards, were found not guilty in municipal court before Judge Cutting, and were discharged from custody.

The Northern Pacific railroad has been greatly bothered this fall by thefts of its grain doors, worth about $1 each, and recently special detectives have been devoting their attention to the matter, in an attempt to catch the offenders. Brown and Jago were suspected, and their arrest followed, but they were found innocent of the charge. Detectives are still on the watch, and hope to yet catch the real offenders.

There will be a special meeting for all Rebekahs at Odd Fellows' hall, Lake avenue North, at 3 p. m. Monday to make arrangements for the postponed district meeting.

DODGES THE ISSUE.

Saloonkeeper is for "The Right Man" for President.

Patrons of a well known Superior street refreshment parlor, which deals largely in the famous brew of another city, are noticing a large banner displayed in a conspicious place across the rear of the establishment bearing this legend which the proprietor of the establishment says he conveived and had painted in flaming letters:

"The American people always elect the right man at the right time for their president."

Patrons declare this is a non-partisan statement that none can dispute and none take offense at, but just who the author of this truism considers the "right man," is not shown on the banner.

Hunt's Perfect Extracts and Baking Powder are preferred by good cooks who know a good thing when they see it.

A QUEER CHASE.

Dr. John Duncan Quackenbos, New York's authority on hypnotism, was discussing, at his beautiful New Hampshire estate on Lake Sunapee, the absurdity of dreams.

"You must have noticed," said Dr. Quackenbos, "the absurd, the causeless terror that a dream will sometimes give you.

"I know a man who, still but half-awake, ran into his wife's room in the middle of the night, all shaken with fear, all wet with the cold sweat of an overpowering terror.

"'Oh, he moaned, 'I have had such a dreadful dream. I've been chased round and round my room for hours and hours by a piece of blotting paper.'"

PROCTOR'S RETORT.

The late Senator Hoar of Massachusetts was one of the most benevolent-looking old gentlemen who ever sat in congress, but he said pretty nasty things now and then in debate.

"Why," he exclaimed one day, "no man in Vermont is allowed to vote unless he has beaten Massachusetts people out of $5,000 trading horses."

"And we all vote," bellowed Senator Proctor of Vermont.

NEXT YEAR'S CONFERENCE OF M. E. CHURCH IN DULUTH

District Superintendent Clemans and Two Local Ministers Carry Point.

Great Growth of Church Set Forth in Interesting Reports.

Litchfield, Minn., Oct. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Methodist Episcopal conference decided to meet at the Endion church in Duluth next year. Revs. W. J. Powell, S. M. Rice and District Superintendent E. C. Clemans of Duluth pleaded successfully for next year's meeting.

Rev. E. A. Cook, statistical secretary, read his report. There are in the Northern Minnesota conference 18,245 members, an increase of 760. There are increases in the value of church property valued as follows: On Brainerd district, $3,056; Crookston, $2,277; Duluth, $3,252; Litchfield, $3,752; Minneapolis, $5,907. The total value of the church property now is: Brainerd district, $160,600; Crookston, $68,199; Duluth, $176,567; Minneapolis, $755,100.

There are 239 churches, 103 parsonages with an increased value of $109,025. There are eleven more Sunday schools, thirty-five officers and teachers and 1,555 pupils.

The salaries have increased $18,493. The salaries of the bishop, pastors and conference claimants of $15,620, conference claimants collections amounted to $3,550, an increase of $256.

Treasurer Nobb's Report.

The conference treasurer, Henry Nobbs, reported collections as follows: For foreign missions, $7,368; home missions, $5,179, an increase of $1,594. Freedmans' aid, $1,187, an increase of $150; Hamline, $1,851, an increase of $507; Woman's Foreign Missionary society, $6,896, an increase of $893; home missions, $4,018, an increase of $716; other benevolences, $10,142, an increase of $6,694; conference claimants, $5,081, an increase of 394. There is also increase on the episcopacy fund.

Bishop Wilson received into full connection, Joseph Marten, Frank K. Pequette, Jaiman Kitonen and M. O. Dean.

The following are to be ordained deacons on Sunday, Frederick A. Turner, David L. Clark, F. G. Galbraith Henry D. Green, W. A. Rice, Alexander Abbott, Hiram P. Long, Oris Siever, John Kitonen, L. W. Lightfoot, H. G. Galbraith, T. A. Stafford, Ralph Pearce, and as elders, Robert G. Greene, C. P. Keast.

Bishop Wilson, speaking to the conference, said the time was coming when the golden rule would reign instead of gold. Rich men often had hearts of gold, socially and the world had no automatic power of salvation from evil. The conference will adjourn on Monday. The appointments will be read on Monday noon.

DEATH ENDS SUFFERING

Miss Annie Gould Dies a Week After Taking Poison.

Her Attempt at Suicide Finally Proves to be Successful.

Miss Annie Gould, 21 years of age, died at St. Mary's hospital this afternoon, as the result of poison taken with suicidal intent last Sunday morning, while she was the occupant of a disorderly house on St. Croix avenue.

No word has been received from the girl's relatives, who are said to be very respectable people of Terra Haute, Ind. An effort is being made to locate them. She refused persistently to give the address of her family, saying she would prefer that they did not know of her whereabouts or condition.

Miss Gould had not been in Duluth very long. She came here with a young woman friend, and the two of them became occupants of one of the St. Croix avenue disorderly houses. She seemed to be in cheerful enough spirits, and no indication of her intention was apparent until just before she attempted suicide.

Saturday afternoon, with the woman friend who came to Duluth with her, she went to the horse races. Afterwards they returned to the house, and it is said Miss Gould drank a good deal during the night. Early in the morning, she ran to her room, calling to her friend that she was going to commit suicide. Before she could be prevented, she swallowed the contents of a bottle of bichloride of mercury, and immediately afterwards became violently ill.

She was taken to St. Mary's hospital, and her condition was found to be critical. While there had been some slight hopes of her recovery, the chances have been against her all the week. Shortly after she took the poison she repented her rash act, and begged of her friends and attending physicians to save her.

NO DANGER FROM FIRE

Residents of Kelsey Had Scare on Friday Afternoon.

Flames Are Checked by Bucket Brigade of Citizens.

There was a forest fire scare at Kelsey on the line of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern yesterday, but little damage was done by the blaze.

Passengers on the afternoon train to the city ran through blazing underbrush for some distance, and the smoke was almost suffocating at times.

At Kelsey a bucket brigade was formed and the flames were held in check.

There was also a small fire at Davis, on the line of the Missabe road, but it was held in check.

It was stated this morning by Superintendent Kreitter of the Missabe road that the conditions were not serious.

"The woods are getting pretty dry again," he said, "and it may be necessary to order out our fire-fighting train again tomorrow or Monday. If the strong wind keeps up, but the situation is not alarming today."

A POLICEMAN'S LOT

May be a Happy One After All.

An Illinois ex-chief of police found an easy and safe way out of the ills caused by coffee. He says:

"I suffered intensely from heart trouble and nervousness for five years, and though treated by some of the best physicians in the city, did not get permanent relief until I changed from coffee to Postum.

"A friend of my family was visiting at our house, and seeing my condition, insisted that coffee was at the bottom of my trouble. I confess I was skeptical but promised to try Postum in place of coffee.

"It was nearly three weeks before I noticed much of any change, as my case was a bad one. Then I saw that my nervousness was gradually disappearing. A little later I was able to sleep a part of the night on my left side, something I had not been able to do for five years at least.

"I kept on using Postum, and the result is, so far as heart trouble and nervousness are concerned, I am a well man.

"The best proof is that I am writing this with my own hand, a thing I was unable to do for several years prior to the change from coffee to Postum."

"There's a Reason."

Gathering Sugar Beets.

Chaska, Minn., Oct. 10.—The sugar beet harvest is on and the beets are coming in fast. The yield is not large, but the quality is good, and there will be as much sugar as if the beets were large. The run this year will last about six weeks. The bricklayers will shut down soon, and the men will all work at the sugar factory.

MINNESOTA UNIVERSITY

W. W. Norton Chosen President at the Senior Academic Election.

"Al" Dutch is Made the Rooter King and a Badge Adopted.

Minneapolis, Oct. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Amid much excitement, the much talked of senior academic election was pulled off last Saturday afternoon. The most strenuous contest was that for president, between W. W. Norton and Zenas Potter, the vote resulting in favor of Mr. Norton, 56 to 54. The excitement had reigned for over a week before the election, for both men are exceedingly popular and capable, but Potter's presidency during the freshmen year pulled against him, while Norton worked in the face of the fact that he had not entered with the present senior class. The only other contest was for the office of secretary, Hope Stegner getting 60 votes to Ruth Tallant's 49. Maurice James and H. W. Dahleen were unanimously elected vice president and treasurer respectively.

About 1,000 students attended the reception at the Armory Saturday evening. The reception was given in honor of the freshmen by the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. John Sinclair introduced to President Northrop at the head of the receiving line and Frank Wilkin said the farewells. Mr. Lambert, who taught English in the Duluth high school for two years, but who is now connected with the Johnson school of oratory, gave a splendid impersonation, which closed the entertainment.

The most important feature of the second meeting of the Rooter club was the election of Al Dutchko, as Rooter King. He was given power to appoint several assistants for the different sections. A badge was adopted for the club members. It will be a large button with "Minnesota Rooters' Club" inscribed upon it. A uniform megaphone was decided upon, and it will be placed on sale next week.

The results of Dr. Richard Beard's experiment with his "starvation squad," composed of sophomore medical students, have just been announced. The test was held for the purpose of finding out how little a man could eat and remain in good health. It lasted for four days. The "squad' ate in the basement of the physiology building, and the rations consisted of fifteen crackers, a quart of milk and a tablespoon of butter for each meal. The squad was weighed before and after the test, results showing that they lost but five pounds in the aggregate. The test has been very satisfactory, both to Dr. Beard and the students who volunteered to join the squad.

Prof. Oscar Montelius, the famous antiquarian, and formerly curator of the National Museum at Stockholm, will give an illustrated lecture to U students Nov. 9. His subject will be in regard to the relation between Sweden and the British Isles, during ancient and medieval times. He is now lecturing through the East and was induced to come to Minnesota through Prof. Stromberg, of the Scandinavian department.

Worry Worse Than Fatigue.

More people worry themselves out than wear out by work, and then when they begin to grow thin from worrying over other things, they worry because they are growing thin. The best thing for nervousness is the regular use of a good malt tonic at mealtime. Take a glass of golden grain belt beer with your meals and at bed time. It builds up overworked nerve tissues and insures renewed health to body and brain. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Duluth branch, Minneapolis Brewing Co.

New Station Master.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 10.—J. L. Cook has been appointed station master at the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul station. He succeeds George M. Miles, who has held the position ten years. Mr. Cook has been in the employ of the Milwaukee road the past twenty-five years, and during the greater portion of that time has worked in the capacity of freight yard master in Minneapolis.

New Williston Block.

Grand Forks, N. D., Oct. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Architect D. Remer of this city is preparing plans for a new $20,000 three-story brick building, to be erected at Williston by John Corbett of the Williston Graphic, and which will be known at the Graphic block. The building will be 25 by 120 feet and three stories and basement.

Saved His Boy's Life.

"My 3-year-old boy was badly constipated, had a high fever and was in an awful condition. I gave him two doses of Foley's Orino Laxative, and the next morning the fever was gone and he was entirely well. Foley's Orino Laxative saved his life." A. Wolkush, Casimer, Wis. Sold by all druggists.

This is what the Anaconda Standard and Butte Miner has to say of the Pittsburg-New York gold property:

GREAT GOLD VALUES.

DISCOVERIES OF UMATILLA GROUP NEAR HELENA, OF MUCH INTEREST.

Prospectors Flocking to the New Eldorado—Same Formation As Famous Drumlummon.

After investigation and examination by some of the best known mining men of Butte, Helena and Duluth, it is generally conceded that there will be such an inrush of prospectors at Birdseye, eight miles west of Helena, where are located the Umatilla group of the Pittsburg & New York Copper Mining company, as has never been seen in Montana. Already considerable prospecting has been done along the line of the fabulous outcroppings, and nearly everything that is at all promising has been located. All who have returned from an inspection of the new district tell the same remarkable tales of the fabulous riches which have been told before.

Free Gold of Value.

In one portion the property has been opened up by means of a tunnel which is now in 150 feet. The ore is much the same as that encountered in the shaft, but it pans free gold of much greater value. Assays which were made a few days ago give values as high as $700 to the ton.

The latest information from the property is to the effect that shipments of ore running from $200 to $300 to the ton will be commenced.

High Grade Ore.

All the pannings show abnormally rich high grade ore. From specimens that have been shown in Butte none of the reports appears to have been exaggerated, and the possibilities, especially of the Pittsburg & New York company property are alluring. The values compare well with the magnificent discoveries of the Goldfield district. One of the Umatilla shafts, down 30 feet, shows a streak of ore 18 inches wide, the gold approximating more than $200 to the ton. At a depth of 50 feet it is contemplated to run crossents in both directions to intersect the vein, and at this depth it is fully expected that an ore body will be developed such as to cause a stampede into the district.

The mill already is working to its full capacity on ore of the value of from $20 to $30 a ton, and of this there is an almost unlimited quantity.

The question of foot and hanging walls is undoubtedly exploded. The crosscut from the shaft has exposed an ore body or strata of rock and ore to the full width of from fifty to 150 feet, which is defined on the surface, and which will when opened up at greater depth unquestionably disclose seams and veins of ore of various values covering at least 150 feet in width, at least half of which, according to present indications, will be gold-bearing ore.

Indicates Producer.

The present high values occur in a contract of slate and porphyry and is indicative of a great producer. The theory has been advanced, and is accepted by all who have visited the new district, that the veins of the Great Drumlummon mine, which gave up millions of dollars in gold in the early days, and which would be producing at the present day were it not for litigation, are identical with the formation in the Umatilla group and continue through the latter. This theory proving correct, a gold-producing belt 50 miles in length is capable of being opened up, thus creating new interest in the great mines of Helena, Springhill, Birdseye and Marysville districts.

Work is being pushed with all possible speed by the Pittsburg & New York company, and the property should be on a dividend-paying basis within a short time.

BUTTE MEN MINING NEW GOLD DISTRICT.

REPORT A BIG FIND ON THE UMATILLA GROUP.

EIGHT MILES FROM HELENA

Pittsburg-New York Mining Company, Organized by Butte Men, Secures Lot of Ground in Country at Foot of Timbered Butte.

A number of Butte men have obtained a good hold in the new gold district, eight miles west of Helena, in which there has been considerable activity during the past sixty days, and they believe that they have one of the richest gold properties known in Montana in years. Included in their holdings are a group of old claims, mill, water rights, cyaniding plant, etc., purchased from an old miner who has gophered the ground for many years. The property has been transferred to the Pittsburg-New York Copper Mining company of Butte, which owns a group of claims at the foot of the timbered butte, southwest of the city.

Some remarkable reports have come from the new district, and samples of free milling ore, assaying as high as $300 to the ton, have been exhibited in large quantities in Butte for a week. The company owns a compact group of eight quartz claims and two timber claims. A five-stamp mill with a foundation ready for five stamps more, which are to be installed immediately, is on the ground, in addition to a 50-ton cyaniding plant, ready for operation. Five hundred inches of water, capable of operating 25 to 40 stamps, with concentrator, dynamo and other necessary equipment, are also part of the property. The group of claims is known as the Umatilla, located in the Seven Mile, an unorganized district in Lewis and Clark county, about eight miles west of Helena, on the main line of the Northern Pacific.

Development Work.

On the Mae claim, one of the group, a shaft has been sunk 105 feet, and a crosscut run 250 feet to cut the Umatilla vein. This will be continued 50 feet, where the vein will be tapped, giving approximately 180 feet of backs. A vein about one foot wide has been cut at that depth, going from $40 to $80, assay value. On the Umatilla claim, accidental working cut a new vein in an open cut, which has shown up a big body of ore from two to five feet. It has been driven upon 150 feet and sunk upon 20 feet. Both tunnel and shaft are being worked, and the mill will be running full capacity within the next few days. One hundred tons of free-milling ore are on the dump, worth $25 a ton, taken from the new workings. Ten feet from the surface an 18-inch streak of ore was met, claimed to carry values 6ver $300 to the ton, free gold. The tunnel in the face now carries the same streak 130 feet in from the sinking, and is from 18 inches to two feet wide. Assays give from $236 to $313 over the whole width. In the same face there is ore of a lower grade, about two to three feet, that will go, it is claimed, $20 to $30 to the ton. The rich ore is being sacked and will be shipped to the smelter.

Ore on the Dump.

The ore on the dump and the lower grade ore now being taken out will be milled, concentrated and cyanided. The mill capacity will be further increased with a twenty-stamp mill and additional cyanide equipment. The vein occurs under a large porphyry dike and is traceable through Unionville into Springdale, and is said to be perfect in its determination and continuation. Little work has been done; in fact, no prospecting whatever, till the past few weeks, and with location work on new claims, this vast dike shows values a few feet below the surface in nearly every instance.

Frank Siser, a mining expert of Helena; Mr. Weis, mining engineer of New York, representing large interests, and at present examining the Springhill mines, visited the district, and the high pannings and richness of the ore surprised them. Mr. Sheehan of the Tuolumne company, Capt. Dawson, William Fitzgerald, Jerry Mullins, W. H. Lindsay and other Butte men have visited the property.

The new camp is said to present a lively appearance.

The Umatilla is an old mining property, and very rich ore was mined and milled years ago, and $100,000 was taken from a few old workings, none exceeding forty feet in depth. No mining of any magnitude was ever done, old gold having been obtained by gophering. The leads then worked are quite easily to be picked up again by a little systematic mining and investigation. Fifteen-dollar ore at that time was considered unprofitable to mine.

I can recommend this stock for a good and substantial enhancement on its merits. After the election there will be a general improvement all around, notwithstanding the Balkan war scare, but now is the time to buy at the low figure. There are a few shares loose on the market, and the principal shareholders and owners are purchasers of their splendid properties held by the Pittsburg & New York company, and there will be an upward stampede.

See the water power and the stamp mill. The Pittsburg-New York company owns seven claims in South Butte and ten gold claims near Helena, capitalized at $1,500,000, with $800,000 in the treasury, will bear all investigation and has holding strong for at least one dollar. Mr. Louis Louranger, a well-known mining engineer of Duluth has been authorized to examine and report upon the property, but through other engagements is as yet undetermined whether he can leave for Butte and Helena at once. I am, however, quite satisfied if he be able so to do, he will convince the earmarks of becoming a favorite investment. Work is progressing, but further equipment is necessary and I can strongly advocate the purchase of these shares at the very reasonable price asked, viz: 15 cents for a limited number. And will be able to furnish and substantiate the situation, and give information upon these properties.

WEST END

QUARTER OF A CENTURY

Since First Nowegian-Danish Church Was Organized Here.

Celebration is Held in New House of Worship.

The new First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church, at Twenty-fourth avenue west and Third street, was crowded last evening with the members and their friends, the occasion being a celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the organization of the congregation.

Rev. H. K. Madsen, in a resume of the church history, said that during the quarter of a century the parish had been in existence, 700 members had been admitted, 650 children had been baptized, 300 marriages had been performed, two churches had been built and six ministers ordained.

The first pastor of the church was Rev. August Peterson, who recently visited Duluth and preached in the new church. Other pastors, in the order in they were called, were: Rev. P. Jensen, Rev. F. Ring, Rev. O. L. Hanson, Rev. Charles Johnson, Rev. John C. Tollefson, Rev. H. O. Wilson and Rev. H. K. Madsen, who has completed six years' work as the pastor of the congregation, and who is about to begin another.

First members of the church, who still reside here, and who are still communicants, are A. D. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. P. George Hanson, Mrs. August Tollefson and Mrs. H. J. Olson.

Last evening's program was much enjoyed. Besides Mr. Madsen, the speakers were Rev. P. Jensen, Rev. James Sanacker, Rev. A. P. Lund, Mrs. J. J. Moe and J. J. Moe, who for seventeen years has been chairman of the board of trustees of the church.

Later in the evening refreshments were served by the Ladies' Aid society.

WILL TRY TO RAISE MONEY.

West End Hillside Club to Work for Improvements.

At the meeting of the West End Hillside Improvement club, held last evening at Twenty-third avenue west and Tenth street, it was decided to make an effort to raise enough money to complete the work of grading Piedmont avenue for the car tracks, by circulating petitions and enlisting the aid of the county commissioners. The city council appropriated only $3,000 of the $7,000 necessary to accomplish the work.

Joseph W. Cumming, a candidate for county commissioner, was present and said he would do all he could for the Hillsiders and their project.

Another meeting of the club will be held Oct. 20, when candidates for office will be permitted to tell their views to the members.

DEMOCRATS IN SESSION.

Dr. Oredson, Legislative Candidate, Gives an Interesting Talk.

Dr. O. A. Oredson, Democratic candidate for the legislature in the Fiftieth district, was the principal speaker at the meeting of the West End Democratic club in Sloan's hall last evening.

He said he had just returned from a visit in the southern part of the state and that the sentiment there seemed largely in favor of Governor Johnson's candidacy.

Dr. Oredson spoke on the ore tonnage tax.

Mrs. Morterud's Funeral.

The funeral of Mrs. Johanna Morterud, who died Thursday at the age of 86 years, was held this afternoon at the residence of her son, S. Morterud, 429 North Twenty-sixth avenue west, Rev. Theodore Fossum, pastor of Zion Norwegian Lutheran church, conducted the services.

Mrs. Morterud was an old resident of the West end. She leaves one daughter, Mrs. A. Thorstad and five sons, Sever, Peter, John, Charles and Antons all of whom live in Duluth.

West End Shortrails.

The annual meeting of the congregation of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church will be held Sunday evening, when the reports for the year will be heard and the new church officers installed.

Miss Nora Peterson and Miss Agnes Dudley have returned from Little Falls, Minn., where they have been visiting friends for the past week.

Several new members will be baptized at the Sunday evening services in the First Swedish Baptist church.

Rev. E. Stromberg, the new pastor, has arrived from Norway, Mich., and will preach tomorrow in the First Swedish M. E. church.

Miss Clara Olson of Thirty-ninth avenue west will entertain the Epworth League Sewing Circle of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church Monday evening.

The remains of William Lester, the 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Cain of Nary, Minn., who died Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Miller in the West end, will be taken today to Iron River, Wis., for interment.

The Young Ladies' Society of Zion Norwegian Lutheran church will meet Wednesday evening with Miss Christine Greiner of Piedmont avenue.

The Republican precinct captains of the Seventh ward held a conference last evening with A. G. Macauley, ward chairman, at the polling place at Twenty-eighth avenue west and First street.

Notice.

NATURE FAKES.

Bears in Duluth, Partridge in Superior, Deer in Marquette.

In the grist of today's news in the Herald, there is rich picking for the snake editors of eastern yellow journals.

Today a bear was shot in the city of Duluth; a deer ran down the streets of Marquette; and a partridge dashed its life out against the plate glass window of a centrally located Superior drug store.

It would appear that there is no need of hunters leaving the city limits of the city at the Head of the Lakes for sport.

CITY BRIEFS

Have Your Magazines Bound.
Thwing-Stewart Co. 'Phone 114.

Sidewalk in Bad Shape.

An inspection made by members of the board of public works has brought out the fact that about one and one-half miles of sidewalk on Park Point, a short distance south of the canal, is in a very bad state of repair. There is no money with which to make repairs, however, and the work will have to be delayed until next year.

Appeal is Taken.

Notice of appeal was filed this morning with the clerk of the district court in the case of Tonnes Risnes against the Pittsburg Coal company. Risnesss was given a verdict for $500 at the May term of court. He sued for injuries received while in the employ of the company, asking $1,190.

Articles Are Changed.

Amended articles of incorporation were filed with the register of deeds this morning by the Irondale Land company. The date of the annual meeting is changed from the first Tuesday in August to the first Monday in June. The articles also give the same force to any by-law, rule or regulation passed by a stockholders' meeting as to any passed by the board of directors in regular session.

Sue For Commission.

The complaint was filed this morning with the clerk of the district court in an action against John C. Cook brought by the Scott-Kriedler company for $102.72, claimed to be due for services rendered while acting as agent for Cook in controlling a piece of property in West Duluth and commissions for the subsequent sale of it.

Given Temporary Alimony.

Mrs. Ida D. Hone, who this week filed suit for divorce against her husband, Cosmos Hone, was this morning awarded $75 attorney's fees and $5 a week temporary alimony at the special term of district court. The case will be brought on for trial at the November term of court and Mr. Hone will contest it and claim the custody of the one child.

Special Monthly Rates

For winter season, now effective at The Spalding and Hotel Superior. Cafes of the highest standard.

Hard Luck Tale.

John Redwood was given a meal and lodging at the city jail last night. He told the police a pitiful tale of how his family, consisting of a wife and two small daughters, had lost their home in Baltimore by fire last summer, and that he had been looking for steady work ever since. He said he walked to Duluth from Hancock, Mich., and had eaten nothing for thirty hours. He once owned a grocery store, he claimed, which was burned in the big Baltimore fire several years ago.

Hammond Gets Judgment.

Erwin Hammond, a Lester Park boy, who sued Richard Hodgson, a milkman for $117 because of damages said to have been inflicted by the latter's cows on Erwin's garden, got a verdict for $90 in municipal court yesterday. The case was given a jury trial. Hodgson admitted that his cows had entered the garden, but said other cows had been doing the same all summer, and that there really was no garden at all, when the bovines made their unwelcome visit.

New York Grain.

New York, Oct. 10.—Close: Wheat—December, $1.10⅝; May, $1.11⅝. Corn—December, 76¼c; May, 73⅝c.

Meeting Postponed.

The meeting of the Shakespeare class, scheduled for Thursday morning, has been indefinitely postponed. The date of the meeting will be decided upon later.

May Intervene.

Judge Cant this afternoon handed down an order allowing the Toledo Film company to intervene in the case of Charles Ellison against J. J. Frey. Ellison was suing Frey for $500 alleged to be due him for some moving picture films given by him as security for a loan. The Toledo company announced that the films belonged to it, and not to Ellison, as he alleged.

Inspect Bridges.

Aldermen Getchell and Moore, City Engineer McGilvray and Joseph Preston of the board of public works, yesterday made an inspection of all the city bridges between West Duluth and Fond du Lac. Those of the structures that had been repaired this year were found to be in very good condition. Repairs and improvements needed on others were noted, and will be made as soon as possible.

Another Bear Killed.

John Johnson of Hermantown shot a bear near his home yesterday. He saw it in the clearing and dropped it at the first shot. The animal was brought to the city this morning and disposed of to one of the local butchers.

Talked Too Much.

Arthur Make was given a thrashing by Orville Skelcher, an usher in a moving picture show last evening, because he insisted on talking during the exhibition, much to the annoyance of the audience. Both young men were arrested and taken to the police station, and both were released a little later, the police holding Skelcher was justified in adopting the harch measures he did.

Suit On a Contract.

John Colbrath, of Duluth, has filed suit in district court against Donald Grant & Co., of Faribault, Minn., to recover $1,924.10. Mr. Colbrath sues on a contract, by which he rented thirty-five teams to the defendant. The suit is for the value of six horses that died, harness and other equipment broken, and $385 for time that the horses were kept after the expiration of the contract.

Suit On a Furniture Bill.

The case of Jennie Bloom against the administrator of the estate of Saloma Benson was called before Judge Dibell, yesterday afternoon. The suit is for $29, claimed to be due on a bill of furniture furnished before the death of Mrs. Benson. The defense claims that the bill was paid years ago. Baldwin, Baldwin & Dancer appear for the plaintiff, and C. E. Adams for the administrator.

No More Cut Rates.

People who planned to go to the Rosebud Indian reservation to take part in the opening of that immense South Dakota tract, find that there are no more reduced rates. The last excursion was held Tuesday. The next time a homeseekers' rate becomes effective is Oct. 20, which is too late for the opening at Rosbud.

Wants Branch Offices.

Sergt. E. C. Boyce of the United States Army recruiting station is trying for permission to establish substations at Bemidji and Deer River on the Great Northern. He feels that now, with harvest days over and winter coming on, would be a good time to get active at those places.

Sweeps In the Toils.

Bert Sexton and Richard Roe, chimney sweeps, were arrested yesterday, charged with the theft of 600 pounds of wheat from James Scully. They pleaded not guilty and will have a hearing Monday morning.

Walter Carr Will Travel.

Walter W. Carr, formerly in the brokerage business here, left the city today after a visit of several weeks. He will go to Chicago, New York and other points and will then start on a tour of the West.

Treasury Statement.

Washington, Oct. 10.—Today's statement of the treasury balances in the general fund, exclusive of the $150,000,000 gold reserve, shows: Available cash balance, $176,632,259; gold coin and bullion, $39,248,749; gold certificates, $89,284,630.

St. Paul Livestock.

St. Paul, Oct. 10.—Cattle—Receipts, 1,400; market steady and unchanged. Hogs—Receipts, 5,800; market lower; range, $5.60@6.25; bulk of sales, $5.76@5.85. Sheep—Receipts, 1,800; market steady and unchanged; lambs steady and unchanged.

SUPERIOR NEWS

CAPSIZED IN HARBOR

Superior Man Nearly Drowns Before Assistance Reaches Him.

Rescuers Are in Turn Picked Up by Tug.

He was sailing alone in a small boat in front of the Wisconsin entrance to the bay when a suden gust of wind capsized his frail bark, plunging him into the icy waters. Two fishermen, Ole Nelson and Charles Dertian, who were struggling against the wind and waves in a small boat, came to Hammer's rescue, and succeeded in dragging him out just as he was about to release his hold, overcome by the cold. Hammer was apparently more dead than alive when they drew him to their boat, but they managed to revive him.

Even then, the incident was not over, for the wind had grown so strong that the two fishermen could make no headway against it, and were in danger of swamping. The tug Raber noticed their plight and picked them up, taking them to an elevator slip on the Superiod side.

Jail is Crowded.

The women's ward of the Douglas county jail is filled to overflowing as a result of yesterday's police court grist. Five women were sentenced to short terms by Judge Parker. Minnie Esterlund, an alleged frequenter of a disorderly house, arrested in a raid Thursday night, was sentenced to ten days in jail. Four other women got ten days each for loitering about a saloon. In the raid John Esterlund, Fred Zapp, Edward Howser and Chris Zapp were also arrested. They were given each a term of thirty days in the workhouse on the charge that they were frequenters of the place.

PARTRIDGE ON TOWER AVENUE

Bird Flies Against Window of Drug Store and is Captured.

Shortly afternoon yesterday a good-sized partridge flew down Tower avenue, and tried to fly through the window of Aust's drug store near Twelfth street. The bird fell dazed to the sidewalk and was picked up and carried off by a passer-by.

Tower Avenue Lots Sold.

George G. Newton has bought the two lots on the southeast corner of Thirteenth street and Tower avenue from George G. Newton of Duluth, who recently acquired the same property from O. H. Hammond. The consideration is said to be $15,000.

Will Talk on Roads.

A. R. Hirst, engineer of the state geological commission in charge of highways, will make an address at the Commercial club rooms next Tuesday evening. He will talk on how to build roads.

Football Games.

The Superior football teams are playing out of town games this afternoon. The Nelson-Dewey high school meets the Washburn team at Washburn, and the Blaine high school team is at Ashland struggling with the Ashland eleven. Both teams left this morning.

"SCAB" TEAMSTER.

Non-Union Man Drove Team in Labor Day Parade.

The delegates of the Teamsters' union and the delegates from the Blacksmiths' union, last evening, at the meeting of the Trades assembly, engaged in a fierce debate in an effort to fix the blame for the fact that a "scab" teamster had been engaged to drive a four-horse team in the Labor day parade.

It was admitted that there had been a non-union man at the reins of the Blacksmiths' float, but through whose neglect it happened, was not decided last evening. The "scab" was discovered at the last moment, when the parade had been formed, and when it was too late to make a change.

The matter will be investigated by the Trades assembly and the blame placed, if possible, at the next meeting.

PAINFULLY ACQUIRED.

Young's Magazine: "Cheerfulness is sometimes painfully acquired," remarked Miss Maude Fulton now in vaudeville. "It's frequently like the man at the photographer's.

"This man, sitting for his portrait, said impatiently to the artist:

"'Well, have I got now the pleasant expression you desire?'

"'Yes, thank you,' said the photographer. 'That will do nicely.'

"'Then, hurry up,' growled the man, 'it hurts my face.'

DONATIONS STILL COME

Relief Committee Has an Ample Supply of Clothing.

Bathing Suit and Set of Furs in One Box.

And still they come.

Twenty large square boxes, filled with hundreds of articles of clothing of every sort and description for the fire sufferers of Northern Minnesota, arrived at the Duluth relief headquarters yesterday. The men in charge gave a sigh of resignation, and started to unpack, sort and repack again. They had just begun to make a hole in the stock they had received with the first rush of charity .

From one of the twenty large boxes, in the process of unpacking, came to light a bathing suit and a set of furs. The bathing suit was red and of the abbreviated species worn by men of taste for aquatic pastimes. It was in splendid condition and made of the best woolen material. "It might do for a suit of underclothing," suggested a by-stander, "but I don't believe it will ever be wet by the waters of Longyear lake or Lake Superior, unless it is in the wash. Besides the weather is a trifle chilly for swimming at this season, though a revival of the forest fires might warm things up a bit."

The bathing suit's traveling companion, the set of furs, when they were dragged from the box, brought a burst of laughter, the contrast was so marked. The laughter was in approval not derision, for the donation was most appropriate for a Northern Minnesota winter, especially for some settler's wife in the wastes back of Grand Marais. It was a complete fur outfit, muff, boa, and coat, all in fair shape.

The daily shipments from the relief headquarters are still on the same large scale as during the first weeks of relief work. Three hendred beds, bed springs, and mattresses left Duluth yesterday for Chisholm. Between two and three tons of clothing were recently sent by the Booth line to north shore points. There was enough wearing apparel in that lot to dress 150 people "from the skin out," and give them each a complete change of clothing.

But there are still cals for help at the headquarters. During the past few days about twenty settlers from more inaccessible portions of the north shore have come to Duluth to seek assistance in the way of clothing to help them over the months of zero weather ahead of them, when they will have no means of communication with the outside world. Most of them say they will stick to their devastated claims, where they have rebuilt or are rebuilding their log homes.

When the last of the fire sufferers have had their wants taken care of, it is expected that there will still be an abundant supply of old clothing at the committee's store house. It is probably that this will be turned over to the charitable institutions of the city, who will distribute it among the poor as they see fit.

ILLINOIS TAKES HAND IN THE RIOT CASES.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 10.—Illinois has taken a hand in the Springfield riot cases. Failure to secure conviction against Abe Raymer, charged with murder, and for alleged destruction of property, resulted in plans for co-operation between state's attorney and the attorney general for more vigorous prosecutions. Attorney General Stead told Assistant Attorney General Mansfield to aid State's Attorney Frank Hatch, and immediate efforts were made to add vigor to the prosecution of Ernest Humphrey, another alleged mob leader.

ANDREW CARNEGIE.

New York, Oct. 10.—The fact that Andrew Carnegie has contributed $20,000 to the campaign fund of the Republican national campaign is announced by Timothy L. Woodruff. Mr. Woodruff also announces that Mrs. Russell Sage has contributed $1,000 to the same fund. There have been no other large contributions from individuals, Mr. Woodruff says, but small sums are coming in from various sources. George R. Sheldon, treasurer of the National Republican committee, when asked about the contributions, declined to discuss them, saying he would publish a list of all the contributions made to the Republican national committee after election.

GIBBONS DEFENDS AMERICAN WOMEN AGAINST THE CHARGE OF BEING IDLE AND UNHAPPY

New York, Oct. 10.—Cardinal Gibbons, head of the Roman Catholic church in this country, in an interview published here, made what might be called a corrective reply to Andrew McPhail, who, in an article published in a London paper recently, was quoted as declaring that American woman are idle and unhappy.

"American women of a certain class and a limited number," said his eminence, "are perhaps the idlest and unhappiest in the world. I refer to the possessors of exorbitant wealth, some of whom have neither religious principles nor domestic virtues to restrain them, and who employ their vast fortunes merely for the gratification of their passions. But also there is a portion of our very wealthy class that lives quietly and virtuously. Against them and our middle and poorer classes the charge of idleness is absolutely unfair."

GOETHALS' VOICE SHAKES WITH EMOTION, DENYING ANY CANAL FAVORITISM

New York, Oct. 10.—Col. George W. Goethals, general director of the Panama canal work, was placed on the witness stand in the inquiry conducted before Inspector General Garlinton as the result of charges of discrimination and favoritism in awarding cable contracts for the canal by government officials. Charles P. Taft, brother of Republican Presidential Nominee Taft, is also involved in these charges.

Goethals took the stand toward the end of the session, which had been replete with sensational incidents. William A. Brothers, who brought the charges, had publicly accused Spencer Miller, a representative of the Lidgerwood Manufacturing company, of perjury and had followed this accusation by the charge that the inquiry was not being conducted on fair lines, saying the witnesses for the defense were the only ones given a hearing. Mr. Brothers became highly excited and announced that he would withdraw from the hearing. He went so far as to leave the room, but returned a few minutes later.

It was shortly after this that Col. Goethals was called upon to testify. In a voice that betrayed his deep feeling over the charges by Brothers, Col. Goethals entered into a defense of the manner in which the cableway contracts had been awarded.

"I have been charged with false statements by Mr. Brothers. I am also practically charged with corrupt practices by Senator Slater, Mr. Woods and Brothers. I intend to answer these charges fully, but the matter will not be taken up in the manner it should be taken up until after Col. Sieberts, who is familiar with the entire situation, arrives."

BRINGS BLESSING OF POPE TO AMERICA

New York, Oct. 10.—Archbishop Farley who returned home today from a visit to Rome and attendance upon the Eucharistic conference at London, brought this message from the pope to the American people:

ARCHBISHOP FARLEY.

"Tell the people of the United States that for all they have done for the Catholic church in America I send my heartfelt benediction from the highest to the lowest."

TAFT WILL SWING THROUGH THE SOUTH.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—William H. Taft is to dip into the country next week and his speaking campaign will carry him through Kentucky, Tennessee, North Carolina and Virginia. Arrangements for a swing through these Southern states was completed by National Chairman Hitchcock. Taft will speak in Kentucky, Oct. 15, in several cities and on the morning of Oct. 16, will address a meeting in Chattanooga, after which he will leave for Knoxville and Bristol, where he will speak in the evening. The candidate, on the following day, Oct. 17, will visit North Carolina, speaking at Greensboro, and then proceeding to Richmond, Va., for an evening meeting.

When you go shopping, don't simply say, "A pound of tea," because you can secure better tea, more delicious tea, if you only ask for "Salada."

THINK GIRL WILL AID MURDER CASE

Held on Larceny Charge, She May Reveal Tragedy Details.

New York, Oct. 10.—Through the arrest of Lottie Carroll of Brooklyn on charges of larceny, the police believe they have secured the link of evidence which will connect Theodore Whitman as principal with the murder of his wife, Mrs. Lena Whitman, in Lampblack Swamp, Harrison, N. J., last Christmas night. A Lottie Carroll had been mentioned by Whitman at his first trial as one by whom he could prove an alibi, but the girl was not found.

A detective recognized Miss Carroll when she was arraigned in court. To the detectives she said she saw Whitman and his wife leave their house together at 7:30 p. m., on Christmas night. Miss Carroll said also that Mrs. Whitman told her on Christmas day she had quarreled with Whitman. Whitman denied he was with his wife Christmas night.

The jury at Whitman's first trial disagreed and he is now awaiting a second trial.

OFFICIAL STANDINGS

Individual Scores of Milk Dealers in City Limits.

J. Uno Sebenius and J. E. Singleton Head the List.

The Herald herewith presents a list of all the dairymen in the city limits, showing their official standing as registered with the board of health. J. Uno Sebenius stands first with 129 out of a possible 133 1-3 points, and J. E. Singleton comes second in the list with 122 2-3 points. Some of the other high ones are G. B. Thomas, 119; Andrew Anderson, 119 1-3; Anton Moe, 121; Bergtoid & Ryan, 118; J. G. Luxon, 119; W. G. McLain, 118; A. S. O'Brien, 119.

The dairymen are scored on butter fat in the milk, equipment, methods employed and sanitary conditions about the barns. There is a possible 100 points for each of these subjects, and the four percentages are added together and then divided by three to get the final score. Thus there is a possible 133 1-3 points. The list shows that six women are engaged in the dairy business in Duluth.

The scores given below are the result of two months' inspection conducted by the board of health under direction of the common council. A big improvement is shown over an inspection made earlier in the year. The names given herewith are of those dairies doing business directly with the consumers. Dairies outside the city limits, that have to ship their milk by train, sell to Bridgeman & Russell, who in turn dispose of the product to the consumer, so individual scores, while on file at the health office, are of no particular interest to the average citizen, for getting milk through a middleman, they cannot tell whose dairy it is from. Following is the complete list of local dairies and their standings:

TAFT TO CONFER WITH ROOSEVELT.

Cincinnati, Oct. 10.—Judge Taft and President Roosevelt will have a consultation in Washington, where the candidate will spend Sunday, Oct. 18.

Backache, Kidney Pain

Pains in the small of the back.

There's no mistaking this sign of kidney trouble.

Other indications are frequent urination, pain or smarting when passing water, deposits in the urine, headache and loss of flesh.

Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills overcome kidney derangements more promptly and thoroughly than any treatment you can obtain because of their combined and direct action on liver and kidneys.

This letter to prove our claim.

Mr. B. F. Trego, Polk, Pa., writes: "During eight years of suffering from kidney disease six doctors treated me with little benefit. On the third day after beginning the use of Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills I noticed an improvement, and after using three boxes had gained 23 pounds and felt better than I had for nine years. I have told many about my wonderful cure."

One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

General Debility and Night Sweats

MR. JAMES CHESBROW.

Mr. James Chesbrow, of Brooklyn, New York, suffered from general debility and night sweats, so that he was unable to work, he took Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey on his doctor's advice, and now enjoys perfect health.

Mr. Chesbrow's wonderful restoration to health is similar to that of thousands who write us letters extolling the merits of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey as the greatest medicine the world has ever known.

He writes: "I herewith enclose my photograph and unsolicitated testimonial, which you may publish. I suffered from general debility and night sweats so badly I was unable to work; on my doctor's advice, I have been taking Duffy's Pure Malt Khiskey for four months and I am now able to work again, and I feel as well as I ever did."—JAMES CHESBROW, 243 Leonard street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

is an absolutely pure distillation of malted grain; great care being used to have every kernel thoroughly malted, thus destroying the germ and producing a predigested liquid food in the form of a malt essence, which is the most effective tonic stimulant and invigorator known to science; softened by warmth and moisture, its palatability and freedom from injurious substances render it so that it can be retained by the most sensitive stomach.

If you wish to keep young, strong and vigorous and have on your cheeks the glow of perfect health, take Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey regularly, according to directions. It tones and strengthens the heart action and purifies the entire system. It is recognized as a family medicine everywhere.

CAUTION.—When you ask your druggist, grocer or dealer for Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey be sure you get the genuine. It's the only absolutely pure medicinal malt whiskey and is sold in large sealed bottles only; never in bulk. Price $1.00. Look for the trade-mark, the "Old Chemist," on the label, and make sure the seal over the cork is unbroken. Write Consulting Physician, Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, N. Y., for free illustrated medical booklet and free advice.

SIOUX CITY STILL LAUGHING OVER HURRY-UP TRIP OF HUGHES

New York Executive Just "Walks Right In and Turns Around and Walks Right Out Again" —Band Drums Up Small Crowd.

Sioux City, Iowa, Oct. 10.—Sioux City can't get over laughing about the visit Governor Hughes made the other day. For Hughes was in town, honest. He was in town all right; men can be found who will swear it. They saw his train come right in and they saw the governor with their actual eyes and heard him with their real ears and watched him go right on again. But there are not many who did.

Governor Hughes is a man full of whiskers and dignity, but he does not know how to ride a railway train. He is a sad failure there. At Sioux Falls he was half an hour behind schedule. At Sioux City he was forty-five minutes aheau. How he did it nobody nows—most especially the Republican committee here.

But Few Saw.

Only by chance did anybody see, hear, or feel Governor Hughes at all. That is, anybody of the least consequence. Baggageman Patrick O'Houlihan and Depot Janitor Nicodeman Drgarczwski would have heard and seen and felt him in spite of fate; they would have had the priceless Republican privilege to themselves in the echoing railway yards. But fortune favored the central committee. There was among them a man of pessimistic mind superimposed upon a summer suit. Said this man: "Political specials never are on time; no, never. I'll have time to go home and get my overcoat." Not that this man expected a frost, only that he had on his summer suit. And then and there he put on his hat and started for the door.

Committee Lucky.

But fate was kind to that Republican committee. The pessimistic man was also a cautious man, and he did not want to miss Governor Hughes. Also, he thought, if the train was very late, he might as well stay up at the house and have supper first. So he paused outside the door and said he: "I'll just telegraph up the line and find out how late that special is."

Excitement followed at once. Governor Hughes, at that moment, was pursuing his way across South Dakota, something like an hour or two hours or six hours ahead of time. The committee seized its brow and stood exceedingly paralyzed. What should be done? The papers were already on the streets. They said 5:15 p. m. They announced in black, satisfying, truth-compelling headlines that Governor Hughes would speak from the station steps after 5. What should be done?

Notified By Band.

Then the strains of Reed's band came through the open door. The band had been learning a new tune down on Nebraska street. It was not satisfied with the tunes that had done for Bryan and Taft. It wanted a new, good tune for Governor Hughes. So, "the band!" cried an inspired committeeman. "Get the band together and have it play so that the people will know there is trouble." Whereupon the central committee dashed down upon the band and had it march upon the streets with a banner as a warning to the people. Also, the committee telephoned and buttonholed, not systematically, but in great haste.

Following which, Governor Hughes arrived in Sioux City at 4:30 of the clock and was greeted by a panting fcreguard, while along Nebraska street other Republicans ran and cussed.

Talks Short Time.

Hughes began and he was finished almost before he opened his mouth. He walked right into Bryan and Democracy, and he turned around and he walked right out again. He only talked eight minutes, but he said eight volumes. His speech is 95-geared and he doesn't stop for breath—or ideas, or hammer-blow arguments. He had the Democratic platform sawed and split into kindling before a central committeeman running from Fourth street, had got in hearing distance.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The senior class held its first meeting of the year on Wednesday afternoon.

"Dodie" Ostergren called the meeting to order and the minutes of the previous meeting were read by Miss Madeline Miller. The class immediately proceeded to elect its president for the last time, with the result that Robert Ely was elected by a large majority. Those elected to the other offices were: Madeline Miller, vice president; Helen Hawks, secretary; Archie Glass, treasurer; Robert Johnson and Leonard McHugh, sergeants-at-arms; Dorothy Olcott, class historian; basketball captain Dave McFarland. It was decided to elect the Zenith officers at the next meeting.

The new president took hold of the meeting at once and although the meet was a stormy one and every one wanted to talk at the same time, he soon brought order out of chaos.

The treasurer gave his reports which showed that the class had more than made expenses in giving the juniors senior and there is a small balance in the treasury now. The class of '09 is the first class that has been able to do this in some time and everything is now clear for a successful Zenith as far is finances are concerned.

The Public Speaking club held its first regular meeting on Monday afternoon. A departure was made from their usual program and instead of a debate the members presented a literary program. Stanley Lamb spoke "Ornery Jim." Mr. Sprague gave a few remarks, commenting on the fine spirit shown in the club and then intruduced Mr. Baker to the club. Mr. Baker said he was willing to devote his spare time to the debating work, and would do all in his power for the interest of the club. Then followed speeches by Leonard McHugh, Robert Donaldson and Charles Evans. It was decided that the school would not enter the league this year and already Pine City has written asking for a date. Another matter of business was the amending of the constitution in order to provide an associate membership for the benefit of those who wish to belong to the club, but who do wish to take an active part in debates.

• • •

A meeting of the athletic association was held Monday afternnon for the purpose of working up interest in football. President Crawford gave a short talk and especially urged a strong second team which is absolutely necessary to the success of a good first team. Clifford Thorburn gave a short talk urging the "Rooters" to appear in force at the games and support the team from the side lines. A couple of good rooters are going to figure in the game from now on.

• • •

The musicical society held a very interesting meeting last Tuesday which was largely attended. Miss Alice Sjosellus, who was a member of the society a few years ago, was the soloist and sang "My Heart Ever Faithful" by Bach and for an encore sang "Loch Lomend." After impressing upon the members the importance of remaining after the solos were given, Mr. Custance proceeded to conduct the rehearsal.

• • •

Owing to the large number of pupils in the school this year, it was found impossible to hold the chapel exercises as they have been held in the past, so Mr. Smith has devised a new plan that will be tried next week. The Friday chapel will be the only one attended by the whole school. The seniors will go alone on Monday, the juniors on Tuesday, the sophomores on Wednesday and the freshman on Thursday. At these exercises seven-minute reports will be given by different members of the class. Every member of the different classes will be given the chance to appear on these programs.

• • •

At the chapel exercises on Friday morning the choir with Miss Maude Matteson as the soleist, sang "Sweet Is Thy Mercy, Oh Lord" in a very pleasing manner.

• • •

A rousing mass meeting of the students was held Friday afternoon. With the coming of the first big game of the season, that with Grand Rapids, it is necessary for the team to get plenty of support from the "Rooters." The girls showed up strong and will from now on support the team with pennants and colors as loyally as the boys will with yelling. Speeches were made by William Crawford, William Chadwick, Royal Aiworth, Mr. Smith, Oscar Hein and Manus McFadden. There is no doubt but what the "Yell Master" will make things hum in the future.

The monthly "exams" are now occupying the center of the stage and consequently much midnight oil is being burned. Much anxiety is being felt among the football men as to the outcome of these tests which practically decide whether they can play or not.

ENDEAVOR UNION HOLDS MEETING

Reports of Officers Encouraging—Officers for Year Elected.

The Duluth Christian Endeavor union held a big rally last night at the First Presbyterian church, Third avenue east and Second street. There were seven societies represented, and a good deal of interest and enthusiasm was shown in the work of the union.

A short musical program was rendered, followed by a business meeting. Officers and chairmen of committees made their reports, showing good progress and prospects in the city work. It was also shown that the organization was on a sound financial basis, and that it had a gratifyingly large membership.

Edward Clow was elected president of the union for the ensuing year and Miss Quigley was chosen vice president. Ben Wells was elected treasurer and Clyde Potts secretary. Churches represented in the union are: First, Second, Glen Avon, Lakeside and Westminster Presbyterian, Pilgrim Congregational and First Christian.

The Best Plaster.

A piece of flannel dampened with Chamberlain's Liniment and bound on to the affected parts is superior to any plaster. When troubled with lame back or pains in the side or chest, give it a trial, and you are certain to be more than pleased with the prompt relief which it affords. This liniment also relieves rheumatic pains and is certain to please anyone suffering from that disease. Sold by all druggists.

WILL MEET GOV. JOHNSON.

Executive and Other Notables at Swedish Lutheran Reception.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—A jubilee meeting was held yesterday afternoon at the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the Swedish Evangelical Lutheran Augustan synod in session here at which a number of prominent clergymen spoke. A discussion of higher criticism took up the greater part of the session and the tendency towards materialism in religion was denounced by several of the speakers.

This afternoon there will be a reception in the St. Paul Auditorium at which Governor John A. Johnson, Senator Moses F. Clapp and other prominent men of the Northwest will speak. The Minnesota conference embraces the states of Minnesota, North and South Dakota and part of Wisconsin.

Rev. J. O. Conollin of Fargo was given a call to serve various mission places in North Dakota and Rev. J. Lundquist, Chisago City, was similarly called to Washburn and Bayfield counties, Wis.

DRUGGIST POSTED ON ECZEMA

Eczema sufferers should ask their family physician or Lyceum Pharmacy of this city what reports are being received from the patients who have been treating the skin with oil of wintergreen liquid as compounded in D. D. D. Prescription.

Solving The Problem Of Duluth's WAYWARD BOYS

F.S. RESCHE PROBATION OFFICER. T.E. GRAE HUMANE OFFICER

"ROLLING THE BONES"

The juvenile court and probation office combine to make one of the most worthy and beneficial institutions in Duluth.

Hundreds of boys will owe whatever success they attain in life to Judge Ensign of the juvenile court and to Capt. F. E. Resche of the probation office. These two work hand in hand in looking after the wayward youth of the city. Their endeavors in this direction are separate and distinct from those of the Humane society and truant officer, although in the minds of some the work of these different departments is sometimes confounded.

The purpose of the juvenile court is to save boys from a life of crime, and, with the assistance of Probation Officer Resche, it is very successful in this highly commendable object. Under the old system, before juvenile courts and probation officers were known, boys who offended against the laws of the city and state were sent to the reform school, which in reality, it is claimed, was nothing more nor less than a training school in crime in a majority of instances. The boy had no chance. He heard his sentence, went to the school, perhaps for some waywardness that would have been inconsequential if rightly handled, and came out into the world a few years later ready to start in on a life of crime, because of the bad associations he had been subjected to while in the institution.

Given a Chance.

With the juvenile court and probation office in operation it is different. The boy is given a chance. If he has the right stuff in him, it is brought out. Instead of being started on the downward path as the result of one false step, helping hands are held out to him, and he is guided upward and onward, into the ways of right living and thinking. Good influences are brought to bear upon him, and he is made to see the error of his ways, and the wisdom of living a decent life. Of course, there occasionally crops out what appears to be an incorrigible character, and in the end it may be found necessary to send him to the state training school at Red Wing, but this has a better system than the old-fashioned reform school, and by being good the offender can secure his release on parole.

Juvenile court is held before Judge Ensign every Saturday morning. Some Saturdays there are no cases at all, and on others there may be twenty or more. During the summer season, when school is not in session, the number of boys before the court is always larger than later on, when there is school.

The "Gangs."

"When boys are alone they seldom cause us trouble," said Capt. Resche, in speaking of his work. "It is loafing around in crowds that breeds offenses against the law. During the summer there frequently are gangs of boys. There may be one or two really bad characters in the gang, and they always are an influence for the bad on the rest of the boys. Then there is the ever-present dare, one boy doing something because he is dared to, and getting into deep water before he knows it.

"Where a boy does not travel around in a crowd of this kind, his thoughts are not so apt to turn towards evil. It isn't altogether his associations with other boys that is liable to start a boy wrong. Most often it is his bringing up, although this usually includes his associations. We find that in the majority of cases the boy really isn't to blame for offenses against the law. It is his parents, because they have not brought him up properly.

"Some parents are indifferent, letting their children run around like wild animals, coming home at all hours of the night and going out when and with whom they please. In numerous instances parents have actually been unable to tell me at what hour their boys generally get home evenings, saying they go to bed usually before their children arrive. This being true, can you wonder that some go wrong?

"Understanding that it is often the fault of the parents, and not the fault of the child, and realizing that one or two false steps do not necessarily indicate that the youth hasn't some good qualities, Judge Ensign, instead of sentencing the young offender to the reform school or jail, lets him to on probation, and he is then under my supervision. I now have 104 such cases to look after. They are what we call on parole.

Report to Officer.

"These boys must report to me regularly at specified times, and I am supposed to keep a careful watch of them, visiting their homes and otherwise keeping tab on their movements, in addition to receiving reports. By keeping in close touch with them, I am able to learn just what stuff they are made of, and whether they are heeding the warning received in court, and leading the right kind of a life.

"Of course, when the offenders are allowed to go on parole, the situation is carefully explained to them, and they are made to understand that punishment of a serious nature is in store unless they follow out the advice of the court, and become law-abiding and law-abiding little citizens. Ninety five per cent of the cases coming to my attention heed this lesson and advice, change their ways, and lead a life that is beyond criticism. They are made to realize that living decently after being paroled is their one chance of amounting to anything in this world.

"The 5 per cent that fall back into their old ways, despite the warnings and friendly advice, are sent to the training school at Red Wing. A credit system is in operation there whereby boys may be released and go to their homes if they behave properly. Five credits are allowed each day, if the conduct of the boy has been perfect, and it takes 150 credits to secure a badge signifying that that number of credits has been secured. When a boy has twelve of these badges, he is allowed to go under parole, and he can then return home.

"All those on parole, whether they are on parole from the court or from the training school, are discharged from parole at the end of a year. If they are deserving, and generally we find that a year's experience is sufficient to start them on the right road, from which they are very unlikely to wander afterwards. Of course, there are certain conditions in connection with this parole that must be lived up to, such as abselnence from smoking, drinking, etc.

"The cases coming before us are of all nationalities, and come from all parts of the city. A year ago most of them came from West Duluth. Now the greatest number comes from the West end. It just happens that way, I suppose."

There is also a department for dependents in connection with the probation office. Mrs. Margaret Forgy, Capt. Resche's assistant, assumes charge of this. Orphans, children subjected to evil influences at home, and others who are not cared for properly at home, are taken in charge by this department, and are either furnished with a suitable home in or near Duluth, or else are sent to the state public school at Owatonna, where they are held until of age, provided suitable places and homes are not found for them prior to that time.

Humane Agent Grae and Capt. Resche are occasionally able to work together on a case, but ordinarily their line of work runs in different channels. While Capt. Resche's attention is held entirely by erring boys, Mr. Grae looks after cases of cruelty and destitution, and most of the time is occupied with older people. Cruelty to animals also is supposed to be given attention by his department.

SECRETARY HITCHCOCK'S JOKE.

Ethan Allen Hitchcock, former secretary of the interior, had a sense of humor that used to keep members of congress and his cabinet colleagues guessing. One day he had some business before one of the committees of congress relating to Scott circle in Washington, where stand the statues of Daniel Webster, Gen. Winfield Scott and Dr. Hahnemann, founder of the school of homeopathy. Secretary Hitchcock pretended he could not remember the name of the circle.

"Oh, you know which one I mean," he said; "the one where they have the three statues representing three of the government departments."

"Evidently you mean Scott circle, Mr. Secretary," said a senator; "but I don't understand about the monuments representing three departments."

"Yes, that's it," said Mr. Hitchcock, apparently much relieved. "It's Scott circle I mean. But you don't understand about the monuments representing the three departments. Why, there's Webster, representing the state department; Scott, representing the war department, and Hahnemann, representing the interior department."

One or two senators didn't see the point until next day.

HORATIUS WASN'T IN IT

Jim Keelin Held a Bridge Against Forty Men and Won a Victory.

A MOVEMENT is being inaugurated by members of the S. V. Fulkerson camp of ex-Confederate veterans here to erect a monument to the neglected grave of Jim Keelin, perhaps the bravest and most daring soldier of the Civil war, and who gained the title of Horatius by his dauntless defense of the Southern railway bridge at Strawberry Plains, East Tennessee, against a force of Federal soldiers who had been sent to destroy the bridge, says a Bristol Tenn., dispatch to the Chattanooga Times.

Keelin spent his last days in Bristol, and his body was buried here. His grave occupies a neglected spot, under weeds and vines, and within less than a stone's throw of the grave of Gen. Evan Shelby of King's Mountain fame.

Mrs. Hal F. Lewis of Bristol, a member of the Daughters of the Confederacy, and also of the Daughters of the American Revolution, has been designated as treasurer of the fund to be used for a monument to the memory of Keelin, and contributions will be welcomed from men throughout the country who feel an interest in perpetuating the deeds of men like Keelin.

"The Campfires of the Confederacy," a book published in 1899, contains the following story of Keelin's daring and bravery when he defended the Strawberry Plains bridge, and the story is made doubly interesting from the fact that it was written by one of Keelin's comrades:

James Keelin, a gallant Confederate cavalryman, performed an act of heroism during the Civil war of equally cool courage, and under circumstances of far greater personal danger than that for which Horatius Cocles has been celebrated in song and story for more than 2,000 years, for the soldiers of Lars Porsena were not armed with modern guns, as were the assailants of this nineteenth century hero; neither was Keelin equipped with shield and coat of mail, as was the brave defender of the bridge across the Tiber.

Keelin was a member of a battalion of Confederate cavalry known as "Thomas' Legion," which was afterward merged into a regiment commanded by Col. Love. The "Legion" was composed of hardy mountaineers from Western North Carolina, and was attached to the brigade commanded by Gen. "Mudwall" Jackson (so called to distinguish him from the immortal "Stonewall," and possibly for some other reason). Keelin was only an ordinary private soldier, without any education, and his military training consisted chiefly in being firmly impressed with the fact that his first duty was to obey orders.

In November, 1862, Keelin was detailed, with some six or eight others of his command, to guard the bridge at Strawberry Plains. This information was doubtless conveyed to the Union troops, for on the night of the 8th, at midnight, a party of Federal raiders, numbering forty men, appeared near the bridge, with the evident intention of attacking and setting fire to the structure.

At the approach of the Federals, Keelin's companions in arms fled, carrying their guns with them and leaving Keelin alone, with his gun and a big knife of the "Arkansas toothpick" variety, to defend the bridge as best he might.

As hopeless as the task appeared, Keelin bravely determined to stand his post, despite the tremendous odds against him, and to do his best to keep the enemy from burning the bridge. He posted himself on top of a bank underneath the bridge and awaited the attack. He held his gun at a "ready," and when one of the party advanced with a lighted torch, prepared to climb up to the woodwork of the bridge, Keelin shot him dead in his tracks. The survivors fired a volley at the solitary guard, and with a wild yell, made a rush for the bank. Though Keelin was wounded three times by the volley—in the hip, in the left arm and in the side—he bravely stood his ground; and not having time to reload his muzzle-loading musket, he drew his big knife and awaited the onset. Fortunately for him, the ascent was narrow, and the attacking party could only climb up the steep bank one or two at a time. With his knife he killed two of the invaders and wounded six others, hurling them gashed and bleeding down the embankment. Once he stumbled while aiming a blow at one of the party, and before he could recover a big fellow made a vicious stroke at him with a heavy knife. He threw up his left arm to ward off the blow from his head, and the blow severed his wrist, besides inflicting an ugly gash.

With all these gaping and bleeding wounds the brave fellow stood his ground, fighting with the courage of a Bayard, and held the whole party at bay. At last Bill Pickens, the lieutenant who was commanding the Federals, seeing so many of his men fall before the invincible arm of the brave Confederate, called out with an oath:

"Let me up there, boys; I'll fix the—rebel!"

But when he rushed up the bank and was confronted with the same dread weapon, gory with the blood of his subordinates, and after receiving two vicious cuts, he, too, retired, calling off his men. They left the place hastily, leaving three dead companions on the ground, but carrying off their wounded. They thought that a force of Confederates was encamped in a mile or so up the river, and probably expected them to be attracted to the scene by the sound of firing.

Keelin, desperately wounded as he was, remained at his post until relieved. He bound up the bleeding stump of his arm and staunched the blood in his half-dozen other wounds as best he could, receiving no medical attention till after daylight next morning.

After he recovered from his wounds he continued to serve in the army to the end of the war, notwithstanding the loss of his left hand.

TALISMANS IN MALTA.

London Standard: There are still to be found in Malta a number of small stones shaped and colored like the eyes, tongues and other parts of serpents.

The superstitions among the Maltese connect these with the tradition that St. Paul when shipwrecked was cast on their island, and that it was there that while lighting a bundle of sticks for a firo a viper fastened on the his command, to guard the bridge at Apostle's hand. St. Paul calmly shook the reptile off into the flames and no harm followed. The natives wear these stones as talismans, in which character they suppose them serviceable in warding off dangers from snake bites and poisons.

They are found in St. Paul's Cave, imbedded in clay, and are set in rings and bracelets, and when found to be in the shape of a tongue or liver or heart are hung around the neck. They are also taken internally, dissolved in wine, which method is attended, according to some people, by more immediate results.

SUPERSTITION DYING.

New York Sun: "Once upon a time," said a baggage superintendent, "we used to have a good quiet, easy time of it on Friday all the year around. Even in the busiest season, say from the end of May to the middle of August, I used to get a chance when Friday morning came around to straighten out my accounts and dispatch detained baggage and clean up things generally in the office and baggage room, and my assistants had time to smoke a pipe now and then and give their shoulders a well earned rest.

"Now Friday is pretty much like every other day. Occasionally when baggage is taken in faster than it can be sent of on the trains Friday is the busiest day of the week, for added to the left overs of Thursday are the Friday evening deliveries of pieces which can't be got to the station Saturday morning in time for an early start. A dozen years ago we used to sit back on Friday and get ready comfortably for the Saturday rush. We don't do any sitting back nowadays.

"The reason? It is because New York folks are not so superstitious as they used to be. The fashion of going out of town to stay over Sunday has had a great deal to do with the change, for to make it worth while many persons start Friday night, so as to have a full day for sport Saturday. Men have never been as superstitious about Friday as women, anyway, and of course when men got in the habit of going of a Friday what could the women do but follow? To be sure, going away for a couple of days stay is not like starting off on a long trip, but all the same the getting accustomed to leaving town on Friday for a week end has had a lot to do with making Friday travel more popular.

"A few years ago I don't believe you could have found a woman in this city who would have been willing to sail for Europe on Friday, and she couldn't have sailed, had she wanted to, for none of the first-class steamers put out on Friday.

"Today, as every one knows, there are Friday steamers listed in the travelers' guides, and none goes out without a paying consignment of first class passengers. Travel on the outgoing river and on the Sound boats ten years ago used to be mighty light of a Friday. There was no offering of premiums for outside staterooms, as there is now in June and July, and most of the passengers were men.

"Even the schoolmarms, about as superstitious a class as ever I had to deal with, seem to have shaken off, to some extent, their superstition about a Friday start bringing them bad luck. Many's the time when I first started in handling baggage in this station that I had to listen to tales of drivers who were sent back empty handed because the owner of a trunk couldn't make up her mind to let it go out of the house on Friday, even though she herself didn't start until Saturday morning.

"To collect trunks early enough Saturday morning to insure the owners' getting off with them on an early train is just about impossible in the rush season, but do you think that fact makes any difference to a superstitious woman? Not a bit of it.

"Then I must arrange to take it to the station on a cab, a lady told me one day, 'for I wouldn't have a moment's peace of mind if I went off on Friday,' and then she started in to tell me an awful story about all sorts of dreadful things that happened to friends of hers who defied fate by leaving home on Friday.

"'Did you ever stop to think of the accidents that happen to persons who start on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday or other days?' I asked her.

"'Why, of course not,' she answered.

"'Well, try it some time,' I advised. 'You'll find that they'll even up pretty well with Friday accidents.'

"Convinced? I guess not. For she wouldn't let me send for her trunk Friday night and said that she would sooner stay at home all summer long than start on a Friday.

"Another lady, though, a school teacher, had the honesty and enough sense of humor to come and tell me after her return to the city of the luck she had by absolutely refusing to leave New York Friday morning. Her destination was a far north Adirondack lake, to reach which, traveling by daylight, she must take an early morning train. It was impossible for her to start Thursday morning, the idea of starting Friday morning made her shudder, she told me, and to wait until Saturday morning meant that she lost one whole day of her vacation. To get around the situation and not travel by rail at night, she decided to take a Thursday night boat to Albany and continue from that point by rail Friday morning. She planned the whole thing very carefully and felt, as she acknowledged, as if she could afford to snap her fingers at bad luck for the summer. In good time Thursday afternoon her trunk was delivered at the boat dock and was checked by the owner herself through to her last stopping place. She saw the trunk put aboard the boat and turned in that night with a light heart. At Albany she saw her trunk deposited on the landing long before it was time for her train to start.

"Well, it was five days later before she caught sight of that trunk again and meanwhile she had to get along at a hotel with the clothes she traveled in. Like many another piece of baggage, it has been put off at a branch station and sent along to a station far removed from the main line. To trace the trunk and get it back to its owner took longer in Jnly than it would have taken earlier in the season, and they were kept apart nearly a week.

"'Had I started on a Friday,' the teacher confessed, 'I would have had laid all the blame to Friday and had luck and been glad to do it, but as I took such a lot of trouble to get started on Thursday I hadn't a ghost of a chance to tack that awful experience—awful for a woman—onto the luck of hangman's day.'

"The very next year that teacher started off comfortably for the same place on a Friday morning and had the best of luck all summer long, she told me.

"Sometimes when the baggage begins to pile up in this place toward the end of the week I find myself wishing the superstition against starting away from home of a Friday had not died down quite so much."

SAYS COPPER WILL ADVANCE

Utah Mining Men Interested in Views Expressed by Daniel Guggenheim---Merger of South Columbus and Wedge Companies Effected.

Salt Lake, Utah. Oct. 10.—Utah mining men have been much interested in an interview with Daniel Guggenheim, president of the American Smelting & Refining company, published here. He said: "Copper is now strong statistically because the producers have disposed of their reserve supplies. When the price of copper was high they sold the metal they had on hand and are now endeavoring to gather new reserve supplies. The quantity held in reserve by producers at present is practically nil. As they are endeavoring to accumulate stocks the present market conditions will probably continue and the price of copper will advance from 13 and 13½ cents to 14 or even 16 cents. By the time the producers have accumulated a normal reserve of copper, aggregating from 400,000 to 500,000 tons, the election will be over and business conditions will improve. The consumption of copper will then equal the production at the present time and the price will be maintained."

A merger has been effected of the South Columbus and Wedge companies, operating at Alta. The former increased its capital stock from 300,000 to 500,000 shares, of which 115,000 were given to Wedge stockholders. The South Columbus is making regular shipments of crude ore of a good grade to the valley smelters and the mine is said to be in good physical condition.

A rich strike has been made in the Aspinwall vein of the Bullock mine at Tintic. The rock assays 300 ounces silver, 28 per cent copper and 20 per cent lead.

The Sioux Con. is shipping good ore. Three or four carloads will come out this week which, it is said, will average higher than the last car sent to the smelter last week, which carried 71 per cent silver and over 50 per cent lead.

High grade lead silver ore, has been encountered in the Mountain Maid tunnel in the Bingham Central-Standard company's ground at Bingham. According to Supt. Frank Taylor, the vein is six to seven feet in width and merely a drift has been started on it. The assay returns show that it carries 23 ounces of silver, 25 per cent lead and 3 to 5 per cent copper. As the Mountain Maid tunnel runs close to the Bingham-New Haven ground the ore may be an extension of the body which yielded the latter much money.

In the Young America mine in Beaver county two shafts, one thirty feet and the other forty feet deep, have been sunk on the lode, and ore running as high as 500 ounces in silver, $12 in gold and well up in lead has been mined.

The Cedar and Talisman mines in Beaver county are to be consolidated. Both will go into the new company on the same basis. The Cedar's claim is almost surrounded by Talisman ground, and it has segregated claims which adjoin the Talisman. The combination will elliminate possible apex suits.

LAKE SUPERIOR & ARIZONA

Shaft Sunk 250 Feet Since Resumption Two Months Ago---Superintendent Hoar Tells of Activity in Pinal County, Arizona.

Bisbee, Ariz., Oct. 10.—Mining in Pinal county has been given quite an impetus through the resumption of the Lake Superior & Arizona, at Superior, and the preparations for the resumption of operations in the Ray and Kelvin country, in the western portion of that county.

Fred Hoar, superintendent of the Lake Superior & Arizona, was in Bisbee a few days ago, and he stated that he looked for much activity in Pinal county during the comng year. Mr. Hoar s well known in Bisbee, having formerly been located here, and he was also at one time superintendent of the Chiricahua Mining company, at Paradise.

Work was resumed at the Lake Superior & Arizona after a long season of inactivity, a little over two months ago, and since that time the shaft has been unwatered and sunk to 850 feet, the shaft being 600 feet deep at the time of resumption. Further depth will be reached before the ore bodies will be explored. There have been several mining deals recently made in the Superior district, and a number of new companies will begin operating in the near future.

The Ray Copper company, of which Hayden, Stone & Co., are said to be interested, has new machinery on the road, including several new drilling outfits, and it is understood that within a short time there will be an active resumption of development work. The Ray has vast bodies of low grade concentrating ore already explored, though not at depth.

MEXICAN MINING LAW STORY

Sequel to Senor Molina's Loss in a Henequin Deal--President Diaz Totally Disapproves and the Minister Loses His Post.

New York, Oct. 10.—A Mexico City special to the Sun says: It is learned in high official circles here that not only has President Diaz paced his stamp of disapproval upon the anti-foreign clause in the proposed mining law, but his displeasure is to be shown still further, by removing from office Olegario Molina, minister of fomento, who is said to be sotely responsible for the obnoxious provision. Mr. Molina comes from a part of Mexico where foreign capital has made little investment. He belongs to Yucatan and is largely interested in the henequin growing. By the favor of President Diaz he was made governor of Yucatan and he made a good chief executive, doing much to improve the condition of the people and to develop resources.

The henequin planters of Yucatan are almost wholly dependent upon the International Harvester company, an American concern, for the sale of their fiebr. The company controls the binder twine market and the fiber from Yucatan is used in making this twine. It is alleged that about two years ago the company began to use oppressive tactics toward the growers and dealers with a view to depressing the price of the fiber. For a long time the market was so demoralized that no henequin was sold. The planters organized a protective association and adopted a holding policy. The company also played a waiting game. The planters had heavy obligations to meet and they began going to the wall. Many business concerns of Merida and other paces in Yucatan went down with them. The holding combine suddenly went to pieces and the International Harvester company won the fight, the planters accepting whatever prices were offered for their products.

Mr. Molina lost heavily as a result of the business depression in Yucatan. He believed that a monster wrong had been committed against his people. He formed a bad impression of foreign business methods and against Americans particularly. About this time President Diaz and a party of high officials visited Yucatan. Mr. Molina was in charge of the festivities. More than $1,000,000 was spent on them. Mr. Molina gave the president every possible attention, and when the time came for Gen. Diaz to take his departure he invited Mr. Molina to become a member of his cabinet. He accepted soon after on condition of receiving absolute authority in his department.

CRIPPLE CREEK DISTRICT

Powerful Mining Plant Installed by Leasing Company on the Colorado Boss---Smelter Ore Vein Opened at the North Burns.

Cripple Creek, Colo., Oct. 10.—The Arizona & Cripple Creek Leasing & Mining company has installed a powerful mining plant, including an electrically driven six drill compressor and an 8x10 geared hoist, at the Cummings shaft on the Colorado Boss of the Cripple Creek Consolidated company.

The North Burns of the Acacia Mining company has opened a strong vein of smelter ore near the surface. The vein, encountered at twenty feet depth in a shaft which Lessees Balfour and Meginn are sinking, is two and a half feet between walls and assays $40 to $1,100 per ton. The ore carries much free gold. The vein is in place and apparently permanent. The ground is virgin territory.

The Evelynn Leasing company, operating on the Regina Savage, is shipping twenty cars monthly of $20 to $50 ore. The company is actively developing a big shoot on the 400 foot level with screening values of $30 to $35 per ton and coarse rock values of $12 per ton.

The Smith-Altman lease on the Howard shaft of the Mary McKinney mine, is in a four foot vein of $20 to $30 ore at 400 feet depth.

The Mammoth Leasing company has leased the Moose mine, and will try ton & Co., which resumed operations to recover a rich ore shoot which formerly produced high grade ores.

Karl Johnson has secured a lease on the Maggie mine, adjoining the Cresson properties. The Cresson vein at the side line measures sixty feet between walls and carries $25 to $30 per ton values.

James M. Parfet will act as manager and superintendent of work on the Roosevelt deep drainage tunnel, from the intermediate shaft.

The Jerry Johnson Gold Mining company's Cripple Creek properties produced during the year just passed 11,375 tons, of $112,115 gross valuation. Of this 7,290 tons was dump ore and 4,084 tons mine ore. The net value was $77,268. Royalties netted $23,214.53. A dividend amounting to $24,988.52 was paid during the year, leaving a treasury surplus of $16,165.56.

AT THE LAKE COPPER MINES

Osceola Output Slowly Increasing—Good Showing at the Atlantic—Rich Copper Ground Exposed at the Lake—Highly Mineralized Lode Struck by Drill at the Mass.

Houghton, Mich., Oct. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Osceola is slowly increasing its output and is now milling 135,000 tons of rock monthly. The average yield of the Osceola and Kearsarge amygdaloid rock now being treated is slightly under 17 pounds fine copper per ton. Of the two lodes in this property, the Kearsarge is the richer in copper content; the Osceola furnishes the greater rock tonnage. Seneca now has the use of steam and compressed air, and better progress in shaft sinking is noted. The big shaft, put down to a depth of sixty feet with the use of hammer and drill, is now 110 feet deep, and is sinking at the rate of 70 feet monthly. Crosscutting to the lode will not be underway for some time, the first level having yet to be established. The company is rapidly getting its surface equipment into shape for the winter, and the construction of a temporary shafthouse will be undertaken without delay. Diamond drill operations at the site of a possible new shaft have ceased temporarily owing to the destruction of the diamond drill outfit by fire.

At the Atlantic.

Atlantic has succeeded in exposing copper ground within seventy feet of the shaft, at the fifteenth level, where drifting was commenced a week ago. The lode where exposed at this level carries considerable copper and is fully as wide and strong as it is on the twelfth and thirteenth levels above. The shaft is also getting into firmer ground and is now bottomed thirty feet below the eighteenth level. Crosscutting eastward at the twelfth level in search of the conglomerate bed underlying the Baltic lode has ceased without making the desired find. The company is now preparing to extend its north drift at this level, operations at this point having been suspended several months ago without disclosing copper. Both the twelfth and thirteenth level drifts south are breasted in copper rock, and stoping has begun preliminary to mill shipments which, however, are not likely to begin before the end of the month. The rock broken down is being left on the stulls. The company has a small stockpile accumulated from opening work done, but it will be necessary to open up more stoping ground in order to keep a single stamp, already in shape to fall on rock, busy during one shift at least.

Drifting at the Lake.

Lake's south drift at the first level has attained a length of nearly 300 feet, the entire distance exposing copper, at times so bunched as to make drilling difficult. The company is now drifting on the second level, but the work there has not progressed sufficiently to warrant any definite statement regarding the persistency of copper at that depth. Excellent copper rock, however, is exposed for the entire length of the shaft, and the prospects for finding the lode well mineralized, both north and south of the shaft were never better.

Lode Struck at the Mass.

The Mass Consolidated Mining company reports cutting a lode twelve feet wide in its diamond drill operations carried on at the end of the fifth level crosscut in shaft "A." It is officially announced that the core shows the lode to be highly mineralized. The lode is not believed to be the Lake or either of the two lodes discovered by the Adventure on its own property adjoining the Mass on the north. Diamond drill operations will be continued until two or possibly three other lodes believed to cross this property are tapped.

At the Pontiac.

Good progress is being made at the Pontiac shaft of the Quincy Mining company. The shaft has been cleaned out and retimbered, and with steam power and compressed air now available, faster sinking is looked for. This shaft will eventually be one of the main producers for the Quincy, its location commanding mineralized ground of considerable area. The Pontiac was abandoned several years ago at shallow depth without disclosing copper in payable quantities. The Quincy company is today in good condition, and with the additional lands acquired from the Arcadian Copper company about two years ago, is in shape to continue mining operations

GREAT VEINS ARE EXPOSED

Developments at the Globe Consolidated Are of the Most Favorable Character and Company's Success Now Seems Assured —Shipments to the Old Dominion Smelter Have Begun.

Globe, Ariz., Oct. 10.—Probably no mine in the Globe district has shown greater improvement in the past month than the Globe Consolidated has, and the latest news of the developments in that property is the best that has yet been given out. Manager M. McCarthy informed a representative of the Silver Belt that the Gem vein in the west drift, twelfth level, has widened to five feet of good ore, the stratum of chalcopyrite carried by the vein and which at first was quite small, having spread until it now almost fills the vein. Assay returns from a sample of the ore taken from the drift show it to be sulphide of excellent quality, carrying 6.5 per cent copper, 27 per cent iron, and 35 per cent sulphur. The improvement in the vein as the drift advanced has been quite rapid and it is not unlikely that the values may continue to increase.

The success of Globe Consolidated now seems to be assured. A mineralized zone 200 feet wide on the Gem claim is being exposed, and two sulphide veins of great promise have been opened for more than a thousand feet in length. The Future Copper vein is about eight feet wide and is shipping ore, while the Gem vein from present indications will prove very profitable to mine.

The ore developments in the Gem mine are of great importance to the camp. The main shaft has reached 200 feet in depth. At 185 feet the dip of the vein carried it out of the shaft and it is not expected that the vein wil be again cut in sinking. At 250 feet a station will be cut and a crosscut run to cut the Iron Lode vein. The machinery is working smoothly and three shifts of four men each are driving the shaft down at the rate of about forty feet per week. No stop will be made except to cut the 250-foot station, until the 500 is reached, when a crosscut will be started to cut the big schist belt on the south. This crosscut will cut four well defined ledges and considerable is expected of this portion of the proposed development.

Later, Manager McCarthy said: "The Gem vein is seven feet wide today, and will average 6 per cent or better in copper. It is the finest looking breast of sulphide ore you ever saw. The Future Copper vein is looking good, too; the ore goes 2½ per cent copper, 38 per cent iron and 44 per cent sulphur," which is probably the best sulphide for the roduction of blister copper yet developed in the district.

Shipments of ore to the Old Dominion smelter began last Saturday and will be continued, with the expectation that the returns will pay all the cost of further development. As the Gem vein has been opened in many places by crosscuts, and by drifts several hundred feet long, and the Future copper vein for a length of 1,100 feet, it would sem that Globe Consolidated should be able to ship a fairly large tonage of ore. At any rate, Globe Consolidated, having once become a shipper, will in all probability continue, with a gradually increasing output, until it ranks among the important copper producers to Arizona.

• • •

Further improvement is reported in the mine of the Pinto Creek Mining & Smelting company. The deep tunnel which has been driven far into the mountain, and has been in ledge matter for some distance, is now opening ground that shows increasing mineralization. Chacopyrite and peacock copper in large seams are observable in the face of the tunnel. The formation, however, is undergoing a still greater improvement as it nearly all shows heavy green copper stain and seems to be leaving the granite, which leads the management to think that it is nearing a contact that may reveal an ore body.

• • •

The Warrior Copper company has added largely to the ore in sight in the Montgomery mine. On Thursday the west crosscut on the 250-foot level was forty-five feet in ore that assays 20 per cent copper, and seventy-five feet below the level the crosscut from the winze had cut the ore. The drift on the 250-foot level had been driven thirty feet west of the crosscut, and was in good ore its entire length of about 375 feet.

• • •

While little has been said of the Old Dominion lately, the developments of ore in Globe's largest mine have been of a notable character. Some time ago it was anounced that the fourtenth level west crosscut, in Block 4, had penetrated the sulphide ore body

LAKE SUPERIOR IRON MINES

Change For Better Still in Progress and Indications Point to Busy Winter—Output at Mansfield Mine Will be Increased —The Breitung Mines Making Heavy Shipments

The change for the better that has been noted in mining affairs in the Lake Superior iron region the past few weeks is still in progress. There is every indication of a busy winter, folowed by any active and prosperous shipping season.

As was the case recently at the company's big Chapin property, Menominee range, operations have been enlarged at the Steel corporation's Mansfield mine and the output will be increased. The Mansfield is in the Crystal Falls district of the Menominee. It produces a fine grade of ore, but to date this season it has been wrought on a scale much below its capacity. For the past six months, work has been in progress only in the daytime and the men have been employed only alternate weeks. Two shifts have now been put on. Much of the Mansfield ore, it is believed, will go to the mammoth new works of the Steel corporation at Gary, Ind. The big Bristol mine of Oglebay, Norwill be necessary. The product being mined at all three mines is being forwarded as fast as hoisted, and there is little question that the properties will retain their present considerable working forces throughout the winter.

The Breitung Mines Busy.

The Breitung interests of Marquette are now operating their Mary Charlotte and Breitung hematite mines vigorously. Little or no ore will be left in stock at the close of the season of navigation. Heavy shipments are being made. The present large forces employed will be kept at work during the winter. Much development is intended, including the opening of an additonal level at each of the mines. The Mary Charlotte and Breitung Hematite are adjoining properties in the Negaunee district of the Marquette range, and it was a few weeks ago when important sales of ore were made, that operations were instituted on their present active basis. Because of the lack of stockpile room, work previously this season had been all but suspended.

Ground on which to pile ore is limited at a number of the mines at both Negaunee and Ishneming, and in this connection there is under consideration the project of establishing a general ore stocking yard at the abandoned saw mill town of Eagle Mills, a few miles out from Marquette, the shipping port of practically all the companies operating on the range. Such a plan would assure the stability of mining work, whereas now it is often necessary in dull seasons to suspend production for the reason that stockpile room is lacking. A few years ago the Cleveland Cliffs Iron company was compeled to transport from the mine and dump on the Lake Superior shore at Marquette many thousands of tons of ore, it doing this rather than shut down the shafts, as did other operators, and it has been intended to repeat the maneuver the coming winter. A number of the mining companies are interested in the Eagle Mills project. The yards would be of large capacity and so arranged that the ores could be loaded, sorted and shipped as the consumers wished it.

The Washington Iron company, controlled by the Breitung interests, is doubling the working force at the Baron mine at Humboldt, Marquette range, where for some time past 100 men have been employed. Until the present operators took over the property last fall, the Baron had been idle for twenty years. It was looked upon with disfavor by some mining men, but it is evident now that the property is more valuable than generally supposed. The ore is of excellent quality, and it is in very good demand. There is enough of it to assure that the mine will be on the active list for many years to come. There are some very large stopes, and in addition a new level will be opened during the winter. The underground workings do not need any timbering to speak of, nor is there any timber in the shaft, except at the collar, as it is sunk through a rock formation. The ore is hard and requires crushing, a fine plant for the purpose having been erected during the summer.

Houses for Employes.

For the better housing of their employes in that vicinity, the Steel corporation and Ferdinand Schlesinger's Newport Iron company are to build a large number of houses at Ironwood, Gogebic range. Contracts have already been awarded. The new structures will be roomy and comfortable and of varied architecture, which latter is a pleasing feature not always found at mining locations. James R. Thompson, who for a number of years has been at the head of the Schlesinger properties on the Gogebic range, these embracing the Newport, Bonnie and Anvil mines, has resigned that position to give attention to his personal interests. ## COLE SAID TO HAVE CONTROL

Of All the Greene Concessions in Northern Mexico---Will Operate Them on Larger Scale Than Ever Before Attempted.

El Paso, Tex., Oct. 10.—Advices from semi-official sources in the city of Mexico state that with the proposed reorganization of the companies controlling the Greene concessions in Northern Mexico the Cole-Ryan interests will play an important part.

It is positively stated that these capitalists have claims, the liquidation of which will place the copper magnates in a position to control both the Siera Madre Land & Lumber company and the Greene Gold-Silver. Col. Greene will retain an interest in both the new enterprises but the Cole-Ryan people will direct the developments of these immense concessions and operate them on a larger scale than has ever before been attempted. Just how much money would be required to enable the former "copper King of the Southwest" to finance the proposed concerns and pay off the indebtedness with which the basis o the enterprises in Northern Mexico has been honeycombed cannot be learned, but probably several millions of dollars would be necessary. There is a known indebtedness of $6,500,000 gold against the land and lumber company alone and it is said that claims against the Rio Grande Sierra Madre & Pacific railgreater than that amount.

It seems evident that the Cole-Ryan interests, who now control the Cananea mines, and have just secured a big block of stock in the railroad referred to, are the prime movers in the reorganization scheme that has been developing around the Greene concessions.

It is said that first the indebtedness of the Sierra Madre Land & Lumber company will be liquidated, which means the taking up of the debenture bond issue of $2,000,000 gold and the general debts of the company, amounting to about $1,500,000.

It is thought that Col. Greene, the former leading figure in the development of Northern Sonora and Chihauhau will retain a liberal holding in the new companies, but the control of these companies will rest with Thomas F. Cole, who now manages copper properties having an estimated value of $250,000,000.

The grants under discussion are the immense timber and mining tracts allotted to Col. Greene for a period of five years and expire Jan. 12, 1909. There are about 3,000,000 acres in the concessions, covering an immense area in Western Chihauhau and extending over into the state of Sonora. The question recently arose as to the date of expiration of these grants it being held that they would expire Dec. 12, 1908, but reference to instructions given the federal mining agent at Guerrero showed that the department of Fomento had instructed the mining agent to allow no denouncements made on the tract until Ja. 12, 1909.

TAKES COPPER CREEK MINES

Calumet & Arizona Company Makes Final Payment of $75,000 to Clark and Scanlon---Ores Will Be Shipped to Douglas Smelter.

Florence, Ariz., Oct. 10.—The final payment of $75,000, due Clark & Scanlon, from the Calumet & Arizona Copper company, for their Copper Creek mines, was made last week, and the title passed to the purchasng company. At the same time, the company made a final payent of $34,000 on a group of claims, in which the controlling interest was held by Superintendent Hooper, under whose direction the development work on the group has been prosecuted.

The company has also acquired by location, a number of contiguous claims, hence its combined holdings cover a large area of ground.

The exploration work which has been n actve progress for about two years past on these properties, has demonstrated that richness and extent of ore bodies this great property is close second to the bonanza mines of the Calumet & Arizona company, at Bisbee, and the company is preparing to equip and develop them upon a scale never before attempted in this county.

The ores will probably be shipped to Douglas for treatment in the company's immense smelting plant, now in operation at the line city. This conclusion is drawn from the fact that the company has already completed a railroad survey from Mammoth to Benson, at which point connection can be made with the El Paso & Southwestern railroad for Douglas. The distance from Mammoth to Benson is about seventy-five miles up the San Pedro valley, and there are no engineerng problems in the way.

SAN SIMON TO RESUME WORK

Operators to Be Started After Suspension of More Than Three Years---Forty Men to Be Put at Work Soon.

Douglas, Ariz., Oct. 10.—News has reached Douglas to the effect that the San Simon Development company will resume operations in the Chiricahuas after a cessation of work for more than three years. Word comes from Bisbee that the officers of that company have been there preparing for the resumption of work and completing all necessary arrangements.

The directors of this company are Michigan men who are largely identified with the mining industry of the Southwest, consisting of N. M. Kaufman, Thomas F. Cole, William Rice and R. S. Kaufman. They report that they will have forty men at work within the next thirty days. This will come with special interest to the people of the Chiricahua district, as well as many who own stock in this company. It will give new life to that mining district and insure new prosperity.

It has been a mystery why this company have not been operating there before, as it is known that they encountered much ore while a large force of men were formerly employed. Extensive machinery has been placed upon the property and a large outlay of money has been expended.

Supt. Hoar of the Lake Superior & Arizona company has gone to the San Simon properties with Mr. Kaufman and the annual assessment work will be attended to.

MINING IN THE BLACK HILLS

Annual Report of the Homestake Company Presents Interesting Figures---Is the So-called Reder Placer Mineral or Agricultural Land.

Deadwood, S. D., Oct. 10.—The annual report of the Homestake Mining company is now in the hands of the stockholders. It covers the year ended May 31. The fire of March, 1907, completely suspended operations for two months and then permitted a gradual resumption of normal conditions. A comparison of some of the chief items with those of the preceding year follows: Total income for 1908, $4,909,504, an increase over 1907 of $121,723. Net income for 1908, $971,282, a decrease from 1907 of $205,322. Surplus, $1,093,918, a decrease from 1907 of $229,918. Dividends, $560,000, a decrease from 1907 of $641,200. The average of the ore treated during the year was only $3.25 per ton, as against $3.75 the year before. This was due to the fact that for some time after the fire the company treated only the surface ore, which is of lower grade. Some idea of the cost of operating may be gained from the following figures: Labor, $1,845,849.03, exclusive of office salaries and legal expenses; construction, $86,546.67; fuel, $304,618.05; water, $51,878.95.

Upon the decision of the government as to whether the ground near Hill City known as the Reder placer is really mineral or agricultural rests the chance of future operations on the property. The ground is part of the old holdings of the famous Harney Peak Tin Mining company and is now in the hands of the receiver of that company. He is desirous of operating it as placer ground, but the government has interposed a protest. During the summer two careful examinations were made of the ground, one by a practical miner and the other by a geologist, but in neither case has a report been made public. Agent Kamman of the Harney Peak company recently hired men to do some prospecting on the ground. From a number of different pits gold was taken.

Richford, S. D., Oct. 10.— With the aid of a number of St. Paul, Minn., capitalists the Crown Mining company is expected to forge to the front. The new investors have just placed $25,000 to the credit of the company, with instructions to proceed at once with extensive development work and the erection of a mill. There are two companies with ground not far distant known as the Crown Mining company. The new one, which just held its annual stockholders' meeting, elected George Hughes, Francis S. Galloway, Fuller W. Fooche and Virginia Womach of St. Paul and Horace H. Palmer of La Crosse, Wis., directors. The new officers are: President and general manager, George Hughes; vice president, Francis S. Galloway; second vice president, Virginia Womach; secretary and treasurer, F. W. Fooche. The property is located in Lawrence county, in the old Calloga district.

In Pennington county, south of the above mentioned property, is the ground of the old Crown Mining company. L. E. Wyatt, a banker of Rockport, Mo., has recently become interested in it together with John F. Schrader and C. L. Lewis of Rapid City and James McNickel of Rochford. The ground is on Castle Creek, ten miles southwest of here, and consists of 130 acres, carryink good values, the principal of which is the Crown vein, on which a strike of 200 feet in length was made. There are numerous shafts and open cuts where the ore is exposed thirty feet in width, assaying from $3 to $100 in value, the average being $6 per ton gold.

THEY ARE HARD AT IT

Duluth and Grand Rapids Are Fighting It Out Today.

St. Cloud Warriors Are Coming for Battle Next Week.

Out at Athletic park this afternoon the Grand Rapids High school football team is trying to make the Centrals of Duluth bite the earth in the first real football game of the season in Duluth.

According to all reports, the Central bunch is not in the best of condition, a number of the men having been absent from practice a number of days this week on account of illness. Others are suffering minor hurts, so that as a whole the team is not in the shape Coach Chauncey Colton would like to have it on the occasion of the first stiff game of the season.

The Grand Rapids men are fully as heavy as the Duluth boys, and although they have played but one game this year, it was a hard one, and they won out handily. A number of their supporters came to town with the team, and from the manner in which they were offering even money on their team, it would seem that they have all the confidence in the world of walking off with Central's scalp.

The weather is ideal for football and a good game should be the result of the meeting of the two schools.

The probable line-up of the Centrals: McFadden, le; McFarlane, lt; Quinn, lg; Helmer, c; Kent rg; Crawford, rt; Ostergren, re; Boyle, qb; Bowen, lh; Cummings, rh; Cook, fb.

As soon as the din of the battle has been stilled this afternoon the students will begin to think about St. Cloud next Saturday. This little town is known for the strength of the football teams it turns out each fall, for it has two of them, the high school and the normal. They have always been a stumbling block for the locals, and the two teams have see-sawed back and forth with alternate victories for the past ten years. Last season was the first time in years that the two schools did not meet on the gridiron.

According to advices from the southern part of the state, they have this year, what the students believe to be the best team in years, and as they always play the best schools in the state and have hooked up nearly as strong a schedule this year as have the Centrals, they hope to cut considerable figure in the fight for the state championship.

BLAINE PLAYING AT ASHLAND

Superior School is Playing First Hard Game of Season.

Blaine high school of Superior is today lined up against the Ashland team at that town, and the supporters of the high school team here are much interested in the outcome, as Duluth plays Blaine later on in the season.

Very little concerning either the Ashland or Blaine teams is known, as neither one has played a hard game so far this season, and football talk from across the bay is not as loud as it was last year and the year before.

Advices from Ashland are to the effect that the team there is very light and composed of raw men, but that they are showing up in great form, and it is quite likely that Superior will be given a good rub, although the better the Superior school should show up between now and the time for the Duluth-Superior contest, the better the local students would like it.

ALL READY FOR OPENING OF THE WORLD'S SERIES

SAM CRAWFORD AND "TY" COBB,
The Two Heavy Hitting Tigers, on Whom the Hopes of the Detroit Fans Center.

Detroit, Oct. 10.—The opening of the battle for the world's championship finds both the Detroit American league and the Chicago National league teams in excellent condition, and filled with confidence. Every indication is that the opening of the series at Bennett park this afternoon will be under the most auspicious circumstances. Baseball enthusiasm is intense in this city, and baseball is practically the sole topic of conversation in hotels, theaters, cafes, street cars and all public places. Bennett park, the home of the Detroit team, is in perfect condition and indications are that it will be filled with a record-breaking crowd when play is called at 2 o'clock today.

The Chicago National league team, sixteen men strong, in addition to President Murphy, Secretary Williams and a numbe roi newspaper men, arrived from New York over the Michigan Central railway yesterday afternoon. They went immediately to their quarters at the Hotel Tuller. All of them except Captain-Manager Frank Chance are in perfect condition for the game today. Capt. Chance was struck in the throat by a rowdy while leaving the field after the game in New York, and the blow injured a cartilage in his throat and accted his voice so that he can barely speak above a whisper. While annoying, the injury will not prevent the Chicago leader from taking his place at first base. Immediately upon his arrival here Capt. Chance called on a throat specialist and his throat was under treatment during the late afternoon and evening Pitchers Brown and Pfelster were also buffeted about in the attack on the Chicago players after the game, but did not receive hurts of any consequence.

Ruelbach is Slated.

When told of the statement issued last night by John T. Brush, president of the New York club denying that the alleged tie game between New York and Chicago would be taken into the United States court, Mr. Murphy said that the report was too ridiculous to need any denial.

"The pitching choice for tomorrow lies between Killian and Donovan," said Manager Jennings last evening, "with the probabilities favoring Killian. We are going into the fight for the world's championship filled with confidence. Our last game with the Chicago American league team, which gave us the championship of our league, showed me that I still have the greatest team in modern professional baseball."

Within two hours after the reserved seat sales opened yesterday morning at Bennett park, every reserved seat for Saturday's game was sold and there were still hundreds of men in line waiting to secure the coveted admissions. Circus seats which will accommodate 10,000 spectators arrived at Bennett park yesterday from Chicago and a large force of carpenters put them in place under the supervision of architects. These seats extend completely around the outfield from the third base line to the pavilion in right field. President F. J. Navin stated last night that he will have seats for from 18,000 to 20,000 people and that the demand for tickets indicated that they will be filled.

Telegrams of congratulation on his victory in the American league continue to come to Manager Jennings. Manager McGraw of the New York Giants, former teammate and close friend of Jennings, telegraphed to him as follows:

"If justice had been done, you would be playing it off with the Giants now. My hearty congratulations. May you always prosper as you have this year."

PRESIDENT'S SON SHOWS UP WELL

Kermit Roosevelt Playing Tackle on Harvard Freshman Team.

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 10.—Kermit Roosevelt, the second son of President Roosevelt, was given first choice this week as tackle on the Harvard freshman football team in the first day of scrimmage the candidates have had. Roosevelt went in at right tackle on the first eleven, and, although the second team continually sent plays at him, the young man had the necessary grit and stamina and made a good showing.

Willus Britt in "Chi."

Chicago, Oct. 10.—Willus Britt, who managed the affairs of Battling Nelson through the recent Gans-Nelson fights, arrived in this city and was accorded a hearty welcome by the Battler and a number of friends, who met him at the depot. Britt tried to steal secretly into the city, but his coming was made known and he was royally received.

Britt did not come here on business. He says he merely came to Chicago to get away from the monotony of California, and says he may make a trip East and try to induce Sam Langford and Billy Papke to hook up.

FOOTBALL GOSSIP

Minnesota's football forces went through a stiff secret practice program yesterday in preparation for the game with Ames today.

There has been much speculation as to the probable outcome of the game, considering the fact that Jaensen, the farmers' crack quarterback, has been found ineligible. For comparative purposes this adds little to the hopeful outlook for Minnesota. Jaensen was only in the game fifteen minutes last season and was taken out for fear of an injury, as Ames was then pointing up for the game with Iowa. The loss of Brugger is a blow to Ames, but his substitute is said to be just about as good as the missing man. So far as Jaensen's effect on the game is concerned, his absence will in reality leave Ames' defense just as strong as last season, and that was strong enough. Jaensen's work amounted to little on the defensive side of the play. Without his goal kicking ability Ames' chance of scoring is lessened, but he cuts no ice on the defensive side. Ames' defense last year was stronger than the Gophers cared for, and there is little to indicate that it will be lessened Saturday. Minnesota is going to have to go some to score on the farmers. They have suffered a hit, probably, in their offensive work, but their defense will be just as vigorous as ever.

* * *

There was a "rally" at Northrop field last night, when Bert Paige, Bobby Marshall, Earl Luce, Art Larkin and Dan Smith, former players, were out looking at the practice and offering side-line suggestions to the candidates. Gridiron battles since the time of the flood were discussed in detail. The veterans were surrounded by groups of gaping-mouthed freshies and sophs, all eager to feast their eyes upon the gathering of football royalty of days when the game was a game and basketball did not figure in final results.

The veterans bore themselves with becoming modesty and received the admiring adulation with urbane tolerance and studied indifference. It was a happy time—for everybody.

Followers of the Syracuse university football team cannot get over the splendid showing made by the Orange against Yale on Saturday last and confidently expect to see the Indians defeated when the elevens meet today on the gridiron laid out for them at Buffalo baseball park. This will be the third game between the red and white warriors and judging from all accounts it will prove the banner one.

The scores in the past two years have been close, but Glen Warner's tribe has always managed by some trick or other to score a victory. Syracuse believes that it knows enough about the Indian style of football to prevent any points being made in that direction and feels confident of winning where the straight article is followed. Since last Saturday's splendid showing against the Blue of Yale, Syracuse has jumped into greater prominence than ever and the Orange will be held in great respect at New Haven hereafter, because for the first time in her history Yale was absolutely unable to make a first down during an entire half. So if Syracuse shows the same aggressiveness against the red men there will be a football contest worthy of the name on Saturday.

* * *

The final arrangements of the Nebraska team were made this week by Manager Eager to run an excursion train to Minneapolis for the Nebraska-Minnesota game.

It is the hope of the football enthusiasts at the Nebraska university to send 2,000 rooters to see the game with the Gophers. A rate of $6.20 has been secured for the round trip, which in itself insures an immense crowd.

The crowd that will accompany the team this year is expected to exceed the immense throng that journeyed to Minneapolis in the fall of 1901.

The final touches are now being put on the Cornhusker team. Coach Cole has now practically picked the team that will oppose Minnesota. Unless for some now unseen reason there is a shift the team that will oppose the Gophers is as follows: Capt. Harvey, left end; Frum, left tackle; Ewing, left guard; Collins, center; Harte, right guard; Chaloupka, right tackle; Johnson, right end; Cooke, quarterback; Birkner, right half; Beltzer, left half, and Kroeger, fullback. The substitutes will be, Rentley, quarter; Rathbone and Minor, ends; Temple and Arnold, halfbacks, and Shonka, Slagel and Elliott, linemen.

It is the confident belief of nearly every supporter of football at Nebraska that Minnesota will be easily defeated. The Cornhuskers will probably go to Minnesota over-confident. Since the beginning of the season, when it was found that George Capron would not be in the game this year, it has been the expectation to bring back to Lincoln a goodly number of Gopher hides.

The Cornhuskers are stronger this year than they have ever been before and if they have ever had a chance to go through a season undefeated it is this year. The team and the conditions here remins one very much of the days of 1902 when the Cornhuskers went through the season with their goal uncrossed. That year Minnesota was defeated by a score of 6 to 0. The eleven regular men who will constitute the team and five of the substitutes have been at the training table for a week and all are considered as good as any of the regulars that Nebraska has ever had in the past.

The college athlete of today is a clean man who lives an upright life, and his shining example is what makes others follow him. That's what Coach H. L. Bigelow of Yale says, and he tells an interesting tale of what the college man of today is.

"The big man at the college today," said Coach Biglow, "it not the one who can drink everybody else under the table. The truest and strongest man is not necessarily the one who follows the crowd and does what every other man thinks is the best thing to do. Nowadays college morals are on a higher plane. Some of the best men of the colleges are those who go in for sports and a fellow who does so must be a clean man.

"An old-time follower of athletic sports who has followed every football game for the last twenty years recently told me that he had discovered it to beas fact that no man who was good on the field was ever anything but good when he got off the field and entered his life work. We who have watched football and the other branches of college sports have had reason to learn that the man on the eleven or on the track who has a good religious backing is the man in whom every one has confidence.

"You would be surprised to find how many athletes there are who at night say their prayers before they go to bed. Fully three-quarters of the athletes I know whose work amounts to something in whom their teammates have implicit confidence say their prayers, whether they be alone or in training quarters with other men."

Jack Johnson, the black shadow of the heavyweights, apparently is finding the pasture short in Europe, at least the French papers are doing things to him for trying to evade his bills. The sporting writers of Paris do not know anything about the fighting game, but in their articles about Johnson they indulge in some personalities that must hurt the sensitive nature of the colored pugilist. "The tall man with the big flat feet" is one of the nice things the Parisians call him and "the long colored fighter" is another.

Johnson's latest financial entanglement arose in Paris, where he was doing stunts on the vaudeville stage, and, being unable to speak the language, hired a "master of ceremonies." This gentleman's name is "Speaker Max." After serving Johnson in the role of general manager and interpreter, he had the audacity to ask the colored man for the money he had earned. The receipts of the show not being what they might have been, Johnson refused to come through with the coin, but kindly offered to settle the obligation with his fists. Speaker Max is credited with having "prudently declined this invitation." The diplomatic Max is then reported to have communed with himself for a few hours and suddenly hit on a brilliant plan. The plot developed next morning when Johnson was ready to leave for London and the "directors of the hotel" rendered him the little bill for Max's services. Johnson wanted the management to take it out in fists again, but the management also "prudently declined." Poor Jack had to settle the bill, but got even by declaring that "the ungrateful city would know him no more." Mr. Johnson was then, according to the French writer, "allowed to excuse himself."

The colored pugilist's plans for the future are a little hazy at present, but it is expected that he will return to this country shortly. Since losing the chance to meet Tommy Burns in England, Jack has been real disconsolate, but he still carries a picture of the Canadian next to his bosom.

No ball pitcher who takes one of those fancy wind-ups before throwing the ball can ever become a permanent success. The authority for this statement is Clark Griffith, who was a master twirler for nineteen years. He never wound up before throwing to the plate in his life.

While none of the great managers appears to have given the matter consideration, it will be noticed that not one of the great pitchers of the last decade who lasted longer than four or five years ever had "wind-up." The ideal twirler throws the ball from his shoulder, getting momentum by throwing his body forward on the toes. He simply draws his arm back and lets go. That is sufficient.

Mathewson of the Giants never winds up. His only motion is to raise his hands above his head and then turn the ball loose. In the American league Donovan never takes a wind-up. Neither does Cy Young of Boston. He has been a successful pitcher longer than other man. He attributes his lasting qualities to the fact that he makes no unnecessary motions of his arms. Among the other great pitchers who do not use a wind-up are Joss of Cleveland, Leever of Pittsburg, Brown of Chicago, and Overall of Chicago.

"That preliminary wind-up," says Clark Griffith, "has broken down more pitchers than any amount of overwork. It is overwork.

"As an illustration," explained the former manager of the Highlanders, "just wind your arm around for fifty times and see how exhausted you become. The pitcher who does that continually will wear his arm out without ever throwing the ball. The pitcher should reserve all of his strength for use in pitching the ball. In a wind-up there is too much lost motion. I do not believe it gives a pitcher any extra speed of any better control anyway."

MAY QUIT BASEBALL.

Fielder Jones of White Sox Has Too Much Other Business.

Chicago Oct. 10.—Manager Fielder Jones again talks of quitting his job as manager of the White Sox and retiring from the baseball arena. Jones made the same talk at the end of last season, but was persuaded to return this season and Comiskey is hopeful that the same thing will be accomplished when the 1909 campaign is ready to begin. Jones is earnest in his cry to quit and devote all his time to his timber interests in the far Northwest, where he has most of his baseball earnings tied up. The first of next month, Jones, accompanied by his wife and son, Cecil, will leave for Portland, Or., to look after his timber interests.

Wanted—A Game.

"The Maroons," a newly organized football team, are anxious to get dates with any 135 pound team in the city. They would prefer to meet the Broadways or the Billings Park bunch. Games can be arranged by calling 3170 on the Zenith telephone.

CHESTNUT IN THE GAME

His Return to Gopher Squad Makes Prospect Brighter.

Capron is Helping Dr. Williams With the Coaching.

(By An Old Grad.)

Minneapolis, Oct. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Gopher football stock took a jump today when it became definitely known that Ed Chestnut would be back in the game this year. His appearance will work wonders with the rooters. Had he been in the line last Saturday the score would probably have been a different story.

Rooters are also pleased with the attitude of Capron. The great drop kicker was ruled out because he played baseball during the summer with a semi-professional team. But he is hard at work with Dr. Williams trying to get the team in shape for the big games to come.

Secret practice has been going on all the week. Just what is being done remains to be seen. It must not be forgotten that Ames did not permit Minnesota to cross their line at all last year. The farmer boys are just as strong this year and the Gophers are supposed to be much weaker. But weak teams often prove surprises. Dr. Williams has never failed to turn out at least a good strong team and it is believed he can do the same this year.

The election of Safford as captain has put a new spirit into the men. With everyone working hard the prospects look better at the present writing than at any other time this season.

Great stress has been laid on the importance of the game today. If the result should be a decided score in favor of Minnesota it would mean new life and vigor to all the team. It would mean a record-breaking crowd at the coming Nebras..a game.

It has been reported around the campus and in the Twin City dailies that Minnesota would protest several of the Ames players. The attitude of Minnesota authorities is to let Ames handle the question of eligibility among themselves. If they certify that any player is eligible that is sufficient. This attitude, by the way, is the one assumed by Minnesota on all questions of this kind.

The season is now far enough advanced to get a line on the other teams that will meet the Gophers this fall. The team most feared now is Nebraska. The Cornhuskers are a veteran bunch and have had all kinds of experience. They are heavy and fast. Last year they gave Chicago and Minnesota a hard rub and the Gophers and Maroons last year were among the top-notchers. The team will arrive early in the week and will spend several days in the Twin Cities going through a stiff practice. They are bound to win if they can.

A victory by the boys from Lincoln would be a sorry blow to Minnesota and Dr. Williams feels it. That is why such a coterie of assistant coaches will be on the field next week to assist. About all the talent in this line that can be had will be on the campus to assist. From now until the team comes out on the field next Saturday the utmost secrecy will prevail. Dr. Williams feels that he can get better work out of his men behind closed gates. This much is certain: Whichever team may win the rooters will see a game that will be worth watching.

VIRGINIA TEAM'S AVERAGES

The batting averages of the Virginia ball players, who were recognized as the fastest team on the range last week, when John Haley, a hotel keeper of Hibbing, presented them with a silver loving cup in recognition of that fact, have been completed.

This team played sixty-seven games, and won forty-three of them. They lost twenty-one, and three games were played to a tie.

Graham, the star pitcher of the aggregation, pitched twenty-five games and won twenty of them. Currie pitched twenty-one games and won fifteen, and Schultz pitched nine and won six.

Following are the averages:

| Name. | Games. | At Bat. | Hits. | Pct. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Hart | 30 | 106 | 39 | .368 |
| Walters | 64 | 219 | 67 | .306 |
| Olmstead | 67 | 220 | 63 | .286 |
| O'Hayer | 62 | 206 | 56 | .272 |
| Anthony | 66 | 254 | 66 | .260 |
| Currie | 39 | 109 | 28 | .257 |

Last Game of Summer.

(By a Chicago Fan.)

'Tis the last game of summer,
The season is done;
All her lovely companions
We have lost or have won;
Then comes the post season,
And then comes the snow,
Ah, deep is my grieving
And fierce is my woe!

For months we will languish
And worry and stew;
The long dreary winter
We'll never get through;
The world will be dismal,
The sun will not shine,
O, picture the sorrow
In this heart of mine!

I'll not leave thee, sweet treasure,
To be played without me;
But I'll be a sad witness
In the bleachers, you'll see;
I'll be out there to cheer thee,
To holler and cry;
With my pals and the rooters,
To give sigh for sigh.

CHICAGO VS. INDIANA

Western Teams Line Up for First Big Struggle.

Coach Stagg Says Speed Will be Feature of Chicago's Play.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—The University of Chicago today lines up against the fast Indiana eleven. Of late the reports from the Hoosier camp indicate that the team is showing up in excellent form. The students here are not very enthusiastic and say they will be satisfied if Chicago wins on any kind of a score.

Speaking of the Chicago team, Coach Stagg says:

"Our main hope for a championship football team this year is to put speed into the players. Our men are light, but most of them are fairly fast on their feet, and I think we will have one of the fastest teams in the history of the University of Chicago. Not only will the men be fast in running with the ball, but they will be speedy in lining up after each down. Steffen is a hustler and if my plans don't go astray, the team that faces Indiana today will keep up a fast and never-tiring clip.

"In order to carry out these proceedings it is necessary to have all the men, especially the backs, in perfect condition, so they can go at top speed throughout the game. Yesterday I kept Iddings, Schott, Crowley and Page running around the field after practice until 6:30 o'clock. If one of the back fields gets winded it will break up the combination. I am lucky in having willing workers who are just as eager for a championship team as I am myself."

It was nearly 7 o'clock before the last Maroon football player left Marshall field last night. Although the electric lights were not in evidence, and no "ghost ball" was brought into use the men kept right on working in the dark. Scrimmage, tackling, running down the field on forward passes, catching forward passes, throwing the ball, falling on the ball and breaking through the line were on the bill of the day's work.

In the scrimmage, Nicholl of the freshman team scored his second drop kick of the season on the varsity and the game ended with the score of 20 to 4 in favor of the regulars.

"Crowley is an ideal man at backing up the line on defense, the Maroon followers say. He reminds them of Catlin, who stopped the terrific hurdles of Vanderboom of Wisconsin in the game with the Badgers four years ago. Crowley is big and fast and has a gift of football sense in summing up an opponent's play at the outset."

NEWS OF THE SCRAPPERS

Battling Nelson Will Not Fight Again Until February.

New York, Oct. 10.—"Battling" Nelson, the lightweight champion, is not going to fight again until February. He has just signed a contract to appear in vaudeville for ten weeks, for which he is to receive $1,200 each week. Nelson had agreed to take on Freddie Welsh, the English lightweight, but as Baron Long, matchmaker of the Jeffries A. C., of Los Angeles, Cal., was only willing to give him a guarantee of $4,000 to box the Englishman twenty-five rounds, he immediately called off negotiations and signed up the theatrical contract. Welch and Packey McFarland will probably be matched up now to fight at the Jeffries A. C., on Thanksgiving day afternoon.

Tommy Burns has made a tremendous hit in Australia. Immense crowds gather to see him. He is forced to make public speeches and to hold great "receptions" on the lawn at his training quarters.

The Sydney Referee, after printing a column or two describing Tommy's popularity, adds the following note:

"The attention paid to Burns drew a protest from the Rev. J. Walker at Ballarat during the course of a sermon at St. Andrew's ire. Mr. Wagner deplored the fact that the famous pugilist cut a greater figure in the public eye than eminent theologians or politicians."

* * *

Cross, the coming champion, was offered a match, Friday night, with Joe Gans, "the coming champion." Cross refused without stalling for time to think it over. Cross is wise. He isn't quite ready for Gans yet. Joe is too young. Besides Cross can make a fortune cleaning up easy ones, while a Gans fight would either leave him shy opponents or put him at the bottom again.

* * *

Al Herford is again managing Gans. Herford handled Gans in Chicago when the negro "laid down" to Terry McGovern. The fake was all on the Herford-Gans side of the fence. McGovern didn't know it was coming off. Herford engineered the fake in which Gans won from Jimmy Britt on a "foul." Gans afterward made affidavit to this fact in San Francisco when he publicly announced his "reformation." Gans' long career of faking was all under Herford's direction.

Joe Gans himself says that Herford kept him in debt from year to year and then forced him to "fight to orders." Gans said he was sick of being dishonest in the ring and was going to cut loose from Herford and make a clean reputation on his own hook.

Al Herford is among managers what Philadelphia Jack O'Brien has been among fighters—all but the confessing bee.

If this Baltimore manipulator is allowed to butt into the boxing game in New York we will very soon be buying round-trip tickets to Philadelphia again.

BRADLEY KNOCKED OUT.

Kaufman Puts Him to Sleep in the Fourth Round.

New York, Oct. 10.—Al Kaufman of San Francisco knocked out Fred Bradley of Boston in the fourth round of what was to have been a six-round go at the National Athletic club here last night. The men fought at catch weights. Kaufman was about twenty pounds the heavier.

Bradley was removed to his dressing room in an unconscious condition and several hours after the fight, had not been revived.

| Gans-Nelson | W. F. | Goldfield, Nevada | 69,715 | 33,500 |
| Gans-Britt | K. | San Francisco | 36,000 | 26,000 |

THE fighting game is the most lucrative vocation in the world, says the New York World. Joe Gans went to Fort Erie, stepped into the ring with Frank Erne, shot out his right, and down went the lightweight champion. That one punch netted Gans at least $100,000 worth of engagements.

Only a few months ago, Stanley Ketchel stepped into a ring in California with Mike "Twin" Sullivan. The latter feinted, Ketchel dodged, shot over his right and down went Sullivan. Ketchel got $8,500 for that one punch.

A few years ago England sent its champion, Pedlar Palmer, to America to vanquish Terry McGovern. "Terrible Terry" stepped into the ring, shot out his right, down went the Englishman, and while the referee was counting, Mr. Cashier handed Terry's manager something in the neighborhood of $10,000.

The other day, the news flashed under the Pacific that Tommy Burns had signed his name to an agreement to fight one Jack Johnson. The bait was a $50,000 purse. The fight is to take place in Sydney, Australia, in December. This battle is to be for the heavyweight championship of the world, but the purse is the magnificent thing about it. It is the biggest purse ever offered for a ring battle.

And on the same day "Battling" Nelson, champion lightweight, declined an offer of $10,000 to meet Packey McFarland in a six-round battle in Philadelphia. If you figured it down you would find that the country pays President Roosevelt some very small change in comparison. Nelson refused to battle eighteen minutes when his remuneration promised to be $555 a minute. Six rounds would mean only eighteen minutes of actual fighting.

But Nelson declined because he feared McFarland—strange as that may seem. It would have cost him a great deal more than $10,000. Nelson is a stayer, a bulldog for endurance, and he knew that McFarland had a splendid chance to outpoint him in a six-round battle. He had no mind to lose $10,000 worth of his glory as champion and jeopardize his value as a theatrical star. "I will meet him over the Marathon route any time and place," he wired the Philadelphia matchmaker.

Two years ago Nelson picked up $11,000 for a six-round battle with Terry McGovern at the same club. He had no fear of McGovern. Terry had gone back. And Terry was a fighter after his own style. He knew it would be a case of slug and he thought he would be able to out-slug McGovern. But Terry gave him as good as he took, and Nelson was lucky to escape with a division of the honors.

There are many fighters in America, some still in the ring and others retired, who have fat and juicy bankrolls. There is Tom Sharkey, who left Uncle Sam's man-of-war to enter the ring and accumulated gold so fast it made him dizzy, and Tommy Ryan, who gathered in the shekels for many years, until age laid him on the shelf with all his gold around him. It is a fallacy that fighters dissipate their wealth away. John L. Sullivan did it for years—and being the best-known fistic artist, the world decided others in kind. George Dunn threw all his wealth away, and Joe Gans, recently defeated by Nelson, has done likewise.

Gans is returning to Baltimore. It is doubtful if he will arrive home with even a part of his end of his recent fights in California. He has long been a victim of the gambling germ—in fact, carries "the bones" in his pocket and is ever ready to shake for either "two bits" or his hotel.

But the great majority of real champions have stowed themselves away with enough to live on in comfort and luxury for all life. Jim Jeffries, the champion of champions, carried his fortune to Los Angeles, and has been adding to its ever since.

Jack Johnson trailed Tommy Burns all over Europe, and was hitting the trail to Australia when Tommy capitulated. Burns is perhaps the cleverest business man in the game. He has never feared Johnson. He knew that some day some club would offer a purse worth while. And he was wily enough to know that Johnson was the best press agent he had. Johnson and his manager were advertising the champion from the rooftops.

The fighters are to get $50,000 at Sydney, $30,000 for the winner and $20,000 for the loser. The battle may go one round, ten, twenty or forty. Neither man has ever fought more than twenty rounds.

Jim Jeffries was offered $50,000, but the match did not go through. When Goldfield was prosperous the promoters threw out all kinds of bait to the champion, but he refused to budge from his retirement.

Bob Fitzsimmons and Jim Hall fought for a $40,000 purse at New Orleans. Bob won and the manager of the club handed him a heck for $41,000, a thousand being for training expenses. But when Bob tried to get it cashed it was turned back. Fitzsimmons didn't get a cent for that battle, and neither did all. The men had agreed to fight, winner take all.

The next biggest purse was the $30,000 given for the first Gans-Nelson battle at Goldfield. Nelson got the biggest end of that, although Gans was the champion at the time and won the battle. That fight holds the record in the matter of receipts. The gate was $69,715.

The fighters, however, have frequently cut more than the Goldfield purse amounted to. The Jeffries-Sharkey contest in New York drew $66,300, and the fighters received $36,465. The money was divided 75 per cent to Jeffries, the winer, and 25 per cent to Sharkey. The sailor made a terrible row, claiming he had not only been robbed of the decision, but of a fortune.

The Jeffries-Corbett fight in San Francisco drew a gate of $63,340, and the fighters divided the record sum of $43,638. That was more than $4,000 to the round. The fight only lasted ten rounds.

Jim Corbett and Kid McCoy took part in a fake fight at Madison Square Garden, robbing the public of $60,000, the fakers dividing $33,000. Terry McGovern and George Dixon drew $45,000 at the old Broadway club the time Terry took the championship from the great little negro.

Right here in New York nowadays we have examples of get-rich-quick fighters. A year ago Leach Cross of the East Side, fought in a preliminary for $5. The other week he got $1,700 for his six-round affair with Tommy Murphy, and later he received a fat wad for his encounter at the National Athletic club with Willie Fitzgerald. He has laid away a snug fortune in his year-old career as a fighter.

Tommy Murphy owns a row of tenements and a large slice of Long Island. Tommy has never been wild. He runs from the ringside to the office of his investment broker.

Billy Papke, who recently won the middleweight championship from Ketchel, has gathered in $40,000 in the last year. He will probably get as much more before the year is over.

DULUTH PEOPLE ARE INTERESTED

Outcome of the Great Chicago-Detroit Contest Eagerly Watched.

There are not many bets being made in Duluth this year on the outcome of the big world's championship game being played between Detroit and Chicago in the Michigan city today. While both teams have their supporters in this city, the admirers of the Tigers are keeping quiet and hoping for the best. The decisive defeat that the Cubs doled out to the Detroit team is still fresh in the memories of a great many who backed them to win last year, and this year they are not taking a chance.

It is likely that "Wild Bill" Donovan or Killian will fling 'em over the plate for Detroit today, and either Reulbach or Overall for Chicago. If Donovan pitches today one of those brilliant games that he has been in the habit of throwing spasmodically during the past season, together with the advantage of playing on their home grounds, and the heavy hitting ability of Crawford and Cobb, the Tigers should get away with the first contest.

A number of people will go down to Chicago tonight to see the Chicago game Sunday.

RULES WORRY THE COACHES

New Laws Are Very Indefinite on Some Points.

New York, Oct. 10.—Little new information regarding the football rules situation was gleaned at the annual meeting of the rules committee, and the central board of officials at the Murray Hill hotel recently. There were enough football men present to make the gathering a notable one, and these lovers of the autumn sport sat and discussed the playing code nearly all night. Walter Camp was in the chair, and it was he who expounded the difficult points that cropped up throughout the evening.

Many were present who had only a superficial knowledge of the playing code. These enthusiasts came primed with innumerable questions. More improbable complications were mentioned at the meeting than will ever crop up on the gridiron in the next hundred years.

The majority of the questions came from the younger element, who, according to Dr. Babbitt, chairman of the central board of football officials, are exceedingly desirous of becoming officials this year. It is an encouraging sign, but had these young men learned the principles upon which the game is built much time would have been saved.

Many points were referred back to the rules committee, and the mail vote of that body will shortly be announced. Much time was spent in thrashing out section 5 of rule 6, which governs a fair catch. The rule provides that a player who signals for a fair catch may take two steps after making the catch. It was pointed out that a ball sometimes bounds out of a man's arm, and it was necessary for him to take several steps to complete his fair catch. Should these steps be allowed and after the ball is actually caught, is the player entitled to the two steps under the rules?

Mr. Camp's interpretation was that the player might take as many steps as he pleased if the ball bounded off his chest or arms, but could take only two after he successfully caught it. He pointed out, however, that as soon as the ball was touched, every player on the field was onside, and so could knock over the catcher in their endeavor to capture the leather. A player, however, could not actually interfere with a free catch. Under the ruling, a man might juggle the ball down the field if such thing were possible.

It was decided to refer back to the rules committee the suggestion that some provision be made regarding the refusing of the penalty of an incompleted forward pass might be illegally touched inside of the ten-yard line of the defending team. Had the ball not been touched it might have rolled over the goal line for a touchback, in which case the defending team would kick off from its 25-yard line. As it was touched, the defending team, which did not violate the rules, is compelled to line up inside of its own 10-yard line, which is manifestly unfair.

It was decided that the game should always be played with a new football, and that in the case of the ball becoming waterlogged in the first period, another new ball should be used in the second half. If a player comes into the game at the beginning of the second period he should report to the referee the same as if he had been changed during the play. A loss of fifteen yards is the penalty for not reporting, which should be awarded as soon as the referee discovers that the man is in the game.

VETERAN BALL PLAYER DIES.

Thomas Pratt of Philadelphia National League Club, Passes Away.

Philadelphia, Oct. 10.—Thomas J. Pratt, a once noted baseball player, and one of the founders of the Philadelphia National League club, died Monday. Mr. Pratt was 64 years old. In his younger days he was a member of the Atlantic baseball club, and later became a member of the old Athletic team. He alternated between the pitcher's box and third base. Mr. Pratt was born in Worcester, Mass., but came to this city with his parents when he was a boy.

Adams vs. Hummers.

The Adams Alumni football team will meet the fast Hummer team Sunday afternoon at Athletic park. Both teams are of about the same weight, and a swift game should result.

BALL BUG HAS ACTORS

How Famous Ones Love to Look on National Game.

Spotlight Artists Are Real Mainstay in New York.

(By Clarence L. Cullen.)

New York, Oct. 10.—Fans attending the New York ball games always get a close peek at slews of stage notables who have got the baseball bug bad. All professions, including the medical profession to almost a monumental extent, are represented in numbers at the games here. The other day, when Doyle of the Giants got himself spiked, the umpire gave the call into the stand for a doctor person. Reckon there must have been at least 100 doctory-looking chaps, from the youngish fellows wearing solemn-looking lambrequins to the oldish boys with mutton-choppers of silvery white, bouncing to their feet in the main grandstand and offering to beat it over the sward to have a look at Doyle's spiked shank.

But the theatrical profession has the call at the New York games. You have only to cast your wick around any old afternoon at the Polo grounds to see literally scores of the close-shaven stage chaps squatted mostly in the grand opera glaring at people who will persist in conversing in the boxes when the performance is on. Collier, too, thinks, or used to think, that he was some ballplayer. Pitching, he imagined, was his meter, as we say in our set. Willie pitched, or started to pitch, a game last summer for a stage pair of nines, who were pulling the thing for a charitable purpose. He'd taken quite a stack of lessons from Christy Mathewson in the fade-away ball thing and the down-shoot stuff and all like that, and he felt as he went into the box that it was a sin-ister sin and a shame what he was going to do with that poor bunch of stage slobs, his friends, who were going up against the new style of flinging stuff that Matty had uncoiled on him in private.

Well, those hitsmen for the other side made mince-meat out of most of Willie's up-to-the-minute stuff in the first inning, and then Lew Dockstader, who was captain of the nine on which Willie played, staked Willie to the beckoning finger and told him that if that was the best he could do he'd better go buy a jute bag for himself and finish out the rest of his life wearing a yashmak, like a member of the sultan's harem, or words to that general insulting effect. Willie was sad over it, too, and he told Lew that he hadn't had a chance to warm up for more than three or four hours before the game, and that if he were only allowed to continue he didn't think thy'd get more than a couple of thousand of hits off his delivery.

Dockstader Monologues.

Lew Dockstader himself is one of the chief rooters-ists of the theatrical brigade. Lew keeps up a steady monologued during the entire progress of the game, which is meant for the hearing of nobody but himself, but, of course, when you're sitting near his box, why you can't help but hear his mutterings. Curiously enough, he's one of these pessimistic rooters, and can't ever see how the dickens the team he wants to win is going to win, doggone 'em, anyhow. He's like that fellow you've often sat next to at the races, who, when the horse he has bet his good kale on is away out in front in the middle of the stretch, ten lengths to the good and only swinging, with the boy only kidding the others behind him, just can't figure out how the dooce he's going to connect, and says to you: "Oh, yes, he's in front a little now, of course, and all like that, but wait'll one of those other mutts creeps up and looks him in the lamp," and so on. Lew was at a game a while ago when the Giants were six runs to the good, and yet he was shaking his head about it and talking to himself like a man staking himself to some personally conducted conversation on a bad next morning after a night before. "Oh, sure, I see the score," he was saying, "and we're trotting along with a kind of lead, sure enough, but all kinds of things are liable to happen in this man's game, and—well, I'll let you know whether we cop after the last inning, that's what I'm a-saying," and he refused to be comforted, and when the Giants made four runs more he still was there with the skeptical pack, all to himself, about whether the Glanth possibly could cop that game, durn 'em for a lot of hard-luckers.

Willie Collier Is Feverish.

Willie Collier is another of the ball bugs, and he gets so feverish over it that when any of his theatrical pals in the same box with him are hardened and callous enough to smile and chat in ever so low a tone when the team he likes is behind, why, he just glares and glares at 'em, you know, like those German persons at the grand opera glaring at people who will persist in conversing in the boxes when the performance is on. Collier, too, thinks, or used to think, that he was some ballplayer. Pitching, he imagined, was his meter, as we say in our set. Willie pitched, or started to pitch, a game last summer for a stage pair of nines, who were pulling the thing for a charitable purpose. Louis Mann—the Famous.

The most irrepressible rooter of the stage layout is Louis Mann, the comedian (but he wants to do Macbeth and such like now, thereby coming into conflict with Eddie Foy, who hankers to hamstring Hamlet), who got back from Paris not long ago wearing one of those Quarter Latin makeups, velvet pantles and the bow necktie and all. Louis has got a rooting voice like the steam whistle of a gutta-percha factory, and tells the umpire that he, the arbitrator, ought to be working in a brickyard over in Hoboken, why, certain hear Louie, yes you sure can. He gets terrifically excited over it too, as befits his Teutonic nature, and his face becomes the color of Canton flecnicker and he has a swell up on his neck and forehead, and if you saw him at a critical juncture of the game you'd be willing to bet three to one that he'd go up into the air among the grandstand flags, from spontaneous combustion before the finish of the game.

Georgie of Bauk-Wad Fame.

George Cohan Jes' nachully hated to hike on to Chicago with his "Yankee Prince" show before the beginning of the big series of games here, and there were even rumors that he thought of canceling a couple of weeks of the Chicago engagement in order to be on hand to give Muggsy the proper spiritual uplift at difficult moments during the contests. Georgie is there with such a bank wad nowadays that he could afford to cancel any old thing he had a mind to, at that. He only plays one matinee per week in this town, instead of two given by most people in his business, and they say right out loud that the reason for this is that George can't abide the thought of missing more than one game per week when the baseballists are chuckling 'em around on New York's big lots. He's an Indian in the rooting line, and when the team he favors is getting by with the flossy stuff he just can't make his feet behave, but stands up in his box and does those pedalities that have given him such a big part of his fame and pelf. George, you know, thinks that he cant play ball himself, and once in a while, at theatrical benefit games, he goes in and endeavors to make a listen like somebody covering short. If Terpsichorean ability enabled a man to cover short George'ud be there bigger'n Mo dollars worth of absorbent cotton, but the mitt stuff is needed, too, and George is always too busy thinking about the conduct of his feet when he plays short to notice what is happening to the ball when some son of a 'scouse cook raps a blazer along his path like a pea let out of a popgun.

De Wolf Hopper Never Misses.

De Wolf Hopper hasn't missed a game, when he's been in town, since Gen. Jackson won the battle of New Orleans, and if you want to get the real kazizz baseball lore—about the happenings in the game 'way back yonder when the girls were wearing crinoline and the baseball players has those Dundreary whiskers—why, leave it to De Wolf, that's all. He knows. One time Jack Morse of Boston, who knows about as much antique baseball as anybody, thought he was going to tell Hopper a hull lot of old stuff about what came off when they used to catch 'em on the first bounce, and all like that. But De Wolf, he slammed in and convinced Jake that he was eating baseballs for breakfast, with cream sauce, long before he, Jake, had ever thought of getting out on the old vacant lot to play one-old-cat. Hopper has a voice that sounds like a slag train running down the Allegheny mountains on a foggy morning, and when things are breaking on the ball yard the way he likes 'em, he can make more noise than the biggest "Well, well, well" man that ever had to pack his collars in a cheesebox. De Wolf, too, has superfine judgment in the matter of balls and strikes, and he always sits right behind the catcher so's to help the umpire out with that suff. If the ump doesn't name 'em all right, De Wolf begins to talk to himself in one of those stage whispers, and at such times you couldn't hear a word he was saying more than thirteen blocks away, 'deed you couldn't.

John Mason Dreams Baseball.

John Mason, the big hittist of "The Witching Hour," eats, sleeps and dreams baseball, and you never want to go see him do his stunt in his big play at a matinee when there's a game going on in town. Because he hasn't got his mind on his job when that's the frame-up, and you don't get the idea at all from his performance. John is one of those sad-sads in the rooting line when anything happens to defeat the ends and aims and ambitions of the folks he's rooting for. Never saw a man in my life that takes the mischances of the game so sorely to heart as John Mason does, honest I didn't. He doesn't actually weep his globular tears, you know, nor beller around; but, sa-ay, the grief that is depicted on that man's features, why, it's something awful! I happened to be with him one day not long ago when Bresnahan struck out at a tight juncture of the game, and I declare that I never saw a human being look so depressed, so melancholy, so despairing, so utterly cast down and stamped on as J. Mason was when that thing happened. We all begged and implored him not to take it to heart so much, not to permit it to cark and cank and warp him out of shape that-a-way, but, nunno, nunno, he wouldn't listen to anybody, but just held his head down like a burro in a rainstorm and muttered in his chops phrases to the effect that life wouldn't mean much to him from then on; that he'd been through many hardships and cares and things, but that this (Bresnahan's whiffing, that is) was the worst wallop he'd ever received from the mailed fist of destiny, and that he thought it 'ud be better for himself and for such surviving relatives as he had if he'd just chuck everything and retire to the shelter of a monastery for the balance of his days. We all felt frightfully sorry for the actor man, we sure did, but what could we do about it?

Melancholy Richard Carle.

Richard Carle is another of the actor persons who is melancholy to the point of personally conducted meditations on suicide when the thing out on the lot doesn't pop the way he's looking for it to break. They say of him that he forsake wealth, family, friends, the joys of home, a peaceful old age, everything to attend a ball game, and I guess that's right, all right, too. Once during this summer, while he was on his way to a game, there was a hitch in the subway and the train Carle did all he knew to climb out of a window for the purpose of walking to the next station so's he could climb up to the open and take a surface car or a hack or a taxicab or something to see at least a portion of the game. The guards and other folks who perceived his perilous purpose had to haul him back from the window. They told him that he wouldn't have a snowbird's chance of getting away with his life if he went by the window route, on account of the third rail and the black dark of the tunnel and all like that, but Carle only brushed away the fast-falling tears and moaned that his life wouldn't be worth a durn to him, anyhow, if he had to miss that game. As it was, he only reached the ball park when the last half of the last inning was being played ,and didn't he summon Muggsy over to his box (they're pals) and beg and implore Muggsy to play the game all over again, even if it was becoming darker'n pitch? That's what he did, and he looked just as blue as the dickens when McGraw, with many soothing expressions of sympathy, told him that would be quite out of the question, because the baliplayers were getting kind o' hungry, and it might establish a precedent, anyhow, that would be injurious to the game, for it 'ud give the fans the right to expect twilight baseball any old time they demanded it.

GOPHERS AT CLOQUET.

Duluth Team is Playing Football in the Lumber Town.

Cloquet, Minn., Oct. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—This afternoon at the Pinehurst park grounds, the first football contest of the season takes place, the contestants being the Gophers, of Duluth and the local Junior team. The Juniors have been indulging insteady and strenuous practice during the past week, and expectto give the Zenith City aggregation a good rub. A number of last year's men are back in the line-up and with this material to build upon, a strong bunch has been thrashed out. Graton, the fast quarter, who ran the team so well last season will be at the same post, and Rogentine and Skemp at halves will be depended upon for a good share of ground gaining. A great deal will depend on the work of the ends, as last year the Gophers made their scores by long end runs. Coach E. C. Hartley has put the team through some good signal and tackling practice.

That Papke-Kelly Bout.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—As soon as Billy Papke, the middleweight champion, gets through exhibiting himself in Springfield, Ill., for the indirect benefit of a certain automobile, he is going to settle down to haru work for the coming ten-round bout in Milwaukee with Huga Kelly. The bout is definitely settled on in every way, with the possible exception of a referee.

The financial end of the negotiations has been settled amicably, and Jones, Papke's manager, has his way. He gets the first $5,000 that comes into the house and Kelly is going to depend for his upon what comes later, and it is possible that Kelly will receive the larger end of the two, irrespective of the result.

Papke is going to condition himself at his home town, Kewance, in plain view of all the admiring villagers. He will have Eddie Goertey the Oshkish middleweight, as chief helper in the boxing line.

The referee question has not yet been settled, as Charley White, the New York veteran, selected for the job, has failed to respond to the club's offer, and there is just a chance that he will decline to come thus far, even at the price offered.

Cobb is the Better, Yes?

Hughey Jennings entertains the opinion that Ty Cobb is Hans Wagner's superior as a batter. In discussing the relative merits of the players the Tiger leader said:

"Both Wagner and Cobb are great sluggers. I do not wish to be understood as underestimating Wagner's strength when I say I believe that Cobb has a little on him. This is where I base my opinion: Cobb is a left-hander and is a faster man on his feet than Wagner. Every ball player, I guess, will bear me out when I say that Cobb gets off on a hit quicker than 'Honus.' The result is that Cobb beats out more hits down to short-stop, batting left handed, than Wagner does, batting right handed. This advantage, I think, gives Cobb the benefit of the doubt as to who is really the better hitter."

IS KID McCOY IN EARNEST?

Sports Are Wondering Whether Hoosier Kid Will Re-Enter Ring.

New York, Oct. 10.—It begins to look as though Kid McCoy were in earnest when he said a few weeks ago that he expected to return to the ring at no very future date. To look at the easy-moving, well-groomed hoosier, one would not take him to be over 27 or 28, when in reality he will be 35 on the 17th of next month. He has taken the best of care of himself ever since he has had the price to do so, and today there is that same keenness of eye, smooth, unwrinkled face and elasticity of step that were so noticeable a decade ago. Charley, as his intimates call him, is quietly working every day in the gymnasium, and supplements this with long walks and an occasional horseback ride. He doesn't pile on a half dozen sweaters and tear through the park like mad on a ten-mile run, but just enough to keep his muscles limbered up, his appetite keyed to the proper pitch and his lungs filled with that fresh air. It is the popular belief among those who know him best that he merely is going through a course of trial training—that is, to see if he would be able to stand the real routine should he decide to sign up for a bout.

"Has it ever occurred to anybody that a man at 35 should be in pretty fair physical condition, providing he has husbanded his stretch by careful living and plenty of healthful exercise?" asked McCoy the other day. He was sitting in the damproom of the Hotel Astor—not stirring the little globule of ice in a Scotch highball or trying to pick out the olive from the festive Martini, but supping a bit of vichy and milk. "I don't believe in any of these Osler theories and the old axiom about a man being as old as he feels is good enough for mub. I never captained any temperance elevens or took the stump expounding the advantages of total abstinence, but I never cut in very strong on the drink question. In later years I didn't mind taking a bottle of ale with my meals when in training or a pint of stout now and then to add on a little weight, and I've even dallied with a goblet of the grape on especial occasions, but that other thing—the continuous—not in mine.

"Another thing, I always played the slumber rug to win, place and show. Sleep is the thing, and I get my eight hours or so even if I am forfeit to the pleasure of seeing the dawn melt into daylight or forego the infinite delight of hearing the lark's early lay. When I first broke into the business, things were different. I'd been clerking in a small store and I forsook this edifying calling for the field of battle. I wanted to make those grizzled old warriors, Grant and Alexander, the Great, look like a couple of trailers. At least, in these days of my callow youth, I thought I wanted to. But it was a tough and discouraging job and it's a wonder I stuck. Hop-scotching from town to town on my nerve, and, as for describing, why, I couldn't have spelled the words valet, secretary or chaperone. The hotels were few and unreliable, and sometimes the number of my room ran well up into the tens of thousands. And no windows, either; sliding doors instead. They told me I wouldn't do, but I kept on plugging. I boxed in St. Paul; then Indianapolis, Columbus and Hot Springs, and, after being buffeted about, finally landed back in my native state, Indiana.

"By this time they began to think I could fight a bit, but money was scarce—for me, and hard to get. Then followed a year of skipping about; picking up a few dollars here and there, and in October, 1894, I dropped off in Cincinnati. Here is where I got my real start. I'd been learning a lot boxing with different men, and had plenty of confidence in myself. My first fight there was with Al Roberts. We went ten rounds to a draw, and shortly after I stopped him in five rounds at the old Highland house. Two months later, in Memphis, I hooked up with Shadow Maher, considered at that time one of the world's greatest welterweights. Nobody accorded me a chance and some laughed. Still, I defeated him in ten rounds. That started the wise ones blinking, and it was comparatively easy sailing after that. I fought all over, meeting them of all weights, from the welters up to big Gus Ruhlin and Joe Goddard. Two trips to England and a jaunt to South Africa was traveling some, and they all looked alike to me."

AT THE LYCEUM

THE MACK-LEONE PLAYERS WILL RETURN FOR BRIEF ENGAGEMENT PRESENTING THE POPULAR CRAZE "THE DEVIL," FOR FIRST HALF OF WEEK :-: :-: :-: :-: :-:

The Mack-Leone company will present for the first time here, at the Lyceum, on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday matinee and night, Franz Molnar's great comedy, "The Devil," which is the dramatic sensation of this country, as well as of Europe.

Franz Molnar has stepped at once with this sensational effort, into the very first rank of contemporary dramatists. The leading critics of continental Europe and New York, declare that a greater drama has not been written in the present generation.

"The Devil" deals with the evil that is within us, and that constantly urges us on to wrongdoing; the inner self being personified by a figure that suggests rather than actually resembles the Faustian conception of "Mephisto."

This figure, calling himself "Dr. Miller," stands not merely as a tempter or a physical expression of the temptation that is within the heart and mind of Olga and Karl, but also as an interpreter first to the one and then to the other, of what is the real thought and purpose concealed by both, beneath the conventional phrases of society.

Further than this, the Devil pictures to each that which is within him and her. He plays on the sympathy and weaknesses of Olga and Karl until, eventually, he brings them together, forcing the woman to desert her husband and the artist, Karl, to give up his ambitions and his honor.

It is said to be a most wonderful play, strong and palpitating with human interest, and cannot fail to cause much discussion among all classes of players.

The Mack-Leone players will present this piece in their usual elaborate manner, the scenery being painted from photographs of the original productions, now in New York city.

This engagement will mark the return of Miss Leone, who has not been seen in this city since spring.

Louis Evans Shipman's delightful story of the siege of Richmond will be presented the last half of the week.

Lyceum Notes.

One of the big attractions booked at the Lyceum theater after election is William A. Brady's special production of "Way Down East," which will play the entire week of Dec. 14. This company is the number one organization, and is headed by Miss Phoebe Davies, who created the leading role in 1897 and has played it ever since. The full equipment of scenery, properties and live stock will be seen here, and the engagement should be a big success, as there is no more popular play before the American public today.

* * *

All lovers of healthy, wholesome dramatic art will welcome "The Great Divide," William Vaughn Moody's masterful drama of western life, which the leading dramatic reviewers have hailed as "the long awaited great American play." The distinguished actor-manager, Henry Miller, will present a superb company with the entire production and a magnificent scenic equipment, which will be precisely the same in every detail as presented during the phenomenal run of over 600 performances in New York city. Manager Marshall of the Lyceum announces that "The Great Divide" as one of his attractions for November.

* * *

The story of "Sis Hopkins," that delightful play of Indiana country life, with its scenes laid in Posey county, at the old Pa Hopkins home, is one of unusual subtle pathos. Miss Rose Melville, who plays the part of "Sis," originated the character, and has made of it one of the classics of the stage. Her unassuming acceptance of the love of a man, whose deceit is apparent to every one but the girl, is pathetic; yet, when she awakens to his duplicity, the punishment she metes out to him is swift and sure. Miss Melville is surrounded this season by a company which surpasses in individual ability any supporting organization which she has previously had. "Sis Hopkins" comes to the Lyceum for an engagement of two nights beginning Oct. 19.

AT THE BIJOU

BRONZE ART STUDIES WILL BE THE FEATURE OF EXCELLENT BILL OF VAUDEVILLE NEXT WEEK, AND CLEVER SHELTH ON BILL

Manager Maitland offers the patrons of the Bijou next week one of the most artistic features in vaudeville, presenting for the first time in Duluth Prof. Patterson's novelty bronze posing act, by three beautiful and graceful women and two gentlemen who are of perfect physique.

The act portrays several of the most noted paintings and is considered the best of all classical vaudeville novelties. Mr. Patterson was first secured to present his artistic act at the New Hippodrome, where it remained for several weeks as a feature attraction. He is now making his first American tour in vaudeville.

A feature in the sketch line will be offered by Joseph J. and Myra Davis Dowling, both of whom have long been recognized dramatic stars. These clever artists are offering their biggest vaudeville hit entitled "A Snap Shot," which is one of the best sketches on the vaudeville stage, being full of good comedy and excellent dramatic situations.

A gymnastic novelty and one that is considered a feature in the acrobatic line will be Mallia and Bart in the acrobatic absurdity entitled "The Baggage Smashers," which is one of the funniest acts in vaudeville and one of the biggest hits that has appeared on the circuit.

A star attraction will be Dolphe and Susie Lerino in an act that has just returned from a very successful tour of Europe. The following is a notice from a London paper of recent date.

It is hardly too much to say that the program provided this week at the Royal theater of varieties is almost full of star turns. Mr. Dottridge the genial manager of Oldham's premier music-hall is always on the look-out for the best talent obtainable. This week's program is much above the average, first place may, perhaps, be given to the Levinos. Dolph and Susie who were to greet a success last week that they have been re-engaged for this week. They introduce a new sketch "Hytnotizing a Wife," one of the most laughable pieces of comedy we have had the pleasure of seeing. Following their sketch, which, it is needless to say was well received, Susie sings well two topical songs, the while her partner produces rapid black and white portraits, among them being some well known local celebrities.

One of the best singing and dancing acts seen at the Bijou in some time will be Smith and Brown who are excellent singers and expert wooden shoe dancers.

The moving pictures for the week will be "Bathing," and one of Edison's test films entitled "Tale of a Harem." Matinees are given daily at 2:45 and evening performances at 8 and 9:30. Seats reserved by either telephone. A special school children's matinee will be given Saturday afternoon and performances Sunday afternoon and night.

MISS MAUDE LEONE,

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

ROBERT EDESON'S SECOND VENTURE, "THE OFFENDERS"—HENRY MILLER SCORES AGAIN WITH "THE MATER"—"FATHER AND SON" IS A FAILURE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Robert Edeson made the second essay of the season to interest his large following in a new play, following within a week of the closing of "The Call of the North," which ran for about four weeks. Last week he made his first appearance in "The Offenders," by Elmer Blaney Harris, a new playwright, who was connected with the papers of this city and has something of a reputation as a magazine writer.

"The Offenders," deals with the regeneration of a convict and runs closegenerated the character, and has made of parallel to the play which Arnold Daly is presenting at Wallack's. In this case Klif King is the name of the central figure. He is a thief who has been released from prison and enters the house of Horace Street, the political boss of the state, whose wife, Helen, is interested in prison rescue work and has just written a letter to King, offering to help him to a better life. The convict is unaware whose house he is burglarizing and whose servant he has just tapped on the head with a sandbag. Klif is caught in the act, but on promise of reporting for honest work he is released.

The trial works well. The convict reforms and is employed by the judge of the juvenile court to gather evidence against one Blanca, an Italian keeper on a resort where young girls are made drunk. The man he traps is Street, the husband of his benefactor, whom he surprises accepting a graft fund of $2,000 from Blanca. Street is indicted and disgraced and Klif goes back to the prison on conviction of the old charge of having burglarized Street's house and assaulted his Japanese servant.

When we see the convict again he has just been pardoned after a year's confinement, but his health has suffered, and, after seeing everybody else happy, even his old benefactor, who has been divorced from Street and will marry the good judge, he dies.

The plea is an eloquent plea for legislation against child labor and several scenes are dramatic, but the public is growing tired of plays that deal with political and ethical questions, and the comment on the new play was generally unfavorable.

Not only is the subject deficient in strong interest, but after the middle of the second act it became apparent that the playwright had overestimated his capacity for dealing with a big problem. He became theatrical where he should have been psychologically convincing. He kept his pet topic well in the fore, but his method became transparent and marked by an obvious striving for effect.

A big triangular scene occurs at the end of the second act between Street on the one hand and Klif and the judge on the other, in which the political boss threatens the ex-convict with his power, and the reformed man accuses him boldly of being no better than a thief himself, with nothing to distinguish each other but the environments.

This was the most intense moment in the play. The intended big scene at the end of the second act, where Klif breaks down the door of the restaurant and catches Street red handed accepting graft money from Blanca, failed of its designed effect and became mere melodrama.

The last act proved weak and the death of Klif excited little real sympathy. It marks the close of a life and death struggle with fate, and the moral is that there is no room for a reformed jail bird in society and that the only people who concern themselves with their like are reformers like Mrs. Helen Street and the humane judge of the juvenile court.

It is not one of the best roles Mr. Edeson has undertaken, judging by the tone of the press. He is essentially a heroic actor, and the role of the convict is a study in psychology rather than in strenuous heroics. He was supported by Katherine Grey as Helen Street and by John Flood as the politician.

The cast is excellent and the play is well presented. If it makes an appeal it will probably be through the sympathy the author is able to create in exploiting the cause of abused children.

* * *

Henry Miller is rapidly taking a position in threatrical history in the forefront of artistic producers, who, in spite of the old tradition that the public is bored by plays that are not transparently threatrical, insists on tempting fate with artistics plays, or plays with dignity of thought and literary elegance. Everybody predicted failure, when a year ago, he produced "The Servant in the House" at the Savoy, but the public accepted it, and it ran the greater part of the season. Last Friday afternoon he again flew in the face of tradition by producing Percy Mackaye's fantastic comedy, "Mater," in which the playwright, abandons meter and takes up a modern subject.

The play is not satire in the exact sense, but it is written in a playful mood of infectious humor, and views a modern politician and a modern woman through the spectacles of a comic poet. Everything is idealized and improbable, sentiment is exaggerated and palpable facts are distorted, but the whole abounds in an irresistible spirit of fun and raillery that made a strong impression on the audience.

The theme is so trifling and the manner of the treatment so important, that it is almost impossible to give an adequate idea of what it is all about. Mater is merely a woman who plays the game of a practical politician with all the courage and the subtle fineness of a modern Duchess of Marlborough, in a fantastic masquerade of improbable people, conceived in a playful mood of infectious humor. Opposed to her is Arthur Cullen, a practical politician, an odious, almost sinister force in public life. Mater's idealist of a son, a new Hamlet, hating Cullen, whose methods he despises, yet whose assistance is indispensable to his election to the legislature, scorns practical politics and dreams of great reforms. The only person with common sense in the family is Mater. Cullen mistakes her for her daughter and proceeds to make love to her. The price is her son's election. For three acts the comedy shows these two pitted against each other in a fantastic duel of sex. There was never such a politician as Cullen, who turns out to be a Chesterfield in manners and a Bolingbroke in political finesse, and there never was such a mother as Mater. But it is extraordinary how perfectly they fit into the improbable complication and how completely they appeal to the audience. Here and there the piece rises sufficiently above the level of fantastic comedy to sound a note of dramatic power, as where the youthful visionary, idolizing his mother as a deity, discovers Cullen at her feet. He hurls his curses into her face, and for a moment we are led to fear that the author has lost his grip on his subject. But Mater is, after all, only a trifler with the affections of the subdued lion of the political menagerie. Her coquetry is charming, and she is insincere and remorselessly unscrupulous only to the man she would bend to force to serve her interests. It is the axiom that all is fair in love and war with her to the bitter end, and Cullen wakes up too late to recover the ground he has lost in his attentions to the intriguing woman, who has defeated him at his own game.

But the plot is a minor matter as compared with the artistic skill with which the story is sustained and he brilliant wit that scintillates in almost every line. Here and there the author grows academic and walks on literary stilts, but in the last analysis he has written a comedy which, though it may never be popular, will always occupy a position of respect and even admiration.

Its artistic success was unquestioned and was largely due to the excellent manner in which Isabel Irving played Mater and Charles A. Stevenson the role of Cullen. Both played with a rollicking abandon and in an urbane comedy spirit that won the audience. In the part of Mater's idealistic son, Frederick Lewis played with intense power, and Hazal Mackaye, a sister of the author, was very clever as the daughter, a literary bluestocking.

"Mater" belongs to the select events of the season. As it makes a direct appeal to intellectual playgoers, its fate is still hanging in the balance.

* * *

The first performance of "Father and Son," with William Norris in the role of old "Doc" Flikins, a quaint old New Jersey village character, which had a week's trial in Washington, opened at the Majestic after a postponement caused by the illness of one of the woman characters.

The plot turns on the question who was the father of the young man who has all his life passed as old Flikin's son. That question is not asked until the youngster falls in love with the niece of the big factory owner, by whom he is employed. Then it is the factory boss himself who insidiously asks it. He is rich and hard with his men, and a strike is called, and things take on a desperate aspect. The men draw lots who shall set fire to the factory, and young Flikins is elected. He attempts to burn the building, but is caught in the act, and the outlook is serious for him, when old Flikins, between whom and the factory owner there has been a silent feud or twenty years, takes a hand in the game and calls at the great man's home. The interview takes on an interesting phase when the old man informs him that young Flikins is the son of the rich man by a secret and unhappy marriage. The blow staggers the arrogant factory owner. As he is the mayor of that town, he orders the young man before him, but the latter is so embittered against him that he prefers jail to his friendship. But he is sent back to his home, and there, anon, the proud manufacturer puts in his appearance and personally pleads for his son's love. Of course, the young girl takes a part in the negotiations, and presently all is serene and happy after the severe storm that has gone before. The boy gets the girl and old Flikins and the mayor make up.

The material is old and the papers had much fault to find with the play in spite of the good work done by Mr. Norris and a competent company, in which George C. Staley, as the manufacturer, especially distinguishes himself. But there were no genuine surprises in the piece, and the jaded interest of the Broadway playgoers refused to be quickened. When the writer passed the Majestic on Monday evening he noticed that the doors were closed.

* * *

New York took cordially to the new play at the Bijou theater, that play of Washington life in which Thomas A. Wise and Douglas Fairbanks are jointly starred—"A Gentleman From Mississippi." By a queer coincidence Fairbanks scores a personal hit on the same stage where little more than a week before he was scoring an artistic success in "All for a Girl," as the star of that piece, without, however, being able to draw enough money to keep the show going. He is a good proposition for William A. Brady and Joseph Grismer, and when they found the youngster on their hands with nothing to do they put him in with Wise, who was to have been the sole star of "A Gentleman From Mississippi." The two comedians met with a warm reception on the opening night, and the author, Harrison Rhodes, was insistently called for and had to come out and make a speech. It was a genuine hit, apparently, albeit a first night audience on Broadway is not the most reliable weather gauge imaginable. But all the critics spoke well of the piece, and success seems to be in the air.

Tom Wise was the real hit of the evening in the character of Senator Langdon of Mississippi, the newly elected member of the upper chamber, who is seen on his advent in Washington, accompanied by his son and two daughters. He has been sent to the senate because he is an honest man. He is avowedly ignorant of every phase of his duties. The humor consists in the relation of the senator to his private secretary, "Bud" Haines, Young Haines, the part played by Fairbanks, is a shrewd Washington newspaper man who enters Langdon's employ as his private secretary in order to be near one of his daughters, with whom he has fallen in love. Haines becomes Langdon's brains. He does all his thinking for him, writes his speeches, decides all critical points and is the de facto senator from Mississippi. An intrigue is started among a senate clique to use Langdon in connection with the establishment of a naval station in his state, which involves certain corrupt interests. On his balking it is discovered that his son has invested $50,000 trust funds in a land speculation connected with the proposed location of the naval station, and his daughter has put an almost equal amount, representing an inheritance, into the lands with the expectation of a big rise when the bill shall pass congress. The conspirators hold this knowledge over the senator's head as a club. But they have reckoned without their master. Under the advice of his private secretary, the old man, who has been like dough in everybody's hands till now, tells his children they must take their medicine, as he will protest against the proposed deal in the open senate in order to be true to his principles. A first his colleagues on the opposite side attempt to bully him into submission, but ultimately it becomes plain that the old man's honesty is of the old Roman sort, and they surrender. Haines, of course, gets the senator's daughter.

It is one of the most interesting plays of the kind dealing with graft in public places that has been seen in New York, partly because it is an entertaining little comedy and partly because it is marvelously well played. Fairbanks is a breezy youngster and Wise gives an admirable interpretation of the unctuous as well as the sober moments in which the piece abounds. It is well staged and played by an excellent company.

* * *

After a run of three weeks in London Eugene Walter's American play has been shelved and "Paid in Full" goes into that growing list of unsuccesses in England. Of course, there is a deal of speculation as to the cause, and again we hear the same comment that has followed the failure of previous American hits on the other side of the Atlantic.

The day seems rather late for complaint. American producers who take our plays to London must know they have many things to reckon with. The combination of indifference and prejudice makes it imperative that our play be a transcendant success if it must win over there. Taking a production of this country to that mart with these things in mind is a managerial speculation that is only warranted if the manager thinks the game is worth the risk. Having cast his chances to the winds of foggy old London it seems to one at this distance that he ought to take his medicine and abide the consequence.

In the case of "Paid in Full" the general opinion is one of surprise that amounts to dumbfoundedness. So many people had predicted a brilliant season for this play in the British metropolis. The critics of London received it warmly. They praised it highly, and in many cases with unusual enthusiasm. It is generally agreed that the play was strongly cast and cleverly exploited. But for some reason it did not draw remunerative audiences. The Aldwych theater, where the engagement was booked, has long been identified as a musical comedy house, and therefore the regular clientelle of the theater was not favorably disposed to serious drama like "Paid in Full." This may have militated at the outset, but the truth remains that if they had liked the story as well in England as they have in this country, it would have overcome that disadvantage. The fact is that they rather neglected to take an interest in the story at all. This total indifference to outside matter is typical of a great many people in England. So the American students of social conditions there have often told us, and they did not get up any steam over "Paid in Full." It is their privilege. There is one feature of a British verdict—it is final.

Eleanor Robson returned last week from her long vacation in Europe. Miss Robson broke down last April after a hard season in "Salome Jane," and went direct to London, where she consulted with some eminent specialists. Upon their advice she went in for a complete rest in an out-of-the-way villa near Bonchurch, on the Isle of Wight, and did nothing but rest. Upon her return Miss Robson said she had gained pounds of weight, and felt equal to the task of going through a season of sixty weeks without a break. Her tour opens in Buffalo on Nov. 12 in the dramatic version of Richard Harding Davis's story, "Vera, the Medium."

At the Forrest theater in Philadelphia last week was born a new thing in American theatricals, if the reviews from there mean much. It was the staging of the brilliant musical comedy, "Little Nemo," which is based upon the drawings of Winsor McCay. Klaw & Erlanger have treated the McCay cartoons upon a scale of spectacular grandeur never realized before in this country. What is more, the critics say, is that the tone of the whole thing is delightful. It is a simple and wholesome treatment of a theme that is new to the realms of juvenile heroes. There is not a stereotyped situation worked out, and the whole is done with a tone that lifts it above the thickening atmosphere of recent musical comedy successes and paved a way for a return to those purer delights that will be the more appreciated now that they are here. The piece is not only something new, but it is refreshingly wholesome and uproariously funny. Master Gabriel, as Little Nemo, has caught the spirit of Winsor McCays dream boy and made it a real addition to the American stage. Joe Cawthorn is Dr. Bill, Billy Van is Flip, and Harry Kelly the dancing missionary.

Mabel Tallaferro has been compelled to abandon her wonderful successes in "Polly of the Circus" and seek rest. The pretty young actress was in the midst of a record-breaking run in Chicago when she collapsed and is now threatened with nervous prostration as a result of the strain due to overwork in the summer weather that had prevailed about Chicago up to the time she broke down. Frederic Thompson, who is the husband and manager of the actress, was in New York when he heard of her illness, and made a record run by special train to the Windy City in order to be at her bedside at the earliest possible moment. Miss Edith Tallaferro, a young sister of the star, has been shifted over to the Chicago company, and will play out the season in her place. Miss Mabel Tallaferro had announced that at the end of her run in "Brewster's Millions" she would retire, and it looks now as if she has been forced to reach that position earlier than she contemplated. Miss Tallaferro is remembered for two wonderful juvenile parts she played; those of the dream waif in Yeat's Irish play, "The Land of Hearts Desire," and Lovey Mary, a role she created in the stage production of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch."

The Barrie play, "What Every Woman Knows," which Maude Adams is soon to bring out in this country, has made such a hit at the Duke of York's theater in London, that seats are selling two months in advance for the engagement. About the holidays it will be taken off for the inevitable revival of "Peter Pan," but will replace that other hit just as soon as the time originally allotted to "Peter Pan" is played out.

Olga Nethersole will come over to America in January, and play a short engagement in some of the big Eastern cities, and then will tour to the further districts she did not cover last season. Upon the completion of her American tour she will return to Europe, and is booked for the summer in Brussels, Paris and some of the larger cities of Germany.

In the big Drury Lane melodrama, "Marriages of Mayfair," which has made an enormous hit in London, an American actress is one of the real features. This is Marie George, who is playing a part and scoring big, despite the fact that it is her first step into the dramatic field. Miss George is a graduate of the Lederer School in the old day at the Casino. One morning George Lederer was riding through Central park in New York when his eye caught sight of an attractive girl riding a wheel along the path. It gave him an idea. To think was to act with Lederer, and he stopped the fair cyclist, and asked her to report to him that evening at the Casino theater. Marie George responded, and Lederer taught her to ride around the stage without any more fear or trepidation than she had shown in the park that morning. It was in the musical piece, "The Lady Slavey," and the pretty girl who rode around on her bike made a big hit. It was the beginning of Marie George's stage career, and she has climbed up steadily ever since. She went to London with "The Casino Girl," and has been there ever since playing in the big musical comedy hits of the English stage. Her part in the melodrama is that of a vaudeville star.

The fight before the board of aldermen in New York to get an ordinance repealed under the provisions of which the ticket speculators now operate is being waged merrily. Marc Klaw was before the committee last week and explained in detail the evils of speculation and the effort that has been made by theatrical managers to stamp it out, but without success. The matter is still before the committee, and it will be some time before a final disposition of it can be reached.

William Farren, the veteran English comedian and the third of a line of players on the English stage of that name, died last week at a ripe old age Mr. Farren began his career in 1851 and had been continuously in harness up to a few years ago, when he made his last appearence as Sir Peter Teazle in a revival of "The School for Scandal," the comedy in which his great-grandfather played in 1777 at its premiere in London.

Nannette Comstock's starring tour in the new play, "Jet" closed in Philadelphia last Saturday night. William F. Muenster, who managed the tour, says that the road did not like the play, but he still has faith in it, and may try to get a New York hearing later on.

in vaudeville a bit. In Salt Lake City, at the Orpheum theater, next week he will present a one-act play called "A Modern Pocahontas," and in it will offer Miss Emma Rainey, a full-blooded Indian from the Shoshone Reservation, who wrote the act herself. Miss Rainey will be the first genuine Indian author-actress to appear upon the stage, and her debut will be a decided novelty.

Marie Doro is credited with a big hit in her new play, "The Richest Girl," now running in Boston. Word from there is that she has a bigger hit even than "The Morals of Marcus," which stood her very well in hand last season. Miss Doro may not be what the title of her new play claims, but she comes near being one of the luckiest girls in the profession.

"The Test," the new play by Jules Eckert Goodman, which is to be presented soon with Blanche Walsh as the star, was given its trial performances last week in Los Angeles, where it was produced under the author's supervision by the Lewis Stone company at the Auditorium. This is Manager John Blackwood's thoroughly artistic and representative company, now enjoying an unusual vogue on the Pacific coast, and it was a decided compliment to them that Mr. Goodman took his piece way out there for its first trials. The word from Los Angeles is that the play made a very deep impression. It is a study of contemporaneous life and concerns the sufferings of a girl who has sacrificed her good name to save the man she loves from going to prison. The development of the criminal's ingratitude and the noble support of her old sweetheart are the essential details of telling the story. It is deeply impressive and sufficiently emotional to permit of real acting, and Mr. Lewis Stone as the faithful friend and Miss Florence Oakley as the girl created fine impressions by their artistic realizations of these complex characters.

Joseph Wheelock, one of the older school of American actors and well known to all classes of theater goers, died suddenly in the railway station at Navesink Highlands, New York, last week. Mr. Wheelock was about to take the train for New York City when he was stricken with heart failure and collopsed. He was dead before any aid could be extended. Mr. Wheelock began his career in 1858 with the famous Boston Museum company. In the following years he supported many prominent stars, and was in the cast of the Booth, Barrett and McCullough repertoires. Of late he had been playing character parts, and his last engagement was with Otis Skinner in "The Honor of the Family." Mr. Wheilock leaves a widow and one son, Joseph Wheelock, Jr., who was compelled to retire on account of ill health, and is now a resident of Phoenix, Ariz., and manages the Elks' opera house in that place.

Grace George is the second of our established feminine stars to turn to the Norwegian master for a stellar vehicle. Her next production will be that of "Ibsen's "The Lady of the Sea." It has never been given in English in this country except at a few special performances, and Miss Georges following in the wake of Mrs. Fiske's success with "Rosmersholm" is a sign of the growing interest in the Ibsen plays. Miss George will play the character of Ellida Wangel, and is said to have been studying it for some time with a view of giving this performance.

The religious parable play, "The Passing of the Third Room Back," which was written by Jerome K. Jerome seems to have made an unexpected hit in England. Mr. Jerome has accomplished the wonderful task of turning from his humor and making the world consider him as a serious writer also.

Grace Van Studdiford, in "The Golden Butterfly," made enough of a hit in Washington last week to warrant it being opened for her in New York. She will soon go into the Broadway theater and follow the run of "Algeria" in that house. Her stay will depend upon the reception accorded to new DeKoven and Smith comic opera in the metropolis.

Henry Miller is on his way to Europe, and will take a rest before returning to this country. He combines business with pleasure, and is in London mapping out some pretentious works for next spring. Miller will likely take over one of the theaters there and produce "The Great Divide," "The Servant of the House," "Mater" and possibly two new plays, "The Winterfeast," by Charles Rann Kennedy, and "The Faith Healer," by William Vaughn Moody.

* * *

Arnold Daly, having abandoned the hope of establishing "The Regeneration" as a successful play, and Doris Keane, encountering a somewhat similar fate with "The Like o' Me," have combined issues, and they will appear this week in a new play called "His Wife's Family." The author is known as George Edgerton, but is in reality Mrs. Reginald Golding Bright, prominent in literary circles in London, and who has written any number of clever stories and sketches.

* * *

Louis Mann has cried enough, and will lay aside "The New Generation," for the time being at least. It is another effort on the part of this artistic low comedian to get away from his fun and buffoonery and be considered purely as an actor, and again he misses the play to establish him firmly in the new field.

Elsie Janis began her season last week in Detroit in George Ade's comedy, with music, the latter supplied by Gustav Luders, which they call "The Fair Co-Ed." Detroit took kindly to the piece, and the report is that this clever young star has another big winner on her hands. Aside from the nervousness of a first performance, the piece went off in great shape, and everybody stood the strain nobly. Who else? Why, mother and she came through grandly.

Julie Opp (Faversham) has other honors in her way than her success in "The World and His Wife," for the news comes from England that, in collaboration with Kate Jordan, she has written a very strong one-act play, "The House of Pierre," which Martin Harvey has done so successful in England that he will include it in his repertoire. It is a story of a blind workman who is led to believe that his wife has wronged him, and is said to be a powerful and romantic tabloid.

A brief cablegram from Louis Nethersole last week brought the intelligence that Margaret Anglin last week in Melbourne made her first appearance in "The Taming of the Shrew." As it costs about $20 a word to cable from that distant country, Mr. Nethersole condensed a world of interesting detail in the one word "succeeded."

Mlle. Pann, a clever pantomimist, assisted by Mlle Paul, scored a decided hit in New York recently with a delightful pantomime from the French called "Rouge et Noir." The rouge symbolizes the entering of the red burning love into the heart of a simple boy, played delightfully by Mlle. Pann as Pierrot, and the black follows when, after surrendering to a great passion, the cocotte runs back to the revelers of the carnival crowd and leaves Pierrot to sink into the abyss of black despair. The astonishing part of the thing is that Mlle Pann is a cousin of Sarah Bernhardt, and was rather surprised to find that there was any surprise expressed that she had not mentioned the relationship before she made her hit. The French actress said she came here to prove her worth upon her merits as a performer and she hoped that the fact that she was related to Mme. Bernhardt would not influence the people in her favor if she was undeserving.

Now that Mr. Belasco has seen Blanche Bates successfully and triumphantly launched at the Belasco Stuyvesant theater, New York, in her new play, "The Fighting Hope" by William J. Hurlburt, the eminent author-manager, already has turned his undivided attention to the preparation for production of his new play for Frances Starr. Miss Starr has been resting since the close of her brilliant career in "The Rose of the Rancho," and she is now on "pins and needles" regarding the next character she is to portray under Mr. Belasco's guiding genius. Miss Starr was one of the most interested spectators at Miss Bates' metropolitan premiere in "The Fighting Hope."

A Salvation Army lass stood drearily tinkling a tambourine outside the Belasco theater as the crowd elbowed its way in to see George Arliss in "The Devil." "Thousands of dollars for the Devil and odd coppers for God," she said, sadly, as she took 3 cents out of the tambourine, while speculators stood waving handfuls of greenbacks at the moving throng.

Joseph O'Mara, who is declared by the press of Great Britain and Ireland to be the greatest Irish tenor of this generation, sails for New York Oct. 12 to begin his American tour in "Peggy Machree," under the direction of Messrs. Brooks and Dingwall. O'Mara has long been a favorite in London, where he has appeared annually for ten years in concert and grand opera, and he is idolized in Ireland for what he has done in arousing interest in the folk songs of his native land. In Dublin a few days ago he was the guest of honor at a farewell dinner given by the lord mayor of the city. The leading men of Dublin were present and O'Mara's singing of Ireland's patriotic songs stirred the distinguished gathering to wild enthusiasm.

Joseph Brooks and A. W. Dingwall own the American rights to the new Drury Lane drama "The Marriages of Mayfair," which was produced a few days ago on the big stage of historic old Drury with great success. They will produce it in New York or Chicago later in the season with a big cast.

Viola Allen is going to have a new play by Eugene Walter this season, and up at Wolf cottage, Walter's place in Connecticut, the newest playwright is sitting up nights with a towel wrapped around his dome of thought, digging scenes, dialogue and situations out of the surrounding circumambient, in an effort to get it all done by the time Oct. 15 rolls around. In the meantime Miss Allen is impatiently sitting up in her home in New York waiting for the MS. to come forth from the Walter play emporium, and whenever she hears the postman's whistle she leaps up and peeks out, hoping that it may be the medium for her efforts.

Arthur Shaw, of "The Traveling Salesman" company, tells a story of a traveling man's wife who declared that her husband was the most forgetful man in the world. As an example of this she cited the following instance: On coming home from a trip on the road he patted her on the cheek and said, "I believe I have seen you before, little girl. What is your name?"

An unusual novelty is offered in "The Prima Donna," the new play for Mme. Fritzi Scheff, which Victor Herbert and Henry Blossom have written this year, in the fact of there not being a single pair of tights or an abbreviated skirt worn by any of the sixty girls who make up the chorus.

Another novelty is offered in the fact that all the girls are tall girls, not one of them measuring less than 5 feet 10½ inches. This is doubly unusual, owing to the contrast of their size to Mme. Scheff herself, as she is a comparatively small woman. In fact, it was just with this object of forming a contrast for the benefit of the stage pictures that the large girls were selected. Another pleasing feature will be their singing, as all of the company, including chorus and principals, have been chosen for their voices, and while good looks are not neglected, they will be combined with excellent singing qualities, to warble effectively Victor Herbert's most tuneful music.

THE TESTING OF DIANA MALLORY. By Mrs. Humphrey Ward. New York: Harper & Bros. $1.50.

The publication of a new novel by Mrs. Ward is a great literary event, yet, paradoxically though it seems, it is an event that disturbs no monotony, because her books are of such uniform excellence, are so thoroughly to be depended upon for human interest, for keen insight into social conditions, and for expert literary workmanship, that they flow forth in an even stream, not too closely together to prevent good finishing, nor yet too far apart to permit interest to lag. From "Robert Elsmere" down to this latest work, she is always certain of a large and appreciative audience. She is one of the writers whom readers have learned to depend upon, confident that their investment in a new book by her involves no risk or uncertainty.

These books not only furnish an epitome of English life that is characterized by sincerity, earnestness and unusual skill, but the life portrayed is, in a large measure, elemental, world-wide. Strip Mrs. Ward's work of its painstaking delineations of the surroundings of which she treats, and it would still contain the nugget of story, full of compelling interest. The story of Diana Mallory has much to do with English politics, with the constant wrangling between imperialism and its converse; yet the author has not, as in some of her older novels, drawn her chief characters from exalted public life. Its heroine is a young woman of good breeding and high intellect who, after a childhood and youth on the Continent, in loving companionship with her father, returns to England upon his death and sets up her home in a beautiful rural estate, which her wealth has enabled her to secure. She soon finds herself in the heart of political and social life. England is to her a mighty realm, and soon she is a vigorous exponent of a world-wide empire. There is some mystery about her past, of which she herself is ignorant, a fact which is disclosed at the very beginning of the story, but not fully revealed until the last. It is this mystery which is largely depended upon to sustain the interest. As usual, the characters are vividly and effectively painted—not sketched. Her novel has a mission, also, as usual, and with that American readers are not concerned except as intelligent citizens of the world. It is for the romance that people on this side of the Atlantic will read this book, and there will be many among them who will wish that Mrs. Ward took herself and her "mission" a little less seriously, and her romance a little more seriously, for while she brings skill to the former, she brings positive genius to the latter.

THE GREAT MISS DRIVER. By Anthony Hope. New York: The McClure Company. $1.50.

Miss Driver discovers an enormously rich father only after his death, when she steps from humble surroundings into a place of great power. Her father had kept her in ignorance of himself and his riches, apparently because of his bitter disappointment in her mother and his reluctance to risk exposing himself to another disappointment. In the new environment she develops the quaint individuality that might be expected from a young person of strong character who has been reared in unconventional surroundings. She plays an impoverished lord against a powerful Ishmaelite of a man, loving the latter—after her fashion—and coveting the position the former can give her. At last she spurns the lord—largely because circumstances prohibit her doing anything else, be it said—and runs away with the Ishmaelite, postponing marriage until a date which unluckily occurs three days subsequent to the violent death of her companion. Of course she has ruthlessly shocked her neighbors, whom she had almost won. The story deals largely with her campaign to regain her forfeited position, and the unique revenge she perpetrates upon the lord, which incidentally involves a pretty romance. The tale is told by her secretary, an interesting young man whose character is sketched rather vaguely, doubtless because of the natural modesty of the gentleman who talks about himself; the other characters are outlined vigorously in a style that successfully appeals to the interest. This is particularly true of Miss Driver herself, who is a great general and a determined campaigner. Things do not happen so frequently as they did in Mr. Hope's "Prisoner of Zenda" type of fiction, a type in which he excelled, but which he apparently now deems to be an outgrown youthful folly; nor are they so exciting when they do happen, with one or two exceptions. It is a diverting and an ingenious novel, done with all the skill which has made this British novelist so popular.

BARRY GORDON. By William Farquhar Payson. New York: The McClure Company. $1.50.

Here is a hero of fiction who cannot fail to appeal to all classes of readers. The son of a Southern gentleman, the scion of a race of high-spirited, hard-living, dissipated men, some of whom died drunk with a toast to the devil on their lips, he faces life with the knowledge of his handicap. His father, who told him of the taint in the blood, drank himself to death and died with the sinister toast as his last utterance. The boy, with a younger brother who seems free from the inherited taint, go to live with a friend of the dead father, in whose household there is a charming girl whom Mr. Payson makes one of the most attractive heroines in the year's fiction. There is a good deal in the story, more than is usually crowded into the space of an ordinary novel; sometimes it almost seems as though there were too much. The lad is maneuvered into a corner by an enemy and forced to drink a toast to his beloved at her coming-out party, and as a result he gets drunk and disgraces himself and his host. The result of that, in turn, is that he runs away and leaves the girl to her brother, becoming a wanderer upon the face of the earth, with a series of adventures before him that fills some of the most exciting pages of the book. The story goes from New York to Paris, to Tangier, and to the mountain fastnesses of a Moorish pretender—a very kaleidoscope of swift movement and captivating interest. Here is action, and much of it, the whole of which weaves a spell of unwavering interest. Over-wrought in places though it seems, the character of Barry and the skillful relation of his adventures cannot fail to make it a success.

A WOMAN'S WAY THROUGH LABRADOR. By Mrs. Leonidas Hubbard, Jr. New York: The McClure Company. $1.50 net.

A few years ago Leonidas Hubbard, Jr., sought to find out certain things about the unknown interior of Labrador, and he died of starvation before his end was attained. His wife took up his unfulfilled mission, and succeeded. This book begins with his wife's relation of the life of young Hubbard, which shows him, in a simple and attractive sketch, to have been a pure-hearted, noble-minded Christian gentleman. It tells of his boyhood traits, of his newspaper experiences, of his ambition to be an explorer, and finally of the chance that came—and that took him to his death. Mrs. Hubbard then tells the story of her dangerous trip, a splendid tale of battle with the unknown wilds. Appended is the diary of her husband on his fateful trip up to the time when, in the shadow of approaching death, his companions having gone to seek help, the record closes with a prayer for the safety of his absent comrades. The tale is full of interest, because of its revelations of the characters of man and wife—the former the result of a loving intent, the latter the unconscious result of a simple and truthful relation of the facts.

THREE OF A KIND. By Richard Burton. Boston: Little, Brown & Co. $1.50.

The three are Ludovic, an elderly German musician whose heart is as great as his fortunes are slender; Phil, a street waif, whom he takes into that loving heart; and an intelligent dog, which comes also from the street and into the hearts of both. The story tells of the joys and sorrows of these unprosperous but happy friends, and a deft touch of accomplished literary craftsmanship gives it an irresistible appeal. A quaint bit occurs in one chapter, where the three gather in the country, upon an autumn day, and while the dog employes himself in doggish merrymaking, Ludovic reads fairy tales from Grim in the original, translating as he goes in his delightful dialect, after which Phil repeats the tale in his inimitable street English. The story is sweet and wholesome, and will interest and delight young and old.

9009. By James Hopper and Fred R. Bechdolt. New York: The McClure Company.

This is the story of a bad man, properly condemned to prison for crime—a bad man, but one that was bad because he had never had a fair chance, and one that might have been redeemed by fair treatment and kindness. Yet he is made into a fiend by the studied cruelties and suspicions of his jailors and their lackeys, the "trusties," whose standing seems to depend on treacherous spying upon their fellow prisoners. If prisons are like that in which the greater part of the incidents occur, they need investigation. At any rate, the book will attract wholesome public attention to a place which seldom gets it; so it can do no harm and it may do much good. It is not a pleasant story. Those who read it will find their fists clenched and their blood boiling more than once over the infamy of tyrannical jailors; but it is vivid, boldly graphic, and interest-compelling. The authors assert that while the narrative itself may be called fiction, the conditions it describes actually exist, and the incidents that make it up have actually occurred. They aim to show "how society creates a monster," and if only a small percentage of it is true, it is exceedingly unpleasant to think upon.

AN ORIGINAL GENTLEMAN. By Anne Warner. Boston: Little, Brown & Co. $1.50.

The first and longest of the short stories in this volume, and the one from which the book takes its name, is one of the merriest tales that the author of the "Susan Clegg" stories has ever produced. A young American, who has just been reproaching his French comrade for being in love with a married woman, suddenly, through a romantic happening, finds himself in what seems to be exactly the same boat. So it starts out like another "Together," but it turns out very differently indeed. To tell how would be telling; suffice it to say that in turning out it turns out a very amusing little comedy, approaching at times the farcical. Then there are a number of other very clever stories, with a spicy mingling of romance and comedy, pathos and humor.

THE POINT OF HONOR. By Joseph Conrad. New York: The McClure Company.

Here is serio-comic tragedy, if there ever was such a thing. Two swashbuckling young subalterns of Napoleon's army fall into a rage with each other over a thing so vague that for many years neither of them dares tell what it is; indeed, it is rather doubtful if either could tell. This makes it a mystery, and it is the talk of Napoleon's Grand Army during the years as the subalterns become captains, colonels and finally generals. The feud continues, and there are frequent "meetings"; all the time the mystery grows. On the retreat from Moscow both become part of the "sacred battalion," composed of officers whose troops have been left behind on the ghastly trail. They are forced to support each other, and to fight shoulder to shoulder; yet the feud continues. Finally romance steps in, the final meeting occurs in a scene which is pure comedy, and the feud comes to an end. The romance is brief but pretty, and will be found to the taste of readers; the remainder of the tale is intensely amusing, and if there had been need of such a thing in this day, it might serve the duello as "Don Quixote" served chivalry in its decreptitude.

THE HERD. By J. Olive Patricia Ward. New York: The Cochrane Publishing Company. $1.50.

This earnest but rather melodramatic novel deals with the wrongs alleged to be suffered by the farming and laboring classes of the great wheat regions of the West; and it is strongly reminiscent of Frank Norris' great epic of the wheat, "The Octopus," especially as the chief villain in both tales is smothered in his own grain, as a means of getting rid of him. The author is evidently young, as there is some slight lack of exactness in the use of words, and about political facts: for instance, she has a reform governor of North Dakota running upon a platform which includes more postoffices and rural free delivery, things concerning which governors have nothing to do. It pictures an elevator octopus oppressing and robbing the farmers, and plutocrats squeezing them with enormous rates of interest. It is a strong appeal in behalf of the cowboy and the small farmer of the plains, and if the facts are as bad as the author paints them, it is small wonder that she is earnest and paints in flaming colors.

ANIMAL ANALOGUES. By Robert Williams Wood. New York: Paul Elder & Co. Bound in school book boards, 50 cents; in Yuletide dress, 75 cents.

Animal Analogues is another series of pictorial and poetical essays in an entirely new field of research that might be termed biological discrimination, by the inimitable nature writer, Robert Williams Wood, author of "How to Tell the Birds from the Flowers." "Comparisons are ode-ious," and the odes which accompany these comparisons present nature study in a wholly new light. By the aid of this manual, any observer will be enabled to tell a doe from a dodo, an antelope from a cantelope, a pipe-fish from a sea-gar or an aunt from a pheas-nt without the slightest hesitation. The verses, illustrated with the author's absolutely free hand drawings, make the book one to be enthusiastically commended to all lovers of fun and nature-faking.

COLONEL GREATHEART. By H. C. Bailey. Indianapolis: The Bobbs-Merrill company. $1.50.

A novel of romance, of love and adventure, written in the best modern style, is "Colonel Greatheart." In time it dates back to Cromwell and Charles I, to Roundhead and Cavalier, but in method and equality of thought it belongs to the day of Stevenson and Hewlett. There is much in "Colonel Greatheart" of the strategy of love, of the danger and bright deeds of war, of the clash between men scheming for opposed objects. There is variety, movement, action, color. Alike in splendid battle pictures, in the subtlefencing of courtiers, in the flashing duel of the sexes, a remarkable creative imagination is at work, speaking fluently in dialogue. At the touch of this imagination a host of characters spring into being. The dry bones of history take on life. Each person introduced—and many of the famous men and women of the time are introduced—is etched in with an unforgetable gift of portraiture is not less evident in the brief glimpse of Charles I, that melancholy poseur, than in the more extended and tremendously dramatic characterization of Cromwell. Colonel Stow, himself, the man of valor, vanity and dreams, is one of the most engaging personalities to be found in fiction or out of it. His wit, which does not make him the less tender, never deserts him at the worst crisis of his fate. He is the informing figure of an extraordinarily fine story, a most lovable gentleman of fortune who loved well, fought bravely, kept faith, won honor. "What a man can do, I can do better. What a man fears, I fear not. When a man despairs, I am full of heart. And with a lost cause, I conquer." That was his creed. Yet he was not a mere braggart; he was every inch a man.

Here it comes again, new each year and always better than before—that indispensable calendar of playful cynicism and lively epigrams. Its twisted proverbs are irrestible, its wit a sure antidote for Americanitis, the newly discovered "worry bug." Among the novel features for 1909 are surprising new representations of the signs of the zodiac, accurate descriptions of the heavens during different months (but the heavens don't know it), and oracular prognostications telling you just what to seek or to avoid on specified lucky or unlucky days in each month. As for the delicious little quips and perverted proverbs with which the calendar is filled, why—

"It's a long love that has no turning."

"Poets are born, not paid."

"Never strike a woman—tell her she can't reason."

Among the Magazines.

The Keramic Studio for October does not hold its interest in china decorating lag. Even on the alert for something new for the china painter, it has done itself proud in new designs and ideas, both conventional and decorative. The colored study of Wisteria is excellent, as are other studies in black and white from prominent teachers and decorators. The Brush and Pallette, a new publication by the Keramic Studio company, is a bright, crisp and instructive magazine for the beginner and advanced student. The black and white and colored studies are of the best. The study for October of still life, while simple, is rich in color scheme.

* * *

The October Forum opens with the customary survey by Henry Litchfield West, of the month's happenings in Tmerican politics, with special emphasis on the probable influence of business depression as a serious factor in the coming presidential election. Under the caption of foreign affairs, A. Maurice Low has some interesting things to say regarding the annexation of the Congo by Belgium; the present relation between Japan and the Saxon, apropos of the enthusiastic welcome accorded the American fleet by Australia; and the Moroccan imbroglio, which he describes as a bomb that spluttered but failed to explede. Alexander D. Noyes contributes his quarterly summary of the financial situation, and incidentally gives a clear-sighted exposition of the causes that have recently made the cost of living higher, in the face of a steady average decline in the price of commodities.

* * *

One of the chief features of Uncle Remus'—the Home Magazine for October—is an article on the recent race riots at Springfield, Ill. It is written by Don Marquis, associate editor of the Magazine, who has spent twenty years of his life in the Middle West, a number of years in the national capital and in Philadelphia, and having made an intelligent effort during a residence of six years in the heart of the South, to understand the attitude of the South and the causes for it, is exceptionally well qualified to write authoritatively upon a question which has been the subject for comment for many years. Accompanying the article is a full page of photographs taken during the riots.

* * *

In the October number of the North American Review, B. L. Putnam Weale makes a suggestion as to "What Our Fleet Could Do for China." Hannis Taylor discusses "The Speaker and His Powers." Brander Matthews pays a warm tribute to the late "Bronson Howard." Edward L. Andrews writes of "The Campaign and the Sherman Law." C. S. Lobingier, judge of the court of first instance in Manila, describes "The First Filipino Assembly and Its Work." John Townsend Trowbridge narrates some of his experiences in connection with his "Early Investigations in Spiritualism." Hubert Bruce Fuller tells the story of "Congressional Salary Legislation."

* * *

The most important feature of the October number of Popular Mechanics is the terse summary of one month's development in the field of aeronautics. But aeronautics constitutes but one feature of the magazine. John L. Cochrane of the United States geological survey contributes an interesting article on gas engines for the propulsion of battleships. One of the fine illustrations of the current number is of the U. S. S. Montana, just gone into commission. Other special features are: "Trackless Cable Freight Engine," "Village Built of Discarded Street Cars," "Rock Salt Purified in Five Minutes," "Casting Pipe in Permanent Molds" and others too numerous to mention.

The October National fairly glistens with autumn radiance of lively, entertaining and truly readable literature that is so characteristic of the sprightly Boston magazine. Whether the feats of hazardous airship flights, chats with aeronauts, or giving a glimpse in strenuous campaign days of the home life of the candidates—it is all there. The stories have the American "go" and life; the articles on the great development of farming, the sweeping summary of the "Harvests of the World" by men "who know," a strong article comprising "Sayings by Hon. James Wilson, Secretary of Agriculture," the most eminent authority on agriculture in the world, on "Making the Farm Pay," are invigorating and cause you to realize clearly the immensity of our farm industry. Everything in the National is cohesive and refreshing, even to the erudite study of "My Lord Hamlet," where even Hamlet is resurrected into a living, breathing being through an interesting, comprehensive study of Shakespeare's masterpiece.

Although the American navy is gradually growing, and has become one of the greatest and most efficient aggregations of war vessels on the globe, yet there is a strong feeling in some quarters that it should be still more rapidly enlarged and supplied with vastly more powerful ships. In the current issue of Leslie's Weekly Sidney Graves Koon advocates a continuous naval policy for the United States which shall involve the steady addition of many big vessels to our navy. The article appeals to everybody who takes an interest in naval matters. This is termed the autumn number, and, appropriately, a colored cover drawing on the front by Albert Hencke represents one of the common incidents of the season, a political procession marching along with much enthusiasm.

* * *

"The Fight in the House of God" is the rather unusual title of a very unusual story which leads the October issue of 10 Story Book. The author is Ben Winslow. This story is not the only unusual thing about this issue of the magazine. The cover is exceedingly striking and attractive. Whichever way you turn, the saucy eyes of the dainty lady on the cover will follow you. Along very unusual and weird lines is "The Mystery of Life," by Jewell Hawkes. Nellie Gravey Gillmore and Laura L. Hinkley contribute "Whose Husband Are You? and "The Curse of the Crossed Blood," respectively.

* * *

The front cover of the October number of Reercation is in full colors. The hunting season, which is now on, occupies more notice in this number than some of the other sports, and the illustrations are particularly satisfying as all of them represent actual scenes. Sportsmen generally will appreciate the table giving the full season for game, both in the United States and Canada, and a full study of this may save some of them heavy fines.

BRADLEY QUITS, THE NOMINEE IS WARNER.

Lansing, Mich., Oct. 10.—The fight over the Republican nomination for governor, beginning immediately after the September primaries, when Dr. J. B. Bradley of Eaton Rapids, auditor general, charged fraudulent enrollment and voting, and demanded a recount in certain counties, ended yesterday when Dr. Bradley withdrew from the contest, leaving Governor Fred M. Warner undisputed leadership of his party for the third term.

JOHNSON ON THE TONNAGE TAX.

The proposition which some have suggested, that the direct tax (on iron mines) should be abolished and a tonnage tax substituted for all revenue, both state and local, is objectionable, because of the jeopardy of revenue for local government during a period of industrial depression or in a year of possible lockouts and strikes. I WISH IT TO BE CLEARLY UNDERSTOOD THAT I OPPOSE ANY SYSTEM OF TAXATION THAT WILL DEPRIVE LOCAL GOVERNMENTS AND LOCAL IMPROVEMENTS OF A LIBERAL, RELIABLE AND CONTINUOUS SOURCE OF REVENUE.—Governor Johnson in his message to the legislature, Jan. 8, 1907.

Under the caption "The Governor's Tonnage Tax Record" the News Tribune this morning quoted from his message to the legislature of 1907 some speculations on the possibility of imposing a tax on royalties received by fee-owners of iron mines, attempting to show that these remarks contained an advocacy of the tonnage tax, which they did not. The morning paper ceased quoting just as it reached the above paragraph, in which Governor Johnson distinctly condemned the tonnage tax, and showed that it would be unjust and impracticable. The tonnage tax he opposed in that message is the tonnage tax Jacobson has always favored; and elsewhere on this page The Herald shows what effect it would have. As to the royalty tax, most of the fee-owners live outside the state and draw large revenues which pay no taxes anywhere, and it would be a splendid thing if they could be taxed. However, there are difficulties in the way of such a tax, which the governor carefully pointed out in his message.

If the News Tribune had any conception of fairness, it would have quoted the above paragraph; instead of that it stopped just short of it, and attempted by a garbled quotation from the governor's remarks on the royalty tax to show that he favored a tonnage tax, when it must have known that he distinctly and emphatically condemned the tonnage tax.

SCHOOL BOARD FINANCES.

The experience of Minneapolis, which is finding out all sorts of queer things about the finances and bookkeeping methods of its school district, should be profitable not only to Minneapolis but to the entire state.

The Herald has always contended that there ought to be the same checks, the same supervision and the same publicity attaching to the finances of school districts as attach to the affairs of state, counties, cities and villages. There is official supervision of the accounts of the state, of the counties, and of the communities. Publicity of their accounts is invariably required, and there is ample opportunity for the inquiring taxpayer to find out just what is going on. Either an annual statement of expenditures and receipts is formally published, or there is a formal publication of the proceedings of the governing bodies from week to week or from month to month. Often there is both.

There is nothing of this sort connected with the school districts. In the independent school district of Duluth affairs are managed absolutely by a board of education elected by the people. The board's proceedings are not published, except through the news columns, which cannot be burdened with financial details not of general interest. No outside authority checks the accounts of the board, and no financial statement is given to the public.

In Duluth this condition has been unattended by disaster, as the city has been fortunate in the selection of its school directors. If it is invariably as fortunate in the future as it has been in the past, there will be no trouble; if a mistake is made, there are the same possibilities of mischief that exist in other communities.

In Minneapolis, apparently, this system has worked out badly. There seems to be the utmost confusion about the accounts of the board of education. There are even accusations of fraud, though it is likely that these will turn out to be incorrect. However, a situation which contains a possible opening for such misunderstanding is dangerous to the directors and their employes, and it is to their interest that there should be full publicity and a complete accounting at stated intervals between the disbursing authorities and the public.

All this could be avoided by putting the financial affairs of every school district upon the same basis as the financial affairs of the state, the counties, the cities and the villages. The public examiner or some other authority should check the accounts and the proceedings of the board and at least an annual financial statement should be published. Then the possibilities of such dangerous laxity as Minneapolis is discovering would at least be minimized materially.

THE NEWS TRIBUNE'S ABSURD LOGIC.

Having adopted the policy of making petty attacks upon Governor Johnson instead of showing positive reasons why it is better for the state to throw Johnson out and put Jacobson in, if there are any such reasons, the News Tribune has wandered into a maze of defective ratiocination so bewildering to itself that it is going to have a pretty time getting out into open ground again.

Governor Johnson having advocated the increased taxation that has already been provided for the iron mines, and increased taxes from lumber which have not yet been arranged, the morning paper feebly attempts to show that this is not a good thing for the people. Why? Because the iron interests add the tax to the cost of production, and the consumers pay it; and the timber interests will do the same thing.

If that is an argument against increased taxation of iron mines and lumber, it is also an argument for reduced taxation. If it doesn't pay to tax the iron and timber interests their fair share according to valuation, it would be better to exempt them from taxation altogether, by the same process of reasoning. Only by the possession of the strange condition of mental refraction that abides in the News Tribune's brain, which prevents it from seeing anything clearly, could anybody start toward such a conclusion, but that is where the morning paper's arguments lead it.

If it is bad to tax iron and lumber because the iron and lumber interests make consumers pay the taxes, what about taxing railroads? Does anybody suppose that the railroads themselves, by some strange financial alchemy, conjure out of the atmosphere the money to pay their taxes? They get it out of freight rates, and the people pay the freight rates. Therefore, whatever taxes the railroads are assessed, the patrons of the railroads and those who buy commodities carried by railroads must pay. Should we therefore hesitate to tax railroads fairly according to their value?

Let's follow this amusingly characteristic News Tribune logic out to its inevitable conclusion. If we should refrain from taxing iron and lumber upon an equal basis with other property because the iron and lumber interests make the consumers pay the taxes, evidently we should exempt both from taxation. Thereby we shall lighten the burdens of the consumers—providing the iron and lumber interests see fit to reduce their charges to consumers accordingly. If this is true of iron and lumber, it is true of coal and copper and wheat and corn and cattle.

If we should exempt a dealer in timber from taxation because he makes those who buy timber pay his taxes for him, we should also exempt the grocer from taxation, because most assuredly he leaves a margin for the cost of taxation when he fixes his charges, so his patrons pay his taxes, too, like the patrons of the dealer in lumber. If it works with the dealer in lumber and the dealer in groceries, it will work with the dealer in anything else—except labor. Labor, compelled under present economic conditions to take what it can get and be thankful, is the final consumer. It has nobody to pay its taxes, so it must pay them itself. If we start with iron and timber, and exempt everybody that has a chance to make somebody else pay his taxes for him, we shall follow the News Tribune to its final triumph—the payment of all taxes by that bearer of all burdens—the producer.

DR. HUTCHINSON ON PLAY.

"Better a playground without a schoolhouse than a schoolhouse without a playground," is the way in which Dr. Woods Hutchinson sums up an intelligent and convincing study of the relation of play to physical, moral and mental wellbeing in Charities and The Commons.

Happily, no such embarrassing choice between two horns of a serious dilemma presents itself to any American community. We can have both schools and playgrounds, if we will; and we can not only have playgrounds around the schoolhouses, but we can have them scattered throughout the cities, where the children can find wholesome outlet for the exuberant instinct that impels them to upbuilding play.

Says Dr. Hutchinson: "Whether the child survives civilization or not, civilization cannot survive the child; for the child is the embodiment of the future of the race. The boasted organization of our civilization is an organization for grown-ups, and it has left the child out of its calculations. Half a century ago our social and industrial organization was so loose that there was plenty of room for the child to grow up in the gaps and interspaces. Now it is so compact that he scarcely has breathing room and no play room. We have gone far to civilize the business of play out of existence. The modern city child has lost his most precious birthright—the back yard.

"We have not improved matters much by substituting the school. Because the child is deprived of the proper opportunity to develop his body, we build beautiful palaces for his incarceration during the hours of daylight so that we may overdevelop his brain. If this were not so stupid it would be criminal. The real business of the child is not to pass examinations but to grow up. The school room must relinquish at least half its claims upon the time and strength of our children. Our school rooms should be relieved of the mere nursery duty of keeping children out of harm and mischief, with which they are now loaded, and the playground should be organized, supervised and recognized as a vital and co-ordinate branch of our scheme of education. One of the most valuable influences of the school is the effect of the children upon each other; but this can be obtained in its perfection only upon the playground. Cut down the school hours one-half and double the playground hours, and you will have done more for the physical, mental and moral health of Young America than by any other possible step."

There will be dispute about some of this, no doubt; but it all rests on sound, hygienic common sense. "The real business of the child is not to pass examinations but to grow up;" and society should see that it does both.

WHAT IT MEANS TO TAXPAYERS.

The News Tribune, compelled to the support of Jacobson by the exigencies of partisanship, refuses to respond to The Herald's request for a single reason why Jacobson should receive a single vote in Northern Minnesota. Instead of meeting that inquiry, it prefers to misrepresent Governor Johnson's attitude toward the taxation of the iron mines, and to attempt to make the public believe that because he approved of the increase in the valuation he advocates a tonnage tax. Nothing more absurd could be imagined, yet it was necessary that the News Tribune, as a reluctant advocate of Jacobson, should do something to detract attention from the fact that throughout his career Jacobson fought for the tonnage tax in its most impractical and most mischievous form.

Jacobson advocated a 5-cent tonnage tax on iron ore in lieu of all other taxes. If that entire tax went to the state, it would bankrupt every community on the ranges and largely increase the tax rate throughout the entire county. The rates in the range communities would be raised from an average of less than $20 per $1,000 of valuation to $300 per $1,000; the rate for county purposes, affecting the taxes of every citizen of the county, would be increased from about 2 mills to 12 mills, a jump of 500 per cent.

If the clumsy attempt of apportioning a part of this gross earnings tax to the local communities were made, nobody knows how much taxes it would provide, nor what the tax rates would be. In years of large production the tax might be ample; in years of low production it would be inadequate; in years of no production at all the result would be bankruptcy for every community whose mines were idle.

On the other hand, under Governor Johnson's administration the valuations on the iron mines have been raised from $42,000,000 to nearly $200,000,000. What is the result?

In 1906 the tax rate for county purposes in St. Louis county was $3.22 per $1,000; the year after the last increase in the valuation of the mines it was $1.82 per $1,000, a cut of 43 per cent though the county appropriated a much larger amount of money, which was put into the new courthouse fund and devoted to a large increase of expenditures for good roads. In spite of this increased county expense, the increase in valuation saved 43 per cent on the county tax to every taxpayer in the county, in Duluth no less than on the iron ranges.

But the saving to small taxpayers was even more striking in the range communities.

In Hibbing, for instance, the total rate paid by local property-owners was cut from $17.80 per $1,000 to $10.30 per $1,000. If Jacobson's tonnage tax had taken away all the iron taxes for the benefit of the state, the rate in Hibbing would have been jumped to $274.30 per $1,000, a rate which no property-owner could stand, as it would eat up his holdings in less than four years.

In Eveleth the rate was cut from $52.10 to $46.40, and under Jacobson's tonnage tax it might have been $327.68.

Virginia was cut from $29 to $15.10, while Jacobson might have made it $141.93.

Chisholm was cut from $20.60 to $14.10; Buhl from $21.30 to $11.70; school district No. 22, town of Missabe Mountain, from $18 to $12.10; Fayal from $14.90 to 11.90, etc. In each case, if Jacobson's tonnage tax had become effective, the tax rates would have ruined every business man and home-owner in these communities.

BETTER COOKING, FEWER DRUNKARDS.

Josephine Morris, supervisor of the "Boston school of cooking teachers"—meaning teachers of cooking, and not such cannibalistic serving up of school ma'ams as the name might imply—says that if more general attention were paid to teaching cookery in public schools, there would be fewer drunkards in this country.

There is something in what she says, too. More men than most people imagine are led to drinking by a diseased craving induced by an abused stomach; and skill in cooking is by no means so common that if it actually is true that bad cooking leads to drunkenness, the matter is not a fit subject for discussion in that connection.

"I don't blame men for going out nights and getting drunk when they never have a well-cooked meal at home," sturdily says Miss Morris. The connection between the bad meals and the bad habit is not made so clear as it might be, but there is a connection, nevertheless. A man isn't justified in going out on a drunk simply out of pique because his wife can't cook; but there is no doubt that the appetite for drink is often the direct physical result of a bad stomach which is in turn the direct physical result of bad cooking.

And since it is so important in every way that each household should be supplied with good cooking, and since it is so evident that mighty few households are provided with good and well-cooked food, what more clear than that the public schools should teach their girl pupils how to cook? A girl supplied with every possible facility of education except those that will make her a good housekeeper is not a fit wife for any man, whether he is able to hire a regiment of servants or whether his wife will have to do the housework. Geometry will not supply the place of good bread; the differential calculus will not save a household condemned by the housewife's ignorance of domestic hygiene to fried foods; a knowledge of political economy will not make up for ignorance of domestic economy.

Whether bad cooking makes drunkards or not, it certainly makes dyspepsia, and dyspepsia is the national disease: therefore, revolutionary as the idea may seem, it is clear that bad cooking must be the national failing. In the interests of mental, physical, moral and social health, the public schools should teach cooking.

IT DOESN'T LOOK WELL.

It is unfortunate, but there will be many who will wonder whether, if Ingebert Moe, the unfortunate victim of drink who died in the police station the other night, had been wealthy and popular instead of a penniless foreigner, his clay would have been hustled so unceremoneously to the potter's field without further investigation into the cause of his death.

As to the actual cause, there is no question, as the coroner says: Moe fell down a flight of stairs Monday afternoon and fractured his skull. In the early evening he was found unconscious and taken to the police station, apparently as a "drunk," though the patrol wagon driver has been quoted as saying that he knew the man was not drunk. He was put in the jail without medical attendance, and died alone and neglected some time in the night. With an amplitude of excuses for the jail attendants, it is decided that no inquest is necessary, and the body is laid away and the matter dropped.

Have the demands of justice been fully met in this case?

There is no need of splitting hairs over what Governor Johnson thinks of the tonnage tax: his exact words are published on this page.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

The thought waves were very calm at the St. Louis last night. Not a ripple appeared on the intellectual horizon. Not a sharp edged point of excitement forced its way through the lethargy of complacency, that enfolded the lobby like a woolen blanket enfolds the sleeping form of a drowsy child. It was quiet along the Wabash. Then suddenly some excitement came—just as the sudden and unexpected appearance of the Excelsior youth in the Alpine village stirred up the citizens. A political argument started and the thought waves beat high, and swept the lobby with fierce invective.

"Bryan," began the little excitable man, "is a superior man to Mr. Taft. In the first place he has more brains—"

"You are mistaking noise for thought and mere sound for logic, my friend," cut in the big man. "Mr. Bryan is sadly lacking in consecutive thought and sustained effort in any one direction."

The little man was of the nervous type—it didn't take much to rile him and jumped at the argument of his big friend like a bull dog at the frayed trousers of a trespasser.

"You talk like a soda water syphon," the little man hissed between the teeth. "Brains, sustained effort, rot! What has Taft ever done? He was born with a silver spoon in his mouth. He has held appointive office ever since he was old enough to hold office. He has simply followed instructions—"

"But you will admit that he has done pretty well, for a fat man," and the big man gave vent to a high pitched chuckle.

"Stop it! stop it!" fairly screamed the little man, who was fairly dancing with rage. "It is men like you who debase politics. You can't take anything seriously. There you stand with a silly grin on your face, taking a presidential race as lightly as though it was nothing more than the election of some petty village magistrate. I was saying—"

"To tell the truth," broke in the big man, "I do take the presidential race rather lightly. The fact is that there is nothing to the contest. Taft has it won already. I was talk—"

"There you go, fairly screamed the little excited man, "trying to dodge the argument. You say that you know that Taft is going to be elected. You are wrong, man, and you know that you are wrong. Now, as a matter of fact, I have inside information, right from the proper source, which puts me pretty certain that Bryan will carry—"

"At least four states," interjected the big man.

"Liar!" screamed the little man, standing on his toes and hurling the words upward at the face of the smiling big man. "Liar by the face of the clock."

"That's about as far as you Democrats go," said the big man, who had lit a cigar and was calmly and meditatively puffing upon it. "One candidate of your party even went further or than that; he called one of the members of the other party a liar three times, meaning it to apply all in the same place. Now, in politics you must be very careful. You see politics is different now from the good old days. Then you could have most any kind of affiliations. Today if you happened to have been a grocery man and have been so unfortunate as to have doled out some Standard oil to a customer, why you might as well quit."

"Silly argument," yelled the little man. "In consonance with all the other silly things you have said. Why don't you present some arguments, like I have? You haven't any, that's why. Mr. Bryan could have had all the Standard Oil money he wanted. Rockefeller is a Democrat and he would contribute to the party, if they would accept his tainted money. Now when it was discovered that Haskell was—"

"Unable to come through with a lot of corporation money—burst forth the big man, "why they tied a 'not wanted' sign to him. Now if I were to state—"

"All the empty headed logic that you think is argument, we would be standing here listening to you all night. You don't cite facts; you don't attempt to argue; all you do is to vilify and rail against some man who is much superior to the candidate whom you claim great things for. Now take the two speeches of the candidates at the deep waterways convention. Bryan's was much the superior. He simply outclassed Taft. Taft was born with a silver spoon in his mouth. Bryan had to work for all he has attained. Now as I said before, Taft has held office ever since he was able to vote—"

"And Bryan has run for office ever since the people would vote for him," came from the big man. What's the difference? One has been running for an office that he never secured and the other candidate has been more fortunate in securing the various offices he set out to get. Now I ask you, as a calm and logical man, which—"

"I refuse to argue with a frivolous man, like you," came from the little man. "You have no conception of the seriousness of politics. You have no regard for your own responsibility in the selection of an executive for this great country of ours. You jumble together a lot of nonsense and believe that you are presenting some kind of an argument. You are lacking in all due sense of the seriousness of the occasion, you are without political fairness, you are the kind of a man that corrupts politics, why—"

"Outside of that I am a fairly good citizen," beamed the big man. "To tell the truth I don't care much about politics. You see I am working for the state. I don't know what you were trying to get at, but at that you might have been right."

The little man regarded him fixedly. "Well I'll be—" he cried, and the telephone operator turned away her face. "I'm not a steady voter myself, but I like to argue and quote facts. Your argument isn't logical."

"Let's have a drink—that's logical enough," said the big man and they did.

The lobby sank back into its peaceful somnolency with only the monotonous calls of "front" to break the silence.

THE WEATHER.

Still glorious fall weather. It has been a bit breezy, at times, but the temperature is fine, the air is like wine, and conditions generally are superb. Except that the thermometer will get down to freezing levels again tonight, the weather man sees no prospect of worse weather. The northwest winds he expects to diminish Sunday. A year ago today it was clear, bright and breezy. The sun rose this morning at 6:19, and sets tonight at 5:31, making 11 hours and 12 minutes of sunlight.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: A slight barometric depression is central over the south Atlantic states attended by light to heavy rains in the Ohio Valley, Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia, the Sarolines and Virginia. A storm condition of somewhat greater intensity, central over western Ontario, is causing strong westerly winds on Lake Superior. High pressure areas overlying the New England states and the extreme Northwest is attended by colder weather in the north Atlantic diatricts and from Montana northward. Freezing temperatures prevail in Saskatchewan, Alberta, Northwestern North Dakota and Northern and Eastern Montana, and this condition may be expected in Duluth, Superior and vicinity Sunday morning.

Following were last night's lowest temperatures:

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

A Man and His Echo.

One of the earliest and most vivid recollections of boyhood days is in connection with a visit to a farmer uncle, who took me where I could hear a famous echo. As he threw his powerful voice against the cliffs a number of yards a way, back it came to him, repeating almost instantly and with wonderful clearness, his exact words. It seemed to my boyish fancy a remarkable thing that there could be such a reproduction of human tone after it had once left the lips. But since then I have heard other echoes, some of them quite noted ones and I have come to apprehend the laws of sound governing their production. But an echo is still to me one of the most interesting and suggestive of natural phenomena.

As I have gone on in years, I have echoes of human lives that have been fortunate enough to encounter the transmitted something of their personality to me long after they have vanished from the earth. The first was the echo of a soldier uncle who fainted under the rays of the fierce southern sun, giving his life for his country just as truly as if he had fallen in battle, when charging the foe. I was but a —wee baby when he marched bravely away with his regiment and, of course, he never influenced me personally, but in the forty years since he met a soldiers death, echoes of him have been repeatedly coming to my ears, in the abundant testimony of his surviving comrades to his manliness and kindness in camp and on the march, in the tributes to his sterling Christian character from men who worked at the same carpenter's bench and in the veneration still felt for him in the church of which he was a modest and devoted member.

In college the echoes of men who had preceded us, resounded through the dormitories and recitation rooms. Figures that we never saw, became real to the eye of the imagination as we learned about the athletic prowess of this man, the scholarly achievements of another, the rare personal charm and influence of another. Every great school has its splendid traditions of men who wrought nobly in student days and then went out to live useful and honorable lives.

As I have resided in one community after another, I have always heard about former residents who had died or moved away before I came, but who were still held in affectionate esteem and whose absence was continually mpurned. They were invariably the progressive, public-spirited men who could be relied on in emergencies, who helped to initiate and carry through undertakings, bearing on the public welfare who were not always scheming to get what they could out of their fellow citizens, but to contribute all they could to the happiness and prosperity of others.

What a splendid thing it is to leave behind you such an echo that the Scripture will be literally fulfilled. "He being dead yet speaketh." The tone quality is perpetuated in what others say and think about you. It pervades the region to such an extent that those who come after us cannot help discovering intimations here and there of what we were and what we did.

What cheer there is also in this thought for those of us who feel that our lives are running away without our accomplishing much. But we are to be judged not simply by the impression we make today, but by the echo that will come back days hence to those who may never see us in the flesh. "That man stood for the right when it was unpopular so to do." "That woman gave herself most patiently and unsparingly for her children." "That man was never too busy to be kind." So the echoes will come back in one form and another. Much depends on the man. The echo of Judas Iscariot's life still reverberates in the caverns and the tombs of human life while the echo of Jesus of Nazareth is like the pealing of sweet bells at eventide.

MEANT TO BE FUNNY.

Picture Dealer—Just step this way. I've the very thing. There! You see, the design of the frame is a nymph on each side! Absolutely excludes all danger of having the picture hung upside down.

Yonkers Statesman: Bacon—When we were in the country that man Breef wanted to try milking.

Egbert—Why, he never did any milking, did he?

"I should say so! Why, he's a corporation lawyer!"

The Sketch: The Employe—Please, sir, I've been an' gone an' got married, and I'd like you to raise my wages, sir.

The Employer (worried by thoughts of the workmen's compensation act)—Very sorry for you, Smith, I'm sure, but I can't do that. I'm only responsible for accidents that happen in the works, you know.

A well-known philanthropist once called on a millionaire to beg a subscription towards a charity he was much interested in. "Who was it," said the millionaire, smiling, "that said that charity begins at home?"

The caller frowned, "It was some one, I'll be bound," he answered, "who wanted an excuse not to contribute."

One morning shortly after the honeymoon a determined wife took her seat at the breakfast table and placed a large revolver by the side of her plate. "W—why, my dear," stammered the astonished husband, "w—what does that mean?"

"It means, my love," was the stern reply, "that we have bread of my own making for breakfast, and that no adverse criticism will be tolerated."

Artist—I want to get a frame for a rather important picture I've just finished.

Picture Dealer—Certainly, sir. For your own use?

Artist—No; I'm sending it to the exhibition.

THOUGHTS ON BOYS

By J. S. KIRTLEY, D. D.
Author of "The Young Man and Himself," etc.

HIS VOICE AND SMILE

(Copyright, 1908, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

IT IS at the time, when he is neither a boy nor a man, but an anomaly. He has come to the place when, like a cable car, he is told to "let go," and then "take hold;" but he hangs on when he should "let go," and loses his grip intermittently when he should "take hold" firmly. His hands find no repose, because they say his bones have grown faster than his muscles. He has been shot up into the ether so rapidly he does not know his own whereabouts. His voice can croak like a frog, chirp like a cricket and sing like an angel, all in the same sentence. One minute it goes rumbling down in the bowels of the earth as a bass, and the next minute slips clean out of sight, as a tenor. And when he smiles, he seems to be trying to work up some fresh cuticle that has grown upon his face since the day before; and if he succeeds in working it all up into a smile he doesn't know what to do with it. He looks as if he would like to swallow the thing. But it is a fetching smile. You always smile back at him and you can say in after days: "His bright smile haunts me still."

That voice and smile do not always seem to work together for tranquilizing effects; on the contrary, the effect of two such stirring forces is often tantalizing, sometimes terrorizing. They are accompanied by other phenomena.

He talks through his nose, wears out his clothes just where you don't want him to wear them out, keeps his older sister, who is engaged to be married, in a state of pectoral perturbation. He is not an unalloyed comfort in the home. It is said, on good authority, that there was once a time like that in our old home. But as I have no disposition to harrow or plow or rake up feelings that ought to have been peacefully slumbering these several decades, I pass that by.

Perhaps that explains the antipathy which a friend of mine says one of his grandfathers had for him, when a boy.

His Grandfather Stone loved Fred and thought he was the greatest thing that ever happened, and when he visited him gave the lad the freedom of the farm. His Grandfather Brooks thought Fred was an inexcusable impertinence, and when the lad came out to the farm put all kinds of limits on his goings—wouldn't even let him climb up into the apple tree and eat green apples in the leafy month of June.

Think of that! At that seductive period of the young apple's life, when each little apple carries beneath its shining epidermis a neat little monkey wrench for the special entertainment of the little boy that happens to get on the outside of that little apple. Think of that, again.

Fred says: "They were both good men, have both died, have both gone to heaven, and when the time comes for me to go there, too, one of the first I shall want to see will be Grandpa Stone, but if Grandpa Brooks ever sees me, he will simply have to hunt me up."

At that curious stage all the inharmonious elements seem to battle for him, and try to make him a savage or a seer, a bully and a bandit, or a knight-errant, called to gallant adventure in behalf of the unfortunate. But because he is a boy he has his hold on everybody's saving sympathy. Looks and dress don't count with us. He may wear tan shoes which the tanners tan by the latest process of tanning, or chiefly the tanned epidermis which his mother tans by the old process of tanning, which has proven so efficacious with us, and so satisfactory to our mothers.

Dr. Theodore L. Cuyler's mother received a letter from him one summer, when he was abroad, in which he said: "Mother, I have been presented to the queen of England." With that letter in her hand she rushed into the next room where some of her friends were, and exclaimed: "Ladies, the queen has seen Theodore." That is the attitude which counts when the boy's voice is double and his smile singular.

He is looking out on a new world and his pa is beginning to loom large, his sense of the presence of people is made over, and his smile is often bestowed on some one whom he secretly calls his "girl." The unseen angels are singing to his dear soul.

CONGRESS ASKED TO ISSUE BONDS

For Waterway From Great Lakes to Gulf of Mexico.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—Before adjourning yesterday, the deep waterways convention adopted resolutions, saying:

"The all-important question of transportation is a paramount issue. If it be found that the current revenues of the government are insufficient for vigorously carrying out, on a broad plan, the development of our waterways, congress should procure funds for that purpose by providing a sufficient bond issue.

"This convention declares the opening of a deep channel way connecting the Great Lakes with the Gulf of Mexico to be an imperative duty of the general government, and that this work should be immediately begun and completed as speedily as possible.

"Any plan for inland waterway development should comprise a main trunk line in the form of a strait, connecting Lake Michigan with the Gulf of Mexico by the Illinois and Mississippi rivers. The improvement of the branches of this main line, such as the Upper Mississippi with its tributaries, the Ohio with its tributaries, including the Tennessee and the Cumberland, the Missouri, the Arkansas, the Red, the White, should proceed simultaneously with the development of the main line.

"The deep waterway is practically complete from Chicago to Joliet, and the continuation from Joliet to St. Louis will cost only $31,000,000. The state of Illinois, assuming that the federal government will take the responsibility of completing the waterway to the gulf, is about to co-operate to the extent of $20,000,000. A special board of survey was created by congress last year to report on the feasibility of a deep waterway route from St. Louis to the mouth of the Ohio. Delegates to this convention demand that when the report is made congress shall at once provide funds sufficient to begin operations in a large and effective way."

LAND SEEKERS VIEW FIRST PRAIRIE FIRE.

Dallas, S. D., Oct. 10.—An area of Tripp county, twenty-five miles long and fifteen miles wide is afire, flames having come to within five miles of Dallas. The fire started near Winona, a reservation town. No alarm was felt by Dallas people, but many land seekers excitedly viewed their first prairie fire.

MOVES ON POLITICAL CHECKERBOARD

BRYAN AS ADVANCE AGENT OF PROSPERITY HAILS ILLINOISANS.

Streator, Ill., Oct. 10.—Declaring himself to be "the advance agent of prosperity," William J. Bryan, Democratic candidate for president, in his speeches in this state en route to Hannibal, Mo., sought to batter down the arguments of his opponent that business depression and panics will follow his election. He left Chicago in special cars furnished by the Illinois state Democratic committee. In addition to a large number of the members of the committee Mr. Bryan had accompanying him David R. Francis of Missouri who, with other prominent Democrats of that state, took charge of the train at Quincy for the journey through Missouri.

HUGHES TELLS OIL TRUST MEN NOT TO VOTE FOR BRYAN.

Coffeville, Kan., Oct. 10.—Governor Charles E. Hughes of New York invaded the Standard Oil tank farms in Southeast Kansas today, and urged crowds of workmen employed in the refineries to vote for the defeat of Mr. Bryan. Shop whistles blew and throngs of workmen rushed to the station to meet Governor Hughes at Neodosha, Kan., the site of a huge refinery, and an even greater crowd greeted him at Independence.

"I want to tell you workingmen not to be influenced by false promises or catch-fancy schemes when you cast your votes next month," said Governor Hughes.

DIET AND HEALTH

By DR. T. J. ALLEN,
Food Specialist.
Author of "Eating for a Purpose," "The New Gospel of Health," etc.

THE SIMPLE DIET.

(Copyright, 1908, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

TO return to nature is not always easy, even when we know what nature would have us do. Habit, it has been said, is second nature, and nowhere is this more true than in eating—the oldest habit. But if improvement is desirable it must be most desirable in eating, which underlies all life processes, and yet change should be made only after careful consideration, and then with all due deliberation.

Beef is digested chiefly in the stomach by the action of the gastric fluid. When reduced to a fine pulp by mastication before entering the stomach it tends to pass out before being properly digested, for the pylorus tends to open when the food is sufficiently reduced by the movement of the stomach and the action of the gastric fluid. Hence many authorities say that meat should be bolted as the dog swallows his meat in large lumps. This is scientifically correct, but the very opposite is true of bread and potatoes.

Flesh digests in from three to five hours; rice remains in the stomach about one hour. When flesh and rice are eaten at the same meal, there is a conflict. The meat and rice are completely mixed by the movement of the stomach. If now the homogeneous mass is retained four hours, the rice undergoes fermentation. If the meat is carried into the intestines within two hours its digestion must be imperfect, failing to receive the proper supply of gastric fluid—an error which cannot be fully corrected by further digestion in the intestines.

Much as this important phase of dietetics has been neglected by the medical profession, invalids are never put upon a bi-diet, much less upon a mixture of several foods, however easily digested. Beef is one of the commonest invalid diets, because it is almost pure proteid, digesting easily in the stomach. Rice, 85 per cent. starch, is a common invalid's diet, but meat and rice would not be prescribed to be eaten together.

Proteid foods (meats, eggs, beans, etc.) digest principally in the stomach; carbonaceous foods (fruits, potatoes, cereal foods, etc.), principally in the intestine. When these classes of foods are mixed, there is a conflict which must have a disquieting effect upon the nervous system.

It is natural to suppose that a hungry animal under natural conditions would confine itself to one kind of food. Neither man nor the pig is naturally omnivorous. Acorns are the natural food of the pig, which, like man, becomes a prey to an almost infinite variety of disease when he becomes by force of circumstances omnivorous. A high authority on the diseases of the pig says that they are due to its being fed upon the waste human foods from our tables.

It is a peculiar fact that the digestive organs of the pig very closely resemble those of man. Acorns and a few roots are of the natural food of the wild pig. In his natural state there is no healthier animal; and in his domesticated state none more pitifully diseased, except, perhaps, man. Lucretius, the Latin poet, says:

Soft acorns were man's first and chiefest food,
And those red apples that adorn the wood.
The nerves that joined their limbs were firm and strong;
Their life was healthy, and their age was long.

Returning years still saw them in their prime;
They wearied e'en the wings of measuring Time;
Nor colds, nor heats, nor strong diseases waitt,
And tell sad news of coming hasty fate;
Nature not yet grew weak, not yet began
To shrink into an inch the largest span.

Pavlov, the Russian physiological chemist, has shown that the system adapts itself to the digestion of the food while it is in the mouth, the character of the digestive fluids secreted varying with the food. How bewildered it must be by a ten-course dinner offering perhaps fifty different articles of food!

Considering these facts, we must conclude that serious injury is done to the system by eating a variety of foods at the same meal. Perhaps we may find here the hitherto unaccountable reason for the shortness of human life. And if this be the cause, we must find all the noted cases of longevity among those people whose diet is the simplest. Metchnikoff has found the largest percentage of centenarians among the Hungarian peasants, living largely on black bread. Among the Irish peasantry, living chiefly on potatoes, centenarians are numerous. The noted cases of longevity in England were all among the peasantry, living on a very simple diet. The most noted of centenarians, Cornaro, the Venetian, prolonged life sixty years by restricting his diet to a uniform quantity of eggs and unfermented wine, almost exclusively.

Several monodiet tests recently made under the writer's direction showed, as would naturally be expected, if the principles above stated are true, remarkable results. Edgar Brobst, a foundryman, eating only beans for sixty days, gained eight pounds in weight, working Sundays, two nights and several evenings extra during the period. On a forty days' diet of oatmeal there was a gain of three pounds and better general conditions of health. Dr. Landone of Los Angeles, Cal., reported a gain in weight living on cactus for ten days. On returning to his former mixed diet Brobst lost four pounds in ten days. (An exclusive diet of beans would be injurious, and in no case is a one-sided diet of beans, peanuts, meat or graham bread advisable.)

The human system has developed a wonderful power of adaptation to environment, food included. Evolution has produced in man an inhabitant of all climates, capable of subsisting on a great variety of foods. The diet of the average American is not a uniform one, but a continually changing diet. This is true not of the traveler only who may lunch in Chicago and dine in Kalamazoo, but equally of the society woman who may dine at home today and tomorrow at the church, and of the business man or woman who eats at a restaurant or hotel. The only system the average person has in eating is that of having no system, comparatively speaking.

If, however, one has long been in the habit of drinking a cup or two of coffee in the morning, for instance, the dropping of that stimulant will cause, for awhile, the same inconvenience that the habitual user of intoxicants finds on discontinuing his daily two or three glasses of beer, wine or whisky, or that the smoker finds for a time after he stops smoking.

I often hear people say they are convinced that coffee, for instance, is injurious, but when they tried to leave off using it, they suffered from nervous headache so much that they were obliged to resume its use to be in fit condition for their work. Persons who have tried to do without meat often conclude that they are the better for eating it, because they do not feel so well when they discontinue it—for a few days.

Eating or drinking any particular food or drink becomes in time a habit, and even thought it may be injurious, it is hard to discontinue it. Even the substitution of a better habit is irksome.

Nature's way is to change gradually, as we see in the weaning of the young, as we may see when at times the food of our domestic animals is changed.

Suppose, for instance, that you decide to discontinue the use of coffee, mix with the coffee one-fourth cereal coffee for the first week or two, next one-half, then three-fourths, and finally use pure cereal coffee, which may be continued as a substitute drink or not.

In living on one article of diet, even milk, or wheat, or fruits, which may supply every element of material nutrition needed by the system, there is a craving for something else for a time. It does not necessarily follow that something else is really needed, but only that the habit of eating more than one thing is calling for satisfaction. It is well known that there is a crying demand for food during the first few days of a fast, but that after the fourth day there may be no call for food for thirty days or more.

In adopting a complete new diet, the law of gradual change applies as in dealing with a single article, like coffee. The manner of effecting the change, in detail, should be determined by age, temperament, and other particulars. The longer the habit has been established the more gradual should be the change. A person of nervous temperament should change more slowly than a phlegmatic person of iron will.

The question naturally arises: Are not most of our foods complex in themselves, including milk and that nearest the perfect food, wheat?

Necessarily the infant's food must contain all the elements essential to life and growth; but these are harmoniously combined as are all the elements of nutrition, except fat, in wheat. Yet skimmed milk (from which the animal fat, not easily assimilated, has been extracted) is more easily digested than entire milk. Wheat bread from which the proteid has been largely removed, digests more easily than entire wheat flour bread, toasted white bread (without butter) being a common diet for invalids; yet cornmeal bread, which is almost pure proteid, is easily digested.

It is admitted that, from the scientific viewpoint, the Chinese are the best fed people in the world. Only their mind-dwarfing system of education has prevented their dominating the world. The Japanese, living largely on a monodiet of rice, with better mental conditions, bid fair to become a ruling race. The Scotch, living largely on oatmeal, have won distinction in science, invention and philosophy for centuries. The world's masterpieces originate never in the banquet hall, but often in the garret, fed by dry crusts.

During the past twelve months I have eaten almost exclusively, but one article at a meal—rice, whole-wheat bread, peanuts, bananas, beans, potatoes (baked), apples, and, as a rule, nuts at noon and fruit in the evening—my regular diet—and I have enjoyed perfect health and increased efficiency.

The average person in good health may not be easily persuaded to adopt the monodiet practice, but the invalid, especially one suffering from digestive disturbances of any kind, or one who realizes the importance of conserving vitality for restoring normal conditions should not hesitate to adopt the simple diet.

A complete change of diet is a serious thing, and should not be undertaken without careful consideration.

Occasionally after one has become established in the better way and being fully convinced that the change has proved beneficial, an overwhelming desire will take possession of one to return, temporarily, to the old way. I believe it is best, in such cases, to yield, for one meal, or even for a day or two. Coffee does not become a deadly poison the day one forswears it. One must be careful, however, lest "the last state become worse than the first."

Our friends, the enemy, are the greatest hindrance to improvement in diet. The fear of being called a "food crank" deters many from making a change which they know would greatly improve their health and success generally, although "food cranks" are now happily becoming so numerous that there is ample company.

A radical change in diet, even for the better, is naturally followed by unpleasant feelings and worse looks, for awhile; and often one does not know how to adapt the new diet until he learns by experience. It is therefore better, as a rule, to be away from home while making a radical change, or while fasting, and, if posible, among people who can give trustworthy advice and encouragement.

It should be borne in mind that the amount and kind of food required by a given individual depend largely upon age, work, temperament and other conditions which should always be considered in determining a diet.

My next topic is "milk for babies," "buttermilk for adults."

CROPS HEAVILY SWELL TONNAGE

County Trade Quiet, Farmers Avail Themselves of Good Weather.

New York, Oct. 10.—Bradstreet's today says:

Although trade reports are somewhat irregular in character, owing largely to varying weather conditions in different sections of the country and uncertainties caused by the impending election, the general undertone is toward sustained improvement. Country trade has been comparatively quiet, because the farmers have been taking advantage of the ideal weather to complete their harvesting. However, the heavy marketing of crops has made an increased railway tonnage and improved collections considerably, while exports of wheat are heavy. Iron and steel are quiet, impending elections being a deterrent influence, but production is increasing in anticipation of forthcoming good business, and there is more doing in other industrial lines. There is less industrial idleness and in some instances business is developing for the first quarter of 1909, especially in shoes, lumber and pig iron.

The pig iron production for September exceeded that of August by 4.2 per cent, and it was the heaviest total recorded since November last, while it represents an increase of 35 per cent over January, 1908. However, the decrease from September, 1907, reaches 35 per cent. Basic pig iron is fairly active in the East, and apparently prices are easier. Consumers' stocks are said to be low, and this fact lends to stiffen the views of producers, who appear indisposed to contract beyond the first quarter of next year.

Business failures in the United States for the week ending Oct. 8, number 256 against 225 last week, 192 in the like week of 1907, 192 in 1906, 183 in 1905 and 196 in 1904.

Business failures for the week in Canada number 31, as against 36 last week and 24 in this week in 1907.

Wheat, including flour shipments from the United States and Canada for the week ending Oct. 8, aggregate 5,652,652 bushels, against 6,473,225 last week and 5,295,292 this week last year.

For the fifteen weeks ending Oct. 8, this year, the exports are 57,764,739 bushels against 53,745,814 in the corresponding period last year. Corn exports for the week are 17,759 bushels, against 18,813 last week and 343,694 in 1907. For the fifteen weeks ending Oct. 8, the corn exports are 663,053 bushels against 15,371,984 in the same period last year.

WHITE SLAVE TRUST CASES CAUSE ARRESTS

Des Moines, Iowa, Oct. 10.—Max Friedman, grocer, and Hyman Levic, saloonkeeper, were arrested on indictments returned by the grand jury in connection with the recent investigation of the white slave trust in this city. Both were released on bonds of $1,000 each.

A Jeweler's Experience.

C. R. Kluger, the jeweler, 1060 Virginia avenue, Indianapolis, Ind., writes: "I was so weak from kidney trouble that I could hardly walk a hundred feet. Four bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy cleared my complexion, cured my backache and the irregularities disappeared, and I can now attend to business every day, and recommend Foley's Kidney Remedy to all sufferers, as it cured me after the doctors and other remedies had failed. Sold by all druggists.

One Diamond is Worth More Than Another

of equal weight, first of all because it has BETTER COLOR and is MORE BRILLIANT. The possession of these two qualities adds from 10 to 25 per cent and often more to the value of the gem, and are therefore the first to be considered in the making of a purchase.

In buying a Klein diamond, there is absolutely no risk, for we have considered these valuable qualities in making our selection—and gems of questionable color find no place in our stock.

EX-ILLINOISANS LIVE OVER EVENTS OF BIG CHICAGO FIRE

New York, Oct. 10.—Embers of the fire which devastated Chicago thirty-seven years ago were figuratively fanned to life by members of the Illinois society, who met at the Waldorf Astoria hotel last night to observe the anniversary of the conflagration.

A series of dissolving electrical views thrown upon a curtain portrayed the great fire as it was supposed to have looked. Then, having seen the city burned, the party figuratively built it up again with stories of the big things Chicago and Illinois had since accomplished. The ghost of Widow O'Leary's historical cow might well have turned in her grave to hear of the things which followed her fatal upsetting of a kerosene lamp. Even the victory of the Cubs over the Giants was unfeelingly flaunted in verse and sung in the face of "Little Old New York" is represented in the galleries.

The women singers wore hoopskirts and twenty or thirty yards of dress stuff, each, while the men had tight fitting trousers, cutaway coats and beaver hats. They stood in the foreground of a woodland stage setting, a reproduction of the famous Lincoln cabin appearing at the right. In the verses of the song Illinois claimed credit for Taft, Bryan and "Uncle Joe," who were flaunted as examples of what Illinois afr would do for persons within its borders or within blowing distance outside.

CITY AGOG OVER BRYAN

Hannibal, Mo., Has Torch Parade and Red Fire.

Event the Biggest Thing Politically in Town's History.

Hannibal, Mo., Oct. 10.—William J. Bryan was the center of the greatest Democratic demonstration in the history of this city, yesterday. His train was more than an hour late in arriving, but the enormous crowd was kept in good humor by speakers of state prominence, including representatives of the various factions of the Democratic party of Missouri.

A mighty crowd greeted the Bryan special as it pulled into the station and the police were compelled to resort to force to make a way to the automobile which was in readiness to carry the candidate to City Park, where the meeting was in progress.

Escorted by the Hannibal Democratic club and mounted escort, bearing torches, and with outriders flanking his automobile, he passed through a lane of red fire through the entire parade. The great crowd fell in line behind the paraders and cheered loudly and with great fervor.

Mr. Bryan's speech was along the lines of his various addresses in Illinois throughout the day. Under the direction of the Missouri Democratic state committee, Mr. Bryan will make his final tour of the campaign of Missouri tomorrow, proceeding across the state to St. Joseph, making set speeches at Paris, Moberly and Kansas City.

NORMAL NOTES

The Glee club had a fudge party in the music room Friday afternoon. The members of the club are preparing choruses to sing at the city teachers' meeting, to be held at the high school in November.

• • •

The juniors held a class meeting Wednesday. A committee was chosen to select a class pin. Those in the committee are Annabel Dunning, Clara Randall and Freda Hanson.

• • •

During the absence of Miss Van Stone at chorus on Wednesday, Miss Long gave some very entertaining readings.

• • •

The Athletic association held a short business meeting on Wednesday and a party to be given in the near future was planned. The members of the club are very enthusiastic about the work done.

• • •

Miss Pettingill has left Washburn hall for a few days. Miss Palmer will preside at the hall in her place.

• • •

Washburn hall received a beautiful tall mission clock this week. There is now no chance of not knowing when 10 o'clock comes.

• • •

Fae Cook is spending the week end at her home in Cloquet.

• • •

Jean Stapleton is visiting at Two Harbors this week.

• • •

BIG NORTHERN PACIFIC DIVIDEND TO BE HELD UP.

New York, Oct. 10.—It has been learned definitely that final action on an extra large dividend by the Northern Pacific railroad will not be taken until after election. Because of the unsettled political situation in Montana and several other Northwestern states, it is thought it would be exceedingly unwise to flaunt a red flag in the shape of a big extra dividend. Close associates of the Hill people asserted confidentially their belief again yesterday that a big bonus will be paid before the close of the year.

It is claimed that the Northern Pacific has $80,000,000 cash on hand and holders of stock are entitled to a fat bonus for their loyalty. It is also asserted that George F. Baker and other influential New York directors insist on a payment.

RARE DISEASE TAKES ITS THIRD VICTIM.

Charlotte, N. C., Oct. 10.—Pellagra, the rare disease which is baffling the physicians of this country, claimed its third victim here, today, when Miss Sue Woods, 30 years old, of Meridian, Miss., a daughter of Justice Woods, of the supreme court of Mississippi, died. Dr. A. W. Babcock, of Columbia, S. C., who recently returned from Italy, where he investigated the malady as it exists among the peasantry of that country, states that there are probably 200 cases in the southern states. The disease is directly traceable to diseased corn, and found to be non-curable.

DRESS-MAKERS

The nervous strain through which dressmakers have to pass at certain seasons of the year seems almost beyond endurance, and frequently brings on nervous prostration, fainting spells, dizziness, sleeplessness and a general breaking down of the feminine system, until life seems altogether miserable.

For all overworked women there is one tried and true remedy.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

restores the feminine system to a strong, healthy, normal condition.

Mrs. Ella Griffin, of Park St., Canton, N.Y., writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I was troubled for three years with female weakness, backache, pains in my side, and headaches. I was most miserable and discouraged, for doctors gave me no relief. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought back my health and made me feel better than ever before."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

SOCIETY

SOCIETY is quiet. The women are interested in Ibsen and the men have taken to the woods. A too familiar knowledge of the slang of the day will misconstrue the last statement, for it is meant quite literally. There is no more wonderful and beautiful place to be found than Northern Minnesota woods in the autumn, and each day of the last week has been a perfect one for such enjoyment. Those who cannot go to remain, leave in the afternoon for a ramble till midnight, and so exquisite have been the moonlight nights that a temptation has existed to remain out until sunrise. Every man who could see his way clear, has shouldered a gun and stolen a dog and left. Only in isolated cases has he invited his wife, his sister or his lady friend to go along. Woman, apparently reasons this man who flies to the autumn woods, is all right at artificial functions, at the theater, at dances, at pink teas and at lectures, but when the beauties of nature are to be enjoyed with an unqualified enjoyment, leave her at home.

This dearth of available men, and then too, woman is much occupied—leaves the social horizon rather bare of interesting affairs.

The autumn Assembly dancing party will be held Friday evening of next week and promises to be one of the very delightful affairs of the month.

CLUBS AND MUSICAL

Needlework Guild.

The annual round up of the Duluth branch of the Needlework Guild will take place Tuesday Oct. 27 and during the entire month the section presidents will be busy planning for this affair. The round-up will be held at the store room at 115 East Superior street and it is hoped that an even greater interest than usual will be taken in the affair. The only requirement for membership is the contribution of two new garments each year for distribution among the poor. The Duluth branch has several hundred contributors, but each year it is desired that more be added.

There are no necessary meetings to attend the business of the guild is affe the simplest and to busy people it affords perhaps the simplest and most congenial way of dispensing charity.

The officers and members of the executive committee hope that the contributions this year will be larger than in any previous year.

There are seventeen sections in the Duluth Guild. One section recently organized has as its president, Mrs. W. B. Silvey with Mrs. O. C. Hartman and Mrs. George Oliver as directors. Mrs. J. J. Le Tourneau will act as the executive officer in the section of which the late Mrs. W. S. Albertson was president. Mrs. T. S. Wood will take the place of Mrs. W. S. Bishop who has moved to Chicago. Miss Annie White will act as treasurer during the absence of Mrs. E. T. Buxton.

Club Year Opens.

Many of the clubs of the city held the first meeting of the year during the week just past. The Bishop's club met for a social session and informal discussion of the program for the year Tuesday evening.

The first meeting of the Matinee Musicale was held Monday after noon at Steinway hall, the regular meetings to continue every two weeks during the winter.

The first meeting of the Cecilian society was held Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. C. Strong.

Rubinkam Lectures.

The lectures to be presented next week before the Twentieth Century club by D. N. Rubinkam will be as follows:

Wednesday morning, 10 o'clock, "The Doll's House."

Friday afternoon, 3:30 o'clock, Bernard Shaw's "Widowers' Houses."

To Study Life of Wagner.

The German literature class of the Twentieth Century club will meet Tuesday afternoon of next week, at the club room of the library. Rev. George Gebaurer will talk of the life and work of Richard Wagner, and any one interested in the meeting is invited to attend.

New York Debut.

One of the interesting of the early musical events in the New York season was the debut of Miss Edna Showalter, a new colorature soprano, who was presented in concert by David Bispham. She was enthusiastically received. The interesting feature of Miss Showalter's debut is that she is an American-trained singer entirely, her education having been received with teachers in this country. Her reception leaves no doubt of the ability of American methods. The New York critics gave great promise to the young singer, who is still in her teens, and her future seems assured. Miss Showalter is a daughter of W. B. Showalter, a well-known newspaper man of New York. Miss Showalter is to sing during the season at the Metropolitan opera house, and she is now rehearsing minor roles. Her voice is a lyric soprano of sweetness and purity, and she will sing the regular lyric roles.

Lester Park Club.

The Lester Park Literary club will hold the first regular meeting Tuesday, Oct. 13, at the home of Mrs. Harmon Bartlett, 17 Fifty-seventh avenue east. The study for the year will be the History of Russia and Japan. The program for the day will be as follows:

Physical Conditions of Russia and its Important Rivers.
The Scythians.
Description of Russia at the beginning of the Christian era.
The Tribes Which Occupied Russia at the Downfall of the Roman Empire.
History of Igor.
Events Following the Death of Rurik.
St. Petersburg.
Leader—Mrs. Theodore Hollister.

NEW GLOVE STORE

Will be One of the Finest Exclusive Stores in the World.

Following the example of the very largest and most metropolitan cities Duluth is soon to add other laurels to her extensive wreath of enterprises, by becoming the home of an exclusive glove shop; one which will not only do credit to the already high-class establishments of the city, but will be the most complete and largest institution of its kind west of Chicago.

The Livingston Glove Shop, which opens at 5 West Superior street in a few days will have as its head Mrs. L. B. Livingston, who, while new to the people of Duluth, enjoys a most enviable reputation as one of the cleverest connoisseurs of gloves in both the glove markets of Europe and America, as one of the leading and most well informed buyers in the country.

The aim of this new glove shop will be to offer to the people of Duluth and surrounding country the very best stock of gloves of all kinds, for men, women and children that intelligent buying ingenuity can collect together.

It will be the aim and desire of Mrs. Livingston to give her very special and personal attention to the matching up of special colorings and to the filling of orders for weddings, receptions, etc.

A complete equipment for glove renders it possible for the Livingston Glove Shop to keep their patrons' gloves in constant repair without any cost whatever to the customer. Also all sorts of glove cleaning will be done with most painstaking care.

While only the most efficient and competent glove fitters will be employed yet the personal attention of Mrs. Livingston will be given to each fitting, for in the sccetion of the proper glove rests the beautifying of the hand.

As glove fitting today is looked upon as an art in itself for the sole purpose of comforting the hand as well as beautifying it and requiring a person who is thoroughly versed as well as being competent to do so, it has been the good fortune of the ladies of Duluth to secure Mrs. Livingston in that capacity whose thorough knowledge of every detail of the glove business makes her locating here, of genuine importance.

EUROPEAN PICKPOCKETS.

Baltimore American: "The American who travels in Europe and does not keep the closest watch on his valuables is almost sure to be relieved of his personal belongings by pickpockets," said W. E. Mighell, vice president of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, who has just finished a two-year tour of the world, to an American representative at the Belvedere.

"The light fingered gentry are active everywhere from London to Cairo, but I will give the palm for boldness and dexterity to the professionals of Italy, where the plunder of pockets has been reduced to a fine art. I am a careful man and did not need to read the constant warnings against pickpockets, and yet in the great plaza of Venice I was robbed last summer of my letter of credit for $10,000. There was an enormous crowd that had turned out to hear the band play, the day being Sunday, and I was jostled two or three times by a huge fellow with a big black mustache. Finally seeing that he was doing it purposely, I lost my temper and addressed a hot remark at him, at which he exclaimed: 'Pardon, monsier,' dropped his umbrella at my feet, and in stooping to get it managed in some way to get my letter of credit, although it was in an inside pocket. It caused me a lot of trouble, the sending of many cablegrams and some money, but I managed to have the payment stopped and the thief profited nothing.

"In Rome last Christmas Day I went out for a ride in the suburbs to see some rare paintings in an old church. Wishing to see the country I took a street car that was densely packed. The air was pretty crisp and I wore an overcoat closely buttoned. How on earth the rascal managed to get my watch and make away with it will puzzle me to my life's end, but he did the trick, as I found on getting off the car.

"Had it been only an ordinary timepiece, I would never have said a word of the loss, but it was an unusually fine watch and I valued it much more than the $300 it cost. The manager of the hotel, whom I consulted, advised me against reporting the theft. He said that the local pickpockets operated in gangs, and that within an hour after being taken the watch was probably in some other city. This did not sound well to me, so I hunted up the United States resident consul and narrated my story to him. He gave me precisely the same advice as the hotel man. Still unpersuaded I called on the chief of police. That official was polite, but he wanted me to deposit the $100 reward I was willing to pay. I saw no advantage in this and told him I'd think it over.

"That evening the hotel manager told me of an American who had been recently robbed of $1,000 and who had put up $200 in advance for the recovery of his money. He had made up his mind that he'd like to get back his $200, but the Roman police refused, saying they must have time."

BIGGEST BEAR.

Denver Post: What is claimed to be the biggest bear killed on the Greenhorn range since Old Mose fell nearly two years ago was brought back to Denver by J. D. Veach and S. S. Prentiss of Rushville, Ill., who have just returned from a ten day hunt.

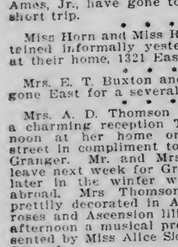

An effort had been made to find a big bear in order that Mr. Prentiss might shoot it, and the trail was taken up on Jack Hall Mountain. The dogs were ahead and the other members of the party followed on horseback, finally being obliged to go forward on foot.

When the dogs finally caught up with the bear there was a running fight that lasted for 300 yards, the hunters being within fifty feet of the animal all the time. It was finally treed on a steep hillside. The dogs were good fighters and the bear was forced to take refuge in a tree less than one foot in diameter, notwithstanding the great size of the animal. This was not accomplished until the bear had bitten a tusk out on one of the four dogs engaged in the fight. Once safely treed, Mr. Prentiss took a long shot and brought the bear down.

It pays to advertise in The Herald. Ask the Big Duluth.

IT IS self respect and good judgment, rather than mere vanity that prompts women to proper and stylish dressing.

Every Gidding garment is highly expressive of our determination to excel in all that is most tasteful and refined in feminine attire. By this we mean that cloth may be of finest texture, yet many times garments are made from it that lack every element of style and good taste. The point we wish to emphasize is that Gidding apparel has the "Quality" and with it such of style and good taste as to make you feel that you have the best that your money can buy—We don't ask that you take our word for this, but that you convince yourself by true comparison.

the EVENING STORY

An Unattained Sacrifice

By Dudley James.

(Copyrighted. All rights reserved.)

She looked into his eyes with the self-effacing devotion pertaining to women. He looked into hers with the expression of the hunted stag.

There was that in his face, however, which relieved it from the suggestion of fear and painted into his personality the mark of a hero.

She saw it and understood—understood not at all what his trouble and his fear was, but understood that it was the desperation of a brave man; and her heart of hearts yearned to help him and comfort him.

She was no longer a girl, yet retained the ineffable charm of "sweet 16." Her attitude toward the man was unmistakable. She was his sweetheart—his very own—patient, passionate, loving and self-abnegating.

He was a handsome fellow—or would have been had it not been for the lines of care and suffering in his frail face. There were great lines in the face, and the head was marvelous in its shape and proportions, and the wide, straight mouth and the steady eyes told of indomitable purpose to conquer physical weakness.

They had been lovers for so long that they had forgotten the measure of the years. Since early childhood they had been playmates and chums, but had been playmates and chums, but had been memorable day—ah! the woman remembered the very day and date, after all—they had been accepted lovers the one to the other. It was very, very long ago, fifteen, sixteen, seventeen—perhaps as much as twenty years back in the past.

It was all so full of promise and happiness then. He was young, brilliant, rich, with every prospect ahead of him, when he asked her for her promise, obtained it, and went bravely away to college to fit himself for a great career. And in all the land lived no such happy girl. She had found her own true knight and he had broken his lance at her very feet. All she had to do was to wait and dream. What more could fair maiden desire? And so, 'neath sunny skies, with no cloud on the horizon, the two fond hearts waited the fruition of their hopes, impatient only at the length of the days and nights which intervened between them and bliss.

Then came the crash, and in a single moment Clarence learned he was the orphan of a bankrupt and a suicide—and his loved and respected father would have been a convict had he not forestalled it all by taking his own life.

It was a terrible blow, but Clarence never wavered. He left college within the hour, never to return, and bravely took up the burden left by his father. It was an awful task for an inexperienced youth, without business training, who had always been taught that, come what might, the fortune of the family was safe, and that his ambitions were to find an outlet in other ways than money-getting. Besides, he loathed business with the true abhorrence of the born aristocrat.

But he never flinched. He mastered the situation and started in to work out the problem. After the remnants of his father's fortune had been gathered together and paid to his creditors, and despite the protests of his mother and sisters, Clarence obtained employment with a business concern and pushed along doing work at which his very soul abhorred. He supported his mother and the family, educated his younger brother and, above and beyond it all, paid in year by year what he could save to reduce his father's debts.

But the years were long and dreary, and the great cloud of the debts hid the sunlight beyond. Only one ray of light did he have—excepting Alice, of course—and that was that certain articles he wrote were assepted from time to time by magazines of the better class. Upon these articles and their acceptance Clarence and Alice built their fondest hopes. For Alice never wavered in her love and accepted the years of waiting as her very heritage.

The strain on the man was fearful, and he felt things giving way within him. One day he consulted a physician and emerged from his office with an expression on his face which combined resolution with fear. After this he ever looked haunted, but always resolute.

The debts had been paid, the boy educated, the girls married and the mother dead. Then came an offer from a great magazine to take up a series of investigations along the lines of his writings on the basis of a very liberal salary. A representative of the magazine had come to see him and close with him. The interview was over and he had come straight to Alice.

So they stood, she looking into his eyes with self-effacing devotion, and he looking into hers with the expression of a haunted stag.

"How did it come out, dear?" she asked eagerly.

"I have signed with them," he said, gravely.

"Oh, Clarence," she said, clasping her hands, "and were they nice about the salary?"

"They pay me more than I ever hoped to earn," he replied, looking at her with an inscrutable expression.

She flushed like a school girl and her eyes sought the carpet.

A great spasm of pain crossed the man's face.

"Alice," he said, harshly, "I have something to tell you."

"Yes," she said, simply.

"Our engagement must end."

The woman looked at him, stunned. Then she smiled—a rare, sweet smile, such as only Alice had.

"Come, no joking," she said. "It's too happy a night."

"It is true," said he, fiercely. "I tell you I am going out into the world now and I will not be hampered by any woman."

She looked at him, almost with incredulity, then with horror; then:

"As you desire, Clarence—so it is for your best interest. Remember, though, you are not so strong as you were twenty years ago. Be careful of yourself."

A look of agony came into his eyes. Then followed an expression of masterful determination.

"Let us part without a scene," he said, coldly. "Neither of us want it. I—I have many things to look after tonight. I leave in the morning. Good-by."

He took her hand coldly and hastened away.

The woman dropped her face in her hands and the sobs came straight from her heart.

"It is not true!" she said again and again to herself. "It is not true! He is not disloyal. He is not cold. What is it? What is it?"

A low sound like a moan aroused her, and she hastened to the door. There was a huddled heap on the sidewalk outside. She flew down the steps and in a moment had Clarence's unconscious head in her lap. She unloosed his collar and called for help. Water, brandy and chafing presently brought him around.

"Alice!" he whispered; "kiss me."

"What is it all about?" she asked, as she lifted her lips from his.

"This is it," he said. "The doctors warned me years ago. It is the beginning of the end. I could not let you sacrifice your life to my broken one. I knew you would if I gave you a chance, so I resolved to drive you away."

"Sacrifice!" she exclaimed—then, laughing hysterically: "You great goose."

"What did the doctors say?" she demanded.

"That I might be stricken down at any moment unless I gave up all work and went into the country and lived without worry and nervous excitement. This is only a warning. But it presages the end."

"We will go into the country, Clarence," she said, simply. "I have a small inheritance and plenty of strength. We will get a small place and you can cultivate it. I can make ends meet on very little, and maybe you can write some from time to time as you get stronger."

The glory of love-light came into the man's face. Then the cloud of despair.

"I cannot accept the sacrifice," he said, determinedly.

"Sacrifice!" she exclaimed, again. Then, with the same hysterical laughter as before, she added: "You goose!"

Whereupon she bent down and placed her lips on his, where they remained a long time.

And he threw his arms about her and all the determination and all the resistance faded from his face.

MANIFESTATIONS of the DIRECTOIRE MODE

Coated Visiting Toilette

Typically Directoire

Cloth Costumes are Elaborately Braided

The Proper Mode of Draping

Waistcoat and Revers the Feature

The Plainer Types of Pedestrienne Suits-Skirt Lore-Tunics and Novel Effects in Draperies-Coat Cuts - Materials - Directoire Details.

Despite the vogue of the one-pieced tailored cloth gown and the long list of compliments which it deservedly receives the coat and skirt remain the street costume par excellence. The influence of the Directoire idea has been wholly in its favor in that it has had the effect of making skirts simpler and coats more picturesque and consequently more becoming to the average feminine figure. That both these garments are a bit difficult for the medium-priced tailor to turn out matters little to his fair customer. He must learn to make a clinging long skirt, a perfectly hanging short circular and a picture coat or she will take her patronage elsewhere. No man appreciates this fact more perfectly than does the tailor, and as rapidly as is possible he is mastering the secret of the Directoire effects just as three decades ago he acquired the art of adapting mannish modes to feminine curves. While the strictly tailored and severely tailored suit is still worn, the Directoire costume is ultra smart.

Short Circulars for Walking.

Though the long skirt is and has been for a year past the fashionable skirt, considered from the viewpoint of the woman who usually goes about in a carriage and also in the opinion of her sister who walks more frequently than she rides, it is not a suitable skirt for shopping or long journeys. Moreover, the American winter is not one to which the practice of wearing a long skirt for walking purposes is well adapted, and while the majority of the fair sex intend to keep abreast of the clinging effects demanded by the fashions of the hour, the majority will be content to wear them in a modified form. Hence the short, circular skirt will undoubtedly be the popular walking skirt of the autumn and winter. No woman or tailor can truthfully predict at this moment what the spring will bring forth.

Checks and Stripes Lead.

For practical street suits of the modified Directoire type, such as are developed in beautifully finished sicilliennes, serges and worsteds, checks and stripes are far more popular than are plain effects. Many of these fabrics are in two tones of one color, although in some having wide checks and distinctly separated hairlines are seen rather startling contrasts. These are especially notable in the combinations of black, brown and blue, with white. The smartest looking of the circular pedestrienne skirts are absolutely untrimmed, but as not every woman wants a plain garment of this character for their benefit presumably are the braidings that in every instance are put on in long, vertical lines, apparently with the sole idea of imparting slenderness.

Raised Waist Lines.

Curiously enough, the Empire waist line is in evidence on most of the Directoire skirts, whether long or short—if an abbreviated lower portion of a street costume can be admitted to kinship with a coat of Incroyable character. This placing of the belt so many inches above the place where the greatest slenderness of the torso has always been looked for and then allowing it to swing loosely to the hips where it becomes close-fitting, tends to deprive the figure of those curves which scarcely a year ago were considered so necessary to feminine grace. The dressmaker, the tailor and the amateur costume-builder who has not recently visited Paris, has therefore to keep firmly in mind the fundamental principles that hips and waists have utterly gone out of date and that where once were curves are now lines, as long, as slender and as straight as they can possibly be made.

Variations of the Tunic.

The variations of the tunic are delightfully numerous. The artistic dressmaker has no hard and fast rules when using such draperies beyond the fact that she must first carefully study the figure of her customer and then make the most of her physical advantages and the least of her shortcomings. It may be said, however, that for the woman of average height and width, there is no type of tunic draping quite so suitable as that which seems to start from the train at the right side, is gradually elevated as it crosses the front and at the left is caught against the raised waist line with an ornamental buckle or a huge cabachon. This is the true Greek effect of which the extreme draperies that were the scandal of the Directoire period were the outcome. The tunic which forms a shawl effect over the front of the skirt joins at the back of the waist line, gives the long lines precisely where they are usually most needed and on both these effects there may be many happy variations.

The Extreme Drapings.

Who will wear the extreme Directoire drapings? is the question which costume makers and their clientele are asking of each other. Certainly not the American woman of the middle class, or yet her more fashionable sister, who buys a gown today and discards it tomorrow if she so elects. The genuine Directoire skirt—meaning the one distinctly split from hip to hem—will never come into general vogue on this side of the water, and as a matter of fact, it has never been taken up by Parisians, among whom it was introduced so sensationally the past summer.

Short Coats Cut Out.

Occasionally one hears prophecies of the return of the short coat, and even sees manifestations of it in velvet or fur. For the moment the Eton and pony type are in the background and long wraps very much in the fore. Following the Directoire mode, although not distinctly of it, are the jackets cut off straight across the waist line, double-breasted and finished with wide, sharply-pointed revers and having short tails as a terminus for the fitted back forms, but these are merely Parisian extremes that are destined to lose prestige with the first cold days. They are justly defended by the statements that they better suit the short circular skirt than do the knee-length types, but between the two coat extremes there is the usual happy medium which is certain to take rank during the autumn and winter.

Medium-Length Coats.

The medium-length Directoire coats such as are developed as the accompanying wraps for a skirt of diagonal, heavy serge, cheviot or homespun, promise warmth in addition to their modishness. Probably the most practical of these types is the one that is semi-loose, back and front, short-waisted in effect and irregularly pointed about the bottom. Most of the trimming is in the form of soutache braiding about the shoulders and fronts, on the high band collar and the cuffs of the straight sleeves set plainly into wide arms' eyes. Another coat on simple lines has attached hips and back forms extending from a semi-fitting, elaborately braided Eton coat top, whose fronts close over a low-cut Incroyable vest. This also has the high band collar and the straight sleeves, which are finished with Louis cuffs to match the wide hip-pocket flaps.

The Incroyable Vest.

One of the most attractive features of the present Directoire mode is the waistcoat, which usually is made separately from the jacket, and may be worn or not, as desired. For these accessories are employed the beautiful brocaded silks and satins which show figures and flowers in brilliant tints upon groundings precisely the shade of the cloth costume with which they are employed. Or again, they are of satin to match the Directoire scarf, which is often arranged to cover the lower edge of the waistcoat when it is attached to the outer wrap, as is frequently the case, the girdle passing under the coat at the back, over the waistcoat in front, and then knotted at the left side below the hips.

Louis Waistcoats With Directoire Wraps.

Just as so many of the Directoire coats, so-called, carry hints of the earlier period in their broad cuffs and wide pockets, so are there suggestions of Louis XV. modes in the waistcoats worn with some of the recently imported coat and skirt costumes, especially those developed in broadcloth and velvet. In these wraps the front are cut off squarely for two inches at either side of the waistline's center, whence the hip forms slope abruptly toward the back. Nevertheless, length, as well as warmth, is given to the front of the garment by means of the Louis waistcoat, which extends nearly to the knees, as seen in the portraits of le grande monarch.

Color Reliefs Effective.

It is by means of the waistcoats, collars, cuffs and pocket flaps that the necessary color reliefs are given to the most stunning of the Directoire costumes, whether they be of the long or the short skirted type. In the instance of many of the black, dark brown, chaudron, pastel and navy blue costumes there are often noted entire waistcoats, collar insets, cuff and pocket flap-piping of biscuit, mode or pearl-gray broadcloth, and there are various practical suggestions in the way that some of these relief effects are treated. The waistcoat, for instance, although of so light a color, is protected from soiling by a bordering or dark fancy or soutache braid.

Revers Typically Directoire.

Everyone who ever studied French history from an illustrated text book knows that revers are typically of the Directoire period and were on every coat worn by the dandies of that age. The revers of the Incroyables, however, are not for every woman, and especially for those who have been congratulating themselves upon the fact that extreme slenderness is in vogue. The enormously wide and pointed revers have the effect of making the thin woman look positively attenuated, and although she may readily attempt any of the other details of the costume, particularly the high collar, she would best see to it that the revers themselves are not set straight across the shoulders in the regulation manner, but so arranged that the points will turn toward the waistline, and that the narrower portion of the triangle slopes backward from just below the throat.

Two Fabric Combinations.

At the present hour there is more chance for the woman of correct sartorial taste, but limited bank account, to get up a satisfactory costume than has been the case for several years past. This happy circumstance is due to the fancy for using two widely different materials for garments which at the same time require considerably less cloth than would have been necessary a year ago. This rule, however, does not apply so much to the simpler of the tailored suits as to the more elaborate costumes, which include those developed in cloth with satin, velvet or Ottoman, the skirt in most instances being of smoothly finished broadcloth or silk cashmere and the long coat of the silken fabric. Often, however, cloth is employed for both garments and the trimmings in the form of panels or battlemented band borderings are of silk or satin, the vests, sashes, collar, cuffs and pockets being of the same fabric.

A Word About Directoire House Gowns.

In these material combinations are devised any number of attractive house gowns or one-piece costumes intended for semi-ceremonious evening use. They are chiefly in silk cashmere or crepe de chine, such as may be purchased for a reasonable amount and made up into clinging, long skirts, bordered with wide bands of plain or figured satin or with soutache braided filet net. The same trimming is employed for the yoke bordering of the blouse and also is used in entre deux effect for the straight, short sleeves. Simpler dresses of coin-spotted and figured foulard, such as may be worn the year round for afternoon bridge parties and luncheons, have skirts that, while scarcely sweeping the floor at back and sides, are sharply gored and sheath fitting about the hips. They are given the right amount of weight by a bordering of broad, fancy silk braid or satin about the bottom and the same trimming borders the deeply pointed yoke, the wide arms' eyes and the straight, closely fitting elbow sleeves of the blouse. The muslin embroidery guimpe is invariably a long-sleeved, high-collared affair and the sash of satin matching the ground tone of the foulard.

Fashion Notes.

A collar that will almost take the place of a fur piece for the neck and one that will assuredly prove a comfort for the first cool days of autumn, is the Directoire, a smart confection which almost anyone can fashion. It is simply a wide band of satin trimmed with closely set narrow bands of any long haired fur, preferably Black Marten, and on either edge is set a two-inch wide box plaited satin ribbon ruche, which may be fur edged or not, according to fancy. The ends are finished with large rosettes of satin ribbon from which hang long ends. If it is desired to make the Directoire collar a degree more elaborate, a white lace jabot may be substituted for the ribbon ends. This will serve to fill in any space left exposed by the jacket fronts.

Muffs are going to be larger than ever this year, and, unfortunately, many of them are comparatively plain in cut, especially in the case of the more expensive furs, such as ermine and sable. Some of the caracul muffs have sort of a little frill all around them, and this suggests possibilities for increasing the proportions of a muff of last year's brand. The pelt of the caracul is so thick and long that it is the easiest matter in the world to add to it so that the woman who has a half-worn neckpiece of that fur and a muff that is out of fashion, would best get it to the furrier's as soon as possible. The same may be said in regard to squirrel, with the additional good news that dyed pelts of that family are in vogue and that if one have various odd pieces of it on hand a really old time "grandmother" muff and a good-sized neckscarf may be pieced together from scraps of various colors.

China silk of any shade makes a most pretentious-looking petticoat for a comparatively modest outlay of money. Such garments are made on the same principal as the sheath-fitting umbrella petticoats and are finished with knee flounces of entre deux bands of Valenciennes lace and silk, the lace being first stitched onto the material, which is then cut away from underneath. At the hem a lace frilling saves the edge of the petticoat from wearing, and the flounce is attached to the petticoat proper under a broad lace banding, through which a ribbon is run. On some of these petticoats are set deep flounces of allover imitation Valenciennes lace, which launders wonderfully well. If the skirt is of a dark color it may be flounced with dark net finished with a narrow silk ruching. Such flounces do not soil readily, and with care will last for several months.

Sleeve Tucks.

Tucks appear on most of the sleeves of the new gowns intended strictly for house use, and their varying widths offer suggestions as to what may be done with the aid of energy and two kinds of material. If only just enough net is on hand to make a scantily-tucked tight-fitting long sleeve, the tucking would best begin half way between the shoulder and the elbow, and the intervening space covered with a closely fitting cap of silk or satin, elaborately hand or soutache embroidered. Or there may be wide tucks entre deux with silk or satin bands, as such a scheme will admit of any amount of piecing. Sometimes it may prove advisable to drape the heavier fabric over a tight lace sleeve, in which event the under side of the transparency need not absolutely match, as the drapery may be tacked down to the inner section, and only the top need be exposed. The woman who finds it necessary to make over sleeves would best provide herself with a sleeve form on which she may make experimental drapings, for she has only to bear in mind that so long as a sleeve is of full length and tight-fitting from the elbow to the wrist, almost any fancy will pass muster in connection with a house gown or a blouse not of the strictly tailored type.

At the Veiling Counter - Many Meshes and Colorings Displayed.

Made Fancies

Many a woman saves on her annual millinery bill by the discreet use of veilings. This is a wise economy, especially during the autumn weeks, when for one reason or another it may not be advisable to purchase a typically winter hat and yet the straw of midsummer has become discolored, its trimmings faded or its entire appearance too hopelessly shabby to withstand scrutiny under a bright light. Yet if the summer hat be not unseasonably light of color it may be made to serve for several weeks to come and even take on a rather smart and fresh appearance if a new veil of precisely the right color and type be draped about it.

Among the veilings displayed this autumn there is such a vast assortment of meshes and colorings that at first glance it would seem as though any type of summer hat might be readily rejuvenated with their aid. But as a matter of fact the hat itself must first be considered. If its trimmings are chiefly of dark silk or ribbon, fur and away the best choice is a black or a self-colored chenille or chenilletted Tuxedo, which in most instances have dots of a size becoming to the average woman. Certainly the medium-sized dots are in infinitely better taste than are the coin spots, which seem to have a genius for stationing themselves opposite the eyes, on tip of the nose or the center of the lips, thus making the wearer look unconsciously grotesque.

Neither dots nor coin spots on net ever look well over any hat trimmed chiefly with flowers, as they seem to be in discord with the decorative scheme, whereas any plain net or a hairline effect drawn over them serves to veil their shabbiness and does not destroy the original idea of the trimmer. Such veilings are the best choice for the woman who is not certain about the becomingness of the heavy or closely set dots, as a hairline or fine, plain mesh suits every type of face and complexion, whereas the bold effects are too often worn by the wrong woman.

One of the best investments that a woman who does not have a large number of hats can make is a really good silk-meshed veil widely edged with an embroidered design and long enough to be draped upon a hat of any size. Such veils come in white, black, brown, green or blue, and are from a half to a yard wide and from three to four in length. Like the Russian net bordered net veils, their ends are finished to match the sides and so substantially edged that they may be handled without fear of fraying. If only one veil is worn these bordered fancies are drawn loosely over the face and allowed to fall several inches below the chin so that scarcely any of the border will conceal it. The upper portion is drawn as far over the hat's crown as it will go without straining and then all the fullness is pinned securely at the top of the brim, directly at the back. Whatever length remains is allowed to fall streamer fashion over the back. When the hat is rather large, however, it is always better to have two veils. That covering the face may be of whatever color is preferred, but the bordered veil intended to protect the hat should be draped over it in folds, the back fold on either side caught in to the under brim of the hat close to the hair and the front portion permitted to hang freely. This method of draping will conceal the entire front, the sides and the crown of the hat.

A useful type of veil is in the dotted Russian hexagon mesh bordered on three sides. These may be so draped over the hat that the plain edge will merge into the trimming. While black is always practicable in these veilings, the fad for the moment is for silvery grays and mole which, by the way, does not especially become a blonde woman. Magpie veilings are the standby of many women past their first youth, as the white next the complexion has the effect of softening and sometimes of even concealing the lines of age, but if a woman's hair be quite gray she had better select a gray or a white maline veil such as may be purchased with a light border or by the yard. And speaking of purchasing veilings by the yard, it is well for the economist to remember that there are now to be had various lace borderings which may be used as finishings for French lace allovers and that on quite heavy plain nets the Tosca net bands look well. If the veil wearer can manage without a bordering and will take the trouble and time to overcast the edges of an all-over length of lace, she may purchase two of really good net for the price of one made veil.

Chiffon veils never go out of use, but they are more than in evidence at veiling counters at this season when motor touring is at its height. A type of motoring and traveling veils at present attracting much attention is a chiffon in double faced effect induced by joining at the hem two veils of different colors, such as light blue, pink and mauve with white, dark brown with champagne or mousse green with Nile, the result being a wonderfully fetching changeable effect. The chiffon bordered veil is arranged similarly to the Russian and French nets, while that finished in the ordinary manner is split into four ends and secured to the crown of the hat in such a way that the two ends coming from the rear cross beneath the chin and those starting from the front join at the nape of the neck. The mask chiffon veil is a narrow piece of gauze, having a ribbon run through its upper hem. This is tied about the head above the nose and ears before the hat is pinned on, so that only the eyes are visible. The veil crossing the hat is an entirely separate piece, although this is not apparent when the outfit is properly adjusted.

A Cotton Cat and Her Strange Experiences.

BY HELENA DAVIS.

Betina and Marie had such lots and lots of playthings, but when Aunt Grace came out from the city and brought to them a big cloth cat—a real-looking one, too—they forgot all about dolls and other kinds of toys.

"Oh, isn't it just a lovely kitty!" exclaimed Betina to Marie as she fondled the huge black cotton-stuffed Tabby. "Oh, she's a lot better than a sure-enough kitty, for she'll never scratch, and we can just hug her as tightly as we please."

"Yes, and she'll never upset our dishes when we have tea, as our old sure-enough kitty did last summer," laughed Marie. "I'm so glad Auntie brought her to us."

Then Betina and Marie took the big make-believe cat out into the yard to play, and after a while they were called to luncheon and ran into the house.

Away they went, the cotton cat running as if for dear life.

leaving the cotton-stuffed kitty sitting calmly under a tree.

"What have you named your kitty, dears?" asked mamma, as her twin daughters took their seats beside Auntie at the table.

"Oh, we haven't named her yet," said Marie. "We'll wait till she shows what sort of a disposition she has before giving her a name. We want one that fits, you know."

"Yes, if she's spunky and inclined to scratch dogs and bite other cats we'll call her Spitfire; but if she remains gentle and kind, never showing a bit of temper, we'll call her Sunshine," said Betina.

And meanwhile the stuffed toy cat sat calmly under a leafless tree in the warm sunshine. And as she sat there the warmth seemed to cause her to move, and pretty soon she began to purr softly. "Why," she thought to herself, "I do believe I'm coming to life. At least, I can feel. And yet I'm not supposed to have any sensations, for I'm just a rag cat stuffed with cotton. But—what's that! Why, it's my tail wagging back and forth, as sure as I'm a cotton cat! Now, wouldn't that make a real, sure-enough cat smile, though? And, bless me, if I'm not hungry, too. I believe I'll catch a grasshopper for luncheon."

So saying, the cotton cat raised up on her four legs and began to walk for the first time in her short life. Of course, she was not so nimble as she hoped to become, for she was like any little creature just beginning to walk. But after a few minutes she went off towards another big tree with a pretty good gait.

But just as she was looking about for a grasshopper she heard a familiar voice coming from the house: "Now, Marie, let's go and play with our new kitty." And the cotton cat recognized Betina's voice. "Ah!" she purred to herself. "I must not let these little girls know I've come to life, for they'd keep such a close watch over me that I'd never have any fun. No; I'll just pretend to be the feelingless cotton, cat and never let on that I am alive. I may not like this place always, and may wish to hunt for another home. Truth is, I don't believe I'm going to like these little girls very much, for they're too quiet and stay-at-home for me. I want excitement." Then the cotton cat sat down under a shrub that grew about ten feet away from the tree where her owners, Marie and Betina, had left her.

"Why, where in the world is our kitty?" cried Betina, looking all about the spot where the cat had been left. "We left her sitting right here, didn't we?"

"Of course, we did, and I wonder who has come and carried her off. Oh, lookie there!" And little Marie pointed towards the cotton cat under the shrub. "Now, isn't that the strangest thing you ever saw, Sister? Why, who could have moved her?"

"Rover must have come slipping round from the barnyard and carried her there," explained Betina. "But you'd have thought he would be afraid of a cat—even a cotton-stuffed one," she added.

Then the little girls decided to play at having a tea party, and Marie ran into the house to get their dolls, Annabelle, Papinta, Rachel and Major Andrew. Major Andrew was the only male doll in the house, and was considered quite a "swell" in consequence.

After the tea party had been in progress for sometime and all the play edibles had been eaten with relish (leaves and little twigs representing the table's delicacies) Marie suddenly remembered that their aunt had promised to take them for a ride in her new auto that afternoon. "Oh, Sister!" she exclaimed. "Auntie is going to take mamma and us for an auto ride. Come, let's leave the dolls and the new cat and run to see how soon we are to start."

"Oh, yes; I'd most forgot!" cried Betina. And away they ran into the house as fast as ever they could, leaving the cotton cat and the dolls about the tea table.

After Marie and Betina had disappeared into the house the cotton cat slowly arose and began swinging her tail. "Meow!" she said as plainly as a real, sure-enough cat could say. "I wish I had someone to play real, sure-enough with me." Then she turned round and rested her eyes on the group of dolls ranged about the tea table. "Say, some of you rag and sawdust things, why don't you come to life? I would if I were you."

"Oh, ho! How very funny, don't you know," laughed a squeaky voice. And to the cotton cat's joy she discovered it was made by the vocal organs of Major Andrew. And more than that, the Major was stirring about, kicking one leg and stroking his long side whiskers. "Ha, ah! Queer idea, but I like it, don't you know."

"Say, Major, you're the real article," said the cotton cat, going up to where the Major sat and tapping his shoulder with her paw. "You are a good fellow, and I know we are to have some lively times together."

"But you're just a plain Tabby Cat," declared the Major, winking jokingly. "But a cat is better than no company at all, and these ladies here—motioning towards the other dolls—are very dull companions. They do nothing but look pretty. I don't mind making a night of it, Cotton Cat, if you have any plans that suit me."

"Suppose we go to the woods yonder," said the cotton cat. "I am sure we'll find much of interest there. It's very wild there, I fancy, and we'll have to be bold and brave."

"That's just in my line, as you might suppose from my title," said the Major. "And I'm willing to go any place to get away from the dullness of my present surroundings." Then turning gallantly towards the lady dolls, he bowed and said: "Of course, I cast no reflections on present company. But I do find these barracks very monotonous."

"Well, we'd better be moving, my friend," warned the cotton cat. "Come, play I'm your steed, and you mount upon my back."

"Ah, that suits me to a dot." And the Major climbed upon the cotton cat's back, and away they went, the cotton cat running as if for dear life and the Major holding on in the same manner.

Pretty soon they came to a river which flowed between steep banks. And all about them were giant trees and underbrush covered by grape vines. "Ah," said the cotton cat, "here we have things as wild as we could possibly desire."

"Yes, a bit too wild for me," declared the Major. "And if you don't mind, my friend, I'll go home again."

"What, go to those lifeless doll ladies and those two quiet little girls?" asked the cotton cat, in amazement.

"Yes, for it's home, and I'm sure of safety. Here I don't know what I'm sure of—maybe something awful. Look at the tall trees. Maybe they're full of wild beasts to devour us."

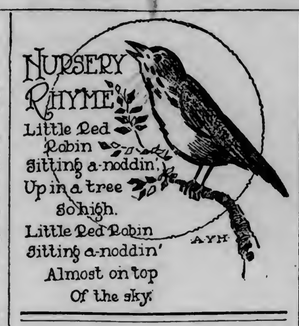

"Well, if you are such a coward, Major, I'll take you to your home again. But I'll promise you I'll not be there with you long, for I mean to run away for good, I do," said the cotton cat. Then he turned about and carried Major Andrew home again. As they neared the gate they saw a great red automobile coming out of the yard with Marie, Betina, their mother and aunt, all in it. "Ah, there comes our home folks," whispered Andrew. "Slip behind a tree till they pass us by, for should they see us here it might mean an explanation from us. And I hate explanations."

"Especially when you haven't any to give," laughed the cotton cat. "But it may save questions if I hide a minute behind this shrub," And she quickly withdrew into the shadow of a shrub.

"Oh, Mamma, I saw a black cat with something on its back running behind that rose bush beside the gate!" cried Marie as the auto passed out of the grounds. "And as sure as I'm telling you it looked like our big black cotton cat with Major Andrew. Wasn't that funny?"

Then they were gone down the road at full speed and the cotton cat and Major Andrew drew in their breath more leisurely. "Gee, that was a close call!" said the Major, dismounting and taking his place beside the lady dolls at the tea table under the tree. "Yes, rather exciting," said the cotton cat. Then she lay down in the shade and fell into a deep sleep from which she never more woke, but remained simply a stuffed cotton cat, and mere toy for Marie and Betina to play with. And when Major Andrew saw that the life had departed from the cotton cat and that he alone of all the toys had feeling and breath, began to wish himself back in his former lifeless state. And that same hour he fell asleep, and like the cotton cat, never awoke again. So he got his wish and was simply a toy for children to play with.

And to this day none knows of the strange experience of the cotton cat and Major Andrew, for the dolls. Annabelle, Papinta and Rachel had no voices with which to tell. And so the toys lived—or remained, rather—in the same old way, making Marie and Betina very happy. And they called the cotton cat "Comfort," for she was always so quiet and good natured.

Animals and Insects of North Africa.

It has been the generally accepted belief that the lion is a great menace to the traveler in North African countries. Such is not true. The African lion does not wander far from his haunts in the forest-grown mountains, and is not capable of crossing the great sand wastes, "drinking air and eating sand," as so many imaginative writers would have us believe. During the last 10 years only 180 lions have been killed in Algeria. This number also includes lionesses and cubs. More numerous have been the panthers, and of them 988 have been killed within the past 10 years. More numerous still—though harmless—are the jackals, and during the period of time mentioned above no less than 22,619 have been killed or taken into captivity. With a few exceptions all these animals have been found in their haunts in the mountain fastnesses, not on the plains and deserts.

But on the plains and deserts the scorpion and horned viper abound. They are everywhere; but, aside from their not being the most pleasant fellows to find in one's shoes or bed, they are harmless. The flea is the greatest enemy to mankind on the African deserts. Then there is the sauterelle, a sort of grasshopper, and of it the Arab says: "It is the wonder of all living creatures." A writer who is an authority on the subject says of it: "It has the face of a horse, the eyes of an elephant, the neck of a bull, the horns of a deer, the breast of a lion, the stomach of a scorpion, the legs of an ostrich, the tail of a snake and is to be more feared than all Africa's menagerie put together." About 40 or 50 years ago this strangely formed insect—from one to four inches in length—almost devastated the wheat fields of Algeria and Constantine.

A Busy Little Housekeeper.

I certainly have much to do
From morning until night,
Sweeping, dusting, sewing
And putting things to right.

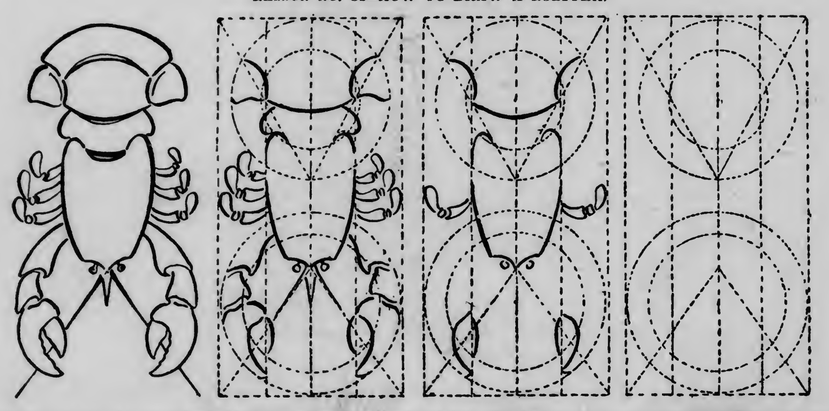

There're Ethel May and Daisy,
(Such lovely dolls are they!)
Who help me all they're able
Throughout the livelong day.

But still there's work in plenty
For all three, don't you know,
But not one of us minds it,
For we love our playhouse so.

Bunny Rabbit and Sneako Wolf.

BY MAUD WALKER.

"Well, here's the finest place to build a house I ever saw," declared Bunny Rabbit, speaking to his wife and two children and waving his paw about over a pretty open space in the woods. "There's a fine big hollow stump which will serve for a house—the greater part of one. All I shall have to do will be to build a porch, a kitchen and a fence."

"And a roof over the stump, Papa," put in Speckles, the little son rabbit.

"And a gate to the fence," said Whitie, the little daughter rabbit.

"Certainly, certainly, my dears," laughed Bunny Rabbit, very proud of his precocious children.

"Ah, Speckles and Whitie will see to it that everything is properly done," said Mamma Rabbit, also proud of her children.

So they all set to work building additions to the huge hollow stump which was to serve so nicely for a two-story house. Being animals and used to performing all sorts of domestic duties for themselves it never once occurred to them that they should engage a carpenter. Bunny Rabbit had a fine tool chest, and from it he took saws, hammers, planes, pails, etc. And he, with Mamma Rabbit's assistance, soon had a fine rainproof roof over the stump and a smooth floor half way up, forming a second story, and a smooth floor in the bottom of the stump. All the while that Bunny and his wife worked at the roof Speckles and Whitie were busy bringing fine, strong sticks, with the bark peeled off, to be used in building the fence. And as soon as they had a great pile of the fence sticks together they set to work digging little deep holes into which to set the fence sticks so that they might be secure.

And two days after locating in the beautiful open space Bunny Rabbit and his family were happy as could be, for the new house was all ready to live in. Then they all went to their former home, down by a high cliff on a river bank, and brought their household furniture to their new dwelling. As they neared the house they saw a strange head thrust itself from the window of the upper story.

"Upon my life, if there isn't old Sneako Wolf," whispered Bunny to his wife. Then, being rather afraid to advance further with his family he told them to cautiously withdraw into the depth of the woods while he went on alone to ask the intruder to leave his house.

"But in numbers there is strength and security," quoth Mamma Bunny, not willing to allow her husband to go to the house alone, for she knew the character of old Sneako Wolf. His reputation throughout the country was anything but good. "No, my dear, allow us all to go together. He would not dare to harm one of us with the others near. He is just what his name implies—a sneak."

"All right, then, we'll all go together. But be cautious in your language. Like the fox, the wolf is sly and deceitful."

Then together the four rabbits went on to their house, and as they entered the gate they saw old Sneako Wolf thrust his head out of the window again. "Ah, friends," he called to them as they advanced to the door, "what do you think of my new quarters? I've just completed my new house, you'll observe."

Bunny Rabbit put down the folding bed he carried on his back and looked up into the face of Sneako Wolf. "Why, and here you have called during our absence. Well, I'm surprised, for I had no idea you were in the country. How do you like our new house, anyway, Master Sneako? My wife, my children and myself have been busy these two days building it, and now we're bringing our furniture from our old house to put into our new one."

"Ah, possession is ownership, friends," smiled the sly wolf. "I have the fort, if you please, and mean to hold it. As for the furniture, well, you'd better take it back to your old quarters again. There's no room for it in here. I hate furniture. I sleep on the floor, sit on the floor and eat anywhere that I happen to find good food."

Bunny Rabbit walked boldly to the door of his house to open it, when, to his astonishment, he found it fastened from the inside. In vain he endeavored to force it open, it was a good strong door and held like a stone.

Mamma Bunny was losing her temper at this moment, but Speckles whispered her to keep quiet and allow his father to do the treating with the old thief, Sneako Wolf.

"But the filthy old thing is soiling our pretty clean house by being in it," said Mamma Rabbit in a low and exasperated tone, putting down the sofa she was carrying. Speckles and Whitie had rested themselves of their loads also, and all were intently watching the parley between Bunny Rabbit and Sneako Wolf.

"Say, my dear Master Rabbit, you'd better not try breaking into my house. You know I'm not averse to rabbit meat and might find you and your family very appetizing should you provoke me into tasting you. So be off and leave a tired wolf to his quiet home and his deserved rest."

Bunny withdrew to the spot where his family were standing and in whispers conversed with them over the situation. "I don't know what is to be done," he said. "That old Sneako might kill one of us—or all of us, in fact, if we persisted in gaining entrance to our own home. So we'll have to use stratagem. We can never use force with such as he."

"And how I do hate to have the old sneak think he has succeeded in ousting us from our home," said Mamma Rabbit indignantly. "I'm half inclined to run the danger of telling him just what I think of him, the old intruder!"

"No, no, Mamma, never do so unwise a thing," whispered Whitie. "Let's do as papa suggests." And she resumed the burden she had been carrying, a pretty wicker chair.

"Yes, let's use stratagem," whispered Speckles, liking the word immensely. And he took up his load—another pretty chair—and made ready to descend to the old home again.

So off they went, carrying away the furniture they had just brought there for use in their snug new home. And as they went old Sneako called from the window: "Good-by, friends, I enjoyed your call very much. Now that we are neighbors, I hope you will come often—say once in a hundred years."

"Oh, we'll not wait so long as that, old Sneako!" called out Mamma Rabbit, her anger forcing her to retaliate to a degree. "We'll come sooner than you think, and when we do we'll trouble you to move into some cave or hole in the ground—the sort of habitation you've always been accustomed to."

"I would not say anything more to warn him, wife," said Bunny Rabbit. "For our own future success, allow him to think we have rendered the house to him and are going back to dwell in our old one. His joy won't last long, for I'm going to oust him by hook or crook."

Then they reached their old house, which was in a rotting hollow log, and went in to rest and to think and to talk.

"I'll tell you what to do, Papa," cautiously whispered Speckles. "Smoke him out."

"Why, that's not a bad idea," declared Bunny Rabbit. "But it won't be so easy as you imagine. Sneako Wolf will be on the watch for us tonight, and if he sees us fixing brush about the place to smoke him with he'll chase us away. And he might be induced to steal one of you little ones as he went, for he's longer of leg than I, and, therefore, swifter of foot, and I could not overtake him. Still, I like the idea of giving him a good smoking. And if I can arrange it so as to prevent his seeing us do so I shall carry out your suggestion."

"I'll tell you a way," said Mamma Rabbit. "Suppose you go into the yard and hold him in conversation at the front of the house for a while. The children and I will pile brush at the back and sides. Then, as you run off down the hill he will go to the back of the house to watch you from the window. Then we'll creep to the front and pile our brush. You'll go behind the trees, turn back to the right and gain the fence without his seeing you. Then we'll start the smoke."

"Ah, a splendid idea," admitted Bunny Rabbit, patting his pretty and devoted wife's plump paw tenderly. "Without my wife and children I could do nothing. They help me in everything. Yes, we'll smoke him out as you say. But be sure to dip the brush into the spring to cause it to smoke instead of blaze. Were it dry it might blaze up and catch the house afire. Besides, we don't want to injure old Sneako Wolf—only wish to drive him from our possession."

That night the plan of smoking the old wolf from their house was carried out by the Rabbits, and before the old thief and intruder knew what was happening he smelt a thick smoke in his snug quarters. Then he began to strangle and his eyes to hurt so from the smoke that he could not remain in the house any longer. Up he got and ran to open the door. When he did so such smoke filled the apartment that he could neither see nor breathe. Out he leaped from the doorway, jumping right against Bunny Rabbit, who was watching the smoking brush to prevent its blazing. "Ah, so it's you who are doing this, is it?" he howled, reaching out to grasp Bunny by the shoulder. "Well, I'll finish you before I go away from here." And he made a vicious face as he showed his long and cruel fangs, leaping right at Bunny Rabbit's throat.

But Mamma Rabbit and Speckles and Whitie were grouped behind a convenient tree, and, seeing the danger of the husband and father, they ran to his aid just as Sneako Wolf was about to bury his fangs into Bunny's white, furry neck. Without waiting to think of results, Speckles jerked up a burning brand and thrust it into the very face of the enemy, causing him to fall away from Bunny Rabbit and to turn on his small antagonist. But Speckles was ready for him and again thrust the burning brush in his face, and as the stick had now caught into a bright blaze old Sneako Wolf was glad enough to turn from the scene and to go off down the hillside as fast as he could run.

"Ah, now I guess you'll let honest animals alone," called out Mamma Rabbit, victoriously. "Yes, you mean old wolf!" called Whitie, seconding her mother. "Begone forever and don't come here again."

Then Bunny Rabbit and his son Speckles ran down the hillside to see whether the wolf had gone on across the valley or had turned to come back to cause them more annoyance and mischief. As they caught a glimpse of him by the light of the newly risen moon he was running on and on, faster and faster.

Then something most exciting happened. From one side of the valley came a loud barking of dogs, then several horsemen appeared at the edge of the wood. "There he goes—that wolf that has been catching our chickens!" called one of the riders. And soon the whole pack were in pursuit of Sneako Wolf.

Bunny Rabbit and his son Speckles returned to their home, not wishing to see the wolf caught and killed by the dogs and men. Even though he was a bad fellow—doing nothing but harm in the world—Bunny could not find it in his heart to wish him ill. So he turned his back on the scene in the valley, not wishing to behold the death of his enemy, Sneako Wolf.

When the news was told to Mamma Rabbit and Whitie they sat very silent for a while. Then Mamma sighed and said: "I suppose it's only what the wicked must expect—capture and death at the hands of those whom they wrong—but, all the same, I feel sorry for that mean old wolf."

"No need of sympathy now, Mamma, dear," said Speckles, "for ere this he has ceased to live, and never more will he try to take possession of our home."

As they entered the gate they saw old Sneako Wolf thrust his head out of the window.

King of the Barnyard.

In the barnyard, strutting,
Old Gobbler goes about,
And if he doesn't like a fowl
He chases him right out.

He is a lordly fellow,
And e'en children fear
To go into the barnyard
When they his gobble hear.

They perch themselves in safety
Upon the fence, so high,
With legs a-dangling outside
So that they may jump and fly

If old Gobbler comes too near them,
With his threatening wings wide spread;
For a gobbler can whip children!
(At least, so it is said).

And there they sit and watch him,
And gaily laugh and talk;
But if he "gobbles, gobbles,"
They quickly take a walk.

Of All the Famous Warriors Now in Active Service, None Has Had a More Thrilling Career Than Arthur McArthur, Lieutenant-General, U. S. A.—He Began as a Boy Lieutenant in the Civil War and He Was the Boy Commander of His Regiment Before the War Was Ended---At Eighteen He Won a Congressional Medal of Honor by Displaying Great Bravery at a Critical Period in the Battle of Missionary Ridge---General J. Franklin Bell Another Daredevil of the McArthur Variety.

IT should be a matter of no little pride to the average American that of all the famous living leaders of the world's armed legions, none has shown greater daredevilitry in battle, or has a finer war record, than Arthur MacArthur, lieutenant-general, U. S. A. And, let it be added, that the same is true, though in less degree, because of less service, of the chief of staff of Uncle Sam's armed land force, Maj.-Gen. James Franklin Bell.

Only one or two of the other famous fighters now in active service have seen anything like as much downright real fighting as MacArthur; and none began garnering battle experiences when a mere boy, as did our own lieutenant-general. For MacArthur was only a slim, delicate boy of 17 when he first showed that cool bravery under fire that has marked his conduct in every one of the scores of skirmishes, brushes and sure enough battles in which he has drawn his sword in behalf of his country—first in the Civil war, then for twenty years, on the plains, against the Indians, and latest, in the Philippines, against the Spaniards and the Filipino insurrectionists.

MacArthur lacked about two months of being 16 when Fort Sumpter was fired upon. Nevertheless, he wanted to enlist at once and was only dissuaded from doing so by his father's promise not to oppose his turning soldier when he had reached his seventeenth birthday. In the meantime, he studied the tactics manual, and so, when he became a member of the Twenty-fourth Wisconsin and one of its drill masters, he made a pronounced hit with the rank and file with his knowledge of how to execute the drills, and how to impart it. In fact, so popular was he with the men that they petitioned the governor of Wisconsin to make him the regiment's adjutant.

The petition was granted, and the boy armed with a first lieutenant's commission, some of the regiment's older officers, jealous of his advancement and his popularity with rank and file, dubbed him a "tin" soldier. That, however, was before the Badgers of the Twenty-fourth received their baptism of fire at Chaplain Hills, in Kentucky. In that clash the boy adjutant fearlessly exposed himself time and again while carrying orders, with the result that when the day's work was over his fighting mettle was frankly acknowledged by his critics and he had become the hero of the regiment. Since that day MacArthur's fighting ability has never been doubtd.

Won Medal of Honor.

It was Adjutant MacArthur, then 18, who won a congressional medal of honor at Missionary Ridge by seizing his regiment's colors and planting them on the works of the enemy on the crest of the Ridge at a time when his and other regiments were in disorder on the steep hillside. His intrepidity in dashing forward with the colors gave the troops fresh courage. Forgetting their recent panicky condition, they reformed, and shouting, leaped forward to where the boy MacArthur was waving the flag of their country. In other words, on this part of the battlefield, and for this portion of the Union army, Lieut. MacArthur saved the day.

It was of MacArthur that the commander of his regiment in the battle of Stone River, when over half of the Twenty-fourth Wisconsin fell, said: "To the adjutant of the regiment I am more than indebted for the aid and efficient service rendered during the engagement;" and the general commanding the brigade of which the Twenty-fourth was a unit, was so impressed with MacArthur's conduct under fire that he mentioned him as displaying great coolness and precene of mind.

It was MacArthur, who at 19, became commander of what by this time was left of his regiment, and thereafter, until the coming of peace, led it into the thick of the fighting in some of the famous battles of the war. At Kenesaw Mountain he was wounded, but a packet of letters preventing the bullet from doing serious injury. Maj. MacArthur kept right on leading his "boys," most of whom were his senior in years. At the battle of Franklin he was in their fore when the brigade to which the regiment was attached reached the battlefield after a forced march of twelve hours, and cut its way through the enemy to the Union lines, thus bringing victory to the Union army. In official despatches the Twenty-fourth Wisconsin was credited with doing much in saving the day, which regiment, reported the division commander, was "led by their gallant boy colonel, Arthur MacArthur."

It was while MacArthur and his men were hewing their way through the Confederate lines that "the gallant boy colonel," received the only really serious wound of his forty-six years in the service of his country. This circumstance seems all the more remarkable when it is remembered that time after time MacArthur has exposed himself to fire in apparently reckless fashion while in the performance of duty.

When Gen. MacArthur retires next June, the army will never again be headed by a soldier with a Civil war record. He is the last of his kind—the volunteer soldier who joined the regular arm of the service when the Civil war was over and rose through the tedious years to be lieutenant-general. And with him the ranks of lieutenant-general will once more disappear from the army list. He is our twelfth lieutenant-general. George Washington was our first.

Gen. Bell, Another Daredevil in Battle.

Chief of Staff Gen. James Franklin Bell, who is 56, and thus MacArthur's junior by eleven years, also numbers among his battle mementoes a congressional medal of honor. Bell won his badge of bravery a little more than nine years ago, near Porac, in the Philippines, when, "in advance of his regiment, he charged seven insurgents with his pistol and compelled the surrendtr of the captain and two privates, under a close fire from the remaining insurgents concealed in a bamboo thicket." So runs the official cause of award.

This, however, was not the only picturesque thing that Bell did while serving in the Philippines, when, incidentally, the regiment that he comanded received more medals for individual bravery than any other body of troops sent by Uncle Sam to the islands. Gen. MacArthur could tell a vivid story of Bells' appearance before him in the nude during the course of one brush with the insurgents. You see, Bell found it necessary to report to Gen. MacArthur, a wide swamp separated him from the general. In order to avoid a long detour, Col. Bell stripped and, leading his horse, went through that swamp and up and into the presence of MacArthur, saluted and made his report as coolly as if he were immaculately garbed for dress parade at an army post.

Arrived in the Philippines when the Spaniards still held Manila, Bell began to reconnoiter. In the course of this work he swam out quite a distance into the bay so that he might find out what the Spanish works looked like from the rear. In the bay he remained until he had made a minute study of the works, when he swam and waded back to terra firma and safety with knowledge that was put to good use by the army when it attacked and took Manila ten years ago last August. Almost a year later Bell, then colonel of the Thirty-sixth Volunteer regiment, which he had organized among the Yankee daredevils whose enlistments with other regiments had expired, was making another reconnoissance, this time on land and in company of four companions, when he had across a band of fifty insurgents and sent them tearing helter-skelter for the sheltering jungle.

This is the same Bell who once was almost lost to the army because he could see nothing ahead for him but a lieutenancy until just a short time before time for his retirement by age, when he would gain a captaincy. Discouraged by the prospect, Bell got a leave of absence in order that he might settle himslf in business. But before he could do so along came the Pine Ridge agency Sioux uprising in Dakota. Bell's regiment was rushed to the scene of trouble, and he, not wishing to miss any fighting, hastily rejoined his command and took part in the battle at Wounded Knee, which doubtless will go down in history as the last important Indian battle fought within our borders. Because this outbreak came at a critical time in his career, and because opportunities were so plentiful for the fighting man in the Philippines ten years ago, Gen. Bell will tell you, if ever you talk his career over with him, that good luck certainly has been his portion from the nineties on.

Again, this is the same Bell who wouldn't take a promotion to major-general until his old friend, Jesse M. Lee, had been advanced to that rank. "Lee," said Bell, in effect, "would do anything in the world for me. He is soon to be retired. I will have plenty of other chances to be advanced. I don't retire until 1920. Give the commission to Lee and let him retire with this added honor. He deserves it." By the way, this, also, is the same Bell, so strenuous in the Philippines, who, sometime after he had been in Washington as chief of staff, was reported as recuperating at a well known health farm because the president had set too hot a pace for him! Thirty years have now passed since Bell graduated from West Point, and two and a half since he became chief of staff and a member of the presidential coterie.

England's Trio of Legion Leaders.

The same age as Gen. Bell, and with a career showing many similiarities to that of the American, Maj. Gen. Sir John Denton Pinkston French, as inspector general, is one of the three big men of the British army today; the others are Gen. Sir Neville Gerald Lyttelton, chief of staff, and, of course, Kitchener of Khartoum, who commands the forces in India. Of the three French is the "baby" in years; the hero of Khartoum tops him by two and his chief of staff by four years.

French, like Bell, was trained in the cavalry. He, too, was recognized by his associates as a good cavalry leader years before his country ever heard muc hof him; and he, too, probably wolud have languished in some low grade and without fame had not war fortunately come along and given him his chance to make good in the eyes of the public and gain official distinction and advancement. Like Bell, again, in war he was extremely popular with the rank and file, and his soldiers fought about as much for French as they did for the government, so great was their devotion to their leader.

French, too, has a record of picturesque deeds personally performed in the Boer country. One of his war "stunts" was his escape from Ladysmith on the last train that left that town before it was belaguered. He undertook the task of carrying to safety a batch of exceedingly important papers and documents. These he secreted in a crevice in the compartment of the car he occupied, crawled under the seat, and in these cramped quarters traveled to safety, under a veritable hail of Boer bullets, many of which splintered the woodwork of the car and bored the upholstery of the seat below which French lay. Because of his fighting ability, he was the idol of the British public during the war, and his strategy so won the admiration of De Wet that he pronounced French the only general on the British side of the bloody controversy.

Bell has been called a democratic commander, an dthe stories told of his unconventional ways while in the Philippines back up the statement. But Bell is not a whit more democratic than French. When in camp he loungés around in his shirt-sleeves, all but hobnobs with the men, and is easily approachable. He cares so little for dress-soldiering that one day, in South Africa, he was called on by a war correspondent to hold his horse while he went off to locate the tent of the commander—none other than Gen. French himself, who urbanely held the horse, as bid, and continued holding it until the correspondent was directed to him as the man he was looking for!

When he was a youth French longed to take orders, and on Sundays he would put a nightshirt over his best duds, and in this makeshift clericay garb "preach" to his congregations of playmates. Even when he was well along in his teens French still desired to go with the Church, but his father was a naval officer, he planned for his boy to follow in his footsteps, and the youngster became a naval cadet, serving several years afloat. This experience turned French's thoughts from the Church; but while it resolved him to follow a fighting career it cultivated in him no love for the sea, and, as a result, French got himself transferred to the army. He had been holding his commission but a short time when he had the compliment paid him by his colonel of being the smartest young officer the colonel had ever come across. Years later—in fact, only a short time before the outbreak of the Boer war—French had been recommended for retirement because his lack of respect for army tradition and red tape had caused his superiors untold annoyance. He became inspector-general of the British army when the duke of Cambridge vacated the now obsolete post of commander-in-chief and its duties were divided between Lyttelton and French.

A Pair of Strict Disciplinarians.

Lytleton has smelled powder, and been instrumental in the making of the odor, in both hemispheres, and he has been a fighting man since the close of our Civil war. He aided in putting down the Fenian rebellion in Canada, and for his work there receivd a prized bauble or two. He fought valiantly at Tel-el-Keber, Khartoum and other noted battles in Egypt and the Sudan. He was in at the death of the Boer struggle for independnce, and in his time he has held important posts in India and Ireland, being commander-in-chief in the island. Were he to wear all his medals and other decorations won on the field of battle and through distinguished service in time of peace his breast would look like that of the traditional comic opera generalissimo.

A brilliant strategist, a strict disciplinarian, and the antithesis of Frenoh in his attitude towards the rank and file, Lytleton is warmth itself when he is placed in contrast with Kitchener, who has frankly admitted that he uses the men under him as stepping stones

MINNESOTA

HIS FATHER TOTED FAIR

Parent of Star Bad Boy Always Friend of Whites.

Interesting History of Father of Efficient Game Warden.

Crookston, Minn., Oct. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—In connection with the splendid success of Star Bad Boy, the deputy game warden who was appointed at the instance of Deputy Game Warden Munch of this city about Aug. 1, and who has had such signal success in that capacity, having secured a large number of convictions in conjunction with Warden Munch, the latter having secured twenty-six convictions this season, there is a very interesting bit of history which is well authenticated.

Star Bad Boy is the grandson of Chief Bad Boy of the Gull Lake band of the Chippewas, a staunch friend of the whites. In 1862, on Aug. 18, Chief Little Crow of the Sioux and Chief Hole-in-the-Wall of the Ojibways conspired to unite the warriors in a common cause and this plan was frustrated by Chief Bay Boy, who at once notified the commandant at Fort Ripley, who sent troops to Crow Wing, which action frustrated the alliance and prevented a series of horrible massacres.

Chief Bad Boy never fought against the whites, and after 1862 was kept at Fort Ripley to assist the soldiers. He was always a friend of the white man, and led his warriors in a great many battles against the Sioux and Ojibways. Warren's history gives a full account of his adventurous career up to the time of his death at the age of 70 years.

Star Bad Boy is now 40 years of age, and since his appointment has secured eleven convictions, some whites and some "breeds," all looking alike to him in his official capacity. He is postmaster at Ney-Tah-Wasush, Mohwomman county, and has a little store which he runs in connection. He is also a member of the government police force on the White Earth reservation and attended the Carlisle Indian school in Pennsylvania some years ago.

JOHN WASHBURN DEAD.

Bemidji Alderman, Contractor and Well-Known Citizen, Called.

Bemidji, Minn., Oct. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Washburn died Thursday after being ill with diabetes for over a year.

John Washburn was a contractor and builder who moved to this city thirteen years ago.

He was a member of the fire department and took an active part in its affairs, serving two years as secretary of the department, and was also a member of the city council, being alderman from the third ward.

Mr. Washburn is survived by a wife and one son, Harvey, 7, Earle, the only other child, having died six weeks ago of summer complaint at the age of 18 months.

Mr. Washburn was a member of the Samaritan and the Loyal American lodges. The funeral will be in charge of the fire department and will be held Sunday afternoon.

WAS PIONEER HOMESTEADER.

Death Claims First Man to File in Morken Township.

Moorhead, Minn., Oct. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—T. O. Morken, of Morken township, prominent in Clay county for many years, was claimed by death Wednesday. The funeral will be held on Monday afternoon, the Rev. John Peterson of this city, officiating.

Torgrim O. Morken was born at Telemarken, Moland, Norway, in 1846. He came to the United States with his parents in 1867, settling in Houston county, this state.

In 1875 Mr. Morken came to Clay county and settled upon the farm which was his home up to the time of his death. He was the first homesteader in Morken township.

In 1878 Mr. Morken married Augusta Kassenborg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Kassenborg. Eleven children were born, as follows: Andrew, Gilbert, Salve, Martin, John, Obert, Henry, Tilda, Trina, Otto and William, and all are living except Otto and William, who died in infancy. Mrs. L. F. Moe of this city, is a sister of Mrs. T. O. Morken.

T. O. Morken's career in Clay county was of a character to develop all of the sterling qualities of which his nature was made up.

DULUTH MAN TO REFORM.

Minneapolis Humane Society Trying to Help Him Out.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Once a prosperous dry goods merchant of Minneapolis, but now broken and separated from his family from drink, Nels H. Nelson was brought from Duluth Thursday by Sheriff Dreger, charged with non-support. He has four children and was clerking in a store at Duluth when arrested.

Instead of having him punished, the Minneapolis Humane society agreed to take care of the family if he would go to a hospital for reformation. He agreed and was delivered to Dr. Lawrence, who will take care of his cure.

Delegates at Large—A. J. Nason, St. Paul; Alexander Milne, Duluth; Lowell E. Jepson, Minneapolis; C. M. Way, Minneapolis; W. J. Dyer, St. Paul.

At the election of officers for the general association Rev. Harry P. Dewey of Plymouth church, Minneapolis, was chosen association preacher; Robert P. Herrick of Minneapolis, was elected moderator; G. A. Traut of Morris, scribe; Rev. S. J. Rogers of Minneapolis, secretary.

The next convention city was not decided upon, but left to a committee.

The fifty-third meeting reached the high-water mark in the history of Congregationalism in Minnesota, outside of the Twin Cities, there being at least 300 in attendance as delegates and visitors.

BEMIDJI WOMAN DEAD.

Mrs. Seberger Succumbs to Opium She Took.

Bemidji, Minn., Oct. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Mike Serberger is dead from the effects of the opium she had taken, but the coroner's jury, after looking into the case, has been unable to fix the blame. Evidence was adduced to show the woman had been addicted to the use of the drug, doctors who had visited her during her illness stating she was fond of it.

Sam Kee, the Chinaman, arrested on suspicion of furnishing her with opium, was held for further developments.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Royalton—The little son of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Wilde is recovering rapidly from a series of accidents that befell him last week. A cup of hot coffee accidentally spilled, burned his arm and after slightly recovering from that, the little fellow tumbled from a counter in the store while playing, bruising his head badly.

Sandstone—Laborers are at work this week repairing the depot platform. The walk next to the track will be widened and otherwise improved.

North Branch—Richard Stream was quite badly hurt Monday forenoon while working with a crew, moving John Schmidt's old house. In some way the house tipped off the jacks and this caused the chimney to fall. One of the bricks struck Stream on the top of the head, knocking him helpless for several minutes.

Mora—The pickling station, which has closed this season's business, reports that out of the twenty-two tanks at the station, sixteen were filled. The amount paid out for pockles is estimated at $3,000.

Anoka—The former postoffice building, on Second avenue, has undergone extensive repairs the past week, under the supervision of Case Bros., and now presents a much improved appearance.

Stillwater—Invitations have been received in this city announcing the marriage of Leo McDonald, formerly of this city, now of Butte, Mont., to Miss Nettie Burnadette Sheeran, of Faribault, Minn., which will take place next Wednesday, at the Church of Immaculate Conception, Faribault.

St. Cloud—The N. P. Clarke shorthorns won first prize in the aged herd, and also the young herd, at the Missouri state fair at Sedalia, Mo., Wednesday. This victory was gained over the shorthorns owned and exhibited by Hanna and Harding, both well known stock men.

Aitkin—Miss Olive Chute, of Morrison, has announced herself as an independent candidate for county superintendent of schools. Miss Chute is a well known teacher, having taught in several of the localities in this county.

Wadena—Fred Lincoln, the 18-year-old son of Mrs. A. H. Lincoln, a pioneer woman, became violently insane Tuesday, and Village Marshall John Naylor and Deputy Sheriff J. M. Fuller were called to the home to take charge of the young man. He was committed to the Fergus Falls asylum.

Barnesville—John Schick, of Mt. Pulaski, Ill., arrived in Barnesville this week, in company with a couple of land seekers and are out looking over Clay county lands. These men are from the state of Illinois and are desirous of buying farms here.

Crookston—As an indication of the splendid grade of the grain raised in this section this year, from the S. C. Johnson elevator in Crookston, thus far, but one car of grain has been shipped which graded only No. 2 northern, all the balance grading No. 1 northern, or better.

Little Falls—Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Sullivan have received the announcement of the marriage of their eldest daughter, Miss Madeline Sullivan, of Portland, Or., to John Rumford, of Seattle, Wn., which was solemnized in the latter city on Monday, Oct. 5.

St. Cloud—The local pickling plant, which has been in operation for several months, closed down Wednesday evening, after a most successful run. No more vegetables will be received, and the stuff on hand will be salted down and getten ready for shipment after this. During the season 700 barrels of dill pickles were put up and about 4,000 bushels of smaller pickles were received.

Crookston—The students of the high school were given a treat Thursday morning, when Postmaster Elias Steenerson appeared before them and delivered an address on the subject of postal regulations and requirements. The address was highly instructive and was greatly appreciated.

Rush City—Stone upon stone and brick upon brick, the former business portion of Rush City is rapidly rising from the ruins. While the loss will be keenly felt for years, not one jot of future faith or present enterprise has suffered or lagged.

WISCONSIN

RECREANT WIFE IS TAKEN BACK

She is Said to Have Run Away With Another Man.

Iron River, Wis., Oct. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—"All's well that ends well," say Joseph Chevalier, an employe of the Iron River Lumber mompany, and his wife who have agreed to continue to live together despite a shadow that crossed their threshold and came near having serious conclusions.

When the husband came home for dinner from his work Wednesday he was surprised that his wife and their young child were not in evidence, while the house presented a very deserted appearance.

Upon investigating, he found that his wife's clothing was gone and then his suspocions were aroused. He came up town and learned that Mrs. Chevavlier was surprised that his wife and their child and a man by the name of Mike DeMars had left this city on the Northern Pacific east-bound train. The authorities at Ashland and other points were notified and later in the day the eloping couple were taken into custody by an officer at Mason and held until further instructions from the officers here. Chevalier lodged a complaint against them on grand larceny before the second municipal court and they were brought here Thursday morning and the differences were patched up and the case dismissed.

SCORE THEM ALL.

Wisconsin Baptists Rap Taft, Bryan and Cannon.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 10.—Resolutions condemning Speaker Joseph G. Cannon for his alleged efforts to prevent the passage of laws designed to restrict the liquor traffic; urging the enlistment of every religious, patriotic, educational and parental influence in the movement to stamp out the white slave traffic; noting the impossibility of a doctrinal union of the Baptist church with those of other denominations, but welcoming "denominational co-operations"—these were the features of the closing session of the Wisconsin Baptists' association, which also adopted resolutions criticising Taft and Bryan for not having a prohibition plank incorporated in the Republican and Democratic national platforms. Officers elected for the ensuing year are:

President, Frank Lampson, Lampson; vice president, Rev. C. M. Coye, Stevens Point; recording secretary, Dr. H. F. Strong, Milwaukee; treasurer, Miss Sadie Chandler, Appleton.

"FENCE" HEAVILY FINED.

Costs Ashland Man $150 for Receiving Stolen Property.

Ashland, Oct. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ben Milovitz paid $150 into the city strong box when he was found guilty of accepting stolen property. Last winter two young men of this city, Shonts and Jones, pilfered a great amount of goods from the Wisconsin Central Railway company, and most of this was sold to Melovitz. Judge Parish accordingly fined him $150, which included costs and everything, or 100 days in the county bastile.

DEATH DISSOLVES FIRM OF MANY YEARS' STANDING.

Jefferson, Wis., Oct. 19.—The oldest copartnership in this city, and probably the oldest in the state, was dissolved by the death of Gunson Roessler, aged 75 years. Mr. Roessler came to this country in 1857, was married the same year in Milwaukee, and then came to Jefferson. In 1862 he formed a partnership with Adam Kispert, under the firm name of Kispert & Roessler, as merchant tailors and clothiers. This partnership existed at the time of Mr. Roessler's death, and during the entire time both members of the firm were active in the business. Mr. Kispert, though 76 years of age, still attends to business and Mr. Roessler did likewise up to the time of his being ill.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Waukesha—Thomas McCarty, aged 70 years, one of the old war horses of the Democratic party in Wisconsin, is believed to be dying at his home in Lannon. Mr. McCarty stepped on a rusty nail a few days ago, which penetrated his heel, and blood poisoning has set in.

Sparta—The batteries of mountain artillery that have been encamped on the artillery range here for the last five weeks returned Thursday morning overland to Fort Sheridan, Ill., which they expect to reach about Oct. 15. Besides the regular wagon train there were about 250 pack mules in the column.

Milwaukee—The Equit society convention elected C. O. Drayton of Greenville, Ill., president, and for secretary-treasurer, D. Kump of Madison, Wis. The directors are: J. C. Davis of Marshfield, Wis., and Benjamin Watson of Dixon, Ill.

Eau Claire—Already thus far this year there have been granted in Eau Claire county thirty-six divorces, and the total number for 1908, it is expected, will go close to fifty or exceed that number.

Appleton—The state rested in the Krause murder case Thursday afternoon, and the defense opened Friday mornign, when Attorney Lehr put the defendant on the stand.

Fond du Lac—To erect a memorial at the grave of Governor N. P. Tallmadge, at Rienzi cemetery, is the work that the local chapter of the D. A. R. has taken upon itself.

Mellen—Lans Park picked up a suspicious character on the streets, who goes by the name of "Red Mike," and upon investigation found he was wanted in Gaylard, Mich., for robbery. He wired the sheriff at that place, receiving an answer to hold him, and that the sheriff would be here after him at once.

Ashland—At about 4:30 Thursday morning the fire department was called out to fight a fair-sized blaze in one of the coal piles of the Clarkson Coal company dock. The conflagration was quickly put out.

UPPER MICHIGAN

IGNORED GOOD ADVICE GIVEN

Salvation Army Worker of Ishpeming Committed for Petty Thieving.

Ishpeming, Mich., Oct. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Failing to observe the good teachings of the movement with which he was allied A. H. L. Bleaney, who has been soliciting aid for the Salvation Army here in Negaunee and in Marquette has been convicted of stealing money received from recent entertainments and from the recent harvest festival, convicted and sent to jail for ninety days. Incidentally Ensign Wolverton in charge of the Army here has received orders from Minneapolis to dismiss the black sheep from the flock. Blaney was arrested Tuesday night on suspicion of having stolen $25.50 from the home of Ensign Wolverton, where he had been stopping, and he finally broke down and confessed his guilt. He was given a hearing in Judge Thoren's court in Negaunee and was committed to ninety days in the county jail in default of the payment of a $100 fine.

The first money stolen from Mr. Wolverton's desk was $8.10, the proceeds of one of the entertainments given while "Joe, the Turk," was in the city. Soon after $17.50 was missed and about this time Bleaney advised Mr. Wolverton that his watch, which was on a washstand in the room where the money was kept, had also been taken. Bleaney busied himself in an apparent effort to find the thief.

Bleaney dug a hole under the barracks and hid his watch in it. After he had made a confession about the theft of the money he told the ensign where he had placed the watch.

HELP DESERVING ONES.

Miners' Picnic Netted Fine Sum for the Needy.

Calumet, Mich., Oct. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The benefit that results from the annual Miners' picnic was illustrated here a few days ago when the several committees appointed to distribute aid among the widows and orphans of former employes of the company distributed almost $1,000 in cash, wood and coal among 350 needy people. The several committees of the various nationalities did their work wisely and well. Every deserving case brought to the notice of the committee received careful attention and no donations were made until each had received due consideration.

The net proceeds of last year's picnic totalled about $1,000. The picnic was a success in every way, the attendance being much larger than the year previous and the gate receipts consequently heavier.

To Preserve Old Church.

Houghton, Mich., Oct. 10.—The Central Home Coming association made up of hundreds of former residents of the Central mine location in Keweenaw county, once the most prosperous and most important mining community and center of population in the Michigan copper district, has decided to preserve for all time the old Methodist church at Central, where the annual homecoming services are held. The church was built in 1868.

GOVERNOR BURKE SPEAKS TO NORTH DAKOTA SYNOD.

Bismarck, N. D., Oct. 10.—The state synod of the Presbyterian church opened Thursday night with about a hundred members in attendance. Rev. A. B. Marshall of Minneapolis preached the opening sermon on the evangelical work of the church to a large audience. A. W. Wright was elected moderator at the business meeting and B. A. Fahl, clerk pro tem.

Last night several addresses were presented, among them one from Mrs. F. J. Deisenderfer of Erie, on Mormonism. A reception was held, at which Governor Burke made an address.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Minot, N. D.—Meeting the gun of two would-be hold-up artists with a piece of blue steel of his own, E. C. Tolley of Kenmare, one of the most prominent men in Northwestern North Dakota, Tuesday night frightened a couple of bandits out of their wits, and they disappeared in the darkness as fast as their legs could carry them.

Grafton, N. D.—Miss Lucy Conmy of Pembina has arrived in the city to take the position in the high school caused by the resignation of Mr. Kershaw. She is a graduate of the state university and has had several years of experience in high school work at Mayville and Pembina.

Bismarck, N. D.—Secretary of State Blaisdell, who is a practising attorney, has been suddenly called to Glasgow, Mont., to assist in the defense of G. B. Gamble, who stands as one of the parties in a murder case there, and is charged with the crime in the first degree.

Langdon, N. D.—Pat Shelp is laid up with severe internal injuries which he received from an enraged bull in the barnyard on his farm in Hope township. The bull had gotten loose and was being rounded up by Mr. Shelp when the animal cornered him and got him down. The fact that the bull was dehorned alone saved him from being gored to death on the spot.

Cando, N. D.—C. W. Boyd, arrested at Minot on a charge of embezzlement and brought to Cando, has been bound over to the district court under bonds of $500. Boyd, formerly the agent of the Singer Sewing Machine company at Cando, is said to have used the funds of other people in a rather reckless manner.

Minot, N. D.—Claude Neilson of Fosston, Minn., formerly of Grand Forks, is attempting to interest the business men of Minot in a woolen mill proposition. He has written to a number of the prominent business men of this city with a view to securing assistance in the erection of a mill there.

At the annual meeting of the Dacotah club Wednesday evening, a spirited campaign and election took place. Walter Hawkins was elected president of the young men's social organization. Alexander McDonald was elected vice president and Norman D. Black, secretary and treasurer. J. A. Barrett was given the office of sentry. Messrs. Burtness, Mix and Johnson were elected members of the execut

THE LUCK OF A SPLIT SWITCH

What Resulted From a Caboose With Its Lone Passenger Jumping the Track.

"DID you notice that freight car we passed a few minutes ago?" asked the bald-headed broker from Minneapolis as he came into the smoking compartment, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

"No," answered the red-headed man in the corner. "Was there anything peculiar about it?"

"Yes, there was. Queerest thing I ever heard of. Car's upside down just a few feet away from the main line. Seems it was in the middle of a freight train that came along here last night. Somehow or other this car jumped the track, broke the couplings at both ends and sidestepped without disturbing the rest of the train in the least. Car that was behind it went right ahead, ted onto the car ahead by the automatic coupler, and nobody knew the car was out until they got to the end of the division and checked up. Don't seem possible, does it?"

"Strange freak, sure enough," admitted the red-headed man, "but it has happened before. It was something like that that caused a terrible wreck in Pensylvania a few years ago. Do you remember it? Freight car buckled and jumped across passenger track just at the right time to do the greatest possible damage."

"There's a whole lot o' luck about this railroad business, anyhow," put in the passenger from Burlington. "Sometimes it's bad luck and sometimes it's good luck, but it's pure luck all the same, and it don't matter a continental how much time and money they put on a track and safety tricks, there've got to make allowances for luck. It's bound to come. Why, sir, if it hadn't been for just that kind of a freak I guess I'd a-been whackin' steers to this day instead of shippin' lumber by the train load."

"Sh-h," whispered the red-headed man in the corner, "that listens like an episode. How did it happen?"

"Well," said the lumberman, as he bit off the end of a fresh cigar and reached for the match box, "a good many years ago I was in the cattle business; not a raiser or a breeder, but a buyer in a small way. I'd ride around the country pickin' up a steer here and a steer there from the farmers until I got two or three carloads, and then I'd ship them to St. Louis or Kansas City. In those days a stock shipper was given transportation on the train that carried his cattle, so that he could look after them on the way, and he was given his return passage besides. A three or four day trip on a freight train's no joke, I want to tell you. They didn't carry any Pullman cars, and the best a man could do at night was to stretch out on the benches in the caboose. They had cushions on them, to be sure, and you could lie at full length, but a freight train ain't built for easy running, and every time you strike a bad joint or a switch you'd wake up.

"The time I'm goin' to tell you about I was comin' up through Arkansas with a couple o' cars o' steers, bound for St. Louis. That was a long time ago, you remember, and railroads in those days made pretty rough sleddin'. Nobody complained much, though, because nobody knew any better. I was the only passenger on the train, so I had the caboose pretty much to myself. Most o' the time the conductor was with me and part o' the time the rear brakeman, but sometimes I was entirely alone. We was in the flat lands in the northeastern part of the state one dark night. I was a sleepin' sound as a kid after a swimmin' trip, for this was my third night, and I was gettin' used to the joltin'. Besides, I was dead tired. The conductor had gone out on the train for some reason, and I was the only one in the car, when we struck an old switch.

"I never could explain how it happened—it was just one o' those queer freaks that can't be explained; but there was something wrong about that switch, and although the engine and every other car got over all right, the caboose caught the split, broke her couplin' an' just switched herself onto the other track.

"The jar threw me off the bench and woke me up. First thing I thought of was a wreck. In a second, though, I knew by the feel that we was on the track and movin'. I rushed to one end and opened the door. No cars ahead. Got the wrong end, thinks I, and chased to the other door. No cars on that side, either. There I was sailin' off across the country all by myself. And talk about rough tracks! Say, that was an ocean wave and a tickler and a bump-the-bumps all in one. That car was certainly goin' some, likewise. Somethin's got to be done, thinks I, and I makes for the brake, but it was broken. There was only two things to do, get off or stay on. It was as dark as a stack o' black cats and I couldn't see the ground on either side. The way that caboose was runnin' it was pretty near sure death to get off, so I decided to stay with it and take chances.

"I hadn't much more than made up my mind when it began to slow up and gradually it run slower and slower, goin' up grade, o' course, until it finally stopped still. Glad? Well, right then I got my first long breath, let me tell you. I didn't know where I was, but I'd lit, as the fellow says, I went out on the platform and looked around, but I couldn't see my hand before me. The air felt damp though. Must be some water around here, thinks I. I opened the side doors o' the caboose and lay down to wait for daylight. Pretty soon a bass voice on my right remarked: 'Cut and run! Cut and run!' Then another boomed: 'Cut and run! Cut and run!' A tenor pleaded: 'Better hurry! Better hurry!' and a shrill soprano screamed: 'Ought to go now! Ought to go now!' Then a chorus of about a hundred, seemed to me like, urged me to leave, and kept on urgin', while every little bit a loon would put in a mournful word. Ever hear a loon? Well, if you ever felt like you wanted to hear a voice from the tombs go down in the swamps and listen to one. Sleep? Not on your life! I just lay there and shivered and wondered what in the dickens I was up against anyhow.

"After 18 or 20 hours it began to get light and I got up and sat in the side door so as to get a squint at my surroundings as soon as possible. First thing I learned was that I was in a little open space hemmed around with great trees. Then I saw the outlines of a big house of some kind a little ways from the track, and pretty soon I made out some smaller houses. As it got lighter I found that the big house was a sawmill and the others were tumble down dwellings. All along the opposite side of the tracks was a swamp. There wasn't a sign of life. The mill looked like it had been deserted for years, the track down which I had come was covered with rust, and the weeds were knee high between the ties. It was a fine prospect. And I was hungry as a wolf.

"I was lookin' out the door wonderin' how I was goin' to get out of that hole, when to my surprise the door of one of the shacks opened and an old man stepped out. He give one look at me and the caboose and then he threw up his hands. 'Gee whillikens!' he squeaked, 'it's come!' The doors o' the other shanties opened at this and out swarmed a crowd of half-dressed men, women and children, all leather-lunged and tow-headed. 'Well,' thinks I, 'I guess I can get something to eat, anyway.' The old man came hobblin' over to the caboose.

"'Howdy, stranger,' says he; 'moughty glad tuh see juh. 'Gin tuh think yuh wa'nt comin.'

"'Been lookin' for me, have you?' says I.

"'Yep,' says he, 'about ten years, I reckon.'

"'You don't say so,' says I; 'then breakfast ought to be ready.' I thought he was guyin' me, you know.

"'Ef 'taint it's goin' to be putty quick,' he says, a'n then he yells to the woman to get in the house and get busy.

"I got out and went over to the shack with him' choked down some corn pone and fat salt pork, while the whole community stood around and watched me with their mouths open, and then we, the old man and myself, and three other men, nearly as old as the first, went back to the caboose to talk business. I hadn't told them how I got there. I saw there was a nigger in the woodpile somewhere and I made up my mind to find out what the situation was before I explained my side of it.

"It didn't take me long to get at the facts. It seemed that a fellow named Anderson had come into that part of the country some eleven or twelve years before that and had got the timber rights for about 10,000 acres of land. He had lots o' money, apparently. He put up this sawmill, built a railroad ten miles long to connect with the main line, and hired all the natives he could get hold of to cut for him. For about a year he shipped at a lively rate and the mill was kept goin' night and day, but he never paid his men a cent—kept standin' them off from month to month. One day he called in old Hicks, the man who was tellin' me about it, and explained to him that he was broke, had lost all his money in speculation, and he was goin' to close up shop and quit the country. He couldn't pay what he owed the men, but he'd transfer the mill and the railroad spur to them, and maybe they could get their money out of it. They figured a little on hangin' him, but finally concluded to accept his proposition and let him go.

"'That's about ten years, now,' says the old man to me, 'an' they ain't been a stick sawed in that mill sense. We 'loved we didn't know nothin' 'bout lumber. We mought make it pay, an' then agin we moughtn't. So we jes' sot down,' says he, 'an' waited for somebody to come aroun' that'd know what tuh do with it. While we was waitin' we had a little game o' poker once in a while, and money bein' sca'ce we'd put up the mill fo' stakes. Thet's how us foh got to ownin' the hull shebang inside a year, an' we been passin it aroun' among us ever sense. Sometimes it belonged tuh Jim, sometimes tuh John Henry, sometimes to me, jes' accordin' to how the cards went. But the saw nevuh turned. 'Bout foh years ago we talks it over an' we makes up our minds that the fust man thet comes down thet track can have the mill and the road to boot if he'll run it. We been lookin' down the track a long time, stranger,' says he, an' we're moughty glad tuh see yuh.'

"'Do you mean to say,' I asked, 'that you propose to give me this mill and this road for nothing?'

"'Ef yuh'll run it,' says Hicks, 'an' give us all a job.'

"Well, I looked over the mill. The machinery had been boxed up and was in fairly good condition. There was an old handcar in a shed. I got it out and the old fellows pumped me back to the junction. I went to St. Louis, hunted up an old friend o' mine, who was in the lumber business and who had money. We fixed up the branch road, remodeled the mill and commenced turnin' out lumber. We've made money every year, and the mill's still goin,' but we have had to move it a couple o' times to keep in the timber. If any of you can beat that for luck it's your turn."

"I pass," said the red-headed man in the corner.

SOCIALISM AND POLITICS

Our nation is stirred from its peaceful slumbers; it has awakened from the hypnotic spell of prosperity through which we are supposed to have passed. We are brought to our senses by the ever-echoing charges of graft made against persons, who hold places high in political life.

We must accept the charges for what we consider them to be worth, but we as yet have not heard of any one calling to account any of the persons who have made such charges. The Standard Oil seems to be the center for all sorts of charges to be flung at it, and it seems quite plain that most people, who have gained prominence in the politics of our country have done so through their connections with the Standard Oil.

There is certainly something wrong somewhere. There appears to be a friction in the machine of public affairs that needs oil but the oil does not seem at present to be forthcoming, and in all probability there will be more friction after the election is over.

One question is hard for us to solve and that is: Why should people be robbed in the shamefaced way they are? Should there be any pity shown them? There are many who do know the exact cause of the infamous crimes that are committed in the name of business, and yet they are too much cowards at heart to expose the cause of these crimes.

Mr. Taft, the Republican candidate for president, when asked the question, "What shall a man do, who is out of work and starving?" answered with intelligence beaming over his noble brow, "God knows." Such an answer, coming from a man, who has had all the chances of an education, who has become learned in the study of man made laws, should cause such men to hide their faces in shame, knowing that able-bodied men are pleading for work, knowing that little children are crying for crusts of bread, and knowing that our young girls are selling their virtue for a place to sleep. It is shameful that such learned men could not be able to find a cure for such wrongs as these, and more so here than in any other country as it is the richest country in the world, a country where nature has given us plenty to feed and clothe all, and yet we have little children crying for bread. I hope to live to see the day when such men as Mr. Taft will be compelled by the law to render work that is productive, and for the good and welfare of all.

Mr. Bryan claims to be the Moses sent to lead us out of the wilderness but we do not hear a word from him as to how he will lighten the burden of us workingmen. Oh, yes, he will, if elected, enforce that labor plank in his platform, providing the capitalists are willing for him to do so. We must remember that, as long as we live under our present system of private ownership, our good capitalists are going to continue to run the government if Bryan is elected, the same as they have done under Roosevelt, for it will be remembered that Roosevelt was trying to break the trusts, but what has been accomplished? Are we willing to go back to the old method or hand process of producing our needs in life?

Where and what does Mr. Bryan stand for? He claims to have the welfare of labor at heart. Does he mean that? Then why has he not protested against the action of the Democratic mayors and governors of the South, in hiring out the prisoners at so much per head to break the strike of the United Mine Workers of America in the state of Alabama, who were striking for better conditions? And yet he claims to be a union man? What is he going to do for the little children, who are compelled to work ten and twelve hours per day on an average of 27 cents per day? He dare not cry out against these conditions for the reason that he might lose votes if he did so. Mr. Bryan can do nothing for the common people or workingmen as long as he upholds the private ownership of the tools and land that we, as workers, must use in order to live.

It will matter but little to us, the members of the producing class, whether Taft or Bryan is elected, as they both stand for the future exploitation of labor. What does it matter to us as workers whether we have a high or low tariff, as we understand the tariff question?

Socialism has no heroes, martyrs or leaders in the sense as understood today. We would scoff at the person who would try to become a leader, martyr or hero for what he could get out of it. What we are, we are from the point of principle. In our case we hold principle first, man second; we will not stand by and see men use Socialism for their own gain, neither will we allow a person to become a candidate for the sole purpose of gaining office.

We do not look at our candidate for president, Eugene V. Debs, with awe, nor do we think he is so much better than we. We hold him to be a common, everyday man, and in no way are we his hero-worshipers. Socialism, not Debs, will do for the working class what the upholders of the present system cannot do; no matter how well-meaning they may be, the interests of the individual are at stake. Socialism will deliver unto the producer the full value of his labor. Socialism demands the collective ownership of the mines, mills, factories, railroads, telegraph, waterways and the forests, and in fact every means that will allow one man the right to exploit the labor of another man. Socialism will open the doors of our schools to all, and will teach the children that their life should be one of usefulness, and not, as is being taught today, to become a social parasite. We teach the children French and German, so that she or he may cast their nets in the sea of matrimony for some earl or duchess, while the chances are they will wear overalls or become students at the washtub.

Socialism will demand of all men that they must work, if they are able to do so. All men can demand work at the hands of the Socialist republic. Socialism will build up the home, not break it up, as is claimed by some of its critics; it will make the home worth calling home, not as today a couple or three 4 by 6 rooms in some flat, with no yard upon which to step or raise flowers. Socialism will give man the opportunity to cultivate the best that is in him. The genius of man can work itself out under Socialism; it will not be stored up in some machine that would be a benefit to the people but for the demand for profits, which causes it to be stored away and not used, as is the custom today. Under Socialism, science will become the order of the day, industry will be organized scientifically, and the most proficient method of production and distribution will be worked out. Socialism will, if I may be allowed to become a trifle of a Utopianist, set up on earth the brotherhood of man. From the religious point of view it will set in motion the moral teachings of Jesus, but before this can be accomplished the economic conditions must be brought to a point that will allow a person to act towards his fellowman as a brother, and not, as is the custom today, to do him before he is done.

LEADERS OF THE WORLD'S ARMED LEGIONS

to the ends he has in view for himself. Still, no other general on the active list of the British army today can boast of a more loyal command from rank and file up through subalterns to his own chief of staff. One reason is that his men long ago found in him a real fighting man; another is that also a long while ago they learned that Kitchener always strives to give a square deal even to the humblest Tommy Atkins under him. There is, for example, the anecdote of Kitchener and the sleeping boy sentry in South Africa. The ordinary commander would have had the derelict post up for court-martial forthwith. Kitchener, instead, found out that the lad, before being stationed as a picket, had been on duty for twenty hours straight running, and the soldier who got into trouble with the hero of Khartoum was not the lad but the officer who had displayed so little judgment as to assign an utterly fagged out man to picket duty.

Full as Kitchener's carer is of stirring chapters, his most thrilling experiences befell him when he was spying for two years in the strongholds of Mahdis. This chapter of his career began shortly after he became a major in the Eygptian army in 1882, and Kitchener volunteered for the task of finding out whether or not the reports that had reached the British of the phenomenal spread of Mahdism were true or otherwise. Disguising himself as an Arab, he went clamily among the followers of the false prophet, in the very heart of the region hypnotized by the Mahdi. What would have happened to him had his disguise been penetrated he beheld one day in the death tortures meted out to a captured spy. But with unshakable determination Kitchener kept at his volunteer task, though after he had witnessed the cruel death of the unfortunate spy he always had handy a bottle of the quickest acting of all poisons.

Of course, every moment of the two years that he spent tracking the Mahdi was filled with the greatest danger, yet from his venture he returned European garb with but one mishap, and that a scalp wound, the result of a brick thrown at the "bloomin' heathen" by a British soldier.

As commander of the army in India Kitchener is having things pretty much his own way in that great dependency of the British empire. The earl of Minto, the viceroy, is an easy-going sort of chap, and no longer the British public wakes up o' mornings to learn that the viceroy and the commander of the army are "at it again," as was the case when Curzon kept Kitchener company east of suez.

Germany's Trio of Legion Leaders.

Kaiser Wilhelm II, as commander-in-chief of the German army—and an active commander at that—has as the army's chief of staff a nephew of the von Moltke who played so important a part in the building up of the German empire by bringing about the defeat of France in the '70s. It was in this war that Wilhelm's leading general won the iron cross for bravery; he was then only a sub-lieutenant. Helmuth Johannes Ludwig von Moltke—for that is his full name, has been chief of staff for three years now, a position which his distinguished uncle held for as many decades.

The nephew owes his present eminence in part to the fact that his predecessor was unfortunate enough to be kicked and badly injured at the annual maneuvers of the army. Von Moltke, at the time, was the chief of staff's assistant, and when his superior was injured he carried out the maneuvers so satisfactorily to his emperor that the latter gave him the coveted promotion. Some of the count's enemies have been unkind enough to whisper behind their hands that von Moltke's great stature—he is nearly seven feet in his stockings—has playd an important part in his latter day career, and they base this statement on their emperor's well-known predelection for men of great height. These same enemies declare that von Moltke, for the life of him couldn't plan a successful campaign. However that may be, it is a fact that twice the count implored Wilhelm not to name him as chief of staff, since he himself felt he was not the right man for the highly responsible position. But the emperor persisted, laughingly remarking that the nephew had too much of the modesty for which his famous uncle was noted. Count Helmuth is, indeed, a most modest man, as the American officers who have met him at the German army maneuvers can testify.

As head of the imperial military cabinet of the kaiser, Gen. Count Hurlsen von Haseler would play an important role should hostilities break out tomorrow between his country and another of the great powers. Now three years past man's alloteed span, the old fellow still has a lot of fight left in him, despite the fact that the Franco-Prussian war robbed him of two ribs and robust health at the same time. Since those stirring days the count has been deformed and got about with the aid of a silver brace.

It was von Haseler who had the honor of penning up and capturing Louis Napoleon. It is he who lives like an ascetic, that he may ever be in shape to take the field at a moment's notice. It is he who has the reputation of being the army's hardest worker and ist strictest disciplinarian. And he it is who has not hesitated to stop a soldier in a crowded city street and make him remove his shoes and socks that his general may see if his feet are in the cleanly condition prescribed for them in the army regulations. He's somewhat of a tartar, is old General von Haseler; and in his pictures he looks strikingly like the famous von Moltke.

Oku, Oyama, Yamagata, Terauchi, Kuroki—these are some of the Japanese warriors who would come to the front again were their country to be so unfortunate as to engage in war sometime within the next few months. And on the Russian side the names of a lot of generals who took part in the conflict with Japan would again be on the world's lips. Today, the czar himself is the actual as well as the nominal head of the Russian army; and in the role of commander-in-chief of an army he probably makes the poorest showing of any of his fellow rulers similarly placed, even Francis Joseph, with his weight of years, appearing to better advantage as head of the Austria-Hungarian forces.

In Gen. Henri de Lacroix the French army has a supreme commander who took part in the campaign of Rome and in the war with Germany, when he saw his only fighting, being then a sub-lieutenant. Gen. Saletta, chief of staff of the Italian army, and with rank next to that of his king, distinguished himself in several battles when the kingdom was being formed, and the halo of those old exploits is still kept above his brow by the Italian nation.

sion appointed to draft a new mining law, the opportunity was given to Mr. Molina to insert a drastic anti-foreign provision without the consent or knowledge of President Diaz or other high officials of the government. There is no possibility of this provision being enacted into law, but the publicity has been given to it and the bare fact that its proposal came from such a high official source as a member of the cabinet has done incalculable harm to foreign investments of capital in Mexico. It has had a very evil effect upon the financial department of the government, which is dependent just at this time upon the confidence and good will of foreign financial interests to make a success of the government railroad merger.

President Diaz, Vice President Corral and other high officials, have done what they could in a private way to correct and counteract the ill effects of the Molina proposition in merican and other foreign financial circles. President Diaz has decided that the best way out of the trouble is to send Mr. Molin back to Yucatan, where he is to be governor again.

AT THE LAKE COPPER MINES

on the present extensive scale for many years to come.

Drilling at the Wyandot.

Wyandot's diamond drilling in the horizon of the Lake lode, expects to tap the lode within the next three or four days. The drill hole has attained a depth of 420 feet. Considerable trouble was had in sinking the sand pipe, through 134 feet of overburden, during which operation the pipe collapsed, necessitating its removal and resulting in the loss of nearly a week's time. The drill is now running in solid rock and excellent progress is being made. A drill hole put down in this same horizon and within 500 feet on the present hole, nearly five years ago, produced a core carrying a fair amount of copper, but nothing ever came of it. That the lode will show copper is therefore little doubted, but whether or not it will prove to be the Lake lode is more doubtful. A crosscut driving for the same lode from the bottom of an old shaft recently deepened to 700 feet, is in over 250 feet and should encounter the lode within six months.

GREAT VEINS ARE EXPOSED

sixty feet, the ore being of good grade. Now the Silver Belt is informed that the crosscut in Block 3, 100 feet further west, on the same level, has cut the sulphide vein. This crosscut is 600 feet farther west than the openings in the sulphide vein on the fourteenth, made last year, and which aroused so much interest.

Developments at the east end of the mine are no less important. The drifts on the tenth and twelfth levels continue in the richet osre yet encountered. The tenth level drift is in native copper and cuprite ore that goes 40 to 50 per cent, and the twelfth level drifts show a full breast or glance ore almost equally as rich The ores on both levels carry good values in silver. An upraise from the tenth, is now fifty feet above the level in fine ore, and an upraise from the tenth only lacks forty feet of connecting with the eighth level. The ore in this upraise runs high in copper, and assays forty ounces in silver to the ton. These openings are all in the Gladiator claim of the United Globe. Stopes will soon be opened and when these phenomenally rich ores and high grade sulphides from the fourteenth level are sent to the smelter a record output of copper should result. Sinking continues in shaft A and D shaft on the west side of Pinal creek. The big station at the sixth level in B shaft is not yet finished.

* * *

At the Superior & Boston property a good start has been made to sink the new working shaft for the Great Eastern mine. The location of the shaft is on the Copper Money claim of the Collins & Doyle group, which has been acquired by the Superior & Boston company, and is distant from the present Great Eastern shaft over 1,000 feet to a northerly direction. The Great Eastern mine continues to show improvement, and that it will rank among the best copper mines in the district. Ore shipments continue from the Great Eastern mine. The stope looks as well as ever, and the grade of the ore is holding up well—a recent assay of ore from the roof of the stope showing 9 per cent copper and five ounces of silver.

* * *

For several days an engineer has been reconnoitering in the vicinity of the Eureka shaft, with the view of locating a site for the smelter, which the Arizona Commercial Copper company has planned to erect. In all probability, the plant will be located on the Pontiac claim, some 800 or 900 feet northwest of the Eureka shaft. It is expected that the contracts for structural steel and machinery for the plant will be placed within the next few weeks, and the smelter should be completed late in the spring of 1909. The capacity of the plant is to be 300 tons, but will be arranged with the expectation of its enlargement when greater capacity shall be needed.

is succeeded by Luther G. Brewer of Ironwood, who for some time past has been assistant superintendent. Mr. Thompson is a geologist, as well as a mining engineer, and in his work on the Gogebic he has been eminently successful. It was under his direction and as a result of his scientific deductions that there were discovered at depth in the Newport mine the new ore bodies which have made that property one of the greatest underground mines in the Lake Superior region, and which have led to similar highly important developments elsewhere on the same formation. It was with great reluctance that his resignation was accepted.

Among his other interests Mr. Thompson is associated with M. A. Hanna & Co. in the ownership of the American mine, a few miles to the west of Ishpeming, Marquette range. The developments there are very satisfactory. The property has been unwatered, the shaft deepened and new levels opened during the months that the present operators have had the mine; various buildings have been erected, the work has been started on the construction of a boiler house, 52 by 46 feet in ground dimensions and with thirty-two-foot walls. The product of the mine is a high grade, hard non-bessemer ore that commands a good price in the market. The American probably points the way to the possibilities of the district lying to the west of Ishpeming, and in which considerable diamond drill work has been done the past few years. In fact, it is stated by Former State Mineral Statistician G. A. Newett that very important discoveries have been made, discoveries that mean the opening of future mines that will keep up the volume of shipments from the Marquete range for many years to come.

More Mines in Sight.

In the Negaunce basin of the Marquette district deep exploratory work also has been productive of highly significant results. That in addition to the mines brought to the shipping list within the past few years, there are others awiting development, is a statement backed by what has been found beneath the surface by the diamond drills. It was in this field that the first ore discovered in the Lake Superior region was found upwards of six decades ago, yet it will still be a great many years before the deposits are exhausted. A promising district is the Cascade field, some five miles south of Negaunee and where the Empire, Volunteer and other mines are located. The ore so far found has not been of high grade, but it will be no surprise if bessemer deposits are discovered at greater depth than yet sought for. The field is a large one and has not yet been given extensive exploration.

For the purpose of taking the waters of Partridge creek away from the Steel corporation's Regent group of mines at Negaunee, and which now endanger the underground workings, a launder of large capacity is in course of construction. The conduit will be nearly 1,500 feet in length.

After being in continuous operation for nine years, the Gladstone, Mich., furnace of the Cleveland Cliffs Iron company has gone out of blast, to permit of repairs The stack will be relined and the plant in general given an overhauling. All three of the company's blast furnaces are now on the idle list, but the big North Marquette stack will resume operations shortly. Repairs have been in progress for a number of months past.

"With a harbor frontage of forty-five miles; with electrical power from the St. Louis falls, second only to that of Niagara; with iron and steel at her doors, and with the world market behind her, Duluth, already the largest coal receiving port in the world, posesses manufacturing advantages beyond those of any other city on the continent with the exception of Buffalo.

"As a member of the Steel Corporation said to me, if steel and only a few natural advantages made Pittsburg what it is—what will steel and all the natural advantages in the world do for Duluth?"
JAMES OLIVER CURWOOD in Putnam's Magazine for September.

This is the city in which property is yet bringing half its value. We have for sale 200 acres of water front property between West Duluth and the Steel Plant.

Two 40-acre tracts in West Duluth surrounded by platted property.

150 lots in Oneota. Twice that number in Sixth division and other divisions at West Duluth.

We have the greater part of the choice unappropriated building sites on the ridge in the East end, as well as in the high class restricted district about the Normal School and eastward to the street car line—the property that will double in the next twelve months. Let us show you.

PLENTY OF INQUIRY IN REAL ESTATE MARKET

Few Transfers Reported During the Week, But There is a Strong Demand for Residences and Good Building Lots.

Though actual transfers, closed and ready for the great white light of publicity, are as scarce as the proverbial dental equipment of a hen, the smile of the real estate man beams just as brightly as ever. His placid brow gives no indication of financial worry, and the click of the typewriters in his office presages deals to come with bread-winning commissions behind them.

While inquiry is good, the real estate man never exhibits a corrugated forehead to the world. Only when he is forced to go out and rustle up purchasers does his mind become troubled. When the chase is for sellers, there is no occasion to worry, for while demand continues the supply will be found.

Inquiry is the whole thing in the local market at present and the man, who lists a desirable piece of property and doesn't set his expectations beyond the line of reason, can usually get his price. People want homes. Desirable homes, all ready for occupancy, aren't to be found for sale in very great numbers, so that the man who wants his own home is put to the expedient of building it, if he is to secure any kind of satisfaction. As a result, vacant properties in residence sections of the city are being transferred in greater numbers than for a long time past and they are bringing good prices. The man who builds a home does so for permanency. He only does it once in a life time probably and then he goes in for the best he can get with the available money. If he wants a particular piece of property he is willing to pay the price and pieces of property, which have been gaps in stately lines of fine residences, will be graced with buildings of their own before a year has passed.

Loan agents and associations report good business in loaning money to home-builders. Money to go into buildings is in demand. People realize that the time is right, with labor and materials lower than they will be for a long time again, it is believed. Though they may not have the money now, they are willing to mortgage their homes to get the benefit of the building conditions now, and the result is that money is in demand at a fair rate of interest, and the real estate men and contractors are reaping the harvest.

* * *

The principal development this week in the building line was the announcement that Duluth is to have a new modern hotel. Bray & Nystrom are preparing the plans, or have orders to do so, for a first-class hotel, for which the backers believe there is room in Duluth. The Levin property, on the northwest corner of Fifth avenue west and Superior street, is said to be the location.

It is understood that Eastern parties are putting up the money for the hotel, and W. T. Bray's trip to New York is said to be partly to confer with them and partly to study the architectural features of some of the hotels of the East. On his return the details of the plans and the site for the new hotel will probably be announced.

* * *

The East end continues in the limelight on account of big deals in choice residence property. Most of the deals are in vacant properties, a forerunner to a building boom for next summer, but a few completed residences have changed hands. One of these was the William Dalrymple home at 1517 East Superior street, which was this week purchased by C. R. Rust. The consideration is not announced. The residence, which has been temporarily occupied by Ward Ames, Jr., will soon be occupied by Mr. Rust.

* * *

Emily L. Fee has sold to Henry Feer the northerly fifty feet of lots 15 and 16, block 87, Endion division, for $1,200. The lots are on the corner of Thirteenth avenue east and Second street.

* * *

Bereth Halden has sold to James S. Graves lots 7 and 8, block 3, Wooster division, on the northwest corner of Twenty-fifth avenue east and Third street, for $4,100.

* * *

Henry L. Winter has sold to Carl F. Rowe, lot 16, block 27, East Lawn division, on Woodland avenue, between Twenty-first avenue east and Garden street, for $5,000.

* * *

Caroline V. Cram has sold to Mary E. Mauseau, lot 9, block 18, Endion division, for $1685. The property is on the northwest corner of South street and Fifteenth avenue east.

* * *

Dorothea Brettell has sold to Edward Downie a small tract of land lying within thirtyfive feet of the western boundary of lot 10, block 43, Endion division, for $2,200. The property is on the north side of Jefferson street, just west of Seventeenth avenue east.

* * *

Aloysius Fortman has sold to Edward Mendenhall lot 6, block 54, Endion d[illegible] the south side of Superior street, between Twentieth and Twenty-first avenue east, for $3,000.

STUCCO HOME WHICH WOULD COST $7,000 TO BUILD IN DULUTH

The attractiveness of the stucco house is here again illustrated. It is rapidly gaining favor throughout the country for the modern home, and the possibilities are unlimited. It is practical in every sense, durable in all kinds of weather, and does not require painting and repainting in after years, as does the ordinary frame house with siding. The advantages of the stucco house are numerous, and while it is a trifle more expensive than siding, its first cost is saved many times over in the years to come.

The floor plans accompanying this design have been carefully studied. The main rooms have an abundance of space and light, while the service portions are not unnecessarily large, thereby making the whole a neat and compact arrangement.

The loggia and terrace, with its pretty tiled floor, gives plenty of floor space out of doors, while the little front porch, also of tile, serves merely as a covering for the entrance.

The living room has a large fireplace, exposed ceiling beams, a sufficient amount of glass area and plenty of wall space for the various pieces of furniture necessary for this room. The cased opening between the hall and this room is directly opposite the fireplace, the two being connected by heavy ceiling beams, a feature greatly enhancing the effect of the living room.

From the main hall the dining room is reached. This room is planned to accommodate a small family, and is well lighted. Connecting it with the kitchen is the spacious pantry, which has an abundance of cupboard space, and also a pastry table, underneath of which are the flour bins and drawers.

The kitchen, properly called the "kitchenette," is arranged in the most compact way possible. Cupboards are placed here and there, almost within reach of one another. The recessed work table has plenty of light. Drawers and cupboards are placed below, a feature especially appreciated by the housekeeper. The range and sink are also conveniently placed. Light and ventilation, one of the main features in connection with the kitchenette, have been properly cared for.

Rear stairs to the second story and basement have been planned to start from the pantry.

A small den has been planned, opening from the dining room, and is sufficiently large to accommodate a few of the smallest pieces of furniture peculiar to this type of room.

In the second story is the main chamber, guest chamber, sun room and large bath room, all in connection with the front hall, arranged as the family portion of this story. The servants' portion is separated by a door between the front and rear halls. A small bath room has been arranged in connection with the servants' portion. Linen and broom closets are also here. In the guest and main chambers are fireplaces.

Access to the attic is made in connection with the front staircase. The attic has been planned with two chambers and a store room.

Including hot water heat, plumbing and electric lighting, hardwood floors throughout the first and second stories, the finish and painting as ordinarily required, the estimated cost to build such a home in or around Duluth would be $7,000.

Kern in the South.

Huntington, W. Va., Oct. 10.—John W. Kern, the Democratic vice presidential candidate ,reached here this morning from Clifton Forge, Va., and left two hours later for Point Pleasant where he spoke at noon. He returned at once and will address a meeting here tonight, which will conclude his southern speaking campaign. After a day or two in his home in Indianapolis, Mr. Kern will start on an eastern tour.

Injunction Is Upheld.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—Considerably modified with a number of its paragraphs vacated the federal court injunction issued against the Iron Moulders' union of Milwaukee, during the strike at the plants of the Allis-Chalmers company several years ago, was upheld today by the United States circuit court of appeals. The decision was reached by Judges Grosscup, Baker and Seaman.

A WOMAN'S APPEAL

To all knowing sufferers of rheumatism, whether muscular or of the joints, sciatica, lumbago, backache, pains in the kidneys or neuralgia pains, to write to her for a home treatment which has repeatedly cured all of these tortures. She feels it her duty to send it to all sufferers FREE. You cure yourself at home as thousands will testify—no change of climate being necessary. This simple discovery banishes uric acid from the blood, loosens the stiffened joints, purifies the blood, and brightens the eyes, giving elasticity and tone to the whole system. If the above interests you, for proof address Mrs. M. Summers, Box R, South Bend, Ind.

OWNS HALF OF A HORSE

Martin Hughes is Part Owner of Racing Nag.

His Fellow Townsman Suspects a Deeply Laid Plot.

Of course, Mr. Martin Hughes didn't have the least idea that he was going to become the part owner of Adrian the Kid, mark 2:19¼. He didn't have the least suspicion of it; in fact, if you had told him that he was to become joint owner of the Kid, he would have laughed outright at you.

But nevertheless, Mr. Hughes owns half of the horse that proved about the whole show on Northwestern tracks.

Mr. John Kleffman of Hibbing, fellow townsman of Mr. Hughes, has a stand-in with the Goddess of Chance. As instances of his standing with the fickle goddess, let it be stated that he has won every pair of shoes offered for high shakes at the St Louis hotel cigar stand; that he has won innumerable other things that have been raffled; and that finally Mr. Kleffman's monumental luck caused him to be barred, frowned upon, as it were, by the owner of the cigar stand.

And so it was that when the owner of Adrian the Kid, with a mark of 2:19¼, decided to raffle off his fast little steed at the close of the races of the Duluth Driving park, the friends of Mr. Kleffman urged him to take a chance upon the horse. The tickets were one bone apiece, or a dollar if you insist. Mr. Kleffman followed the advice of his friends and plunged on Adrian the Kid.

Now the results of the raffle were not announced until recently. Mr. Hughes, just to be accommodating to the owner of the Kid, who wished to dispose of the horse before he returned South, bought one of the tickets. Then he thought of the freakish luck that had followed many of Mr. Kleffman's flirtings with the fickle Goddess of Chance. He approached Mr. Kleffman deftly, to be sure, and proposed that they pool their chances upon securing the nag, which possessed a mark of 2:19¼.

It is hard to refuse a fellow townsman, so Mr. Kleffman readily agreed to pool his chance with that of Mr. Hughes. Of course, they agreed, neither of them had the least chance of securing the horse.

Now the funny part of the matter was that the horse was raffled off in Hibbing, at about 2 o'clock in the afternoon. The agreement to pool the tickets was made going up on the Hibbing train, which doesn't leave the city until after 3 o'clock. So at the time that Mr. Hughes proposed to pool ticket, tshe Adrian Kid was in the rightful possession of Mr. Kleffman, had he only known it.

Some person, very fond of a practical joke, told Mr. Kleffman that it was known here, before the Hibbing train left this city, that he had won the horse. This is not so, but Mr. Kleffman is wondering whether he blindly threw away half of Adrian the Kid, or whether his friends are simply kidding him.

Incidentally it may be said that one enthusiastic horseman upon the range plunged to the extent of buying forty tickets on Adrian the Kid, which simply goes to show that sheer luck has system lashed to the mizen mast in any game of chance.

WANTS BOARD TO TAKE CHARGE

Women's Council Urges Need of Vacation Manual Training Schools.

Those who have been in touch with the work of the manual training schools, which were maintained during the summer months by the Women's Council, are greatly pleased at the work which was accomplished and the members of the Council are desirous that the school board take over the work another year. The report of the committee in charge of the schools has been prepared by the chairman, Mrs. J. P. Kilgorin and is as follows:

"In the reform schools all over the country manual training is given first importance for it is quite generally acknowledged that work with the hands in an industrial school is the best development for a boy who cannot be controlled at home by his parents. If this kind of education supplies so much to the wayward boy, why not provide the industrial education as a prevention rather than as a cure. If this hand work is such a moral tonic, as well as being the development it is in various other ways, is it not very important that more manual training should be provided for our Duluth boys.

"Under the direction of the Women's Council two schools for manual work have been maintained during the summer's vacation of 1908. One of these schools was in the high school manual training department for a term of two months, and the other in the Irving school manual training rooms at West Duluth for a period of five weeks. These schools accommodated 160 boys each day, the teachers having twenty boys in each class for a period of one and a half hours.

"Various useful articles were made by the boys, such as tool boxes, ironing boards, towel holders, glove boxes, book shelves, foot stools, candle sticks, coat hangers, etc.

"Three boys came all the way from Lakeside each morning to the high school building and others walked from the West end and from the hill. The interest in this work was remarkable. One could enter the rooms of workers any day and find the boys so absorbed in what they were making, that unless you addressed them, you very likely remained unnoticed. Many parents have remarked that when the boys returned from school they had some plan to work out for the remainder of the day—some suggestion they had gotten at school, and which they worked out at home—things they did not have time to do in school. Thus instead of sitting idly on the front steps wondering what to do, they had a healthful and self-chosen purpose in vacation; and, aside from acquiring a skillful use of tools, they were happy workers eager to carry out some idea to a practical purpose.

"The Women's Council feels that since we are to have the three months' vacation next year these vacation manual training schools are an absolute need, and would recommend that the board of education take up the work begun and enlarge upon it, so that the boys in all parts of the city may be given an opportunity to attend a vacation manual training school for at least two months each year."

ST. LUKE'S HOSPITAL

The annual donation day falls on Saturday, October 17th. The public has been very generous to the hospital recently, but many friends have delayed giving their usual donations till this date. Money is needed, jelly, fruit, groceries, bed linen, indeed everything for housekeeping will be very thankfully received at the hospital on that day.

ADDITIONAL SOCIETY NEWS

The Misses Sarah and Dora Polinsky entertained Thursday evening in honor of the first wedding anniversray of Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Nides of Hibbing. Decorations of pink and white were used and twenty-four guests were entertained.

The first of a series of informal afternoons in honor of the mothers of the young girls who attend the West end sewing school, was held this afternoon at the rooms in the basement of St. Luke's church. The school is under the auspices of the Twentieth Century club with Mrs. A. L. Agatin as director. Nearly one hundred of the young girls of the West end have been regular attendants at the school since is was organized last spring, and during the summer a number of informal treats were planned in their honor. At the conclusion of the lesson this afternoon an informal and delightful tea party was held with the mothers as the guests of honor. Several other similar affairs will be planned for the winter.

FANS SORELY DISAPPOINTED

Hundreds Wait for Sunday Game Seats; Are Disappointed.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—Baseball enthusiasts were aroused today by the manner in which the sale of seats for the world's championship series is being conducted. After standing in line yesterday for hours in the hope of securing the much coveted coupons hundreds of people were turned away without tickets last night with the announcement that the sale would be opened at the same place today. Large crowds assembled early this morning at the appointed spot and again stood in line awaiting the opening of the sale.

After waiting patiently for several hours, policemen, who had been detailed to the scene, announced that the only place to secure the same was at the West Side ball park. Those who had stood in line since early morning were thus deprived of all the advantage gained by their long wait and were compelled to travel over to the west side of the city, there to take their chances anew for favorable positions in the line.

MEETING OF CURLERS

Annual Gathering of Duluth Club Will be Held Tuesday.

Talk of Holding a Charity Bonspiel During the Winter.

On Tuesday evening, Oct. 13, the Duluth Curling club members will hold a meeting on the new trading floor of the board of trade, to inaugurate the curling season.

Every year there is more interest being taken in the popular game and the coming year will undoubtedly be the most successful season the game has ever enjoyed at the Head of the Lakes.

The Superior Curling club is building a new rink, and when it is completed they will have one of the finest curling rinks in the Northwest. Enthusiasm across the boy is running high and their membership is now over 200.

The Western Curling club of West Duluth is making some improvements at their rink and is increasing its membership. For the short time this club has been organized they have made wonderful progress both in playing the game and in building up a fine curling club. They have this year sent direct to Scotland for new curling stones and they say the club that wins the Manley-McLennan trophy this winter will know they have been curling.

The Duluth club won the Manley-McLennan trophy last season, defeating both Superior and West Duluth. This year, under the new rules Superior and West Duluth will play down, and the winner will then play Duluth for the trophy. The clubs have always made a hard fight for this trophy, and competition this year will be stronger than ever.

The Duluth club will add several more events for competition among their members, and there is considerable talk of holding a charity bonspiel here this winter. The ladies as well as the men participate in these 'spiels, and they are always a great success.

The charity 'spiel held at Winnipeg last year was a phenomenal success, over three hundred rinks participating, the women being almost as numerous as the men. All it requires to enter the charity 'spiel is $1, and anyone with that amount is eligible. Only six ends are played to a game, and when a gentleman plays opposite, or has a lady opponent, he must play left handed, or if a southpaw, must use his right hand.

St. Paul will hold the Northwestern bonspiel this year and it is expected that a large number of rinks from the Head of the Lakes will be in attendance. St. Paul is already making preparations for this popular event and it will no doubt be a success.

From the way new members are filing applications for membership in the Duluth Curling club, it looks as though the full membership of 300 would be reached early this season.

The Superior Curling club will have a hockey team this winter and it is more than likely that the Duluth club will also put a team on the ice to uphold the hockey honrs for Duluth.

Missionary Will Speak.

Rev. Theodore Gulick, one of a family of famous missionaries, will be the speaker tomorrow evening at the service at Pilgrim Congregational church. Mr. Gulick will have as his subject "Missions in the Isles of the Sea," with special reference to the work on the Hawaiian islands, where Mr. Gulick has himself been a missionary. He also has been on the mission field in Japan. Mr. Gulick was in attendance at the state conference here last year, and his return visit is by special request.

At the morning service, the pastor, Rev. Alexander Milne, will speak on "The Things That Cannot Be Shaken."

FALLING TREE FATAL.

Marquette, Mich., Oct. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Struck by a falling tree, Thomas Urfurt, supposed to be from Chicago, was killed while at work near here. He was 40.

BIG TIMBER MAN DEAD.

Calumet, Mich., Oct. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—John S. Morrison, aged 67 years, the largest timber jobber in the Copper country, and owning large tracts of timber, died today of a complication of diseases. He was a prominent Mason and very wealthy.

IS NOTHING NEW.

Inventors Get Most of Their Ideas From Plants and Animals.

The ideas for most of the things man has invented for his own use have been taken from animals and plants—copied, says the London Express.

In the webbed feet of aquatic birds and the hind feet of the frog we have the prototypes of the feathering floats of the paddle wheels of steamships, and the principle of feathering a pair of oars when rowing.

Fishes use their swimming bladder to descend by ejecting the air, and to ascend by refilling the air bag. This principle has been largely used in shipbuilding. Water-tight partitions are made to divide the vessel into a number of air chambers.

The claws of the crab and lobster resemble closely a gasfitter's pliers, having teeth-like projections all along the inner portion to increase their grip. It is the lower portion which moves; this portion works on a hinge or fulcrum. The motion is applied by means of a strong muscle attached to a cartilaginous blade.

Some West Indian crabs can use only the extreme ends of their claws. In this respect they resemble the ordinary carpenter's pincers.

There is nothing new in the rams of modern men-of-war to enable one ship to charge another. It is the device of the swordfish of the Indo-Pacific ocean. Its upper jaw has a long beak or ram, by means of which it can pierce not only fish, but the sides of timber-built ships.

Even the plants have forestalled human inventions. Nearly everybody, perhaps, has wondered why the stems of nearly all plants and the trunks and branches of trees are round instead of any other shape. The existence of tall plants and trees depends largely on the wind force. And a tree with square trunk and branches would offer so much resistance to the wind that it would be continually having its branches snapped.

It is for the same reason that engineers build tall chimneys and piers for bridges round in section in preference to any other form.

The stem of bamboos, grasses, wheat, oats, etc., are hollow, although they grow to great heights in comparison to their thickness. One might naturally suppose that to gain strength as they grew the stems ought to be solid at the base, but it is not so. Careful experiments have proved that a solid column subject to bending strains is no stronger than a hollow one of the same diameter.

Consequently all iron shafts are made hollow. And the steel shafts which drive the screws of steamships have a hole bored down the center to reduce the weight. But this does not reduce the strength.

The thickness of the branches of trees is in proportion to the weight to be borne. Horizontal branches, such as those of the cedar and elm, are much thicker than the almost vertical branches of the poplar. The average natural factor in breaking is about one in ten, exclusive of wind pressure, and engineers employ a factor of six in building with timber.

The art of weaving, rope and net-making is practiced by some of the lower forms of life, notably among caterpillars and spiders. The weaver birds of Africa and India, which are a species of finch, construct wonderful nests out of leaves by sewing them together.

RETALIATED.

When Bernard S. Rodney, now a judge in Porto Rico, was the delegate in congress from New Mexico, he used to get furious because members would introduce bills relating to New Mexico without first consulting him. He declared it brought him into the contempt of his constituents.

One day "Charlie" Curtis of Kansas, now Senator Charles Curtis, introduced a bill setting aside 100,000 acres of land in New Mexico as a ranch for the breeding of buffalo.

A couple of days later Curtis was amazed to find in his batch of printed bills one providing that 100,000 acres should be set aside in Atchison county, Kan., which was in Curtis's district, as a ranch for the breeding of prairie dogs. Rodney had introduced it.

ABOUT A FAMOUS PICTURE.

"The late O. H. P. Belmont," said a New York picture dealer, "was a profound admirer of the painter Turner. He liked especially Turner's 'Carthage,' and one day he told me an odd story about it.

"Turner" he said "kept 'Carthage' for years. If you wanted to buy it, he'd ask you 500 pounds; on your acceptance, he'd say on second thought he must ask you 750 pounds; and if you again accepted, the price would go up to 1,000 pounds. So on indefinitely.

"Turner for years declared that he would be buried with 'Carthage' wrapped about his corpse. One day he said to Chantrey, his executor:

"'Chantrey, if in my will I order you to bury me like that with 'Carthage' for my shroud, you will obey, won't you?'

"'Certainly,' said Chantrey. 'I'll bury you rolled up in your picture, if it is one of the conditions of your will, and the next day I'll dig you up and unroll you.'"

KING EDWARD'S RACEHORSES.

Westminster Gazette: Probably no owner ever had such a persistent run of bad luck as his majesty during the early years of his racing career. At his first modest appearance on a racecourse, thirty-seven years ago, his horse Champion had the misfortune to fall early in the race, and although he made a game effort to recover lost ground he could only finish second.

Six years later:—at his second appearance—at the Newmarket July meeting, his horse Alep was badly beaten by Lord Strathnairn's Avowal, and it was not until 1880 that Leonidas II, ridden by Capt. Wentworth Hope-Johnstone, scored his first victory in the Aldershot cup.

Six years more elapsed, making fifteen years in all from his racing debut, before the royal colors were carried to victory for the first time in flat racing, when, amid a scene of great enthusiasm, Counterpane, ridden by Archer, won a maiden plate at Sandown.

China is buying lumber from British Columbia. It is largely needed for railway construction. American lumber is shipped to Shanghai. On one day of his recent visit four full cargoes of Oregon pine arrived there, says the Canadian trade commissioner at Yokohama.

MILADY OF LUXURY:

Do you pride yourself upon having an out-of-town Decorator brought here to re-beautify your home? If so, you probably flatter yourself that your home is more artistic and better appointed in its decorative scheme than it could be if entrusted to local art-ability.

Now Suppose that you send to New York or Chicago and secure a man of such ability and renown that he carries diplomas from prominent art schools of Norway, Germany and France—a man whom William K. Vanderbilt has entrusted with the decoration of his Long Island home—whom Charles M. Schwab employed for the beautification of his Riverside Drive mansion, and who has satisfied the demands of J. Pierpont Morgan—and again, a man who has made beautiful the State Capitol of our state, and Chicago's Haymarket and Majestic Theatres—We Say, if you had been fortunate enough to secure such a man, would you not rest assured that you had outdone the ordinary by securing the best that the country offered?

Do You Know that this very man is in your Own City, at Your Service and backed by a reliable firm that stands ready to make right any fallibility?—Yes, H. A. Hall & Company offer you such service as this—Every man of their employ is master of his profession. Personal supervision attends all work, and all work stands under guarantee until it has out-lasted other decorative service.

Strength of American Wheat Markets Shows No Abatement.

Flax Weak at Opening, But Steadies at Close.

Duluth Board of Trade, Oct. 10.—Although weaker for the first few minutes of trading today, wheat advanced in all of the American markets. The buying that has been the feature of the market for the past week or ten days was again in evidence and prices showed quite a steady advance.

This heavy buying is not without some mystery. No one seems to really know who is behind the extravagant bulls and what their intentions are, but there is a feeling that they are seeking to take the stock out of the market and keep it there, squeezing the shorts and making bulders pay good prices.

Berlin closed ¾c lower, Antwerp unchanged.

The December option closed ⅞c higher in Duluth, Minneapolis and New York, ⅞@⅞c higher in Chicago, ⅞@½c higher in St. Louis and Kansas City and ¼c lower in Winnipeg. The May option closed ½c higher in Duluth, ⅝@⅞c higher in Chicago, ⅞c higher in Minneapolis, ½c higher in New York, ⅝@⅞c higher in St. Louis and Kansas City and ¼c lower in Winnipeg.

December corn closed ⅛c higher in Chicago and December oats were ⅛@¼c higher at the close there.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool:

Wheat—The market at the opening was heavy under larger offerings, prompted by the easier American cables yesterday, advance in consols and the buoyancy of the stock market. Crop Ofil advices from both Australia and Argentina continue excellent and the demand for spot was quiet, which led to further selling to owing the opening. Toward the close there was some disposition shown on the part of shorts to cover and a slight recovery took place. Cargo arrivals are still insignificant and predictions are for smaller world's shipments this week. At this time, the market was steady although values showed a decline of ⅝d from Friday.

Corn was steady at the start and unchanged. Later, there was some realizing in sympathy with what, the nearby month easing ½d."

Winnipeg received 424 against 397 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 1,670,000 bus, last year 944,000 bus. Shipments, 258,000 bus., last year 566,000 bus. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 441,000 bus.

Primary receipts of corn were 257,000 bus, last year 682,000 bus. Shipments, 506,000 bus, last year 671,000 bus. Clearances of corn were 6,000 bus.

Wheat was active in the Duluth market. December wheat opened ½c lower at $1.02¾, went to $1.02⅝, declined to $1.02½, rallied to $1.03, declined to $1.02¾ and closed at $1.02⅝, a gain of ⅛c over yesterday. May wheat opened ⅝c lower at $1.06¼, went off to $1.06, rallied to $1.06⅜ and closed at that price, a gain of ¼c over yesterday.

Durum wheat closed ⅛c lower and easy spring wheat was selling on a basis of 1½c over December for No. 1 Northern.

Flax was quite active and somewhat irregular. Prices went off during the first hour, but became steadier toward the close. October flax opened unchanged at $1.22¾, declined to $1.22½, rallied to $1.22¾ and closed at that price, unchanged from yesterday. November flax opened unchanged at $1.23, declined to $1.22½, rallied to $1.23 and closed at that price, unchanged from yesterday. December flax opened ½c lower at $1.21 advanced to $1.21¼ and closed at that price, ¼c lower than yesterday. May flax opened ¼c lower at $1.26¼, declined to $1.25½, rallied to $1.26 and closed there, a loss of ½c from yesterday.

Barley was marked off a cent for higher grades and the other coarse grains were unchanged.

Following were the closing prices:

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Nervousness Over Foreign Situation is Somewhat Lessened.

Minneapolis, Oct. 10.—Cables were ⅝d lower when Liverpool closed and there was some nervousness over the foreign situation, but not so much as yesterday. Locally the receipts were 672 cars against 166 in Duluth, 385 against 388 and in Winnipeg 424 compared with 247. Elevator stocks here made the increase of 2,342,280 bushels for the week, which brings the total up to 7,979,888 and for one day to go into next week there is an additional increase of 325,000. The market sold down almost a cent. Then it rallied sharply and closed firmly. Advices of dry weather southwest had their effect and there was also covering by shorts who were afraid to be short over Sunday in view of the European uncertainties. December opened $1.02¼; high, $1.03; low, $1.02; close $1.02⅞. May closed $1.07.

Cash market conditions were best so far this season. Millers, elevators and shippers paid 2c over December for No. 1 Northern and December prices to ½c over for No. 2. Additional to big sales yesterday to arrive, there was more business on that basis today and some sellers were holding choice No. 1 at ¼c over. Close: No. 1 Northern spot or to arrive, $1.01⅝; No. 2 Northern spot, $1.02⅜@$1.03⅜; to arrive, $1.02⅝; No. 3 wheat, 98@$1.01.

No. 3 yellow corn, 75¾c.

No. 3 white oats, 46⅜c.

No. 2 rye, 70¾@71¾c.

Barley—receipts, 93 cars against 119 last year; shipments, 49 cars. Firmness ruled and prices were ½c higher on some lots. Excellent demand continues. Close: 52½@55c.

Flax; receipts, 75 cars; shipments, 27. Demand fair at ¾c under Duluth October, most of the sales at $1.22. Close, $1.21¾.

Millstuffs steady at $17.50@18.00 for bran in bulk.

A big demand developed yesterday for flour and sales were heavy today. Millers are conservative and are probably entering more business than they voluntarily report, but they do not deny that in the past day or two business has increased materially and that they are booked ahead to a considerable extent. Shipments 61,536 barrels. First patents, $5.70@6.00; second patents, $5.60@5.75; first clears, $4.45@4.55; second clears, $3.50@3.60.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Offerings Liberal at Opening, Below Friday's Final Quotations.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—Less apprehension over the political situation in Europe was felt by traders in the wheat pit on the local exchange today, owing to an advance in the price of British consols, and because of a decline in wheat prices at Liverpool. As a result offerings were liberal at the opening, which was ⅛@¼c to ½c below yesterday's final quotations. Part of the loss was regained during early trading, but sentiment favored the bears. December opened at $1.00½ to $1.00¾, sold up to $1.01 and then back again to $1.00¾. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 1,043 cars, against 1,441 cars last week and 636 cars a year ago.

The market became strong during the last hour of trading, due partly to a report of unfavorable weather in Argentina. December advanced to $1.01⅝. The close was strong at net gains of ⅛@⅝c to ⅝@¾c, with December at $1.01⅝.

Favorable weather for the maturing of the new crop brought out moderate sales of corn at the start, which resulted in initial declines of ⅛c to ¼c. The market rallied a trifle partly on account of liberal shipments of cash grain from here during the week. December opened 64⅛@⅝c to 64⅝c and sold up to 64¾@⅞c. Local receipts were 113 cars with 28 of contract grade.

The market acquired some firmness from the strength of wheat. December advancing to 65c. The close was steady with December ⅛c higher at 64⅞c.

Trade in oats was quiet and the market was steady. December opened ⅛c lower at 49c, and sold at 49¼c. Local receipts were 213 cars.

Provisions were inclined to be weak, because of selling by pit traders. At the opening prices were 2½@5c to 10c lower than the previous close, and further declines were made early in the day.

Close: Wheat—December, $1.01⅝; May, $1.04⅜@1.04½; July, 98¾c. Corn—October, 74c; December, 64⅝c; May, 64¾c; July, 63⅜c. Oats—December, 49¼c; May, 51¾c; July, 47c. Pork—October, $15.25; January, $15.67½; May, $15.50. Lard—October, $9.65; November, $9.70; January, $9.35; May, $9.27½. Ribs—October, $9.25; January, $8.30@8.32½; May, $8.35. Rye—Cash, 76c; December, 77¼c; May, 81c. Barley—Cash, 56⅝c to 61⅝c. Timothy—October, $3.50@3.60; March, $3.72½@3.77½. Clover—October, $9. Edward C. Jordan has just returned from the north shore, where he inspected the claims of the Jasper Copper company, near Port Arthur. He says everything at the property is looking better than ever and brought back with him specimens, which showed up better than any which have yet been shown from the Jasper formations.

THE HURRY FAD.

"Mr. Cleveland," said a Princeton lecturer, "had little sympathy with the rush and hurry that the American business man so complacently affects—no sympathy with train and boat dictation, with the lunch table telephone, the letter phonograph, and the other bluffs.

"'Don't rush so,' Mr. Cleveland once said to me, 'Lightning might do a great deal more if it wasn't always in such an awful hurry.'"

STOCKS ARE IRREGULAR

Trading Dull Throughout the Session and the Close Heavy.

Relaxation at London of Tension of the War Scare.

New York, Oct. 10.J—Early cables from London today indicated a relaxation of the tension of the war scare. This opened the way for some opening advances in stocks in the New York market. The demand was very scanty and there was a sprinkling of losses mixed with the prevailing gains. Union Pacific and Consolidated Gas rose 1¼, Canadian Pacific and Rock Island preferred 1 and Southern Pacific ⅝. Prices were shaded a fraction in the secondary operations.

When the advances in Union Pacific and Rock Island preferred were cancelled the market became quiet and irregular with strength showing in some of the low stocks. Prices were rising slowly again at 11 o'clock and the Harriman and metal stocks were becoming prominent.

The market closed heavy and dull. When Union Pacific rose to the best again there were several 1 to 1½ point gains reported in minor stocks. The movement was no better sustained than before, Rock Island preferred receding to 1 point below last night.

New York stock quotations furnished by Fred H. Merritt, 328 West Superior street.

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Oct. 10.—Barrett & Zimmerman report: Horses of all kinds change hands slowly. Receipts continue light but are in Zimmerman report: Horses of all kinds change supply of good, big heavy logging horses on hand. These horses are in extra fine condition on account of having been on feed at this market for some time, owing to the fact that the logging trade failed to develop as early as in former years.

DOLLAR BILLS BY WEIGHT.

Kansas City Star: "Dollar bills are worth almost their weight in gold," a bank president said the other day to a depositor.

"Yes, I suppose they come in handy for change and are easy to carry," the depositor replied absently.

"No, I was speaking literally," the bank president said. "We got into an argument in the bank here the other day as to how much a dollar bill weighed. A $20 gold piece weighs 540 grains. We found that twenty-seven crisp, new one dollar bills weigh the same as a twenty-dollar gold piece. We tested some bills than had been in use and found that it took but twenty-six of them to balance the gold piece. I suppose that twenty-six used bills gather an accumulation of dirt in passing from hand to hand that weighs about what one new bill does."

MAKING BOAT FROM A TREE.

Morehouse Hustler: Charles Holman is constructing a new boat. He discovered a catalpa tree that has a perfect shape for the purpose.

It will be constructed on the steamboat style, and the catalpa tree makes one solid piece from the top of the bow to the stern, it having just the curve necessary to make a good shape. The boat will be designed primarily for passenger service, will be about twenty-six feet long and be equipped with a six horse-power gasoline engine.

MARINE NEWS

MORE ACTIVITY ON THE LAKES

Grain is Going to Eastern Ports at a Great Rate.

Notwithstanding the great amount of talk relative to this year's shipping falling far behind that of last year, it is a fact that at this time last season grain had just begun to move down the lakes, while this year many cargoes are already safely stored in the elevators of the Eastern ports.

The rush has come exceptionally early this year, and it is estimated that already nearly half of the total amount to be shipped has already been sent.

Men who work in the elevators say that it has been the best grain season in years, and that from now until the close of navigation, grain will go forward as rapidly as the boats can load and get away. There is much more to be shipped this year than last, so that they expect to be kept busy up until the very last.

* * *

With the coming of colder weather, the coal trade has brightened up considerably, and the shipments now consigned to the West are very heavy. The boats, too, are busy bring it up from the lower lake ports, and they are coming up the lakes light no more.

* * *

Ore shipping is not as swift as it has been at this time in other years. Marine men say that there has been so little go down during the season that before long there will be a demand from the steel plants down East for more ore, and the season will then end with the biggest kind of a rush.

The Joseph G. Butler loaded and got away last night, with 388,000 bushels of flax, consigned to Buffalo.

The Minch loaded two holds with barley, and is finishing her cargo with wheat at the Great Northern. The John Lambert departed with 15,000 bushels of wheat for Kingston, and the Louisiana took 126,000 bushels of oats to Cleveland. The Rochester took 42,000 bushels of barley and 50,000 bushels of oats to Buffalo.

MANY LETTERS RECEIVED.

People From All Over City Interested in Harbor Rules.

On his return to the city Monday, Col. Fitch of the United States engineers will have his hands full reading the letters that have been received at the Government building relative to the proposed harbor changes.

Vessel captains, boat owners, citizens, steamship companies, have become interested and letters by the score have been received. The Park Point Civic club has asked that the rules be left as they are and it is thought that the sentiment is so strong against the changes that the rules as they stand will not be interfered with.

Contract Awarded.

The American Shipbuilding company of Cleveland yesterday awarded contracts for the construction of a new drydock at the Buffalo plant of the company on Ganson street. The new dock will take the place of two small drydocks. It will be 615 feet long by 110 feet wide. Work will be started at once.

Monard Released.

The steamer Joe S. Monard, stranded last week in the new West Nublish channel, has been released and will proceed to Chicago as soon as her lightered ore is reloaded. She was not damaged.

DEMOCRATS ARE INVITED

Republicans Extend Invitation to Political Opponents.

A committee of five leading Republican citizens has been appointed to act as the entertainment committee during the presence here of Governor Cummins of Iowa.

The committee was appointed by the Garfield Republican club, which with the members of the Republican county committee, will have active charge of the meeting Monday evening.

Today, through W. E. Culkin, chairman of the Republican county committee, a special invitation was issued to all the Democrats of this city to be present at the Monday evening speech of the Iowa governor. Mr. Culkin stated that the distinguished Iowan was the guest of the city of Duluth, and as such he wanted every citizen of whatever political faith, to feel that he was welcome at the armory Monday evening.

The members of the special committee, according to the present plans, will meet the Iowa governor at the train and escort him to his hotel. It is planned to have the citizens meet the Iowan in an informal manner, if his stay here will permit.

It was announced today that there would be no torchlight procession in connection with the Cummins speech, but that every Republican club of the city would attend the meeting in a body.

WILD MEN CONVERTED

Disciple Church Sunday School, Congo Free State, Has 1,000.

Missionary Conference Hears How Hard Times Hit Gospel.

New Orleans, Oct. 12.—Foreign missions today received the attention of the international missionary conference of the Churches of Christ. Mission study classes, reports and addresses filled a busy program of fully ten hours.

A. E. McLean of Cincinnati, president of the Foreign Missionary society, prefaced the annual reports of that body by the following summary:

"This society represents the people known as 'Christians,' or 'disciples of Christ.' Its agents are found in twelve different countries. This society has 154 American missionaries in its employment, and 416 native evangelists, teachers and helpers. Last year its medical missionaries treated 9,000 patients. The society maintains forty schools and colleges. The attendance at these last year was 3,388. In ten years the receipts have been trebled. In that time the force has been more than doubled."

The annual report of the society follows:

"Gains have been made all along the line this year, save in that of financial income. The hard times caused receipts to fall below those of last year, when they reached $305,000.

"At Bolenga, Africa, in the Congo Free State, we now have a church of nearly 500 members, a Sunday school of more than 1,000, and the largest Christian Endeavor society, with 400 members. The contributions of this church for missionary purposes this year amounted to more than $600, though the wages of the people are less than 10 cents a day.

"In the Philippine Islands nearly 1,000 have been baptized during the year. In China the mission schools are besieged by applicants for admission, and the hospitals by patients for treatment. One of our hospitals in China treated 36,000 patients this year. All of these patients are taught concerning Christianity.

DIES, AGED 110; WEDDED AT 102

Mrs. Decker Remembered Father's Stories of Washington's Army.

Seneca Falls, N. Y., Oct. 12.—Mrs. Charlotte Decker is dead here. She would have been 110 years old Nov. 17. Her father, Godfrey Reals, was a volunteer in the Colonial army and served until the colonies were free. Mrs. Decker could remember her father telling of the privations of the soldiers at Valley Forge, and remembered the year 1815, when no grain could be used and it was sold for $5 a bushel.

Mrs. Decker was married three times. The last time, at the age of 102 years to Samuel Decker, aged 62.

PARLIAMENT TO HEED UNEMPLOYED

British Legislation Will Clash Again Over Licensing Bill.

London, Oct. 12.—The autumn session of the British parliament was opened today. The most important measure up is the licensing bill. It will pass the house of commons, but in the house of lords it will be either thrown out or amended, and the controversy of last year thus will be renewed. It is believed that an agreement will be reached with respect to the education bill, and that this measure, being quickly passed, will make way for the introduction of another Irish land bill as well as measures dealing with the problem of the unemployed.

RUSSIAN BALLOON IS ON TRIAL AGAIN.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 12.—The trials of the Russian dirigible balloon which recently came to grief during a voyage over St. Petersburg, have been resumed. In a number of short flights it was maneuvered readily both vertically and horizontally. Owing to a motor defect the balloon was forced to descend at one time, but afterwards rose again under its own power.

ARRIVES TO RECEIVE AMERICAN FLEET.

Amoy, Oct. 12.—General Swoon, with 1,500 soldiers and 200 military, has arrived here from Foochow to take part in the reception to the American battleship fleet.

Pastor Goes to St. Paul.

Hartford, Conn., Oct. 12.—Rev. Harold Pattison, pastor of the First Baptist church here, has resigned and will go to St. Paul, Minn., as pastor of the First Baptist church.

THREE DIE IN FIGHT

Miners' Battle in West Virginia a Bloody Affair.

Ten Seriously Wounded When Italians Swing Their Knives.

Fairmount, W. Va., Oct. 12.—Three men are dead and ten are suffering from more or less serious wounds as a result of a riot between miners and outside men at Enterprise, nine miles from here.

The riot is the outgrowth of grievances between two factions, which have led to serious trouble heretofore. Among the fatally injured are Frank Olive, shot through right arm and left side, will die; James Fischer, shot in head and skull fractured; Dave Sego, two shots in breast.

Those who sustained minor injuries are victims of the vicious thrusts by Italian miners armed with knives. Simultaneously a fight took place at Middleton, west of Fairmount, where Sat Aloy Moscow was shot and killed.

FIGHT IN "HUB OF HELL" IS FATAL

Minneapolis Policeman Kills Boy and Disfigures Girl.

Minneapolis, Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Theodore Hedine, 5½ years old and residing with his parents was shot through the eye and killed, and Miss Julia Churchill, was disfigured for life, last night by shots fired by Policeman John Connolly of the South Side station.

The shooting occurred while Officer Connolly was trying to arrest Ernest Dwinell for drunkenness and disorderly conduct at Twenty-seventh avenue and Twenty-fifth street south, in a district, known as the "Hub of Hell."

STILL DECLARES NO ENGAGEMENT

Senator Elkins Reiterates Duke is Not Prospective Son-in-Law.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 12.—In a statement to the Associated Press today, United States Senator Stephen B. Elkins of West Virginia, branded as untrue an alleged interview accredited to his wife, to the effect that there is no engagement between Miss Katherine Elkins and Duke Abruzzi. Senator Elkins said that neither his wife nor himself could give such interview, for the simple reason that it was impossible to deny something that did not exist.

MINERS DEMAND EIGHT-HOUR DAY

Convention Begins to Formulate Terms of Next Pact.

Scranton, Pa., Oct. 12.—A convention of mine workers from the three anthracite districts of the United Mine Workers of America began today, to formulate demands to be presented to the coal operators shortly before the expiration of the present three-year agreement. The agreement, which is almost identical with the award made by the strike commission in 1903, expires next April.

An eight-hour day for all employes will be one of the principal demands.

WILL HOLD THE NEXT MEETING IN AUGUST.

San Francisco, Oct. 12.—The executive committee of the Trans-Mississippi Commercial congress has decided to hold the next meeting of the congress which is scheduled for Denver in August, 1909. The committee has elected these officers:

Chairman, Col. Ike T. Pryor, San Antonio, Tex.; secretary, Arthur F. Francis, Cripple Creek, Colo.; treasurer, Mayor James S. Dahlman of Omaha.

FRENCH PAPERS WANT WRIGHT DECORATED.

Paris, Oct. 12.—The newspapers this morning appeal to the government to decorate Wilbur Wright, the American aviator, with the Legion of Honor in recognition of his success in aerial navigation.

IS KILLED FOR DEER

Mellen, Wis., Man Shot by Mistake and Left to Die.

Murderer, Seeing Awful Error, Leaves Victim to His Fate.

Ashland, Wis., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frank Sawicki died at Ashland last night, twelve hours after having been shot by an unknown hunter near Mellen.

Sawicki said that he was brought to the ground by a rifle bullet, which passed clear through his body. The man who shot him, thinking he had shot a deer, ran up to the prostrate man and when he saw what he had done turned and fled.

The wounded man lay for hours bleeding to death, when he was discovered and brought to Ashland. He was unable to identify the man who shot him.

HOST AND GUEST SHOT AND SLAIN

Double Murder Follows Home-Coming Party in Montreal.

Montreal, Que., Oct. 12.—Francesco Martalli invited friends to his home last night to celebrate his home-coming, after a season's work in a railway camp. A row started in which Martalli and Donato Calurlo, one of the guests, were shot and killed. Michael Calurlo, aged 20 years, is under arrest charged with the double murder.

WOMAN DROWNS IN VAT OF WINE

Santa Rosa, Cal., Oct. 12.—Mrs. George Collier, wife of a rancher of Occidental, was drowned Sunday in a vat of wine. The woman was visiting the winery on the Coller ranch and had climbed to the edge of a large vat, partly filled with wine. In some manner, undetermined, but probably through being overcome by the fumes, Mrs. Collier lost her balance and fell inside the huge receptacle. Before assistance reached her, she had been suffocated.

IS MISSING LINK, MAYBE

Strange New Monkey Arrives to Boost Darwin Theory.

An Unusually Intelligent Face—Three Feet and a Half High.

New York, Oct. 12.—The experts in the Bronx zoo are puzzled over a strange new monkey from Java which is the nearest so far seen here to the long-sought "missing link," the dream of science ever since the Darwin theory of evolution was propounded.

The Simian was brought to New York a day or so ago by the captain of the steamship Clan MacDonald. The captain said he had never seen any monkey like it in all his travels in the East Indies. The folks at the zoo have never seen anything like it either. The creature stands three and a half feet high and has an unusually intelligent face. The body is covered with long, black hair.

Pact Signed at Tokio.

Tokio, Oct. 12.—The Chinese-Japanese convention regarding the Port Arthur-Chefoo cable was signed at Tokio today.

ONCE RICH; NOW 15 CENTS AN HOUR

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 12.—Capt. Abb C. Grimes, 75, steamboat man and Civil war veteran, who once had an independent fortune, is now accepting employment at fifteen cents an hour.

Mrs. Grimes, who is 21 years old, is employed in a restaurant. Their combined salaries support them comfortably in a modest flat, but not in the way they have lived. Capt. Grimes lost his fortune soon after he was acquitted of murdering a man, who he claimed had insulted his wife.

MONTENEGRO UP IN ARMS

Prince Nicholas Says People Will Fight to Last Ditch.

Servian Congress Supports Uprising Against Austria-Hungary.

Cettinje, Montenegro, Oct. 12.—The Montenegrin national assembly opened here today in extraordinary session. The war fever resulting from the annexation by Austria-Hungary of Bosnia and Herzegovina, which is already running high, has been strengthened by a bellicose message to parliament from Prince Nicholas, who declares the annexation of these two provinces has inflicted a crying wrong upon the people of Montenegro, and that the people are prepared to sacrifice their last drop of blood unless the peaceful endeavors now on foot resulted in righting this grievance.

The message was received with cheers and other demonstrations of approval.

Supports Servian Uprising.

Belgrade, Oct. 12.—At an extraordinary session of the skupshtina this morning the following resolution was unanimously passed:

"The skupshtina, after hearing the explanations of the government and the steps taken by it, expects vigorous activity will be displayed for the protection of the nation's threatened interests. With this object in view the skupshtina will support the government to the fullest extent."

The skupshtina has sent an encouraging telegram of greeting to the Montenegrin national assembly, which met today, and voted an extraordinary credit of $3,200,000 to the ministry of war.

Asquith Spurns Bulgaria.

London, Oct. 12.—Premier Asquith, addressing parliament today, said regarding the Balkan situation:

"It is impossible for this country, in the interest of existing treaties, to recognize alterations made therein by individual states, and we hold to the principle. We regard the events that have taken place in the Near East as necessitating consideration by the powers with the view of arriving at a settlement which shall show due regard to the interests of Turkey and any other state which may have been prejudiced by the recent changes, and we trust that a solution will be found."

Cretan Parliament Approves.

Canea, Island of Crete, Oct. 12.—The Cretan parliament met this morning and formally voted the union of the island with Greece. The moslem delegates were not present.

THAW IS SENT BACK TO ASYLUM

White Plains, N. Y., Oct. 12.—Justice Mills in the supreme court here today recommitted Harry K. Thaw to Matteawan asylum for criminal insane.

STEWART ON RETIRED LIST

Washington, Oct., 12.—"Approved, Theodore Roosevelt."

With these words attached to the finding of the army board which concluded its consideration of the case of Col. William F. Stewart of the coast artillery, that officer was formerly retired from active service in the army.

For the last year Col. Stewart had been living at the ungarrisoned post of Fort Grant, Ariz., whither he had been sent by order of the president. When the order came for him to take the usual ninety-mile practice ride prescribed for officers, he was examined by the post surgeons at Fort Huachuca, Ariz. They pronounced his condition to be such as might imperil his life were he to take the ride. He was, therefore, ordered to Washington to appear before the board.

Col. Stewart said he felt perfectly fit for the test, and offered not only to take the ride, but also the fifty-mile walk prescribed for unmounted officers. This was refused on the ground that the board had no authority to grant such a request.

NEW ILL KILLS REDS BY SCORES

New York, Oct. 12.—A deadly disease, in some respects like the grip but highly contagious and far more mortal, has attacked the already depleted tribes of the Cree Indians on the shores of James and Hudson bays, killing men, women and children by scores.

Alanson Skinner of the department of antropology of the American Museum of Natural History, who recently returned from an exhaustive study of the people of that country, brings the news of the plague to this city. He says:

"The illness manifests itself in colds, followed by coughs, fever and nausea. Unless the sufferers are of very strong physique they die quickly."

SILVER GAVEL CAN'T BE FOUND

San Francisco, Oct. 12.—A handsome silver-mounted gavel presented to the Trans-Mississippi Commercial congress by the Daughters of the Confederacy of Louisiana is missing. A careful search of the pavilion where the meetings were held and of the headquarters of Secretary Arthur Francis has failed to locate it.

The gavel was made of a piece taken from one of the magnolia trees on the battlefield of Chalmette, La., where Gen. Jackson defeated Pakenham's veterans in 1812.

NOT A BACHELOR AFTER ALL; HAD WIFE, TWELVE CHILDREN

Waterbury, Conn., Oct. 12.—David G. Cooper of Terryville, who made a fortune in the manufacture of even thermometers for ranges, was supposed to have been a bachelor all his life. When he died several months ago, his two nieces, who took care of his home and his office work, were supposed to be heirs to his estate of $150,000. His will, however, discloses that he had a wife and twelve children in Chili, to whom the greater part of the estate goes.

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 12.—The Detroits today won the third game in the world championship series from Chicago by a score of 8 to 3.

The weather was chilly but otherwise fine for the sport. Batting orders:

Chicago.

Sheckard, left field; Evers, second base; Schulte, right field; Chance, first base; Stienfeldt third base; Hofman, center field; Tinker, short stop; Kling, catcher; Pfeister, pitcher. Umpires, O'Day and Sheridan.

Detroit.

At 2 o'clock, the hour scheduled for play to begin, the immense double-decked grandstand and all boxes were filled, but there were vacant seats in the bleachers. To allow time for those seats to find occupants the game was delayed until 2:15. Manager Jennings changed his line-up, putting Schaefer at second base and Coughlin at third, thus eliminating Downs, who played second in the first two games.

First Inning.

Detroit—McIntyre went out, Evers to Chance. O'Leary was safe on a short hit too hot for Steinfeldt. Crawford hit in front of the plate and Kling threw him out at first, O'Leary going to second, Cobb singled to short center, scoring O'Leary, and Rossman went out Steinfeldt to Chance. One run.

Second Inning.

Detroit—Schaefer went out. Steinfeldt to Chance and Thomas, Evers to Chance. Coughlin grounded out, Evers to Chance. No runs.

Chicago—Chance flew out to Schaefer and Steinfeldt and Hofman struck out. No runs.

Third Inning.

Detroit—Mullin went out, Steinfeldt to Chance. McIntyre fouled to Chance and O'Leary fouled to Kling. No runs.

Chicago—Tinker, whose home run broke up Detroit's defense yesterday, was cheered as he came to bat. He singled to right, but went out stealing second. Kling went out to Rossman unassisted and Pfeister struck out. No runs.

Fourth Inning.

Detroit—Crawford singled to center. Cobb forced Crawford at Second. Evers to Tinker. Rossman sent a short fly to Evers, who doubled Cobb at first. No runs.

Chicago—Sheckard struck out. Evers walked and stole second. Schulte fouled to Thomas. Chance singled to center and Evers scored. Chance stole second. Steinfeldt hit to Coughlin, who threw low to Rossman and Chance came home, Steiny taking second on the play. Hofman tripled to left, scoring Steinfeldt. Tinker was out, O'Leary to Rossman. Three runs.

Fifth Inning.

Detroit—Schaefer out to Tinker on a fly. Thomas out, Tinker to Chance. Coughlin struck out. No runs.

Chicago—Kling was safe when O'Leary fumbled his grounder. Pfeister tried three times to sacrifice and was out. Sheckard hit to Schaefer, who covered second, disposing of Kling and threw Sheckard out at first. No runs.

Sixth Inning.

Detroit—Mullin walked. McIntyre singled to left and Mullin went to second. O'Leary bunted and was safe at first, as Pfeister tried to catch Mullin at third. He was unsuccessful and the bases were filled, with no one out. Crawford hit too hot for Chance and Mullin scored. The other runners advanced a base each. Cobb beat out a slow bunt to Tinker and McIntyre scored the tieing run, leaving the bases full. Rossman singled to right, scoring O'Leary and Crawford, while Cobb took third. Schaefer flew out to center and Cobb was caught at the plate trying to score on the throw in. Thomas doubled to right and Rossman scored. Coughlin went out, Evers to Chance. Five runs.

Chicago—Evers went out on a bounder, Coughlin to Rossman. Schulte went out, Mullin to Rossman. Chance singled to left and stole second. Steinfeldt struck out. No runs.

Seventh Inning.

Detroit—Mullin flew out to Tinker. McIntyre walked. O'Leary grounded out to Chance, McIntyre taking second. Crawford flew out to center. No runs.

Chicago—Hofman singled to right. Tinker struck out. O'Leary took Kling's grounder, retired Hofman at second and doubled Kling at first. No runs.

Eighth Inning.

Detroit—Cobb doubled to left. Rossman beat out a bunt and Cobb took third. Schaefer flew out to right, Rossman going to second on the throw to the plate, which kept Cobb on third. Thomas walked, filling the bases. Coughlin flew out to left, Cobb scoring before the ball could be relayed. Mullin hit sharply to Chance, who fumbled the ball. Rossman scored from second and Thomas took third. McIntyre grounded out, Steinfeldt to Chance. Two runs.

Chicago—Howard went to bat for Pfeister. Howard went out, Schaefer to Rossman. Sheckard out, Schaefer to Rossman. Evers flew out to Crawford. No runs.

Ninth Inning.

Detroit—Reulbach went to pitch in place of Pfeister. O'Leary flew out to Chance. Crawford flew out to Hofman. Cobb singled to left. Cobb stole second. Cobb stole third. Rossman walked. Cobb was caught between third and home. Reulbach made a feint to catch Rossman, who started for second, Cobb started for home plate and was run down, Kling throwing him out to Steinfeldt.

Chicago—Schulte flew out to center. Chance flew out to Crawford. Steinfeldt singled to left. Steinfeldt stole second. Hofman went out. O'Leary to Rossman.

CALLS GIRLS TO AID IN DEFENSE

Mann, Denying Murder of Woman, Promises Alibi Proof.

Chicago, Oct. 12.—The case of Truman C. Mann of Oak Park, a suburb of this city, charged with the murder last July of Mrs. Frances Gilmore Thompson, was today continued to October 19, upon request of the attorney for the defendant, and bail was fixed at $25,000.

Mann, in his cell at the Harrison street police station, denied today all charges made against him, and declared he could prove an alibi. One of the principal witnesses in his favor, he declared, will be Miss Daisy Potts, daughter of a real estate dealer of this city and a student at the university of Illinois.

On her and his three sisters, he said, he relies to prove that on the night of the murder he was at the Oak Park home of his father.

JAPAN WILL GIVE FLEET FINE GREETING.

Yokohoma, Oct. 12.—Preparations for the reception of the Atlantic fleet are assuming tremendous proportions. The popular demonstration of eagerness to participate in the ceremonies is the greatest thing of the kind ever witnessed in Japan.

AWARDS TO SPINSTERS.

London Standard: A quaint custom has been observed in connection with Holsworthy fair, which closes today, in the awarding of a money prize to the young woman "generally esteemed as the most deserving, most handsome and most noted for her quietness and attendance at church."

Miss Rosa Bassett was selected for the honor of fulfilling all these requirements and became the possessor of £2 10s, in accordance with a singular bequest of a former rector.

Under the same will the sum of five shillings is annually given to the spinster over sixty years of age who "is noted for the like virtues, and is not in receipt of parish pay." This gift was presented to Miss Ching.

It is three years since any award was made of this money, spinsters being very scarce at Holsworthy.

HOW ALASKA INDIANS FISH.

Correspondence Forest and Stream: I saw Indians on the Chilcat river fishing day and night. The fishermen walked along the bank carrying a pole on the end of which was a barbless steel hook.

Tossing the hook end of the pole into the stream he turned it so that the elbow rested on the bottom. Then he gently drew the pole back and forth, and when he felt a fish strike the shaft he knew that a salmon was probably crossing over the pole, so he gave it a quick jerk, drove the hook into the fish's side and hauled it up on the bank.

This is called snagging salmon.

WOMEN START TROUBLE EARLY

Suffragettes Besiege Parliament as Soon as Session Begins.

London, Oct. 12.—The woman suffragists and the unemployed are keeping the precincts of Parliament lively this afternoon, although their great efforts are being reserved for tomorow night. A strong force of police, mounted and on foot, is keeping the crowds moving. At the instance of the government summonses were issued today for Mrs. Pankhurst, Mrs. Drummond and Miss Christabel Pankhurst, three of the most militant of the suffragist leaders, for having appealed last week to the public to help them rush the house of common tomorrow. These two women have issued a defiance of the government.

Mrs. Pankhurst announced this afternoon that they would refuse to obey the summonses and that if the police wanted them they would have to come and take them.

LUMBER TRADE AT STANDSTILL

William McGrath Says Profits Are Small and Trade Light.

William H. McGrath, manager of the Pine City Lumber company, who is at the St. Louis today, says that the profits of the lumber business have been curtailed to almost nothing by the decreased price of lumber. Mr. McGrath says that lumber has fallen off from $4 to $6 a thousand feet from the price prevailing before the gradual decline in lumber began, so that at the present time profits have been reduced to the minimum.

According to the statement of Mr. McGrath, the lumbermen of the country are doing very little selling on the present price basis. What little selling they are doing is at a very slight profit. He says that most of the companies are satisfied to break even and pay operating expenses at the preesnt price upon lumber.

Mr. McGrath is of the opinion that the price will from now on undergo a gradual increase, and that the business will improve. He says indications are not lacking that make this opinion justifiable, and with election over, many of the lumbermen, both in the wholesale and retail trade, believe that conditions will become normal.

MAY SUSPEND ORDER PENDING DECISION.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 12.—The order of the interstate commerc ecommission limiting to $1 transfer charges on stock cars entering Chicago for the union stockyards there, will be suspended pending a decision on the injunction suit filed by fifty railroads, if an agreement made in federal court today can be carried out.

S. H. Cowan, special attorney for the commission, offered to request the commission to suspend the order which is effective Oct. 15, and the hearing on the injunction suit while hwas called before United States Circuit Judges Vanderventerm, Adams and Hook, went over until tomorrow.

The railroads contend that it costs more than $2 a car to ship cattle from the individual lines to the union stockyards and that enforcement of the reduced rate would mean an annual loss of about $200,000.

New Road is Being Backed by Superior Capitalists.

Articles of incorporation for the construction of the Flag River railway, from Superior to Bayfield, Wis., have been filed with the secretary of state at Madison, Wis.

R. C. Cook and James Bardon, of Superior are heavily interested in the new project. The new road will open up a new territory along the south shore, touching Port Wing, Cornucopia and Herbster, Wis.

According to the information received in this city, the capital to finance the new project was largely raised in Superior. It is stated that there is some outside capital interested in the venture, but the majority of stock will be owned by Superior investors. There is a large extent of unsettled territory lying along the South shore available for settlement. The absence of rail communication with either Superior or Duluth has resulted in much of this land being unsettled. Realizing the value of this land, should a road be constructed along the line of the south shore of Lake Superior, the men interested in the new venture have gone to work and have raised the necessary capital to insure the success of the undertaking.

According to the information received in this city the rough survey of the line of road has been completed. The territory has been thoroughly inspected with the view of penetrating the best part of the country lying contiguous to the south shore. It is further stated that the men behind the venture are heavily interested in the land the road will touch, and that they are of the opinion that the completion of the road will greatly enhance the value of their holdings. Much of this land is of very good quality, and it is believed that with the building of a road along the proposed route, the country penetrated will quickly open to settlement.

It is not known at the present time whether any further work will be done this fall. However, it is stated that next spring operations will begin and the work of construction will be pushed with all possible speed.

KOHLSAAT TELLS THE PRESIDENT

Says Two Democratic Editors Don't Want Bryan Elected.

Washington, Oct. 12.—P. H. Kohlsaat of Chicago conferred with the president today on the political situation in the West, and told him some interesting stories of conversations he had heard among laboring men in Chicago, telling how they felt toward the different presidential candidates. Mr. Kohlsaat said that he had talked with the editors of three of the leading newspapers of the country, which are supporting the candidacy of W. J. Bryan. Two of these editors, he said, had told him they did not want to see Mr. Bryan elected, and did not expect he would be. "And one of these men," continued Mr. Kohlsaat, 'is a member of the Democratic national committee."

News of the political situation in Connecticut was brought to the White House today by Edgar Young of the Bridgeport Post, who talked with the president a short time.

LABORERS IN DEMAND.

Local Employment Agents Receive Heavy Orders for Men.

According to labor bureau agents today was one of the biggest days of this fall, as far as orders for laborers were concerned. Orders for hundreds of men were hung out at the employment agencies this morning in responses to the demand for men in the woods, at the railroad construction camps and at saw mills where lumber operations are being resumed.

Most of the orders were received from firms that operate within a radius of 200 miles of Duluth. Many of the orders were small ones and the wages offered were low, but the employment agents say that any man wanting work can get it and that the prospects look bright for a heavier demand for labor.

ASYLUM DECISION NO BAR TO BANKRUPTCY.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 12.—The return of Harry K. Thaw to Matteawan asylum will have no effect upon the bankruptcy proceedings that have been begun. It is said that since bankruptcy proceedings have been entered upon, the case will have to stand as it is, and the referee has no authority of his own to throw the case out and dismiss the proceedings.

APATHY IS ROUTED, SAYS HITCHCOCK.

New York, Oct. 12.—That there is a decided improvement in the outlook for Republican success in the Middle West as compared with a month ago was the opinion expressed by Chairman Hitchcock of the Republican national committee today. Mr. Hitchcock had just arrived at headquarters here after a week's stay in Chicago.

"The apathy which was apparent in the Middle West a month ago has disappeared," said Mr. Hitchcock.

THE PRISONER.

"Everybody in London," said H. K. Adair, the Western detective, "is wearing now, like us, the semi-total pledge button. The pledge is, you know, an oath only to drink at lunch and dinner.

"In London I heard Lord Roberts, the head of the English movement, make a speech at a banquet.

"One thing the little old soldier said was that wives could without fear allow semi-total husbands to go to the club. A semi-total husband would always come home from the club early.

"Thanks also to the semi-total pledge, wives wouldn't have to look after their husbands so vigilantly.

"There was an old soldier who said to a friend:

"'My wife does look after me well. She even takes off my boots for me.'

"'When you come from the club?' the friend asked.

"'No—when I want to go there.'"

FITCH DID HIS STUNT

Took the Horseback Ride Prescribed by President Roosevelt.

Covered Eight Miles More Than the Required Distance.

Col. Graham D. Fitch, U. S. A., has just taken his medicine.

The prescription was made out by Dr. "Teddy" Roosevelt, and was swallowed at Fort Snelling, Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week.

Some monthe ago the president ruled that all United States army officers should take a yearly horseback ride of not less than 90 miles. This was the stunt that has kept Col. Fitch busy the latter part of the past week.

On a high spirited army steed the colonel left Fort Snelling Thursday, and adopting a triangular course rode thirty-three miles on Thursday, thirty-four on Friday and thirty-one on Saturday, making 98 miles all told. He was required to ride only ninety miles, but the colonel is thoroughly at home on horseback, and the ride did not inconvenience him.

He made the trip in company with a number of other officers and they all enjoyed the three days outing. The roads were good, the air cool and it was just at the time of year that it is a pleasure to ride. The colonel is enthusiastic over the trip and is already looking forward to the one to be made next year, as according to the commander-in-chief, the dose must be taken at least once a year, and oftener if the "once" doesn't show the officer is fit.

Col. Fitch left on official business Sunday evening for Detroit and will immediately on his return look to the proposed changes in the harbor rules that many people are interested in.

CITY BRIEFS

Have Your Magazines Bound.
Thwing-Stewart Co. 'Phone 114.

Here's Honesty.

Hayward to Speak.

William D. Hayward, secretary of the Western Federation of Miners will speak at the armory Thursday evening, Oct. 22. The date was originally given out as the 20th, but it was found impossible to secure the building for this date, and the meeting was postponed until the 22nd.

Quiet Wedding.

Miss Anna Wilhelmina Larson and Edwin Dahlman were quietly married Sunday evening at the home of Carl F. Peterson, 530 Sixteenth avenue east, by Rev. J. L. Murphy, pastor of the St. John's Lutheran church. They will be at home at 418 East Seventh streea.

Barn Dancing Stopped.

No more barn dancing in the armory. This is the order issued by Capt. Resche. Building Inspector Kieley has expressed it as his belief that the rough and tumble dance is a menace to buildings, because of the jar attendant upon it. Capt. Resche agrees with him, and has directed that there shall be no more barn dancing in the armory.

Wilson Saloon License.

The council tonight will consider the matter of granting Andrew Wilson a sumsaloon license at New Duluth. A number of residents of the town have signed a petition asking that the license be granted. It is claimed that he was defrauded out of a saloon by another resident of New Duluth, and that the sympathy of the public is with Wilson.

Dangerously Ill.

J. R. Joyce, charged with keeping his saloon open and selling intoxicants on Sunday, will have a jury trial in municipal court Wednesday morning, Oct. 14.

Rakowsky Not to Blame.

G. A. Rakowsky, expert engineer, resents the fact that the blame for the accident to the aerial bridge Saturday night was in a measure due to him, because he inspected the structure a few days before the break in the cable occurred. He says he made certain recommendations for repairs to the board of public works, which, if followed out, would have put the bridge in condition to run without interruption for a long time, but that these recommendations were not followed out. He was employed one day to report on the condition of the structure, and not to repair it.

Walter Griffin Released.

Walter Griffin, arrested yesterday mornink charged with holding up Paul Brown on Third street, corner of Third avenue east, was released from custody today. He was not even taken into court. There was no evidence against him.

PERSONAL

Odin Halden and Senator E. B. Hawkins returned from St. Paul this morning. They were in conference with the members of the Republican state central committee.

Rev. M. S. Rice left for Kansas last evening to visit his mother.

Judge Page Morris of the federal court left this morning for Minot, N. D., where he will open the October term of court in that city Tuesday morning.

NOT GRACEFUL

"Grace makes its absence very keenly felt. At a funeral that I once attended in New Hampshire, a farmer said a thing that was singularly lacking in grace. A funeral hymn had just been concluded. The farmer leaned forward, tapped me on the shoulder and whispered:

"'Lovely hymn, hey? The corpse wrote it.'"

THE TRICKY TRAVELING MAN.

Rube Waddell, at a banquet in his honor in St. Louis, said of pitching:

"The secret of winning pitching is trickery. I once knew a Nicetown drummer named Horton, who would have made a fine pitcher. I found Horton one day writing in a red book.

"'A diary?' said I. 'I didn't know you kept a diary, Horton.'

"'It is only a fake one,' he replied. 'I make out in it that I lead the life of a saint. Then I leave it lying around for my wife to read.'"

THEN CHARLIE KNEW.

Tit-Bits: They were walking under a very little umbrella, and she liked it well enough not to want a large spread of alpaca. He was honest and seemed to be nervous, and she finally remarked, very softly, and with a note of interrogation:

"Charlie, I'll carry the umbrella, if you will let me?"

"Oh, no! I can carry it."

"Yes, Charlie, but, you see, your arm takes up so much room that one side of me is out in the wet."

"I know, Fanny; but what will I do with my arm? Won't it be in the way all the same?"

"I don't know, Charlie; Tom Clark always knows what to do with his arm when he is under an umbrella with Mary Martin, because Mary told me so."

REAL POVERTY.

Judge's Library: Two old Jewish beggars were traveling together through the residence section of Pittsburg not long ago, in quest of contributions toward their joint capital.

Presently they passed a handsome residence, from where sweet sounds of music issued. It was Ike's turn, and hopefully he ascended the steps to the front door, eagerly watched by Jake, who expected quite a handsome addition to their funds.

His consternation was great consequently when he beheld Ike returning crestfallen and empty-handed.

Anxiously running to meet him, he said: "Vell, Ikey, how did you make out with the good people?"

"Ach, Jakey," replied Ike, "there was no use asking in there, because they are very poor people themselves. Just think—two lovely ladies playing on one piano!"

NO HAIR-SPLITTING.

Judge: "But," argues the exasperated automobilist, who has been haled before the country justice, "you haven't the shadow of a reason for arresting and trying me. Why, man, my machine was standing stock still. Absolutely motionless! Even the constable will tell you that."

"The automobull was a-standin' still all right," acknowledges the constable, "but its engine was runnin' full blast, an' it sounded just like they do when they go forty miles a hour."

"But my machine was not moving! Judge, this is prepos—"

"The evidence is all against you," coldly decides the justice. "Twenty dollars and costs. This is not the time or place for idle technicalities."

BILLIK CASE TO HIGHEST COURT

Dismissal of Suit of Hypnotist-Poisoner to be Asked.

Washington, Oct. 12.—Assistant State's Attorney James J. Barbour of Chicago was today admitted to the bar of the supreme court of the United States and will enter a motion in that court tomorrow for the dismissal of the case of Herman Billik, under sentence of death in Cook county, Ill., on charge of killing several members of the Vzral family.

Barbour's motion will be based on the act of congress of last March, making it necessary for persons desiring to obtain an appeal to the supreme court in criminal cases to obtain from the trial judge a certificate of the reasonableness of the proceedings. This law is so new that it has not heretofore been invoked and the certificate in this case does not accompany the appeal. Billik was sentenced to be executed June 12 last and made application to Judge Landis of the United States district court for a writ of habeas corpus. This Judge Landis refused to grant, but he allowed an appeal from his decision of denial on the ground that it is a constitutional right which the court cannot refuse to grant.

It is believed that the new statute will prevent the bringing of many cases to the supreme court on trivial grounds and thus relieve the court of much unnecessary work.

Francis Meyers Falls From Porch of Father's Residence.

Francis Meyers, the 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Meyers of 2804 West Helm street, fractured an arm and leg at 10 o'clock this morning in a fall from the roof of the porch of his father's home.

Young Meyers was playing with some other children, and crawled out on the roof of the porch. He got too near the edge and slipped off. He was taken to St. Mary's hospital. Beyond the two broken bones he is not injured.

CASTING BRONZE STATUARY.

Washington Herald: "Although in the making of bronze statuary the casting is a very important and vitally necessary operation," said Fred H. Knapp, an artist, "there are only seven foundries in the United States where it is done.

"Perhaps, indeed, it is just because so much depends on the founder, and so great must be his skill and his knowledge of the sculptor's art that the foundries are so few. A great deal of such work is now turned out in this country, and every now and then a foundry is started, only to make a failure because of lack of the peculiar skill needed. It seems hard to get skilled workmen.

"The making of a marble statue is done entirely by the sculptor, or by workmen and students in his studio and under his personal supervision. The bronze statue is not only not made in the sculptor's studio, but it is almost invariable, an enlargement of the sculptor's model, which enlargement is made by the casters, and through methods of which the sculptor himself may know nothing at all.

The making of bronze statuary is expensive. Exclusive of the amount paid to the sculptor the founder's charge for a life size statue runs up from $700. The larger and more intricate the design the greater the cost, but a single life size figure in simple dress and pose may cost as much as $1,200."

DEFENSE IS INSANITY

Argument is That Kalmar Light is Not in Right Mind.

Attorney Greene Says Defendant is Playing a Part.

The fate of Kalman Light, the West Duluth merchant charged with setting fire to his store on Central avenue June 9 of this year, went to the jury this afternoon. The final testimony was put in this morning, arguments were made, and Judge Cant charged the jury just after the opening of court this afternoon.

Insanity was the plea of the defense. The evidence as to Light's having started the fire was strong and, though Light denied it on the stand, Attorney McMahon did not dwell very much on the probability of his not having committed the act, in his plea to the jury. He rather pointed out that it was the deed of an insane man and as such he could not be convicted.

Mr. McMahon pointed out that the fire was started in twilight and in the front of the store, which was practically all of glass, so that the first flicker could be seen from the street, where hundreds of people were passing at that time of the evening. He said there was no possibility of the fire not being discovered. He pointed out that all estimates place the value of the stock at from $750 to $1,100 and there was but $800 insurance on it. On that amount, debts aggregating $500 would have to be paid, leaving the man but $300 to show for his stock. Nobody but a crazy man would set fire to a store under those circumstances, he claimed. He said he would make no plea on the grounds of Light's age or infirmity, but he did claim that his mind was wrong and if he set fire to the store, it was on an insane impulse and not the crime of a sane fiend.

Mr. Greene's argument was given to ridiculing Light's insanity, which he claimed was merely a piece of acting. He said Light's call on Dr. Graham after the fire, when he told the doctor that he wanted him to testify in his behalf, was merely a dodge. He said Light's actions on the stand were those of a man who wanted to give the impression that he was wrong mentally. He said the evidence pointed to the defendant's guilt and his conviction is due the state, and the people, who were asleep upstairs when the fire was started.

On the stand this morning, Light denied having set fire to the store, denied that he made any confession to Lieut. Wilcox of the West Duluth police force, and said the first he heard of the fire was through a telephone message he received after reaching home the night of the fire. L. A. Lavole of F. A. Patrick & Co. estimated the value of Light's stock at $761.80 and another estimate was introduced placing its value at $1,093.

SHOT BY HIS COMPANION

A West Duluth Boy is Wounded in the Knee While Hunting.

Ruben Paulson, while examining a gun yesterday, accidentally shot Torgen Stabenfeldt, the 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Tobias Stabenfeldt of Sixty-fourth avenue west and Highland street, in the leg, inflicting a painful, thought not dangerous wound.

A party of five boys were hunting not far from their homes in West Duluth. Young Paulson, who was not accustomed to the use of firearms, was trying to eject a shell from a 22-caliber rifle, when the shell unexpectedly exploded, sending a ball through Stabenfeldt's leg. It entered at the knee and came out about five inches below.

When the boys had assisted their wounded companion home, Dr. Hovde was called. He dressed the wound, which he said was not dangerous; unless blood poisoning should set in.

For several weeks the West Duluth police have been waging war against boys carrying firearms in the city limits. When the boys were first questioned about the shooting affair, they would not admit that the shot had been fired by any of their party, claiming that Stabenfeldt, had been struck by a stray bullet. Later they owned up that Young Paulson, had accidentally shot his friends.

EXPRESS GRATITUDE.

Resolutions Are Passed by Congregation Thanking Their Pastor.

Rev. W. J. Lowrie, yesterday preached his farewell sermon, to the congregation of the Westminister Presbyterian church. The church was crowded. The pastor reviewed the history of the church, during his six years as pastor, taking as his text, "Finally, Brethern, Farewell." He spoke of his regret at leaving, but said that he believed that the Brainerd call opened a wider field for his efforts.

Rev. and Mrs. Lowrie will leave Wednesday for Brainerd. Until a new pastor can be secured, the pulpit of the Westminister Presbyterian church will be filled each Sunday morning by outside ministers. There may be no regular evening services.

At the close of the service the following set of resolutions were proposed and unanimously passed by the congregation.

Whereas our pastor Rev. W. J. Lowrie has received and accepted a call from the First Presbyterian church of Brainerd, Minn., and

"Whereas, we wish to express as well as possible our gratitude to him and his family for the pleasant relations and associations we have enjoyed with him and Mrs. Lowrie; and whereas we fully appreciate his faithfulness and love toward each one of us during his pastorate in this church and his self sacrifice for the spiritual good of every one of us, therefore,

"Be it resolved by the Westminister Presbyterian church, that we hereby express our deepest regret at the leaving of Rev. and Mrs. W. J. Lowrie and we wish them the utmost success and God's blessing in their new field of endeavor and that the relations with their new parishioners may be as pleasant and fruitful of good as they have been here, assuring them that we will always hold them in grateful and affectionate remembrance.

REPUBLICANS MEET.

Organize Precinct Club and Hear Speeches From Candidates.

Warren E. Greeen, assistant county attorney; Richard F. Grant, candidate for the legislature in the Fiftieth district; Peter G. Borgstrom and George J. Mallory, Saturday evening, spoke at a well attended meeting of the West Duluth Republican club.

Mr. Grant's speech was of principal interest, as it dealt with the tonnage tax on ore. He delivered a strong, clear address on the subject, which made a deep impression on his listeners. Mr. Borgstrom spoke on the same subject. Mr. Greene endeavored to point out the weak points in the Democratic platfrom.

The meeting was the best attended so far this year, and a strong precinct organization was effected. It was decided thah the members of the club should attend the Cummins meeting, this evening, at the Armory in a body, leaving West Duluth from Central avenue and Ramsey street, at 7:15 o'clock.

Semi-Annual Conference.

The semi-annual conference of the Lake Superior district of the Norwegian Lutheran church will open this evening at Our Savior's Norwegian Lutheran church, Fifty-seventh avenue west and Wadena street. Rev. J. H. Stenberg of the First Norwegian-Danish Evangelical church will preside. The different pastors of the district, which includes Northern Minnesota and Wisconsin, will be represented by nine pastors.

SCHOOLS ARE CROWDED

Attendance This Year Shows Increase of About 500.

New School Will Relieve Endion and Jefferson Buildings.

The average attendance of pupils in the city schools for the first month this year is ahead of that of last year by 503. On the opening day this year there were 11,537 registrations, as against 11,034 at the beginning of the fall term one year ago.

The high water mark of attendance last year was 12,153, and it is expected that later in the season this record will be beaten by at least 300 or 400.

The increase in school attendance is general all over the city, and particularly in the Adams and Lincoln schools. The Endion and Jefferson schools are as they were last year, very much overcrowded. The school officials say that there are many rooms all over the city in the different schools that should not be used for school purposes at all, and they are therefore very anxious to get the new Salter structure built so that the Endion and Jefferson may be relieved.

In the Washington school the high school students are in need of more room, which cannot be given them at this time because of the crowded conditions of the lower grades. The school board is very anxious that the property across the corner be bought so that as soon as the Salter school is completed, work on a new Central school may be begun.

RIVERS OF CHINA.

China Mail: The realization of imminent perils from the inland waterways of the provinces has led China to adopt such means as seem most available and practicable for the more adequate protection of her riverine system. Provinces that have hitherto had no special provision for policing by water patrol are to have their rivers and other navigable channels inland guarded alike for the suppression of piracy and also with a view to prevent the smuggling into the interior of arms and munitions of war.

We notice that the provinces of Honan and Hupei are to have a "provincial admiral," under whose special jurisdiction will be the charge of riverine defense. Thus far in the history of administration of the empire this class of officials has, we believe, held office only in the seaboard provinces. When however, the extent and excellence of inland waterways which the bounds of the provinces under consideration are appreciated it becomes clear that on their proper control the fate of the country in times of emergency may conceivably depend.

Hunan is drained by four rivers, which all empty into the Tung-ting lake. A glance at any reliable map will show that the basin of these rivers covers little less than half the province, and the fact that the River Hsiang Chiang and certain of its numerous tributaries are navigable for cargo boats is significant in relation to facilities for easy transportation between the Yangtse and all the eastern part of Hunan to the borders of this province of Wwang-tung. To judge of the extended system, some of its ramifications, the journey across from the Kwang-tung north river to Lienchau to a point in Hunan where a navigable stream is reached that connects with channels by which the traveler may go through to the Yangtse is quite practicable, and has been undertaken recently with fair frequency by persons bent on getting views of three of the finest provinces in China.

As for Hupei, a province divided by the Yangtse into a southern and a northern part, the means of transportation afforded by this river and by the Han, which joins the Yangtse at Hankow, are among the marvels of inland navigation. We have indicated some of the circumstances leading to a more careful and complete control of these great waterways. Other causes are presumably to be sought in the tendency recently manifested by Western nations to take upon themselves the duty of patrolling Chinese rivers. Japan has been the last to intimate an intention of sending war vessels up the Yangtse, and in view of the situation that now obtains between these two countries the reasons for proper control and safeguarding of their avenues of access to her territory have received additional weight and importance.

QUALITY PIONEERS.

Your Store is Winter Ready

Resplendent with the newest and best in the world of fashion for women's, misses' and children's wear. Ready for Winter stocking-up time with such staple lines as warm hosiery and underwear, flannels, blankets, comforts and all wanted housekeeping needs. Good, wholesome merchandise, satisfaction-proof goods warranted to meet the requirements of women who have past the experimental stage in making purchases. The store that has truly merited its title of "Quality Pioneers." While stocks are at their very best it's well to buy Winter's supplies.

Blankets and Comforts

The advance of the Winter season suggests to the housewife an inventory of the bedding closets. If you prefer the best (and the particular woman detests poor bedding), you'll find "Grade One" in our bedding department. Quality supersedes the inferior grade, is the most economical, yet costs little if any more in outlay. Tomorrow we offer 50 pairs of beautiful all-wool blankets, 11-4 size, white with colored borders and pretty plaid effects. Can you duplicate this value elsewhere at $5.00 the pair?

11-4 size, extra soft all-wool blankets, borders of pink, blue, green, yellow, etc.—an extra value—$7.50 the pair.

11-4 size, extra quality, all-wool blankets, weight 6½ pounds—all color of borders—$10.00 the pair.

72x84 silkoline covered comforts, dainty patterns and colorings, filled with sanitary cotton down—$3.00.

72x81 best wool filled comforts—pretty coverings of silky nainsook, new color combinations—light as down—$6.50.

The New Cloakings

These lines are now ready for your inspection. They include the most popular fabrics for Winter wear, for opera and evening wraps, children's and infants' coats, etc. New extra quality "Bearskin," 50 inches wide, long silky hair, colors cream, taupe, cedar, wine, ciel blue, etc.—$2.50 the yard. New elderdowns, 36 inches wide, a choice line of street and evening shades, from 65c yard up.

New Cotton Weaves in Great Variety

In the section devoted to flannels, flannelettes, etc., the counters are piled high, shelves are full to overflowing with fabrics to make up for winter garments of all kinds.

A new and exclusive line of bathrobe flannels with fancy Persian borders, 30 inches wide, 39c the yard.

All-wool Flannel Shirtings, in stripes, checks and plain colors, 45c to 75c the yard.

All-wool Tricot Flannels, new colors, 25c the yard.

The most satisfactory line of plain white and colored Outings in the city, at 10c, 12½c and 15c the yard.

SHARK FISHING OFF HONOLULU.

Washington Herald: "One of Honolulu's most exciting pastimes is shark fishing," said George T. Wilson, a planter of Honolulu. "Large sharks abound off Honolulu harbor, and fishermen may usually count on bringing back one or two sea monsters from eight to fourteen feet long by going three or four miles from shore. The fish may either be harpooned or hooked, the latter method being the easier. The harpooning is more dangerous and more difficult.

"The shark fishers need a small launch, a dead horse, some harpoons or hooks and some large calibre rifles. The horse is sometimes killed a day or two before the expedition, as sharks are supposed to like their horse meat 'high.' The horse is tied at the end of a rope and left to float about sixty feet away from the launch, and then the wait for the sharks begins.

"A shark will usually show up in a very short time. At a distance of sixty feet he is a long green object of indefinite outlines. He approaches the dead horse slowly until a few feet away and then veers off to one side and disappears. But he always returns. Over and over again, sometimes for an hour, he will circle about the dead animal, seeming to be as suspicious as any fox. While the shark is making these repeated investigations the bait is slowly drawn toward the boat. When harpooning is to be done the gait is drawn gradually closer until the shark comes right up to the boat. Then the harpoon is plunged into him and the battle begins. He gets exhausted by and by and then the rifles come into play.

"The sharks are more easily hooked than harpooned. Many tourists who come to Honolulu get up shark fishing parties. There are launches and assistants for hire. The shark usually goes to the fishermen who help, and a small sum is to be realized from the oil its liver affords."

THE CHANGING MISSOURI.

Kansas City Star: The flood has been kind to one town. For years Missouri City, about fifteen miles east of Kansas City, in Clay county, has been off the river map and the steamboats couldn't get within miles of it because of a change in the channel. But recently the high water began to flow through an old channel and in a few days it had cut so deep and so fast that Missouri City awoke Monday morning to find itself on the main channel of the river. A few hours later the steamer Chester passed the old landing and Missouri City's cup of joy was full.

Because of the change of channel the boat line company will now take freight and passengers for Missouri City.

PLAGUE OF RABBITS.

London Standard: Rabbits have of late increased in numbers so enormously in the northern portion of the Isle of Man as to constitute a menace to agriculture.

Yesterday the House of Keys passed a bill having for its object the abolition of the pest. The bill treats rabbits as vermin, and empowers occupiers of land to carry a gun without license for their destruction, and to authorize other persons to carry guns without license for a like purpose.

TAFT HOPES GIRLS VOTE

Nominee Declares Desire for Equal Suffrage in Future.

Responds to Request That He Address the Children.

Washington Court House, Ohio, Oct. 12.—In a short speech he delivered before 8 o'clock this morning to the residents of Morrow and repeated here a little later, W. H. Taft demonstrated that his voice is in excellent condition for the three weeks of constant campaigning he has undertaken.

William Alden Smith, United States senator from Michigan, who is to speak with Mr. Taft in Ohio, told the crowd that Michigan would give the Republican party 80,000 plurality.

At Sabina, just as Mr. Taft concluded a brief address and introduced Senator Smith, some one said: "Judge, say just a word to the children," of whom there were many in the crowd.

"My dear children," smilingly remarked the nominee, "you don't vote now but you will some day and I hope that when you do the girls will vote, as well as the boys."

"I want to say a word to the children," said Senator Smith. "The War of the Rebellion was fought by children. There were in the war 2,000 boys in the union army under 14 years, there were 456,000 under 16, 1,159,000 under 18 and 2,168,000 under 21, while in that army there were but 618,000 men over 22."

MUCK RAKING SCORED BY AGAR

President of Meat Packers Declares Commerce is Hurt.

Chicago, Oct. 12.—The third annual convention of the American Meat Packers' association was opened today by President James S. Agar of this city, who paid his compliments to the muckrakers, saying that "prodding an industry in which we are engaged, in the ribs with a sharp stick has in the past been a highly exhilarating pastime for certain persons, but instead of correcting evils, which in a great majority of cases existed only in the willing imagination of the author, a serious and lasting injury was inflicted on the commerce of our country."

The executive committee, in its report, which was indorsed, stated that during the last year the association had taken an active interest in all of the industrial movements which tend to bring the industries in a closer relationship with the Federal government, and that members of the association had furnished valuable information to the commission appointed by President Roosevelt, which conferred with a similar commission from France to expedite trade between the nations. The committee also reiterated its indirsement of the meat inspection law.

PARTRIDGES INVADE BEMIDJI

Two Birds Said to Have Been Caught There.

Bemidji, Minn., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—That wild game of all kinds, both birds and animals, is plentiful in Beltrami county and especially in the vicinity of Bemidji, is well known by every resident of this community, but one would scarcely believe that many of the wild game fowls would be thriving within the city limits.

Partridges have been so well protected hereabouts that they can actually be found in the main streets of the city.

Vernon Dunbar secured two plump partridges right in the middle of the city Saturday. One of these was captured after it had hit the screen on the residence of Thomas Tedford in its flight from one part of the city to the other.

The other bird was in the street near the Merchants hotel, and as Dunbar approached with his team the bird flew against the window and was stunned.

GOOD ROADS BOOSTED BY MANY NATIONS.

Paris, Oct. 12.—The international good roads congress opened its first official session today. The delegates, who represent twenty-four countries, including the United States, Brazil, Mexico, Chili, India and Japan, were welcomed by Minister of Public Works Bathou, after which several addresses were made. L. W. Page, director of the public roads bureau of the department of agriculture at Washington, spoke on behalf of America, and praised the initiative of France in summoning the congress.

CRUSHED BY SWITCH ENGINE

Superior Boy Mangled Beneath Wheels in Omaha Yards.

While attempting to board a switch engine in the Omaha yards Saturday afternoon, Gosmer Homicki, 17 years old, fell beneath the wheels and was crushed to death. His right arm was cut off and his head was crushed.

He and John Minoski were playing in the yards, and decided to get a ride on one of the engines. They attempted to jump on the footboard on the front of a passing locomotive. Minoski was successful, but young Homicki slipped and fell under the wheels. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Homicki, the parents of the boy, live near the Globe elevator.

PURSE SNATCHER.

Sneak Thief Grabs Purse Containing $8 and Escapes.

A sneak thief Saturday snatched a valuable morocco pocketbook containing $8 from Mrs. Joseph Nicol, 1223 Ogden avenue, and made his escape, only after Mrs. Nicol had put up a brave fight.

She was handicapped with a bundle and her 3-year-old child, otherwise the police would probably have been able to arrive in time to capture the fellow. As it was she screamed and gave the thief a hard fight. Mrs. Nicol's glasses were broken in the struggle.

Lodges Will Combine.

At the grand encampment of Odd Fellows at Oconto Tuesday, the plans of the Golden Rule and Golden Eagle encampments of Superior to consolidate into one lodge to be known as the Golden encampment, will be passed upon. Both these lodges have recently decided that it is advisable to combine.

Will Take the Stump.

J. S. Konkel, Democratic candidate for congress, and I. L. Lenroot, Republican nominee for congress, will both take the stump this week. Konkel will speak at Iron River tonight, Washburn on Tuesday, and at Bayfield on Wednesday. Lenroot will devote part of his time to the Eleventh congressional district. He will speak under the auspices of the state central committee, but owing to his large plurality at the primaries will not make a strenuous campaign in the district.

Will Try for a Pardon.

Judge D. E. Roberts will probably start a movement during the next few days towards securing a pardon for William Keenan, who is serving a four years' term for blowing a safe in Larson's saloon on April 5. Judge Roberts defended Keenan in his trial in the circuit court three months ago.

Keenan persisted in claiming that he was not implicated in the robbery from the time of his arrest until he was taken to the state prison, when he broke down and sobbed that he was going to serve time for a crime that he had not committed. During the trial of "Mickey" Wilson, Robert Bevine, one of the self-confessed burglars, testified on the witness stand that Keenan was innocent, and that he and a Jack Doyle had been the only ones in the deal. Jack Doyle has succeeded in escaping arrest. For this reason Judge Roberts is confident that the governor will pardon Keenan.

BRYAN TO TOUR IN HOME STATE

Seventy Speechs in Nebraska Are on Three-Day Schedule.

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 12.—Preparatory to starting on his three-days' tour of his home state, which begins at Omaha tomorrow, William J. Bryan spent a busy forenoon catching up with his correspondence and talking with local leaders about the situation in this state.

He spoke to the students of Nebraska university on the campus this afternoon. In his Nebraska tour seventy speeches are scheduled.

Bryan last night received a telegram announcing the death of William A. Rothwell, national committeeman for Missouri, and he requested Mayor Frank W. Brown of Lincoln to attend the funeral as his representative.

OLCOTT RE-ELECTED.

Will Again Head the Kitchi Gammi Club—Directors Chosen.

William J. Olcott was re-elected president of the Kitchi Gammi club at the annual meeting held Saturday evening.

T. F. Cole, George C. Stone and W. W. Walker, the three directors of the club whose terms expired this year, were also re-elected. The other officers of the club are elected by the board of directors. The directors have not yet held a meeting.

WEST END

OFFICERS INSTALLED.

Annual Meeting Held at First Norwegian-Danish Church.

The annual meeting of the First Norwegian-Danish Methodist church was held after the regular Sunday evening services yesterday.

The reports of the officers showed last year to have been the most successful in the history of the organization. Twelve thousand dollars was raised during the year by the different organizations, part of the amount going to defray current expenses and a part being devoted to payment on the new church, at Twenty-fourth avenue west and Third street.

Twenty-six new members were admitted to the church during the year and twelve are now on probation. The following trustees were elected and installed last evening: J. J. Moe, chairman; O. M. Jorgenson, secretary; P. George Hanson, treasurer; Andrew Otterson, Fred Dahl, Otto Otterson, A. O. Anderson, John Sorenson and L. Jentoft.

The stewards are: Hartwick O. Hanson, recording secretary; P. L. Morterud, John S. T. Strum, Nels Selseth, Severt Brend, Christ Nibro, Emil Antonson, Nels Berg, A. B. Anderson, Henry Anderson and John Finte. The following will be attached to the church as local preachers: A. P. Lund, Richard Jenson, Andrew Peterson, Gustav Kvisgaard, J. J. Moe, John S. T. Strum and B. Moxmes. The class leaders are A. Stenshy, Robert Peterson, Nels Sorum, A. P. Lund and John S. T. Strum.

Officers of the Ladies' Aid society, elected last week, were installed last evening as follows: President, Mrs. Hanna Welstad; vice president, Mrs. O. L. Jorgenson; treasurer, Mrs. Alfred Anderson; recording secretary, Mrs. O. Reppe; financial secretary, Mrs. H. K. Madsen.

The following officers elected some time ago were also installed last night: Miss Millie Olson, president of the Young People's society; A. B. Anderson, president Epworth league; Miss Hilda Peterson, president Woman's Foreign Missionary society; J. J. Moe, Sunday school superintendent; A. O. Anderson, choir leader; Miss Annie Olson, organist.

NEW PASTOR PREACHES.

Rev. Edward Stromberg in First Swedish M. E. Pulpit.

Rev. Edwin Stromberg, the new pastor of the First Swedish M. E. church, preached his first sermon in that house of worship yesterday morning. Rev. Mr. Stromberg was greeted by a large congregation and made a favorable impression.

Rev. Mr. Stromberg comes from Norway, Mich., where he had charge of a Swedish Methodist congregation. He was assigned to the pastorate of the First church here by the recent conference to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Rev. John A. Anderson to the district superintendency.

Duluth Boy Dies.

George Marcus, aged 19 years and a graduate of Duluth Central high school, class of 1905, died Saturday at Tucson, Ariz., from hemorrhage of the lungs.

He was a son of W. F. Marcus of Oneota and lived in that section of Duluth nearly all his life. He had hosts of friends in Duluth.

The remains will be taken to Wadena, Minn., for interment.

Miss Nelson Dies.

Miss Hulda K. Nelson, aged 40 years, died Saturday at the home of her brother, Edward N. Nelson, 2103 West First street. She had been a resident of the West end for many years.

West End Shortrails.

The evening services in St. Luke's Episcopal church began last evening, when the rector, Rev. Roderick J. Mooney, preached. Hereafter the Sunday services will be held in the evening and the morning services will be discontinued.

Miss Olivio Olson of Port Wing, Wis., and Martin Carlson were married Saturday evening by Rev. Carl G. Olson, pastor of Bethany Swedish Lutheran church. They will be at home after Nov. 1 at 2619 West Fifth street.

Mr. and Mrs. L. K. Helam of 2020 West First street have returned from the Twin Cities, where they have been visiting friends.

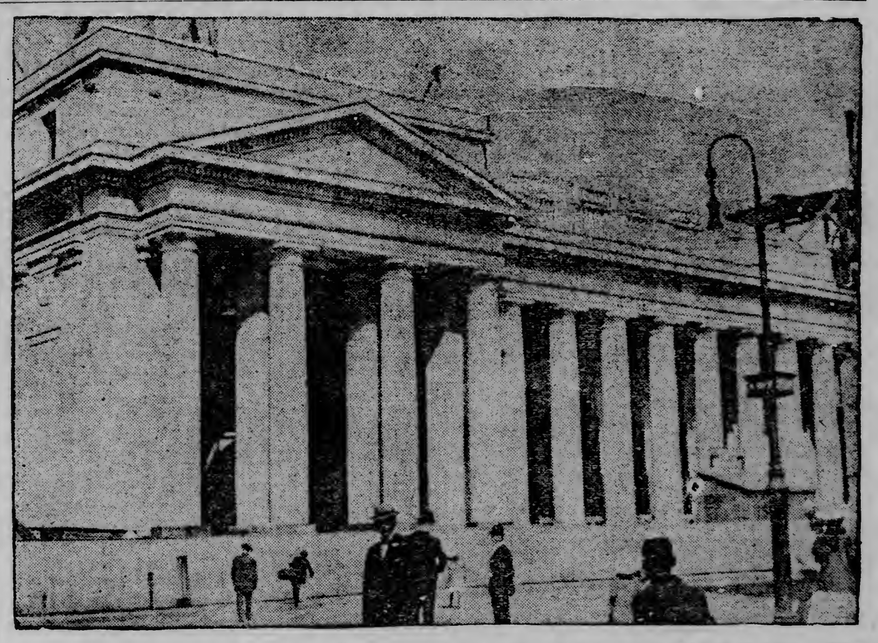

Mrs. A. Beckman of Fond du Lac spent the week-end in the West end.

The quarterly conference of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church will be held Thursday evening in the church. Rev. James Sanacker, the new district superintendent, will preside.

Miss Charlotte MacKenzie of Port Wing, Wis., is visiting friends in the West end.

George Kellogg left yesterday for the Pacific coast country. He will be gone several months.

Girls of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church, from 13 to 19 years of age, are planning a social for the near future. They are going to try to outdo their elders in the matter of conducting these functions.

TO OPEN BIDS FOR CANAL FOOD

St. Paul Will be One of the Opening Points.

Washington, Oct. 12.—Bids will be opened in New York within the next few days for food supplies for the commissary of the Isthmian canal commission up to Jan. 1, 1909. The articles have been separated into classes; on canned fruits and vegetables delivery is called for either at Laboca or Colon with inspection at the point of origin.

Washington has been eliminated as a point for opening bids for commissary supplies on account of the lack of jobbers, Chicago and St. Paul have been added, these being the milling and packing centers of the United States. The contracts called for delivery of packing house products in car lots.

DeWitt C. Sprague Dead.

Washington, Oct. 12.—Col. DeWitt C. Sprague, 72, soldier, lawyer and poet, and United States counsel in Germany and Italy, under the administration of Gen. Grant, died last evening of pneumonia. He will be buried in Arlington National cemetery with military honors.

"Rush Orders a Pleasure" 30-32 West First Street

TO THE PEOPLE OF DULUTH:

P. T. Barnum said, "The American people love to be humbugged." And he was right.

Why is it that an intelligent man will persist in buying a suit as he would buy an oil painting? He enters the fashionable tailor shop as he would enter the studio of the master. All about is an atmosphere of ultra nicety. The tailor himself, tailored immaculately, comes forth and deftly showing one weave or another, as suits is own frncy, makes his prospective customer forget for a moment that he is a buyer. The tailor stands before him as an autocrat, a criterion, from whose judgment there is no turning. The order is taken, the man is measured, and it is not until the bill is rendered, $40, $45, $50 or what not, that the realization strikes him that he has been buncoed, and buncoed right.

Now tell us what is the sense of all this? You know at least approximately what the cloth costs a yard. You can estimate fairly well what your tailor's time is worth per hour. You know too, that he is not spending all his time on your garment, and yet he charges you $40, $45 or $50.

Listen to reason: The Scotch & English Woolen Mills Co. are among the largest manufacturers of woolens in the world. Our factories in Glasgow employe hundreds of workmen turning out the celebrated Scotch Woolens which the buyers of moderate priced goods are wearing generally.

Our factory in Manchester, England, is devoted to a high grade of materials. We own both, but yet we are tailors, making individual garments for intelligent men. We make the clothes and we satisfy the people.

Since the installation of our chain of stores in U. S., we have caused a change in tailoring conditions. This store at 18 E. Superior St. will change things in Duluth. By making suits and overcoats out of our own cloth, we eliminate all middleman's profits, and therefore take but one profit from maker to wearer. So when you read our advertisement of suits and overcoats at $15 and $20, don't mistake them for cheap goods. Our Scotch goods at $15 are on a par with any other tailor made suit in town at $30, and our English goods cannot be duplicated for less than $40 to $50.

MORE HELP IS NEEDED

North Shore People Have Had Little But Clothing.

Nearly Every Homesteader Suffered Loss From Fire.

That the North shore is entitled to more relief from the fire sufferers' relief fund, than it has received thus far, is the opinion of Charles Johnson, of Grand Marais and Nels Ericson of Chicago Bay, and their opinions are shared by N. J. Miller, who is in charge of the relief headquarters here.

"Messrs. Johnson and Ericson have just returned to their homes, after a stay of several days here, and they feel that more money should be expended by the committee in aiding the people on the North shore who suffered losses during the fire," said Mr. Miller this morning.

"They said that there was hardly a settler in Lake and Cook counties who did not suffer some loss from the forest fires, and that being poor people, for the most part, they were facing what seemed to be the hardest winter of their lives.

"According to statements they made in my presence, those whose crops and actual household and farming property were not destroyed by the flames, are in hard shape, financially, for the reason that their enforced activity to prevent the flames from destroying their farms, forced them to neglect their crops and the result is that, in many instances, the season's work of the struggling little farmers went for naught.

"One instance was related to me as follows: A family had just received a winter's supply of groceries. It was unloaded from the boat and a teamster was carting it to the farm. But the flames menaced the roadway ahead, so the carter declined to go farther and proceeded to dump the groceries by the roadside. At that time the settlers were so engrossed in the work of saving their homes, and perhaps their lives, from the flames, that they did not have time to stop and get their supplies. When they did get an opportunity, they found that wild animals had destroyed part of them and the rest was practically worthless from the effect of the weather. There's a whole winter's supply of groceries gone.

"The people of the North shore seem very grateful for what they have received, but there is a strong feeling that they will have to have more aid. Practically the only relief that has been sent to the North shore from the headquarters was a supply of clothing. "This week we expect that a carload each of tables, chairs, mattresses and dressers will go to Chisholm. Some stoves and bedsteads will also be sent."

HARRY MITCHELL HERE IN AUTO

Popular Minneapolis Tailor Makes Fast Trip to Duluth.

After making the run from Minneapolis to Duluth in record time for an automobile, Harry Mitchell, the popular Minneapolis tailor, accompanied by a party of friends, drew up in front of The Herald office Saturday. He is combining business with pleasure on the trip, and brought his gun along, bagging several birds with it along the road. The business part of the trip is the establishment of a branch tailoring establishment in Duluth.

"The run up here from the Twin Cities is one of the finest in the state, when the roads are as good as they are now," said Mr. Mitchell. "When I decided to come to Duluth and look after the preliminaries connected with opening my fashionable tailoring establishment, at 18 East Superior street, I at first thought I would come by train, but a friend asked me why I didn't bring the folks along and use the machine. The suggestion looked very good to me, and I followed it out.

HARRY MITCHELL,

"I am exceedingly glad I did, for the trip was a pleasant one all the way through. We had a delightful time. The air was clear and the sun bright when we left the Twin Cities, and the weather continued fine all the way. The prettiest end of the trip is the half nearest Minneapolis, but the scenery is good all the way up except, of course, for a few burned over tracts.

"We could have made better time than we did, but I am too fond of hunting to pass up a chance. In the vicinity of Pine City there are a good many partridges, and we stopped there long enough for me to bag a few. The swell dressers in Minneapolis say I have a good eye for clothes, but I wanted to prove that I had an eye for something else as well. Around Moose Lake we saw some deer, but it is the wrong time of the year to shoot them, and I had to pass them by. Besides, I had only a shotgun with me.

"I don't object to automobiling for long distances in the least but, of course, everything has its disadvantages. At 3:30 in the afternoon we got ours. We weren't far from Barnum, when a defective cone in the right front wheel was noticed, and had to be replaced.

"I'll put my money against anybody's for making clothes, but I am no mechanic. However, I got it fixed all right, and here we are, happy and ready for a big business in Duluth.

"I am glad to get here, too, for Duluth holds a big place in my heart."

With Mr. Mitchell weer his wife and two children.

Carry Off Cash Register.

Crystal Falls, Mich., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The saloon of Alec Dalpra was broken into a few nights ago and the cash register, containing about $10 in cash, a gold watch and some valuable papers, was carried away.

The cash register was found near Bosanko's lumber yards. The papers were there, but the watch and money were gone.

MRS. RITTMAN IS KISSED BY WOMEN FORESTERS AS DEPOSED RIVAL PROTESTS

Mrs. Rogers Now Says She Will Take Catholic Election Contest Into Court ---Two Gavels Swing at Same Time.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 12.—Mrs. Rose Rittman of Minneapolis has at last been installed high chief ranger of the Women's Catholic Order of Foresters by Miss Tessie Murphy, the new high vice chief ranger.

Mrs. Rogers, the deposed high chief ranger, refused to surrender the gavel to Mrs. Rittman, and when Miss Murphy announced that she would install Mrs. Rittman, the convention broke into an uproar which continued while the obligation was being administered. Mrs. Rittman was picked up by her admirers and place on a table after she had been showered with kisses and congratulations.

A motion was then made to adjourn sine die. Mrs. Rogers prepared to entertain the motion, which was put by Mrs. Rittman, and declared it carried in another uproar, the convention breaking up in the wildest disorder.

Mrs. Rogers declared she would contest in the Chicago courts what she calls Mrs. Rittman's usurpation of the functions of high chief ranger. The climax came as the result of a strenuous session during which Mrs. Rogers continued to wield the gavel, completely ignoring Mrs. Rittman, who also appeared in the hall armed with a gavel, ready to preside.

AERIAL BRIDGE STOPS AGAIN

Breaking of a Cable Puts It Out of Commission.

The aerial bridge was put out of commission again Saturday night by the breaking of a cable. The break occurred at 6:20 o'clock, and as the tug Pacific, used as an emergency ferry, was at Fond du Lac, it took some little time before proper service could be established between the Point and Duluth. Row boats and launches were brought into commission.

The steamer Harvey G. Goulder was approaching the entry at the time the break occurred, but owing to the practice of the bridge tender in not starting out, if there is a boat anywhere near, there is said to have been no danger of a collision, and the boat got through by a safe margin.

This is the third time in a month that the bridge has been out of commission. Just how long it will take to repair the break is a doubtful question. People passing to and from the Point Saturday evening were greatly inconvenienced, and many had to wait two or three hours before they could get across.

It is expected the bridge will be in operation again tomorrow, and possibly by this evening. G. A. Rakowsky, the expert who last week examined the aerial bridge, reported that the cables showed only normal wear and was in good conditinon, but that they needed tightening.

MARINE NEWS

BIG FURNACES ON NIAGARA RIVER

M. A. Hanna Company of Cleveland to Construct Them.

Cleveland, Oct. 12.—M. A. Hanna and company will build two furnaces on the Niagara river, of 300 tons daily capacity, each, at a cost of about $2,000,000.

Work on the furnaces will be started the first of the year, and it is expected that they will be in full operation by the latter part of 1910.

The furnaces will be located between Buffalo and Tonawanda, and they will make five furnaces owned by the Hanna company in the Buffalo district.

When the plants start running, about 500,000 tons of ore will be required a year. The company also intends to improve the water front, build new docks, and do some extensive dredging. They have secured an option on 2,500 feet of water front.

KNOW THIS:

Readers suffering with effects of constipation should know that the lining of the intestines is composed of millions of little suction pumps which suck in the nutrition from food as it passes through the body. If the food does not pass fast enough, it decays, forms poisons and gases and then these tiny suction pumps absorb toxic poisons instead of pure nutrition elements.

This creates an ill feeling sometimes in the head, the back of the neck, the heart, kidneys and even the brain—manifested by "the blues"—and if permitted to become habitual it results in liver and kidney ills, and even malaria, typhoid and diphtheria. Gant, the celebrated writer on medical topics, is authority for these statements. Constipation can be controlled by a harmless physic and tonic, possessing the purifying effects of sulphur, called Blackburn's Cascarayal-Pills, and obtained of any reliable druggist. Look for the portrait and signature of Mr. Blackburn on red cornered package.

NEGRO FIRES FIVE SHOTS

Clifford Cook Vainly Tries to Kill Alex Vennebles.

Clifford Cook, a negro waiter, shot five times at Alex Vennebles, another colored man, Saturday night in the White Star club on Railroad street. Aside from two bullet holes in the hand, Vennebles was unhurt. The shooting was the result of a quarrel over a dice game in another club on First street. Cook was arrested by Patrolman John Roberg. He will be arraigned on a charge of attempted murder.

After quarreling over a dice game in the First street place, Cook followed Vennebles to the White Star club. "Prepare to die," he shouted at the startled negro, at the same time producing a 44-caliber revolver. After the first shot Vennebles jumped hastily into a closet and slammed the door, while Cook kept right on shooting through the panels. Other occupants of the club quickly got out of the room.

After emptying his gun, Cook made a hasty exit from the building, reloading his weapone as he ran. Patrolman John Roberg had heard the shooting from St. Croix alley, and he rushed in the direction of the trouble. The officer caught sight of Cook as he emerged from the alley on to Railroad street and ordered him to stop. The negro yelled that he would shoot unless Roberg got out of the way, but the latter closed in and soon had Cook a prisoner.

It developed that two bullets had passed through Venneble's hand. Cook has a bad record with the police. It is claimed he always carries a razor, and does not hesitate to use it whenever there is an excuse. Late yesterday afternoon a negress, claiming to be the wife of Cook, went to police headquarters and was given the prisoner's diamond, which he signed over to her. Its value is said to be $250. He also has a bank book with a credit of $300.

Cook was arraigned in police court this morning, and his examination was set for tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. The charge against him is first degree assault.

LAY CORNER-STONE THIS WEEK

Elks Will Celebrate Event Wednesday Evening With Banquet.

The cornerstone of the new building being erected by the Elks will be laid Wednesday evening.

Plans are being made by the locals for quite a celebration on this date and after the laying of the stone the members of the lodge will have a banquet at the St. Louis hotel. Many Elks from neighboring towns are expected to be in the city to aid the Duluth B. P. O. E. celebrate the occasion.

The lodge members will march to the new building from the old hall on Superior street Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock, headed by the Third Regiment band.

For many years the Elks have been planning on the new building, and the occasion of the laying of the cornerstone is one of much rejoicing to them. Their new home is being erected on the property immediately west of the Board of Trade building.

The race is not to the swift, but to the competent.

For Fall Cleaning.

Verdigris on metal can be quickly removed by rubbing with a soft rag dipped in liquid ammonia.

In darning curtains if the rent is large take a piece of an old curtain and patch the hole with it and the damage will be scarcely noticed.

Clean enameled bath tubs and marble wash bowls with kerosene, then rinse thoroughly with the strong soapsuds to remove the odor of the kerosene.

Lamp chimneys which have been neglected and are badly discolored may be restored by cleaning with a rag dipped in methylated spirit. When all the stains are removed polish in the usual way.

Soap and powdered chalk mixed and rubbed on mildew spots will remove them. As expeditious matters let the spotted article lie in the sun for a few hours, damping it again as it dries.

GIVE TO LIFE.

Selfish Life is Moral and Spiritual Death.

There is no law by which a man, any more than a rose, can withhold and yet receive. He must give first, and give generously, broadly, magnanimously, if he would develop a magnificent character, if he would accumulate soul-wealth. Give or starve; This is nature's fiat. Give of your sympathy, of your money, of your encouragement, of yourself, or starve, mentally, morally, advises an exchange.

The man who refuses to give, to share what he has received, is as foolish as the farmer who was so wrought upon by the conviction of a coming season of drought and the probable destruction of crops, that he refused to plant his corn. He said that he would keep it in the crib, that he would not risk putting it into the ground, lest it might rot and he be left without provisions for the winter. The drought did not come, however, and the result was that he went hungry, while his neighbors who had planted generously reaped an abundant harvest.

A great philanthropist said that he had saved only what he had given away, that the rest of his fortune seemed lost. What we give away has a wonderful power of doubling and quadrupling itself on the return bound. It is the greatest investment in the world. It comes back in geometrical progression. Give; give!; give!!! It is the only way to keep from drying up, from becoming like a sucked orange—juiceless, insipid.

Selfishness is self-destruction. The man who never helps anybody, who tightly shuts his purse when there is a request to give, who says that all he can do is to attend to his own affairs, who never gives a thought to his neighbor, who hugs all his resources to himself, who wants to get all and give nothing in return, is the man who shrivels and dries up like the rosebud, who becomes small and mean and contemptible.

We all know those poor dwarfed souls who never give, who close the petals of their helpfulness, withhold the fragrance of their love and sympathy, and in the end lose all they tried to hoard for themselves. They are cold, lifeless, apathetic; all their sympathies have dried up; they can not enter into the joys and sorrows, the higher and nobler emotions of human life. Their souls have been frozen by selfishness and greed. They have become so narrow and stingy that they fear to give even a kind word or smile lest they may rob themselves of something. They have rendered themselves incapable of radiating sunshine or happiness, and by working of an immutable law, they receive none.

ARTISTS AND STYLE.

Girls Grow to Look Like Popular Pictures.

The process of evolution in feminine figures may be traced backward in this wise: The tall girl in the sheath-like gown is a present fad decreed by the latest fashion, and the fashion is dictated by cultivated modern taste, which taste sprang from—what else could it be—the creations of artists who are specialists in loathsome terminology.

Charles Dana Gibson was such an artist. When he began to draw women of distinction and refinement, the ideal of the up-to-date American man of the world, a change came simultaneously over the spirit of the modiste's dream. Why? Because everywhere one saw them in pictures—a daughter of the gods, divinely tall and most divinely slim—whose garments were as a part herself, becoming, mysterious, yet truthful. It took a long time to arrive at the clue to the problem of how to look like the Gibson girls. But, as surely as you live, it was thinking in curves that brought about the good results which now appear.

GOOD GROOMING

Creates Impression Worthy of Respect.

The well-groomed woman is the woman who shows a fastidious care in every detail of her appearance, and intelligence in her selection of clothes. She impresses one with more than style and prettiness, certainly more than the mere expenditure of money. Her beauty—no matter how plain her features, she has beauty of a certain wholesome, satisfying kind—breathes honest self-respect rather than vanity, and shows a love for cleanliness, order and appropriateness rather than for ruffles and furbelows. She is never above a respect for fashion, but it must be an appropriate, becoming fashion, says Harper's Bazar.

Even in the ordinary walks of business life, when shopping or marketing or consulting a lawyer or doctor, the way made easy for the woman who immediately creates the impression of being worth consideration and respect. Time is saved, trouble is saved, favors are granted, friendship is gained—all by giving a little extra time and thought to making the best of one's looks. Moreover, a sense of well-being and self-respect added to by the very evident good opinion of one's fellows gives one an entirely different outlook upon life, a self-confidence, poise and dignity which form a splendid background for a distinct development in character as well as looks. Who has not felt the actual degeneration of continued association with a shabby pair of shoes, a soiled shirt waist or a skirt that dips in the back? A naturally sweet disposition will go into total eclipse under any one of these conditions, and all combined may easily leave a distinct effect upon the moral nature. To become a well-groomed woman is to raise one's self-esteem, lift one's head and chest to a higher level, and to avoid a lasting degeneration of this sort. To be sure, even the best regulated individuals cannot escape an occasional attack of dishevelment when exposed to violent winds and storms, even although prepared for the struggle; but at least she who has known how to dress appropriately, and has hairpins, pins and buttons firmly adjusted, withstands them better than those who are carelessly arrayed.

Season's Stockings.

Plain black is good.
Colored shoes must be matched.
For morning there's no elaboration.
Embroidery figures for afternoon wear.
In evening stockings there's endless beauty.
Duchesse lace and baby Irish medallions are applied.
In fact, these evening stockings are altogether bewildering.

Lace Mitts.

Lace mitts have come back and will be doubtless with us during the reign of the poke bonnet and Directoire modes. But the lace mitt of today is far different from its demure ancestor of fifty years ago. The lace mitt of today is, indeed, a saucy and even flippant accessory. The best ones are of real lace and are edged around the top with the ruche which has insinuated itself into every other article of present dress. In addition to these chiffon ruffles, loops of ribbon are also used to create an illusion of the mitt belonging to the sleeve of the dress.

This is a very attractive idea, and as long as the mitts stay in place it looks very well. But imagine the consternation of the populace if it sees the top of the mitt slipping down, ruffles and all! They would immediately think the lady's dress was coming apart in the most remarkable manner.

The price of these mitts range from $1.50 to $75 the pair, according to the value of the lace.

LITTLE COMFORT.

Sheath Gown Accessories Permit of Little Ease.

The woman in her sheath corset may be beauteous to behold as long as she stands up and stands still. She is ornamental and aesthetic when she leans against a mantlepiece or looks out over the water, with her hand on the parapet, or in any other nice, stiff photographic attitude; but when it comes to action she is ridiculous, and should she try to sit down the farce might be turned into a tragedy, says an exchange.

As for running, that, of course, is quite out of the question. The tight sheath corsets forbid any free action of the hips, and the long clinging drapery becomes entangled even when it's supposed to be held in place by loops attached to the inside of the skirt.

These loops, like the straps in a riding habit, are made to keep the gown in place. They have long been worn on the stage, where it is necessary for the actress who wears very long dresses to walk about freely without catching at her skirts or kicking them out in front of her. A loop of ribbon or elastic is attached to the hem of the skirt just where the foot comes and this is slipped over the shoe, there being a loop for each foot.

Dresses of inflexible material have the same loops up at the knee, so that the long graceful lines of the drapery are not disarranged. Of course, this arrangement of loops forbids anything like a quick movement of the limbs. The wearer of a sheath gown must walk slowly—in fact, she must learn to glide. And for the hundredth time woman must readapt her walk, not to the dictates of health or grace, but to the possibilities of fashion which permits her feet only to move in a very limited space at a time.

THE EVENING STORY

THE FANTASY OF A GIRL

By Paul Mitchell.

(Copyrighted. All rights reserved.)

Dear Bess: I was so glad to hear from you, for I wondered if you had forgotten me. It has been an age since I heard from you and I have loads to tell you.

I must first tell you about the congressman. I have a little unsolicited news that he is in South Africa. He might as well be in Hades, for I wouldn't care. He was here two years ago, kissed my hand—and asked if that was to be all. I said, "Yes, I think that will be plenty for you," and I reckon that held him for a while.

Well, here is the rest of my little song of life in G minor, with a Hungarian rhapsody finish. It is a quiet little melody without words. I began this letter on Saturday, and this is my first open date to finish it. I think, however, we'll get there in time for the fox. Something so startling happened yesterday that I want to begin at the end and tell it frontwards—Chinese style—but I'll try and comb it out.

When I first came home I was just a trifle flighty and loved them all at one time, but I have changed my pills now and take them one at a time. In May, nineteen hundred and five, I was rushed by R. A. Burr (no relation to Aaron that I know of, and if he is he has inherited the good qualities of that gentleman).

At that time I never imagined that I cared for him. He was positively lovely to me—called twice a week and took me everywhere. I just treated him like a dog, and a mongrel at that—but have since repented bitterly.

In August of the same summer Mr. C. L. V. Forrest on a boat ride (boat rides are always conducive, you know), and I gave up without a murmur. He was tall, light-haired, but only three months my senior (disgusting). Burr is 29, tall and dark. Well, I surely had it between those two—both in the same town. Of course there were other scatters around rather promiscuously, but I never confide in my right hand the affairs of my left—hence, no conflictions with the "out of towns."

Auntie fussed about Forrest—so did Burr—and you know the effect that would have—made me determined to keep it up if Vesuvius erupted right then and there. I imagined also that I cared for him. Well, Forest was going away in September to the naval academy, so I decided to devote all my time to him. The final crash came when I broke my engagement with Burr for Forest, but I didn't give a whoop what happened. Forrest left in due time for Annapolis and I was left high and dry without regular company. I consoled myself by writing daily bunches of hot air, and in turn received the same with interest. Burr and I quit speaking. I dragged on an uneventful existence—only hits and misses—no one I cared particularly about.

On Thanksgiving of the same year the Masons had a swell banquet, and John Harris took me. He was toastmaster, so we sat, at the table for the guests of honor. Burr was also there, but of course I didn't see him then. After the banquet at the dance we were all lined up on one side of the hall and Burr was taking in the line, glying them all the glad hand. He didn't see me until he was squared right up against me. It would have been rather pointed for him to have passed on, so up he bucked and put out his hand, and I dropped mine in it. What is it they say about the thrill? Well, whatever it is, happened, and when we danced—well, he forgave and forgot all the unhappy past.

We had it rather bad for a while and he made a standing engagement for the dances of the club. I thought I had him, so made him toe the mark and rock when I rocked. Christmas, Forrest came home. Burr and I continued until I went to Grafton, a little one-horse place noted for mud-puddles. I stayed a month, corresponded with Burr, and quit Forrest. I then fell in love with a Grafton man, wore his frat pin and sent Forrest's back. He sent a God-forsaken little note, and out of the kindness of my heart I rekindled the old flame to a certain extent. I then came home, broke the engagement with Burr and sailed in with Forrest. Burr quit for sure. Shortly afterward I sent the Grafton man his frat pin and forgot him.

In May I actually had the real excitement of the year. Brother Bert eloped and Forrest and I helped them. The elopement was quite successful, so we decided to try it ourselves. Our's was not quite so sucessful, thank God. We were going to Walton to spend the day with Bert and his wife. Auntie said "No." I said "Yes." She said, "You can never come back here if you go against my will." I went. That was Saturday. Went back that evening and stayed at my brother's until Monday, then Forrest and I went to his aunt's in Rockville and tried to get married. Auntie and Uncle John seemed to have surmised just such an event and came walking up behind us—and of course we didn't succeed. The Lord knows I am glad, for I despise Forrest. I only went with him for spite, anyway. He doesn't know it though. That happened in June, and we went together during the summer, and no one else thought I cared for their company. They all thought I was in love with him. In September he went to Portland, Ore., and has been there ever since.

All last fall I went with John Harris until I met the superintendent of the R. & D. railroad. That man, had he been younger, would have been the hit of the season. He is 35, medium complexion (sort of betwixt and between), six foot one in military heels, and with a weight somewhere near 200. He was all there—drives, operas, flowers and candy every week. He also gave me a pass over the railroad for nineteen hundred and six. Oh, such a muchness. Well, things moved along this way until yesterday. Now, if you only knew how Burr has been acting ever since we had that little engagement-breaking scene—then you would know how to be properly surprised at this. I was going up to see Mamie Black (she entered college the year after you graduated) and whom should I meet but Burr. Here enters the startling episode, for he stopped and said: "Going up to Mamie's?" A faint "Yes" (crawled from near my Adam's apple (Does a woman have one?). When I was able to sit up and take notice we were walking in that direction. Think of it—he had hardly been speaking to me.

Since it had been my fault, I was more than willing for a reconciliation, and besides, I have found that I really care for him. It has almost killed me the way he has acted. However, yesterday he told me he hadn't been to see another girl, and I'm happy as a dog today.

The Grafton man called me up this evening and said he would come over tomorrow evening. Now wasn't it a shame I had a previous engagemnt with Bobby Burr? I don't want to see that man again, anyway. I think he's positively insipid.

The railroad man is fine. He sends me the flowers and candy every week, but then, just think—a man almost 13 years my senior!

You must come and see me this summer, my dear, for we can have great fun together, and I have loads of things to tell you. You must see Burr, for he is the dearest man. I have a fine young lawyer picked out for you, and I know you'll fall in love with him. With lots of love. Affectionately yours, MARIE.

DIRECTORY OF AMUSEMENTS

WHERE TO GO TONIGHT.

LYCEUM—"The Devil," presented by the Mack-Leone players.

"The Devil."

Duluth people will have their first opportunity of witnessing the dramatic sensation of the East, "The Devil," this evening at the Lyceum.

The Mack-Leone company, by the payment of a very heavy royalty, has secured permission to present the play in Duluth. There is no little curiosity here to witness the drama that has made such a sensation in New York, and the houses will probably be the rule at the Lyceum during the first half of the week.

Miss Leone is back with the company and will appear in the cast this evening.

MINNESOTA WILL ADVERTISE

Federated Commercial Clubs Will Ask Legislature to Contribute.

The state legislature will be asked to appropriate $100,000 to adequately advertise the wonderful resources of Minnesota before the outside world. The movement to secure this amount has been taken up by the State Federation of Commercial clubs, and will be presented to the next session of the legislature.

The commercial club of Herman, Grant county, inaugurated the movement which has been communicated to all the clubs in the state federation. Secretary H. V. Eva, of the Duluth Commercial club, has received a notice of the progress of the movement and a request that the efforts of the local club be enlisted.

As it would prove a decided advantage for the northern part of the state to advertise the resources and attractions of Minnesota, as many of the greatest resources of the state lie at the door of Duluth, the Duluth Commercial club will take up the matter before the coming session of the legislature.

Secretary Eva heartily approves of the plan. He says that if the farmers of this state are to be prevented from crossing the line into Canada, the state must go into the advertising business upon just as big a scale as do the Canadians. He also states that if Minnesota desires to bring farmers to this state, the state must place its attractions before the outside world. Secretary Eva states that an investigation has revealed the fact that $100,000 will be the smallest amount that will suffice to make any kind of a showing in the matter of setting forth the advantages of the North Star stae.

The bill will be prepared and introduced with the pledges of every club in the federation to work earnestly in its support.

BOYS BUILT FIRE.

Started a Blaze Just to See the Teams Run.

The fire department was given a run yesterday to the lake shore, between First and Second avenue east, to extinguish a fire on the breakwater fence at that point. About sixty feet of the fence was damaged. It is claimed two boys started the blaze, just to see the fire teams run.

LITTLE GIRL PREACHES SERMON

Children in Charge of Feast of the Tabernacles Services.

Miriam Solomon, a little girl 14 years of age, delivered the sermon at the Feast of the Tabernacles services at Temple Emanuel, Second street and Seventh avenue east, yesterday afternoon. The effort was a creditable one for a child. The composition, which was all her own, was simple and clear, and her delivery was unfaltering. She took the four plants, the citron, palm, willow of the brook, and myrtle, and compared them to the four classes of Jewry, ending with an appeal for unity and co-operation.

The services were wholly in charge of children. Mildred Bondy, 12 years of age, led the services and the singing, and the scripture was read by Rae Abraham, a girl of 11 years. Esther Gomberg was the organist, and Jessie Cohn and Max Goimberg took up the offering. The services concluded with the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner." Helen Silberstein waving the Stars and Stripes from an elevation.

The Feast of the Tabernacles extends over nine days, beginning with sundown last Friday. The days are regarded as semi-holidays, and no special services will be held until the last day of the feast.

Years ago it was the custom of the Jews to live the nine days in booths, erected in the yards of their homes, to remind them of the workers of the harvest fields living in huts. The custom has been abolished in this country, however. Booths were erected in the basement of Temple Emanuel, and refreshments were served to the children in them after the services yesterday aftrnoon. The booths were erected and decorated so as to impress on the children the ancient custom, which was formerly observed by the church.

SAYS INDIANS KILLED AUTHOR

Trader Reports the Death of James Oliver Curwood.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 12.—It is reported here that James Oliver Curwood, the well-known author of Detroit, Mich., who recently went into the Hudson Bay wilds for a Detroit publishing firm, has been killed by Indians in the Lac La Ronge country.

Details are wanting, but a trader who brought in the report, says that the Lac La Ronge Indians claim that the white man began the trouble by shooting one of their number.

The mounted police are investigating.

STRICKEN BLIND.

Old Resident of Duluth Loses Sight After Protracted Affliction.

Frank Lowry, proprietor of the Astoria cafe, 106 East Superior street, has been stricken blind, and the physicians who have examined him hold out practically no hope that he will ever recover his sight.

Mr. Lowry has been afflicted with an eye disease for two or three years. He was stricken blind last Thursday and there seems no hope that he will ever see again. He is confined to his home, 129 East First street.

Mob Ends Negro's Life.

Empire, Ga., Oct. 12.—A negro named Henry White was shot to death by a mob at Yonker, six miles from here.

White, it is said, started out to shoot up the family of Thomas Allen, and on his way met another negro, whom he shot and wounded.

He went on to Allen's and shot at him and his wife.

White was captured and placed in the lockup.

Later a band of men took him from the lockup, tied him to a tree and riddled him with bullets.

SHIPPING MANY POTATOES.

Clay County's Great Product is Being Marketed.

Moorhead, Minn., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—These are busy days for the potato-growers and the potato buyers, as Clay county's important produce is being sent to market.

There were seventeen cars upon the siding at Watts, Saturday, and into every one potatoes were being loaded. These cars represented shipments by Ed Schroeder and Mr. Bottom, the latter having five of the seventeen cars. At Glyndon Mr. Webb and Mrs. Phelps are busy loading.

The great center of the industry, however, is at Sabin, where Henry Schroeder and the Altenbernds operate. There is something doing there all the time, and Sabin, otherwise staid and quiet, is now a teeming or teaming mart of trade. Things are also lively in the local market.

COUNTY DIVISION MEETING.

People of Crookston to Consider Matter Next Wednesday.

Crookston, Minn., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—President Misner, pursuant to instructions at the special meeting of the Commercial club, has named the committee which will have general supervision over the mass meeting next Wednesday evening, Oct. 14, in the city hall, when it is desired to secure expression as to what the sentiment is regarding the county division proposition. The committee is as follows: Capt. M. R. Brown, chairman; G. S. Chesterman, A. M. Sivertson, Charles Kiewel, John Fournet.

BRING BODY FROM WEST.

Funeral at Brainerd of Josiah Thayer, Killed at Pasco, Wash.

Brainerd, Minn., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral was held here yesterday afternoon of Josiah Thayer, brother of A. E. Thayer of this city, who was killed at Pasco, Wash., last Thursday. The body, accompanied by the family, arrived Sunday morning. The funeral was held under the auspices of Aurora lodge of Masons.

The dead man was for many years a car repairer at the Northern Pacific shops here, and with his family removed to Pasco last winter to accept a position as car inspector for the Northern Pacific railroad at that point.

Mr. Thayer was a brother of Mrs. A. G. Brockway of this city. His mother, Mrs. S. P. Thayer and another brother, George W. Thayer, resides at Bethel, Minn.

The deceased leaves a wife and four children, the oldest being 13 years of age.

Prize Fighter Jailed.

Walter Griffin was arrested yesterday morning charged with holding up Paul Brown, at the corner of Third avenue east and Third street, at 4 o'clock Sunday morning. Ten cents and a bottle of whisky was all that Brown had to be stolen. Griffin is a negro prize fighter. He showed up at the police station and asked what he was wanted for. He was thrown into a cell, despite his protestations of innocence.

Lenroot at Ashland.

Ashland, Wis., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Republican state central committee has notified the chairman of the local committee, that Irvin L. Lenroot of Superior will be in Ashland on Saturday evening, Oct. 17, and will address the people of this city on the issues of the day. Mr. Lenroot will open the campaign as far as the city of Ashland is concerned with this address.

What Retail Markets Offer.

Fresh mackerel, 50 cents each.
Bear chops, 25 cents a pound.
Bear hide. Whatever you'll give.
Crab apples, 90 cents a peck.
Cranberries, 12½ cents a quart.
Quinces, 60 cents a peck.
Dressed figs, 29 cents a pound.

"What funny looking lamb chops," said the housekeeper, relative to the meat which had been brought home by the other partner of the sketch. "They're not a bit like the kind we had the other night."

"The very same," said the purchaser. "These are off the lefthand side of the same lamb."

"They look funny, though," said the new housekeeper.

• • •

"How did you like the chops?" asked her husband.

"Fine," said the wife.

"Bear meat, my dear, bear meat."

"Oo-oo-oh! Don't say that. It can't be," in an hysterical tone.

"But it is," with dogged firmness.

"But just say that it isn't," in a tearful pleading.

"But it is."

"But say that it isn't. Just so so."

"Well!" grudgingly. "They're not."

In great relief. "Oh, thank you. I knew they couldn't be."

Truth, which has been crushed to earth insisting upon rising again: "Well, that's all right of course, Jane. But you know they really are ——."

"Don't please, don't say it."

"Bear chops."

The new housekeeper faints with horror and the hardened brute calmly finishes the last chop.

EVELETH TEAM GET HARD DEAL

Say Ely Gave Them Worst of It in Barring Three Men.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The high school football team consider they were given a raw deal by the Ely high school football management last Saturday in refusing to play the local team after they had reached Ely.

On Friday night, when transportation was not received, the local management called up Ely and the latter said that they would pay the transportation after Eveleth arrived. The Eveleth team went up there and were met at the station by the high school band. After a wait of an hour they received their dinner, having arrived in Ely almost 1 p. m. Meanwhile the Eveleth and Ely principals were deciding on the eligibility of three men on the Eveleth team who Ely wanted barred from the game. These three men were taking commercial studies in the high school and were deemed high school students by the local principal. The Ely management would not stand for them, saying that they had to be taking the regular high school studies.

As the Eveleth team would have been without anyone to play quarter with the three men out they refused to play and had to pay their own expenses for the trip. In a dispatch to a morning paper the three men are referred to as "professionals," a term probably not understood by the Ely man, as the three are all going to school and are taking studies in the high school, not being paid at all, as is implied by the term "professional."

Next Saturday the local team will play at Hibbing.

START OUT WELL.

Virginia Football Eleven Take Both Games Played.

Virginia, Minn., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Roosevelt high school football team defeated the Two Harbors Y. M. C. A. team on the local grounds Saturday afternoon by a score of 16 to 6. The game was hotly contested throughout and many brilliant plays were made on both sides. This was the second game won by Virginia thus far this season, the team having defeated Ely, one week ago. Virginia has the pennant for the best baseball team, and it is just possible that she will have another flying at the Roosevelt park at the close of the football season.

HIBBING HUNTERS BACK.

Brought Plenty of Game From Bowstring Country.

Hibbing, Minn., Oct. 12.—Special to The Herald.)—Stephen O. Geiser, A. A. Gleriet and J. L. Stewart returned Friday evening from the Bowstring country, where they spent a week shooting ducks. They were loaded down with game.

Norman LaMonde of Duluth, private secretary to A. M. Chisholm, spent part of last week in Hibbing. Mr. LaMonde was formerly assistant cashier of the Merchants and Miners State bank of this city.

Marc Atkinson and Winfield Remington left Saturday morning for Duluth to witness the Duluth-Grand Rapids high school football game.

Mr. Mrs. C. L. Dubrecht, who resided at the Stevenson mine for several years, where Mr. Ruprecht was employed by the Drake & Stratton company, have returned to Hibbing.

Herman Nathansan of Virginia is said to be figuring upon going into the clothing business in Hibbing.

TEMPERANCE WORKERS MEET

Entertaining Evening Passed by Eveleth Society.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 12.—(Special to the Herald.)—The Wahlon Lande Temperance society had an enthusiastic meeting last night at which Ivar Ahenen of Hibbing delivered the address of the evening. Rev. J. Wargelin introduced the speaker and played a few selections on the piano. Refreshments were served. The Wahlon Lande society is in a very prosperous condition, at present having about 135 active members, most of whom attended the meeting last night. The society has been having a number of these meetings and entertainments of late and all have been well attended.

HIBBING REPUBLICANS EFFECT ORGANIZATION.

Hibbing, Minn., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Hibbing contingent of the Republican county committee have perfected a local organization.

A. P. Stillman was chosen chairman and Clarence E. Dwyer secretary.

The following standing committees were chosen:

Executive—D. C. Rood, H. R. Weirick and A. E. Pfremmer.

Speakers—T. F. Brady, A. E. Pfremmer and Frank Wildes.

Finance—A. E. Pfremmer, D. C. Rood and H. R. Weirick.

A resolution was adopted authorizing the formation of a Taft and Jacobsen club in Hibbing and the work will be started forthwith.

Republican headquarters have been established at the Hotel Hibbing in a room just off the lobby, where will be found plenty of Republican literature and members of the party at all times.

REFEREE APPOINTED TO HEAR TESTIMONY.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The supreme court appointed J. Simon of Duluth as referee in the Gilbert incorporation case and he will take the evidence in the case most likely at Gilbert.

The final decision of the case is being awaited for anxiously by the other range towns similarly situated as regards mining lands within their limits.

VIRGINIA WILL GREET GOVERNOR

Range City Planning a Warm Welcome for Executive Tuesday.

Virginia, Minn., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor John A. Johnson and party are expected to arrive in Virginia on a special train over the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railway at 1:45 tomorrow afternoon. The governor will be met at the depot by a committee of prominent Democrats and a large crowd of citizens.

The Virginia brass band has been engaged for the occasion, and the governor and party will be escorted to the Fay opera house directly upon the arrival of the train, where the governor will speak.

Governor Johnson has many admirers in Virginia, and it is expected that a large crowd will turn out to greet him. Virginia gave Governor Johnson a majority two years ago, and his friends and supporters here are sanguine of doing the same thing for him at the November election.

To Speak at Eveleth.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor Johnson will speak here tomorrow noon, at the Vail hall. He will come in on a special train from Biwabik, and will be met at the train by a brass band and a large number of voters. George Mulligan, local committeeman, has charge of the arrangements for this city, and has everything ready for a hearty reception for the governor. From here Governor Johnson will go to Virginia and then to Hibbing. The meeting in the Vail hall will commence about noon.

CHISHOLM WILL BUILD HALL.

Will be Used by Village Council and Fire Department.

Chisholm, Minn., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the last meeting of the village council a large number of bills were acted upon.

The question of a new village hall was decided upon and Radcliffe & Price were appointed architects and authorized to prepare plans at once. It was decided to have no public hall but to use the second floor for the city offices, with a municipal courtroom and a council chamber, and to give the whole of the first floor to the fire department, which it was thought necessary in the near future. It will be of the same size.

W. C. Marden, representative of the Pittner lighting system, was given the contract to furnish the village with twenty lights for street purposes. They will be scattered over the village and be placed at the corners; price $47.50 each, and the lamps will be taken back by the company when the village gets through with them at a certain price.

No dirt is to be hauled on the streets by excavators at the present time, as it is believed that it will block Lake street while building is going on.

CANDIDATE IS SANGUINE.

Virginia's Candidate for Clerk of Court Hopeful.

Virginia, Minn., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—A. N. Thompson of this city, Democratic candidate for clerk of the district court, returned Saturday evening from a campaign tour in several of the St. Louis county towns along the range. It is the intention of Mr. Thompson to cover the entire district before the campaign closes, and reports that thus far his candidacy is meeting with much encouragement. Mr. Thompson also reports that he is hopeful of carrying off the toga.

EVELETH CIVIC LEAGUE CONTINUES ITS CAMPAIGN.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 12.—(Special to the Herald.)—The Civic league is keeping up its crusade for the strict enforcement of the saloon and slot machine laws. It has been reported that an attempt was made to start the slot machines again, and Assistant County Attorney Poirier, when consulted, said that the thing to do was to ask the city council to remove all slot machines from the city whether in use or not, and then if the council fails to comply with the request, he will take legal action.

The proprietors of the remaining house in the red light district will be given three days within which to move out and if they fail to do so the police will close the place up. The other place was closed up some time ago because of a fight. Mr. Poirier says that those keeping the houses will have to move out in a hurry.

VIRGINIA FIRE CHIEF ILL FROM EXPOSURE.

Virginia, Minn., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Assistant Chief of the Fire Department James Stickney is confined to his home on Hemlock street with a severe attack of rheumatism. It is thought that the attack is the direct result from exposure during the forest fires. Mr. Stickney was in charge of the crew which did the back-firing west of the Virginia Lumber company's plant and put in some strenuous night work at that time.

To Begin Logging.

Chisholm, Minn., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hays & Hackett will start work within a few days putting in mining timber and pulp wood. On account of the fires, the latter is very scarce, and the former is quite scattering. But, nevertheless, they expect to do a good winter's work.

Takes Virginia Position.

Virginia, Minn., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Bessie Whiting, who has held the position of clerk of the municipal court at Chisholm for some time past, has resigned to accept a like position with Municipal Judge James P. Carey of this city.

Missabe Range lodge, No. 654, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, are making preparations to give a grand ball at Finnish Temperance hall on the evening of Oct. 30. La Brosse's orchestra will furnish the music for the occasion.

INTAKE CONTRACT

Will Probably be Awarded by Eveleth Council Tuesday Night.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The council will hold a meeting tomorrow night to award the contract for putting in the intake at the pumping station.

The only bid in is that of Pastoret & Lunz. They were awarded the contract last week, but as the superintendent of the waterworks was in favor of having a 16-inch intake instead of the 12-inch intake specified in the specifications, the resolution was put on the table until the council could have the opinion of the city engineer. The latter is in favor of the 12-inch intake, and it is thought that, with the other 12-inch intake now at the plant, the two of them will be able to supply enough water for the present pumping station to handle and for the service pipe to the city to carry. It is probable that the contract will be awarded to Pastoret & Lunz on the original specifications. Work will be started as soon as possible, as the council is very desirous of having the work done at once.

EVELETH JEWS MAY BUILD NEW SYNAGOGUE.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The congregation Agudas Achrem met last night in their synagogue for the annual election of officers and to decide whether to build a new synagogue, as the present one is not large enough for all occasions. Quite a number were present and elected the following officers: Jacob Senpel, president; Jacob Stein, vice president; George Mesberg, secretary; Gabriel Perlman, treasurer; Sam Levant, trustee three years; Nachman Stein, trustee two years; Hymen Seigel, trustee one year. A committee was appointed to look up a site and the advisability of building a new synagogue.

Speeches were made by the retiring and new officers. Refreshments were served after the election.

FIGHT OVER FENCE.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—A case is being tried before Judge Prince today which is out of ordinary. A man named Vincenti fenced in Bonefficio Constantino, both of whom are squatters on land belonging to the Fayal Iron company. Constantino and his son-in-law, who could not get out, tore up the fence and threw it away. Vincenti had him arrested and the trial resulted.

MANY MEN GIVEN JOBS.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—About 100 men will be placed at work on the night shift at the Fayal mine tonight. There has been a lively scramble for the work, about 200 men being after the jobs.

Knife River School Opens.

Knife River, Minn., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The improvements on the Knife River schoolhouse having been completed school began today, under Principal McCormick.

The resignation of Rev. A. S. Johnson, pastor of the Norwegian Lutheran church here for seven years, has been accepted and he has departed for Lincoln, Ill., where he has accepted a call.

Hibbing Department Store.

Hibbing, Minn., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. J. Cox has leased his new block on Pine street, now in course of construction, to Nathanson Bros. & Bloom, who will occupy it about Jan. 1 with a complete department store. Nathanson Bros. have a store at Virginia and Mr. Bloom is from Superior. It is understood that the latter will have charge of the new store.

HAPPENINGS AT CARLTON.

Items of Interest From Nearby County Seat.

Carlton, Minn., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Several large railroad outfits passed through Carlton last week on their way to the Soo line south of here.

T. H. Johnson of Sioux City, Iowa, was here last week looking after his real estate interests in the Blackhoof country.

Clement Peters fell out of a tree in which he had climbed to a height of twenty feet or more recently and broke his right leg above the knee.

Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Young of Cloquet have taken charge of the restaurant formerly occupied by Swanson Bros., opposite the depot. The building has been recently remodeled and neatly equipped.

Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Winklesky of Lowell, Wash., are visiting friends in Carlton. They will visit with friends and relatives in the county a few weeks before returning to Lowell, where Mr. Winklesky is employed in a paper mill.

John McLaughlin of Hibbing, an old-time line camp foreman for Sauntry Cain in the early logging days of this county, was in Carlton on business Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Shaver have removed to Lake City, where they will make their future home, Mr. Shaver having sold his residence here to Emil Magnison.

EVIDENCE AGAINST HAMILTON

Duluth Drayman, Who Delivered Infernal Machine, Located.

Houghton, Mich., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Another link in the chain of evidence against George A. Hamilton was forged by Sheriff Beck when produced from Duluth a drayman who testified that he had delivered the famous box to Hamilton, and who, when taken to Hamilton's cell, identified the prisoner as the man.

The box already had been traced from point to point after leaving the shipper's hands at Duluth. Now that its history before being converted into an infernal machine has been uncovered there remains little to be gained unless it is a photograph of its originator in the act of putting the box together.

The sheriff accompanied his latest witness upon the latter's return to Duluth, and he expects to spend several days in the Zenith City.

WIFE OF HAYTIEN PRESIDENT DIES.

Port au Prince, Hayti, Oct. 12.—Mme. Nord Alexesis, wife of the aged president of Hayti, died here today after a short illness. The government is preparing for a national funeral.

Missouri Democrat Dead.

Chicago, Oct. 12.—Word was received by Chairman Mack here last night of the death at Moberly, Mo., of Democratic National Committeeman W. A. Rothwell. Mr. Mack appointed a committee to attend the funeral. He will leave for Buffalo Friday to register.

MUST ATONE FOR CRIMES

Judge Cant Sentences Offenders to State Penal Institutions.

Four to Stillwater, Two to St. Cloud, and Two to Jail.

The first grist of offenders, who pleaded guilty or were found guilty of criminal charges in district court during the September term, was sentenced by Judge Cant Saturday afternoon. There were eight in the party, and they will be distributed among the different penal institutions of the state. Four go to Stillwater, two to the reformatory at St. Cloud, and two to the county jail.

Fred Meyer, convicted of forgery, drew the heaviest sentence. He will serve two years and six months in Stillwater. Meyer was sent up twice from Minneapolis for forgery and once he broke parole. He has a wife and three children in Minneapolis.

Fred Ballard, who pleaded guilty to a forgery charge, drew one year in the penitentiary and John O'Toole, convicted of burglary in the third degree, was given the same. Both said they were drunk when they committed the crimes and it was their first appearance before a court.

Charles Hakkala, who was convicted of grand larceny in the second degree in the theft of $60 from a roommate at Chisholm. He was given a reformatory sentence. Mike Zrimic, convicted of an abominable crime, was also given a reformatory sentence.

Leonard Korti, the Aurora man, who pleaded guilty to assault in the second degree, was let off with a sentence of nine months in the penitentiary at Stillwater. Korti didn't remember anything of his crime. According to the testimony of witnesses, the marshal was taking him to jail, when Korti turned on him with a small pocket knife and stabbed him several times. Korti has a wife and three children and, as drink alone seemed to be responsible for his criminal outburst, Judge Cant was inclined to be lenient.

Robert Pringal who was charged with kidnaping, but was convicted of assault in the third degree, was let off with a sentence of forty days in the county jail. Pringal was drunk and his queer actions around several children caused some citizens of the village of Fall Lake to think he had criminal designs.

Axel Lind, charged with grand larceny but convicted of petit larceny, was given ninety days in the county jail.

RESOLUTION IN FAVOR OF TONNAGE TAX REJECTED

Democratic State Board of Equalization Opposed to the Idea.

Sto. Paul, Minn., Oct. 12.—Special to The Herald.)—The Democratic state board of equalization Saturday voted down a resolution offered by Thomas Meighen, recommending the passage by the next legislature of an iron ore tonnage tax law. It was the last act of the board, which then passed into history, as it will be succeeded by the state tax commission at the end of the present year. The resolution was rejected by the decisive vote of 12 to 5, it being the opinion of the majority that under the present system the iron mines are taxed equitably and that a tonnage tax, which would all go into the state treasury, would work a gross injustice to the village and township governments, which now derive nearly all their revenues from this source. It was in line with the statement repeatedly made by Governor Johnson that he would never sign any bill that deprived local communities of their chief source of revenue.

The resolution offered by Mr. Meighen contained many "whereases" and stated that in view of a reduction of nearly $11,000,000 in the iron companies' assessment, explained, he said, by the tax commission because of their being that much less ore in the ground, it having been removed since the last assessment, that the board go on record as favoring a tonnage tax for all ore shipped out of the state and that the next legislature be asked to pass such a law.

Accompanying the resolution were figures compiled by Mr. Meighen for the purpose of backing up his argument and these figures were attacked by Henry Nolte of Duluth. He declared they were false and Mr. Meighen knew it, over $5,000,000 having been added instead of a reduction being made.

Mr. Meighen replied with much warmth that he used figures given out by the tax commission. Chairman Champlin stopped the discussion by saying there was only one thing involved, whether the board was for or against the resolution, and he called for the vote. It followed, 12 nays and 5 yeas, and the resolution was declared lost.

RELIEF WORK PROGRESSES WELL

Mayor Returns After Spending Three Days at Chisholm.

Mayor Haven returned from Chisholm, Minn., Saturday evening, after having spent three days in the fire district watching the progress of the relief work, and getting pointers as to further needs of the people who lost their homes in the recent forest fires.

The mayor, who is chairman of the relief commission appointed by Governor Johnson, says the work is going along nicely. There are fifteen houses now under course of construction, and several of these will be ready for occupancy before the end of next week. It is said the Great Northern road, which is charging full rates for all supplies shipped to Chisholm, whether for relief work or otherwise, is giving poor service, which is a handicap to the rebuilding of the town, on account of many annoying delays.

Supplies, although ordered, are slow in arriving, and it is feared that unless they come forward in better shape there will be suffering from the cold a little later on.

Mayor Haven says the published estimate of two weeks ago of the total amount of money needed for relief work was entirely too low. Each day brings to light new needs that require money to supply. The item of freight bills on relief supplies was one item not figured on. It was the understanding that the Great Northern would transport the freight free of charge as its contribution to the relief fund, but there seems to have been a mistake somewhere, for regular rates are being charged.

JOHNSON SPOKE AT MINNEAPOLIS

To Four Thousand People and Enthusiastically Received.

Minneapolis, Oct. 12.—Governor John A. Johnson addressed an audience of 4,000 persons in the Auditorium Saturday night. Every seat in the big edifice was filled, but unluckily the governor was suffering from a cold, and aside from dwelling on J. F. Jacobson's record he talked but little, leaving national issues to Former Governor John Lind, who preceded him.

Governor Johnson went directly to the personal record of Mr. Jacobson. He said that Mr. Jacobson had appeared as a candidate for state auditor, and later as a candidate for governor, and after both defeats had attributed his failure to the opposition of the "interests." He declared that R. C. Dunn had publicly claimed the responsibility for the selection of Jacobson as a candidate, and that Mr. Dunn had had the hearty support of the "interests" in this selection.

Approved by Corporations.

Later, said the governor, the leaders of Ramsey county, of Hennepin county, and of St. Louis county, who were known for their corporation connections, had approved the choice of Mr. Jacobson, and declared for him.

"The charge has been made that he had made terms with the interests," said Governor Johnson. "The charge was not made by Democrats, because it was not necessary for the Democrats to make it. The Republican papers of the state begged Mr. Jacobson to make a denial. The charge was made by Attorney General Young over his own signature.

The governor referred at length to the dinner given Mr. Jacobson at Duluth, which Johnson referred to in his keynote speech as a "Belshazzar feast." He said he had been freely criticised for this characterization, and especially by the women who had served the dinner, and who saw in his remarks a reflection upon themselves. He had meant no reflection upon the dinner, he said, and had called it a "Belshazzar feast," solely because he believed the handwriting on the wall should be plain enough to the guests who attended it, and who included trust officials of the United States Steel corporation.

The governor was enthusiastically applauded when he arose to speak and throughout his address.

SIX THOUGHT LOST, ARE SAFELY LANDED.

Boston, Oct. 12.—Capt. Monroe and five of the crew of the British schooner Siro Ciro, who were supposed to have been lost when their vessel was wrecked off the Florida coast on Oct. 1, were landed here today by the fruit steamer Horatus.

CRUSHED TO DEATH WHEN AUTO PLUNGES.

New York, Oct. 12.—Martin Conly, Jr., an employe of the comptroller's office, was crushed to death under an automobile early today when the machine, which was whirling along at forty miles an hour, leaped from the road, crashed through an iron fence and landed, bottom upward, in the open subway out of the Long Island railroad at Howard and Atlantic avenues, Brooklyn.

Well to Remember.

A little vinegar put in the water when boiling fish will tend to harden the flesh and keep it firm. In case of fire tie a wet silk handkerchief over the face to prevent suffocation from smoke. Then recovering from an illness, take regularly at mealtime and upon retiring a glass of golden grain belt beer. It will help build up the system and revitalize the nerves. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Duluth branch Minneapolis Brewing company.

S.S.S. HEALS SORES AND ULCERS

Sores and Ulcers are indications of impure blood. They show that the circulation has become infected with germs and poisons, which are being constantly discharged into the open place to irritate the delicate nerves, tissues and surrounding flesh and keep the sore in a state of inflammation and disease. Whether these impurities in the blood are the result of some debilitating sickness, an old taint from a former disease, or whether it is hereditary bad blood, there is but one way to cure sores and ulcers, and that is to purify the blood. Washes, salves, lotions, etc., are often beneficial because of their cleansing, antiseptic effects, but nothing applied to the surface can reach the blood, where the real cause is, and therefore cannot cure. S. S. S. is the remedy for sores and ulcers of every kind. It gets down to the very bottom of the trouble and removes every trace of impurity or poison, and makes a lasting cure. S. S. S. changes the quality of the circulation, so that instead of feeding the diseased parts with impurities, it nourishes and heals the irritated, inflamed flesh and causes the ulcer to fill in with healthy tissue by supplying it with pure, rich blood. Book on Sores and Ulcers and any medical advice desired sent free to all who write.

THE ISSUE IN MINNESOTA.

It is getting on toward the end of the campaign in this state, and it is pretty nearly time somebody proposed an issue, if there is to be any issue. As Governor Johnson has been at the head of the state government for nearly four years, and as Jacobson seeks to elbow him out of that place and put himself in, it seems to be up to Jacobson or his friends to furnish that issue.

So far, they haven't done it. The issues have all come from the other side. On the Johnson side there is the issue of a splendid administration, full of real accomplishments for the state and its people. There is the issue of an alert and aggressive friend of the people, whose magnificent achievements have brought honor to himself and fame to his state. There is the issue of four years of progress and prosperity, during which much has been done to develop the latent resources of the newer parts of the state. In short, there is the issue of a capable, active and brilliant state executive who was renominated by his party in spite of his own reluctance, and whom his party now brings before the people for their approval and for re-election to two years more of the same kind of government.

On the other side, what is the issue? Third term? That has already been forgotten. "Divided responsibility?" That has turned into an excellent argument for the continuance of present conditions, and Candidate Jacobson is trying to forget that, too. Extravagance? The governor has shown that even though that accusation would rest upon the Republican legislature and not upon him if it were true, it is distinctly not true; and the people, from whom that complaint would have quickly come if it had been justified, support him in his showing. Continuance of the policy of regulation of large interests for the benefit of the people? Having been nominated by these large interests, Jacobson is saying nothing of this. The personalities of the candidates? There is very evident reluctance on the part of the Jacobson supporters to do anything more than to assert that personality is not an issue at all.

What is the matter? Governor Johnson has occupied his present office for nearly four years. If he had made any mistakes, if he had done things that he had made any mistakes, if he had done things that he should not have done, or left undone things that he should have done, the record is an open book, and the opposition should be able to find the flaws if there are any flaws in it. But there is no hint of anything of this nature. Indeed, the Jacobson advocates exhibit the greatest reluctance to discuss this subject at all, and they pass by the open book of that record with their eyes fixed determinedly in another direction.

Is the issue partisanship? The Jacobson advocates would like to make that the issue. They know that Governor Johnson has been elected twice with the aid of voters who are nominally Republicans, but who do not feel that their partisanship binds them to support all the candidates the interest and their lackeys, the bosses, present to them. Those independent Republicans are citizens first, and Republicans second; and Jacobson has emptied the vials of his wrath upon them, telling them that they do not know enough to split their tickets. If Jacobson were a better man than Johnson, no doubt these independent Republicans would vote for him; but not otherwise. They have not been shown that he is a better man, or that he is half so good; they have not been shown any reason why they should desert Governor Johnson except that Jacobson, nominated by the Dunns, the Reeses, and the Shevlins, is the Republican candidate. The reason is wholly insufficient.

THE TROUBLE IN THE BALKANS.

The current outbreak in the Balkans is the successor of a long series of similar disturbances, and that it is more menacing than any in recent years is simply the logical result of trying to keep the cover on a boiling pot by main force. Sooner or later the pent-up steam becomes more powerful than the force that is sitting on the lid, and there is an explosion.

There is no more excuse for a general war over it, however, than there would be for a fist fight over a dispute between two civilized men such as the courts are sitting to decide. The matter is easily susceptible to arrangement and just determination. In less civilized times men carried weapons and used them to settle their differences. Now the carrying of guns has gone out of fashion, and men take their arguments into the courts. But nations still carry weapons, and so long as they do there will always be danger of war. In time, however, world society will become as civilized as American or European society, and then the international courts will settle international differences as the national courts now settle disputes between individuals.

The latest trouble in the Balkans had encouragement in Turkey's domestic troubles, growing out of the success of the young Turks in their revolt against the sultan's despotic rule. Seeing this, Bulgaria grew uneasy. Bulgaria wants to get out from under even the little that is left of Turkish rule, and besides Prince Ferdinand wishes to become a king. In addition to this, Austria-Hungary has long been anxious to formally incorporate in the empire the provinces of Bosnia and Herzegovina, of which the emperor has had "administrative control" for thirty years, though the nominal sovereignty remains with the sultan. These several motives have long been a menace to the peace of Europe, and the treaty of Berlin at the close of the Russo-Turkish war in 1878, while designed to curb the Balkan trouble, simply amounted to putting too light a weight upon the lid covering an ever-growing volume of steam generated by Bulgarian and Austrian ambitions.

In a situation so ripe for an explosion, naturally it didn't take much to set it off. One of the incidents that were vital here is almost ludicrous in its nature. When the young Turks won their triumph the event was celebrated at Constantinople with a state banquet, at which the sultan presided. All the diplomats were invited with the exception of the representative of Bulgaria at the Sublime Porte. Explanations that he was simply a diplomatic agent, and that he was neither an ambassador nor a minister, or even a charge d'affaires, did not smoothe the ruffled plumes of the Bulgar. He reported the insult to his government and was promptly recalled. With this breach of diplomatic relations already at hand, little more was needed to get the train of powder going.

BEATING AROUND THE BUSH.

The News Tribune honors The Herald by giving it mention seven times in this morning's kaleidoscope of transparent subterfuge and deceit. Also it mentions Governor Johnson, either directly or as "the governor," something like seventeen times. Just incidentally, it gives grudging notice to Candidate Jacobson five times.

What it is all about is a little difficult to determine, for by this time the morning paper has so entangled its wits and its limbs in a maze of sophistry and falsehood that it hardly knows itself. "Oh, what a tangled web we weave, when first we practice to deceive." Only this isn't the morning paper's first attempt.

Taking yesterday and today together, we discover first that the morning paper is very much worked up about the West Duluth Republican club's banquet. It seems that the governor said that there were officials and political workers of the steel company present at that banquet, and the News Tribune says this is an insult. Is it? If it is, does the morning paper desire to be understood as denying that they were there?

We discover also that the morning paper, having proved that Governor Johnson has opposed robbing St. Louis county by a tonnage tax and that Jacobson has favored it, is trying to get out of it by deliberate falsehood. It admits that Jacobson favored a tonnage tax that will despoil this country. Has he ever repudiated it? He was on hand at the last session of the legislature to help it along, though he was not a member of that body.

We discover that in the governor's message to the legislature of 1907 he "recommended a 5-cent tax on the ore, all to go to the state;" and we discover from another part of the News Tribune's article on the same subject that he distinctly opposed any such proposition, advocating a tax on the untaxed royalties received by fee-owners if they could be reached. What Duluth man, not a fee-owner, opposes such a tax, if it can be successfully imposed?

Now neither The Herald nor the News Tribune is running for any office. The contest is between Governor Johnson and Jacob Jacobson. We wish the morning paper would keep that in mind, and remember that as an advocate of Jacobson—if it is an advocate of Jacobson, not merely a bushwhacking enemy of Johnson—its duty is to give reasons, if any exist, why the people should prefer Jacobson to Johnson. It has not done this; it has merely attacked Governor Johnson, as it has throughout his entire career, with lies and misrepresentations. It has no word of commendation for Jacobson; no reasons why he should be preferred. Governor Johnson's record is an open book; the people know more about it than the News Tribune does; at any rate more than it will tell. He is running on no 15-year-old record, but on one that is fresh in the minds of the voters.

It would be more to the point, therefore, if instead of continuing its campaign of falsehood and misrepresentation against Johnson, it would try to misrepresent Jacobson; it will find that it will be necessary to do that in order to make him appeal to the voters.

The Herald has repeatedly asked the morning paper to furnish a single reason why Jacobson should be elected. Up to date it has not done so.

"MONEY IN THE BANK."

Under the above caption Gen. A. B. Nettleton, a former Minnesotan who was assistant secretary of the treasury under Windom, contributes to the Chicago Evening News a luminous and convincing discussion of the guaranty of bank deposits in which he protests against the attempt to make the proposition a campaign issue, to rise or fall according to the result of the campaign. A life-long Republican, he says that no one has been authorized to array the Republican party or Republican voters against the plan.

Says Gen. Nettleton: "Bank deposit guaranty is primarily and centrally intended, not to protect a relatively few bank depositors against the possible fractional loss which statistics indicate, but, by protecting them at slight cost, to protect the entire community, including the banks themselves, against the devastating and enduring evils of recurrent bank-and-business panics. These always originate in the sudden fear of depositors that their bank deposits are not safe and the reciprocal panic fear of banks that their own solvency is about to be endangered through an excessive withdrawal of money by scared depositors. The guaranty proposition is justifiable and important just in proportion to its practical efficacy in accomplishing this absolutely immeasurable benefit to all interests and all classes. Much of the current adverse comment misconceives the real purpose of any such measure, and is directed against imaginary impossible projects. Straw men are being unmercifully pommeled."

Taking up the chief arguments against the plan, Gen. Nettleton discusses the objection that the scheme would take money from one bank to pay the default of another which it does not control. As to this, "our 20,000 banks, being a mob of detached and unrelated units, and not a community of mutually helpful neighbors, have disastrously failed to discharge the functions and perform the service for which they were created. If acting in harmony, on some workable plan of co-operation, they would themselves be virtually impregnable; it is the old story of the weakness of the separate twig and the unbreakable strength of the bound fagot. Our mass of dissociated banks, instead of being in times of financial disturbance the powerful bulwark to the public which they might and should be, in fact become an active menace to the community by suddenly becoming the breeders of panic and revulsion. The banks depend for their solvency on a mutual confidence existing between themselves and their depositors, and on this confidence the fabric of business depends. When that confidence is displaced by reciprocal fear, panic and depression result."

Following out this logical and unanswerable line of reasoning, Gen. Nettleton comes to the conclusion that a reasonable and practical guaranty plan would tend strongly to preserve that mutual confidence which is so essential to industrial security. W. J. Bryan and the Democratic party have also come to that conclusion; the Republican party seems to have definitely determined that the plan would be too irritating to the bankers, so it opposes it. That situation will have a lot to do with determining the presidential choice of many voters.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

"Texas will give Bryan a big vote this year," says T. E. McKenna of Dallas, who is at the Lenox. "The people down there are of the opinion that Mr. Bryan is going to be elected, so they don't think they are working in the interests of a losing cause.

"If you will take the trouble to look up the records you will find that Texas has been rather independent in the matter of voting. It has not always stood with the Solid South in the matter of being Democratic. But this year, if indications point to anything, Texas will give Bryan a very heavy vote.

"I can't say what conditions have resulted in the feeling down in my state. As far as I know, this sentiment is not confined to Texas. But anyway, I can say that there is a sentiment down in the Lone Star state that Bryan should be the next president of the United States. I have talked with many business men down there, and they have no fear that a business depression will follow the election of the commoner."

"The Devil has been made quite a presentable fellow in Franz Molnar's play," said Willard Mack at the St. Louis yesterday. "He is not depicted as a character with horns or anything approaching the cloven hoof. The only concession that Mr. Molnar gives to precedent regarding the appearance of his Satanic majesty is the arching eyebrows that table, fiction or precedent has given to the appearance of the satanical one.

"There is an impression in some parts that the devil, despite all his faults, is quite a decent fellow. It is this wholly modern view of the character that Franz Molnar has used in constructing his play of that name. He has combined all of the modern views of the devil, giving him, however, the powers that have been ascribed to him through countless generations.

"In the play of that name the devil is made a man of ordinary appearance. He is given powers that one ordinarily would imagine that the devil would be possessed of. He is an agent of evil, representing in the play the evil in this world. The modern treatment of such a delicate subject as the devil has made of the Molnar play one of the most interesting studies that has been presented on our stage for years. Mr. Molnar has treated his subject in a way that deeply touches the thinking man or woman, yet at the same time the play is one that amuses, not bores."

A straw vote taken at the St. Louis hotel Saturday evening showed that out of 27 votes cast, 19 were for Johnson and 8 for Jacobson. In the crowd from which the opinion was sought were a majority of Republicans, which shows that the Johnson majority was the more remarkable.

Charles Sheldon, at the McKay, states that the wheat crop of Kansas has been one of the greatest in the history of that great wheat-raising state. Mr. Sheldon states that not only was the volume of the crop enormous, but that the quality of the crop was decidedly ahead of any crop produced in the past four or five years. Mr. Sheldon says there is nothing approaching a panic in the state of Kansas, which, with a good crop, is one of the most prosperous states in the Union.

A number of hunters reached the Lenox yesterday, having returned from a hunting expedition in North Dakota, according to the members of the party, the hunting in the Flickertail state is unusually good this fall. The members of the party stated that there was an unusually large number of hunters out this year, but that there were enough birds in the state to go around.

"Absolute Honesty."

Life: Absolute honesty on the part of members of American stock exchanges is of paramount importance to the public.—Charles A. Conant in the Atlantic Monthly.

"Absolute honesty" is still seeking even a temporary employment in a good many other places besides the stock exchange, and up to date has very little prospect of "Advancemnt for the future."

But is there any place on the face of the earth, recognized as at all legitimate, where "absolute honesty" has a poorer chance than on the stock exchange?

How can members of the stock exchange attain to any measure of "absolute honesty" when they themselves are constantly buying and selling for their own account?

THE WEATHER.

Still splendid fall weather, with hardly a break or flaw in it. Yesterday it was bright, sunny and fine; today it is also bright, sunny and fine, and the weather man expects more of the same tonight and tomorrow. Last night's lowest was 34 degs., and yesterday's highest was 59 degs. A year ago today it was cloudy and chilly. The sun rose this morning at 6:22 and sets tonight at 5:27, making 11 hours and 5 minutes of sunlight.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "Barometric depressions central over the West Indies, Utah and Alberta caused heavy rains over Southern Florida, the eastern lake region, St. Lawrence valley, Oklahoma, California and Idaho. Western Montana and Northwestern Wyoming during the past twenty-four hours, besides a rise in temperature throughout most of the Northwest in the meantime. A high pressure area central over the lake region and Ohio Valley states is attended by cool weather in those districts. Clear weather prevails in most sections east of the Rocky mountains. Indications favor some cloudiness at the head of the Lakes tonight and Tuesday, but rain of importance is not anticipated."

Following were last night's lowest temperatures:

Department of Agriculture, Weather Bureau, Duluth, Oct. 12.—Local forecast for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m., Tuesday: Duluth, Superior and vicinity, including the Mesaba and Vermilion Iron ranges—Partly cloudy and warmer weather tonight and Tuesday, with brisk southerly winds.

H. W. RICHARDSON,
Local Forecaster.

Chicago, Oct. 12.—Forecasts until 7p m., Tuesday: Upper Michigan and Wisconsin—Fair with rising temperature tonight and Tuesday.

Minnesota—Fair tonight and probably Tuesday; warmer tonight and in eastern portion Tuesday.

Upper Lakes—Southerly winds, becoming brisk tonight and Tuesday; generally fair weather.

Who Came Out Ahead?

New York Commercial: By the terms of a contract entered into thirty-one years ago between Lyman Jennings, then 59 years old, and the town of Athol, in Massachusetts, he gave the town $9,000 outright on its agreement to pay him interest on it at 6 per cent as long as he lived—$540 a year—and then to continue after his death to pay to his widow $180 a year, and to each of his three children $120 a year, an amount equal to that which Jennings would receive yearly during his lifetime, as long as each of these four heirs might live. The results of the contract are being widely commented upon as a ruinously reckless deal by that thrifty New England town. The "selectmen" decided to take up with Jennings' offer after applying the figures of a life insurance mortuary table to the five proposed beneficiaries. Jennings lived thirty years instead of the fourteen and a half years that they had credited him with. The town meantime had paid out to him $16,200; his wife and one daughter now survive him, and the town is paying them together $300 a year, and must continue to pay one $180 a year and the other $120 so long as each lives. In other words, it is now getting the use of $9,600 for only about 3 1-3 per cent interest. If it invested the principal there ought to be a good profit in this. But suppose Jennings had put that $9,000 in a good savings bank back in 1877—he would have drawn $540 a year on it for at least fifteen years or so and after that only 5 per cent or 4 per cent, or perhaps as low as 3½ per cent at times; but on an average interest of 4½ per cent for the full period he would have drawn $12,500 in all, and his widow and daughter would now be drawing 4 per cent on it, or $360 a year instead of $300—and besides this, they, not the town, would own the $9,000! Lyman Jennings wasn't nearly so good a "figgerer" as the town of Athol was, after all.

Can You Spell?

The Bookman: If you think you can, ask somebody to dictate the following jumble to you and see how many mistakes you make.

Pantinous, a disappointed desiccated physicist, was peeling potatoes, in an embarrassing and harassing way. His idiosyncrasy and privilege was to eat mayonnaise and mussels while staring at the Pleiades and seizing people's tricycles and velocipedes. He was an ering teetotaller, and had been on a picayune jamboree. He rode a palfrey stallion and carried a salable papier mache bouquet of asters, phlox, multifuchsias and nasturtiums.

He wore a sibyl's resplendent turquoise paraphernalia, an ormolu yashmak and astrakhan chasubles. He drank chrystallizable and disagreeable curocoa juleps through a sieve. He stole moneys and hid then under a peddler's mahongany bedstead and mattress.

Like a fiend in an ecstacy of galety, I rushed after him into the maelstrom, or melee and held him as a vise. I could not feaze him, however, and he addressed me, with autocracy, in the following imbecile words which sounded like a soliloquy or a superseding paean on an obee:

"You are a ratable luna-moth, a salaaming vizier, an equinoctial coryphee and an isosceles daguerreotype."

The Only Pirate.

Pouring oil upon the waters
Once was thought a certain way
To placate old Neptune's daughters
When their anger had full play.
Now that notion's a back number,
For the waters rage and boil
When awakened from their slumber
By a dash of Standard Oil.

In a calm the craft lay drifting
On the Great Sea of Campaign,
Their positions never shifting,
Showing neither loss nor gain;
When a Pirate bold appearing
Set them all in a turmoil
With his scoffing and his jeering
And his wicked Standard Oil.

For he spattered Campaign Ocean,
And he spattered all the craft,
And he raised a great commotion,
And he raked 'em fore and aft.
Captains called each other craven;
But they all began to toil
To get to a quiet haven
Where there was no Standard Oil.

Each one took the other's measure,
And the lie passed frequentlee;
And a purser with his treasure
Walked the plank into the sea.
But the pirate stood a-grinning
At the way he had embroiled
Both the sinned against and sinning
On the sea he'd Standard Oiled.
—New York World.

Mr. Debs's View of Things.

From a report in New York Tribune: If you are a workingman you are as sadly out of place in the Republican party as John D. Rockefeler would be in the Socialist party. The old parties tell you that Socialism would bring you down to a dead level of degradation; you are already there. They say it would destroy your individualism; you have none. When a capitalist wants help he advertises for a "hand." They want "hands," they don't want heads. You have boycotted your brains.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1888.

•••Wheat broke 8 cents at the opening of the Duluth market yesterday and a long line of stuff was unloaded. Shoestring bargains were wiped out, and the constantly increasing crowds of lambs were correspondingly wonderful.

•••The Douglas county Democratic convention met at Superior yesterday and made the following nominations for county offices: County clerk, W. J. Leader; clerk of circuit court, J. C. Bertrand; treasurer, John Keaough; register of deeds, D. C. Morrison; district attorney, A. M. Spencer; coroner, J. H. Fox; superintendent of schools, D. C. Robert; county surveyor, L. D. Newton; sheriff, D. P. Foley.

•••E. D. Church, who has leased the Duluth roller mill, arrived in Duluth last night from Sterling, Ill., and is now at work fitting up and cleaning the mill for business. H. S. Blair will be the miller in charge, and Mr. Church expects to turn out 150 to 175 barrels daily. He is a brother of B. C. Church, manager of the Imperial mill.

•••Professor John N. Richey, the versatile and oratorical tonsorial artist, is at the head of a committee to build in Duluth a Methodist church for colored people. He desires to purchase a lot on Third street between First and Sixth avenues east.

•••Members of the Turn Verein society are making arrangements for a fair to be held at their hall on Sixth avenue east on Nov. 1, 2 and 3, with the object of paying off the outstanding indebtedness of the society.

•••Yesterday morning a special train rolled into Duluth's union station bearing Henry Villard of the Northern Pacific; Mr. Parrish of Philadelphia, a capitalist interested in the road; C. L. Colby, president of the Wisconsin Central, also a Villard road, and Mr. Parrish of London, Eng. At the depot awaiting Mr. Villard and party were Messrs. Baldwin, Hartley and Phelps of the chamber of commerce, Messrs. Barnum, Shephard and Welles of the board of trade, Mayor Sutphin and Aldermen Kendall, Costello and Thomas, representing the city council. The visitors were taken in carriages for a drive around the city and back to the board of trade, where addresses were made by Messrs. Villard and Colby, Mayor Sutphin and Secretary W. K. Phelps of the chamber of commerce.

•••The new central engine house on Third street, for which J. H. Nordby has the contract, will cost about $18,000, complete.

•••It is stated that the Church of the Sacred Heart will build a fine cathedral next year on the lot opposite the present edifice on West Fourth street. It will cost not less than $100,000 and the present parochial school will be moved back to make room for it.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Princeton Union: A proposition to levy a special tax for the establishment of an agricultural school in Red Lake county was last week voted upon and defeated by a large majority, notwithstanding the plan was supported by every paper in the county but one. Agricultural schools are institutions which bring forth a large amount of good, and the time will come when every county in the Union will maintain at least one.

Anoka Free Press: The Aitkin Age charges the Democrats with having butted into the congressional campaign in the eighth district with a view to helping nominate Bede. The Age is misinformed or mistaken. If the Democrats of the district had joined the Bede postmaster army, Bede would have been nominated. But the Democrats, having no candidate of their own, favored Miller in preference to Bede, regarding him as the best man of the two, with the result that Miller got about 8,000 more votes than Bede. Surely the Age is not foolish enough to believe that this result would have been possible under Democratic opposition to Miller.

Albert Lea Standard: Bob Dunn, in his Princeton Union says: "For every office in Polk county, a Scandinavian was nominated, and now candidates of other nationality who were defeated are mean enough to charge that Scandinavians are clannish—that they vote for their countrymen, regardless of party or qualifications!" Don't you believe it, Bob—not always. Many that we know of will not vote for Jake.

Virginia Virginian: The Eveleth Mining News says the range can get even with Duluth by deciding on Virginia for the county seat, "divide the county, apportion the officers among the various range towns." This would meet with the approval of every citizen in Virginia, but it is doubtful if the voters of the other range towns care to break away from Duluth, unless their own town is named as the county seat. The ranges are hopelessly divided, as the late primaries fully demonstrated. Too much petty jealousy exists among the towns and as long as there is such a feeling, county division need never be looked for.

Bemidji Pioneer: That's a wise doctor who says that it's the comfortable old shoes, not the tight, new ones, which hurt women's feet. He ought to do a rushing business.

Winona Independent: Mr. Taft wants to guarantee a "reasonable profit" for the protected manufacturer. Who insures a reasonable profit to the farmer, the baker, the carpenter, the tailor and others? And, by the way, who pays these "reasonable profits" over and above a just profit?

Anoka Union: Clarence B. Miller will have clear sailing for congressman, and the Eighth district gains a valuable member.

Litchfield Independent: It looks to us as though the banker who protests against the guaranty of deposits, is laying himself open to suspicion. His main argument is that he doesn't want to be responsible for other banks. If the banker cannot trust his associate in business, why should the depositor trust him?

Onamia Breeze: The two old parties are having a house cleaning, and if they do a good job and sift out all the hoodlers in positions of trust, there will be but few to carry on the campaign and the people may have a voice in electing a president.

Attacked the Wrong Man.

Puck: Our American Abdul Speaker Cannon, made a mistake in attacking Mr. Bryan; he laid himself open to certain obvious come-backs; and Mr. Bryan is especially swift on the come-back. For one thing, the speaker referred to the Nebraskan as "a man who has a breaking out of the mouth." This immediately recalled the breaking out of Mr. Cannon's mouth some years ago which retired him to private life—unfortunately not for long. For another thing, his remarks about Mr. Bryan's wealth called forth a challenge to declare the sum of his own possessions and to say how he came by them. Now, the Nebraskan's personal honesty has never been impugned; what he possesses he made by talking and writing. Mr. Cannon is reported a much richer man than Bryan, and he did not acquire his money by talking and writing. The opponents of the peerless one would better confine their attacks to criticisms of the political theories he puts forth, and let his personal affairs alone. If they were all as honest as he, there would be no call for muckrakers.

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: Love is never preserved in family jars.

Poets are born—therefore parents must be to blame.

People with small minds are apt to use some big words.

It's impossible to make a doctor believe that health is wealth.

Many a woman acquires her reputation for beauty at a drug store.

What's the matter with putting up an umbrella for a rainy day?

There is nothing more uncertain than a woman—except another woman.

There would be a greater demand for common sense if it were fashionable.

Some girls are afraid to go downtown by themselves for fear a man may not try to flirt with them.

Probably there is nothing so insincere as the struggle between two women to see which shall pay the car fare.

Independent Minnesota.

Indianapolis News (Ind.): One of the best illustrations of the possibilities of independent voting is afforded by Minnesota, to which reference has often been made. Our correspondent, Mr. Hornaday, recently went over the figures. He showed that the Republicans are expecting to carry the state easily for Taft, but that both parties practically concede the re-election of Governor Johnson, Democrat. Four years ago Roosevelt carried the state by more than 160,000 plurality, while Johnson, Democrat, was elected governor by over 6,000 plurality. Two years latter Johnson increased his plurality to 76,000. Here is discriminating voting, which ought to lend encouragement to every independent voter.

MEANT TO BE FUNNY.

"Jackson tells me the last thing he wrote was accepted. Do you know what it was?"

"Yes; his resignation!"

"Haven't I told you," asked the father, "always to tell the truth?"

"Yes, you told me that," the young man admitted; "but at another time you told me never to become a slave of habit."

Pa Smith threw down his newspaper in disgust. "It's shameful," he exclaimed, "the way these 'ere colleges waste money on furniture! Here's an account of somebody giving Oxford £40,000 for a new chair."

"Did you ever speculate?"

"Oh, yes; once I built a handsome house on tips I got from a friend of mine."

"What became of it?"

"The waiter at the restaurant I always lunch at bought it on tips from me."

New York Sun: Friend—Are you going to be a bank president when you grow up?

Johnny—Nope; I'll be a receiver.

Philadelphia Press: "I can see you're worried about me, dear," said the very sick man.

"O! not at all," replied his wife promptly.

"But, why do you look so gloomy, then?"

"I was thinking whether my sealskin sacque would be considered mourning."

Chicago News: "Some people remarked the demoralizer, "never seem to be around when wanted."

"Well," rejoined the moralizer, "if is better to be absent when wanted than to be present when you are not wanted."

Philadelphia Telegraph: Dick—How did your brother die?

Tom—Too much union labor.

Dick—How so?

Tom—He was carrying a box of dynamite one day when the whistle blew.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "I hate to have my husband find a horseshoe."

"Why?"

"He always brings it home, nails it up and then waits around for luck to strike him."

"Well?"

"And there never was such a man for finding horseshoes."

Cleveland Leader: "Don't you think I can make money out of that mine?"

"Yes, that's just where you can make money—out of it."

New York Sun: Stella—A dreadful experience, you say?

Bella—Yes; I saw a bargain in shoes when I had a hole in my stocking.

Hearst "Welched."

Willis J. Abbott in Chicago Tribune: It is interesting to find Mr. Hearst printing editorials concerning his relations to Bryan during the 1896 and later campaigns. It so happens I know something about what Mr. Hearst did in these campaigns.

This is not in any sense an attack upon the propriety of an Independence party, but merely a chronicle of facts bearing upon what his attitude was during the two campaigns in which he professes to have been so strenuously Democratic. In 1896 Mr. Hearst expressed to me the opinion he wished there were no elections. He hated politics, and disliked politicians. At the same time he did jump in and make a magnificent fight for Mr. Bryan that year with his New York and San Francisco papers, the only ones he then possessed.

But when he said in his editorial two or three days ago he had contributed, or duplicated, dollar for dollar, all contributions made to the 1896 fund he did not tell the literal truth. To be entirely frank about it, he "welched." He did make a liberal contribution to the campaign fund. He did promise that for every dollar sent to the national committee he would give another. But when there came in some contributions of $500 and of $1,000 he notified the contributors his purpose was only to duplicate the small contributions, not the large ones

It happened I had charge of tabulating these contributions, and was directed to write the editorial in which Mr. Hearst explained he could not, or would not, carry out either the letter or the spirit of his proposition. No one was more ready than he to give a dollar out of his multimillionaire store to match a dollar, none more quickly stopped contributing when any one else proffered a thousand dollars. This is mere history, and it is up to Mr. Hearst to specify whether or not it is accurate history. If he questions my recollections I can refer him to a certain editorial in his own paper.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: A really clever woman is always too clever to show it.

The reason people like to brag is they object to others doing it.

About the best way to make a man like whist is not to have to play it with his wife.

An uncomfortable thing about liking people is all the quarrels you have to have with them.

RESIDENCES ARE CLOSED

Town Houses of Gotham's Smart Set Are Kept Vacant.

Public Sick of Squabbles of Chauffeurs and Taxicab Owners.

New York, Oct. 12.—Two thousand of the most elegant mansions throughout the Fifth avenue and "diamond back" residential districts in this city are today still sealed tight for the lack of tenants, or the return of regular residents. Never in the history of Gotham's smart set has there been such a showing of town houses, vacant because their owners were unwilling, or unable, to furnish and finance them for the social campaign of the opening season. Seldom has the demand to lease stylish establishments through the winter become so marked by its absence as it is today. While society misses its seasonable quota and real estate agents pine for their usual fall rush of rich renting clients, the heads of the fashionable houses wrestle down in Wall street and their families stay, frugally quiet, at the out-of-town resorts. To pay the piper for a long season in the whirl of swell society here comes to hundreds of dollars a day, and as yet, it would appear, the rich are not ready to throw aside their timely thrifts.

Workers From the World.

With representatives from every nation of the world gathered in this city for the first international conference on sailors' interests ever held in history, New York is being made aware of its importance as the third largest seaport on the globe. Workers for the rights of the men who spend their lives afloat have arrived here from the ends of the earth, and in the largest and most modern hotel and club for sailors in the world, have just concluded deliberations that will make for the welfare of Jack-ashore on every coast. The opening of this new $325,000 institute for seamen, as well as the gathering of this workers' congress by the American Seamen's Friend society, is regarded by shipping experts in this city as marking a new era in the life of the millions of men who move the merchant marine. That America's metropolis should be selected as the Mecca for representatives of the leading sea powers in this instance is held as significant of Yankee pre-eminence on sea as well as land.

Noisy Nuisance.

Added to the noise and nuisance of the thousands of taxicab automobiles that have begun to burden its thoroughfares, Gotham is today beset on every hand by the riotous strike-breaking demonstrations of the rough youths who have been hired to turn their cranks and vent their stenches. Not since the days of the early street car tie-ups have New Yorkers been so threatened with violence from highway disorder as they were during last week, when the motor mechanics offered battle on every corner. That the company has extorted hourly pennies from their meager gains for gasoline and other petty charges is one claim of the rioters, and any one who has ever encountered this clock-pay system is inclined to believe them. Whether this be true or not, the public here is today heartily sick of the squabbles of the cheap chauffeurs and the owners of their noisy, omnipresent vehicles. Foot passage has been made a constant death hazard by this new brood of odoriferous pay-machines, and further menace to life and limb by their owners or operators is being resented in the metropolis.

Strength of Stokes.

It is many years since the East side has been so stirred up as it is today over the campaigning of the aristocratic Mr. Stokes and his wife, whom the quarter knew as plain Rose Pastor. Young Mr. Stokes is running for the assembly under the red flag of his own peculiar brand of Socialism, while his better half is trying to remember how to talk Yiddish and put in a word for her husband with her people. The sturdy residents of the East side have too keen a sense of shame to take the campaign overtures of young Stokes for more than they are worth, but his girl wife is creating a furore wherever she appeals to her audiences. It will be the personality of his native bride, and not his wealth or social standing, that will win a seat at Albany for the youthful theorist, if the people of the district decide to translate their enthusiasm into ballots. Meanwhile the ardent platform support of the former Rose Pastor is furnishing many a pretty picture.

Traction Twists.

As a last twist in the torture of the traveler about town the cutting off of transfers to the trolleys above the is today raising a gathering cyclone of protest. It is only the very poor who, in the main, patronize these lines and have been forced to sacrifice the speed and comfort of train service for the length of ride which a single nickel has always bought. Today for the first time these thousands of small wage earners are finding double toll demanded of them for transit to and from their modest homes. New York is slow to wrath, but the day of reckoning for this extortion from the poor is believed to be not far distant at this moment.

GRIM STORIES OF AWFUL POVERTY

Queen Alexandra Appeals for Aid for the Sufferers.

London, Oct. 12.—Grim stories of the most terrible poverty in London have been told in the daily papers during the last few days, and these tales are so shocking that Queen Alexandra from Denmark has sent a personal appeal to many persons of wealth here to come to the assistance of the sufferers. At Bethnal Green, in the heart of the East end, were recounted some particulars of the awful struggle with gnawing hunger which a poor workman out of employ and his wife had waged for many weary weeks.

The husband, George Hammersley, had died suddenly when a weakened blood vessel in his brain burst just as he was handing over to one of the children the last coins in the house that a cup of hot tea might be ready for the mother in the street. The little one was told to get a cent's worth of tea, a cent's worth of sugar and a cent's worth of milk. Thus the last money went.

The widow asked the coroner to help her that her husband's body might not be buried in the potter's field, and was given $2,50, with the instruction that she must use it for food for herself and the children. For weeks the family had lived on $1.75 a week, of which $1,25 was spent for rent, leaving 50 cents for the support of a family of seven.

Michael O'Leary, a laborer, was arrested for taking a piece of bacon when his wife and three children were starving and had not tasted food for four days. The police corroborated his story and the magistrate, moved to tears, said he could not pass sentence upon him. At Workington the poverty is so great that several babies died because their starving mothers were unable to suckle them.

Tests Show It to be Three Times Greater.

Chicago, Oct. 12.—The health department states that the dust and soot in the atmosphere of Chicago, as shown by the tests taken, is three tiems as great as that in the atmosphere of London. Sample of the air taken at a height of forty feet above the street level at four points of the city, were subject to analysis. The report says this excess may be partly attributed to the long-continued drought.

Lord Bacon Said, "Digest"

This is the Secret of Life in Business Or in Health.

It is claimed that Lord Bacon struck the prime keynote of life when he wrote: "Some books are to be tasted, others to be swallowed, and some few to be chewed and digested."

He wrote of books; many who have followed him have written likewise of life. The man who digests his business, makes success; the actor or actress who digests his or her art brings fame; the man who lives life and digests it as he should, lives as was the intention he should live.

It is not the food you swallow or taste that brings happiness to you; it is the food you digest.

If you swallow and taste and don't digest and chew, Nature cannot give you health, for you do not furnish the ammunition.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets contain in pure, concentrated form the essences which, when they reach the stomach, turn dyspeptic conditions into those of healthy digestion.

These little tablets are dissolved in the mouth by saliva; they mix with this fluid and are passed down into the stomach, where they immediately set to work upon the food and digest it. They are many times more powerful than the human digestive fluids, and thus replenish Nature with those juices which sickness, abuse or wrongful eating have exhausted.

The world's best chemists in Europe and America agree on the ingredients best adapted to perfect digestion. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are these ingredients presented to the stomach in the most pleasant and lasting form.

Powders and liquids soon lose their effectiveness through chemical actions and decay. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are made under terrific pressure, and their qualities are thus made lasting.

Forty thousand physicians prescribe and use these tablets, and every druggist sells them. Price 50 cents. Send us your name and address and we will send you a trial package by mail free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Building, Marshall, Mich.

ENGLISH SUFFRAGETTE REPEATS ATTACK UPON OUR IDLE RICH WOMEN

MRS. ANNIE COBEEN SANDERSON, RAMPANT

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 12.—Added interest has been given the fortieth annual convention of the National Woman Suffrage association by the action of Mrs. Annie Cobden Sanderson, militant English leader of the suffrage movement, who has taken occasion to extend her criticism of the "idle rich," of the women of this country, in a letter which was read at the convention.

Mrs. Sanderson is the storm center of a controversy in England that has arisen as a result of her severe reprimand to what she terms the "idle rich," of that country. She says in her letter, which is addressed to Mrs. Harriet Taylor Upton, treasurer of the National Woman's Suffrage association, that she is glad of the opportunity of replying to the reports which have been given in the American press with regard to her opinion of the "idle rich." She writes:

"So far as my remarks apply to the idle rich women of your country, I don't think there has been any exaggeration." They are the active force working against the granting of the suffrage to women.

POLICE ON WEE PLATFORM AT DIZZY HEIGHT, SUBDUE LUNATIC

New York, Oct. 12.—At the top of the great iron tower at the Brooklyn end of the Williamsburg bridge, a thrilling struggle took place while hundreds of persons looked on from below. An insane man, who had eluded the tower watchman, climbed an iron stairway to the top of the tower, 535 feet above East river, and was preparing for a leap, when two policemen climbed up after him. The appearance of the policemen distracted the man from his purpose, and he turned upon the bluecoats with a razor.

On a narrow footing at the dizzy height, a ten-minute battle took place. Back and forth the trio struggled, now on the verge of toppling to destruction and then tottering back to the center of the small platform. To those who gazed aloft, it seemed hours instead of minutes before the man was overpowered.

YANKEES TUMBLE 4,000 FEET; AIRSHIP AS PARACHUTE SAVES

INTERNATIONAL RACE IS STARTED

Berlin, Oct. 12.—The international balloon race, which started yesterday from a suburb of Schmargendorf, was the occasion of a thrilling accident, two American aeronauts having a miraculous escape from death. The American balloon, Conqueror, having on board A Holland Forbes and Augustus Post, less than two minutes after the start, burst at an altitude of 4,000 feet.

For 2,000 feet it shot down like a bullet and then the torn silk bag assumed the shape of a parachute, thus checking the rapidity of the descent. Coming close to the earth, however, the basket smashed into the roof of a house, but the two men escaped with but slight injuries.

TWO HAVE MOST MIRACULOUS ESCAPE

The race, in which twenty balloons participated representing Great Britain, France, Germany, the United States, Switzerland, Italy, Belgium and Spain, started at 3 p. m. in the presence of 80,000. The sunshine was brilliant and the heat was that of summer. Amid the strains of "America" and volleys of cheers, the first balloon was sent away. It was the "America II," under command of James C. McCoey, who was accompanied by Lieut. Voightmann. The balloon was decorated with the stars and stripes, and it sailed away to the southeast at a rapid pace, the aeronauts waving their hats.

MAN AND WOMAN DIVORCEES FOUND DEAD, DUE TO GAS

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 12.—B. L. Sheppard, traveling salesman for the Marshall Pennyweight Scales company, and Mrs. Leona Bruner, stewardess at the Lincoln Commercial club, were found dead in the apartments of the man in a business block on North Eleventh street.

Gas pouring from the room caused an investigation by occupants of the block, and when the door was broken down, the room was so filled with gas it was impossible to remain in it. The couple had evidently been dead several hours, the supposition of the police being that they turned on the gas jet with suicidal intent, though the possibility of accidental death is admitted. Each was about 37 years old.

Both oad been married, but were divorced.

Paris, Oct. 12.—Marius Ballot came home very late the other evening—or morning—and went to bed. His wife said nothing, and he said nothing, so he went to sleep peacefully.

While he was slumbering she got up, took a pitcher and filled it with sulphuric acid and poured the contents over her husband's face.

His screams of pain aroused the house, neighbors rushed in, but the vindictive wife escaped.

First aid was given to the unfortunate man, who was afterwards taken to a hospital, where he was found to have been completely blinded in both eyes, besides being horribly burned about his face, neck and arms.

His wife has since given herself up to the police, and now she says that she is very sorry for what she has done.

Proposed Amendments —TO THE— Constitution —OF— Minnesota —BY— The Legislature General Session, 1907.

St. Paul, Minn., May 1st, 1908.

Hon. Julius A. Schmahl, Secretary of State—

Sir: As required by Section 25 of the Revised Laws, as amended, I have the honor to furnish you herewith a statement of the purposes and effects of the respective amendments proposed to the Constitution of the State of Minnesota by the Legislature of 1907, and which are to be submitted to the electors of said State at the General Election of 1908.

FIRST PROPOSED AMENDMENT.

The first proposed amendment is contained in Chapter 477 of the Laws of 1907. By this amendment it is sought to repeal Sections one (1), two (2), three (3), four (4) and seventeen (17) of Article nine (9) of the Constitution (the latter section being the amendment to said Article nine (9), adopted in 1896), which sections now read as follows:

"Section 1. All taxes to be raised in this state shall be as nearly equal as may be, and all property on which taxes are to be levied shall have a cash valuation and be equalized and uniform throughout the state: Provided, that the legislature may, by general law or special act, authorize municipal corporations to levy assessments for local improvements upon the property fronting upon such improvements, or upon the property to be benefited by such improvements, or both, without regard to cash valuation, and in such manner as the legislature may prescribe; and provided further, that for the purpose of defraying the expenses of laying water pipes and supplying any city or municipality with water the legislature may, by general or special law, authorize any such city or municipality, having a population of five thousand or more, to levy an annual tax or assessment upon the lineal foot of all lands fronting on any water main or water pipe laid by such city or municipality within corporate limits of said city for supplying water to the citizens thereof without regard to the cash value of such property, and to empower such city to collect any such tax, assessments or fines, or penalties for failure to pay the same, or any fine or penalty for any violation of the rules of such city or municipality in regard to the use of water, or for any water rate due for the same; and provided further, that there may be by law levied and collected a tax upon all inheritances, devises, bequests, legacies and gifts of every kind and description above a fixed and specified sum, of any and all natural persons and corporations. Such tax above such exempted sum may be uniform or it may be graded or progressive, but shall not exceed a maximum tax of five per cent.

"Section 2. The legislature shall provide for an annual tax sufficient to defray the estimated ordinary expenses of the state for each year, and whenever it shall happen that such ordinary expenses of the state for any year shall exceed the income of the state for such year the legislature shall provide for levying a tax for the ensuing year sufficient, with other sources of income, to pay the deficiency of the preceding year, together with the estimated expenses of such ensuing year. But no law levying a tax or making other provisions for the payment of interest or principal of bonds denominated 'Minnesota State Railroad Bonds,' shall take effect or be in force until such law shall have been submitted to a vote of the people of the state, and adopted by a majority of the electors of the state voting upon the same.

"Section 3. Laws shall be passed taxing all moneys, credits, investments in bonds, stocks, joint stock companies, or otherwise, also all real and personal property, according to its true value in money; but public burying grounds, public school houses, public hospitals, academies, colleges, universities, and all seminaries of learning, all churches, church property used for religious purposes, and houses of worship, institutions of purely public charity, public property used exclusively for any public purpose, and personal property to an amount not exceeding in value two hundred dollars for each individual, shall, by general laws, be exempt from taxation.

"Section 4. Laws shall be passed for taxing the notes and bills discounted or purchased, moneys loaned, and all other property, effects, or dues of every description, of all banks and of all bankers, so that all property employed in banking shall always be subject to a taxation equal to that imposed on the property of individuals.

"Section 17. The legislature may impose, or provide for the imposition of, upon the property within this state of any and all owners or operators, whether corporate or individual, or otherwise, of any and all sleeping, parlor and drawing room cars, or any or either of the same, which run in, into or through this state; also upon the property within this state of any and all telegraph and telephone companies, or owners, whose lines are in, or run in, into or through this state; also upon the property within this state of all express companies, or owners, or any or either of the same, doing business in this state; also upon the property within this state of all domestic insurance companies of this state of any kind; also upon the property within this state of any and all foreign insurance companies doing business in this state of any kind; also upon the property within this state of all owners or operators of any and all mines or of mineral ores situated in this state; also upon the property within this state of all boom companies or owners, and of all ship builders or owners doing business in this state or having a port therein (provided, that this act shall not apply to property owned by railroad companies, their lands and other property); and upon the property of either or any of such companies or owners—a tax as uniform as reasonably may be with the taxes imposed upon similar property in said state, or upon the earnings thereof within this state, but may be graded or progressive, or both, and in providing for such tax, or in providing for ascertaining the just and true value of such property, it shall be competent for the legislature in either or all such cases, to impose such tax upon any or all property thereof within this state, and in either case by taking as the basis of such imposition the proportionate business, earnings, mileage or quantity of production or property now or hereafter existing of any such companies, persons or owners, transacted or existing in this state, in relation to the entire business, mileage or quantity of production or property of such companies, persons or owners as aforesaid, or in such other manner, or by such other method as the legislature may determine; but the proceeds of such taxes upon mining property shall be distributed between the state and the various political subdivisions thereof wherein the same is situated, in the same proportion as the proceeds of taxes upon real property are distributed: Provided further, that nothing in this act contained shall operate to authorize the assessment or taxation of any farm land or ordinary business blocks or property owned by any such corporation, person, firm or company except in the manner provided by the ordinary methods of taxation."

and to substitute therefor the following:

"Sec. 1. The power of taxation shall never be surrendered, suspended or contracted away. Taxes shall be uniform upon the same class of subjects, and shall be levied and collected for public purposes, but public burying grounds, public school houses, public hospitals, academies, colleges, universities, and all seminaries of learning, all churches, church property used for religious purposes, and houses of worship, institutions of purely public charity, and public property used exclusively for any public purpose, shall be exempt from taxation, and there may be exempted from taxation personal property not exceeding in value $200 for each household, individual or head of a family, as the legislature may determine. But the legislature may authorize municipal corporations to levy and collect assessments for local improvements upon property benefited thereby without regard to a cash valuation, and nothing herein contained shall be construed to affect, modify or repeal any existing law providing for the taxation of the gross earnings of railroads."

This proposed constitutional amendment was submitted and voted upon at the last election and was declared carried. But a contest was instituted by interested parties, claiming that the amendment was not carried. That contest is now pending in the courts, and it was on that account that the legislature decided to re-submit the amendment to the people, so that however the contest may be decided, the next legislature may have the power granted by the amendment. For the purpose of discussing the effect of the amendment I will assume that the same amendment submitted at the last election did not carry.

The purpose and effect of this amendment would be to greatly enlarge the power of the legislature with reference to the subject of taxation. Section one (1) as it now stands provides that all taxes imposed shall be equal—as near as may be—on all forms of property, and all property upon which a tax is imposed is required to have a CASH VALUATION equalized throughout the state.

Section two (2) as it now stands requires the legislature to levy the necessary taxes annually to defray the expenses of the state. That is the duty of the legislature without any constitutional direction.

Section three (3) as it now stands provides that all real and personal property, including MONEYS, CREDITS and INVESTMENTS IN BONDS AND STOCKS, shall be assessed according to their true value in money.

Section four (4) as it now stands provides that property employed in banking shall be subject to a tax equal to that imposed on other property. This is only a repetition of the requirements of Sections one (1) and three (3), as no rational person would claim that banking capital should be exempt from taxation.

Section seventeen (17) as it now stands is not easy to understand, but it was intended by that section to relieve from the operation of sections one (1) and three (3), above quoted, property of the classes therein enumerated, so that a gross earnings tax could be applied thereto instead of direct taxation.

Owing to the provisions of sections one (1) and three (3) of the present Constitution many amendments were from time to time added so as to permit taxes to be imposed on specific kinds of property otherwise than upon a cash valuation equalized throughout the state. We have among these exceptions railroad gross earnings taxes; municipal frontage taxes; inheritance taxes; and the gross earnings taxes authorized by said section seventeen (17).

Several exemptions from taxation are also provided for, but as these exemptions are not changed by the proposed amendment, I will make no further reference to them.

The amendment which, if adopted, would take the place of all of the sections and amendments above referred to, is simple and plain. No provision of the Constitution is necessary to authorize the imposition of the taxes necessary for the support of the state and its various political subdivisions. The power of taxation is inherent in government. This proposed amendment declares that this inherent power of taxation shall never be surrendered, suspended or contracted away; that taxes shall be imposed for public purposes and shall be uniform on the same class of subjects. Should this amendment be adopted all property of every kind in the state would be subject to taxation, according to the method the legislature saw fit to adopt, provided only that the tax was levied for a public purpose and was uniform on the same class of subjects. Under this amendment every tax law we now have on the statute books would continue to be valid, because under this amendment all limitations on the power of the legislature would be taken away.

The adoption of this amendment would, as indicated, repeal the so-called inheritance tax amendment, and the gross earnings tax amendment adopted in 1896, as contained in said Section seventeen (17), but in their place this amendment would give the legislature greater authority. Under this amendment the power to impose inheritance taxes would be unlimited, and any form of gross earnings tax would be valid. The gross earnings tax on railroads would not be affected by this amendment, as the Constitution provides that they cannot be changed without submitting the law making the change to a vote of the people. But with this amendment various new forms of taxation could be imposed, notably an income tax, a tonnage tax on iron ore and a registry tax on mortgages. Under the present Constitution we can impose no tax on mortgages owned by non-residents. A registry tax, which would be valid under this amendment, would reach all mortgages alike. While the Constitution requires all subjects of taxation to have a cash valuation with the tax equalized throughout the state, no proper income tax could be

SECOND PROPOSED AMENDMENT.

The second proposed amendment is contained in Chapter 478 of the Laws of Minnesota for the year 1907. By this amendment it is sought to repeal Section sixteen (16) of Article nine (9) of the Constitution, which section now reads as follows:

"For the purpose of lending aid in the construction and improvement of public highways and bridges, there is hereby created a fund to be known as the 'State Road and Bridge fund.' Said fund shall include all moneys accruing from the income derived from investments in the internal improvement land fund, or that may hereafter accrue to said fund, and shall also include all funds accruing to any state road and bridge fund, however provided.

"The legislature is authorized to add to such fund for the purpose of constructing or improving roads and bridges of this state, by providing, in its discretion, for an annual tax levy upon the property of this state of not to exceed in any year one-twentieth (1-20) of one (1) mill on all the taxable property within the state.

"The legislature is also authorized to provide for the appointment, by the governor of the state, of a board to be known as the 'State Highway Commission,' consisting of three (3) members, who shall perform such duties as shall be prescribed by law without salary or compensation other than personal expenses.

"Such commission shall have general superintendence of the construction of state roads and bridges and shall use such fund in the construction thereof and distribute the same in the several counties in the state upon an equitable basis. Provided, further, that no county shall receive in any year more than three (3) per cent or less than one-half (½) of one (1) per cent of the total fund thus provided and expended during such year; and provided further, that no more than one-third (1-3) of such fund accruing in any year shall be expended for bridges, and in no case shall more than one-third (1-3) of the cost of construction or improving any road or bridge be paid by the state from such fund."

and to substitute therefor the following:

"Section 16. For the purpose of lending aid in the construction and improvement of public highways and bridges, there is hereby created a fund to be known as the 'State Road and Bridge Fund.' Said fund shall include all moneys accruing from the income derived from investments in the internal improvement land fund, or that may hereafter accrue to said fund, and shall also include all funds accruing to any state road and bridge fund, however provided.

"The legislature is authorized to add to such fund, for the purpose of constructing or improving roads and bridges of this state, by providing, in its discretion, for an annual tax levy upon the property of this state."

The purpose and effect of this amendment is to authorize the legislature to levy upon all the property of the state any amount necessary, in its judgment, for the benefit of the roads and bridges therein, and in so far removes the limitation which now exists in the Constitution, whereby the legislature is prevented from levying for such purpose a tax exceeding one-twentieth (1-20) of one (1) mill on the taxable property within the state.

This amendment further authorizes the legislature to provide salary and compensation, including personal expenses incurred in the performance of duty by the highway commission, or any other like officer entrusted by law with similar duties.

Finally, this amendment removes the limitation which now exists in the Constitution upon the powers of the highway commission in the distribution of the road and bridge fund of the state thereby authorized, and the amount which the state may pay from such fund toward the cost of constructing or improving any road or bridge, and leaves the whole management of such fund to be provided for by law, as the legislature shall deem wise.

The adoption of this amendment will not interfere with the power of the legislature to create a highway commission and define its powers, nor will it interfere with the appointment and tenure of office of the present commission.

THIRD PROPOSED AMENDMENT.

The third proposed amendment is contained in Chapter 379 of the Laws of Minnesota for the year 1907. By this amendment it is sought to add the following section to Article nine (9) of the Constitution as a new section:

"Section 17. The legislature may provide for the payment by the State of Minnesota of damages to growing crops by hail and wind, or either, and to provide a fund for that purpose, may impose a specific tax upon lands, the owners of which, at their option, have listed the same with county auditors for that purpose, and no payment shall be made of any such damages except from the fund so provided."

The purpose and effect of this amendment is to authorize the legislature to permit the state to become the trustee in the collection and disbursement of a fund for the payment of damages to growing crops by hail or wind, or both. This fund is to be created and maintained by a specific tax upon the lands of such persons ONLY as shall VOLUNTARILY list the same with their respective county auditors for such purpose. There can be no tax for such purpose imposed on the lands of any owner who does not consent thereto. Its adoption will authorize the legislature to direct that the taxing machinery of the state be used to levy and collect the tax necessary to raise such fund, and to provide for the disbursement of the same by the officers of the state, but any payments to be made by the state by reason of damage by hail or wind will have to be made from said fund and from no other. The state would assume no responsibility beyond the amount of such fund, and could not further be rendered liable.

FOURTH PROPOSED AMENDMENT.

The fourth proposed amendment is contained in Chapter 480 of the Laws of Minnesota for the year 1907. By this amendment it is sought to repeal the provisions of Section seven (7) of Article seven (7) of the Constitution, which section now reads as follows:

"Every person who by the provisions of this article shall be entitled to vote at any election shall be eligible to any office which now is, or hereafter shall be, elective by the people in the district wherein he shall have resided thirty days previous to such election, except as otherwise provided in this Constitution, or the Constitution and laws of the United States."

and to substitute therefor the following:

"Every person who by the provisions of this article shall be entitled to vote at any election shall be eligible to any office which now is, or hereafter shall be, elective by the people in the district wherein he shall have resided thirty days previous to such election, except county superintendents of schools, who shall be required to have educational qualifications to be determined by the legislature, and except as otherwise provided in this Constitution, or the Constitution and laws of the United States."

The purpose and effect of this amendment is to authorize the legislature to require educational qualifications, in addition to all the other qualifications now required by law, for any person seeking the office of county superintendent of schools. As the Constitution now stands, any legal voter is eligible to the office of county superintendent of schools.

The foregoing four proposed amendments constitute all the amendments proposed for adoption at the ensuing General Election.

Yours respectfully,
EDWARD T. YOUNG,
Attorney General.

CUBS TAKE FIRST TWO

Chicago Wins Saturday 10 to 6, and Sunday 6 to 1.

Heavy Hitting Tigers Are Beaten at Their Own Game.

Chicago, Oct. 12.—After seven innings of clockwork baseball, "Wild Bill" Donovan, premier pitcher of the champions of the American league, weakened under the prolonged strain and the Chicago World's champions captured their second game of the present series, Sunday, 6 to 1.

Detroit's hopes, which were high after seven innings in which Chicago had made only one hit, were dashed in the eighth. In that sensational portion of the game Donovan was hit for a home run, a triple, a double, and three singles. Incidentally, he walked one man and allowed another to score on a wild pitch. Overall, on the contrary, was steady throughout the game, holding the "Tigers" to four hits and one run. That run marked Detroit's despairing effort in their half of the ninth.

Nothing could have exceeded the excellence of Donovan's work up to that fatal eighth. He had speed, an assortment of curves, which he mixed up in baffling style, and he cut the corners with the greatest precision and speed. He had the best of Chicago's batsmen swinging wild and twice struck out the redoubtable Kling.

Overall's pitching was masterly. He was found for only four scattered hits, no two of which came in the same inning, and none of which had to be counted because Overall and Kling both went after Schaefer's bunt, and each stopping for the other to field it, it went for a safe hit.

Up to the eighth the game was a pitchers' battle, with both sides for the most part going out one, two, three. It began to look as if the experience of last year's championship series when the same pitchers worked would be repeated, namely, a tie game. There was comparatively little noise. The spectators were too highly keyed by the neck and neck struggle to indulge in more cheering. And besides, despite bright sunlight, the air was rather coolly, which also had a subduing effect.

To Joe Tinker belongs the credit for breaking the spell which Donovan had held over the Chicagoans for so long. Steinfeldt had struck out and Hofman had reached first because Schaefer, after a beautiful one-handed pickup of his weak grounder, had thrown low. The crowd scarcely hoped for more than a single and hardly expected that, when Tinker came to bat, Donovan sent a fast waist-high in-shoot over the plate, that is to say, partly over it. It never got all the way, for the stocky Chicago shortstop, who had already popularized himself by fast clean fielding, swung viciously. The ball soared high, so high that it seemed certain it must drop in Cobb's hands, as the fielder was playing well back as a result of previous experiences with Tinker. But there was an unusual amount of energy behind the hit, and it sailed high and clear into the stand in right field. Tinker proceeded by Hofman trotted around the circuit amidst the first real cheering of the game. Horns were blown, bells rung, and throats strained to increase the ovation. Manager Jennings sought to persuade Umpire Klem that the hit should go for only two bases, but Klem only smiled. Such have always gone for home runs. The ground rules provided that hits into the overflow crowd should restrict the runner to two bases, but this certainly had nothing to do with the miraculous wallop of Tinker's. The application of the rule was illustrated by the next man at bat, "Noisy" John Kling. Kling drove the first ball pitched into the overflow crowd in left field and stopped running when he had reached second base. This onslaught had affected Donovan, but he still smiled and retired Overall on a weak grounder. He went to pieces, however, when Sheckard, the next batsman, singled over second and scored Kling. Sheckard made a desperate steal of second and went to third on Evers' safe bunt. Rossman in a moment of absent mindedness, brought about by the general carnage, tripled, which had happened to Detroit's aspirations, allowed Evers to flash away from first and reach second, standing up while the ball remained in the first baseman's hands. Schulte tripled to deep left center, scoring Sheckard and Evers. Then, to finish matters up, Donovan threw a wild pitch and Schulte trotted across the plate with Chicago's sixth and last run. Chance walked and stole second while Schmidt was musing over the ball, but Steinfeldt flew out, retiring the side.

Detroit substituted D. Jones for O'Leary for a final try for victory, and the substitute was given his base on balls. He went to second on Crawford's out, and scored when Cobb singled to center. Rossman, however, hit into a double play and the game was over.

The attendance, due largely to the chilly weather, was only 17,760 paid admissions, according to official figures made public after the game. The gross receipts were $26,927.

Saturday's game was a heart-breaking affair. It was played in a rainstorm at Bennett park, Detroit, and the downpour kept the attendance down to a disappointing figure.

The wet ground made fast baseball impossible, and there were many farcical features to the game, although it was never lacking in excitement. The teams alternated in the lead, Chicago finally winning out with a slaughter of Pitcher Summers in the ninth inning.

Five pitchers were used up during the game, and none of them got away without receiving a clouting. Twenty-four hits were secured by the two teams, Chicago getting fourteen of them. The hits of the Cubs also came in clusters, and when they were badly needed.

DULUTH TEAM DOWNS CLOQUET

Gophers Win From Cloquet Juniors by 5 to 0 Score.

Cloquet, Minn., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—In the football game here Saturday between the Gophers of Duluth and the local junior team, the visitors were victorious by a score of 5 to 0. The game was well played throughout, and while the locals did not cross their opponents' goal line they clearly outplayed them in team work and tenacity. The ball was in Duluth's territory the greater part of the time, and twice the locals carried the ball within fifteen yards of Duluth's goal. In the first half Taylor, of the Gophers, caught the ball on a fumble and made a sensational run of forty-five yards before he was overtaken and downed by Patterson, the local fullback; Duluth was held for downs. Cloquet attempted a punt out, but it was blocked and grabbed by a Duluth player, who crawled over the line with it, scoring the only point of the game.

Among those who deserve mention for good work are Taylor, Ryan and Helmer of Duluth, and Patterson, Skemp, Rogentine and Stevens. The line-up was as follows:

| Gophers. | | Juniors. |
|---|---|---|
| McGreevey | left end | McKenna |
| McDonnell | left tackle | Owens |
| McKee | left guard | O'Brien |
| Miller | center | Knickerbocker |
| Brown | right guard | Johnson |
| Treverlans | right tackle | Gauthier |
| Helmer | right end | Stevens |
| McLeod | quarter | Graton |
| Taylor | right half | Skemp |
| Ryan | fullback | Patterson |

The Juniors are encouraged by the close contest rather than discouraged, and are after the scalps of more Duluth teams. Teams averaging 125 pounds in Duluth or vicinity looking for a game address their communications to Ed Dupont, Cloquet, Minn.

Chicago 29; Indiana 6.

Chicago, Oct. 12.—Chicago found the Indiana players Saturday to be more sturdy opponents than the Purdue team and within ten minutes of the beginning of play, Johnson had dashed across the Chicago goal after a 40-yard run for the first touchdown. The effort proved an expiring one for the Hoosiers, who afterward found themselves helpless against the Chicago line, Chicago winning 29 to 6. The ruling out of Capt. Haddock also weakened the Indians and disheartened them. Capt. Steffens was again the star of the Chicago team, his brilliant end runs netting two touchdowns for Chicago. The strength of the Chicago line forced Indiana to resort to punting forward passes, at which they were not successful. Crowley and Page excelled in offensive work and the entry of Schominer into the last half strengthened Chicago materially.

Football Player Dies.

Cannonsburg, Pa., Oct. 12.—William M. Potts, the football player who was injured in a game here on Oct. 3, died yesterday after having been unconscious since last Monday. During a game with the high school eleven, he was kicked on the head.

Badgers Show Speed.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 12.—Wisconsin showed wonderful speed in the first game of the season Saturday and Lawrence was defeated 35 to 0.

A SMILE THAT WON'T COME OFF

MANAGER JENNINGS, of Detroit.

EASY FOR CENTRALS

Grand Rapids is Defeated by Duluth Team 56 to 0.

Colton's Football Machine Shows Best Form of the Season.

It didn't take the Central high school football team long in the game with Grand Rapids Saturday at Athletic park to give the spectators an idea of their strength, and those who thought the Duluth boys were up against a tough proposition and had an idea they might be defeated were within two minutes, easy in their minds in regard to the outcome.

The final score was 56 to 0, and although Grand Rapids was twice within striking distance of Duluth's goal, the visitors were at no time dangerous.

The team from up north was composed of men equally as heavy as the boys on the Centrals, but they lacked team work, at times showed gross ignorance of the game, and were completely outclassed by the Duluth team.

There were several big husky fellows on the Grand Rapids team who knew the game, and at times their work on the defense was of the hair raising order, but their work on the offense was miserably weak. They had no new plays, their men were slow in getting started, and they lacked the "pep" and coaching that goes to make up a successful eleven.

Those who saw the Duluth boys in their first game, and there were many, were surprised at the excellent showing made for this time in the year. The Individual play in the Saturday game, and the boys worked together in the greatest form shown so far this year. Every man was in the game all the time, there was very little fumbling. They went into the game hard, played fast and as Coach Chauncey Colton said after the game, "they played football." Grand Rapids was literally carried off their feet by the swift onslaught of the Centrals and they were not able to keep up the pace.

The work of Quarterback Boyle, was again of the sensational order, and he was greeted after each brilliant effort by cries of "pickersail, pickersail." Cummings showed up in the best form he has shown this year, making many long runs from twenty to thirty yards, and in spite of the fact that he went into the game in a crippled condition he played as though his life depended upon it.

Ostergren put up his customary game at right end, and "Rusty" Bowen was many times a star. Fullback Cook played in the best form shown this year and his big run of 80 yards for a touchdown set the spectators on edge.

It must be said of the Duluth team, that they are beginning to show more of that do or die spirit that has characterized Duluth teams in the past. Time and time again a down man would rise to his feet and with several tacklers clinging forward, sometimes only a few steps, and other times as far as ten yards. The ability shown by the Centrals in shaking off tackles was of high class order, oftentimes the man would shake himself loose, fall to the ground, roll over, and be up and on the run again before he was finally downed.

The game was so one-sided that after the first twenty-one points had been scored it became uninteresting, and only the spectacular playing of the Duluth team kept the spectators on the field.

With the exception of a strong northwest wind, which made it uncomfortable for the rooters, the weather was ideal for football, and the largest crowd of the season was in attendance.

Helmer, the regular Duluth centerf, was out of the game, on account of illness, and McCumber played the position in his stead, very satisfactorily.

The lineup:

| Duluth. | Position. | Grand Rapids. |
|---|---|---|
| McFadden | left end | McAlpine |
| McFarlane | left tackle | A. Tuel |
| Quinn | left guard | Sisler |
| McCumber | center | Reusswig |
| Kent | right guard | McLennan |
| Crawford (captain) | right tackle | E. Tuel |
| Ostergren | right end | Blood |
| Boyle | quarterback | C. King |
| Bowers | left half | Fraser |
| Cummings | right half | Lobbing |
| Cook | fullback | Meyers (capt.) |

Officials: Robert Leggett and Fur. D. Parks; halves, 20 minutes; touchdowns, Cummings, 2; Cook, 2; McFadden, 2; Bowen, 2; Boyle, 2; goals, Crawford, 6.

INJURIES NOT SERIOUS.

Football Players Hurt in Saturday's Game, Will Recover.

Schenectady, N. Y., Oct. 12.—None of the players hurt in Saturday's football game between Union and Wesleyan this city, were seriously injured with the exception of Capt. Potter of Union, whose collar bone was broken. He will be out of the game for the remainder of the year, but will be able to continue his college work.

Capt. Hammond of Wesleyan, who, it was feared was suffering from a slight fracture of the skull, was only rendered unconscious and was able to leave the hospital last night.

All the others will be in the game again in a few days. Their injuries were due to imperfect physical condition rather than to roughness of play.

Spaldings Win Again.

The Spalding Athletics Sunday afternoon at the Athletic Park defeated the fast Proctor eleven by a score of 36 to 0. The Spaldings used no fancy or trick plays, confining themselves to straight football.

The feature of the game was the terrific line smashing of the Spalding team, which the team from the little city was unable to stand.

The line-up:

| Spaldings. | | Proctor. |
|---|---|---|
| Clausen | left end | Higgins |
| Danielson | left tackle | Tritor |
| Geo. Johnson | lfet guard | Smith |
| Gil. Johnson | center | Basco |
| Anderson | right guard | Rossiter |
| Dixon | right tackle | Granger |
| Miller | quarterback | Wamberger |
| Knivers | l half back | Trumbly |
| Peeley | r halfback | Talon |
| Searles | fullback | Rich |

Officials—Colton, referee; Crawford, umpire. Twenty-five minute halves.

Bemidji Wins.

Bemidji, Minn., Oct. 12.—(Special to the Herald.)—Bemidji won Saturday afternoon from Bagley by a score of 58 to 0. The locals showed a great reversal of form over last Saturday's attempt against Grand Rapids.

AMES TEAM DEFEATED

Gophers Win Spectacular Game From Agricultural Team.

Williams' Green Youngsters Make Great Showing Against Veterans.

(By An Old Grad.)

Minneapolis, Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Minnesota won from Ames, Saturday, by a score of 15 to 10.

The game was a spectacular one from start to finish. Open work on the part of both teams made the game one of the best for the spectators that could be played under the new rules. One thing was made certain by the result Saturday. Minnesota has a team that plays the game all the time. The Gophers may not win the championship. It would be a wonder if the team did, considering the fact that they are all green men, but three, but the team will certainly give a good account of themselves in the remaining games. The improvement in the men during the past week has been wonderful. Last Saturday it seemed impossible for the Gophers to get anywhere near the top in the "Big Eight." Today it seems not only possible, but highly probable. The team from Ames is a strong one. They are heavy and fast, and are all men having several years' experience. Last year they kept Minnesota from making any touchdowns. The team this year is fully as strong as the team of last year. If comparative scores mean anything, it must be said that the Gophers are fully as good as the team of last year. And the physical condition of the men shows a vast improvement. Last week the game was tiresome and slow, because so much time was taken out for injured men. Saturday not a man on either side was hurt. It was a fine exhibition in every way, and brought the spectators to their feet time after time. Both sides used the forward pass most frequently and successfully. The Ames boys made the most gains by it, but the Gophers used it oftener. In line plunging Ames could not do much with the Gopher lines. The gains made by the Aggies were made around the ends or by fake plays. The high wind blowing made long kicks out of the question. Generally, the punts on each side went out of bounds. Minnesota tried no fake plays. The team play a fine game and the only criticism is that the line plays too high. The Ames boys play "on the ground." Both teams get down on punts in fine style.

Ames Had Heavy Team.

The Ames team was considerably heavier than Minnesota. No weights were given out on either side, but it was apparent that the Ames eleven averaged at least fifteen pounds to a man more than the Gophers.

A good many blunders marked the game, but honors were about even on this score. Where Minnesota failed to make gains because her men did not understand the signals, the Iowa boys failed because they would fumble the ball. The day was a good one for the spectators and none too cold for comfort, but a high northwest wind made it impossible for the team to indulge in any "hot work" successfully. About 5,000 rooters were on hand and kept things lively. In fact, for the size of the crowd it was widely enthusiastic. The varsity band was out fifty strong, and made things lively, in a way all their own, and in a manner that has made this organization famous wherever the Gopher team plays football.

Team of Midgets.

The game was a good illustration of the fact that old-fashioned football is gone forever. The famous Minnesota teams of years past, have all been big men. "Giants of the North," was an appellation applied to Minnesota elevens wherever the sport was known. And the uniform strength and position of former Gopher teams in the football world, merited the title. But all this has passed away with the new rules. Today the Gopher team is a team of midgets, compared to former years. As compared to the Ames team Saturday, it was apparent that "beef" no longer counted. McGovern is certainly the star of Dr. Williams' aggregation, and he is about knee-high to former Gopher stars, and weighs 135 pounds.

Ed Chestnut, the former star end was not out yesterday, but will undoubtedly be in the game against Nebraska. He has succeeded in removing the condition against him and is now eligible. His accession to the team will go a long way toward making a winning eleven.

This must be said to the credit of the Minnesota team: They earned every point they made in the game by good, hard work at real football. Ames got the first touchdown by an old fake of a delayed pass, that should not have been worked, and probably could never have been worked against any but the greenest of teams. The other four points were made by Laurbert's great kick from his own 45-yard line. Whatever the Ames' boys could do in the way of straight football was not shown Saturday afternoon, because the plays used were all of the kind that are generally used by high school teams. Only a few times did they try good, straight tactics, and they did good work when these were tried. Why fakes were used more than anything else is something that the rooters cannot understand. The final touchdown of the day came early in the second half, and it certainly looked as if the Gophers would at least make one more. But just as they were within striking distance, the ball was lost on a fumble, and Ames quickly booted the ball out of the danger zone.

The question now uppermost in the college world of Minnesota is the outcome of the game next Saturday with Nebraska. The most enthusiastic followers of the Gopher team predict a victory by an easy margin. The pessimists over the Gopher outlook predict an easy victory for Nebraska. The average rooter doesn't dare predict, and the average rooter expresses the feeling of those who know most of each team. The Cornhuskers are a veteran team. They are not bound by the same rules as is Minnesota. They have had at least two weeks' more practice. They are well trained, well coached and understand the science of the game. On the other hand, the Gophers have but three old men. The new men are light and have no experience in the trying moments that come in every big game. All green players are liable to stage fright. They are liable to forget themselves in the excitement of the big crowd, the music, the yells and all the hubbub that exists with every game of the magnitude of the coming one. But they are on the home grounds, among friends; their coaching has been of the best, and everyone wants them to do the best they can.

If competitive scores so far mean anything, the Nebraska boys are easily the better team, but the wise ones of the game say that comparative scores this year mean nothing. Dr. Williams and the team are saying nothing, but are doing a lot of hard work, Secret practice is the rule, and will be probably for the remainder of the season. One thing is certain, if the improvement in the team from now until next Saturday is as great as has been the improvement during the past week, the Cornhuskers will never win. Manager Leach predicts a tremendous crowd. Bleachers will be put up during the week around the entire gridiron. Fully 20,000 people will be present. The Lincoln boys will come early in the week. Special trains will come up with the Nebraska rooters. The Gopher alumni from all over the state will be here in force. The game is looked upon as crucial. If Minnesota should win it means a championship team. If Nebraska wins, it means an assured place in Western football.

The lineup Saturday:

| Minnesota. | Position. | Ames. |
|---|---|---|
| Pettijohn | left end | Graham |
| Young | left tackle | Law |
| Ostrand | left guard | Nelson |
| Safford | center | Rutledge |
| Rosenwald | right guard | Wilmarth |

| Grimes | right end | Johnson |
| Atkinson | quarterback | Knox |
| McGovern | left half | G. Lambert |
| Hubbard | rikht half | E. Lambert |
| Plankers | full back | Reppert |

TIGERS WIN.

Defeat Fast Victor Team at Football by Score 10 to 5.

The Irving Tigers Sunday defeated the Victors, for the first time in three years. The final score was 10 to 5.

The game was played on the open grounds at Fifty-second avenue west, and a large number of people watched the contest.

The lineup:

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Drake | left end | E. Maher |
| Pond | left tackle | Peterson |
| Tims | left guard | Moe |
| Winton | center | Bemis |
| Beauderage | right guard | Clark |

| Fieldman | right end | McGpire |
| Murniane | quarterback | A. Maher |
| Doyle | left halfback | Frost |
| Abrahamson | right halfback | Murphy |
| Ross | fullback | Cunningham |

Hummers Win at Football.

The Hummers trimmed the Adams Alumni at football Sunday afternoon at Athletic Park by a score of 5 to 0. Right Halfback Hackett of the Hummers got away on a fumbled ball and ran the entire length of the field for the only score made during the game.

The line-up:

| Hummers. | | Adams Alumni. |
|---|---|---|
| Ebner | left end | Whittle |
| Wagner | left tackle | Olson |
| MacDonald | left guard | Mork |
| McNutt | center | Wibell |
| J. MacDonald | right guard | Peterson |
| Brown | right tackle | Rankin |
| Pealey | right end | Crozier |
| Schadewald | fullback | Nelson |
| Hackett | r halfback | Anderson |
| Langbridge | l halfback | Murray |
| Caulkins | quarterback | Gremeer |

BOTH TEAMS WIN.

Blaine and Nelson Dewey of Superior Victors at Football.

Blaine high school of Superior journeyed down to Ashland Saturday and defeated the Ashland high school at football, by a score of 13 to 0.

Although the Ashland men were much lighter than the Superior team, they put up a great game, and were able to keep Blaine from scoring during the first half.

• • •

The Nelson Dewey team played at Washburn, the team that held Blaine to six point in the first game of the season, a week ago, defeating them, 22 to 0.

For the first game of the year Nelson Dewey showed great form, and the Washburn boys believe them to be a stronger team than the one representing Blaine high school.

Why Fitger's Beer is good for you

THE delicious, refreshing qualities of Fitger's Beer constitute but a part of its real merit.

It's exceptional food and tonic properties are what make Fitger's the choice of the most fastidious beer drinkers.

Barely Malt makes a food—and Bohemian Hops produce one of the best tonics. Together with the choicest of the above ingredients we use the pure, clear, sparkling water of Lake Superior—proven by tests to be the best adapted to brewing of any in the country.

The percentage of alcohol in Fitger's Beer has been reduced to about 3½%, just enough to be a gentle aid to digestion, and much less than contained in most patent medicines.

SUPERIOR TEAM VICTORIOUS

Wisconsin Men Again Capture First Place in Rifle Shoot.

Company I of Superior was again the victor in the shoot for the Commercial club trophy held Sunday afternoon at the rifle range on the hill top. The four companies and a team from the field staff and band were the contestants, and as in the shoot held a few weeks ago, the company from the other side of the bay walked off with first honors.

The day was ideal for shooting, there being but very little wind, and good scores were the result. Each contestant had ten shots over the range. Maj. Smith of the field staff and band won first with the score of 125; Bohning, company C, was second with 123; Johnson of company 1 was third with 122.

For these high individual scores they were awarded the gun cases donated for individual scores some time ago by a local concern.

The detailed score:

TOWN QUIET AFTER OUTRAGE BY NEGRO.

Spartansburg, S. C., Oct. 12.—Three companies of militia are guarding the jail here, and warrants have been issued for alleged ringleaders of a mob, which terrorized the town Saturday. Three of them were taken into custody Sunday, soldiers serving the warrants in place of the court officers. Four persons were wounded by the soldiers Saturday, but are doing well, and Miss Dempsey, victim of a negro, who started the trouble, is progressing. Further trouble is not expected, though the troops will be retained until danger of an outbreak is passed. Miss Dempsey was badly hurt, but the fiend did not accomplish his purpose.

MANY ARE HURT IN STRIKE RIOT

Crowd Hurls Stones at Chauffeur Who Continues Working.

New York, Oct. 12.—A number of persons were injured and windows in the Hotel Knickerbocker were broken in a riot that followed an attack made on Albert Lind, a chauffeur, employed by the New York Taxicab company.

A crowd of 500 persons, some sympathizers with the striking chauffeurs, hurled stones, sticks and other missiles at the cheaper car, which took refuge in a doorway of the big hotel. In the furlade the taxicab was wrecked and three windows of the main dining room of the hotel were shattered. The guests of the Knickerbocker fled from the rooms in panic.

A call was sent for the reserves, and soon half a dozen patrol wagons arrived with fifty policemen. It took half an hour to disperse the mob.

EX-MARINE KILLED BY GUITEAU'S ASSAILANT.

Washington, Oct. 12.—William Jones, who attempted to avenge the death of President Garfield by shooting at his assassin, Guiteau, last night killed John A. McPherson, a discharged member of the marine corps, on the Bates farm, near Brookland, on the outskirts of Washington. Jones is in custody.

TO RECALL EARLY DAYS

Presbyterian Synod to be Held Next Wednesday in St. Paul.

To Mark Half Century of Organized Church Work in State.

Crookston, Minn., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The forthcoming meeting of the Presbyterian synod of Minnesota at St. Paul in the House of Hope Presbyterian church, the opening service of which will be held on Wednesday evening, when the retiring moderator, Rev. Willard S. Ward of this city, will preach, is one of unusual interest as it will conclude a half a century of organized work by the Presbyterian church in this state, the synod having held its first meeting in 1858.

It is not generally known that the first Christian church organized in this state was a Presbyterian church organized at Fort Snelling in the spring of 1838 by the Rev. Thomas S. Williamson, who was also a practicing physician, sent to this part of the country by the Presbyterian board of missions.

Only Twenty-two Members.

There were only twenty-two members in the first organization and four elders were elected, of whom Maj. Logenis, commander of the fort, Samuel W. Pond and the chief trader were three. There were two of the Pond brothers, Samuel W. and Gideon H., who had come out from Connecticut shortly before this time to teach the Indians. They were not regularly appointed by any religious denomination and were laboring at their own expense.

This first church organized in the state was the genesis of the First Presbyterian church of Minneapolis, of which Rev. A. E. Marshall, D. D., is the present pastor, the descendants of the Pond brothers are still residents of the vicinity of where their work began, and two of them, one named Gideon H., are now members of the Oak Grove Presbyterian church of Bloomington, Minn., not far from Fort Snelling. Dr. Williamson left the work near the fort to the Pond brothers, and with Rev. J. F. Stevens and wife and Rev. and Mrs. Huggins, who had a little later been sent out by the board, located at Lac Pui Parle, being joined there by Joseph Reville, a half-breed trader.

Many Heathen Indians Then.

At this time there were at least 30,000 Indians in what is now Minnesota, and every one was a heathen. They were fierce and warlike, had successfully defended their lands against invasion by their red neighbors and were ready to fight against the whites, should it become necessary. They had no written language, and no word for a Supreme Being. It was very difficult to preach to them by the aid of interpreters, but Dr. Williamson and his companions were persistent, and by the aid of the Pond brothers, gave them a written language. For forty years this missionary labored on a translation of the bible into the language of the Sioux, and just before his death he had the joy of revising the last proof. As a result of his winter's work at Lac ui Parle, a Presbyterian church was organized in the spring of 1836.

Difficulties and dangers were overcome until the famine and pestilence drove the missionaries to take refuge in Little Crows village near St. Paul, where they remained six years. Returning to the western part of the state, the missionary force settled at Yellow Medicine, where the Lac Qui Parle Indians had been removed by the conditions of the treaty made with the government in 1851.

Great Indian Massacre.

Here work was continued until 1852, when the great Indian outbreak occurred. It started in a Sunday shooting match between the reds and the whites. In the suppression of this outbreak Maj. C. H. Mix of this city had a very prominent part, leaving St. Paul with the soldiers the morning after the massacre. In less than twenty-four hours after the first shot was fired about 500 white settlers had been killed within an area of 60 square miles, and more than 1,000 of the braves were killed before the Indians were driven away or captured. About 400 of the braves were carried in chains to Mankato, while more than 2,000 members of the tribe were under guard at Fort Snelling.

The families of the missionaries were uninjured during the trouble, being guided in safety by the Christian Indians. Dr. Williamson went at once to Mankato where he preached to the prisoners captured by the soldiers, his labors being rewarded by assisting in baptizing 300 of them in one day. Here he remained until the release of the prisoners after four years of imprisonment. The ringleaders, thirty-five in number, were hanged.

As a direct result of the labors of this great missionary there is now one whole presbytery composed exclusively of Indians, called the Dakota presbytery. It has thirty churches, twenty-two ministers, ninety-four elders, 2,545 members, and four candidates for the ministry.

From the beginning of the work among white people, in the organization of the church at Fort Snelling in 1835, came the organization of the synod in 1858, which at one time embraced all the territory of North and South Dakotas. In this synod, comprising the state of Minnesota alone, are eight presbyteries, 216 ministers, 302 churches, 328 elders, 25,574 members. During the past twenty-five years the membership has increased more than 300 per cent.

Crookston has been highly honored in making one of her ministers head of this great organization for the past year in the person of Rev. Mr. Ward.

PAUL KRAUSE.

PAUL KRAUSE FOUND GUILTY

Appleton, Wis., Oct. 12.—Guilty of murder in the first degree was the jury's verdict Saturday in the case of Paul Krause, accused of killing his divorced wife, Mrs. Minna Grahert, by beating her to death with a club and then hanging her body from a hook in the clothes closet to give the tragedy the appearance of suicide.

RESPECTED BY ALL.

John S. Morrison Who Died in Calumet Last Saturday.

Calumet, Mich., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald—John S. Morrison, who died here Saturday at the home of his son-in-law, James MacNaughton, had lived in Calumet since 1860 and was one of her most respected citizens. He had large lumbering interests throughout the upper peninsula.

He met with a serious injury last spring while at work at Lake Linden. This was the ultimate cause of death. He was 67 years of age. He is survived by a son, Charles, and two daughters, Mrs. James MacNaughton and Mrs. Mills, all of Calumet. He also leaves four brothers and two sisters.

He was a member of the Masons, the Royal Arch chapter, and Montrose commandery, Knights of Templars. The funeral will be held under Masonic auspices.

STAKEHOLDER'S HARD TASK.

To Hold Rather Odd Wager Made on Governorship.

Crookston, Minn., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first election bet thus far recorded it is alleged, has been made by Pat Connors, who bet a $150 dump cart against a $12.50 buggy, owned by S. L. Collins, that Governor Johnson will be re-elected.

The only hitch there seems to be is to get a stake holder, as no one seems to be available who wants to carry the two wagers about with him.

GOVERNOR BURKE HONORED.

Big Red River Barge Named After Him for His Good Work.

Grand Forks, N. D., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Red River Transportation company has decided to call the barge to be launched Tuesday Governor Burke, in honor of the chief executive of North Dakota. There was some talk of calling the boat the Dakota, but there was a great sentiment in favor of honoring Governor Burke on account of his work in favor of maintaining the waterways of North Dakota. When it was proposed to close a portion of the Red river to navigation, a few months ago, Governor Burke urged that the movement be opposed by North Dakotans generally, and pointed out that it would be unwise to close any of the rivers to navigation. He urged a large attendance of those opposed to the closing of navigable rivers at the hearing ordered by the government. As a result of the protests made by Grand Forks and other points, the government decided to leave the entire Red river open to navigation. It had been proposed to close it from its source to Belmont.

The governor also attended the waterways convention at St. Louis and has always taken the greatest interest in promoting river navigation.

DULUTH DRUMMER TOUCHED.

J. F. McClintock Loses Watch on N. P. Train Near Fargo.

Fargo, N. D., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. F. McClintock a traveling man of Duluth was fleeced of his watch in a slick manner Saturday in the smoking car of No. 8 on the Northern Pacific just as it was pulling into the city limits, but owing to the fact that he has been called to his home to attend a meeting of the salesmen he did not stop to have the matter taken up by the officers. Mr. McClintock stopped at the depot restaurant to get a lunch while the train stopped here and told some of he railroad men of the incident.

CUTS WAY TO LIBERTY WITH ONLY CANOPENER.

Winona, Minn., Oct. 12.—Jack Kline, arrested a month ago for burglary, and at White Hall on Wednesday held to the circuit court on $1,000 bail, early Sunday evening broke out of the Trempleau county jail at White Hall by cutting a hole through the roof.

The only instrument he had in his cell so far as known was a canopener.

DENNY GETS NEW TRIAL.

Ex-Mayor, Accused of Horse Theft, Given Another Chance.

Bismarck, N. D., Oct. 12.—William H. Denny, formerly mayor of Williston and prominent in the banking circles in that place, who was arrested several years ago on proceedings instituted by the Montana Stock Growers' Protective association, charged with receiving stolen horses that were rustled into Montana by one Ryan, and run over into Williams county to be disposed of, and who was convicted in Williams county and sentenced to three years' imprisonment in the state penitentiary, has been granted a new trial by the supreme court, and the verdict of guilty has been set aside by the upper court.

MANY NOTABLES TO ATTEND

Silver Anniversary of Brotherhood of St. Andrew in Milwaukee.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Brotherhood of St. Andrew, "organized for the spread of Christ's kingdom among men," will celebrate its silver jubilee at the twenty-fifth annual national convention of the organization which opens in Milwaukee on Wednesday.

The convention will be a cosmopolitan gathering, bringing to the city about 1,500 men and boys, among whom will be ten or more bishops of the Protestant Episcopal church in the United States, many eminent clergymen, and large numbers of men prominent in the business and professional world, while from the Dakotas will come delegations from the Indian chapters, and from the south representatives of the colored men's chapters.

ADMITS FIENDISH MURDER.

"Smokey" Schwab Given Life Sentence for an Atrocious Crime.

Lake Benton, Minn., Oct. 12.—In district court at Ivanhoe, Martin ("Smokey")Schwab, pleaded guilty to murdering John Lorenzun at Lake Benton on the night of May 5, 1908. The plea was made to murder in the second degree, though the charge was first degree murder. The county attorney accepted the pleading and Schwab will be given life imprisonment.

This murder was the most fiendish in the annals of Southern Minnesota crime, the victim having his forehead crushed in with an axe. Schwab maintains a sullen silence, refusing to give any explanation of the murder or his motive.

HAS EIGHTEEN CHILDREN.

Wisconsin Woman of 39 Establishes New Record.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., Oct. 12.—Mrs. Catherine Marbone of Waupun, who has been visiting here for a few days, is perhaps the champion mother in Wisconsin. Mrs. Marbone is only 39 years old, has been married nineteen years and has been blessed with eighteen children, one born each year. She has been married twice, the first time when she was 17 years old. Twelve children blessed her first marriage and six her second.

ELEVATOR COMPANY SOLVENT

Suicide of Former Treasurer Did Not Hurt Its Credit.

Emerado, Minn., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The defalcation of John Hempstead, the former treasurer of the Farmers' Elevator company, of this place, who took his life and the publicity given thereto, have given rise to the rumor that the elevator company is seriously involved. Such is not the case. An expert has just finished checking up the company's affairs. Everything is found to be correct so far as all present officers of the company are concerned. The only irregularities found are those items of money misappropriated by Hempstead, the former treasurer of the company, and as to these the company is abundantly secured.

The company is sound and solvent, has honored all demands upon it promptly, and is abundantly able to meet all its obligations and still have a comfortable surplus left for its stockholders. All rumors to the effect that the company is in embarrassed circumstances or that it is going out of business are wholly unfounded.

HOUGHTON COUNTY DEMS

Planning to Have Lively Campaign From Now On.

Houghton, Mich., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Democrats of Houghton county are preparing for a rousing campaign during the next three weeks. It is practically certain that Lawton T. Hemans will visit this district shortly as well as other prominent Democrats. It is expected that Mr. Hemans will visit here about the last week of the campaign.

One of the rallies will be held in Calumet, likely at the Calumet theater, and at that meeting Mr. Hemans will speak. It is expected that there will be a big attendance of Democrats and others. Edward Ryan and Attorney P. H. O'Brien will be among the principal local speakers.

LUMBERJACKS HOLDING BACK

Want More Pay Before Going Into North Michigan Woods.

Calumet, Mich., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—G. L. Perrault, an employment agent, states that there is a scarcity of men for the lumber camps. He attributes this mainly to the fact that men are asked to go into the woods for $25 to $30 per month. Mr. Perrault says this is away below what was paid last year and that lumbermen generally are kicking. The average pay last year was from $35 to $40 per month, and in some instances as high as $42 was paid good men.

The fact that a maximum of only $30 is being paid this year is keeping many away from the woods. Then, again, there is a lot of surface work going on right now in the Copper country and this also keeps men away from the camps.

REGULATES DIGESTION

Digests All You Eat Leaving Nothing Ferment in Stomach.

Take Some Diapepsin and Rid Yourself of Stomach Trouble.

When your stomach is weak or lacking in gastric juice, anything that you eat, no difference what it is, will sour on your stomach, raise the bile and acids to cover your food like oil on water causing indigestion, Dyspepsia, Stomach nervousness and Belching of sour poisons, which produce foul odors, nasty taste, bilious headache, Heartburn, Intestinal griping and make you an object of misery. This is stomach trouble which cannot be overcome with ordinary digestive medicines. It is caused by fermentation of your food, which may be remedied at once by Pape's Diapepsin, a preparation pleasant to take and as harmless as candy, though it will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat.

Indigestion is a result, not a cause, of your trouble. If the stomach is sour and unhealthy, your food becomes tainted, and that's what is causing the indigestion and gas on stomach and other miseries. Pape's Diapepsin is an Antacid, most powerful digestive and thorough regulator for weak stomachs. These Triangules will digest any kind of food you eat and will cleanse the stomach and intestines in a natural way, which makes you feel fine five minutes afterwards.

Any good Pharmacy here will supply you with a case of Pape's Diapepsin for fifty cents. Just reading about this remarkable stomach preparation will not help you. You should go now and get a case. Put your stomach in full health, and by tomorrow you will forget the misery of Stomach trouble. Your case is no different from many others. It isn't Stomach Nerves or Catarrh of the Stomach, or Gastritis, or Dyspepsia. It is Food rotting—Food Fermentation—that's all—and takes about five minutes to overcome.

CROSBY SAYS OPTIONS WERE WORTH MILLIONS

Expert for Plaintiff Expresses Belief in Butte & Superior.

Testimony is Just the Opposite of That Given by Meany.

Putting his expert opinion up against that of Pat Meany of Butte, Mont., who testified that the Butte & Superior properties weren't worth anything when they were purchased, George H. Crosby testified this morning, as a witness for the plaintiff in rebuttal in the case of the Butte & Superior Copper company against John McAlpine, that the properties were, in his opinion, worth every cent paid for them, and had far greater prospective value.

He said the properties, exclusive of the Laura and Enterprise, were worth the $4,000,000 or so paid for them, the Laura and Enterprise were each worth, in his opinion, from $200,000 to $400,000, and the eight claims to the west and known as the "Eight P's" had mineral value and good prospects. He said he also thought the properties were worth the amount at which the company was capitalized, and that they were also worth $8,000,000, the valuation placed on them by the officers of the company when the statement was filed with the auditor of Montana in January, 1907.

Foundation for Mr. Crosby's testimony as an expert was laid by a review of his operations in the Bisbee camp and other fields. He told of his recommendations on the Shattuck and the Denn-Arizona, and also said that he had been successful in estimating the value of other mining claims. He told of several visits to Butte for the purpose of examining the properties being considered by the people who had the organization of the Butte & Superior Copper company in mind, of forming an opinion as to the value of the properties and of the closing of the deals. He said that after having given his opinion as to the value of the properties, he gave his attention to other matters and left the closing of the deals to his associates.

The matter of Mr. Crosby's dealings with Mr. McAlpine was taken up by Mr. Hollister, and on several points Mr. Crosby differed from the defendant. He said he first talked to Mr. McAlpine about the company about November, 1906, when he visited Mr. McAlpine's office on other business, and the talk shifted around to Butte & Superior. He said he gave Mr. McAlpine a plain statement of the conditions, telling him about the property, the formation of the company, and the fact that subscriptions were being taken.

"I told him there was a large vein running through the property and that the vein was one of the greatest in the Butte camp," said the witness. "I said that although no copper ore of great richness had been found just then, there was good prospect of it at depth and that a shaft would be sunk to a depth of 1,200 feet. I said the work would go ahead just as fast as money and men could make it."

Mr. Crosby said he told Mr. McAlpine that the people behind the proposition had options on the claims and had paid certain amounts of money on them. He said that Mr. McAlpine listened and then asked him if he couldn't get some of the stock. He said he hadn't the ready money, but would give his note for half of the price of 1,000 shares. Mr. Crosby said that after a conference with Mr. Wolvin, the subscription was given and the note taken.

Mr. Crosby was asked about Mr. McAlpine's statement as to the representations made, with North Butte as a comparison. Mr. Crosby said he told Mr. McAlpine that the Butte & Superior vein was larger than that of the North Butte and if copper values were found at depth as expected, it would be a greater mine than the North Butte.

"I believed that then and I believe it now," he said.

In regard to Mr. McAlpine's statement on the stand that Crosby had made misrepresentations to him in regard to other propositions, Mr. Crosby said that Mr. McAlpine bought 10,000,000 feet of pine at $1.60 per 1,000 and it is now worth about $7 or $8 a 1,000.

Mr. Crosby said that after the first subscription had been given, he met Mr. McAlpine several times and they talked about Butte & Superior. He said Mr. McAlpine asked him on one of those occasions if he could get another 1,000 shares and a little later the subscription was signed and the note given, on which suit is now being made.

He said the next time he heard of the matter, he learned Mr. McAlpine wanted to see him and he called at Mr. McAlpine's office. He said Mr. McAlpine made a proposition to draw out of the last subscription, but the officers of the company refused to countenance such a move. He said he later called on Mr. McAlpine in company with Mr. Wolvin. On that occasion, Mr. McAlpine made the statement that he wouldn't pay the note, because the money had been misappropriated, meaning that he had made but one subscription and the note had been misapplied. Mr. Wolvin asked him if he thought he had secured a gold-brick and Mr. McAlpine answered that was just what he meant. Mr. Crosby said he didn't remember Mr. McAlpine's making any statements that there had been misrepresentations as to the property, nor his saying that it was a "fake deal."

Mr. Hollister went into the question of values and Mr. Crosby said that the joining of the different options together in the hands of one corporatin undoubtedly increased their value, so that they were fully worth the $6,000,000 at which the company was incorporatted, when it was formed. He said the further development and the additional acquisitions made the property worth $8,000,000, when the statement was filed with the auditor of Montana.

Mr. Crosby said that the first he heard of the statement filed with the auditor of Montana was the testimony in court and he denied ever having told Mr. McAlpine that such a statement had been filed.

On cross-examination, Mr. Richards sought to draw from the witness his knowledge of the company's financial condition at the time he took Mr. McAlpine's subscription. Mr. Crosby said he knew nothing of the financial condition of the company, except what had been told him and that he only told Mr. McAlpine that the company had money enough to go ahead with the work and would do so with all possible speed. Mr. Crosby was still on the stand under cross-examination when court adjourned at noon.

Waltz of the Ostrich.

The so-called waltzing performance of the ostrich is familiar to all South Africa, but few outsiders have ever heard of it. It consists of a rapid whirling movement, sometimes one way, sometimes another, the wings spread out and alternately elevated and depressed. It is a fascinating sight when indulged in by a large flock, says the New York Sun.

First one bird will dart forward and begin the circular movements; another will follow and then others, in the mad whirl. Some will continue until they drop exhausted or, apparently becoming giddy, stumble and fall.

The dance is seen in all its glory only when a considerable number of birds are together. It often takes place among only a few, but it never so intense or prolonged as when the flock is large.

Chicks only a month or two old engage in the amusement, though they are rather clumsy and sometimes stumble, particularly when they are reversing. As they grow older they perform several complete turns with great facility, though even adult birds sometimes stumble and break their legs in falling.

This gay behavior is no doubt instinctive, and as with other instincts, it is perfected by experience. Ostrich chicks begin the whirl even when reared away from other ostriches and without having seen the performance. The South Africans have the following theory of the significance of this playful activity:

The wild ostrich can protect himself against lions and leopards in no other way than by flight. When chased by a beast of prey the ostrich, starting to run, twists and turns in curious fashion, and jerks so quickly from side to side that no beast would be likely to take time to set himself for a spring in one direction before the bird had changed his course.

Ostriches thus pursued have been seen to stop at full speed, turn as if pivoted and flee again in almost the opposite direction. Probably no other animal can do this.

The South Africans believe that the instinctive waltzing movement of the ostrich is useful in perfecting the bird in the art of suddenly twisting and turning, which is most likely to assist it to elude its natural enemies, the larger carnivora.

VERY FEMININE STILL.

Philadelphia Press: "She's quite masculine, isn't she?"

"Oh, she is and she isn't."

"Why, you used to consider her extremely mannish."

"True; but one day I asked her why she was, and she simply answered: 'Because.'"

CAMPAIGN ON RANGES

The Johnson Special Will Leave Duluth Tuesday Morning.

Republicans Complete Plans for Big Rally at the Armory.

Governor Johnson will reach Duluth on an early morning train tomorrow. At 8 o'clock he will leave on a special train over the Duluth, Missabe & Northern for a two days' tour of the range. Members of the county committee and representatives of the press will accompany the governor on the trip. He will return to Duluth Wednesday evening, speaking at the armory at 8 o'clock that night.

All arrangements for the celebration of what the members of the Democratic committee believe will be a record breaking political rally in this city, have been completed by the subcommittee of the county committee, which has had the arrangements in charge.

Torches have been ordered from St. Paul and will be here tomorrow. These will be distributed to the various clubs, which will march in the big torchlight parade. The Third Regiment band has been engaged and will head the procession, which will be one of the biggest political parades ever seen in this city. Every Democratic club in this city and West Duluth and the West end will be in the line of marching. The Duluth Heights Democratic club, organized Saturday, has sent word to the county committee that its members will march in the parade. Lists of all the active Democrats in the city have been prepared and they have been sent word that they are wanted to march in the procession.

* * *

All preparations for the entertainment of Governor Cummins have been completed by the Republican county committee. The Iowa governor will reach Duluth this evening on the regular afternoon train from the Twin Cities. He will be met at the train by the citizens' committee, composed of 125 of the leading citizens of Duluth, and escorted to the Spalding hotel. From there he will be taken to the Armory for the speaking, which begins at 7:30.

John J. Eklund will preside over the meeting. As far as the arrangements have been completed thus far, Governor Cummins will be the only speaker on the program. Later in the day some other speaker may be added to the program.

The members of the Republican county committee have received word from every Republican club in the city, promising to attend the meeting this evening. Word has been received that some Republicans will accompany the governor from the Twin Cities, while other reports from the range and nearby towns indicate that many people will come to Duluth to hear the famous Iowa orator.

No procession will be held, though some of the Republican clubs will march in a body to the Armory. The Third Regiment band has been secured and will march through the streets before the meeting.

The appearance here of Governor Cummins will be one of the big political events of the campaign. He was secured through the special request of the Republican state central committee, after all hope of a Duluth appearance had been abandoned. Governor Cummins is in great demand by the national speakers' bureau this fall, and it was through special arrangements with that committee that he was secured for a Duluth date.

$20,000 BOOT GREASE.

San Francisco cor. New York Globe: Greasing masts, sea boots and oilskins with ambergris, valued at approximately $40 a pound, sailors on the British bark Antiope wasted about $20,000 worth of the stuff, unaware of its value. It was not until today that John Mathieson, master of the vessel, learned that he had let a fortune slip through his fingers. The Antiope reached here from Newcastle, Australia, a few days ago. On the way up, in latitude 20 degs. south, a large quantity of "grease" was seen floating on the surface of the ocean, and, a calm prevailing, the men managed to scoop up several bucketsful of the stuff. The captain says that much more could have been collected.

FOREST OF STONE.

London Globe: In Albany, in Australia, is to be seen a stone forest, in other words, petrified trees. The trees are of a gray stone.

It is suggested as an explanation of the strange phenomenon that in the depths of past ages the forest was in full vegetation, and then through some upheaval of the earth it was buried in sand. Little by little water acting on the sand penetrated the branches and solidified.

The wood gradually disappeared under the layer of stone and in time took its form. Then in succeeding years the winds again carried away the sand, and the forest appeared anew, but of stone.

NO PLACE FOR DOGS.

Japan Chronicle: Is it impossible in Japan to keep a good dog? I have twice had my dogs disappear in a seemingly miraculous way.

As I am well aware that there is a great demand for dog skins, especially those of young dogs, we have been careful in having our dog watched; nevertheless, he disappeared.

Almost every foreigner has lost a dog or dogs, and even a sea captain, who was three days on shore had his dog poisoned the first day he put his feet on land.

THE USUAL REASON.

The Rev. Sydney Goodman—his Men's church at Atlantic City, with its smoking congregations and its moving pictures, has already brought out many imitators—is noted for the brilliance and originality of his sermons.

"Even in a begging sermon," said a member of the Men's church, "Mr. Goodman can amuse. He began a recent begging sermon in this manner:

"A deacon said to the minister's wife:

"'Why is your husband always asking for money, money, money?'

"The minister's wife sighed:

"'I suppose it is because you never give him any,' said she."

TRIBUTE TO GARRICK.

T. P.'s Weekly: Mrs. Clive was eminent as an actress on the London stage before Garrick appeared, and, as his blaze of excellence threw all others into comparative insignificance, she never forgave him, and took every opportunity of venting her spleen. She was coarse, rude, and violent in her temper, and spared nobody.

One night as Garrick was performing "King Lear," she stood behind the scenes to observe him, and, in spite of the roughness of her nature, was so deeply affected that she sobbed one minute and abused him the next, and, at length, overcome by his pathetic touches, she hurried from the place with the following extraordinary tribute to the universality of his powers: "D—n him! I believe he could act a gridiron."

JOAN OF ARC'S PRISON.

The prison of Joan of Arc has just been located near Rouen. The foundations of the ancient tower in which it was, have been discovered and opened up through some new construction work undertaken by the government in the grounds of the Ursuline Convent, from which the nuns have recently been expelled, says the New York Sun.

The workmen in digging for the new foundations came upon a massive wall enclosing a circular space with a diameter of about thirty-six feet. When this was cleared of earth a well was found in the center measuring six feet across and about thirty feet in depth. Water rose in it clear and cold as soon as the earth had been cleared away from the bottom.

When the antiquarians got busy they identified the wall as the foundation of a building which was known for ages as "The Maid's Tower." A document dating back to 1641 was produced, which, taking it for granted that this tower had been the prison of the Maid of Orleans, 210 years previously, gave a description and measurement of it, including the well, which unmistakably watch the ruins just exhumed.

The structure appears to have stood unchanged from the death of Joan in 1431 to 1590, when it was reduced to ruins in the course of a siege. In 1769 the city leased the site on which the ruin stood to Louis Mouchard.

In 1780 he appears to have stopped paying the rent. The greater part of the ruin was cleared away about this time, but as late as 1789 a visitor writing about the place, mentions the foundation of the tower as visible and speaks of the well. After that it was filled in with earth and later the site became part of the nuns' garden and the existence of the ruin and the tradition attaching to it were forgotten.

A ROAR FROM PARK POINT

Want Better Fire Protection and Good Ferry Service.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Now that the cold nights are here, the Park Pointers want a better fire protection for the Point. Some steps should be taken by the board of fire commissioners to locate a house for the fire car near the center of the point. A switch could be put in, running north and south so that the car could reach the fire much quicker. But the car is not the only fire protection that is greatly needed on Park Point. One or two men should be stationed in the car house ready to run the car out at all times, thus avoiding delays. The gong on the car should be rung continuously, by an automatic device as the man in charge of the car has all he can attend to watching the track.

On Sunday morning a fire was discovered at 2 o'clock. The car responded promptly manned by Fire Chief Ball, but delay was caused in getting out the hose owing to an insufficient number of men. What is greatly needed is an alarm system whereby residents can be notified of a fire. For instance, 400 feet of hose was needed to reach said fire. There were only the following to drag it up one block of heavy sand: Chief Ball and Lieutenants Milnes and Harrington. Too much credit cannot be given to the following: Mrs. Harry Milnes, Misses Nellie and Ethel Sinclair, Thomas McKinney and Clarence Foster, who kept the fire from spreading by forming a bucket brigade.

I notice this morning's paper states that Thomas Dillon says that Park Point people are hard to please. I fail to see it. At 9 p. m. Saturday evening twenty people were running from one dock to another trying to find means of transportation to go to their homes on Park Point. Chief Ball called up fire headquarters and arranged for men to come to the fire Sunday morning. He took the car to the canal for them at 3 o'clock on Sunday morning, but the tug Pacific or anything else to convey them across the canal, was conspicuous by its absence. What are we paying taxes for year after year? A TAXPAYER.

KILLED BY BROTHER.

Foley, Minn., Oct. 12.—Miss Jennie Burnette, 17 years old, daughter of John Burnette, a farmer living in Granite Ledge township, was accidentally shot and killed by her 14-year-old brother. The boy took a rifle from the wall to shoot a wolf and as he raised it to see if it was loaded the weapon went off instantly killing his sister, who stood near.

Auto Party Here.

Dr. W. A. McEichern and wife and W. B. Manwold and wife of Sandstone reached Duluth last evening on an auto spin from their home city. D. G. Friesendahl was the chauffeur of the party, and made the trip from Sandstone in very fast time. Dr. McEichern said today that the roads between here and Sandstone are in excellent shape, and that the trip was accomplished in something near record time for the distance. The party will leave today for the return trip. The members of the party were guests at the Lenox during their stay in Duluth.

Fire on the Point.

A house owned by Henry Jaques, and located on Thirty-ninth street, Park Point, was partly burned Sunday afternoon. The house was unoccupied at the time, and due to the good work of the Park Point fire department, the house was saved, the amount of the damage being fully covered by insurance.

COPPER STOCKS ON HIGHER BASIS

Share Market Has Better Tone During the Session.

Copper stocks were on a higher basis than Saturday throughout the session today. They started off well at the opening, advancing a point or so over the opening, but lost it again before the session was over. However, the closing prices were firm.

North Butte opened at $82, advanced to $83, declined to $82.50 and closed at $82.50 bid and $82.75 asked. Amalgamated opened at $75, advanced to $75.50 and closed at $75.25 bid and $75.50 asked.

Greene-Cananea opened at $10.25, declined to $10.12½ and closed at $10 bid and $10.25 asked. Butte Coalition opened at $25, advanced to $25.37½, declined to $24.50 and closed at $25 bid and $25.25 asked. Calumet & Arizona opened at $114.50, advanced to $116 and closed at $115 bid and $115.50 asked. Anaconda opened at $43.50, declined to $43.12½, rallied to $43.37½ and closed at $43.37½ bid.

Superior & Pittsburg sold at $14, advanced to $14.25 and closed at $14 bid and $14.25 asked. Globe was traded in at $6.50 and closed at $6.75 bid and $7 asked; Red Warrior at $4.37½ and $4.50 and closed at $4.37½ bid and $4.62½ asked; Denn-Arizona at $3.37½ and $3.25 and closed at $3.12½ bid and $3.37½ asked; Carman at $3.50 and closed at $3.37½ bid and $3.62½ asked and Butte-Ballaklava at $8 and closed at $8 bid and $8.25 asked. Butte & Superior was stronger, advancing from 90 to 98 cents and closing at 95 cents bid and $1 asked.

Mowitza was inactive and closed at $2.62½ bid and $2.87½ asked, Savanna at $2.87½ bid and $3.12½ asked and Calumet & Sonora at $9.12½ bid and $9.62½ asked.

Black Mountain sold at $3.50 and closed at $3.37½ bid and $3.62½ asked.

In their latest market letter, Hayden, Stone & Co., say of North Butte:

"North Butte will be among the first of the copper producers to increase its rate of disbursements to the shareholders. A very early increase is not considered likely by this company, unless the metal market changes materially for the better. Present annual earnings are some $8,000,000 in excess of the dividend requirements, from which it is evident that the practically depleted treasury of nine months ago is being rapidly replenished.

"With the metal selling at 14 cents, the North Butte will be capable, once its working capital is of necessary proportions, of paying $6 per share per annum, and it is for this, among other reasons, that the shares find favor in circles of investment and speculation.

"In this connection it is not amiss to state that the dividend stocks are by far the most attractive, or at least those in position to show immediate earnings, as they will be the first to respond to confidently looked forward to improvement in the copper trade during the approaching winter. The development of properties of assured future permanency is, at best, a slow, tedious and expensive task, yet, on the other hand, the patience of those exercising proper discretion in the purchase of this class of securities is bound to be handsomely rewarded."

They have this to say of Greene-Cananea:

"Despite the loss of three days' production, due to the observance of the Mexican national holiday, the Greene-Cananea copper output for September was approximately 3,500,000 pounds, together with something less than 100,000 ounces of silver and 600 ounces of gold, the two latter representing a value of some $62,000.

"Considering the fact that but three-quarters of the concentrator and one-half the smelting capacity of the company is in commission, the costs are assuredly most creditable, and likewise furnish the most convincing proof that when normal production is under way, the Greene-Cananea will compare favorably in this respect with this country's big producers.

"For the month of August the Greene-Cananea copper was sold at a cost, exclusive of construction, of a trifle over 9 cents per pound, while with the construction charges accounted for, the cost per pound was practically 9½ cents.

"Mining costs for August amounted to $1.93 per ton, a reduction of 50 per cent cumpared with the figures for the six months prior to the passing of the control of the company's affairs to its present hands. Fuel oil has been substituted for steam coal at the central power plant, where a reduction in fuel costs of 50 per cent has also been effected.

"The Green-Cananea has now demonstrated its ability to produce copper at a price permitting of an average margin of profit, but as yet the savings from the introduction of only the greater improvements are in evidence, these being the first to receive the attention of the management. Extensive changes and improvements of a minor nature are in progress, which will be reflected in the results for the coming year, when the company will be operating to the capacity of its entire plant. It is more than likely, however, that two additional furnaces will be placed in commission during the coming month.

"Considering the vast mineralized area of the Greene-Cananea, some 37,000 acres, the results of the past two months in the matter of operating costs are deeply significant as indicating what may be expected of this company as a future producer. Its perplexing problems, if they may be so termed, have been solved, and the attention of the management will henceforth be with a view to a broadening production which may be expected to continue until at least the 100,000,000 mark has been reached."

Case Being Heard Again.

The case of Powers & Simpson against William Delahunt, for $2,367, alleged to have been due on a contract, is being heard this afternoon. There was a counter claim for $4,521.62. The case was heard before and Delahunt got a verdict of $4,497.43. It was referred to the supreme court, which ordered a new trial.

Threw Whisky Glass.

The case of the state against Dan Saint, of Virginia, who is charged with asault in the second degree, will be heard this afternoon before Judge Dibell. The March grand jury brought in an indictment against him.

He is charged with throwing a whisky glass at Matt Kangas, in the Virginia saloon on the night of January 7, 1908, with such good aim that the latter's eye was put out.

INDIANS' BIG CATCH.

Tacoma correspondence, San Francisco Chronicle: The catch of Quinault salmon this season was the greatest ever known. Seventy-five thousand fish were delivered at Hoquiam, valued at $35,000. This is 27,000 more fish than have ever been caught in any previous season. The Quinault Indians used advanced methods this season in fishing, going out beyond the breakers in their frail canoes and then setting their nets. Hundreds of fish were caught in the lagoons where they had been left by the receding tides.

This enormous catch was made by thirty Indians and the entire tribe enjoyed the prosperity. They were paid in full at Hoquiam one day this week.

BIG GAME IN INDIA.

Lucky Shot That Stopped Wild Elephant's Charge.

It was in connection with elephant hunting two years ago that I was fortunate enough to shoot the third largest elephant killed in India, writes Edwin Pinches in Forest and Stream. It measured ten feet four inches in height from the shoulder and the circumference of a foot was sixty-two inches; it was a 'goonda'—a solitary mule. It had been giving considerable trouble fighting our keonkies, and I applied to the government for permission to shoot the brute. One night the elephant amused itself by breaking down the servant's tent and nearly killed two men.

I had a small camp, and several friends were staying with me to see the wild elephants taken out of the stockade. We were all admiring them when one of my elephant hunters rushed up and said that the goonda was going for the keonkies. This was most serious, as some of the wild elephants were at that very moment roped to the tame ones and being tied up to trees. If the goonda got among them some elephants would probably be killed and certainly some of the drivers.

There was only one thing to do. The goonda must be stopped at all costs. Seizing my rifle, a .450 bore high velocity, I ran into the forest to cut him off. I had not gone more than twenty yards in the forest before I saw the huge brute, but what was more to the point he saw me. There was just one moment of hesitation, when he seemed undecided whether to go for the keonkies or to come for me. He decided on the latter course and with a shrill trumpet charged straight down on me, the very incarnation of rage. It was a glorious sight, one of those moments which makes life worth living. I let him get within ten yards, then shot him clear through the brain. He dropped stone dead to the one shot, shaking the earth as he fell, and one more trophy was added to my collection.

Hunting big game is one of the most exciting and interesting of sports. Assam is but little known outside of India, and yet in its dense jungles roam the elephant, rhinoceros, buffalo, tiger, bear, etc.

Even in the present day there are huge tracts of virgin forest teeming with game of all descriptions. Perhaps for the true lover of sport the most interesting is the catching of wild elephants. These roam the hills of Assam in large numbers; frequently as many as 100 have been captured in a single drive.

Of course there are several ways of catching elephants. In Assam it is generally done by driving them into a stockade, or else what is called 'mela shikar.' In the case of the latter only one elephant can be caught at a time, and not over about 6 feet 6 inches in height. The method is as follows: Two fast female tame elephants are usually chosen. On the back of each elephant is a driver and one other to help with the ropes. The elephants are taken into the forest where wild elephants are known to be.

Search is then made for fresh tracks of a herd. When these are found the herd is followed up till the tame elephants get in among the wild ones. The one to be hunted is then selected, and the tame ones gradually edge up close to it, stopping when it does and feeding alongside it. A young female is generally chosen. As soon as each tame elephant has closed in on each side of the wild one, a rope with a noose is thrown over the neck of the latter by the driver of each tame elephant. As soon as he feels the rope the wild one bolts, and the tame elephants have to chase till he is finally run down, which is generally done in about an hour.

The elephant drivers have to be very careful, as they are liable to be knocked off by branches of trees or overhanging creepers. This kind of hunting calls for great endurance and is only done by natives.

The best way to hunt elephants is by driving. Usually about the end of October the elephants come down from the hills to the salt licks. These are dotted about at the foot of the hills. Every year in Assam the right to catch elephants is put up to auction by the government officials and knocked down to the highest bidder. Whoever has purchased what is called a 'mehal' has the sole right to catch elephants, and proceed to the hunting districts, and near one of the salt licks much frequented by elephants proceeds to erect a stockade.

A large number of coolies are employed. These cut down the trees in the forest into posts and drive them firmly into the ground. They are bound together, and long posts are braced against them for support. Inside the stockade a big ditch, generally about 4 feet deep and 5 feet wide, is made right around the stockade. This is done to prevent the elephants from using their great strength against the stockade.

Along both sides leading to the enclosure trees are felled and a guiding fence made leading right to the salt lick and left open at the side the elephants usually enter the salt lick. A huge gate is made and is is closed by a rope. Big pieces of timber are used for barricading it from the outside. The inside of the stockade is left as near like nature as possible, and around the enclosure men are placed on platforms among the trees, watching night and day, as there is no telling when the elephants will visit the salt licks. Along the tops of trees leading to the salt licks clackers are fixed to a string which runs along past the salt licks, so that when the string is puller they make a great noise.

At the end of the fence men are hidden with guns. As soon as the elephants enter the salt licks—men have been watching every move from the top of trees—and it is thought that all the herd are through the salt licks the men at the end fire off their guns and the clackers are pulled, making a tremendous noise. The elephants at once stampede and naturally make for where there is no noise, for near the stockade everything is quiet.

Men follow behind the elephants till they are driven right into the stockade. The gate is then closed and barred. It is a most exciting time when the elephants first enter the stockade, for as soon as they discover they are closed in they make frantic efforts to get out, charging at every side of the stockade. The men gathered around wave lighted torches in the elephants' faces, and when they get too close prod them with spears. They also put the ends of split bamboos into the fire, which makes them explode with a report like a gun. Young elephants not accompanied by their mothers frequently get killed as the elephants rush about in the stockade.

If the elephants do not break out of the stockade the first night they rarely break out at all. As a rule they are allowed to remain in the stockade for two or three days in order to weaken them. When it has been arranged what wild ones are to be taken out the "keonkies" (tame elephants trained to do the work) are then lined up outside the stockade, and each, with its driver, dressed in some dark colored costume and thick ropes which they form into nooses, is then prepared to enter the crowded stockade.

Before entering the stockade the natives chant to their gods three times. As the last chant is finished the gate, which had been gradually unfastened, is thrown wide open and the keonkies enter to do battle with the wild elephants. As soon as they enter the stockade they are formed up in front and on each side of the gate to prevent the wild elephants from making a rush and getting out and away.

It is a most interesting and picturesque sight seeing the keonkies first enter the stockade. They now advance toward the wild elephants and endeavor to separate the one to be caught from the rest. As soon as this is done two keonkies range up, one on each side. The wild one bolts around the stockade pursued by the keonkies until at last one of the drivers is able to slip a noose over the head of the wild elephant. The driver on the other elephant watches his opportunity throws over another noose.

The ropes are drawn fairly tight, care being taken to tie the slip knot with a small rope to prevent its slipping and strangling the elephant. The big ropes are then tied to the keonkies, one on each side of the wild elephant, who continues to make frantic, but useless efforts to escape. All the time he is being gradually pushed and hauled until he is got to a tree in the stockade until securely tied. The bark of the tree has been previously stripped off, so as to allow free play to the rope to prevent the elephant using great pressure against it.

In the majority of cases the wild ones are taken straight out of the stockade as soon as roped to the keonkies, but in the case of big tuskers they are usually tied up to trees in the stockade and left for two or three days without food to weaken them. The wild elephants, after being taken out of the stockade, are as soon as possible removed to the training ground, where would-be purchasers can inspect them. Sometimes we have a good deal of excitement in the stockade when a newly roped wild elephant drags the tame ones clear off their feet, and accidents frequently occur.

The last time I helped in elephant catching a big female was being taken out of the stockade when she bolted and knocked down one of the tame elephants, dragging her about fifty yards through the forest. A newly caught elephant about seven feet, six inches in height will generally cost about $400. Of course the price goes up considerably after the animal has been trained.

MINERS AND TUBERCULOSIS.

A mining journal published at Scranton has been calling attention to the curious fact that in coal mining communities there is a marked deficiency in the mortality from tuberculosis, as compared with that of other localities. This is a phenomenon that has also been observed in Great Britain, and attention has been drawn to it by B. H. Thwaite.

According to Mr. Thwaite the effects noted may be due to the physiological effects of carbon monoxide, for he finds that men engaged about blast furnaces and gas producers are peculiarly free from tuberculosis trouble.

It is suggested in Mines and Minerals that the presence of carbon dust in the lungs may be a cause of production of CO, and that this will serve to explain the immunity of miners from the disease.

The tubercle bacillus is a creature of extreme tenacity of life. It is encased in a waxy integument and is proof against even nitric acid, but gases are so penetrating in their powers of diffusion that it can well be considered that carbonic oxide might reach the tissues of a creature in a subtle manner, for the gas cannot be perceived.

QUEER MAINE LAWSUIT.

How Two Shades of Ink Nearly Convicted a Man.

Rural Down Easters dearly love a lawsuit, and they will go to court upon the most trivial pretexts, as the records will show. The tenacity with which the actions involving trifling sums are often fought is surprising, and it often appears that it is not so much justice that the litigants are after as an excuse to go to the shire town and thtre enjoy the excitement and enchantment afforded by legal combat, says the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

There is living in the town of Levant nine miles from Bangor, Maine, a rich old farmer, of whom, it is said, that not a civil term of court has passed in forty years without his appearance either as plaintiff, defendant or witness.

"Line fence cases" are numerous, and generally the aren involved is very small and the land next to worthless—still there is a fight, and often a long and costly one. Any kind of a case will do to entertain. The other day some old-time lawyers were recounting their experiences, and some of their reminiscenses were interesting.

It was in Somerset county court several years ago that a man was tried on the charge of forgery. He was a prominent business man of the Upper Kennebec. He kept a general store and operated in the lumber woods, dealing in real estate more or less. The charge in the indictment found by the grand jury was the forgery of a clause in a deed of a piece of land which the respondent claimed to have purchased of a man in his town, but that the deed had not been registered until after the original owner's death.

The alleged forged clause was in the following: "Also, my timber lot in Auson Valley."

The state set up a claim that the respondent had brought a certain amount of real estate of a certain person; that the deed had not been recorded until after the death of the original owner, and that the respondent, in order to take unto himself the timber land in questions, had inserted the clause mentioned and then had the deed recorded.

It was plain to the county attorney, F. W. Hovey of Pittsfield, that the original deed had been written with black ink and the alleged forged clause had been written with a much lighter colored fluid. The deed was exhibited in court and several handwriting and ink experts testified that two different kinds of ink had been used in the construction of the instrument as it then appeared.

When the respondent went on the stand, to testify in his own behalf, he said that he had talked with the original owner of the property in the respondent's house; that he succeeded in securing the real estate first mentioned; that he drew the deed himself and then talked the matter over after the original owner had signed the deed. Afterward both men went down to the store of the respondent, where the respondent talked the matter over wtih his son and the other man. Finally, the respondent stated, the owner of the timber lot consented to part with it, and the clause referred to was written in at the store.

On cross-examination the respondent admitted that the ink appeared to be of different colors, but stated positively that he knew the ink was the same, as he remembered filling the bottle at the house out of the bottle at the store. This was a startler for the jury, apparently, for certainly here was a witness trying to make them believe two colors of ink had come out of the same bottle.

The respondent's son was in California and the counsel for the defense, Simon S. Brown, of Waterville, had tried to get a continuance of the case until such time as the son could return East and testify. The court, however, declined to continue the case and gave the defense but two days in which to prepare for trial. The jury was out only a few minutes and returned a verdict of not guilty. The accused was so worked up over the verdict that he asked the counsel if he would have to go to Thomaston state prison that day.

"When you are sentenced to Thomaston on this case, this judge and jury will have been dead many years," was the reply of the veteran attorney. A motion for a new trial on the ground of new evidence was denied, and the court intimated his surprise at the move of Mr. Brown. The court told Mr. Brown that he (the court) supposed Mr. Brown was satisfied of the guilt of the accused, even before the case begun.

Mr. Brown took exceptions and appealed to the law court. The case came back from the law court and was about to be tried before Associate Justice Enoch Foster. In presenting the case to the court at the opening, Mr. Brown took a piece of writing paper, wrote the word "Skowhegan" twice. Then he used the blotter on one and let the other dry. Handing the paper to the court, Mr. Brown asked if the two names had been written with two colors of ink. The court said he thought that he had. Mr. Brown then asked the court to do what he had done, and the court followed the suggestion. That settled the case then and there. The blotter had taken up nearly half of the body of the ink and two lines presented one a deep black and the other a very pale blue. The statement of the respondent and his son that the respondent had blotted the inserted clause satisfied the court that the evidence was insufficient for conviction, and the respondent was discharged without further trial.

MUST NOT SMOKE.

Sports of the Times: Paul Mounet appeared at Havre recently as the Missionary Bishop in "Le Duel," which we saw in New York last year with Eben Plympton and Otis Skinner. As he lighted a cigar at the wings an officer of the fire brigade informed him that he must not smoke in the theater.

"But it is in the play," explained M. Mounet; "I am smoking as I go on then I throw my cigar on the stage." "Very well," replied the officer. So M. Mouniet made his entree as usual, but following him were two firemen, one of them with a bucket of water and the other with a huge sponge. The audience, appreciating the situation, roared and applauded with delight, and M. Mounet carefully deposited his cigar in the bucket and wiped his fingers on the sponge before proceeding with the dialogue. They enforce the regulations against theater fires in France.

NOAH'S EXCUSE.

Capt. Pritchard of the record breaking Mauritania told a group of Americans on a recent voyage that a sailor's life was a hard one.

"It is not so hard as it used to be before the coming of steam," he said, "but it is still terrfully hard, for all that. In fact, I never heard of but one man who had a decent excuse for going to sea."

"And who was he, captain?" said a Chicagoan.

"Noah," the captain answered. "For if the old fellow had remained on shore he would have been drowned."

WHEAT HAS EASY TONE

Lack of Bullish News and Bearish Statistics the Cause.

Flax Sells Off During Active Session in Duluth.

Duluth Board of Trade, Oct. 12.—Wheat eased off at the close of the session in the American markets today, showing fractional declines from Saturday. There was a total lack of European war news to influence the market, a feeling that weather conditions in the winter wheat districts are not as unfavorable as reported last week and bearish statistics issued during the session helped the bears. The demand was rather light.

The visible supply of wheat increased 3,371,000 bus., and is now 37,652,000 bus., against 42,000,000 bus., a year ago.

Closing cables were weak. Liverpool closed ⅝d to ½d lower, Antwerp unchanged, Berlin ⅜c lower and Budapest ¼c higher.

The December option closed 1c lower in Duluth, ⅞@⅞c lower in Chicago, ⅞c lower in Minneapolis, ¼c lower in New York, ½c lower in St. Louis, ⅞@1c lower in Kansas City, and ¾c lower in Winnipeg. The December option closed 1c lower in Duluth, ½c lower in Chicago and St. Louis, ¾@⅞c lower in Minneapolis, ⅝c lower in New York, ⅞@1c lower in Kansas City, and ⅞c lower in Winnipeg.

December corn closed ¼c lower in Chicago and unchanged in Liverpool. December oats closed unchanged in Chicago.

World's shipments of wheat and corn last week, the week previous and the corresponding week a year ago, are shown as follows:

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "Wheat—The increase in the American markets on Saturday was offset by the fact of larger and cheaper offerings of new La Plata wheat and values at the opening were from ¼d to ⅜d lower. Following the opening and during the remainder of the morning session, offerings were larger and support lacking and values lost an additional decline of ¼d to ⅜d. The advance of ½d in consols Saturday and the fact that the war scare has subsided prompted some selling for profits. Argentine and Australian crop advices continues excellent and offerings from both these countries are liberal. At mid-day, the market was dull and from ½d to ⅝d lower than Saturday.

"Corn was quiet and unchanged. The market was wholly neglected."

Car receipts at Duluth were 630 against 439 last year, and at Minneapolis 865 against 275 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 1,495 against 814 last year. Chicago received 40 against 127 last year. Winnipeg received 927 against 633 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 1,872,000 bus., last year 1,300,000 bus. Shipments 466,00 bus., last year 1,093,000 bus. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 578,000 bus.

Primary receipts of corn were 271,000 bus., last year 840,000 bus. Shipments 217,000 bus., last year 650,000 bus.

Wheat was fairly active in the Duluth market. December wheat opened ⅛c lower, at $1.02⅜, declined to $1.02⅝, rallied to $1.03 and gradually declined until the close, which was $1.01⅞, a loss of 1c from Saturday. May wheat opened ¼c lower, at $1.06⅛, advanced to $1.06⅝, went off to $1.05⅝ and closed at $1.05¾, a loss of 1c from yesterday.

Durum wheat closed ½c lower, and cash spring wheat was selling on a basis of 1½c over December for No. 1 northern.

Flax was active from the start but with heavy selling, prices eased off, closing at the low level of the day. October flax opened ¼c higher at $1.23, declined to $1.22⅜ and closed there, a loss of ⅝c from Saturday. November flax opened unchanged at $1.23, declined to $1.22½, rallied to $1.22⅝, declined to $1.22⅜ and closed there, a loss of ⅜c from Saturday. December flax opened unchanged at $1.21¼, declined to $1.21 and closed there, a loss of ¼c from Saturday. May flax opened unchanged at $1.26, went off to $1.25, rallied to $1.23⅝, and closed at $1.25¼, a loss of ¾c from Saturday.

Barley was up 1c for cheaper grades and other coarse grains closed unchanged.

Following were the closing prices:

HEARD ON THE FLOOR.

F. T. Heffelfinger of Minneapolis Pays Flying Visit to Duluth.

F. T. Heffelfinger of Minneapolis, one of the heads of the Peavey interests, important factors in the grain trade, was in Duluth for a few hours today. He chatted with friends on the floor of the board for a few minutes this morning and inspected the Peavey properties here.

He explained his visit here at this time as a little side-trip from an excursion to Winnipeg, which he and a party of friends are taking at this time and that it had no business significance. He left this afternoon for Winnipeg.

• • •

A. H. Rugg of Chicago, T. E. Olson of Maddock, Minn., and F. P. Rhines of Watertown, New York, were visitors on the floor during the session today.

• • •

The visible supply of corn decreased 572,000 bushels last week and is now 3,000,800 bushels against 4,332,000 a year ago.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Trade Opens Weakly, Owing to a Decline at London.

Chicago, Oct. 12.—The local wheat market opened weakly today owing to a decline of ⅛d in the price of wheat at Liverpool and to good weather for the movement of the new crop in the Northwest. Commission houses, however, were good bidders and within a short time all of the initial declines of ⅛@⅜ to ⅝@¾c, had been regained. The buying was based chiefly on the continued drought in the winter wheat territory. December sold up to $1.01⅝ after opening at $1.01 to $1.01¾. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 1,150 cars against 2,020 cars last week and 941 cars a year ago.

An active demand for the July delivery, which caused an advance of 1¼c in that option, was a feature of trade. The high point for December was reached at $1.02¼. Late in the session a weak tone developed, owing to rumors of rain in the Southwest and to a liberal increase in the visible supply of wheat in the United States and Canada. December sold off to $1.00⅞@1.01. The close was easy with December up ¼@⅜c, at $1.00⅞@1.01.

Trade in corn was very light and the market was influenced mainly by wheat. Ideal weather for the maturing of the new crop helped to depress the market at the start, but the rally in wheat offset this factor. Prices at the start were ⅛@¼ to ⅜c lower, with December at 64½c. Later December sold at 64¾c. Local receipts were 117 cars with 27 of contract grade.

Sentiment was bearish all day and the close was easy with December ¼c lower at 64⅝c.

Selling by cash houses caused moderate weakness in oats, but trade was of light volume. December opened ⅛@¼c lower at 48⅝c and sold at 49¼c. Local receipts were 209 cars.

Provisions were easy because of a 10c decline in live hogs. October pork, which closed at $15.25, opened at $14.25, but no business was transacted. The market in general opened unchanged to 15c lower.

Close: Wheat—December, $1.00⅞@1.01; May, $1.03⅞@1.04; July, 99c. Corn—December, 64⅝c; May, 64⅜c; July, 63⅜c. Oats—December, 49¼@49⅜c; May, 51@51⅛c; July, 46⅜c. Pork—October, $14; December, $14.15; January, $15.57½; May, $15.40. Lard—October, $9.55; November, $9.57½; January, $9.32½; May, $9.27½. ## THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Weak in Liverpool Has Effect on the Mart.

Minneapolis, Oct. 12.—With 860 cars of wheat received against 375 a year ago, today's figures seemed heavy by comparison, yet they were light by contrast with Monday last, when 1,139 cars came in. The market, insofar as supply conditions were concerned, seemed firmer if anything, but Liverpool was off ½ to ⅝d in second cables, which made weakness here in some degree. The local elevator stocks gained 75,000 bushels for two days. Duluth got 400 cars against 239 last year, Winnipeg 927 against 633. The dry weather reports from the Southwest kept the market strong early, but shortly after noon it fell back a cent. There was considerable late selling and the close was weak and near the low point. December opened $1.02½; high, $1.03; low, $1.01⅞; close, $1.02. Old December closed $1.02. May opened $1.06¾; high, $1.07¼; low, $1.06⅛; close, $1.06⅛@1.06¼.

Millers bought freely and although the elevators took in much wheat over Sunday, they were still free buyers of both No. 2 northern and No. 3 northern. For No. 1 northern, the 2-cent premium over December remained and for No. 2, December prices ruled on ordinary and ¼ to ½c over for selections. Close: No. 1 northern spot or to arrive, $1.03⅜; No. 2 northern spot, $1.01⅜@1.02¼; to arrive, $1.01¾; No. 3 wheat, 98¾c@1.01¼.

No. 3 yellow corn, 75¾c; No. 3 white, 46¾c.

No. 2 rye, 70¾@71¾c.

Barley—Receipts, 114 cars against 289 last year; shipments, 97 cars. Prices showed a tendency to widen. Choice malting was firm to ½c higher, low grades steady to ½c lower. Close, 52@58½c.

Flax—Receipts, 114 cars against 86 last year; shipments, 34. At ½c to ¾c under Duluth October crushers took it readily, although more was on sale. Close, $1.21⅜.

Millstuffs unchanged and quiet at $17.50@18 for bulk bran.

Flour opened the week about as it closed, with good demand, large shipments and steady prices. Domestic orders were satisfactory and an improvement in foreign inquiry was reported. Shipments, 73,092 barrels. First patents, $5.75@5.90; second patents, $5.60@5.75; first clears, $4.45@4.55; second clears, $3.50@3.60.

A NASTY ONE.

The heiress sighed and shook her head.

"No, Mr. Dalrymple, I cannot marry you," she said. "The only man I ever loved died at—"

A tottering, white-bearded veteran in blue strode past the window, and Dalrymple said:

"At Gettysburg?"

Then, with a coarse, unpleasant laugh, he hastened forth, and a moment later Casey's poolroom swallowed him up.

ADVANCES IN STOCKS

The Market Started Out Higher and Continued Quite Firm.

Better Outlook in Eastern Europe Had a Bullish Effect.

New York, Oct. 12.—The better outlook for a peaceful settlement of the near Eastern political situation induced buoyant recoveries of stocks with the beginning of business today. Prices were carried briskly above the parity mark for Americans established earlier in London. All of the international stocks rose a point or more and the metal industrials also were notably affected. The more conspicuous gains were Canadian Pacific, 2¾; Union Pacific, 1¾; Southern Pacific, 1⅝; Consolidated Gas, 1½, and Baltimore & Ohio, Erie and National Lead, 1⅜. Central Railroad of New Jersey sold at a decline of 6½. Orders for execution were in small volume and the market promptly fell into dullness.

The extent of the opening advance discouraged buying for a while, but as there was no evidence of important realizing the advance was resumed. The demand centered almost entirely in Reading, St. Paul and the Hill and Harriman stocks. Canadian Pacific and St. Paul preferred improved 3½, Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic preferred 3¾, Chicago & Alton and Metropolitan Street Railway 3, Reading and Minneapolis & St. Louis 2, St. Paul, Northern Pacific and Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha 1¾, and Missouri Pacific, St. Louis Southwestern preferred, and Chesapeake & Ohio 1½. Lackawanna jumped 14 points on one transaction.

Union Pacific's gain reached 3¼ and the undertone of the whole market continued strong although dealings were not large. Lackawanna rose 22, Northwestern preferred 10, Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic preferred 5, Minneapolis & St. Louis preferred 3, St. Joseph & Grand Island and the first preferred 2½, Missouri Pacific 2½ and Northwestern, Toledo, St. Louis & Western, Chicago Great Western preferred, Delaware & Hudson, United States Realty, and Wisconsin Central preferred 2. Prices reacted a fraction at noon. Bonds were firm.

Dullness was the principal features latter market, scarcely any interest being shown in the prominent stocks.

The tone after 1 o'clock was softer, but there were no important reactions. Business continued restricted.

The market closed barely steady. A recovery in foreign exchange rates and a slight hardening of call money was made the occasion for some lowering of prices. There was evidence of support on the declines. Baltimore & Ohio rose 2¾ and a number of the leading stocks rose again to the best.

New York stock quotations furnished by Fred H. Merritt, 328 West Superior street.

THE PRODUCE MARKETS.

John McDonnell, a settler living near Pelican Lake, was in the city today, and exhibited some produce that ought to convince the most sceptical, of the value of the land along the line of the new Duluth, Rainy Lake & Winnipeg road, for farming purposes.

He had some turnips almost as large as pumpkins and some immense potatoes, which had been grown on his land.

"There are a number of farmers from Iowa in the country near Pelican Lake," said Mr. McDonnell. "They are selling their high priced land in Iowa and are coming up north on cheaper land, which is just as productive as the land they left. We can grow just as good vegetables on land worth a few dollars an acre as they can on their $100 land down in Iowa.

"Even the local market grapes and peaches are higher. Poultry is easier.

DESERT'S DEADLY WATER.

Baltimore American: "One of the chief dangers to travelers in crossing such dreary and arid wastes as the farfamed Death valley in Nevada arises from ignorance as to the character of the infrequent pools of water along the route," said T. E. Smalley, a mining engineer of Denver.

"The tenderfoot, growing faint under a blazing sun, will want to quench his intolerable thirst when he comes to a shallow hole, whose water, clear as crystal, seems absolutely pure. He can with difficulty be restrained from drinking it by some experienced companion, who knows that one draught will probably cause serious if not fatal illness. This water, for all its seeming purity and clearness, is loaded with arsenic, and many a man has lost his life by its use.

"Curiously enough, the only water in the desert that is safe to drink is foul-looking and inhabited by bugs and snakes. When you come to a muddy pool on the surface of which insects are disporting themselves, however repulsive it may be both to the eye and palate, you may drink it with impunity, despite its looks, as a man will who is crazy with thirst produced by the burning and merciless sun."

GOMPERS IN A WARNING

Issues Circular to Labor Decrying the Republican Party.

Workmen Not Made Democrats Merely by Supporting Bryan.

Washington, Oct. 12.—"In performing a solemn duty at this time in support of a political party, labor does not become partisan to a political party, but partisan to a principle," declared President Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor, in a circular issued today regarding labor's attitude in the campaign.

He charges that the Republican party and its candidate stand for further extending into this country a despotic government, vested in the judiciary and that the Democratic party and its candidate stands for government by law vested in the people.

The circular is addressed to "Men of Labor, Lovers of Human Liberty," and says in part:

"The judiciary induced by corporations and trusts and protected by the Republican party, is step by step destroying government by law and substituting therefor a government by judges who determine what, in their opinion, is wrong, what is evidence, who is guilty, and what the punishment shall be. This revolution is depriving the workers of their rights as citizens and will inevitably be made applicable to the business man later. This virus and poison has entered the legislative field by making laws which may be enforced by equity process. Despotic power under the ermine is as dangerous as despotic power under the crown."

The circular refers to Taft as "the originator and specific champion of discretionary government," and Mr. Gompers reiterates that "there is no political office in the gift of the American people, elective or appointive, that I would under any circumstances accept."

RIGHTS OF EARL ARE NULLIFIED

London Divorce Court Disposes of Yarmouth Pre-Nuptial Pact.

London, Oct. 12.—By order of the divorce court, issued this afternoon, all the rights and interests of the Earl of Yarmouth in the final settlement made prior to the earl's marriage to Miss Alice Thaw, in Pittsburg, on April 27, 1903, are extinguished. According to the counsel, the sum settled on the earl at that time amounted to $600,000. The marriage of the earl to Miss Thaw was annuled in London, Feb. 5, last.

HIGHEST TRIBUNAL ADMITS TWO WOMEN.

WARMLY DEFEND COLD PRODUCTS

Refrigerator Men Seek to Remove Prejudice Against Them.

Paris, Oct. 12.—The international congress on refrigeration came to an end today, after a session of one week.

The most important work accomplished was a resolution creating a permanent committee on refrigeration; another resolution providing for the extension of protection to the cold storage industry by the removal of the existing prejudice against refrigerative products, and a third in favor of the adoption by all countries of uniform inspection laws.

The congress will hold its next meeting in Vienna in 1910.

BIG BATEAU CAPSIZES.

Twenty-Four Men Dumped Into the Mississippi, But Are Saved.

Royalton, Minn., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Twenty-four men, employes of the Mississippi & Rum River Boom company, had a narrow escape from drowning in the Mississippi river, at Pike Rapids, near here, Friday, when one of the big bateaus capsized.

The men had been transferred from a wanagan to the big boat at Little Falls, and were coming down the river to take charge of a log jam.

When they were coming over the rapids the boat struck a stone in the swift current and turned over. All the men on board fell into the river. Three of the men were unable to swim, but succeeded in holding onto the craft until help arrived. All reached the shore in safety. Nearly all of the contents of the boat, including provisions, clothing and tools, were lost in the river.

SEVERE AGAINST SOCIALISTS.

Slovenian-Croatian Union Threatens to Expel Those Joining.

Calumet, Mich., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Slovenian-Croatian union, which held its biennial convention in Red Jacket last week, passed drastic resolutions against socialists and socialism. The union decided to expel all its members who are socialists, or have socialistic tendencies. It was pointed out that there are a few members of the union who are known to harbor socialist views, and these are to be given a period of sixty days in which to reconsider their standing along that line. Failing to do so, it is stated that they will be expelled.

Spooner Votes "No."

Spooner, Minn., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The voters of this village at a special election held last week voted down these propositions: To issue $5,000 bonds to refund floating debt; to issue $15,000 in bonds for laying water mains, and to levy $2,500 additional road tax and to levy $5,000 for paying part of outstanding indebtedness. Little interest was shown, only sixty votes being cast.

MAGNESIA PRESERVES TEETH.

Health: One who has tried the experiment says that if the teeth are thoroughly brushed at night the last thing before retiring and a piece of magnesia the size of a filbert taken into the mouth and chewed so as to bring it in contact with all of the teeth at all points, it will prove of great advantage.

The magnesia not only corrects the acidity of the mouth, but forms by some chemical action not fully understood a coating over the enamel, which remains overnight and protects the teeth from any injury from the stomach acids. It also assists in preventing the recession of the gums, which is such an unpleasant trouble.

Brushing the teeth with a six part solution of dioxide of hydrogen is extremely advantageous. A few drops of myrrh used daily to brush the teeth is an old and favorite corrective of bad breath and decay.

GOVERNOR JOHNSON GOES TO THE RANGE TOWNS AND GETS A WARM RECEPTION

Great Enthusiasm Shown by the Large Crowds That Gather.

Never Favored Imposition of Tonnage Tax on Iron Ore.

Meeting at Proctor Better Than One Two Years Ago.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

Looking rather tired and drawn from his weeks of campaigning, but smiling and genial as ever, Governor John A. Johnson stepped off the train this morning at the Union depot and was met by the members of the Democratic state committee.

The governor spent but two hours in Duluth, his special train for the ranges leaving at 8 a. m. The two hours were spent at the depot, where he was met by a number of Duluth friends, who were on hand to greet him in spite of the early hour.

"Things are looking very rosy," said the governor, when asked regarding the campaign outlook.

"To me it looks better than it did two years ago. Of course, I may see one side of it only, but throughout the southern part of the state I have found conditions very favorable. I really believe that my campaign looks better now than it did at this time two years ago."

Governor Johnson was asked regarding the attacks that had been made upon him locally on the tonnage tax.

"I would prefer not to reply to them at this time," said the governor. "I intend to take up that question fully at the Armory meeting in Duluth on Wednesday evening, and I think that I can make my position clear on

ATTORNEY FUNCK WINS IN CONTEST

Cass Lake, Minn., Oct. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The election contest case for county attorney of Cass county, between R. M. Funck of Cass Lake, and J. S. Scribner of Walker, has just been decided in favor of Mr. Funck.

At the primary election Mr. Scribner was declared the nominee by two votes. Mr. Funck contested the election, claiming the lumberjack vote in the precinct of Cuba, which gave Scribner eleven majority, was not legal, as the men temporarily employed in the woods were not voters. Attorney Fryberger, of Duluth, handled the case for Mr. Funck. It was argued before Judge McClennahan on Sept. 26. Mr. Funck is the youngest attorney in Cass county.

BANK DEPOSIT GUARANTY LAW BEFORE THE HIGHEST COURT

Washington, Oct. 13.—The call of the docket in the supreme court of the United States for the 1908-09 term was begun today noon. Many important railroad questions will receive the court's attention and of these the appeal from the decision of the United States circuit court for the eastern district of Pennsylvania on the "commodities clause" of the interstate commerce law as affecting the anthracite coal roads will probably occupy first place with the public.

An important case near the head of the call is that of the Waters-Pierce Oil company of St. Louis. This is an appeal by the company from decisions of the Texas state courts ousting the company from doing business in that state and imposing a fine of over $1,600,000 against it on the charge of violating the anti-trust laws of the commonwealth. The Waters-Pierce company is identified with the Standard Oil company, and on that account as well as on account of the fact that Senator Bailey has been charged with giving assistance to the company in its controversy the suit has attracted much attention.

A case recently docketed will test the validity of the Haskell bank guaranty law of Oklahoma and another, instituted by one of the negro soldiers discharged on account of the Brownsville riot will deal with the right of the president to summarily dismiss an enlisted man before the expiration of his term. Still another case deals with New York city's 80 cent gas law, the constitutionality of which is attacked, and another is intended to test the applicability of the New York game laws to game shipped from abroad.

IT'S A WISE SON THAT KNOWS ITS OWN FATHER.

(1) Wouldn't it make you mad, if you had always been an advocate of the tonnage tax—

(2) Till you received the nomination for governor, then when you tried to lose it—

(3) It insisted on claiming you as its long lost parent—WOULDN'T IT JAR YOU?

BULGARIA SEES PEACE

RED FEZ DISCARDED.

Constantinople, Oct. 13.—The boycott against Austrian goods flourishes, many Turks having discarded the red fez, which is of Austrian manufacture and are wearing white head gear instead.

Sofia, Oct. 13.—"There is no cloud on the Bulgarian horizon," sums up the official view in Sofia of events that have transpired since the proclamation of Bulgarian independence by Prince Ferdinand, Oct. 5. The government is convinced that the chancelleries of Europe will swing to a more favorable view of Bulgaria's action as soon as the danger of a general conflagration is over.

The troops now under arms, including the reserves recently called out, reach 120,000 men. They will be kept to the colors another month, pending a settlement of the existing situation. The guards on the frontier have been given stringent instructions to keep well within the territorial limits of the new kingdom and to avoid clashing with the Turks.

The illness of Prince Boris, eldest son of King Ferdinand, is the reason the members of the royal family were not present at the festivities in Sofia yesterday in connection with the king's triumphal entry into his capital.

WRIGHT TO TRY 3,000-FOOT SOAR

Next Airship Attempts Will be Height, Not Distance.

Paris, Oct. 13.—Wilbur Wright, the aviator, has told Lazare Weiller, head of the syndicate that has purchased the French rights to the Wright brothers machine, that as soon as he has completed his contract with the syndicate by instructing three pilots in the workings of the aeroplane, he will attempt some flights for height. There is no reason, he said, why he should not go up to a height of 3,000 feet. He also spoke of trying some flights without the motor and without the derrick, which is now required to start the aeroplane.

LEFT WIFE, IS CHARGE

Decatur, Ill., Oct. 13.—Maj. William F. Tucker, of the United States army, was arrested here on a Wabash train today, charged with deserting his wife, a daughter of the late Gen. John A. Logan.

Tucker, who was ill, and could not be taken from the train, agreed to return without requisition papers. He went on to St. Louis, to be taken back to Chicago later.

Tucker was accompanied by a woman for whom he is alleged to have deserted his wife, by a woman nurse, who was taking care of him, and by two men servants.

VOLCANO CASTS RAIN OF ASHES

Basse-Terre, Island of Gaudeloupe, Oct. 13.—A rain of ashes from volcanoes on Martinique or St. Vincent islands, is falling over Gaudeloupe. Mount Noufrere, the last volcano on St. Vincent is calm, and the ashes must come from some other crater.

DEBS TAKEN ILL WHILE ON TOUR

Newark, N. J., Oct. 13.—Eugene V. Debs, the Socialist candidate for president, who was taken ill while making a campaign tour on his Red special was so ill this morning he could not meet a delegation of Socialists, who called to express sympathy. His physician says he is suffering from a severe cold.

THIEF'S ROOM IS FULL OF JEWELRY

St. Louis, Oct. 13.—The police of New York, Chicago and Kansas City were notified by the St. Louis police last night of the arrest here of Foster George, on a charge of stealing diamonds and watches worth $35,000, from S. C. Powell, a wholesale jeweler at 170 Broadway, New York, and arrests are expected in those cities.

Twenty-five thousand dollars' worth of the jewels were recovered from George yesterday. Diamonds known to have been carried by Powell, when he left Chicago for St. Louis, June 29, have appeared in pawn shops in St. Louis, Kansas City and Chicago. This led the detectives to believe an organized band was connected with the robbery, and this belief was not entirely dispelled by the arrest of George yesterday, though he refused last night to name any accomplices.

When the police raided George's room, diamonds were found in every possible hiding place. A razor case was stuffed with gems worth $3,500; in a valise were nearly 1,000 diamonds; in George's shoes were dozens of gems, some of them as large as two carats.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 13.—Returning from Chicago with the Chicago National league team, the Detroit pennant-winning American leaguers this afternoon lost the fourth game in the world championship series by the score of 0 to 3.

Weather condition were perfect when play was called. The sun shone brightly and a light breeze blew over the field. The crowd was larger than at the Saturday game here. The temporary seats surrounding the outfield was comfortably filled while the regular grandstand and bleachers were crowded.

Batting Order.

Detroit—McIntyre, left field; O'Leary, short stop; Crawford, center field; Cobb, right field; Rossman, first base; Schaefer, second base; Schmidt, catcher; Coughlin, third base; Summers, pitcher.

Chicago—Sheckard, left field; Evers, second base; Schulte, right field; Chance, first base; Steinfeldt, third base; Hofman, center field; Tinker, short stop; Kling, catcher; Brown, pitcher.

Umpires — Connolly, American, and Klem, National.

First Inning.

Chicago—Sheckard went out to Rossman, unassisted on a grounder. Evers flied out to Cobb. Schulte singled over second and stole second. Chance singled and Schulte was halted at third. Chance took second on a passed ball and Steinfeldt grounded to Coughlin, out at first. No runs.

Detroit—McIntyre went out to Chance and O'Leary went out, by Brown to Chance. Crawford hit over Sheckard's head for two bases into the crowd and took third on a passed ball but Tinker threw Cobb out at first. No runs.

Second Inning.

Chicago—Summers threw out Hofman at first, on a grounder and Tinker went out, O'Leary to Rossman, Kling singled over second and Brown struck out. No runs.

Detroit—Evers threw out Rossman at first, Schaefer struck out and Schmidt flew to Hofman. No runs.

Third Inning.

Chicago—Sheckard went out, Schaefer to Rossman. O'Leary fumbled Evers' grounder, but recovered it in time to throw him out at first. Schulte walked and stole second, while Chance was given a pass. Steinfeldt singled to left scoring Schulte and Chance was held at second. Hofman then singled, scoring Chance. Tinker went out O'Leary to Rossman. Two runs.

Detroit—Coughlin went out at first, Steinfeldt to Chance, Summers struck out, and McIntyre died, Brown to Chance. No runs.

Fourth Inning.

Chicago—Kling thrown out by Coughlin. Brown went out, Schaefer to Rossman. Sheckard walked and Evers flied to Crawford. No runs.

Detroit—O'Leary singled. Crawford singled to left. Cobb bunted and Brown threw O'Leary out at third. Crawford was caught off second and put out, Kling to Tinker. Rossman struck out. No runs.

Fifth Inning.

Chicago—Schulte safe at first, Chance bunted safely and Steinfeldt sacrificed, Rossman to Schaefer, who covered first. Hofman flied out to McIntyre. Coughlin threw out Tinker at first. No runs.

Detroit—Schaefer grounded out Evers to Chance. Tinker threw out Schmidt at first after a clever stop. Coughlin was hit by pitched ball and Summers grounded to Chance, who retired him. No runs.

Sixth Inning.

Chicago—Kling singled. Brown struck out. Kling went out trying to steal, Schmidt to O'Leary. Sheckard struck out. No runs.

Detroit—McIntyre fouled out to Kling. O'Leary singled. Crawford hit into a double play, O'Leary out, Brown to Tinker and Crawford, Tinker to Chance. No runs.

Seventh Inning.

Chicago—Evers struck out and Schulte was thrown out by Summers at first. Chance flied out to Crawford. No runs.

Detroit—Cobb fanned. Rossman went out, Evers to Chance, and Schaefer fouled to Steinfeldt. No runs.

Eighth Inning.

Chicago—Steinfeldt went out, Coughlin to Rossman. Hofman singled to center. Hofman stole second. Tinker struck out. Kling fouled out to Coughlin. No runs.

Detroit—Schmidt went out, Evers to Chance. Steinfeldt threw out Coughlin at first. Jones batted for Summers and grounded to Tinker, who made a splendid throw to Chance. No runs.

Ninth Inning.

Chicago—Winters pitched for Detroit. Brown flied to O'Leary. Schaefer caught Sheckard's fly. Evers singled to right. Evers stole second. Schulte walked. Chance hit to right field and Cobb lost the ball after a hard run, Evers scoring. Schulte took third. Schulte and Chance then tried a double, but Schulte was retired at plate. One run.

Detroit—McIntyre out, Tinker to Chance. O'Leary out, Steinfeldt to Chance. Crawford out, Tinker to Chance. No runs.

JOHNSON IS APPLAUDED

By Enthusiastic Gatherings at Biwabik and Eveleth.

Is Emphatic in Stating Position on the Tonnage Tax.

(From Staff Correspondent.)

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—"Chibim, Chibum, Chibim, Rum, Bah, Biwabik High School, Rah, Rah, Rah, Johnson!" This cry from the students of the Biwabik high school greeted Governor Johnson as his special train pulled into the depot at Biwabik shortly before noon today. About 100 children from the Biwabik schools were present at the depot to greet the governor, and they gave their school yell for him when he was introduced by Chairman Andrew Nelson. About 250 people were present at the depot when the special pulled in and gave the governor a rousing reception. In spite of the high wind the governor's voice carried well, and all heard him without difficulty. His speech was along much the same lines as that made at Proctor, and his remarks on the tonnage tax aroused much enthusiasm. He reiterated his promise that he would veto any measure calculated to take from Northern Minnesota 1 cent of the income now received from taxes for the support of the schools and the local governments.

At Eveleth.

At Eveleth nearly 1,000 people and the Eveleth city band were present at the depot to meet the train. The governor and his party were escorted to Vail hall, which was crowded to the doors when the governor reached there shortly before 1 o'clock. Fully 700 people crowded into the hall, which two years ago was scarcely half filled, and even standing room was at a premium. After touching on national issues the governor gave an account of his stewardship. "The only crime charged to me by Jacobson is that I was a Democratic governor, while we had a Republican legislature," said the governor. "Jacobson says he stands upon his record. What is his record? For the last ten years he has consistently opposed the development of Northern Minnesota."

The governor read an extract from the Eveleth Star attacking him on the tonnage tax. The manner in which the governor tore it to pieces was greeted with hilarious shouts and loud cheers. He reiterated the statement made at Proctor and Biwabik that he was apposed to any tax that would take one dollar from local revenue.

AIRSHIP IN NORTH SEA

Berlin, Oct. 13.—A wireless message received today from Arnold, the conductor of the St. Louis balloon in the Gordon-Bennett race, says:

"Lost everything in the North Sea last night."

Another dispatch received here says that the St. Louis sank in the North Sea and that its occupants were rescued by a schooner.

The balloon St. Louis, in charge of M. Henry Arnold left Berlin on Sunday in the international cup contest. It was sighted Monday morning at 10:50 o'clock from Calau, moving in a southwesterly direction. The Conqueror blew up at an altitude of 4,000 feet immediately after the start, and the two occupants had a miraculous escape from death. The Spanish balloon Montanes, another contestant, came to grief yesterday morning, over Saxony, but the pilot and his assistant reached the ground without sustaining injury.

YANKEE RIFLEMEN BEAT CANADIANS.

Tacoma, Wash., Oct. 13.—A picked team from the Second Washington regiment has defeated for the third time a team from the Sixth Canadian rifles, by a score of 2,315 to 2,256 and won the rifle championship of the Pacific coast and a loving cup valued at $5000.

Capt. J. N. Curry of North Yakima broke the individual record made at the Olympic games at London, making 241 out of a possible 250.

HOME ROBBED AS THEY WATCH AIRSHIP.

Paris, Oct. 13.—The apartment in the Champs Elysees occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Hart O. Berg, was entered by burglars while Mr. and Mrs. Berg were absent at Lemans, watching Wilbur Wright's aeroplane experiments, and a valuable collection of medallions stolen. Mr. Berg is the Wright Bros. European business manager.

New Postmaster.

Washington, Oct. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—C. L. Anderson was today appointed postmaster at Guthrie, Hubbard county, Minn., vice C. A. Hankerson, resigned.

HARRIMAN PLEDGES $14,000,000 TO ELECTRIFY THE ERIE ROAD

New York, Oct. 13.—E. H. Harriman has pledged $14,000,000 to the Erie railroad to enable that company to electrify its New Jersey suburban service, which has provoked bitter complaint among commuters for the last two years. A great electrification program is under way. Mr. Harriman's pledge to raise $14,000,000 for the Erie at this time is regarded in Wall street as the best news received in months.

READY FOR BIG RALLY

How to Handle Crowd is Problem Facing Democrats.

Torchlight Procession to Precede Governor Johnson's Armory Speech.

Preparations are nearly completed for the reception that will be tendered Governor Johnson Wednesday evening, selected some time today. It has not been decided whether there will be any other speaker in the program. It is probable that the governor will be the only speaker of the evening.

It is said that the Democrats of West Duluth will attend the meeting in a body. All of the West Duluth marching clubs will be in line, and those who will not march in the parade will come from West Duluth in special cars.

There will be a large attendance of laboring men tomorrow evening. Practically all of the labor organizations of the city will be represented. There will be a delegation of railroad men from the shops at Proctor and inquiries have been received from all towns on the Duluth & Iron Range road, regarding the meeting.

FINDINGS ARE FILED.

Mrs. Eide Given Custody of Children, Alimony and Property.

The findings of the court in the case of Hilda M. Eide vs. Bernard J. Eide were filed with the clerk of the district court this morning. Mrs. Eide was granted a divorce at the current term of district court. She is given the custody of the two children, $32 a month alimony and a division of the property owned by the couple on the range. Mrs. Eide was granted the divorce on statutory grounds, following Mr. Eide's arrest in company with another woman in a Minnesota town.

Cleanliness in the Dairy.

To have healthful milk and butter, absolute cleanliness is necessary, as nothing will absorb impurities so quickly as milk. Milk buckets, strainers, etc., should first be rinsed with cold water to remove the new milk, which will curdle if brought in contact with hot water; then wash in warm water to which a teaspoonful of Gold Dust washing powder has been added. Rinse and scald thoroughly with clear hot water and leave in the air and sun for at least twelve hours before they are used again. Have plenty of clean cloths and a soft brush especially for the dairy, and wash and scald them in the same way as the utensils.

WRITES OBSCENE LETTER TO SELF

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Walter Emmett, opera comedian, is in Hennepin county jail in default of $500 bail, a victim of his own folly.

Oct. 1, Emmett married a Minneapolis girl after a courtship of two days. In less than thirty-six hours they quarreled and parted.

Emmett sought revenge and wrote an obscene letter to himself and signed his wife's name. Before he wrote the letter he consulted the postoffice inspector relative to what constituted improper mail matter. After receiving the letter he interested the postal authorities and made remarks that aroused their suspicions.

He was placed under arrest, later confessed that he had written the objectionable letter. He pleaded guilty before United States Commissioner Abbott yesterday, and was bound over to the grand jury.

GRAND JURY GETS POLICEMAN WHO SHOT.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Thorough investigation is being made by the Hennepin county grand jury of the shooting of young Theodore Hedine and Miss Julia Churchill by Patrolman John Connelly. Frank T. Carriston, superintendent of police, has decided to leave Connelly's case in the hands of the grand jury, allowing that body to decide whether the officer was justified in discharging his revolver, under the circumstances.

CANDIDATES FAIL TO BAR RIVALS

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—She state supreme court today denied the application of several candidates for the state legislature in Minneapolis for an order restraining Hugh R. Scott, auditor of Hennepin county, from placing on the official ballot the Republican candidates nominated for the legislature who were members of the last legislature. The application was made on the ground that candidates seeking re-election were members of a legislature which raised salaries to be paid members of a future legislature, and it was contended that section 9 of article 4, of the constitution of Minnesota provides that no senator nor representative shall hold an office, the emoluments of which have been increased by the body of which he was a member.

Attorney General Young had already ruled that the law does not apply to members of the legislature. About sixty candidates throughout the state are affected.

TWO ARRESTS IN WHITE SLAVE RAID.

Washington, Oct. 13.—Charged with violating the "white slave" law, by harboring in their houses alien women for immoral purposes, Grace Sinclair and Ida Drury, were indicted by the grand jury as the result of a raid by Inspector Baldwin, of the department of commerce and labor, in following up an investigation of violations of the law prohibiting the importation of women for immoral purposes.

About Clothes

By Harry Mitchell

I don't care how little you've been paying for your clothes, my $15.00 suits will give you twice the wear and look twice as good and hold the shape, for they're made by expert tailors, cut by professional cutters and are of reliable goods and made to your order.

It matters not if you've been patronizing the so-called high-class tailor in town. My $20.00 suits are giving the same satisfaction and are worn by many of the most prominent bankers, real estate men, men of the clubs and also professional men, business men in all walks of life. By clerks in all the swell offices, by mechanics of all kinds of trades and by laborers, too. They are worn by men, who know my facilities for producing even better suits for $20.00 than the other tailors can make for $35.00 or $40.00.

I secure my cutters from the very exclusive shops at a big salary and my other tailors are proportionately high-priced men.

The ready made retail clothier can't compete with me. For the first thing he can't give the fit. All men are built differently and the suits must be made to fit the man and not the man to fit the suit. Besides I get my goods in large quantities and direct from the mills. I give better quality than the ready made man does and for the same price, and yet my suits are made to order.

I have spent years in building my business and now I have 200 tailors on my pay roll. All the bankers know me, not only as their tailor, but as a good business man and a heavy depositor. My word counts with them and it should count with every man who cares where his money goes.

I say again that for $15.00 and $20.00, I will make a suit or overcoat to your order out of my newest Import Fall and Winter patterns and identical goods, style and fit for which your Duluth tailor has charged you $35.00 and $40.00.

I guarantee to satisfy you in every particular or I give you the money back. Come and see me on Saturday, Oct. 17th.

Yours truly,
HARRY MITCHELL.

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN

LYDIA E. PINKHAM

No other medicine has been so successful in relieving the suffering of women or received so many genuine testimonials as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

In every community you will find women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Almost every one you meet has either been benefited by it, or has friends who have.

In the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., any woman any day may see the files containing over one million one hundred thousand letters from women seeking health, and here are the letters in which they openly state over their own signatures that they were cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has saved many women from surgical operations.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is made from roots and herbs, without drugs, and is wholesome and harmless.

The reason why Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is so successful is because it contains ingredients which act directly upon the feminine organism, restoring it to a healthy normal condition.

Women who are suffering from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

The present plans of the members of the Democratic county committee are for the biggest political rally in the history of this city. Practically every active Democrat in Duluth will be in the marching line, and from reports received today, it is certain that hundreds of Democrats from outside the city will be in attendance.

The marching line will be from Twentieth avenue west, down Superior street to the Spalding, where a stop will be made, and from there to the Armory. The procession will be one of light, noise and enthusiasm. At least three bands will furnish martial music, the marchers will carry torches and the effect will remind old-timers of the parades in the early and more strenuous days of political campaigning.

The torches arrived this morning and will be distributed to Democrats in every part of the city. From the lists furnished the committee, it is certain that one of the biggest parades in the history of Duluth will mark the opening of the Democratic state campaign in this city.

Handbills were distributed to every part of the city this morning. From inquiry made at the Democratic headquarters, it is certain that all attendance at the Armory will be broken. The greatest anxiety before the members of the committee at the present time, is how to handle the crowd.

The chairman of the meeting will be

Shoots Partridge in City.
Not only the beasts of the forest, but the birds of the air make their way into Duluth. J. W. Dudley of 23 West Third street discovered a plump young partridge in his back yard yesterday and brought it to earth with a shot. He says he tried to shoo the bird back to the woods first, but it wouldn't go, so he shot it before somebody else could.

Returns to Iowa Home.
A. M. Fenton's mother, who has been visiting her son and his family at 1221 East Third street for several weeks, left yesterday afternoon for her home in Northern Iowa. She was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Fenton. Mr. Fenton will return to Duluth tonight, but Mrs. Fenton will continue on to Iowa to visit for a time.

New Ruchings Again.
A complete assortment—the only ruchings in Duluth—big shipment now ready at Gray-Tallant company.

Held to Grand Jury.
Clifford Cook, charged with assault in the first degree, waived examination in police court this morning and was bound over to the grand jury. It is claimed that he fired five shots at Alex Vennebles in the White Star club last Saturday night. Both men are negroes.

Thimble Bee.
The Ladies' Aid society of the First Baptist church will hold its monthly thimble bee at the home of Mrs. Ray Nichols, 1801 East Third street, at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Important business will come up for consideration, and a large attendance is desired.

Care of Children.
Miss Korehberg, a trained nurse, will speak on "The Care of Children and Infants in the Home" at the women's meeting at the Lake avenue Bethel Thursday afternoon of this week. Miss Emmons will sing.

Did Not Steal Wheat.
Eugene La Page, Bert Saxton and Walter Gravelle, charged with stealing five sacks of wheat owned by James Scully, a Floodwood farmer, were arraigned in police court this morning. All three were declared not guilty, and the cases against them dismissed. Mr. Scully claims the grain was taken from a building in West Duluth, where he was storing it.

R. W. Mars Better.
Robert W. Mars, 2012 Jefferson street, the Civil war veteran who was stricken with paralysis Sunday afternoon at his home, is resting easily today, and attending physicians say he is greatly improved. He is thought to be out of danger.

Former Residents Here.

SEE WHAT THESE DULUTH CITIZENS THINK OF CAS-CA

Not a Drop of Whisky or Alcohol in CAS-KA and It Is Not a Patent Medicine. All Mail Orders Must Be in Before Saturday, Oct. 17th.

To those people who have not tried CAS-KA and have hesitated for any reason, we will show you, if you will come to the drug stores where we have been giving this medicine to the people to test, letters of Minnesota, Wisconsin and North Dakota State Boards of Pharmacy, also president and vice president of the Minnesota Pharmaceutical Association annd ex-president of the National Association of Retail Druggists, who are now selling CAS-KA for $1 in many towns and cities in Minnesota, Wisconsin and North Dakota, which shows the satisfaction CAS-KA gives after our advertising sale. So you see if we can sell you enough CAS-KA to effect a cure, you would recommend it to your friends, and they will not let a one dollar bottle keep them from trying, for from three to six bottles will effect a cure in many cases. And if you ask any one that has taken CAS-KA for ten days they will tell you they have not had a touch of this kind of la grippe that is prevalent around here now. Ask any one that is taking CAS-KA about it.

There is not a drop of alcohol or whisky in CAS-KA, and it will not sour or ferment and is not a patent medicine.

Get one of the hand bills and see the names of Duluth citizens that CAS-KA has helped for catarrh and rheumatism.

James Riley, watchman with Scott-Graff Lumber company: I was bothered with my kidneys. I had to get up three or four times a night. One bottle of CAS-KA has helped me so much I want three more bottles.

Thomas Maxted, 125 East First street, carpenter and builder: CAS-KA is only thing that helped my rheumatism. Give me three more bottles.

Vice president of Wright-Clarkson Mercantile company, 532 West Michigan street, F. A. Clarkson, 332 West Michigan street: How I came to take this CAS-KA is we have a little girl at our house who has been bothered a great deal with pimples and sallow complexion and about half sick all the time. We got her a bottle of CAS-KA and it is certainly wonderful what it has done, complexion clearing up, pimple going away in one week. So I thought maybe, this medicine might help me. I han a constant pain in my stomach for two years that I have tried everything I have heard of for, I have taken this CAS-KA just three days and my pain is gone. And if what CAS-KA has done for me is only lasting I will be well pleased. I also know several others CAS-KA has helped.

To show that CAS-KA does something besides moving the bowels. If your kidneys are weak and you have to get up nights or you have indigestion or dyspepsia, in seven cases out of ten three or four doses of CAS-KA relieves those troubles. Ask any person who is trying CAS-KA and they will tell you the above is true. Come and try a few doses.

Saturday is positively your last chance to get the $1 bottle for 35 cents or three for $1.00.

FOUND DEAD IN ALLEY.

Marquette Painter and Barber is Suddenly Stricken.

Marquette, Mich., Oct. 13.—Watchman Colbert discovered the dead body of Joseph Labissieniere, a barber and painter, lying in the alley on the east side of the Northwestern hotel, Saturday night.

His daughter, Mrs. Clara Sears, says that her father had had a quarrel with some one a short time before the finding of the body, or at least that she had been told so, though she scouts the idea that he may have been murdered. She said that he had been ailing for the past few days, and thinks that he was stricken with heart disease. Neither the proprietor of the Northwestern hotel or any one who was in the vicinity at the time heard any noise that would indicate a quarrel or scuffle, and the police are of the opinion that the man was attacked with heart failure. The dead man was 52, and had lived in Marquette for the past twenty-six years. He leaves, besides his wife, Margaret, three daughters, Clara, Jennie and Louise.

Dies in Superior Saloon.

Charles Johnson, a porter in a Tower avenue saloon, was this morning at 11 o'clock, found dead in bed in his room at the Moon lodging house, Seventh street and Tower avenue, Superior.

Johnson is said to have been subject to fits and it was one of these which caused his death. Little is known of him. He was a middle aged man, and is thought to have no relatives in this part of the country.

Must You Reduce Your Fat?

If you have gotten to the point, my dear madam or good sir, where the excess fat must positively come off—don't worry. No need to peer in the gymnasium door with a despairing glance or sniff dubiously at the soapy savoriness of a bowl of impoverished gruel. You can keep on eating what you please if you will but ask your druggist for ½ ounce Marmola, ½ ounce Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic, and 3¼ ounces Peppermint Water. Get the Marmola sealed. Mix it at home and take a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime, for a few weeks. Good health and firm, smooth flesh reduced quickly to an amount natural to your build will reward you. Too simple, you say. Fortunately simple, I say. The simplest things are the best.

ALBERT O'BRIEN AT TOP OF LIST

Milk Inspector Gives Dairyman Total Score of 126 2-3 Points.

Owing to a clerical error in the office of the health department, Albert S. O'Brien, a Duluth dairyman, is credited with an official score of 119 out of a possible 133 1-3 points, in a list published in The Herald, where his score should have been 126 2-3. This practically puts Mr. O'Brien at the head of the list.

J. Uno Sebenius is 2 1-3 points above him, which is the highest individual score, but it is generally considered that Mr. Sebenius is in the business more for pleasure than profit, while with Mr. O'Brien it is different. He makes it his only business, and makes his living from that business. On top of his remarkably good score, he is credited with a butter fat test of 4.4 per cent, which is 1 per cent above the law requirement.

"It is a pleasure to correct this error," said Health Commissioner Patton this morning. "Even before the campaign for cleanliness was started, Mr. O'Brien had a model dairy."

Fatally Injured By Train.

Grand Forks, N. D., Oct. 13.—Erick Olson, a hardware dealer of Clifford, N. D., died early Sunday, from injuries received under the wheels of a train. He was seeking to alight, when he tripped. One leg was cut off and he expired a short time after.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

The early autumn months are busy ones with the housekeepers. The house is being turned over in hopes of a newer and more pleasing adjustment of furniture being possible. Incidentally the dust of the summer, which has not been removed by the regular weekly spasms of cleanliness, is taken away. Then, too, the charities of the season appeal to a large number of Duluth women. The round up of the Needlework Guild, which will take place the latter part of the month, is occupying the attention of many, and by this one effort a large part of the charity work of the season is disposed of.

Of an entirely different nature is the annual Charity ball, which is given each year under the auspices of the members of the board of the Children's Home, the proceeds to go to the work of that institution, which is near to the heart of the public. The ball is held each year the Tuesday evening preceding Thanksgiving. Mrs. T. J. Davis, president of the home board, will call a special meeting of the board next week to begin to make plans for this affair, which is always the largest and most brilliant of the season.

EVENING LECTURE.

Dr. Rubinkam Speaks Before Club Members.

The second in the series of evening lectures by Dr. N. I. Rubinkam, who is lecturing in the city under the auspices of the Twentieth Century club, was presented last evening at the First Baptist church, his subject being Richard Wagner's opera, "The Mastersingers of Nuremberg." The story of the opera was told in detail, and the opera themes were played by Miss Berta Schmeid. A large audience was present.

The next lecture will be given tomorrow morning, at 10 o'clock, when Ibsen's "A Doll's House," will be discussed by Dr. Rubinkam.

Young People's Club.

The members of the Young People's club of Lester Park will entertain at the first dancing party of the season, Wednesday evening, Oct. 28. The club is now entering upon its third winter of entertaining, and this season's series is anticipated with much interest. The committee in charge of the affair consists of Messrs. Edgar G. Smith, Walter Butchart, Stanley S. Bradley and Dana R. Hanford.

Oratorio Society.

The Duluth Oratorio society will meet this evening at 8 o'clock at the lecture room of the First Methodist church. "The Messiah" will be rehearsed for the Christmas concert. Any new singers desiring to join the chorus are requested to be at the church at 7:30 o'clock to meet the director, Horace W. Reyner.

Card Party.

Mrs. E. P. Warren will entertain at bridge tomorrow afternoon in honor of Mrs. Hartman, who will leave soon to spend the whole winter with her daughter at New Orleans.

Junior Assembly.

The members of the Junior Assembly will entertain at the autumn party, Friday evening of this week, at the ballroom of the Boat club. The committee in charge of the affair consists of Messrs. Don Stalker, Earl Watterworth, Joe Lonegren, Fred Ryan and Henry Becker.

Engagement.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Walker of 524 East Eleventh street have announced the engagement of this daughter, Miss Laura R. Walker to Charles J. Kugler. The wedding will take place, Wednesday morning of next week.

Board Meeting.

The regular board meeting of the directors of the Young Women's Christian association was held this morning at the rooms. Routine business was considered.

Shakespeare Class.

Both men and women are eligible for membership in the Evening Shakespeare class of the Twentieth Century club. The first meeting of the year will be held this evening at 7:30 o'clock at the club room of the library, and any one interested is invited to attend the meeting.

Personal Mention.

THE EVENING STORY

THE SONG IN THE NIGHT

By James William Jackson.

(Copyrighted. All rights reserved.)

The young lieutenant crouched in the mud of the gully. Every man of the squad was wearied to the limit of endurance, and the leader was burdened with a terrible responsibility. The enemy was close at hand and absolute silence imperative. The colonel, a few hours before, had detailed this little force to cut out a detachment of the enemy.

"Remember, my boy," he had said, with a fatherly hand on the lieutenant's shoulder, "it will not be enough to scare them. They must be routed!" —and the colonel emphasized with a savage sweep of his hand. "Clean them out! You would better not attack unless you mean to do that."

For hours they had plowed through the mud, eager for the encounter. Before darkness fell the discovery was made that the enemy numbered four times as many men as supposed. It would be madness to hope for more than a drawn battle, the lieutenant reflected; and yet—the colonel had given his orders. At daylight the commander would march on the assumption that the work was done.

"I can't go back and say I was afraid," the boy told himself; "but it would be murder to charge with this little band. If I had to think only of myself—"

The men lay in a dark line against the bank of the gully, waiting for the decision of their leader. If he said "Charge!"—well, they knew it would be one against four.

There was another hour before he need act, and the youthful officer gave way to moodiness. It was far from being poetry—this killing of human beings in muddy rags like their own. Hungry, tired, weary of the sickening duty; surrounded, trapped; a cowardly retreat on the one hand, a foolish sacrifice on the other way—there was little pomp in it all.

"And I wonder," he thought, in a listless way, "I wonder where she is tonight? A half-dozen uniforms about her, maybe, all spick and span, generals, colonels, captains—the devil take the pack that started this hungry war!"

A few hundred yards behind the gully loomed up an old mansion. As the men now lay in silence, save for the dreary, pattering preudle of the rain and the slushing of mud as one changed his position slightly, a light shone out across the wet field from a window of the house. A moment later the distant, sweet tones of a piano were audible. The lieutenant heard the opening chords with a sense of their familiarity.

Some one began a song. The words were not distinct; not even the music was sharply defined at that distance. But as the song proceeded, coming out into the night with a mystic sweetness and power, the lieutenant remembered its mesmeric harmony. Strong in its glad volume, and then infinitely, grievously sweet, gliding to passionate heights and sinking again, gently, to far-away notes, it was a song with a peculiar swaying power.

Granton called to mind a certain day before his uniform grew ragged. The settings of the song then had been a fine old room, a glorious woman, a fascinating voice. It was not a song that lulls; it thrilled and lifted—high and higher it exalted, until the impossible seemed easy to grasp.

As the song proceeded the lieutenant felt the full strength of its quickening impulse; and gradually he put away from himself the weak and unnerving despondency. It was not alone the memory of the music that inspired him, but the power of the song itself. Instinctively, too, he knew that the men had been sharers in the benefit of the passionate harmony. Almost before the last note died away on the night he had the squad afoot, confident that his own spiritual intoxication was shared in some measure by his followers.

Quickly, stealthily, but with a thrill of expected triumph, he led the way through a depression of the ground toward the little woods, beyond which was the outnumbering foe. The leader had already made known the only course of action—a given point for a start; a quick, mad charge.

Just beyond the woods a faint indication of a sentry was discerned in a half defined shadow. The lieutenant stopped his men with both arms outstretched as he paused in his track. Mentally the leader was singing the rythmic song and his blood surged in a spiritual drunkenness through his veins.

A brief instant of hesitation, then there was the faintest signal of ringing steel on the night air as the officer's sword was drawn. Catching up the impeding scabbard the leader moved toward the edge of the wood. The little band, deploying, came out of the deeper shadows in a long line, ranged against the whole face of the opposing force. Not a word was spoken; there was not a cheer, not a sound but the sudden whistling swish of the assailing line. In the silent advance the outposts of the enemy were half demoralized by the sense of an unreckoned and unestimated danger.

A preliminary, resisting shot of haphazard defense brought a volley in return. Then, with muskets clubbed on a double quick, the assailants determined the nature of the fight.

At that instant just one thrilling "Charge!" was ordered. It came from the lieutenant, and it was keyed in the sharp, enthralling harmony of the song.

It was over soon. The charge itself became a wild pursuit. The lieutenant still led the way until—the sword sjined from his fingers and he sank headlong into the soft mud and lay still, while his men hurried on.

It was hours after, and another day, when the lieutenant's eyes opened with intelligence. For a few minutes his glance ranged about a sunny room in a questioning way. From the couch where he lay he could see but part of the room; and as he strove to turn himself a quiet figure came quickly to his side. Then his eyes looked straight up into those of a woman. There came another wondering question into his glance and a great, glad astonishment to find her there. But his lips formed a different query.

"The fight?" he asked, weakly, and with the brevity of spent strength.

"Your colonel is here," she said, with a smile, as she drew a little nearer, "and he bids me say that this day surely makes you a captain and a hero."

"And the men—my men?" he begged.

"Two wounded—and yourself; nothing worse," she replied, softly.

"It was the song we heard in the rain and the night," he told her, in a whisper. "Sing it—sing it again for me."

His eyes were closed as the song ceased and she came back to bend over him. Suddenly he looked at her and, with a passionate gesture, took her hand in his.

"Last night," he said, "it thrilled me to conquer an army, if need be; and now it makes me bold for myself. Last night I cursed the fates that took me from you before I could tell you how I cared for you. I would have lost that fight—heaven forgive me! I would have murdered my men in my weakness and homesick longing. It was your song, that wonderful song, which gave me strength; and it gives me courage now to brave your verdict—to tell you that I love you better than anything in all this world. Are you glad? Say you are."

"I am glad," she murmured, with a world of earnestness. "The song was all for you. I was thinking of you through it all."

She looked at him with great-eyed pride for an instant. Then she laid her cheek on his pillow. One cool, soft hand stole to his face and the white fingers rested on his lips.

"I was trying to bring you back," she whispered, "to tell me—that—you cared."

ARGUES ON DEPOSITION

Attorney Richards Tries to Keep Out Testimony From Butte.

Few New Facts Develop in Butte & Superior Case.

For more than an hour this morning the attorneys in the case of the Butte & Superior Copper company vs. John McAlpine, on trial before Judge Ensign, argued as to whether or not the deposition of William O. Spears, taken at Butte, Mont., should be introduced into the trial as evidence.

J. B. Richards, attorney for the plaintiff, said that this man, not being a mining expert, his evidence was worthless, and asked that it be kept out.

The deposition stated that Mr. Spears had been engaged in the mining business for a period of more than twenty years, that he had profited by being engaged in that business, and Judge Ensign ruled that the evidence should stand.

Further than saying that the properties of the company was, according to his belief, worth more than $3,000,000 when they were acquired, the evidence so far as read, threw no other new light on the situation. He was asked on what he based his opinion of the worth of the mine, and he said from the looks of the vein, and from the location of the mine. The case itself dragged, and little was accomplished.

The only excitement of the day happened shortly after the opening of court and was furnished by Attorney J. B. Richards, who complained of the publicity being given the case by the newspapers.

• • •

The question of the right of the plaintiff in the suit of the Butte & Superior Copper company against John McAlpine to show the present state of development of the property and the values in copper found of late on the Poser and Elm Orlu claims, which are also on the Rainbow lode of the Butte camp, was brought up in district court yesterday afternoon and met with a strong objection on the part of Attorney J. B. Richards for the defense.

George H. Crosby was on the stand and after eliciting the information that the Jersey Blue claim of the Butte & Superior properties was but 350 feet from the Poser claim and the Black Rock but a short distance from the Elm Orlu, Mr. Hollister asked "If it developed that copper in paying quantities, running as high as 23 per cent had been found at the 700-foot level of the Elm Orlu, would you think that it might be found also on the Black Rock?"

Attorney Richards broke in with an objection. He said that the defense had made a studied effort not to bring in anything that happened after Feb. 11, 1907, and the plaintiff had no right to show present state of development in any of those properties.

"Feb. 11, 1907, is the pivotal point in this case," he said. "The representations made to Mr. McAlpine at that time depended upon what was actually shown on the properties and accordingly known. If there was copper on the properties, nobody knew it and that question must be determined here."

Mr. Hollister took the stand that the value of the stock on Feb. 11, 1907, was determined by the developments on the property after that date.

"We will show samples, processes, profits, assays and methods of treating the zinc ores that will show that we have copper in large quantities on the property now and the stock is worth every cent of what it was represented to Mr. McAlpine to be worth and which he paid for it," said Attorney Hollister.

The court refused to make a ruling until authorities had been cited, so the line of questioning was deferred until arguments could be made by the attorneys.

George H. Crosby was on the stand nearly all of yesterday afternoon and he continued to give the character of testimony the examination of him in the morning brought out. He asserted that values on one claim on a lode would naturally give more value to another claim on the same lode. In answer to a question by Mr. Richards, he said that he would consider himself justified in paying $1,000,000 for a claim on a vein on which ore had been proven.

Mr. Richards for the defense ejected a little excitement into the proceedings at one point, in arguing an objection on the part of Mr. Hollister to one of the questions he asked the witness. He was questioning Mr. Crosby on the flotation of North Butte and the success that had been made of it. He asked Mr. Crosby if he did not know that the people, who floated North Butte had made a great amount of money out of it. Mr. Hollister instantly objected to the question.

Mr. Richards entered into a lengthy peroration of the "stock craze," which struck the country a few years ago, and he charged that there was connection between every flotation of recent years and the North Butte.

"We want to show," he said, "that but for the great success of North Butte, the Butte & Superior flotation would never have been made. When people made money out of North Butte, Duluth, Butte and the whole country, in fact, went stock crazy. People wanted copper stocks at any price. Any group of men gathered a number of claims together under the name of a company, went out and sold the stock to the public and took the money of the people, without giving any return. The men who made these flotations didn't care anything for actual values in the property. All they wanted to do was to sell stock."

Mr. Richards charged the promoters of the Butte & Superior company with going on the market and selling their stock, while the public was bound not to sell his stock until the certificates were issued.

Judge Ensign sustained the objection and that particular line of questioning had to stop.

Mr. Richards asked Mr. Crosby further questions about his visits to Butte and tested his knowledge of conditions in the district north of the Speculator shaft.

Mr. Hollister asked a few questions as to the depth at which copper was found in different mines of the Butte camp and then turned the witness back to Mr. Richards.

Mr. Crosby denied that he ever told Mr. McAlpine the stock was fully worth $4, although he actually believed at that time it was and does believe so yet. He said he told Mr. McAlpine that the stock might be worth a great deal and might be worth very little. Mr. Crosby said he took an unselfish stand in dealing with Mr. McAlpine, as he wanted to make Mr. McAlpine some money and did not care whether he sold stock for the company, as he had sold out his allotment.

Mr. Richards went into the flotation of the Copper Queen of Idaho, in which Mr. Crosby was the principal figure. When Mr. Crosby spoke of the market price of the stock, Mr. Richards asked: "Do you mean to say that this manipulated curb market is any criterion of the value of copper shares?" and Mr. Crosby lost his composure for a moment. "Don't you slander me," he said, pointing at Mr. Richards. "I will not stand it." Mr. Richards said he hadn't meant to say that Copper Queen was manipulated and the matter was smoothed over.

A. J. McLennan, Mr. Crosby's secretary, was called to the stand after Mr. Crosby and he told of Mr. McAlpine's having signed the subscriptions and notes in his presence.

TORTURES YIELDED TO CUTICURA REMEDIES

"I had a lot of trouble with my little girl's eczema. She had been a sufferer for some time. The eczema started on her arm and then it got on her face and ear. We had our family doctor, who treated her and did all he could, He gave her all kinds of salves and remedies, but without success. The disease tormented her so she would scratch day and night. Then I read of what Cuticura had done for other children. We used Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment, bandaging her so that the eczema would not spread over her whole body. After using the Cuticura Remedies for a month she started to improve. I have used Cuticura Soap for her since she was born, and that with one box of Ointment cured her. I am glad she is cured, and I always recommend the Cuticura Remedies. Mrs. Lillie Bittner, 529 Ontario St., South Bethlehem, Pa., March 18 and April 15, 1908."

"My disease was psoriasis. It was a particularly bad case, affecting me from my head to my feet, and the irritation was terrible. I suffered for four years off and on. I had seen five doctors and tried sundry remedies, but none gave me any ease until I tried Cuticura Soap and Ointment. My case being a very bad one, it naturally took longer to make a good impression, but after persevering day after day for a month, I seemed to make fair progress. I began to use the Cuticura Remedies about July, 1906, and my cure was complete about October of the same year. Alfred Levy, 1, Winkfield Rd., Wood Green, n., England, March 23, 1908."

ST. PAUL'S NEW CATHEDRAL.

Progress of Work on Great Catholic Edifice.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Up to the present time the total cost of the crypt, or basement, of the new Catholic cathedral amounts to $233,407.46, and the last range of granite, forming the water-table, has been put in place, making this portion of the new structure complete. All of the concrete footings for the foundation have been laid, and the outer walls have been finished to the water-table, which is 24 feet 6 inches above the concrete footings.

The concrete varies in thickness from two to nine feet, according to the load to be carried. The largest concrete slabs are those under the piers that will support the dome. These are eight feet thick and over fifty-three feet on a side, and are heavily reinforced with nine-inch steel rods.

The inner retaining walls have been brought up 17 feet 5 inches in height. These walls are ten feet thick at the bottom. The outer walls vary in thickness from 2 feet 8 inches (under the center chapel at west end) to 20 feet 10 inches (under the two towers flanking the main entrance).

The eight piers that are to support the dome, four of Kettle river stone and four of brick, have been brought up as high as they can go before the main floor is laid. The granite work is completed to the water-table—the water-table itself included.

GIRLS INJURED IN FERRY CRASH

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 13.—Several girls were slightly injured and 100 more had a narrow escape from death when the ferry steamer Ariel, running between Walkerville, Ont., and Detroit, collided in a fog today with the small freighter Energy.

There were about 100 girl employes of local factories aboard the ferry, and pandemonium reigned among them for a few minutes.

The crew succeeded in quieting them, however, before the panic had any serious results. It was found that several of them were slightly cut by glass from the ferry's broken windows.

Governor Harris joined the special before it left Akron this morning and participated in the meetings until Grafton was reached.

At Wadsworth Mr. Taft talked of the tariff and labor conditions.

MINERS SEEK THE ADVICE OF MITCHELL.

Scranton, Pa., Oct. 13.—With the adoption today with the report of the committee on credentials the convention of miners from the three anthracite districts of the United Mine Workers of America, which began here yesterday, proceeded with the work for which it was called to determine the demands the men will make on the expiration of their three-year agreement with the mine owners in April next year.

Ex-National President John Mitchell is in the city and probably will be called upon for advice in formulating the demands.

DOUBLE TRACK ROAD TO CANADIAN PACIFIC.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 13.—Sir Thomas Shaughnessy and a party of directors of the Canadian Pacific arrived here this morning to accept from the contractors the double track road, 422 miles long, running between here and Fort William. It was built at a cost of $10,000,000, through deep cuts and muskegs.

From here the party goes to Lethbridge, to take over the Alberta railway and properties, in cluding the large colliery at Lethbridge, 113 miles of railway and 425,000 acres of land, suitable for irrigation, for which there has been keen rivalry for a year between J. J. Hill and the Canadian Pacific, as a connecting line in Southern Alberta and the Great Northern system in Montana.

KRAUSE GOT OFF EASY.

Judge Pronounced His Crime Most Atrocious in Wisconsin.

Appleton, Wis., Oct. 13.—"It's too late now," was the simple statement of Paul Krause, found guilty on Saturday afternoon of the murder of his divorced wife, Minna Grunert, when sentence to life imprisonment by Judge Goodland. The court declared it to be the most atrocious murder in the history of the state, and said he would not mitigate the sentence if he could. Krause's first day in prison will be in solitary continement.

Krause pleaded to be allowed to go the Milwaukee railroad bridge, off of which he says he threw his gun into the river, in an effort to prove that the story he told on the stand was true. The authorities believed he wanted to commit suicide by jumping into the river, as he has made several threats, and his request was denied.

NORTH DAKOTA CONFERENCE.

Of M. E. Church Begins Tuesday at Jamestown.

Jamestown, N. D., Oct. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—With Bishop Luther B. Wilson presiding, the annual conference of the Methodist Episcopal church of North Dakota began here today and will continue the remainder of the week. About 200 ministers are in attendance.

The reports presented show that the church has grown during the last year greater than during any previous year in its history in North Dakota.

ARGUMENTS HEARD IN LAND FRAUD TRIAL.

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 13.—The argument in the Chicago Ranch company land fraud trial were begun today. The defense rested last night, after Frederick S. Baird, a Chicago lawyer, who is at the head of the syndicate whose members entered the claims and have been improving the lands within the Chicago ranch enclosure, in Dawes county, Neb., had explained the origin and aims of the concern. Mr. Baird said the entries were all made in good faith and the entrymen formed a company for mutual aid and protection in making the necessary improvements. He denied ever having contracted to buy claims for prospective entrymen, but said he had bought relinquishments of claims, which were afterwards re-entered by members of his family, who are now occupying the property. He also denied having given erroneous advice as to the requirements of entry.

MINNESOTA BAPTISTS MEET.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The forty-ninth Minnesota Baptist state convention opened last night with an introductory service at Trinity Baptist church, Lincoln and Bryant avenues, when the annual sermon was preached by Rev. L. B. Crosby of Winona, after an address of welcome by Rev. L. A. Crandall.

The first gathering of the delegates was at noon yesterday, nearly 200 visitors being dined at the Lowry Hill Congregational church, where the women of Trinity have arranged a refectory to be continued until Friday. This was followed by a meeting of the board at 1 o'clock.

Interesting programs have been arranged for the four days of the convention, concluding with a discussion of the Baptist State Brotherhood and a report of the year's work. All the sessions will be in Trinity church.

The subjects to be discussed include "Evangelism," "Women's Work," "Missions," "Education," "Young People's Work," and a special memorial service for "Uncle Boston" W. Smith.

Many well known men and women in various branches of church work will be among the visitors and delegates.

DOLLIVER PAYS BRYAN TRIBUTE

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 13.—Senator J. P. Dolliver of Iowa, addressed a large audience on the political issues of the day being introduced by United States Senator Flint, as the man who made possible the great policies of President Roosevelt. Dolliver opened his address with a high tribute to Mr. Bryan, saying any one who came with the expectancy of hearing him denounce the Democratic party and its great leader would go away disappointed.

Senator Dolliver said the paramount issue of this campaign is not the tariff, or the guarantee of bank deposits, or war or peace, or diplomacy, but "the preservation and perpetuation of those ideals of private honesty and public integrity which have made the administration of Roosevelt famous."

LOOKING FOR EDWIN HOBBS

Wandered From Fourth Street Home While Mentally Deranged.

While temporarily out of his mind, Edwin Hobbs of 1510 East Fourth street, wandered away from his home Sunday afternoon, and he has been seen but once since. The police have been asked to assist in a search for the man. A party of his friends looked for him all yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Hobbs is an engineer in the employ of the Oliver Iron Mining company and officers of the company are much concerned over his disappearance. They are assisting in the efforts to locate him. He was last seen at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the Chester creek bridge on Fourth street. He has been without food since leaving Sunday noon.

Hobbs is about 48 years old and when he left home was dressed in a blue serge suit and wore a dark ulster and a gray hat. He was severely ill recently, and this has something to do with his mental condition.

SUPERIOR NEWS

PASSENGERS ARE SHAKEN.

Two Street Cars Collide, But There Are No Serious Injuries.

The passengers of two street cars, which collided yesterday at Tower avenue and Twentieth street, were badly shaken up. Frank A. Hammer, a messenger in the employ of the Columbia Clothing company, living at 2014 New York avenue, had his right leg and ankle bruised, and John Hanson, 2004 Hughitt avenue, a drug clerk, was knocked unconscious for a short time, but otherwise no serious injuries were sustained.

It seems that an Interstate car southbound, crashed into a South Superior car. The South Superior car is said to have been standing still, and taking on passengers. When it was seen that a smashup was inevitable, the passengers made a rush to get out.

The vestibule of both cars are badly in need of repair and will have to remain in the repair shop for several days.

No statement has been made as to how the accident happened, though it is reported that the motorman claims that his brake did not work and he had no way of bringing the car to a standstill.

Roller Makes Trouble.

Street Commissioner Anderson had his troubles yesterday, trying to get a man to run the city's new gasoline road roller. John Bowser had held the job, but had quit, claiming that there were too many bosses on the job. Anderson at last had to re-engage Bowser. Even then, the roller would not move, and it was late in the afternoon before, amid the cheers of a crowd that had gathered, that the machine was got under way.

Theft is Charged.

For the alleged stealing of Matt Morgan's watch, John Green was yesterday sentenced by Judge Parker, to thirty days on the rock pile. Green is said to have taken Morgan's watch while he was asleep in a lower Tower avenue saloon. Green claimed that he was innocent, and argued that he did not know Morgan, so he could not possibly have taken his timepiece.

Funeral of Mrs. Simons.

The funeral of Mrs. Julia Simons, mother of Thomas Simons, who died suddenly of hemorrhage of the brain at the residence of her son, 2109 Ogden avenue, yesterday morning, will be held this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock from the residence. The body will be taken over the Omaha road at 5:30 to Rhinebeck, for burial.

Officers Elected.

The following officers of the Blaine High School Athletic association were elected at the annual election held yesterday. President, William Bradley, captain of the football team; vice president, Waldemar Burns; secretary, Florence Flinn; treasurer, Prof. O. Lehne; sergeant-at-arms, L. McPherson; custodian, Oliver Nelson; member of athletic council, Ashton Smith.

To the Public:

I notice in Sunday morning's paper that Harry Mitchell is coming back to Duluth and says he will make all the tailors of this city take to deep water for refuge.

I suppose he means that he will put them all to the wall. It will be remembered that he operated in this city a few years ago under the name of the Scotland Woolen Mills and made the same threats at that time, but we notice that all the "two by two" tailors as he terms them, are still in the business.

My reputation for making high class clothes is well known in this city as I have been here for eighteen years and expect to stay here.

My profits don't afford to buy the space in newspapers as a firm who makes fake clothes.

I make suits right in my own work shop for $20.00 and $25.00 and guarantee them in every respect, and my guarantee is good.

Lord Fitzmaurice will continue to represent the foreign office in the house of lords.

DO YOU KNOW ANY SKIN SUFFERERS?

If You Have a Friend Afflicted With Eczema, Tell the Druggist About It.

If you have a friend suffering from eczema, tell us about it the next time you are in the store.

Many eczema sufferers have tried so many useless remedies and spent so much money with doctors that they practically despair. If they only knew of the simplest home cure for eczema! It is nothing more than oil of wintergreen compound (as mixed in D. D. D. Prescription).

Used with glycerine, thymol and other healing ingredients in liquid form, this simple remedy penetrates the pores of the skin, numbing and killing the eczema germs, while building up the healthy tissue.

If you will suggest to your friend afflicted with eczema to call, we shall be glad to explain to any sufferer about D. D. D. Prescription.

SAY LIGHT IS GUILTY

Jury Recommends Old Man to the Mercy of the Court.

Late last night, a jury in district court returned a verdict finding Kalman Light guilty of arson and recommending him to the mercy of the court.

Light is the West Duluth merchant, who was charged with setting fire to his store at 222 Central avenue, June 9, last. His trial consumed two days and the evidence against him was strong. He was shown to have been at the store shortly before the fire was discovered and the conditions all pointed to incendiarism.

Attorney M. H. McMahon made a strong plea for his client on the ground that Light's mind was affected and the act was that of an irresponsible person. Although Light is but 55 years of age, he is as infirm and decrepit as a man of 70 years, and the recommendation of mercy by the jury was doubtless due to that fact.

Attorney McMahon may move for a new trial.

DRIVE OVER NEW ROAD.

Park Board and West Duluth Club Committee to Inspect Work.

The park board and a committee of members from the West Duluth Commercial club will take a drive of inspection Saturday over the new western extension of the boulevard, which was finished within the past few days.

The party will leave Lincoln park at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

It was the idea of the members of the West Duluth Commercial club that there should be some formal recognition of the completion of the new park drive. They appointed a committee at their last meeting to arrange for some manner of demonstration. The committee waited on the members of the park board, with the result that a drive was planned for this coming Saturday.

CONFERENCE IN SESSION.

Meeting of the Lake Superior Norwegian Lutheran District.

Last evening at Our Savior's Norwegian Lutheran church, the first session of the Lake Superior district Norwegian Lutheran conference took place. Rev. T. Fossum, pastor of the Zion Norwegian Lutheran church, delivered the opening address of the evening, following which the subject of discussion, I Peter, v, 1-6, was taken up. This discussion will be continued today and tomorrow. There will probably also be a short business session tomorrow.

As president of the district, Rev. J. H. Sternberg, pastor of the First Norwegian Lutheran church, is presiding at the meetings. Rev. L. S. Marvick of Ashland, Wis., is secretary.

On Sunday the conference sermon was delivered by Rev. Mr. Christianson of Washburn, Wis.

Rock Broke Leg.

William Stones, 302 Seventy-third avenue west, was this morning taken to the Duluth hospital, with a fractured leg and badly bruised ankle. He was working at the stone crusher when a large rock fell on him.

Real Estate Sales.

Through the office of L. A. Barnes, John H. Colburn has purchased lots 7, 8, and 9, block 15, West End addition. Consideration, $700; also James Jennet has purchased lot 13, block 34, West Duluth, First division; consideration, $350.

Funeral of Mekhuk.

T2e funeral of I. Mekhuk, who died last night at the St. Mary's hospital, as a result of having been struck by one of the Wisconsin Central dinkies, will take place this afternoon at 4 o'clock, from M. J. Filitrault's undertaking rooms, Ramsey street, near Central avenue. The interment will be at Oneota cemetery. Mekhuk was 26 years old, and was a saloonkeeper at 411½ West Michigan street. As far as it is known he is survived by no relatives in this country.

BURGLARS TAKE CIGARS

Burglars broke into the store of Fred Sjosellus, 822 Mesaba avenue, Saturday night, and made a safe getaway with three boxes of cigars. They left a knife sticking in the crack above the money drawer, which seems to indicate that they were frightened away before their work was finished.

There seems to be an organized band of burglars working in Duluth. A number of stores and offices have been broken into in the central portion of the city during the last week or two. One night last week four such burglaries were reported to the police. Saturday night's affair was just brought to light today.

The men gained entrance to the Sjosellus store by breaking one of the plate glass windows slanting towards the street from the door. They climbed through the break, helped themselves to the cigars, and then turned their attention to the till. The fact that the knife was left there, and that the till was not opened, makes it appear that the burglars were frightened away before they finished the job.

"We used to have a mounted policeman in this part of the city, and he was able to maintain good order, and afford us some protection, but now that he has been taken away, we are practically helpless," said Mr. Sjosellus this morning. "There is urgent need of the policeman there and he should be placed back on duty. I believe that a gang of young hoodlums, that makes trouble around that neighborhood constantly, was responsible for the burglary, and the placing of a policeman on the beat would make such affairs impossible."

THIS IS THE LAST WEEK OF CAS-KA

Free Treatment—After Saturday the Price Goes to $1 Per Bottle—All Mail Orders Must Be In By Saturday Night.

There are over 3,000 people here in Duluth and vicinity who are taking this medicine, and if you will investigate it you will find that eight out of ten will tell you that they are going to buy more before the price goes up to $1 a bottle. Come to the drug stores and see our list of testimonials of reliable Duluth people who recommend CAS-KA for catarrh and rheumatism. Start today and try CAS-KA a few days if you are bothered with your kidneys or stomach or have sick headaches. We have sold many bottles in the last eight weeks, with the guarantee to relieve the above complaints in ten days or give money back; only six people have asked for money back (which they got).

And if you want to see people buy a medicine that hundreds of people have been testing here for the past two months, come to Boyce's Drug Store any day this week. Some people will tell you that CAS-KA cures too many diseases, but it doesn't—it only cures one thing. It makes pure blood and it has to make first the stomach right, then the liver and kidneys to do that. And those people that are bothered with constipation, if you ask any one that is taking CAS-KA they will tell you that after taking CAS-KA a while they have to take smaller doses instead of larger, as they do with other medicines. That shows that CAS-KA is regulating the bowels. Come and try a few doses. Female weaknesses and irregularities relieved in four or five days.

You can hardly go into a business house in Duluth but what you will find someone taking CAS-KA.

If you're bothered with your stomach or kidneys, go in and get a bottle today, and Saturday if you are not well pleased with it bring it back and get your money.

HARRY MITCHELL

I'm a-gettin' next! All the secrets of the tailoring business in Duluth come to me every day. I pick them out of the air as they go driftin' by.

I always knew that Duluth was a good field and a good town and I had my eye on it, but my business in Minneapolis and in St. Paul increased so fast that I couldn't get around until now. Now I've come to stay; you can bank on it.

Like the Cakrous Bug. It stays where it lights.

I shall tarry in the Zenith City with you. You need me and I need you. I can save you money and you can make money. If you don't order your clothes from me, then you're the loser. Let me prove it to you.

I can make a suit or an overcoat to your order for $15.00 or $20.00 that no other tailor can duplicate for $30.00 or $40.00. Ain't that saving you money? You're getting the long end of the rope every time and at the same time I can make a small profit on your order and keep all of my men busy.

Certainly I have to make a little profit, but I'm satisfied with a very small one.

I'm no hog.

The profit that I make is not made off your money, but off my own in buying and in my wonderful facilities for turning out good clothes at a small price.

Do you catch the point?

My business in Duluth will open Oct. 17th. That's Saturday. Don't you buy any clothes; tailor-made or ready-made until you see my fine goods and my prices on Saturday.

I make a suit or an overcoat for $15.00 from Genuine Scotch Goods and for $20.00 from Genuine English material, that would cost you at any other tailor's in this town from $30.00 to $40.00, and you couldn't buy them in the hand-me-down store at any price. Yours truly,

HARRY MITCHELL,
Duluth Store: 18 East Superior Street.

ESTABLISH HOME IN DULUTH

On motion of Dr. E. C. Clemans, superintendent of the Duluth district, the recent Northern Minnesota M. E. conference at Litchfield decided to establish a deaconesses' home in Duluth. The resolution empowers Dr. Clemans to make all necessary arrangements.

Dr. Clemans has not yet returned from the conference, and the detailed plans can not be learned until he returns. It is understood that a property has already been offered the district for the deaconesses' home, and it will probably be accepted, which will allow an immediate carrying out of the plans of those interested in the project.

There will probably be four deaconesses in the home at its institution, and the number will be increased as the work progresses. The deaconesses will work in the Duluth district, and it is expected that their efforts will have especially satisfactory results on the ranges.

STORE MANAGER JUMPS FOR LIFE

Cloquet, Minn., Oct. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fire destroyed the People's theater here this morning between 3:30 and 4 o'clock. A misunderstanding in the alarm caused the department much delay and gave the fire a good start. The Finnish Mercantile company, in an adjoining building, was saved after hard work. Krans Bros.' manager was almost suffocated with smoke and forced to leap through a window. The origin of the fire is not known.

THE RECIPE TO PREPARE

An Eminent Authority Predicts Much Suffering and Disease.

A Simple Prescription Which Sufferers Should Make Up and Try.

Here is a prescription which should be valued by all who are subject to rheumatism, kidney and bladder troubles and especially catarrh. While the latter is considered by most sufferers an incurable disease, there are few men or women who will fail to experience great relief from the following simple home prescription, and if taken in time it should prevent an attack of catarrah during the entire season.

Any one can mix the following: Fluid Extract Dandelion one-half ounce, Compound Kargon one ounce, Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla three ounces. Shake well in a bottle and use in teaspoonful doses after each meal and again at bed time. Get these ingredients from any pharmacist whom you know handles only pure drugs.

This prescription acts directly upon the eliminative tissues of the kidneys to make them filter and strain from the blood, the poisons that produce all forms of catarrhal affections. Relief is often felt even after the first few doses and it is seldom that the sufferer ever experiences a return attack within the year.

This prescription makes a splendid remedy for all forms of blood disorders and such symptoms as lame back, bladder weaknesses and rheumatism pains are entirely dispelled.

As this valuable, though simple, recipe comes from a thoroughly reliable source, it should be heeded by every reader who suffers from catarrh.

DEDICATE NEW HOSPITAL AT NORTHWOOD, SUNDAY.

Grand Forks, N. D., Oct. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The dedication of the new $25,000 hospital at Northwood will take place Sunday, Oct. 18, with impressive ceremonies. The formal dedicatory services will be held in the Lutheran church at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon, and addresses will be delivered by Prof. Carl Weswig of the United Church Theological seminary, St. Paul, Minn., who will speak in English and by Rev. Albert Johnson of Williston and Rev. Urdahl of Hatton, N. D., who will speak in Norwegian. Several choirs will unite on this occasion and the special music will be a feature.

BIG MAJORITY FOR GOVERNOR

State Dairy and Food Commissioner Bennett Predicts It.

Virginia, Minn., Oct. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Harris Bennett, a member of the state dairy and food commission, spent Monday in the city. Mr. Bennett is one of Governor John A. Johnson's stanuch supporters and says the governor will be re-elected by at least 40,000 majority.

Ransom Metcalfe, editor of the Two Harbors Iron News, spent Sunday in the city, coming up to make arrangements to remove his family to that city. They expect to leave tomorrow to make Two Harbors their future home.

C. J. Macbeth, the Mankato packer, was in the city this week looking after his meat business. Mr. Macbeth also spent a couple of days at Ranier looking after his fish packing establishment there.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Wilmot and children of St. Charles are guests of Editor and Mrs. D. E. Cuppernull. Mr. Wilmot is a brother of Mrs. Cuppernull. Mr. Wilmot says he is inclined to the belief that Governor Johnson will succeed himself for a third term.

Dr. W. L. Bailey and Edward Finch have returned from Nett lake, where they spent the past week hunting ducks. They brought back about 150 of these fowls and state that the shooting is exceptionally good in that region this season.

Nathanson Bros., who are engaged in the clothing business in this city, together with H. Bloom, will open a department store at Hibbing about Jan. 1. The name of the new firm will be Nathanson Bros. & Bloom.

A number of Virginians attended the "Mahami Assembly" dancing party at Mount Iron and report a most enjoyable time.

H. T. Hare, Charles MacCormick and Matt Derosia spent the first of the week hunting ducks on Rice lake.

FOREST FIRES NEAR CHISHOLM

Unfortunate Town Was Threatened for Time With More Trouble.

Chisholm, Minn., Oct. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Forest fires surrounded the town Sunday afternoon on the west and south and for a time it looked as though the town would again go through the same experience that it went through on Sept. 5. Heavy winds from the west blew all day and about 3:30 p. m. smoke started to rise in large volumes and the wind took it in town. The fire on the west was within one block of Gran's house on the main street. The district that burned was not burned with the fire of Sept. 5. The fire department was called out and fought the fire till 8 o'clock. At this time the fire died down. Several hundred feet of hose was on hand besides what was in use. The fire on the south of town was not dangerous Monday because the wind blowing from the east sent the fire away from town. It is expected that there will be some danger from these fires, as they are very close to town and might at any time become too high to handle.

The Shenango mine was endangered yesterday by a large forest fire south of the mine. For a time it came very fast, but it was turned off by the changing of the wind. The fire at one time was within a few hundred feet of the mine. Nothing of value burned.

BLIND PIGGER HIT.

Judge Prince Also Fines Keepers of Disorderly Houses.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—A number of disorderly house cases were before Judge Prince yesterday. Joseph Thibaut, arrested on that charge, was fined $30, as was also Frank Rubonich. Both fines were paid. John Palin, upon the same charge, was fine $30. Frank Sherk, arrested for stealing coal from the mining company, was fined $25.

The case which attracted the most attention was the fence case against Bonaficio Constantino, who was arrested on complaint of Peter Vicenti. The case was dismissed and the case of the complainant for selling liquor without a license was also dismissed, but Peter Vicenti was fined $10 and costs, amounting to $46, for running a disorderly house.

Mary Suki was arrested for selling intoxicating liquors without a license and was fined $50 and costs. This is one of the recent blind pig cases which are forerunners of what will be meted out later.

That the proprietors of the disorderly houses are intending to move out, as they were requested to do, is evidenced by their trying to sell out.

CITY FOOTBALL TEAM PROPOSED IN EVELETH.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Plans are on foot among local football players to form a city team to play all the city teams on the range. There are a number of men here who have played on some fast teams, and they think that a Sunday playing city team would be a success. The first practice will be held Sunday.

Nick Palkovich and Miss Katharine Lubanovich were married a few days ago at the Holy Family church by Rev. Father Bilban.

Dr. Harwood of the Fabiola hospital returned last night from a two and one-half weeks' trip to the East. He attended the national tuberculosis congress at Washington, D. C., and visited many other Eastern cities.

Miss Lizzie Finucan has returned from a two months' visit to Coleraine.

Mrs. Jule Thibaut is having as guests for a short time her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Schmaus of Duluth.

Alderman C. R. Johnson has returned from a few days' business trip.

Mrs. Frank Campbell is having as guests Mrs. F. W. Bullen of Hibbing and Mrs. Ambrose Toohey of Mount Iron.

Jacob Wilk left yesterday noon for Minneapolis, having spent a short time with his parents here.

MRS. JOSEPH FRANZEL OF EVELETH CALLED.

Hibbing, Minn., Oct. 13.—(Special to The Herald).—Mrs. Joe Franzel, wife of Joe Franzel, one of the most popular and wealthy saloon men of this city, died at the More hospital Sunday night. The Franzels are among the most prominent of the Austrians in town, Mr. Franzel being local agent for the Schlitz Brewing company, besides controlling a number of properties. Mrs. Franzel is survived by six children, the eldest a girl of 15. Mrs. Franzel was about 35 years old. The funeral will be held tomorrow from the Holy Family church.

CHISHOLM SENDS MEN TO ST. PAUL

Committee to Ask for All Money Subscribed for Town.

Chisholm, Minn., Oct. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—At a meeting of the business men a committee, comprised of I. Lewis, W. Wye, J. J. Hayes, W. G. Shane and C. Neally, was appointed to go to St. Paul before the State Relief association to see that all the money donated to the Chisholm sufferers be turned over to the local committee or be given to the sufferers by the state committee.

Some money has already been distributed in building shacks, but the larger part is still in the hands of the large cities, and will not be turned over because they think that the sufferers are plentifully supplied, but the case is different. Several have not received relief and several are waiting for relief, and unless something is done at once the cold weather will be upon them. A petition was circulated and signed by the people, which will be taken down with the committee which leaves today for St. Paul.

Chief Madden has put on five extra police since the departure of the militia, and all seems to be going on as previous to the fire. A close watch is kept by the chief, and he can be relied on by the citizens.

The filter plant has been put in working order by Supt. Sullivan, and he is only waiting for alum, when he will filter the water again. The filter building and the pumping station only needed roofs, doors and windows to be as good as new; the walls are all right.

The school board has offered the second floor of the old schoolhouse to the village, and it has been accepted with thanks. One of the rooms will be used for a jail, the old cell to be transferred and used. Another is to be used for a municipal court room, and a third for the recorder's office. The new city hall will not be completed before March 1. The village officers will move into their new quarters next week.

FAVOR AIR-LIFT SYSTEM.

Hibbing Councilmen Like System Used in Indianapolis.

Hibbing, Minn., Oct. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—It is expected that at the meeting of the village council this evening the committee appointed to investigate the air-lift system of pumping water will report favoring the installation of the system here.

Councilmen Hayes and Roddyard, Supt. W. G. Williamson of the water and light plant, have returned from Indianapolis where they looked over the pumping plant of the Hoosier capital.

Indianapolis is using the system to secure its water supply, which is taken from a number of wells which are from two to three times as deep as the Hibbing wells. The committee found that Indianapolis is pumping water from wells 400 to 600 feet deep at a very slight expense with the air lift system. They have also found that the system is used in many other cities and that it is used in mining operations to raise water more than 1,000 feet. The system consists of forcing compressed air to the bottom of the well, the force of the air raising the water to the height desired.

It is estimated that a Hibbing can pump its water by this system for 2 cents per 1,000 gallons, while the present cost is 5½ cents. By the air lift system also the services of two pumpmen would be dispensed with. It is believed the cost of installing the system in Hibbing would be about $5,000 to $6,000 and the annual saving would greatly exceed these figures.

NEW CHISHOLM BANK.

Rumor of Its Starting Brings Forth Liberal Subscriptions.

Chisholm, Minn., Oct. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The rumor printed in The Herald of the contemplated consolidation of the Miners and the First National bank here has started a report that a third bank may be formed soon with George Train, cashier of the First National bank, as president.

Several merchants have volunteered to make subscriptions in the new enterprise, believing that Mr. Train's popularity in the community would insure the success of the bank.

Those who have promised to take stock in the new enterprise and the amount they will subscribe follow:

Karon Bros., $5,000; Anderson & Hanson, $1,500; Ike Lewis, $500; W. J. Shane, $500; Sol Ruhlorf, $500; Joe Karoli, $1,500; S. B. Leduk, $500; Julius Lewis, $500; V. B. Erspamer, $1,000; S. Sapiro Sons, $500; Goldenberg Bros., $500; Taylor Bros., $1,500; Thomas Dandree, $500; Ed Halonen, $500; Hays & Casy, $1,000. There will be much more. It is figured between $25,000 and $30,000 will be sold in shares as soon as a meeting will be called.

DULUTH CONTRACTORS ARE GIVEN CONTRACT.

Two Harbors, Minn., Oct. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city council last night awarded the contract for constructing the main sewer on Spruce street to Thomas & McCoy of Duluth for $2,537.

A resolution was adopted that hereafter the city pay for all telephones in the offices of city officials.

Strengthen the Nerves

One thing is certain. Nerve force can only be created from rich, red blood.

Make the blood right and you cure diseases of the nerves such as headache, indigestion, sleeplessness, irritability, weakness of the bodily organs, prostration and partial paralysis.

This is the only way actual cure can possibly be brought about, and because Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills are great blood builders they accomplish wonderful results in the cure of diseases of the nerves.

Mr. H. Martin, R. F. D. No. 1, Oak Grove, Mich., writes: "For twelve years I suffered from neuralgia and nervous disability and was treated by nine different doctors. I can state positively that I received more benefit from five boxes of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills than from all the doctors put together. I want to thank you for the great good these pills did me."

Portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, M. D., the famous Receipt Book author, on every box. 50 cts. at all dealers or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

TWO HARBORS TO GREET GOVERNOR

Planning for Great Reception in Lake County Seat Wednesday.

Two Harbors, Minn., Oct. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Lake county Democratic committee has made arrangements to give Governor Johnson a rousing reception here tomorrow afternoon and while his stay will be short from 5 p. m., until 6:30 p. m., preparations have been made to make the best of the time alloted.

Upon the arrival of the party from the north they will be met at the train by a large body of prominent Democrats and the city band and will be escorted to the opera house, where speeches will be had, after which the party will take luncheon at the Commerical hotel here, and at 6:30 p. m., will depart for Duluth.

FIREMEN BADLY BURNED.

Struck by Steam, is Being Treated at Two Harbors Hospital.

Two Harbors, Minn., Oct. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fireman W. B. Wills was quite badly burned about the face Saturday, while on his train, under charge of Conductor R. W. Boston, near Brimson. A flue plug on the engine blew out and the steam struck him a glancing blow on the face. Had the plug struck him squarely it would have killed him. He was brought to the hospital here for treatment.

Rev. J. D. Nelsimono has returned from Minneapolis, where he went last week to attend the fiftieth state anniversary of the Swedish Lutheran church. He visited at Ashland, Wis., his former charge, also.

Lumber business is beginning to assume the usual briskness before the closing of the season. The Lycoming is taking on a cargo, and the steamers Bottsford, Lentz, Green, Genoa and Page are expected this week for loading.

HIBBING MACHINES QUIT.

Saloonkeeper Said to Have Lost Large Source of Revenue.

Hibbing, Minn., Oct. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The slot machines that have been run at times in various saloons are said to have been plugged and then put effectually out of business, public sentiment having forced the action. It is reported that the machines yielded one or two saloons as high as $1,000 per month.

that question. I shall refer to it at the Hibbing meeting, and perhaps at one or two other meetings on the ranges, but I would like to have any Duluth people who want to know my position on the tonnage tax attend the Armory meeting Wednesday evening. I think I will make myself clear."

With a little cheer from the small circle of friends gathered in the depot, and a "Good luck," the Johnson special pulled out of the depot a few minutes after 8 o'clock.

It was a short run to Proctor, where a stop of half an hour was made.

Those in the party were: Governor John A. Johnson, Arthur Evanson, member of the board of grain appeals; Andrew Nelson, chairman of the county committee; Dr. O. A. Oredson, candidate for the legislature in the Fiftieth district; W. E. McEwen, P. McDonnell, John Cashin, candidate for register of deeds; Charles Jesmore, candidate for sheriff; Dr. J. H. Jern, candidate for county coroner; E. A. Tessman, H. P. Bjorge, candidate for state board of grain appeals; P. H. Nelson of Hibbing, candidate for state treasurer; Charles F. Macdonald, John Jenswold, Jr., John Dwan of Two Harbors, and representatives of the Duluth Evening Herald and the Duluth News Tribune.

Large Crowd at Proctor.

Proctor, Minn., Oct. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Proctor gave Governor Johnson a most auspicious start on his range tour.

When the special pulled into the depot more than 300 people were assembled on the platform to welcome the governor, and they followed him to the large paint shop of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern road. Before the governor had been introduced, between 200 and 300 filed in and when he began his speech fully 600 people were assembled. Practically all of them were men, although there were about fifteen women in the audience.

The shop, which is fully as large as the Armory, was a difficult place in which to speak, owing to its poor acoustic qualities and the noise of the passing ore trains, but the governor gave a talk straight from the shoulder to the 600 men assembled.

He wasted no time in getting to the point.

"We are drawing to the close of a momentous campaign," he said. "I am one of those who believe that every man should ally himself with one of the great national parties. But I do not believe he should so ally himself because he was born into the party. The time has come when men should vote for themselves. You may say, 'I cannot vote for myself; I am not a candidate for anything.' But when I say vote for yourself, I mean you should vote for the man who stands for that which is best for yourself, for your home and for your country.

"I think you all know that I did not want a third term as governor of Minnesota. The convention nominated me and adjourned, but I am now in the campaign and in to win. I made certain promises to you two years ago and four years ago when I was campaigning for the office of governor. I have fulfilled those promises. I am not even accused of not having fulfilled them.

"There are two questions which I had intended to take up at this time, but the News Tribune of Duluth has attacked me on these points, and I would like briefly to reply.

The Tonnage Tax Falsehood.

"When the News Tribune says that I ever recommended a tonnage tax on iron ore it utters an absolute falsehood, and none knows it so well as the editor of that paper himself. I will take up this question more fully at the Armory meeting in Duluth, Wednesday, but let me say here that the News Tribune is confounding the tonnage tax with the royalty tax. My first knowledge of the necessity of a royalty tax came from Duluth people. I learned that there were a large number of fee owners enjoying an income of from $20,000 to $100,000 a year, on which they paid no taxes. I have said in former campaigns and I repeat it in this, that I will stand for no method of taxation which will take from local governments of Northeastern Minnesota, one cent that they now receive from taxation for the support of their local government and their schools.

The Range Strike.

"The other question referred to by the News Tribune, was my attitude on the strike of last year. Until yesterday I had received nothing but praise for my course, but was commended by papers at home and abroad. I was asked to send the state militia here to shoot down workingmen. I came up and investigated for myself. I found there was no necessity for soldiers, and held that the civil authorities were capable of enforcing the law, and advised them to afford the same protection to workingmen and owners of property.

"It was reported later that thugs were imported to break the strike, and that some of them were wearing the livery of the state as deputy sheriffs. I immediately requested Sheriff Bates that he furnish a list of his deputies, showing their places of residence. His list as returned to me consisted only of Minnesota citizens. This was made upon oath. Now if the News Tribune desires to fix any blame, it must put it upon Sheriff Bates of St. Louis county, because it was he who hired the deputies, and it was he who certified to the governor that they were citizens of the state."

The governor closed with a fine tribute to the citizenship of Minnesota.

Great Enthusiasm.

There was no question about the reception given the governor at the close of his speech. The most enthusiastic applause greeted his remarks, and at the close of his speech the men gathered about him to meet him and grasp his hand. Members of the party, who were with the governor two years ago say that the Proctor meeting exceeded in both size and enthusiasm the meeting held then. J. E. ROCKWELL.

CUT YOUR TAILOR BILL IN TWO

Why pay $30 or $40 for a suit or an overcoat when I guarantee absolute satisfaction, style, fit and finish for $15.00 and $20.00.

I don't accuse anybody of being dishonest. We're all out for the money—you, the other fellow and I. But there are different ways of getting it. Some go at it by hypnotizing and making people believe that their labels sewed inside your coat collar is worth from $15.00 to $20.00 above the real value of the garment. Others buy big lots of suits and overcoats of various sizes, and then tell you that they can fit you no matter what your build.

Now I take the middle course. I would rather make one hundred little profits than ten big ones. I'm hiring tailors who have spent years in making these $30.00 and $40.00 suits. They are putting the same style, the same fit and the same quality of workmanship into my clothes that they put into the others. The only difference is that I charge only $15.00 and $20.00, the other fellows are charging $30.00 to $40.00 for the same garments.

And again, I'm the Northwestern representative for the biggest tailoring institution. This institution operating a chain of stores throughout the United States, puts all the output of their mills at Glasgow and Manchester, into clothes made to order for American men. So you see no ready made clothier can compete with my prices. And the highest priced tailors in Duluth don't give you better quality.

I'm going to turn the tailoring business in Duluth upside down when it comes to prices. I'm going to make clothes for every thinking man, who cares where his money goes. I want you to come into my new store on my opening day, Oct. 17, and look at my beautiful goods.

How Rheumaline is Made And What It is Made Of.

These two things certainly cannot interest the people of Duluth nearly as much as how it acts on the system and what it does for Rheumatism. Rheumaline, on account of its ingredients, cannot act in any other way than in direct conjunction with every organ in the body and in doing this it puts all these organs in their original healthy conditon. It contains no habit forming drugs and nothing injurious to the most delicate stomach. It goes to the seat of all Rheumatism, Lumbago, Sciatica, Neuralgic Gout, and any disorders arising from Uric Acid in the Kidneys, Liver, Bladder, Stomach or Blood, removes the cause of these diseases and stops their formation. It does this because Rheumaline is a perfect Uric Acid Solvent and as Uric Acid is the foundation of all the diseases above mentioned, a medicine to be a relief in any way must be a Uric Acid Solvent so it may dissolve this excess Uric Acid and drive it out of the body.

Rheumaline not only routs Rheumatism but it cures Kidney and Liver complaint and many people have even used it as a blood medicine with wonderful effect. Hence, you see, Rheumaline cannot be injurious to the system or people could not use it for these various purposes. However, Rheumaline is not a cure all. Its primary and only motive is to cure Rheumatism, which it does in a quick and effective way and its price is so nominal that the poorest can enjoy its beneficial results as well as the richest.

Rheumaline costs only $1.00 per bottle, Rheumaline Capsules 50c per box. These two form a Rheumaline Treatment. In taking the Rheumaline Treatment, it must be remembered that the bowels must be kept free which is effected not by salts or a saline cathartic, but by Rheumaline Tablets which cost 25c per box.

The Rheumaline Treatment is sold at the Lyceum Pharmacy, who represent the Rheumaline Co., of Cincinnati, Ohio. Get the Treatment today. Go now. It removes the cause.

W. L. HUDSON DIES IN THE FAR WEST

Well Known in Duluth Where He Formerly Lived.

Walter L. Hudson, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Hudson of Duluth, and brother of Attorney T. T. Hudson, died at Haynes, Or., Saturday, of acute Bright's disease. The deceased was 29 years of age, and was unmarried.

The remains will be brought to Duluth and the funeral will be held Thursday morning from the family residence, 420 First avenue west. Interment will be in the old family cemetery in Henry county, Ill.

Walter Hudson spent most of his life in Duluth, and received his education here. He had friends in all parts of the city. In 1900, he left Duluth and went West, settling down in Oregon. At the time of his death he owned a profitable ranch near Halfway, Baker county, Or.

HIT BY ENGINE AND IS KILLED

I. Mekhuk Fatally Injured on Wisconsin Central Work.

Shortly before 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, I. Mekhuk was fatally injured by being struck by a dinky engine on the Wisconsin Central work at Tenth avenue west. He was taken to St. Mary's hospital, and died there at 6 o'clock.

A charge of dynamite was about to be exploded, and in running to a place of safety, Mekhuk stepped directly in front of the little locomotive, which was going at a high rate of speed. The man was thrown several feet, and besides a fractured skull suffered internal injuries.

The ambulance was called, and Mekhuk, who lives at 411 West Michigan street, was rushed to the hospital, but his injuries were so serious that physicians could do nothing for him.

MEET TO FURTHER FOREIGN MISSIONS.

New York, Oct. 13.—Lacking only one year of being the centennial convention, the annual meeting of the board of commissioners for foreign missions which began in Brooklyn today will be distinguished by what promises to be a record attendance. Delegates to take part in the four-day deliberations have come from the furthermost ends of the earth and many are the countries which will be represented by American missionaries and native clergymen in the notable gathering. The ways and means of keeping the churches of America interested in their foreign work and the results of the work achieved under the direction of the board of foreign missions will be expounded and discussed and new plans will be laid for the new year. Reports presented at the meeting will include those of Secretary Cornelius H. Patton on "The Year at Home," and Secretary James L. Barton on "The Year Abroad." Tomorrow representatives of North China and Foochow missions will report on their work and the work in Japan will be discussed by ministers from various missionary fields. The Rev. George Washburn, formerly president of Robert college, Constantinople, will speak on the "Significance of the Turkish Revolution." "Christian leadership is the making of Nations," will be discussed by President Charles Thwing of the Western Reserve university, President Howard S. Bliss of the Syrian Protestant college at Beirut, Syria, and Rev. S. Parkes Cadman of Brooklyn.

JACOBSON AND HIS PASSES.

The fact that J. F. Jacobson rode on free railroad passes two years when he was campaigning against Governor Johnson is not a trifling matter, to be leniently overlooked on the ground that others were then using passes because the law had not yet made their use a crime. In this particular case the act is highly significant because it throws a light on a tremendous change that has taken place in Jacobson between the days of his loud-voiced attacks upon the corporate interests and the days of his candidacy for governor upon a nomination procured by these very interests, and upon a platform designed by them.

Others who used passes until the law put them out of fashion were franker about it than Jacobson. They had no use used them, whenever they got the chance, and would be using them yet if they were obtainable. "Maybe passes are wrong," they said, "but as long as they are going we might as well get the benefit of them."

But it was different with Jacobson. In the legislature, as a fiery opponent of the railroads and other large interests, he condemned the use of passes, and boasted that he used none himself. He condemned them on principle, and he condemned those who used them on suspicion.

In 1904, when the state had hardly ceased ringing with the shrill clamor of his demagogic appeals to prejudice and sectionalism, he was found riding on free passes—caught "with the goods on." He has never denied the charge, and he never will; the proof is too positive.

Here we have a man who made much of his pharisaical boast that he would not ride on passes, yet who rides on them just a little while after his boasts have been made. Either he did not mean it when he attacked them, or he has changed in his views. Yet he says he "stands upon his record." Was he standing upon his record as an opponent of free passes when he used free passes two years ago?

The discovery of Jacobson's passes, "Omaha 5,804" and the rest, is peculiarly significant because the incident was followed by a change in Jacobson still greater than that evidenced by his backsliding on the pass question.

In 1902 Jacobson was a candidate for state auditor, and he claims that he was defeated by the "interests."

In 1904 he was a candidate for governor, and he lost the Republican nomination, he asserts, through the opposition of the "interests."

In 1906 he is found to be riding on free railroad passes, the use of which by others he had always condemned.

In 1908 he receives and accepts a nomination for governor dictated by the very "interests" which he charges with his previous defeats, and today he is running for the governorship on a platform drafted by those interests, in which there is not a word touching upon any of the vital issues that have absorbed public attention in late years. In his speeches, too, there is a singular lack of vigor upon these subjects, a timidity that contrasts strangely with his attitude before he took to using passes. Evidently, contemplating the "interests" and their favors, he "first endured, then pitied, then embraced." Are Omaha pass No. 5,804 and the rest the first visible symptoms of his strange conversion?

THE DEPOSIT GUARANTY ISSUE.

The Herald has frequently expressed its regret that the bank deposit guaranty plan was made a political issue. It never should have been an issue, but Mr. Bryan took it up in good faith, the Democratic party put it in its platform in good faith, and naturally, according to the rules of the partisan game, the Republicans felt it necessary to oppose it. The Republican convention had failed to incorporate it in its platform—had, in fact, specifically rejected it—and Mr. Taft and other Republican leaders told the people that it was a very bad and very socialistic thing.

There are evidences now, however, that the Republicans have become aware that they made a mistake; and nobody is sorrier that it is a campaign issue than they are—some of them, at least. While the East does not seem to care so much about it, the West, which had to pay for the East's financial spree when the banks all closed down last fall, is very much taken up with it. The rank and file of the Republicans in the West favor it quite as much as do the rank and file of the Democrats. Several western states, indeed, forced it into Republican state platforms.

And now the Republicans would like to get out of the mess they got themselves into. They are trying to explain that it isn't a campaign issue at all, and that it ought to be taken up for discussion "after election."

What has come about through the influence of this issue is shown by the following statement by Raymond Patterson, the chief political writer of the stalwart Chicago Tribune: "Judging from the personal letters which reach me the question of the insurance of bank deposits comes nearer to being a general issue than anything else which has been broached during the campaign." Issues have not been as well defined as usual in this campaign, but if there is any central issue it is this of bank deposits. And upon that issue the Democrats have a vast advantage over the Republicans, because while the Republican leaders are either silent or on record against it, the Democratic platform has declared for the plan, and the Democratic leaders, from Bryan down, are positive in its support.

The attempt to show that it is not an issue, while it is practically the only recourse for the Republicans, comes too late in the day. It is an issue, and the fortunes of war have given the Democrats the better of the situation. Mr. Patterson attempts to get his party out of its bad mess thus: "The truth is the question of insurance of bank deposits is an economic issue which really has no place in politics at all. If it is a good thing there is no reason why both parties should not be in favor of it, and if it is a bad thing wise men who have the interests of the people at heart ought to discuss the question without the slightest regard to whether it has been declared for by a Democratic national convention or by a Republican state combination." The trouble is that though it is unfortunate that it became a party issue, it is a party issue, and the Republican position on it will cost that party thousands of votes.

HOW OPINION IS "MATURED."

Says the St. Paul Pioneer Press, under the heading "Raw vs. Matured Opinion": "The Duluth Herald finds support for Mr. Bryan's course, in championing the deposit guaranty scheme, in the fact that in the earlier stages of the discussion the scheme found favor with many Republicans, among them Senator Nelson and, it might be added, the Pioneer Press. But the difference between these and Mr. Bryan is that when discussion had revealed all the probable bearings of the plan on the interests of the business community and the people at large, and when it was seen that its adoption would be essentially harmful, Republicans almost unanimously abandoned it as a fallacy."

In other words, to borrow from the caption of this disingenuous editorial in the Pioneer Press, when Senator Nelson and the Pioneer Press advocated the deposit guaranty plan their opinions were "raw" and now they are "matured." How did they become matured? It is very simple. Before Bryan and the Democratic party took the plan up and the Republican party rejected it, Senator Nelson and the Pioneer Press were for it, very positively for it. After it became Democratic doctrine the Pioneer Press ceased being for it. Its opinion became "matured" in the crucible of blind partisanship.

But we have never heard that Senator Nelson has "matured" his opinion. If he has repudiated the deposit guaranty plan we haven't heard of it. If he has in any utterance, public or private, taken back the vigorous arguments he made for the plan in congress last winter the fact has not come to our ears.

This naive contribution from the Pioneer Press to the humors of the campaign is unintentionally luminous as to the effect of partisan expediency upon individual judgment. Blind partisans should not form judgments upon anything until they know what their party is going to do; then they will not have to "mature" those judgments in a manner so humiliating as this.

THE LAKE SHIPPING SEASON.

The season of 1908 will go down in history, in all probability, as one of the very leanest seasons in the history of the Great Lakes marine. There may have been leaner years in the infancy of the lake trade, even relatively; but in no year since the lake traffic grew into noticeable size has there been such a falling off in business and earnings, except perhaps in 1893.

Comparisons are difficult, of course, because there are now so many vessels in commission than there ever were before, and the capacity of these vessels is so much greater on the average, that a lean year now would have been a very fat year fifteen years ago.

Says the Cleveland Plain Dealer: "Ore may be considered the backbone of the trade. Coal and grain are important, contributing no small part to the general prosperity of the industry; yet the fact remains that the transportation of the raw product of iron and steel constitutes the bulk and the groundwork for the shipping business. Last year's statistics show that up to Oct. 1 the ore fleet carried 30,559,206 tons; the corresponding figures for 1908 are 16,630,960 tons. The general belief is that the remainder of the season will see the total ore shipments raised to 24,000,000 or 25,000,000. Shipments after Oct. 1 last year raised the total for the season to 41,288,753. Taking the maximum estimate for the total this season, the shipments will be more than 17,000,000 tons lower than one year ago, or a cut of more than one-third in last year's total.

"This has meant many idle men and idle ships. It has meant the laying down of fewer vessels for future delivery; cuts in dividends for both carriers and builders. Last year at this time practically every berth in the yards of the builders was occupied, and every ship that it was possible to get ready for the next season had already been contracted for. The situation at the present time is strikingly in contrast. Few vessels are under contract for 1909 delivery, and the prospects in this direction are not bright. There is nothing discouraging in this; it is rather a proof that the great shipping industry was not immune from the disease that struck all lines of activity last fall. The lake carrying trade is too closely connected with national progress not to recover and advance to new records of achievement as soon as general industrial conditions have improved."

General industrial conditions have already improved, and are slowly on the mend; progress will be more rapid after the election doubt is removed from the situation. In the meantime, the great crops of grain that are being shipped will help not a little to lessen the adverse margin between profit and loss, though of course rates are low because of the surplus of tonnage in the market. By next year it is likely that general conditions will have so far improved as to restore the lake trade to normal proportions; and those who contemplate building new boats would have done well if they had done the work under the favorable conditions that have existed this summer.

THE NEWS TRIBUNE AND JACOBSON.

Is the Duluth News Tribune for Jacobson, or is it merely a petty, envious and malicious enemy of Johnson, dealing in pinchbeck deceits in order to befool and mislead the public?

If it is merely an enemy of Governor Johnson, that is nothing new. It is the only newspaper in Minnesota that has never been able to sink the individual in the office and to concede a single tribute to the governor of Minnesota who has brought such honorable fame to his state.

But if it is for Jacobson, that is something very new indeed, something very interesting and very novel. When Jacobson in the legislature was kindling the flames of prejudice against this section of the state that have done Duluth and St. Louis county so much harm, the News Tribune used to speak its mind about it. Now, on the face of things at least, it is supposed to be supporting Jacobson for governor, though it does not say so in so many words nor does it give any reason why anybody should support him.

The Herald has repeatedly asked the morning paper to furnish the voters with a single reason why Jacobson should receive a single vote in Northern Minnesota. If there is any such reason, why the News Tribune's ominous silence about it?

HOTEL GOSSIP.

Behold the picture of Uncle Joe Cannon hustling to be returned to congress. Behold the autocratic czar of the house of representatives doing the political handshake and the welcome smile with a thoroughness that is overlooking no votes in the Danville, Ill., congressional district. Veering political opinion has Uncle Joe on the uneasy seat.

J. W. McCrea of Danville, Ill., was at the Spalding yesterday. He was asked about the race Mr. Cannon is making to be returned to congress, and replied that at the present time there existed a great deal of doubt as to whether Mr. Cannon would be a member of the next house.

"You see," began Mr. McCrea, "the resentment that has sprung up all over the country against the procedure of the last house and against Mr. Cannon in particular has had its influence in Danville as well as in other sections of the country. You know that several prominent gentlemen have been down our way to plead for Uncle Joe. Nicholas Longworth and Vice Presidential Candidate Sherman were two of those who argued with us on the advisability of sending Mr. Cannon to congress. It is needless for me to state that their arguments were all on the side of Uncle Joe.

"That there is a determined fight against Mr. Cannon there can be no doubt. He has aroused the resentment of those opposed to the saloon by his action upon a house bill, and then, too, he has opposed the interest of some of the labor unions of his district. Mr. Gompers appeared in Danville this fall and advised the laboring men to vote against Mr. Cannon. How they will abide by the advice of Mr. Gompers is, of course, a matter that cannot be foreseen.

"However, the fact remains that Mr. Cannon is having the fight of his life to retain his seat in congress. He is working harder than the citizens of Danville have ever seen him work, yet many people in Danville predict his defeat. Personally, I don't believe that he will be defeated. I believe that he will be elected, for the honor of having one of its citizens speaker of the house of representatives is one that Danville is loath to give up. I believe that Mr. Cannon will be returned to the house of representatives, but with a greatly reduced majority, and that he will be greatly chastened by his narrow margin of victory.

Mr. Cannon will have many elements opposing his re-election. He will have many of the church people. He will have also many of the laboring people. But on the other hand he will have those voting for him who have through long years of habit learned to put their cross opposite the name of Joseph G. Cannon, and you know that political habit is a thing very difficult to break. Until we have a more thoroughly awakened political conscience in this country, I, for one, do not believe that many politicians will be defeated for their actual deeds of commission or of omission, but rather that it will be a condition that will cause their defeat."

Governor Cummins of Iowa held an impromptu reception in the lobby of the Spalding hotel last evening. The Iowa governor was escorted from the train to the hotel by the members of the reception committee and those anxious to meet the author of "the Iowa idea" crowded around him to shake his hand.

Mr. Cummins hasn't the beaming grin of Roosevelt nor the expansive presence of William J. Bryan, but he is one of the most courteous men in the world to meet. He gave all the time at his disposal to the people who thronged into the lobby to meet him, and when he was finally borne away by the members of the committee so that he might get the armory in time, he left the impression of a man who is sincere, gracious and courteous; a man who is of the people, who understands the American people and whose sympathy goes out toward mankind.

Mr. Marshall Farnum of the Mack-Leone players is a red-hot baseball fan. Mr. Farnum hails from Cleveland and he smiles with a smile that droops when the results of the pennant race in the American league are discussed. Mr. Farnum naturally pulled for Cleveland, as countless other fans in the Forest City did, and when the close finish is recalled he thinks like the poet:

"For of all sad words of tongue or pen—
The saddest are these—'It might have been.'"

"Heavenly" Houston.

Houston, Tex., Post: On this ecstatic, ethereal, elysian, epiphanous, exhilarating, equinoctial Sabbath morning, when the Lord and all his angels are with us in heavenly Houston—the City of Anthems—it is a sweetly solemn thought that we live in a land where autumn spreads upon the grave of our dimpled departed summer a wealth of flowers and a world of fragrant mint, instead of the dead leaves that carpet the tomb of the bony and musty old summer of marvelous Manhattan.

THE WEATHER.

Winter seems to have had a bad setback. The delightful fall winter is far removed from any hint of winter, even though the nights be delicioudly cool. The days are processions of calm delight. This morning it was clear and splendid. The weather man looks for continued warm weather tonight and tomorrow, with only a very slight possibility of rain.

Last night's lowest temperature was 48 degs., and yesterday's highest was 66 degs.

A year ago today it was clear and cool.

The sun rose this morning at 6:24 and sets tonight at 5:25, making 11 hours and 1 minute of sunlight.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "Warmer weather prevails over the eastern slopes of the Rocky mountains, upper lake region and the entire Northwest, due to the influence of a barometric depression central over Alberta. This disturbance has also caused light rains in Oregon, Washington and Western Montana. Rainy weather continues over Southern Florida attending a storm condition apparently central over the West Indies. Barometric pressures are highest over the North Atlantic states. Freezing weather prevails in Vermont. The skies may be somewhat threatening at times during tonight and Wednesday, as regards the Head of the Lakes, but there is only a very slight possibility of rain during that time."

Following were last night's lowest temperatures:

Upper Lakes—Brisk southerly winds tonight and Wdnesday; generally fair weather.

AS TO MR. JACOBSON.

Fairmont Sentinel: J. F. Jacobson is for the immigration bureau. The immigration department is a success. J. A. Johnson's vote made it possible for the state to have a commissioner of immigration who has created the department.

McIntosh Times: Candidate Jacobson has at last relieved the political tension by blandly declaring that he will take great pleasure in immediately signing a county-option bill should such a bill pass both branches of the legislature. We doubt if there are any who will question Jake's sincerity in this matter. Barring the pleasure, Billy Hamm himself would undoubtedly be willing to do the same thing under similar conditions.

Waverly Star: Poor Jacobson, candidate for defeat on the republican ticket, is riding that old "record" to death just as he rode on those railroad passes two years ago, after the state laws made such free rides prohibitory, but, as he secured the nomination by compromising with the interests it is no wonder that he accepted railroad passes in the last campaign and since that time has developed into a safe man for other "interests" than the people's or even for "interests" that conflict with the people's.

Anoka Free Press: Aside from the measures which R. C. Dunn has fathered, Jake Jacobson has absolutely no legislative record to hang out for public inspection in this or any other campaign. The "record" which Jacobson is parading as proof of his present fitness for the governorship is the record of R. C. Dunn as state auditor. When that "record" was made Jacobson was merely the blunderbuss which Bob Dunn loaded and fired at will.

Crookston Times: If space permitted we might cite numerous instances where Mr. Jacobson while a member of the legislature raised his voice to its highest pitch in opposition to development in this part of the state. Every representative from this territory can cite instances which disclose such opposition.

Albert Lea Standard: Every Republican paper and politician is yet mum about Jacobson's free passes of two years ago, which is in affect an admission that he used them. And he did, the proof is ready for anybody that asks for it. This being so, is it not scandalous? Does it not impeach the honesty of J. F. Jacobson and stigmatize him? Is he not unfit to pose as a candidate for governor? Is it not, in fact, discreditable to uphold and support him for the high and responsible office of governor? If the Republicans of the state were possessed of a realizing sense of the situation they would demand his withdrawal from that ticket and in pity save him and their party from the crushing condemnation and despicable doom that is awaiting them.

Hutchinson Leader: Think of sending Jake Jacobson down to Washington to preside over a convention of governors! Oh, Minnesota! What crimes are attempted in thy name!

Perham Enterprise: It is a matter of common knowledge that Bob Dunn engineered the deal with the interests whereby Attorney General Young was defeated and Jake Jacobson was nominated for governor. Consistent Republicans who bolted Dunn four years ago cannot now support Dunn's man, Jacobson.

Waverly Star: Some enthusiastic Jacobson men—too enthusiastic for the good of their party, are getting hot under the collar because Jake is not called upon to speak at Taft meetings and many other public rallies when men less prominent in party circles are thus honored. It is claimed that Jake is being slighted in many places in this manner and his friends demand an explanation.

Somewhat Mixed.

Washington Star: Lillian Braithwaite Hill, the noted writer of humorous advertisements, replied, at a banquet of haberdashers in St. Joseph, to an attack by a business rival on advertising humor.

"My friend," said Miss Hill, "says the public wants seriousness, not humor, in its 'ads.' But he contradicts himself horribly as he states his case. His facts seem to me as confused and as absurd as the obituary of his wife's death that a Milwaukee man sent to a Milwaukee editor I know.

"This obituary said:

"'Mine wife Gretchen is dead. If she had lived till next Friday she's been dead just two weeks yet. As a tree falls, so must it stand.'"

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1888.

•••Miss McFadden, a sister of Mrs. Getty, returned yesterday to her home in Ontario.

•••For some time a number of Duluth capitalists and heavy shippers have been figuring on the cost of a line of freight steamers to ply between Duluth and Lake Erie ports, and there is now but little doubt of a company being organized this winter. The vessels are to be fitted up especially for the package freight traffic. Duluth has not owned a steamship company since the early days before the panic of 1873, when the old Metropolis and Manistee were owned by J. B. Culver and other and run in the Duluth & South Shore trade. That enterprise, like a good many others of those premature times, ended rather disastrously, but conditions now are entirely different.

•••A complimentary benefit to Harry Barnett, manager of the People's theater, took place last night. After the entertainment, Mr. Barnett invited his friends to a banquet.

•••Ensign Cash & Williams have filed with the county clerk a petition for condemnation of forty-six lots in the center of Duluth for the Eastern Railway of Minnesota, the Lake Superior division of the great Manitoba system. The real estate wanted by the road lies between the present union depot at Sixth avenue west and the street car barn at Twelfth avenue west, and includes a width of one block the entire distance, being a strip 2,800 feet long and from 115 to 300 feet wide. Surface and elevated tracks will be built from this property to connect with the terminal road.

•••H. P. Mills, the pine land man interested with A. J. Whiteman, is sick with typhoid fever and was taken to St. Luke's hospital Saturday.

••• At about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon the main water pipe on West Third street leading to the reservoir broke, and the water poured onto Superior street at Seventh avenue, getting under the pavement and lifting the cedar blocks from the concrete for a distance of about a block and forming a miniature lake. The reservoir was emptied in a few minutes by the break in the pipe, which was caused by a blast in the new water trench.

•••Capt. A. A. Cox of the steam barge Thomas Adams has been in the city for two days and met many old friends. He had under his charge, George and Jerry Farwell, sons of the owner of the boat, and Messrs. Buskins and Hunt, all of Detroit.

Washington Star: "You have made some enemies, have you not?"

"Of course," answered Senator Sorghum. "If you haven't any enemies to start the argument, your friends won't have a chance to get up and holler about your noble qualities."

Chicago Tribune: "Women have suffered in a thousand ways."

"There's one way they haven't suffered."

"How is that?"

"In silence."

Chicago Tribune: "When shall I call again with this bill, Mr. Ardup?"

"I think, young man, as a concession to the conventionalities, you'd better not come any more till I have returned at least one of your calls."

Nashville American: "That man is a poet."

"Too bad."

"Yes."

"How did you discover it?"

"I didn't; he told me."

"Then perhaps he may get over it."

Public Ledger: Mr. Cannon was in an automobile merrily breaking the speed ordinance. "Mr. Speaker," called out a policeman, raising a warning hand. "Your motion is merely dilatory," said Cannon grimly, "and the chair declines to entertain it."

Louisville Courier-Journal: "I guess our romance is ended now."

"Why."

"Her folks have moved into the house that my folks vacated."

Catholic Standard and Times: "Of course," the British tourist was saying, "I understand that the winning party at your election is the one that gets out the most voters."

"Not at all," replied the native; "it's the party that puts in the most votes."

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: A girl would rather have soulful eyes than be able to see straight.

Most men try to be successful in life by the way they brush their hair.

Nobody ever thinks he ought to be as good as other people ought to be.

Most of the fun we get out of things is spending money on instead of making it out of them.

Either a man growls because his wife doesn't give him good meals or because she does and they cost him so much.

Government!

Mary Johnston in "Lewis Rand:" Government! What is the ideal government? It is a man of business, worthy and esteemed, administering his client's affairs with thoroughness, economy and honor. It is a wise judge holding the balances with a steadfast hand, sitting there clothed reverently, to judge uprightly and to do more. It is a skilled council, a picked band, an honorable legion, chosen of the multitude, to determine the line of march for advancing civilization; to make such laws as are according to reason and necessity, and to make none that are not. And to provide for the keeping of the law that is made.

The careful man of affairs, the upright judge, the honest maker of honest laws, must needs present an account for maintenance and for that expenditure which shall give offense neither to generosity nor to justice; and the account must be paid—yea, and ungrudgingly! Let us pay, then, each man according to his ability, the tax that is right and fitting; and let us, moreover, give due honor to the vanguard of the people. It is there that the great flag waves with all the blazonry of the race. But we want no substitute banner, no private ensign, no conqueror's flapping eagles!

Government! Honor the instrument by which we rule ourselves, but worship not a mechanical device, and call not a means an end! Admirable means, but oh, the sorry end! Therefore we'll have no usurping Praetorian, no judging sophist, no bailiff extravagant and unjust, no spendthrift squandering on idleness that which would pay just debts!

A ruler! There's no halo about a ruler's head. The people—the people are the sacred thing, for they are the seed whence the future is to spring. Willard Mack and Company Present New York Sensation at Lyceum.

"The real wife is the other fellow's."

"Be a pleasant rascal and the world is yours."

"Life has only been lived when it is thrown away."

Love only yourself; wear the softest garments; sip the sweetest wines; kiss the prettiest lips. It is a coward's bravery that turns away from wine, and the lips of woman."

"Her husband must be either a genius, or a commonplace man. Both are usually a failure. The commonplace man is so low down she is afraid some one will crawl in the window she has forgotten to lock. The genius is so high up; there are so many stairs; no elevator; very discouraging for a pretty woman. Her sphere is about the second floor.

"Devilgrams" they are—the epigrammatical, cynicisms of the creation of Ferenc Molnar, the brilliant Hungarian youth, whose work has been the sensation of New York for two months past.

Duluth got its first glympse of "The Devil" last evening at the Lyceum through the enterprise of Willard Mack, who generally succeeds in being up to date, whatever faults he may possess.

Mr. Mack presented the Fiske version of the play. The war in New York between Fiske and Savage, the rival theatrical managers, is a matter of history that is well known to Duluthians. The two managers discovered that the play was not protected in America by the copyright laws, and they promptly began rehearsals of two different versions of the play. They opened on the same night at two New York theaters. The Fiske devil was a pleasant rascal, a genial, smiling, cynical fellow, as portrayed by George Arliss. The Savage version as played by Edwin Stevens, made him more the santanic majesty. He was provided with a red lined cloak, and the supernatural was more strongly brought out than in the Fiske version.

On the whole, it would seem that the spirit of the play is better caught by the Fiske version, showing the devil as the genial, smiling, pleasant rascal in evening clothes. The play is best described as a psychological satire. The Savage version would make more of a tragedy of it. It was never intended for a tragedy, or even a so-called "problem" play.

It is a satire, pure and simple. The Devil of the Molnar play is the personification of the baser thoughts of mankind. He takes the delight of a mischievous boy in watching his schemes work out, and his smiling, "There you are," as his plan finally triumphs, is a little epitome of this genial, fascinating, and wholly delightful Devil. He is a Devil with a sense of humor, and the audience is willing to forgive him almost anything for that.

Mr. Mack, of course, assumes the role of the Devil, or "Dr. Miller," as he styles himself. The slightly upturned eyesbrows, and the effort he makes to have his shoulders appear narrow, are the only concessions he makes to the contentional idea of his satanic majesty. Mr. Mack's work is most meritorious. He has evidently made a study of the part, and has succeeded in thoroughly grasping the spirit of the author.

He has with him Henry Hicks, a young man of rather more than average ability, who plays the part of Janos, the artist, in a very acceptable manner. Two old members of the company, Jay Quigley and Marshall Farnum, are still with him. Mr. Quigley, who is a warm favorite in Duluth, ever since his appearance here in "The Middleman," is doing good work as Andras, the servant.

Miss Leone is back with the company, appearing as Madame Lazzlo, whom the Devil finally succeeds in having elope with the artist. Miss Leone appeared at her best last evening, and was given a most hearty reception when she appeared, as were all the other old members of the company.

The other members of the company are rather mediocre, but the roles assigned to them are not difficult.

The play has been splendidly mounted, and it is doubtful if any improvement could be made along this line.

"The Devil" is probably the most talked of play of the last decade, and Mr. Mack has given Duluth a first-class presentation of it, one that he has no cause to be ashamed of, and one that Duluth people need not hesitate to see. It will be repeatcd tonight and tomorrow with the usual Wednesday matinee.

LIVING PICTURES LEAD.

Bijou Bill Has Good Act for Head Liner This Week.

"Living Pictures" enacted by young women clad in snowy union suits or garments that closely resembled them have been familiar figures on the stage—at least the burlesque stage—for many years, but Prof. Patterson's living pictures are different—they are "done in bronze."

The professor and his gilded human art treasures are at the Bijou for the week and made a profoundly favorable impression upon that part of the city's population which squeezed into the popular vaudeville house at the two performances last evening.

There is nothing naughty about Patterson's gold-dust ladies so the etiquette sticklers need not fear fearful shocks if they attend. Nevertheless, the "art studies" are most interesting and furnish a good headline act for the week's bill.

Joe and Myra Dowling have the comedy sketch of the week and it is first class. "A Snap Shot" is the title and like most skits of the kind it is nothing but foolishness—this is palatable foolishness though.

Mallia and Bart, "The Baggage Smashers," give some lively reflections of real life and Smith and Brown—rather modest names for vaudevillians—do some classy dancing. Dolph and Susie Levine have an act called "Hypnotizing a Wife" and Isadore Silver, the boy vocalist, sings "Rainbow." There are moving pitcures, of course.

New City Ordinance Governing the Storage of Explosives.

Andrew Wilson Granted Saloon License in New Duluth.

WHAT THE COUNCIL DID.

Heard first reading of amendment to ordinance governing storage of powder within the city limits, which, if adopted, will compel removal of Dupont powder house on Pike Lake road.

Andrew Wilson, of New Duluth, was granted a saloon license, upon petition of seventy-four residents of the town.

Mayor Haven reported that the city had been served with summons and complaint in bond case of Linda M. Dunn against the city.

Directed city clerk to advertise for bids for new automobile patrol wagon.

Gave Public Question club permission to use council chambers Sunday afternoons.

Laid over for one week matter of purchase of site in the West end for police station, which will be made unnecessary by the automobile patrol.

A new ordinance governing the storage of powder within the city limits was given its first reading at the council meting last night. It provides that no person or corporation shall be allowed to keep gunpowder, dynamite or other explosives inside the city limits or within one mile beyond the city limits without a permit from the board of fire commissioners. No such permit shall be given for storage of explosives in quantities over 500 pounds.

As the Dupont powder houses near the Pike lake road are located within 400 or 500 feet of the city limits, the new ordinance will compel their removal to a point more distant from the city. Settlers in the neighborhood of the storage houses have been vigorously protesting against allowing the explosives to remain there, and delegations have appeared before the council at different times to offer their objections.

• • •

Andrew Wilson was granted a license to operate a saloon at 132 Commonwealth avenue, New Duluth. It was explained that there was only one saloon in New Duluth at the present time, and that the coming of the steel plant would increase the population of that part of the city sufficiently to warrant a second license being granted. A petition signed by seventy-four residents of the suburb, backing up Wilson's request, was presented. The man's former partner is said to have beaten him out of considerable money in a saloon deal, and the sympathy of the public seems to be with Wilson. The committee on police and license reported against the application. The vote stood nine to six.

• • •

The council was notified by Mayor Haven that he had been served with a summons and complaint in the case of Linda M. Dunn against the city, and that he had transmitted the same to the city attorney. The case has to do with the old bonds which either were lost or stolen in the final settlement of the Branch estate. The bonds are still outstanding, but the city refuses to redeem them until the rightful ownership is finally determined by the courts. There are several lawsuits pending against the city for payment of the bonds.

• • •

The Public Question club was granted permission to hold Sunday afternoon meetings in the council chambers without paying rental. The action of the library board in refusing the use of the public library for public meeting compelled the club to look elsewhere for quarters.

• • •

The council authorized the construction of a bridge across Amity creek, at a cost of $150.

• • •

The fact that buying an automobile patrol for the police department will make the construction of a police station in the West end unnecessary, also makes unnecessary the purchase of the site that had been selected for the station. The price to have been paid was $3,800. The matter was taken up last night, but was laid over for one week. The city hopes to be able to retire gracefully from the deal involving the purchase of the ground.

• • •

The advertising for bids on the automobile patrol wagon was authorized.

• • •

The city attorney reported that that part of the Salvation Army building at the corner of Seventeenth avenue west and Superior street which is used for religious purposes should be exempt from taxation.

• • •

The board of public works recommended that the council authorize the advertising of bids for the construction of a sanitary sewer and the removal of storm culverts between West Second street and St. Louis bay. The matter was referred to the committee on drains, sewers and sanitation. The board also asked authority to spend $150 for providing a heating plant for the aerial bridge car, and the matter was referred to the proper committee for a report.

• • •

The council approved the action of the board of public works in awarding the contract for the construction of an additional timber trestle at Seventy-Third avenue west and Grand avenue

• • •

The city engineer was requested to report on the condition of the aerial bridge, after making an investigation of the cause of recent numerous breakdowns.

• • •

Victor Grettum made an application for a saloon license in the old Mason flats at 321 West First street. The building has been changed into a hotel of fifty rooms, and the application was based upon this fact. The police and license committee will look into the matter and make a report to the council.

Why You Should Buy a Stewart Heater!

Here are some absolute facts concerning the Stewart Base Burners. Study the detail construction shown in the illustration and note the large hot air flue that extends the entire length of the stove. This flue is over five inches in diameter and you will notice that it is curved over the fire pot. This is a great economical feature found only in Stewart heaters. The cold air being taken in at the bottom of the heater is so intensely heated when it reaches the top that a match can be lighted by holding it twenty-four inches above the stove. No other heater will do this. The opening or collar of this hot air flue is seven inches in diameter—the largest on the market.

Cut Down Your Coal Bill

A Stewart Base Burning Heater will circulate every ounce of air entirely through the stove and into a room size 12x15 feet with a 12-foot ceiling in 50 minutes, so that you can readily see that by circulating this air through the stove in this time, it makes warm to a comfortable and even degree all parts of the room. Another important point, a Stewart heater will give one-fourth more heat with one-fourth less fuel that any other heater of equal size. These few facts explain why there are more Stewart stoves in use at the Head of the Lakes than all other makes combined.

IS "JAKE" A CITIZEN?

Republican Candidate's Eligibility for Office is Questioned.

Managers Declare Father Took Papers Under Name of Nelson.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 13.—The Journal says: State political circles were stirred today by a remarkable story coming from Madison, the home of J. F. Jacobson, Republican candidate for governor.

The Madison report raises a question as to whether Mr. Jacobson is a fully naturalized citizen, and hence eligible to the office. Both Republican and Democratic managers have known the story for some days, but apparently both have been sitting on the lid. Meanwhile it has spread from Madison over the state.

The Republican managers pronounce the story without foundation, saying they have absolute proof of Mr. Jacobson's citizenship. However, the question is being given further investigation. The facts now at hand are not fully conclusive, and some further search of the records will be made.

Facts in the Case.

Jacob F. Jacobson was born in Hjelmeland, Norway, in 1849. He came with his parents to America in 1857, and they settled in Fayette county, Iowa. The father, who went by the name of Jacob E. Fore, died in 1875. The present candidate for governor and his brothers had then moved to Minnesota. The sons had followed the Norwegian custom, taking the name of Jacobson from their father's first name.

Inquiry was made this summer at West Union, county seat of Fayette county, but the records do not show that Jacob E. Fore was ever naturalized. If he failed to do so, then it was necessary for his sons to take out papers. This Jacob F. Jacobson has never done.

Naturalized as Nelson.

It is claimed, however, that the elder Jacobson was naturalized under the name of Jacob Nelson in 1866. Lars F. Jacobson, a younger brother of the candidate, born in 1862, has made affidavit that the Jacob Nelson who took out papers in Fayette county in 1866, was their father.

This left the question whether the father completed the process of citizenship, or whether he only took out first papers, declaring his intention. Up to 1896 the first papers were all that was necessary in Minnesota, but in that year an amendment to the constitution was passed, which makes it necessary for a man to be a citizen of the United States, that is, fully naturalized, in order to vote or hold office. Mr. Jacobson was a member of the legislature then, but evidently considered himself a citizen in every way, for he continued to serve in the legislatures of 1897, 1899 and 1901, later serving on the state board of control. He has assured the committee that he is positive the law was fully complied with by his father, and that he is eligible in every way.

In case it is shown that the candidate could not serve if elected, the probable proceeding would be for him to withdraw from the ticket, and let the state committee select some one else to run for governor. The state ballots have been printed, and under the law "stickers" would have to be printed with the new candidate's name on, to be pasted over that of the man withdrawing.

There has been bad blood in the village of Madison, where Mr. Jacobson has some strong political enemies, and the story emanates from there. Public reference was made to it there recently, at the occasion of the big Jacobson mass meeting and barbecue. One of the speakers referred scathingly to persons circulating stories about a man who had lived in their community for thirty-five years, alleging that he is not a citizen of the United States.

Would Not Claim Office.

The story has come to the attention of the Democratic managers, but they have kept quiet about it. Frank A. Day, chairman of the Democratic committee, admitted today that he had heard the report, but said:

"We want nothing to do with it, and I would much rather you would say nothing about it. We are very confident of winning as matters stand now, and we don't want Mr. Jacobson or his supporters to have any excuse to make about the result of this election.

"I do not want anything to do with it, and if it is found to be true we will take no advantage of it. Governor Johnson will lay no claim to the office unless he receives a plurality of the votes at the coming election."

Chairman Brown Has Papers.

A. D. Brown, chairman of the Republican state committee, and also a resident of Madison, said today: "There is no question about Mr. Jacobson's citizenship. I had a letter from the First district inquiring about it, and wrote to H. L. Hayden, a lawyer, at Madison. He sent me the father's papers, and I have them in my desk. They are second papers."

"In what name are the papers?"

"The name given is Jacob F. Nelson. That is the name Mr. Jacobson's father went by. Over in Norway, I believe, the family name was Fore, but there were so many of them that they took different names when they came over here. We have an affidavit from Lars F. Jacobson, a brother, who declares that the Jacob F. Nelson mentioned in the papers was their father, and that Jacob F. Jacobson was 17 years old at the time his father became a citizen."

In spite of this statement there is question raised at Madison. It is declared that the family neighbors in Iowa knew them by the name of Fore, and that Nelson was never used. Further inquiry may be raised in Iowa.

Gustave Rakowsky, the engineer who made an examination of the aerial bridge last week and reported to the board of public works on its condition, says that if the suggestions contained in his report had been carried out, the structure would have been put in first class shape at an expense of $500. The bridge was put in operation again today, the broken cable having been put in condition for use.

TIGERS WIN THIRD GAME

Detroit Becomes Real Contender for World's Championship.

Changes in Lineup Benefits Pennant Winners of American League.

Chicago Oct. 13.—Detroit became a real contender for the world's baseball championship yesterday when it defeated Chicago in decisive fashion, 8 to 3.

Manager Jennings achieved this result with a change in his lineup. Downs was put on the bench and the efficient Schaefer, who is at home in almost any position, was shifted from third to second base. Coughlin occupying the third sack. This shake-up, however, cannot be said to have had any material effect in winning the game, for neither Schaefer nor Coughlin got a hit.

Counting the world's series of last year, yesterday's victory was the first Detroit has scored in eight contests for the highest place in the baseball world. Mullin, elected by Manager Jennings to pitch for Detroit, was steady throughout the game, holding Chicago to seven scattered hits and passing only one man. Pfeister's left-handed shoots, for the most part, failed to puzzle the Michigan batsmen. Besides issuing three passes, he was hit safely thirteen times, two of the cluster being doubles and six of them occurring in one inning. It was this inning, the sixth, which gave the game to Detroit.

The gray-clad Tigers, two runs behind Chicago when the inning opened, came across the plate in a procession. The crowd, with the exception of a minority from Detroit, which enjoyed the proceedings hugely, pleaded with vociferous unanimity for the replacement of Pfeister. Manager Chance, who failed to show any traces of embarrassment or displeasure at the way in which the Detroiters came up from behind and went ahead, smiled cheerfully and ignored the request.

Tyrus Cobb, idol of the Detroit enthusiasts, whose playing was a great disappointment a year ago, came into his own. He batted like the natural hitter he is and ran bases like a flash. His batting average for the day was .800. Out of five times up he hit safely four times. His stinging single to right in the first drove in O'Leary with the first run of the game. In the fourth he reached first base on a fielder's choice, but in the sixth he beat out his slow grounder, scoring McIntyre. In the eighth his sprinting ability enabled him to make a double of a hit which, with a less speedy man, would have been good for only one base. In the next inning he singled and then stole second and also pilfered third by a narrow margin. He had no opportunities in the field, to the great regret of his admirers in the stand. Others whose work contributed materially to the victory were O'Leary, Crawford and Rossman, each of whom made two hits, although Rossman and O'Leary were both charged with errors.

To Mullin, however, the greatest credit was awarded by the spectators. Even in the fourth inning, when all three of Chicago's runs were scored, he never faltered. His nerve remained steady, his arm strong and his control excellent. The only base on balls which he allowed was turned into a run by Chicago.

Despite the fact that the sunshine was bright yesterday and the temperature was higher than Sunday, only 14,543 paid admissions were registered, netting $22,767. Dawn did not find the usual line of eager would-be purchasers at the ticket windows. It was 8 o'clock before a single line formed; and when play began there were still vacant seats in the bleachers. These seats, however, would probably have been filled had it not been that many of the followers chose to occupy the temporary seats in the overflow ground behind the barriers in right center and left field.

GOOD FOOTBALL GAME.

Grand Rapids Downs Bemidji City Team in First Game.

Bemidji, Minn., Oct. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Outweighing their opponents thirty pounds to the man, and having the advantage of playing on home grounds, the Bemidji city football team met defeat at the hands of the Grand Rapids city team to the tune of 5 to 0.

The five middle line men of the Bemidji team averaged 208 pounds against an average of 168 on the Grand Rapids team. And at no time during the entire game was Bemidji able to make gains through the line and but in two instances around the ends. On the offense Grand Rapids was equally strong, and at different times succeeded in plowing through for four and five yards and at one time for ten yards and a touchdown. Within fifteen minutes of play Grand Rapids succeeded in recovering the ball on a punt on the 10-yard line, and in two tries Wallin broke through tackle for a touchdown, the only score of the game.

In the six years of football rivalry between the two teams the Bemidji men had never even scored on the Grand Rapids team, and this year they picked what they considered a winning team, and after two weeks' coaching by Shevlin, of Yale fame, thought they could win, and in fact were overconfident. The game was fast and furious, and but for a few scraps, was a good article of football. At no time during the game was Grand Rapids' goal in danger, all the playing being in Bemidji's territory.

Grand Rapids' right guard, Grinnell, had a rib broken in the last few minutes of play, and will be out of the game for some time. He played a star game, although being outweighed thirty-five pounds. Patterson, Grand Rapids' fast end, showed up in his usual form. Johnson, Hughes, Meyers and Fullback Wallin deserve great credit.

ST. CLOUD VS. CENTRALS

Hard Game on Tap for Duluth Saturday Afternoon.

The St. Cloud high school football team comes to Duluth Saturday.

It wasn't so very long ago that the team from Duluth went to St. Cloud and brought back the small end of the score. The Duluth team has, as a whole, usually succeeded in downing the team from the southern part of the state, but they are always the very best kind of rivals, always have a fast heavy team, and are always confident of winning. This year they think they have the best team in the history of the school and think that if they will ever be able to drag the Duluth warriors in the mire, it will be this year.

They are known as "good sports," and every year they bring many rooters with them, and plenty of orange and black ribbon. Aside from the fact that they are fast, little is known of the team here. They have played a number of games, and have not as yet been scored on this season.

Their team is made up very largely of veterans, but how good these veterans are the Duluth team will have to find out on the gridiron next Saturday afternoon.

The Duluth boys came out of the game with the Grand Rapids team in fine shape. Every one of the boys is in good condition except Cummings, who has a bad shoulder, and Crawford, who played in Saturday's game with a game ankle. It is expected that Helmer, who was kept out of the Grand Rapids contest on account of illness, will be back in the game by Saturday.

Coach Colton put the men through light signal practice last night, and some new plays were hammered down to a fine point. The way the line was broken up at times last Saturday has opened the eyes of both coaches to such an extent that much time will be put in this week drilling the line men.

From the showing made for the past two games it would seem that Colton has the fastest high school team that ever represented the city, and if the improvement continues they should make a clean sweep.

LOSE ANOTHER STAR PLAYER

Dave McFarlane Left Tackle, Leaves Team in a Bad Hole.

Gloom of the deepest, darkest kind again hangs over Central high school football team. John Quinn is out of the game, Helmer is still ill in bed at his home, and McFarlane has quit school.

With the hard game with St. Cloud only a few days away, and with many of the other men in bad condition, things indeed look gloomy. The students are making an effort to get McFarlane to change his mind, and reenter school, but it is said that the big fellow has accepted a position, and cannot be induced to give it up.

He is a strapping big fellow, knows the game, and was one of the hardest workers on the team. His loss is keenly felt.

"We have had lots of hard luck this year in almost every way, and from the very beginning of the season we have met with the hardest kind of discouragements," said Assistant Coach Furni this morning. "We expect, however, to go through the season, do the best we can, cancel no games, and we still have hopes of cleaning up the state."

TO PROMOTE OUTDOOR SPORTS

Stock Company May Buy and Improve West End Park.

An amusement company for the furtherance of sport of all kinds in Duluth may be formed by a number of Duluth men. Such interest was shown in the harness racing held at the Driving park some time ago that the promoters of that event are seriously thinking of buying over the property and turning it into a general athletic ground to be used for baseball, football, racing, and in fact, all outdoor sports.

Among thase who are interested in the project are P. D. McDonnell, Capt. James Sullivan, M. R. Elliott, J. R. Ronquist, T. C. Heimbaugh, W. J. Allen and many others. The matter has not been gone over thoroughly yet, and no definite plans have been made, but a price will be asked of Bert Wheeler, the present owner of the park, and if the terms are within reach, a meeting will be held, and the company launched.

Should the deal go through, the park will be remodeled, new fences built, new grounds laid out, grandstands erected, and in fact it would be made into a modern Athletic park.

Moose Lake Defeated.

Sandstone( Minn.( Oct. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The football season opened here Sunday, when the teams from Moose Lake and Sandstone met in a friendly contest. Sandstone won by the score of 38 to 0. The teams were evenly matched as to weight, but it was the first game for most of the Moose Lake boys, so that the Sandstone boys showed up to much better advantage. The day was fine and a large crowd was much pleased with the contest.

Next Saturday the strong team from the Duluth Business college will play here, and a much better game is expected. The team here is putting in nightly practice and expects to at least hold Duluth to a small score.

BRYAN DECLARES HUGHES LACKING AS TO REMEDIES

COOL TOWARD TAFT IN FORAKER AREA

Akron, Ohio, Oct. 12.—Seventeen Ohio towns heard and saw W. H. Taft yesterday. He talked from Cincinnati to Akron, through a portion of the state conceded to have been a Foraker stronghold, with a portion of the territory Democratic. While there was not the same vim and snap to the enthusiasm which he got in some portions of the West, he was listened to by large crowds, numbering thousands in many places, and what he said was well applauded and many cheers were proposed and executed with a will. The important speeches of the day were at Zanesville, Cambridge and Akron, where in each instance the candidte left the train to meet his audience. In his Zanesville speech Mr. Taft went after both Mr. Bryan and Mr. Gompers.

"Mr. Bryan goes around the country saying I am the father of injunctions," declared Mr. Taft. "It is not true. I did not invent injunctions or injunctions in labor disputes. But it is quite natural that Mr. Bryan should make the mistake because in a letter he wrote to the district attorney of Belmont, Ohio, he said he has not read my decisions."

'Governor Hughes of New York has been put forward as the champion of the Republican party to attack the Democratic remedy for trusts and the president seems to prefer the argument advanced by Mr. Hughes to the argument advanced by Mr. Taft. I can fairly assume therefore that the argument presented by Mr. Hughes is not only the strongest argument that has been presented, but the strongest argument that can be presented, because Mr. Roosevelt would not pit him against our platform if he were not the strongest opponent. He has been sent through the West to strengthen the Republican lines. I desire to remind you, in the first place, that Mr. Hughes represents the Eastern Republicans, not the Western Republicans. He was one of the candidates against Mr. Taft when Mr. Taft was being urged as the representative of the administration. Mr. Hughes' friends joined with the friends of Mr. Cannon, Mr. Knox and Mr. Fairbanks in the effort to prevent the nomination of Mr. Taft. It is only fair to assume therefore that Mr. Hughes is not a reformer in the sense in which that term is used by the Republicans of the West.

"As an evidence that Mr. Hughes is not in sympathy with Western reforms you will recall that he vetoed a 2-cent passenger rate bill and he did this in spite of the fact that a Republican legislature of New York passed the bill. The governors in the Western states signed this bill and we are now enjoying the benefits of the 2-cent fare. New York is more thickly settled than the Western states, and yet he gave the benefit of the doubt to the railroads in their contest with the people. I will not say that he did this because of contributions made to his campaign by Mr. Morgan, Depew, the Vanderbilts and one of the Goulds. It is not necessary to assume that these contributions had any effect upon his action. It is enough to know that he did not act upon this subject as Republican governors in the West acted and I care not what explanation his friends may make. If they say that he decided in favor of the railroads without any reference to the contributions made by the railroads, it simply shows that he looks at questions from the standpoint of the railroad rather than from the standpoint of the patrons. If he had signed the bill, the railroads could have protected themselves by recourse to the courst, but when he vetoed the bill, the people had no recourse.

No Interest in Correction.

"It is not strange that he should oppose the Democratic remedy on the trust question, for he has never shown any interest in the correction of the evils the trusts have brought upon the country. I will not say that this partiality for the trusts is due to the contributions made to his campaign fund by Carnegie, Schwab, Gates, Havemeyer, Duke and others. It is not necessary to assume that these contributions influenced him at all. It may be his natural disposition to take the side of the trust as against the people. His speech presents all the evidence necessary to convince him of lack of sympathy with the general public.

"Does he manifest any concern about the wrong done to the people by the trusts? Not the least. Has he any remedy? None whatever. With him it is a subject of amusement; it is really too funny for anything to think that anybody should try to do anything.

"If you will read his speech on this subject you will agree with me when I liken the situation to the case of a sick man, who is about to try a remedy proposed by a physician. Dr. Hughes comes and says:

"'What, are you going to take that remedy? why, that is ridiculous; that is absurd,' and then retires from the room laughing and leaving the patient without a remedy and without a suggestion. Now, if the patient is not really sick, that might be excusable; but what do you think about it? Is the patient sick or not? If the trusts are doing no harm, then, of course, no remedy is needed; if the trusts are doing harm, then why does not Dr. Hughes propose something?

"He takes the case of a patent, and says that our plan would interfere with patents. What is Mr. Hughes trying to do? Is he deceiving himself, or is he simply trying to deceive those who listen to him? Our anti-trust plank has nothing to do with patents. The patent is intended to be a monopoly, and our reference to patents in another part of the platform is sufficient proof that the convention had no intention of including the patent in the operation of an anti-trust law. I explained this some weeks ago, when the objection was first made, but the objection was so silly that I did not suppose that it would be made by any one with any sense of responsibility. Does Mr. Hughes really think that our anti-trust plank was intended to apply to a patent, or is he so hard pressed for arguments that he must use that argument anyhow? A patent grants a monopoly for a limited time, as a reward for an invention. The trusts that we are opposed to have not invented anything, and they acknowledge no limit as to time. The trust attempts to corner the market and this is not only against the statute law, but it is an offense against the common law, and an offense against morals, and Mr. Hughes cannot be so obtuse as not to understand the distinction between the trust that we are fighting and that which is protected by a patent.

Fifty Per Cent Limit.

"But let us take the 50 per cent limit which he regards as unscientific. "The plan which we propose will apply first to corporations, which have not yet reached the 50 per cent limit and to corporations which have already reached that limit. Corporations, which have not yet reached that limit, would simply stop expanding when the limit was reached, and that would entail no hardship upon them, it would not be difficult to apply it to corporations which have already passed the 50 per cent limit. Laws do not take effect immediately upon their passage. There is always a time between the date of enactment and the date when the law takes effect and a law involves a material change in conditions, a sufficient time is given for necessary re-adjustments. The first question to be decided is, how large a proportion of the entire product should one corporation be permitted to control? Mr. Hughes takes for illustration the case of a corporation which controls the entire production, and as he expresses no fear of such a corporation doing harm, we have a right to suppose that he has no objection to one corporation controlling all the product, but if I mistake not, the sentiment of the public, there is a very general objection of the part of the people to the principle of monopoly, and if a majority of the people object to a monopoly, they have a right to set a limit to the control which a corporation can exercise of the product it deals in. If the limit, which we fix of 50 per cent is too low, Mr. Hughes ought to suggest a higher limit, but when he suggests no limit whatever, we must assume that he does not regard the proportion controlled as at all material, and if he does not, then his opinion on the trust question ought not to have much weight with those who do believe that a private monopoly is indefensible and intolerable. If Mr. Hughes agrees with the trust magnate that a trust is a blessing, I need not discuss remedies with him at all because a blessing does not require a remedy. If he will admit that a private monopoly is bad, and present a remedy, I shall be glad to consider his remedy and compare it with ours."

THREE TRAINS WRECKED AT ONCE

New York Central Yard Scene of Triangular Accident.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 13.—Three trains were wrecked in the New York Central yard near the Black Rock station. A yard engine with a string of cars attached, a freight train coming into the city and Michigan Central passenger train No. 3, were in the mix-up, which hesulted in the fatal injury of John W. Kinney, engineer of the switch engine, who was caught between the tender and boiler. None of the passengers were hurt.

The switch engine and freight train collided at the junction of the Niagara Falls line, and a siding. Both engines were ditched and several freight cars piled upon them. Before a flagman could be sent back the Michigan Central passenger train came along on the Falls branch of the New York Central and chashed into the wreckage.

HUGHES REPLUNGES INTO HOME CAMPAIGN

Elmira, N. Y., Oct. 13.—Governor Hughes, who returned to New York yesterday after a strenuous Western tour, jumped into the political arena without taking a breathing spell. He reached New York city in the morning, took only time enough to get breakfast and register before he was on a train again. The afternoon found him making speeches to enthusiastic crowds at Oswego and Waverly and last night he spoke at the Lyceum theater here before an audience that packed the theater to the doors. Congressman Fassett, who presided, paid a notable tribute to the governor in introducing him. Governor Hughes was received wtih enthusiasm. He began by telling of his Western trip and paid a glowing tribute to Taft. Turning to state issues, he said that the real question before the people is whether their efforts that have been made to support the Constitution and to maintain the moral standards of the state, whether the efforts that have been made to give effective regulation to our large corporations, whether the efforts that have been made to give impartial administration, without taint of bossism or servitude to any private interest, will be rebuked by the people or supported by their verdict Nov. 3.

BEVERIDGE PUTS FOUR QUESTIONS TO MR. BRYAN

Salt Lake City, Oct. 13.—That if Bryan were elected his administration would be fought by a powerful element in his own party, was the principal argument made by Senator Albert J. Beveridge, in his address before an immense audience at the Salt Lake theater. He demanded that Mr. Bryan answer the following question:

"If you are elected, will the Democratic leader of the senate, Senator Culbertson, support your franchise plan for controlling the trusts?"

"Will Senators Rayner, Daniels and Bacon support or oppose this plank in your platform?"

"Are you willing that a public poll of Democratic senators shall be taken as to whether they will support or oppose you in your principal polices?"

"As a citizen, could any man be elected president whose administration was doomed in advance to dissension and failure by the practically unanimous opposition of his own party."

WU NEVER SPOKE TO WIFE BEFORE HE MARRIED HER

New York, Oct. 13.—Wu Ting Fang, the Chinese minister, told an audience in the First Church, in Newark, N. J., his experience in the Chinese custom of arranging marriages.

"I never talked to my wife," said he, "until I married her. Did I ever see her? I don't know. When I was engaged I was obstinate. Before the matters were finally settled I asked my parents to just let me have a peek at the girl.

"'Oh, no!' they said. 'You know the custom.' But I said: 'Can't I see her on the sly? She might be blind, might be tall, or very short, or a cripple.' After several days it was arranged for me to go to a certain house.

"I went, and for several hours sat at a window, when finally I saw three young ladies pass by. Then I was satisfied. I saw my prospective wife, but not clearly. I could not tell whether she was blind or dark or light. I didn't know her.

"I'm not unhappy in my marriage, although I never saw my wife before that day in the window."

Middies Must Resign.

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 13.—The naval authorities have called upon twenty-three midshipmen for their resignations. This announcement was made following a meeting of the academic board when it was found that fifteen members of the new fourth class had failed to pass the regular September mental examinations. There are already a number of vacancies of those who are now forced to resign and this will seriously reduce the membership of the brigade.

BIG MUSKEG IS MYSTERY

Huge Floating Bog in Red Lake Country Quite Marvel.

Survey Shows It Was Once Great Lake, Source of Rivers.

Thief River Falls, Minn., Oct. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—An interesting fact in connection with the geological survey of the Red Lake region in Northern Minnesota, now being made under the direction of Engineer Meade of Washington, relates to the "big muskeg" in northwestern Beltrami county and eastern Roseau.

This famous floating bog, containing hundreds of thousands of acres, has been known as long as men have visited this region, as an impassable barrier of moss and shrub covered mud and water, portions of which are lightly wooded, and other parts quite open water. It is disclosed by the survey that it was formerly a great lake and was connected to the present two Red Lakes by an arm extending southward; and, further, that all the rivers of that section, the Roseau, Moose, Mud, Rapid, and others, find their sources in this swamp.

All maps extant show that they rise in many widely separated localities, which is far from the truth. That even a federal system of drainage, as is contemplated as a result of the present survey, could remove a body of water of sufficient volume to give rise to the rivers mentioned above, all of which are more or less navigable, is questioned; in fact, its removal is not considered essential and has not been proposed in any plan of federal drainage yet projected. Quite the contrary will happen. This great reservoir will remain undisturbed and will be protected in its primeval condition just as all the river sources in this country soon will be.

Drain Rich Prairie.

But the great scope of rich prairie and lightly wooded soil that is watered by the outlets of the bog will be drained and made available for future generations of agriculturists. Another fact disclosed by the surveyors is that this region will furnish the only large, secluded, impenetrable fastness in the Northwest into which the large game, such as moose, deer, caribou and bear will resort and find secure homes, safe from molestation and pursuit. The woods east of this section are rapidly being depleted or totaly removed, and the game is forced to seek other quarters and are soon learning where it can find safety. Numerous herds of caribou have entered this territory within the past two years, coming, strange to say, from the north. The moose, which now frequents it in such large numbers, will ever thrive in such environment, as the conditions there are strictly to its liking. Neither can fire ever destroy the brush and woods, and hunters can hardly enter the dense thickets and safely pass over the treacherous soft spots. These conditons make it an ideal game preserve, to which use it should be reserved and dedicated at an early date by proper authority.

GUARANTY PLANK IS VOTE GETTER

Many Republican Farmers Say They Are Going to Support Bryan.

St. Cloud, Minn., Oct. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—An enthusiastic meeting of the Bryan-Johnson-Gilkinson club was held Friday evening at Democratic headquarters. There was a good attendance and much interest in the work of the club is being manifested.

Encouraging reports were made as to the political sentiment expressed throughout Stearns and Benton counties. Farmers who have always voted the Republican ticket are saying that this year they are going to vote for Bryan.

The so-called gold Democrats of Stearns county are also back in line. The fact that all the former members of Grover Cleveland's cabinet are supporting Mr. Bryan, has had much to do with this change of sentiment.

As the campaign progresses it is noticeable that the plank of the Democratic party favoring a national law guaranteeing bank deposits is receiving more attention from the farmers of the country, than any other issue. Such a law is strongly favored by the working people also, and they are talking it very strongly.

The club is arranging for addresses by local speakers at the regular meetings on Tuesday and Friday evenings.

Governor Johnson will speak at Little Falls on Saturday of this week. His date in St. Cloud has not yet been definitely settled, but it is likely that he will be here the week of Oct. 19.

FATALLY SHOT BY BROTHER-IN-LAW

Ben Payne is Killed While Hunting Ducks on Blackduck Lake.

Blackduck, Minn., Oct. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—While hunting ducks on Blackduck lake early Sunday, Ben Payne was accidently shot in the back of the head and instantly killed, the fatal shot having ben fired by Payne's brother-in-law, who was shooting at a flock of ducks.

Payne and his brother-in-law had gone out to the south shore of Blackduck lake, about four miles from the village of Blackduck, before daylight, for the purpose of getting some early shooting.

The morning was foggy and not much could be seen on the lake for any distance. While Payne was standing in the front of the boat with his companion pushing the boat from behind, a flock of ducks arose from the rushes, a short distance away.

Payne fired at the ducks and his companion grabbed his gun with the intention of also shooting at the flock. After Payne had shot at the ducks his brother-in-law started to shoot from the other side of the boat, and changing his mind, swerved his gun to shoot on the other side. As the weapon got into range with Payne's head the gun was in some manner discharged, the entire contents striking Payne in the back of the head. Payne fell to the bottom of the boat and dying without a struggle, the big charge of shot having blown a big hole in his head.

The other occupant of the boat yelled lustily for help and a man named Hines came with a boat and towed the boat with its dead and living occupants to the shore, from which place Payne was taken to his home, a half a mile south of the lake. Payne's body was subsequently removed to the undertaking rooms of James Reed of this city, and Coroner Marcum was notified of the accident. Cononer Lahr after viewing the body and hearing the testimony of Payne's brother-in-law as to how the accident occurred, decided that an inquest was unnecessary.

The body of Payne will be buried in Blackduck cemetery today after funeral services in this village.

Payne is survived by a wife and two children and had been living at his present home, south of Blackduck lake, for a litle more than a year past. He was employed in cutting timber for Kaye & Carter at a point near his home.

SOCIALISTS ARE BARRED FROM OFFICIAL BALLOT.

Bismarck, N. D., Oct. 13.—Secretary of State Blaisdell has refused to certify the Socialist state ticket on the official ballot to be voted at the fall election on the ground that the Socialists did not nominate a party ticket in accordance with the primary law. Arthur Lezur of Minot has appealed to the supreme court for a writ to compel the secretary to certify the ticket on the ground that a party ticket can be nominated under the previsions of section 501 of the state code, which the attorney holds has not been repealed by the primary law. The court has not yet taken action.

TWO LITTLE ONES FATALLY BURNED

Children of North Dakota Farmer Are Burned to Death.

Balfour, N. D., Oct. 13.—The home of Edward Ives, a well-to-do farmer, living two miles from here was burned two days ago and two children, aged 2 and 3 years, perished. The house and all its contents were destroyed.

About a quarter of a mile from the house was seevral piles of potatoes and a neighbor's cows were making for them. Mrs. Ives stood the children by the window and told them to stay there and watch her drive the cows away. The cows kept coming back on her, keeping her extremely busy, when a passing farmer saw the fire and the older child looking out of the window. The child was pulled out and its clothing nearly all burned off. Its condition was such that the baby was not thought of for the time being, and it is doubtful if human aid was in time to save it as it was lying on the bed.

The wind was blowing a gale. A Russian laborer was watering stock at the barn near the house and did not see the fire until the structure was enveloped in flames. He then ran around the barn shouting over the loss of a shot gun which was in the doomed building

KILLS HERSELF IN SAME MANNER AS HUSBAND.

Dallas, S. D., Oct. 13.—By shooting her head off with a shotgun, on her Rosebud farm, Mrs. Louisa Habeger, aged 54 years, widow of a Gregory county claim winner who committed suicide in a similar manner two years ago, ended a dual Rosebud tragedy. She placed the muzzle of a shotgun in her mouth, sprung the trigger with a stick and literally blew off her head.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Badger—A large force of men were here all last week clearing up and smoothing the right of way through town. Everything is now ready for the steel, except the bridge which has not yet been built.

International Falls—The railroad company is building a water tank at this point which in size and arrangement indicates that they are expecting to do a much greater volume of business later then they are doing now. It has a capacity of 48,000 gallons, and is what is known as the regular terminal tank.

St. Paul—J. W. Miller of St. Paul, who built the new postoffice building in Stillwater, has been awarded the contract to erect the new government building at Chippewa Falls, Wis., being the lowest bidder at $66,595.

Moorhead—James Kelley is not a successful burglar, and as the result of his burglarizing work at Winnipeg Junction on Thursday evening he now lies in the county jail awaiting the action of the grand jury.

Little Falls—A prairie fire was started in the meadows about six miles southeast of the city Thursday and caused considerable damage. A large number of stacks of hay were left on the meadows to be hauled this winter and some of these were eaten by the flames before the owners had time to plow around the stacks to check the advance of the fire.

Waseca—Fourteen new dwelling houses are in progress of construction in this city. The Leuthold Brothers are erecting a magnificent store building, 96x40 feet, and modern in every respect. The $10,000 sewerage system is being pushed rapidly to completion.

Akeley—The Bachelor Girl' club was organized at the home of Miss Hazel Bean on Thursday evening. Those present were the Misses Ida and Louise Le Gault, Elna and Glenna Nalsen, Ruby Giles, Nettie Allen, Maude and Mae Coons and Hazel Bean.

Aitkin—The Right Rev. James McGolrick, bishop of the diocese of Duluth, administered the sacrament of confirmation to a class of about 100 applicants on Sunday.

Le Sueur—Miss Mary Osborne of Lake Prairie is visiting relatives in Duluth, having left for that city last week.

Aitkin—Elmer E. Westcott of Aberdeen, S. D., son of Mail Agent G. A. Westcott, has bought lot 5 in Searles' Garden Lots addition to Aitkin, and has moved onto the place with his family. He intends making some extensive improvements on the place in the near future.

Deer River—In four months, if calculations work out, according to the franchise granted by the village council, the village will be illuminated by electricity. The franchise runs for twenty years to the Everton Electric Light & Power company, of which W. A. Everton is manager.

Dilworth—William Harris, a car repairer for the Northern Pacific railroad here, was injured while at work Saturday. He was in a car helping to unload draw bars when he lost his footing and fell to the ground with great force. He was taken to the company's hospital.

Hastings—Mrs. Edward Kane and Mrs. Jane Walker, two of Hastings' old and highly esteemed residents, died here Sunday.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Fargo, N. D.—The management of the North Dakota Farmers' Institutes is planning a series of meetings for the winter season. The circuit will commence about Dec. 1.

Minto, N. D.—Alexander Kennedy of Minto, who arrived in the Red River valley with his parents in 1873, being one of the very earliest settlers, is dead, the funeral being held Thursday from St. Patrick's Catholic church here, Father Considine officiating.

Langdon, N. D.—George Sherwin, better known as "Mahogany," pleaded guilty to a charge of violating the prohibition law before Judge Templeton here, and was given a sentence of ninety days in jail, with an addition of a $200 fine.

Minot, N. D.—Mrs. Austin Regan of Fessenden, wife of Senator Regan, lost three diamond rings and one precious brooch here while attending the Federation of Women's Clubs convention.

Grand Forks, N. D.—The Young People's Society of the Zion Lutheran church have elected these officers: President, Arnold T. Berg; vice president, Miss Minnie Berg; secretary, Joseph Hultenq; treasurer, Walter Nelson.

Bismarck, N. D.—Contractor Hallum has been awarded the contract to build the foundations of the new Masonic temple on Third street between Broadway and Main street. Teams are already at work doing the excavating.

Grand Forks, N. D.—Dave Nelson, M. Jensen, Gus Westberg and Ted Ahlroth engaged in some duck hunting at Stump lake Sunday, being successful in landing thirty ducks.

Maxbass, N. D.—A disastrous fire occurred at E. E. Hazen's, four miles south of Maxbass, on Thursday night, which destroyed his barn and two granaries, together with all their contents, with the exception of his live stock.

Grand Forks, N. D.—The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Northern Dakota railway, to be held in Grand Forks Wednesday, will be a very important one, as at that time the directors for the coming year will be elected.

Brookings, S. D.—Congressman Philo Hall has secured the appointment of H. T. Davison of this city as assistant doorkeeper of the house of representatives, and Mr. Davison will take up his new duties Jan. 1.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Spooner—The North Wisconsin Cranberry company will set out 250 acres of swamp land between Dunn and Casey lakes to cranberries this fall. When planted this will be the largest single cranberry marsh in the world.

Phillips—The John F. Davis Lumber company has started up after a shutdown of eleven months. The mill has been thoroughly modernized to comply with changed conditions.

New Richmond—John Till, the plaster specialist, who has reopened his plaster shop at Almena, Barron county, has a rival. Octave Cloutier, Till's former manager at Somerset, at his farm retreat is putting on plasters, the genuine Till article, so he claims. But Till does not care.

Chippewa Falls—Edward Morrow, about to cross a railroad track, did not see the approach of a train. He was grabbed from behind by a woman and hurled backward. Hardly had this been done when the train whizzed by. The name of the woman could not be ascertained.

Boscobel—Mrs. Brooks, wife of the late Thomas J. Brooks of Boscobel, Wis., a leading lawyer in Southwestern Wisconsin, died suddenly in Chicago Sunday. Four children survive her.

Stevens Point—Joseph Miller, an old bank burglar, is under arrest here on a charge of alleged complicity in the bank robbery at Warrens last week. Miller, who also is known as Charles Clark and "Ohio Joe," had $337.55 in his pockets. Some of the bills were torn as if by an explosion.

Milwaukee—Mrs. Fannie Winons, aged 66, widow of Former Congressman John Winons of Janesville, died Sunday afternoon at the home of her only surviving son, Charles C. Russell, 500 Terrace avenue, this city. The funeral, which will be private, will be held Tuesday morning.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Chassell—Mrs. Thomas B. Madden, 59 years of age, died at her home here Friday morning after a short illness. She was the wife of Deputy Sheriff Madden, and though of Canadian birth, was for many years a resident of the Copper country. The funeral was held here Sunday.

Houghton—John E. Ferrby and Miss Leatha Ellen Echlin was united in marriage Saturday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. Echlin, Edwards street. The ceremony was performed in the presence of a large number of friends of the parties who are popular young people.

Hancock—At a meeting of the Laides' Aid society of the First M. E. church, held Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. J. Hoenbacher, for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. J. K. Brown; vice president, Mrs. N. W. Harris; secretary, Mrs. George H. Roberts; treasurer, Mrs. John Lees.

Houghton—County Treasurer Foley, Mart Haller and Otto Krellwitz returned Saturday from a hunting trip to Silver mountain. They brought in sixty-two partridge and a black bear. The bear was shot by Mr. Haller Wednesday.

Hancock—Rev. R. M. Scott, who was pastor of the Portage Lake Baptist church in this city for four years, and who has been doing evangelistic work since leaving Hancock, recently accepted a unanimous call to the pastorate of the First Baptist church at Grand Rapids, Mich.

Lake Linden—There will be a change in the date of the Lake Linden orchestra dance this week. Instead of being held on Wednesday night the regular evening, Manager Oliver Perreault announces that it will take place on Tuesday night.

Calumet—Cards have been received in South Range announcing the marriage of Pearl H. Rothle to Dwight Kumler Bailey at Crystal Falls on Oct. 8. Both parties are well known in the Copper country, the bride having been a teacher in the Trimountain school and was last year a member of the Calumet corps.

Marquette—The first of a series of traveling men's parties will be given next Saturday evening at Fraternity hall. Sullivan's orchestra has been engaged for the season, and the parties will be given at regular intervals of two weeks during the winter months.

Ishpeming—J. F. LaBreche, who left here over a year ago for Bismarck, N. D., accepting a position with the Northern Pacific Railway company, recently resigned, and is now cashier with the South Shore company at St. Ignace.

Negaunee—N. C. M. Hansen, formerly of Negaunee, who has been located at Hibbing, has engaged in the tailoring business on his own account in that city. Mr. Hanson is a son-in-law of E. B. Raymond.

Marquette—The Republican committee for Marquette county has secured Senator William Alden Smith for three meetings in this county the middle of the month, and he will address evening meetings in Marquette, Ishpeming and Negaunee.

GOV. CUMMINS EXPOUNDS REPUBLICAN DOCTRINES

Executive of Iowa Speaks Before Large Crowd at Armory.

Says Bryan is Honest, But Not Fit to be President.

Before an audience that literally packed the big armory, Governor A. B. Cummins of Iowa last night delivered a defense of the Republican party and a denunciation of some of the principles of the Democratic party. His eloquence held the big audience to the very end and at the conclusion of the speech the Iowa orator was greeted with a tremendous burst of spontaneous applause.

In turn the governor took up the party principles, the fitness of the candidates of the two great parties for the position which they seek; the records of the two parties and some of the issues that are paramount.

William J. Bryan was characterized as an honest man with a colossal vanity and an ever growing personal egotism that war making him an intolerable personage in our national life. William H. Taft was eulogized as a man big in body, brain and heart; a man of suberb courage and conspicuous ability—one of the most courageous and unswerving men that our public life has ever produced. The records of the two parties were compared, not so much in regard to their platforms, but rather on their stewardship and their records of progress and achievement.

GOVERNOR CUMMINS.

Governor Cummins terminated his address with a plea for the party and its candidates, both national and state.

He applauded to the political conscience of the voter, declaring that the man who voted as he thought right, even though he voted wrong, was much more desired than the voter who voted right, believing that he was wrong.

Dr. John J. Eklund was the presiding officer. Dr. Eklund in opening the meeting compared the two parties, calling the Republican party the party of progress. He referred to the rapid recovery of the country from the business depression under the administration of the Republican party, comparing this recovery of business stability to the protracted panic under the last administration of the Democratic party.

W. E. Culkin, chairman of the St. Louis Republican county committee, referred to Governor Johnson's mention of the "Balshazzar" banquet at West Duluth. The speaker stated that he was at the so-called feast, and that only coffee, tea and the simplest foods were served. He characterized the governor with deliberately going out of his way to misrepresent facts in this instance; charged him with casting odium on the city of Duluth by his statement, and further charged him with thereby seeking votes elsewhere by playing upon the prejudices against Duluth.

He referred to Jacob F. Jacobson as a rugged man, upon whose character there was no stain. "He is a magnificent man, honest and fearless," said the speaker, "and his public record is one that speaks for itself."

Governor Cummins was greeted with a wild demonstration that lasted for fully five minutes. Yells broke over the tumultuous waves of applause, and made the echoes ring throughout the big building.

"I have spoken almost continually for the past three weeks," began the governor. "My voice is very worn and tired, but under the inspiration of such a greeting, and such an audience, I am sure that it will speedily regain its normal strength. If I did not know that I was in Duluth, I would believe that I was in Iowa. In saying that you look like the men and women of Iowa I am paying you a very high compliment. Iowa, in my opinion, is the first state in this great Union, but I am quite ready to admit that Minnesota stands second. I know something of the cities and the towns to the north. I was in Duluth before Proctor Knott made it famous with his concentric circles. I came here first as an express messenger and my loyalty to your commercial progress is akin to your loyalty."

Upon the speakers platform were a number of veterans of the Civil war. Turning to these men Governor Cummins paid them an eloquent compliment. He referred to the little bronze button of the G. A. R. as the most noble and inspiring emblem a man could win. He compared it to the cross of the French Legion of honor; the iron cross of rigorous Germany and to the badge of valiant England. The speaker called it the patriotic decoration that rose and fell with the heart beats of the members of the G. A. R., Governor Cummins stated that the presence of members of the Grand Army of the Republic lent dignity to any meeting; that their presence suggested that the Union they had fought for was worthy of the best efforts of every American citizen. "Their presence is a perpetual benediction," said the speaker.

"The campaign is full of thrills," he continued, "I am not sure that I can add even a little thrill to it. The splendor of the political feast is bounteous. We have Debs and his red special; we have Hearst and his special, going over the country and dropping Standard Oil letters here and there, to the dismay of the Democrats and some members of the Republican party; we have Taft and Bryan in their specials, scurrying from ocean to ocean, shooting off political Roman candles until the heavens are lighted with political discussion. It was apathetic and tame until that strenuous American, that great leader, Theodore Roosevelt, sprinkled pepper and allspice upon our plain feast of bread and meat. The people have been jumping ever since."

Governor Cummins stated that the two great parties that were contending for supremacy, were more entitled to consideration than any member of either. He stated that the parties were greater than any member and the greatest attention should be paid to the records of the two parties. However, the governor said he would confine some of his time to the two men chosen as leaders, and began by paying an eloquent compliment to W. H. Taft.

"The Republicans chose a man big in body and brain and heart; a man comprehensive in his view, broad in experience and ripe in his judgment. Every duty that has confronted him has been performed with scrupulous fidelity and conspicuous ability. He is a man safe and sane in his judgment; a man who loves progress, who is flawless in his courage, he has a loyalty equaled in few men in our public life, a man that never wavers from the right path. Not in years has a more resolute, a more honest, a more courageous leader arisen than William H. Taft.

"He is a man who will go bravely forward in the path marked out by his brilliant predecessor, Theodore Roosevelt. He is in hearty sympathy with his policies. What he believes is right he will do. You can with supreme confidence entrust the power of the presidency to him."

A burst of applause greeted the eloquent eulogy of Candidate Taft.

Turning to Mr. Bryan, Governor Cummins said: "I have known Mr. Bryan for many years. I have always believed him an honest man, an upright man; a man of high moral character, and a man that is honest in his purpose. You will expect this truth from me. However, I think that Mr. Bryan is unfit to lead the people of this country. He is unfit to lead them in the financial, industrial and patriotic problems that confront this country.

"He believes that there is no way to help the poor except by hurting the rich. That is a great and dangerous fallacy. My heart beats in sympathy with the efforts to bring more happiness, more prosperity, more content to the lives of the common people, but it can't be accomplished by hurting the rich.

"He favored free silver because he thought it would cripple the rich and, therefore, help the poor. No greater mistake was ever made by a man, yet this man asks to be entrusted with the leadership of a great country. Free silver would have hurt the rich, but it would also have accomplished the ruin of the poor. With an instinctive reasoning common to the American people, the people of this country rejected the fallacy of free silver.

"Mr. Bryan has been so busy in this campaign saying so many things that his memory stops short of the policies of the campaign of 1896.

"In his trip around the world, Mr. Bryan viewed the railroad problem of Germany and other countries, and decided that government ownership of railroads would curtail the power of the rich and powerful. Such a protest against additional power on the part of the government arose that Mr. Bryan immediately forgot that he had ever proposed such a scheme. He was perfectly honest in this purpose. I cite these statements to show how utter wanting he is in the characteristics essential in a president.

"At the present time he has another policy. It is the guaranteeing of bank deposits. It sounds entrancing; it sounds just as helpful to this man of unparalleled imagination and meagerness of reflection, as did the free silver issue of 1896. When he runs again for president he will have forgotten all about the bank deposit policy. I venture to say that within four years it will have been forgotten as completely as is the policy of free silver.

"I admit that some plan of safeguarding bank deposits is necessary. But if it can't be attained in any other way than the plan proposed by the Democratic convention, it will never be attained with the consent of the American people. There is an objection that makes it impossible; that the solvent bank pays the debts of the insolvent bank. There is a prejudice in the heart of the American man against making an honest man pay the debts of a dishonest man. Under the Democratic plan the depositors will, after all, pay the debts of the insolvent bank. The government can make the security of the banks more certain by increasing the government security required by the banks. In this way the loss would fall upon the guilty parties.

"Mr. Bryan's vanity and egotism are becoming colossal. He paints such grand pictures that he not only deceives the people, but he also deceives himself. If he keeps on with his ceaseless eloquence he will shortly claim credit for the authorship of the Ten Commandments."

The speaker stated that Bryan could claim all the civic virtues if he pleased, but he had no right to accuse the Republican party with selfish motives. He then answered the question, "Shall the People Rule?" He pointed out that the American people had more sovereign power today than at any time in the history of the United States. He stated that in the Western states, under Republican rule, the people not only rule, but they also nominate directly. The right to nominate directly, Governor Cummins characterized, as the greatest political stride in our history.

He compared Iowa, with its 485,000 votes and 13 electoral votes, to Florida, with 35,000 votes; Alabama, with its 100,684 votes; Mississippi, with its 58,383 votes, and Texas with 234,008 votes, a total of 474,029 votes—11,000 less votes than the state of Iowa possesses, but with 53 electoral votes, which will be cast for William Jennings Bryan, and then turning to the audience, he asked if the "people ruled?"

He stated that Minnesota would cast 11 electoral votes for Taft, yet Florida and Louisiana, with 80,000 votes, would cast 14 votes for Bryan. He suggested that if the people of Minnesota were in doubt as to the people ruling, they should ask the reason of the Democratic party.

"The government of this country has become to be a business. You want the party in power that will best take care of the business that concerns the industrial welfare of this country. That is the great question that confronts you. It has become necessary to restrict and restrain the power of the corporations. They are necessary factors in our commercial life. The regulation of the corporations is the work of the future, as it has of the past decade. The day of individual enterprise is past; corporations have come as a demand of the times; come to stimulate our commerce and to stimulate our greatness. He who arises to denounce the corporations is not only a shallow thinker, but he is also an enemy to his country as well.

"We have found it necessary to regulate corporations. There are two kinds of corporations, the manufacturing and the transportation corporations. In the first you are interested in seeing that they don't exact more than a fair and reasonable price for the products they manufacture. Railroads are the servants of the people. They hold their power directly at the hands of the people. You are chiefly interested in seeing that they transport the men and women of the country at a fair and reasonable rate and that they transport the traffic of the country at a reasonable rate. This the government has attempted to do. The duties will become harder in the future than in the days of the past, when our national life was more simple. It is to your paramount interest to elect the party that will contribute most to your happiness and prosperity. You know the Republican party and its record. If no platform were announced, you would still know what the party stood for. You also know the record of the Democratic party. You know what it will do, if intrusted to power. I will stand by the Republican party because I know that it is the party that will give stability to our commerce and dignity to our flag."

Here Governor Cummins took up the opposite views of the trusts, as held by the two great parties. He stated that the Democratic party, as voiced by Mr. Bryan, has stated that it would destroy the trusts. The Republican party declared it would regulate the trust. He then asked how the trusts could be destroyed. He cited the United States Steel company as the most conspicuous example of a modern trust. He stated that it was capitalized at $1,400,000,000, half of which was watered.

He stated that the steel company now owned property valued at $1,000,000,000. He asked Mr. Bryan how this trust could be destroyed. He asked if its railroads would be destroyed, its mines flooded and its buildings burned? He stated that the steel company employed 200,000 men and asked what would become of them if the trusts were destroyed. He declared that when Mr. Bryan answered this question he would become the apostle of the Republican party.

Governor Cummins stated that Iowa, a Republican commonwealth has come the nearest to solving the question of how to deal with the trust, and suggested that the Democratic party come to this Republican state for advice upon the question.

He announced that the tariff was a necessity to protect our markets against foreign competition. He stated that he was of the opinion that some of the schedules of the Dingley tariff were too high, but that the Republican party had promised revision on this point. Both parties, he stated, had promised a tariff revision, so that the question before the people was, which of the two parties was the most qualified to be entrusted with this revision of the tariff? He denounced the Democratic party for its cry of tariff for revenue only, declaring it was one of the greatest fallacies of the age. He pointed to the example of England, losing its commerce and prosperity through its free trad epolicy.

The speaker declared that the buyer had the right to demand that the manufacturer sell his good at a fair American price. He stated that the Republican basis of tariff revision should then be the difference between the cost of production abroad and in this country, and that the tariff should serve as a protection to the American workmen as well as the capitalistic interests.

To remove the tariff would be to commit industrial and commercial suicide, according to the speaker.

Governor Cummins touched upon the injunction, asking how many in the audience, members of a union, had ever been enjoined because of that membership. He stated that the far greater question was the prosperity of the nation, the privilege of working for a living if a man wanted to work, and that was by far the greater issue before the laboring man, as well as the merchant and manufacturer.

The speaker closed his speech with an appeal to the conscience of the voter. He stated that the highest duty of the American citizen was to vote as he thought right. He then asked that not only the Republican principles be supported, but that the candidates both state and national be elected, thus enabling the continuance of the policies that have brought commercial prosperity to our country, honor to our name and greater dignity to the flag.

It's pretty hard to attend to duties
With a constantly aching back;
With annoying urinary disorders.
Doan's Kidney Pills make work easier.
They cure backache.
They cure every kidney ill.

J. E. Watts, living at 918 Tenth avenue, Duluth, Minn., says: "I have had no reason to change the opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills which I expressed in a testimonial given in 1898. At that time they cured me of a bad attack of backache and lameness, which made me stop work. I was unable to stoop, and the pain was severe just over the kidneys and through the loins. Plasters and other remedies I used brought me no radical benefit. Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended to me so strongly that I decided to try them. I soon found that they were just the remedy for my case. In a few days the pain left me, and the cure has been permanent."

PRISON DOOR AGAIN OPEN

Albert DuVal Sentenced to Stillwater for Two and a Half Years.

Changes Plea to Guilty of Forgery and is Sentenced.

Albert DuVal, who, on his arrest, was styled "King of Forgers," pleaded guilty in district court yesterday afternoon to one indictment charging forgery and was let down with a sentence of two years and six months in the state prison at Stillwater. DuVal's offense was an aggravated one, as there were three indictments against him, and the sentence was evidently very satisfactory to him. "Thank you very kindly," he said to Judge Cant as he was led away.

DuVal was released from the Wisconsin state prison at Waupun only last July, after havnig served two years for forgery. He came to Duluth and was arrested about the first of September. He had made deals for large purchases, including a race horse from Lawrence Duplais and carloads of beer from the Duluth Brewing & Malting company and the Duluth branch of the Minneapolis Brewing company, giving checks of $550 for the horse and $1,000 for each of the carloads of beer, which he ordered shipped to small towns in other parts of the state. He did not complete the deals, nor had he called for the horse when he was arrested.

His game was to gain the confidence of his victims by the large purchases and then receive cash on small checks. He succeeded in getting off a check for $3 on the Minneapolis Brewing company and $25 on the Duluth Brewing & Malting company. He forged the name of A. S. Stoeckle to the checks, which were on the Farmers' & Merchants' bank of Willmar, N. D.

DuVal told the court a hard luck story. He said he was willing to work when he left the penitentiary at Waupun, but he was unable to get anything to do and was forced to turn to forgery to gain money on which to live. Judge Cant said it was better to receive charity than to steal, and advised DuVal when he again left prison to give up preying on society.

DuVal also sought for leniency on the ground that while employed on the railroad as fireman he lost his foot in an accident and has a damage suit, which was to be rendered void by the statute of limitations if he were sent to prison for a very long period. Judge Cant said that would not be taken into consideration, as DuVal had deprived himself of his opportunity by the offense, for which he was sent to Waupun. He said, however, that there were some things in DuVal's favor and, despite the three indictments, the sentence would be made as light as it could consistently be made.

The statute fixes the penalty for forgery at from one to ten years.

JOHN LIND IS TO SPEAK HERE

Former Governor Will Close the Campaign in Duluth.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 13.—Former Governor John Lind, who is now out on the stump for the Democratic national committee in Wisconsin, will also make a tour of Illinois, speaking in support of the Democratic state and national tickets. He will also deliver a number of speeches in Minnesota, and it is stated that he will close the campaign in Duluth, on Nov. 1 or 2.

OLD PARTIES JOIN TO FIGHT PROHIBITION.

Houston, Tex., Oct. 13.—At a non-political meeting here, attended by delegates from every section of the state, including leaders of both the Democratic and Republican parties, an organization was perfected to combat the prohibition movement in Texas.

I Cured My Rupture

I Will Show You How To Cure Yours FREE!

I was practically helpless and bedridden for many years from a double rupture. I wore innumerable different kinds of trusses and appliances. Some of them were tortures, some positively dangerous, and none would hold the rupture in its proper place. The doctors told me I could not expect to have it entirely healed unless I would consent to a surgical operation. I fooled them all, however, and cured myself completely and permanently by a simple method which I discovered. Anyone can use it, and I will gladly send the cure free by mail to anyone who writes for it. Fill out the coupon below and mail it to me today. I will send the cure by return mail, postpaid.

CATALOGUE CITIZENS

Complete Religious Census of the City Will be Taken.

Card Index System to be Used in Church Work.

Duluth citizens are to be catalogued according to their religious principles.

The card index system has proved a success in the business world, and also in political campaigns, and church people argue that it might well be used in church work. Their argument has been proven by the success of the plan wherever it has been tried, and H. J. Heinze, he of the fifty-seven varieties, has contributed generously toward this work of securing a church census of the large cities of the country, believing that the church cannot do efficient work toward appealing to the non-church going people until it knows who they are.

The plan adopted is to take a complete census of a city, getting the name and address of every person. Each person is asked to give the name of the church of which he is a member, or if he is not a member the name of the denomination to which he would prefer to belong. If he isa non-believer the fact is noted.

This work is done by volunteers from the different churches of the city, working under an expert census taker. These cards are carefully classified, as each card is given to the pastor of the church to which the signer says he belongs or would prefer to belong. The cards signed by those who say they are not a member of any church are divided according to districts, and given to the pastor of the nearest church.

In this way the pastor of every church in the city is supplied with a valuable reference catalogue of all the persons in his district who belong to his church or have any inclination to do so. It is then up to the pastor to get in touch with these persons.

The work is absolutely non-sectarian, and it makes no difference to the census takers whether the man is a Jew or a Protestant or a Catholic.

The work in Duluth will be in charge of Hialah Cork, international superintendent of visitation of the American Sunday School association. Mr. Cork has had a wide experience in the work and has conducted such a census in several of the large cities of the country. Mr. Cork will be in Duluth on Friday evening, Oct. 23. He will be accompanied by W. J. Semelroth, general secretary of the Wisconsin Sunday School association and a member of the international committee on visitation, and by A. M. Locker, general secretary of the Minnesota Sunday School association. These three men will hold a conference at the Y. M. C. A. with the pastors and Sunday school superintendents of Duluth and make plans for taking the census. The work will be done on some afternoon in November. The exact date has not yet been set. There will also be a mass meeting of the church people of the city on Sunday, Oct. 25 at the Pilgrim Congregational church, to consider the plans.

It is planned to take the census in one afternoon. The work can all be done in a few hours, if enough workess are secured. The city will be divided into districts by Mr. Cork, and a house to house canvass will be made.

The plan is looked upon with much favor by Duluth church people.

Opposes Oil Trust Appeal.

Washington, Oct. 13.—A motion to dismiss the appeal of the Waters-Pierce Oil company of St. Louis from the decisions of the Texas state courts ousting that company from Texas was filed in the supreme court by Attorney General Davidson of Texas. The motion is based on the ground that there is no substantial federal question involved in the case, as the laws which the oil company is charged with violating are state statutes.

The National Flower.

The national flower of England is the rose; of Germany the cornflower; of Greece the violet; of Ireland the shamrock; of Scotland the thistle. The national and favorite beverage of America is golden grain belt beer—a pure, wholesome beverage that has all the food value of the richest barley together with all the tonic properties of the finest imported hops. It is kept as a regular supply in thousands of American homes. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Duluth branch, Minneapolis Brewing company.

HEPBURN AT 75 IS ENGAGED IN THE HOTTEST FIGHT OF HIS LIFE

Iowa Congressman Made to Hustle Hard to Hold His Place After Years of Public Life.

CONGRESSMAN HEPBURN.

Des Moines, Iowa, Oct. 13.—Col. William Peters Hepburn, member of the house from the Eighth Iowa district, chairman of the committee on interstate and foreign commerce, and one of the most conspicuous figures on the Republican side in the lower body of congress, has a large and variegated assortment of trouble on his hands, if it talked in both Republican and Democratic circles that Col. Hepburn may meet his Waterloo in this campaign.

A close struggle is now on in the district, and while Col. Hepburn in recent years has been elected by substantial pluralities, he is now hard pressed, and it is regarded here as certain that if he escapes actual defeat, he will at most find himself returned to congress by a narrow margin.

Until lately, it has been generally supposed that Col. Hepburn was safe. Now it is admitted by the Republican leaders here that the Eighth district is one of the weak spots of Iowa, so far as the congressional ticket is concerned. It may be expected that the struggle of Representative Hepburn to save himself from defeat will attract national notice for the reason that he is prominent because of his committee position in connection with all subjects of railroad and commerce legislation.

Factional Strife.

The dangerous position in which Col. Hepburn finds himself is in some degree an outgrowth of the protracted factional war that has raged for years in Iowa between the Cummins and the anti-Cummins forces or the progressives and the standpatters. One of the first results of the growth of the progressive movement was to force out of congress Col. David B. Henderson, former speaker of the house, long representative from the Third district. This was followed by the defeat at the polls two years ago of Maj. John F. Lacey, who had long represented the Sixth district in the house. Then came the retirement of Representative Cousins of the Fifth district, and Representative Birdsall of the Third district, both of whom, and particularly Cousins, were opposed by the progressives. In the primaries of the Seventh district a few months ago Representative Hull narrowly escaped being beaten, a large share of the progressives of the district turning against him. Now Col. Hepburn is in jeopardy.

Railroad Rate Champion.

About the time the fight began in congress for railroad rate legislation, Representative Hepburn was freely charged by his opponents in the district and in the state with being a railroad sympathizer. Iowa became a center of agitation for the government regulation of rates. The sentiment for such legislation grew strong in his district, and it was not long until Col. Hepburn became one of the active champions of railroad rate legislation and one of the closest advisers of the president on the subject. His course, however, has not served entirely to still the opposition of the radical Republicans. They feel that in most of the contests they have had in the state, Col. Hepburn has ranged himself on the side of the standpatters and has seldom overlooked an opportunity to down the Cummins movement. It is true that in the recent Allison-Cummins contest Col. Hepburn assumed practically a neutral attitude, but this has not served to remove the bitter feelings of a good many of the radical members of his party.

Has a Lively Foe.

The Democratic nominee for the house in the Eighth district is State Senator W. D. Jamieson, editor of the Shenandoah World, a young man of fair ability and much energy. Jamieson is making a careful canvass of the entire district, speaking in every county and township, as far as possible. Col. Hepburn is also on the stump, but he is now pressing hard on the age of 75 and is not able to go at his political foes in the hammer-and-tongs fashion that he did in his younger and hardier days.

LITTLE HEIRESS STOLEN; HAS $250,000 COMING

Chicago, Oct. 13.—In broad daylight, almost within sight of a police station, Margaret Frances Mitchell, 8 years old, an heiress to a fortune of $250,000, was kidnaped and the authorities have instituted a country-wide search.

While on the street with her grandmother the little girl was snatched by one of three men in an automobile and after the grandmother, Mrs. Caroline F. Mitchell, was knocked down, was taken away. Since then no trace of the child has been found, although the police are working on a clew that she was taken immediately out of the city, probably to Sparta, N. C.

The kidnaping is said to be the climax of a long prolonged struggle for the possession of the girl by her father and mother.

The grandmother was unable to fully identify any of the men, but she urged the police to search at Sparta, where it is said the mother recently resided.

DON'T SPIT; FINAL ANTI-CONSUMPTION ADVICE GIVEN

Washington, Oct. 13.—"Do not expectorate on the streets and do not allow others to do so."

With this injunction by Dr. John S. Fulton, secretary, the international congress on tuberculosis closed. The exposition has been in progress three weeks.

FOUR KANSAS ROADS FINED BY THE COURT.

Leavenworth, Kan., Oct. 13.—The cases of the government against four Kansas railroads, charged with violating the twenty-eight-hour stock law, came up in the United States district court here yesterday. There are cases in which indictments were returned against the railroad companies for hauling stock more than twenty-eight hours without taking the animals from the cars to feed and water them. The railroads pleaded guilty. The Atchison, Topeka & Sante Fe were fined $700 on three counts, the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific $6,850 on fifty-nine counts, the Missouri Pacific $600 on four counts, and the St. Louis & San Francisco $1,200 on eleven counts.

AN ACTRESS AND AN AUTOMOBILE

Edna Wallace Hopper to be Quizzed Concerning Gift.

New York, Oct. 13.—Edna Wallace Hopper, of comic opera fame, will be a star tomorrow in a production by Receiver Charles E. Littlefield of the defunct firm of A. O. Brown & company, which might be termed "The Auto and the Actress."

Receiver Littlefield, prying into the affairs of the Wall street brokerage firm which recently failed, put A. O. Brown on the stand to find out how he came to give Edna Wallace Hopper a $7,000 automobile. He declared that he had given it to her four months previous to the failure of the firm. This being so, the creditors could not seize it as an asset.

D. P. Hayes, the receiver's counsel, is apparently not satisfied, for he issued a subpoena for the actress to appear at the continued hearing.

It is evidently the purpose of the receiver to establish that the automobile and life insurance policy on the life of Mr. Brown found their way into the possession of Miss Hopper shortly before the failure.

A subpoena has also been issued for Edward F. Buchanan, manager of the firm, and when the receiver's counsel gets through with Miss Hopper he will take up the gift by Mr. Buchanan of an automobile to George N. Hunt, Jr.

TRIED ON AN OLD CHARGE OF FORGERY.

Marriage License Involved.

New York, Oct. 13.—For the alleged forgery, fifteen years ago, of a marriage license, by which he obtained thousands of dollars from Mrs. Caroline Barry, an aged recluse, who died in penury in Brooklyn last summer, Frank C. Marrin was yesterday put on trial. He is alleged to have secured $65,000 from Mrs. Barry.

Marrin, as "Judge Stone," was convicted in Philadelphia, some years ago, for fraud in the famous Story Cotton case.

CHILD WIFE WHO SLEW HUSBAND SAYS; "I WAS SOLD TO HIM FOR $100"

New Brunswick, N. J., Oct. 13.—That she was sold for $100 and forced by her father to marry a man she did not love, is the statement of 17-year-old Julia Madeline, who shot and killed Tony Madeline, to whom she was married four months ago. The girl said she had no regret for her act.

"I was ill and lying on the bed when he came in," said she. "He asked me why supper was not ready and I told him I was not well enough to get it. Then he ordered me to get up and close a window. I said I could not and he struck me. He beat and kicked me and then taking out his knife, said he would kill me. I ran around him and got the revolver, and when he made as if he would stab me, I killed him."

The position of Madeline's body when found by the police indicated that he had been deliberately fired upon from the back while he sat at the supper table. A knife was found on the body.

GERONIMO IS FAILING

Old Apache Chief Claims That He is Christian Now.

Says He Will Stay at Fort Sill Until He Dies.

Lawton, Okla., Oct. 13.—Although old Geronimo is fast failing in years caused by the awful hardships he experienced during the days that he held the West and Southwest in terror prior to 1886, he can still lariat a steer with great accuracy. He is now busily engaged with many of the Apache bucks rooing the calves of the Apache cattle and assisting in the branding of several thousand yearlings. The work is being done while the Apache Indians are making their annual round-up of cattle on the range of the Fort Sill military reservation. All cattle are being collected at the Rick Island tanks near Elgin, where the calves will be branded.

Lieut. George Purlington, who has charge of the Apache prisoners of war and their possessions, is overseeing the round-up. Working under him and assisting in the round-up are 100 Apache men and boys.

A complete invoice of everything belonging to the Indians is to be made and it is estimated that the Apache herd of cattle contains 10,000 head, probably the largest single herd in Oklahoma. One of the interesting things in connection with this herd of cattle is the fact that there are a very few dry cows. This year there is the largest "crop of calves" ever raised on the reservation.

According to the annual custom of handling these cattle the cows are numbered, and in branding all calves are branded with the same number as their mothers. The heifer-calves are retained—no cows being sold until too old for active life on the range—and the greater part of the steers are shipped and sold.

Each Indian owns cows bearing his numbers, and the young cows bearing the same number become his property. It is estimated that there are approximately 500 steer calves this year, which will bring the tribe about $25,000.

The Old Chief Grieves.

Old Geronimo was in Lawton the other day, and expressed himself, through an interpreter, on the Indian and his future. "My people going fast" he said in his broken Spanish. "Nearly all dead now, soon all be dead. Too much whisky kill Indian. Soon no more at all." That branch of the tribe, prisoners of war, upon the Fort Sill military reservation, has diminished until they number less than 250 members. This state of affairs grieves the old broken down Apache ex-chief and advisor more than anything that has ever come up in his life in times of war or peace. It has always been his ambition to have his tribe, like his white brethren, to thrive and increase in number and influence.

Geronimo was the chief attraction at the last pow-pow given by the blanketed Indians at Collinsville. At that time he met the Osages, Shawnees and a few Cherokees and Creeks. Geronimo went over with an armed escort, upon permission from Secretary of War William H. Taft. J. A. Dickerson, secretary of the Collinsville Commercial club, came to Fort Sill and accompanied the old chief, his wife and daughter to Collinsville. When old Geronimo reached the spot of the great Indian pow-pow and found there E. W. Logston, a Lawton photographer, and one of his close personal friends, having made many photos for the old chief, who would not permit anyone to return home with him, rather preferring to come back with Mr. Logston.

There was nothing out of the ordinary in the wress of Geronimo to attract attention to his person when he arrived at the pow-wow, but he was not to be outdone and when he saw the Shawnees and Osages all togged out in their many colored blanket and glaring feather headgears and paint of gaudy tints he retired to his tepee and soon emerged therefrom in all his paint and feathers. He was a grand upstanding figure of a man. Yet he looked diminutive beside the big, fat form of Osage and Shawneee until he looked around, and then the big husky Osages and the tall Shawnees seemed to wither away and leave but the single figure of the old warrior in the foreground.

Contempt for Blanketed Indians.

He took occasion early in the convention of Indians to show his contempt for the blanketed Indians. When he was introduced to the chief of the other tribes he held a limp hand and did not say a word. One of the other chiefs said it was like shaking hands with a monument.

In his speech made at that time he said: The hope of my people is the Christian religion. By that alone will the remnant that remains be saved They need some restraint. Too long have they been enemies of the white men. The white brothers will do all right by the Indian. It is the Indian's fault. I believe in God myself. (Geronimo is a member of the Dutch Reformed church near Fort Sill and is an active worker in the chrurch) and every Indian ought to believe in God and follow his teachings. The sooner the Indian finds that he will keep on dying out unless he does something to save himself, the sooner will the Indian amount to something. Indian amounts to nothing now, Great White Father pays no attention to Indian. Indian goes to Great White Father, gets drunk. Great White Father disgusted turns away. Indian ought to go to Great White Father like white man. White man goes to Great White Father, and Great White Father listens. White man goes sober. Indian should do same."

"I want to go back to my old home before I die," the old chief said plaintively. "I am tired of killing white brother. I am 86 years old. Tired of fight and want rest. Want to go back to the mountains again. I asked the Great White Father to allow me to go back, and he says no. He says he can trust me but cannot trust other Indians and there might be trouble. There are not many Apaches left. White men killed off Apaches. But Apaches good Indian now and will remain good. I want to go spend my last days upon my word before passing on to the happy hunting ground prepared for the Indian."

If an electric shock had passed swiftly through the aged frame, the effect could not have been more rapid when the question was put to him asking what he thought of Miles. He straightened up and his eyes shone like coals. His hands trembled and his lips twisted as in a spasm of passion. He threw his hand high in the air above his head and in a muttered tone in the Spanish tongue he spoke to the interpreter. "The old man does not want to talk of Gen. Miles. He does not want to say anything about those days. He is trying to forget them, and any reference to the past is very painful to him and agitates him very much. So do not mention Miles, or Crook or Lawton, or any of the officers who fought against him.

Will Stay at Fort Sill.

"No more leaving of the Fort Sill reservation," he said. "I am going to stop there until the Great White Father gives Indians right to go back to the old home in Arizona and New Mexico.

Wherever Geronimo goes he always collects about him many curious onlookers and rapidly disposes of whatever curiosity or trinket he is in possession of. It is estimated that he cleared as much as $50 a day at the Collinsville pow-wow, disposing of his photos at 25 cents and placing his autograph, a very crudely spelled out name GERONIMO, using all capital letters, added another 25 cents to the value of his cards.

There is a movement on foot by the war department to transfer the tribe from Fort Sill to Fort Reno, so as to make room for the enlargement of Fort Sill to a brigade post. This is opposed by Geronimo and his successor, Asa Delukie, the newly elected chief. Should the department decide to make this change, Chief Asa announces that he will get a permit from the department to go back to New Mexico. He is only of the younger set of Indians, and having taken no part in the outrages, he is at liberty to leave and go to the West. It is his desire however, to remain with his tribesmen as long as possible.

JOCKEY LOSES SUIT AGAINST BELMONT.

New York, Oct. 13.—It took the jury only an half hour to decide in favor of August Belmont in a suit for $100,000 damages brought against him by John H. Freit, jockey. Freit claimed he was libeled by Mr. Belmont when he posted him in the racing calendar as having left his employer without notice. Freit said he had been discharged because he had failed on one occasion to take off his hat in saluting Mr. Belmont.

THE MARKET IS SOLD OFF

Wheat Has a Decline In All the American Markets.

Flax Has an Easier Tone in Duluth Market.

Duluth Board of Trade, Oct. 13.—Wheat weakened after the first half hour in the American markets today and declined steadily until the close, which was fractionally under yesterday's.

Offerings were more liberal than they have been for a week, in the absence of bullish news to keep prices buoyed up. Bradstreet's reported an increase of 8,402,000 bus in the world's visible supply of wheat and receipts in the Northwest continue large.

Liverpool closed ½d to ¼d higher, Antwerp ⅝c higher, Berlin ¼c lower and Budapest 1⅝c higher.

The December option closed ⅞c lower in Duluth, Minneapolis and New York, ½c lower in Chicago and St. Louis, ⅝@¾c lower in Kansas City, and ⅝c lower in Winnipeg. The May option closed ¾c lower in Duluth, ⅝@½c in Chicago and St. Louis, ⅝@¾c lower in Minneapolis, ⅝c lower in New York, ½c lower in Kansa City, and ⅝c lower in Winnipeg.

December corn closed ⅜c lower in Chicago and ½d to ⅝d lower in Liverpool. December oats closed ⅛c higher in Chicago.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool:

"Wheat—The market was influenced in a way by the lower American cables yesterday and the immediate opening values were unchanged to ⅛d lower, although offerings were light and support good. During the early morning the market developed renewed strength particularly in the nearby months, and prices advanced ¼d to ⅝d. Cargoes off-coast continue insignificant, spots were generally ½d higher and Argentine offerings were lighter with a poor demand for spot. Leading firms were good buyers and sellers were dull. At mid-day, the market was firm and ⅛d to ¼d higher than Monday.

"Corn was easier and unchanged at the opening. Later this pressure developed on a poor demand for spot, liberal La Plata arrivals and the weakness in provisions and values at midday were ¼d to ½d lower than yesterday."

Car receipts at Duluth were 294 against 275 last year, and at Minneapolis 600 against 275 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 894 against 550 last year. Chicago received 87 against 262 last year. Winnipeg received 679 against 441 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 1,749,000 bushels last year 1,378,000 bushels. Shipments 1,083,000 bushels, last year 1,061,000 bushels. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 412,000 bushels.

Primary receipts of corn were 267,000 bushels last year 831,000 bushels. Shipments 265,000 bushels, last year 749,000 bushels. Clearances of corn were 7,000 bushels.

Wheat was active during the session in the Duluth market. December wheat opened ½c higher at $1.02, advanced to $1.02¼, went of to $1.01½, rallied to $1.01¾ and declined by the close to $1.01, a loss of ⅝c from yesterday. May wheat opened ¼c higher at $1.06, declined to $1.05¾, rallied to $1.06⅝ and declined to $1.05, a loss of ⅜c from yesterday.

Durum wheat closed ⅜c lower and cash spring wheat was selling on a basis of 1½c over December for No. 1 northern.

Flax was active during the session and closed lower. October flax opened ⅜c lower at $1.22¼ and ranged between that and $1.23½ during the rest of the session, closing at $1.21½, a loss of ⅞c from yesterday. November flax opened ½c lower at $1.22½, advanced to $1.22⅝ and declined by the close to $1.21⅜, a loss of ⅞c from yesterday. December flax declined from $1.22 to $1.20½ and closed there, a loss of ½c from yesterday. May flax declined from $1.25½ to $1.24½, a loss of ⅜c from yesterday.

Oats closed ¾c lower and other coarse grains unchanged.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Advance in Liverpool Wheat Price Causes Local Bulge.

Chicago, Oct. 13.—An advance in the price of wheat at Liverpool caused a bulge in the price here at the opening, but the early gain was quickly lost on general selling by commission houses which carried prices down nearly 1c from the high point. Weather conditions in the Southwest were still unfavorable for the new crop, no rain having been reported in any section. December opened ¼@⅜c to ⅝c higher at $1.01¼ to $1.01⅜@⅝, sold at $1.01⅝ and then declined to $1.00⅝. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 881 cars against 1,063 cars last week and 1,012 cars a year ago.

Sentiment was bearish the remainder of the day and prices declined still further, December selling off to $1.00¾. The close was weak at almost the bottom, with December off ½c at $1.00¾@1.00⅛.

The corn market was weak owing to selling inspired by lower cables and by continued good weather for the maturing of the new crop. Trade, however, was light. December opened unchanged at 64⅛c, and sold off to 64⅜@⅝c. Local receipts were 255 cars, with 42 of contract grade.

The weakness became more pronounced later in the day, December declining to 63⅛c. The close was weak with December down ⅝c.

Selling by cash houses due to liberal receipts caused an easy tone in the oats market. December opened unchanged, at 49¼@⅝, and sold off to 49@⅜c. Local receipts were 355 cars.

Provisions were weak because of moderate sales by local packers based on a 5c to 10c decline in the price of live hogs. At the opening prices were 5@7½c to 25c lower.

Close: Wheat, December $1.00⅝@½; May $1.03⅜@½; July 98⅞c. Corn, October 73¾c; December, 64c; May 63½@¾c; July 62⅜@⅞c. Oats, December 48⅜@½c; May 50¼c; July 46¼c; pork, October, $17.72½; December, $15.30; January $15.00; May, $14.95; lard, October $9.10; November $9.12½; January, $8.06; rye, cash 75½@76c; December, 77c; May 81c; barley, cash 56 to 61c; timothy, October $3.50; March $3.70@3.75; clover, October, $8.00; cash wheat, No. 2 red $1.01⅜@1.02½; No. 1 red $1.00⅝@1.01⅝; No⅝. 2 hard $1.00⅝@1.02⅝; No. 3 hard 98c@$1.02; No. 1 northern $1.07@1.08; No. 2 northern, $1.06@1.07; No. 3 spring, 98c@1.06. corn, No. 2, 76½@78½c; No. 2 white, 77@½c; No 2 yellow 79½@80c; No. 3, 76½@78¾c; No. 3 white 76½@77c; No. 3 yellow 79½@¾c; oats, No. 3 white, 46½@49c; No. 4 white, 42@46¾c; standard 50@¼c.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Weakness That Followed the Foreign Sag, is Checked.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 13.—Cables were weak and fractionally lower at the opening, but in later advices Liverpool wheat was ½d higher. This checked the weakness here that had followed the foreign sag of yesterday and started December wheat firm, but it soon weakened on big figures and was weakand lower throughout. Minneapolis got 600 cars today against 275, Duluth 294 for one day against 575 for two days. Winnipeg had 679 compared with 441. Minneapolis elevator stocks increased 1,125,000 bus for three days. Bradstreet's increase of 8,400,000 bus in the world's visible supply was depressing. The market kept growing weaker and at the close was down about a cent from top prices of the day. December opened at $1.02¼; high, $1.02¼@1.02¾; low, $1.01@1.01⅛; close, $1.01⅛. Old December closed at $1.01.; May, opened at $1.06½; high, $1.06½; low, $1.05½; close, $1.05½.

Cash market conditions were about the same, demand not quite so keen but buyers willing to take the wheat at unchanged premiums 2c over December for No. 1 northern and December price to 1½c over for No. 2. Close: No. 1, northern, spot or to arrive, $1.07⅞; No. 2 northern, $1.00¾@1.01¾; to arrive, $1.00¾; No. 3 white, 97@1.00.

No. 3 yellow, 75¾c; No. 3 white oats 46¾c.

No. 3 rye 70¾@71¾c.

Barley—Receipts 79 cars against 126 last year; shipments 83. Good malting barley was firm and in demand but feed barle ywas easy and in some cases a little lower. Close: 51½@59c. Flax receipts 52 cars against 47 last year; shipments 23 cars. There was a good crushing demand at 1.22½ under Duluth October. Close, $1.20½.

Millstuffs shipments, 1,316 tons. Steady prices are quoted by millers, $17.50@18 for bran in bulk.

Flour remained quotably unchanged against weakness in wheat and was generally reported in continued satisfactory demand, although some millers said they did not find it quite so good. Shipments, 49,144 barrels. First patents, $5.75@5.90; second patents, $5.60@5.75; first clears, $4.45@4.55; second clears, $3.50@3.60.

New York Grain.

New York, Oct. 13.—Close: Wheat, December, $1.09¾; May, $1.10⅜. Corn, December, 75½c; May, 72⅞c.

FINLEY BARREL IS OPTIMISTIC

Chicago Board of Trade Man Inclined to be Cheerful.

Finley Barrel, of Chicago, head of the firm of Finley Barrel & Co., which has offices in Duluth, Minneapolis and Winnipeg, as well as the Windy City, is in the city today and spent the morning on the floor of the board of trade.

"I feel very optimistic regarding business conditions generally," said Mr. Barrel, to a reporter for The Herald. "At present there is the usual lull before a presidential election, but immediately after election day, I expect a great improvement. I expect to see stocks go up, and I feel sure that wheat will be on a good, sound basis.

"The farmers have certainly had no cause to complain this year. The harvest was early, there was not the usual car shortage and they have been getting good prices for their grain right along. Prices have been remarkably considering the very liberal movement. Some of our man, Le Count's neighbors in Nebraska, got $1.02 for the first wheat, and that is pretty good for Nebraska.

"This is my first visit to Duluth and I must say that you have a splendid city. Your citizens should feel proud of the board of trade and its home. It certainly has an admirable trading room, light, airy and well equipped."

Mr. Barrel's concern has maintained an office in Duluth for the past several months and on the first of October, opened one in Winnipeg. Mr. Barrel feels that to keep in touch with the grain markets now, it is necessary to have the closest possible connection with Minneapolis, Duluth and Winnipeg for the reason that these three markets, with Chicago, bear such a close relationship every day of their sessions.

• • •

G. Smith of Detroit and John Banish of Sheldon, N. D., were visitors on the floor today.

• • •

Bradstreet's reported a total increase in the world's visible supply of wheat of 8,402,000 bus. In the United States and Canada, there was an increase of 6,102,000 bus., and afloat and in Europe, an increase of 2,300,000 bus.

STRENGTH IN STOCKS

Market Opened Lower, But Hardened and Closed Steady.

Last Figures Are About the Best of the Session.

New York, Oct. 13.—Opening prices of stocks today showed a response to the lower level of the London market and fractional declines were general. The exceptions were found amongst some of the principal stocks, Union Pacific and St. Paul rising a fraction and Reading and Southern Pacific opening unchanged. Chicago and Alton declined 1¼ and Baltimore and Ohio ⅝.

Large purchases of Union Pacific gave an upward impetus to prices, but the rise was not great, outside of Union Pacific. That stock reached 166⅛, and found support below that. Missouri Pacific rose 2½ and American Car preferred 3½, but the general list was inclined to yield.

Manipulation of the Gould stocks brought them into unusual prominence and they scored large gains, but the general market was not benefited. The bulge in Missouri Pacific was followed by brisk bidding for the other stocks of similar ownership. New Haven, Kansas City, Fort Scott & Memphis preferred moved up 2; the St. Louis Southwestern stocks, 1¾; Denver & Rio Grande, 1⅝; Texas & Pacific and Western Union, 1½; Wabash preferred, 1¼, and the Kansas & Texas stocks, Louisville & Nashville, Toledo, St. Louis & Western, Chicago & Alton preferred and Mackay companies, 1. The usual leaders gradually eased off until at noon some of them were quoted considering the very liberal movement. Some of our man, Le Count's neighbors in Nebraska, got $1.02 for the first wheat, and that is pretty good for Nebraska.

"This is my first visit to Duluth and I must say that you have a splendid city. Your citizens should feel proud of the board of trade and its home. It certainly has an admirable trading room, light, airy and well equipped."

Mr. Barrel's concern has maintained an office in Duluth for the past several months and on the first of October, opened one in Winnipeg. Mr. Barrel feels that to keep in touch with the grain markets now, it is necessary to have the closest possible connection with Minneapolis, Duluth and Winnipeg for the reason that these three markets, with Chicago, bear such a close relationship every day of their sessions.

G. Smith of Detroit and John Banish of Sheldon, N. D., were visitors on the floor today.

• • •

Bradstreet's reported a total increase in the world's visible supply of wheat of 8,402,000 bus. In the United States and Canada, there was an increase of 6,102,000 bus., and afloat and in Europe, an increase of 2,300,000 bus.

STUDENT THOUGHT VICTIM OF SLAYER.

Chicago, Oct. 13.—The body of a young man, apparently murdered and thrown into the drainage canal, was found floating at Lemontville by the police. A bank book and a memorandum book, bearing the name of Cornelius Brussard, Treston, Can., were found in the pockets. The man was apparently 23.

A fracture of the skull had apparently caused death and the body had been in the water a week.

Several French classics were found in an inside pocket, and this is taken as an indication that the young man was a student.

Copper Stock Brokers.

414 WEST SUPERIOR STREET. 102-103 MANHATTAN BLDG.

My own wires to the Copper country. Also connections to Eastern Markets.

OCT. 13, 1908.

Never in the history of our local market was the copper share business any better. In my office alone we handled thousands of shares before the close.

Ballaklava was stronger than ever and bids at $8.25 failed to locate any stock.

Red Warrior was very active and closed strong at $4.55 bid. Carman closed at $3.50 bid and almost impossible to find. This one should sell much higher.

Globe Consolidated is getting ore that runs higher in values and is now getting down to be a pretty safe proposition. The management is very good and should carry the property through successfully. They have certainly stood by the ship through many a hard storm and deserve a whole lot of credit.

Butte & Superior is very active and the people will soon learn how great the possibilities of this mine really are. You are taking a chance, but if you win you get big returns. The lawsuit only brings out the good points, it seems.

Butte-Montana, located near the Minnie Healy and adjoining the West Colusa, is the coming money-maker for the Duluth curb. Here is a copy of a telegram from a Butte broker received today. Dated Butte, Mont., Oct. 12, 1908:

Martin Rosendahl, Duluth.

Butte-Montana fifty-one bid, sixty asked. Several brokers short. Price will soon be seventy-five bid, one dollar asked.

(Signed) W. H. NICHOLS.

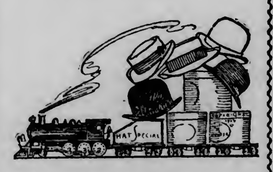

Out of all the sales made lately on Butte-Montana we were only able to get 300 shares today. I know the market on Butte-Montana and know why this mine is coming to the front fast. In a few days we will advise you through the public press that certain things have taken place regarding this mine, and you will then understand why we advise the purchase of these shares. The mine is in the heart of Butte Hill, surrounded by the Amalgamated's biggest producers. The shaft is down 1,200 feet and the water from this mine will be worth thousands and thousands of dollars and when the 1,200 is opened up it should be one of the best paying mines in Butte. Butte-Montana, from its present price, is one of the best buys on the board.

We will give you the right information on all properties. Give us your business.

ORDER TO EXAMINE FINAL ACCOUNT—
State of Minnesota, County of St. Louis. —ss.
In Probate Court.
In the Matter of the Estate of Jennie H. Williams, Decedent.
The Petition of Walter D. Williams as representative of the above named decedent, together with his final account of the administration of said estate, having been filed in this Court, representing, among other things, that he has fully administered said estate, and praying that said final account of said administration be examined, adjusted and allowed by the Court, and that the Court make and enter its final decree of distribution of the residue of the estate of said decedent to the persons entitled thereto, and for the discharge of the representative and the sureties on his bond,
It Is Ordered, That said petition be heard, and said final account examined, adjusted and allowed by the Court, at the Probate Court Rooms in the Court House, in the City of Duluth, in said County, on Monday, the 2nd day of November, 1908, at ten o'clock A. ### ARTICLES OF INCORPORATION.

We, the undersigned, Charles Eden, David Taylor, William A. McClaran and Louis Jackson, do hereby associate ourselves together to form a corporation under Chapter 58, Revised Statutes of Minnesota, and the acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto, and for that purpose do adopt the following articles of incorporation:
1. The name of this corporation is the Nameuken Iron Company; and the general nature of the business proposed to be transacted is to purchase, lease, option, locate or otherwise acquire, own, exchange, sell or otherwise dispose of, pledge, mortgage, hypothecate and deal in mines, mining claims, mineral lands, coal lands, timber lands, water and water rights and other property, both real and personal, and to work, operate, explore, mine and develop, and to deal in the products and by-products thereof; to purchase, lease or otherwise acquire, erect, own and operate sawmills, power plants, railroads and tramways to lead from the company's principal works; to do a general manufacturing, mining and mercantile business; to own, handle, control laws, patents and inventions; to own, cancel, reissue shares of its own capital stock, and to own shares of other corporations; to issue bonds, notes and other evidences of indebtedness and to secure payment of the same by mortgage, deed of trust, or otherwise, and in general to do and perform such acts, things, and transact such business not inconsistent with law, as the board of directors may deem to the advantage of this corporation.
2. The period of the duration of this incorporation shall be 30 years.
3. The names and places of residence of incorporators of this company are: Charles Eden, Duluth, Minn.; David Taylor, Duluth, Minn.; William A. McClaran, Duluth, Minn., and Louis Jackson, Virginia, Minn., and the principal place of business of this corporation shall be Duluth, Minn.
4. The board of management of this corporation shall be vested in three directors, and until the first annual meeting, said directors shall be David Taylor, William A. McClaran and Louis Jackson; the annual meeting of this corporation shall be at Duluth, Minn., on the first Monday of each year, and the officers of this corporation until the first annual meeting shall be as follows:
Charles Eden, President and General Manager, Duluth, Minn.
David Taylor, Vice President, Duluth, Minn.
William A. McClaran, Secretary, Duluth, Minn.
Louis Jackson, Treasurer, Virginia, Minn.
5. The capital stock of this corporation shall be $200,000.00 and shall be divided into 100,000 shares of the par value of $2.00 each; 60,000 shares of said stock shall be reserved to be hereafter apportioned and 40,000 shares of said stock shall be set aside for the exploration and development of the property of this corporation; the indebtedness or liability of this corporation shall not exceed the sum of $10,000.00.
In witness whereof we have hereunto set our hands and seals this 1st day of October, 1908.

WEST END CLERGYMEN IN SESSION

Members of Duluth Presbytery Open Semi-Annual Meeting.

Thirty Ministers From Northern Part of State in Duluth.

Thirty clergymen are attending the semi-annual meeting of the Duluth presbytery, which began in the Second Presbyterian church, 1515 West Superior street, last evening.
This morning was taken up with a business session, at which the affairs of the different churches in the organization and the work as a whole, were discussed.
The ladies of the Second church served dinner in the church parlors this noon and this afternoon, another business meeting is being held.
At the opening session, last evening, Rev. J. A. McGaughey, now connected with the Y. M. C. A., but formerly Presbyterian pastor at Two Harbors, delivered the sermon. Mr. McCaughey was the retiring moderator. Rev. H. E. Neff, of Virginia, was elected moderator, and Rev. A. T. Wilcox, of Virginia, temporary clerk.
Rev. C. W. Lowrie, of Cloquet, and Rev. P. W. Jacobson, of Ely, will be the speakers at the session this evening.

EMERSON IS JOYFUL.

That School Victorious at Football Over Bryant.

There is a great unbounding joy in the camp of the Emerson school football team. It is manifest at the institution throughout the hours of study and finds noisier expression the minute school is out for the day.
The reason for this exuberance is the recent victory achieved over the Bryant school team by the Emerson footballists. According to statements and affidavits furnished by the Emerson supporters, the Emersons made the Bryants feel the sting of defeat Saturday, to the tune of 1 to 0.
The contest was pulled off at Thirty-second avenue west and Superior street, before admiring rooters from both schools. In their account of the game, the Emersons declare that the teams were about evenly matched as to weight and furnished a good article of football. They intimate that the big sensational feature was the line-plunging of the Emerson backs.

REPUBLICAN MEETING.

The West End Republican club will hold a meeting this evening in Sloan's hall. It is on the square this time. Last week the officers of the club got mixed in their dates and announced a meeting for last Tuesday, but they are positive they are right this time and that the session will go off without a hitch.
A number of candidates for office will be on hand to deliver addresses and the committee appointed to make arrangements for a big rally will make its report.

Back From Rosebud.

Rev. J. L. McBride has returned from the Rosebud Indian agency, in South Dakota, which is just being opened for settlement by the government. He says the land is good, but the average man's chance of getting the best locations is poor.

West End Shortrails.

Mrs. A. C. Farrar of Nineteenth avenue west has returned from Stillwater and Taylor's Falls, where she has been visiting friends.
Harry Turner has returned from Minneapolis, where he was called Friday by the serious illness of his sister. She is out of danger now.
Dr. A. Olson has returned from North Dakota, where he has been enjoying some shooting with his brother, who owns a ranch in the Flickertail state.
Dr. Braden has returned from St. Paul, where he attended a medical conference.
The Epworth League Sewing circle of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church held its regular session last evening.
Ernest Harding and Guy Williams have returned from French River, where they have been hunting.
Charles Mork, Fred Larson, T. A. Lund and Carl Nelson have returned from a fishing trip to the Cloquet river. They got plenty of of fish but declare that game is scarce in that locality.
The Ladies' Missionary society of the Second Presbyterian church will meet tomorrow afternoon with Mrs. L. A. Cox of 1712 West First street.
The Christian Endeavor society of the Second Presbyterian church met last evening with Miss Nellie Gorby of West Third street.
Rev. J. Wilford Loughridge has gone to St. Paul to attend the state Baptist convention.
Fred Sutherland, Jack Olson and Edward Johnson have returned from Adolph, Minn., where they went on a hunting trip.
The funeral of Miss Hulda Nelson will be held Thursday afternoon at the residence of her brother, Edward Nelson, 2103 West First street, at 1:30 p. m. At 2 o'clock services will be held at Bethany Swedish Lutheran church and Rev. Carl G. Olson, the pastor, will officiate. Interment will take place at the Lutheran cemetery.
Francis Meyers, th e10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Meyers of 2804 West Helm street, fell from the porch of the family residence yesterday. He sustained a fractured arm and a fractured leg.
